CHAP. XXVI.

2 Jeremiah moveth the people to repentance. 7 He is taken of the falſe prophets and prieſts, and brought to judgment. 23 Urijah the prophet is killed of Jehoiakim, contrary to the will of God.

IN the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, came this word from the Lord, ſaying,

2 Thus ſaith the Lord, Stand in the [o] court of the Lord's houſe, and ſpeak unto all the cities of Judah, which come to worſhip in the Lord's houſe, all the words that I command thee to ſpeak unto them: keep not [p] a word back:

3 If ſo be they will hearken, and turn every man from his evil way, that I may [q] repent me of the plague which I have determined to bring upon them, becauſe of the wickedneſs of their works.

4 And thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord, If ye will not hear me, to walk in my laws which I have ſet before you,

5 And to hear the words of my ſervants the prophets, whom I ſent unto you, both riſing up early, and ſending them, and will not obey them,

Bef. Chr. 609.

6 Then will I make this houſe like [r] Shiloh, and will make this city [s] a curſe to all the nations of the earth.

7 So the prieſts, and the prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah ſpeaking theſe words in the houſe of the Lord.

8 Now when Jeremiah had made an end of ſpeaking all that the Lord had commanded him to ſpeak unto all the people, then the prieſts and the prophets, and all the people took him, and ſaid, Thou ſhalt die the death.

9 Why haſt thou propheſied in the Name of the Lord, ſaying, This [t] houſe ſhall be like Shiloh, and this city ſhall be deſolate without an inhabitant? and all the people were gathered againſt Jeremiah in the houſe of the Lord.

10 And when the princes of Judah heard of theſe things, they came up from the king's houſe into the houſe of the Lord, and ſat down in the entry of the [u] new gate of the Lord's houſe.

11 Then ſpake the prieſts and the prophets unto the princes, and to all the people, ſaying, † This man is worthy to die: for he hath propheſied againſt this city, as ye have heard with your ears.

† Heb. judgment of death belongeth to this man.

12 Then ſpake Jeremiah unto all the princes, and to all the people, ſaying, The Lord hath [w] ſent me to propheſy againſt this houſe, and againſt this city all the things that ye have heard.

13 Therefore now amend your ways, and your works, and hear the voice of the Lord your God, that the Lord may repent him of the plague that he hath pronounced againſt you.

14 As for me, behold, I am in your hands: do with me as you think good and right.

15 But know ye for certain, that if ye put me to death, ye ſhall ſurely bring innocent blood upon yourſelves, and upon this city, and upon the inhabitants thereof: for of a truth the Lord hath ſent me unto you, to ſpeak all theſe words in your ears.

16 Then ſaid the princes and all the people unto the prieſts, and to the prophets, This man is not worthy to die: for he hath ſpoken unto us in the name of the Lord our God.

17 ¶ Then roſe up certain of the elders of the land, and ſpake to all the aſſembly of the people, ſaying,

18 Micah the Moraſhite * propheſied in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and ſpake to all the people of Judah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Zion ſhall be ploughed like a field, and Jeruſalem ſhall be an heap, and the mountain of the [x] houſe ſhall be as the high places of the foreſt.

* Mich. 1. 1. and 3. 12.

19 Did Hezekiah king of Judah, and all Judah put him to death? did he not fear the Lord, and prayed before the Lord, and the Lord repented him of the [y] plague that he had pronounced againſt them? Thus might we procure great evil againſt our ſouls.

20 And there was alſo a man that propheſied in the name of the Lord, one Urijah the ſon of Shemaiah, of Kirjath-jearim, who propheſied againſt this city, and againſt this land, according to all the words of Jeremiah.

21 Now when Jehoiakim the king, with all his men of power, and all the princes heard his words, the king ſought to ſlay him. But when Urijah heard it, he was afraid, and fled, and went into Egypt.

22 Then Jehoiakim the king [z] ſent ten men into Egypt, even Elnathan the ſon of Achbor, and certain with him into Egypt:

23 And they fetched Urijah out of Egypt, and brought him unto Jehoiakim the king, who ſlew him with the ſword, and [a] caſt his dead body into the graves of the children of the people.

24 But the hand of Ahikam [b] the ſon of Shaphan was with Jeremiah, that they ſhould not give him into the hand of the people, to put him to death.

CHAP. XXVII.

Jeremiah, at the commandment of the Lord, ſendeth bonds to the king of Judah, and to the other kings that were near, whereby they are admoniſhed to be ſubject unto Nebuchadnezzar. 9 He warneth the people, and the kings, and rulers, that they believe not falſe prophets.

IN the beginning of the reign of [c] Jehoiakim, the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, came this word unto Jeremiah, from the Lord, ſaying,

2 Thus ſaith the Lord to me, Make thee [d] bonds and yokes, and put them upon thy neck,

3 And ſend them to the king of Edom, and to the king of Moab, and to the king of the Ammonites, and to the king of Tyrus, and to the king of Zidon, by the hand of the meſſengers which came to Jeruſalem unto Zedekiah the king of Judah,

4 And command them to ſay unto their maſters, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Thus ſhall ye ſay unto your maſters,

[s] So that when they would curſe any, they ſhall ſay, God do to thee as to Jeruſalem.

[t] Becauſe of God's promiſe to the temple, Pſalm 132. 14. that he would for ever remain there, the hypocrites thought this temple could never periſh, and therefore thought it blaſphemy to ſpeak againſt it, Matt. 26. 61. Acts 6. 13. not conſidering that this was meant of the church, where God will remain for ever.

[u] So called, becauſe it was repaired by Jotham, 2 Kings 15. 35.

[w] He both ſheweth the cauſe of his doings plainly, and alſo threateneth them that they ſhould nothing avail, tho' they ſhould put him to death, but heap greater vengeance upon their heads.

[x] That is, of the houſe of the Lord, to wit, Zion; and theſe examples the godly alledged to deliver Jeremiah out of the prieſts hands, whoſe rage elſe would not have been ſatisfied, but by his death.

[y] So that the city was not deſtroyed, but by miracle was delivered out of the hands of Sennacherib.

[z] Here is declared the fury of tyrants, who cannot abide to hear God's word declared, but perſecute the miniſters thereof; and yet in the end they prevail nothing, but provoke God's judgments ſo much the more.

[a] As in the firſt, Hezekiah's example is to be followed; ſo in this other, Jehoiakim's act is to be abhorred; for God's plague did light on him and his houſhold.

[b] Which declareth that nothing could have appeaſed their fury, if God had not moved this noble man to ſtand valiantly in his defence.

[c] As touching the diſpoſition of the prophecies, they that gathered them into a book did not altogether obſerve the order of times, but did ſet ſome afore which ſhould be after, and contrariwiſe; which if the reader mark well, it ſhall avoid many doubts, and make the reading much more eaſy.

[d] By ſuch ſigns the prophets uſed ſometimes to confirm their prophecies, which notwithſtanding they could not do of themſelves, but inaſmuch as they had a revelation for the ſame, Iſa. 20. 2. and therefore the falſe prophets, to get more credit, did uſe alſo ſuch viſible ſigns, but they had no revelation, 1 Kings 22. 11.

5 I have made the earth, the man, and the beaſts that are upon the ground, by my great power, and by my out-ſtretched arm, and have given it unto whom it pleaſed me.

6 But now I have given all theſe lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babel, my [e] ſervant, and the beaſts of the field have I alſo given him to ſerve him.

7 And all nations ſhall ſerve him, and his [f] ſon, and his ſons ſon, until the very time of his land come alſo: then many nations and great kings ſhall [g] ſerve themſelves of him.

8 And the nation and kingdom which will not ſerve the ſame Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and that will not put their neck under the yoke of the king of Babel, the ſame nation will I viſit, ſaith the Lord, with the ſword, and with the famine, and with the peſtilence, until I have wholly given them into his hands.

9 Therefore hear not your prophets, nor your ſoothſayers, nor your dreamers, nor your enchanters, nor your ſorcerers, which ſay unto you thus, Ye ſhall not ſerve the king of Babel.

10 For they propheſy a lye unto you, to cauſe you to go far from your land, and that I ſhould caſt you out, and you ſhould periſh.

11 But the nation that put their necks under the yoke of the king of Babel, and ſerve him, thoſe will I let remain ſtill in their own land, ſaith the Lord, and they ſhall occupy it, and dwell therein.

12 ¶ I ſpake alſo to Zedekiah king of Judah according to all theſe words, ſaying, Put your necks under the yoke of the king of Babel, and ſerve him and his people, that ye may live.

13 Why will ye die, thou and thy people by the ſword, by the famine, and by the peſtilence, as the Lord hath ſpoken againſt the nation that will not ſerve the king of Babel?

14 Therefore hear not the words of the prophets, that ſpeak unto you, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſerve the king of Babel: for they propheſy a lye unto you.

15 For I have not * ſent them, ſaith the Lord, yet they propheſy a lye in my name, that I might caſt you out, and that ye might periſh, both you and the prophets that propheſy unto you. * Ch. 14. 14. and 3. 21. and 29. 9.

16 ¶ Alſo I ſpake to the prieſts and to all this people, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, Hear not the words of your prophets that propheſy unto you, ſaying, Behold, * the veſſels of the houſe of the Lord ſhall now ſhortly be [h] brought again from Babel: for they propheſy a lye unto you. * Ch. 28. 3.

17 Hear them not, but ſerve the king of Babel, that ye may live: wherefore ſhould this city be deſolate?

18 But if they be prophets, and if the word of the Lord be with them, let them [i] intreat the Lord of hoſts, that the veſſels, which are left in the houſe of the Lord, and in the houſe of the king of Judah, and at Jeruſalem, go not to Babel.

19 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts concerning the * pillars, and concerning the ſea, and concerning the baſes, and concerning the reſidue of the veſſels that remain in this city, * 2 Kings 25. 13.

20 Which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel took not, when he carried * away captive Jeconiah the ſon of Jehoiakim king of Judah from Jeruſalem to Babel, with all the nobles of Judah and Jeruſalem: * 2 Kings 24. 12, 15.

21 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, concerning the veſſels that remain in the houſe of the Lord, and in the houſe of the king of Judah, and at Jeruſalem,

22 They ſhall be brought to Babel, and there they ſhall be until the day that I viſit [k] them, ſaith the Lord: then will I bring them up, and reſtore them unto this place.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 The falſe prophecy of Hananiah. 10 Jeremiah reproveth Hananiah, and propheſieth.

AND that ſame year, in the beginning of the [l] reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the [m] fourth year, and in the fifth month, Hananiah the ſon of Azur the prophet, which was of [n] Gibeon, ſpake to me in the houſe of the Lord, in the preſence of the prieſts, and of all the people, and ſaid,

2 Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, ſaying, I have broken the yoke of the king of Babel.

3 † Within two years ſpace I will bring into this place all the veſſels of the Lord's houſe, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel took away from this place, and carried them into Babel. † Heb. two years of days.

4 And I will bring again to this place Jeconiah the ſon of Jehoiakim king of Judah, with all them that were carried away captive of Judah, and went into Babel, ſaith the Lord: for I will break the yoke of the king of Babel.

5 Then the prophet Jeremiah ſaid unto the [o] prophet Hananiah in the preſence of the prieſts, and in the preſence of all the people that ſtood in the houſe of the Lord,

6 Even the prophet Jeremiah ſaid, So be it: the [p] Lord ſo do, the Lord confirm thy words, which thou haſt propheſied, to reſtore the veſſels of the Lord's houſe, and all that is carried captive from Babel, into this place.

7 But hear thou now this word that I will ſpeak in thine ears, and in the ears of all the people:

8 The prophets that have been before me and before thee in times paſt, [q] propheſied againſt many countries, and againſt great kingdoms, of war, and of plagues, and of peſtilence.

11 And Hananiah ſpake in the preſence of all the people, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, Even ſo will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, from the neck of all nations, within the ſpace of two years: and the prophet Jeremiah went his way.

12 ¶ Then the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah the prophet, (after that Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke from the neck of the prophet Jeremiah) ſaying, 13 Go, and tell Hananiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord, Thou haſt broken the yokes of wood, but thou ſhalt make for them yokes of iron.

14 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, I have put a [s] yoke of iron upon the neck of all theſe nations, that they may ſerve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel: for they ſhall ſerve him, and I have given him the [t] beaſts of the field alſo.

15 Then ſaid the prophet Jeremiah unto the prophet Hananiah, Hear now, Hananiah, the Lord hath not ſent thee, but thou makeſt this people to truſt in a lye.

16 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will caſt thee from off the earth: this year thou ſhalt die, becauſe thou haſt ſpoken rebelliouſly againſt the Lord.

17 So Hananiah the prophet [u] died the ſame year, in the ſeventh month.

4 Thus hath the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, ſpoken unto all that are carried away captives, whom I have [z] cauſed to be carried away captives from Jeruſalem unto Babel:

5 Build you houſes to dwell in, and plant you gardens, and eat the fruits of them.

6 Take you wives, and beget ſons and daughters, and take wives for your ſons, and give your daughters to huſbands, that they may bear ſons and daughters, that ye may be increaſed there, and not diminiſhed.

7 And ſeek the proſperity of the city, whither I have cauſed you to be carried away captipes: and [a] pray unto the Lord for it: for in the peace thereof ſhall ye have peace.

8 ¶ For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Let not your prophets, and your ſoothſayers that be among you, deceive you, neither give ear to your dreams which you dream.

9 For they propheſy you a lye in my name, I have not ſent them, ſaith the Lord.

10 But thus ſaith the Lord, that after ſeventy years be accompliſhed at Babel, I will viſit you, and perform my good promiſe toward you, and cauſe you to return to this place.

11 For I know the thoughts that I have thought towards you, ſaith the Lord, even the thoughts of peace, and not of trouble, to give you an end, and your hope.

12 Then ſhall you cry unto me, and ye ſhall go and pray unto me, and I will hear you.

13 And ye ſhall ſeek me, and find me, becauſe ye ſhall ſeek me with all [b] your heart.

14 And I will be found of you, ſaith the Lord, and I will turn away your captivity, and I will gather you from all the nations, and from all the places, whither I have caſt you, ſaith the Lord, and will bring you again unto the place whence I cauſed you to be carried away captive.

15 ¶ Becauſe ye have ſaid, The Lord hath raiſed us up [c] prophets in Babel:

16 Therefore, thus ſaith the Lord of the king that ſitteth upon the throne of David, and of all the people that dwell in this city, your brethren that are not gone forth with you into captivity:

17 Even thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Behold, I will ſend upon them the [d] ſword, the famine, and the peſtilence, and will make them like vile [e] figs, that cannot be eaten, they are ſo naughty.

18 And I will perſecute them with the ſword, with the famine, and with the peſtilence: and I will make them a terror to all kingdoms of the earth,

[r] This declareth the impudence of the wicked hirelings, which have no zeal to the truth, but are led with ambition to get the favour of men, and therefore cannot abide any that might diſcredit them, but burſt forth into rages, and contrary to their own conſcience, paſs not what lyes they report, or how wickedly they do, ſo that they may maintain their eſtimation.

[s] That is, a hard and cruel ſervitude.

[t] Signifying, that all ſhould be his, as Dan. 2. 38.

[w] For ſome died in the way.

[x] Meaning, Jeconiah's mother.

[y] To intreat of ſome equal conditions.

[z] To wit, the Lord, whoſe work this was.

[a] The prophet ſpeaketh not this for the affection that he bare to the tyrant, but that they ſhould pray for the common reſt and quietneſs, that their troubles might not be increaſed, and that they might with more patience and leſs grief wait for the time of their deliverance, which God had appointed moſt certain: for elſe not only the Iſraelites, but all the world, yea, and the inſenſible creatures, ſhould rejoice when theſe tyrants ſhould be deſtroyed, as Iſa. 14. 4.

[b] When your oppreſſion ſhall be great, and your afflictions cauſe you to repent your diſobedience, and alſo when the ſeventy years of your captivity ſhall be expired, 2 Chr. 36. 22. Ezra 1. 1. chap. 25. 12. Dan. 9. 2.

1 The return of the people from Babylon. 6 He menaceth the enemies, 18 and comforteth the church.

THE word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, ſaying,

2 Thus ſpeaketh the Lord God of Iſrael, ſaying, Write thee all the words that I have ſpoken unto thee in a [m] book.

3 For lo, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that I will bring again the captivity of my people Iſrael and Judah, ſaith the Lord: for I will reſtore them unto the land that I gave to their fathers, and they ſhall poſſeſs it.

4 Again, theſe are the words that the Lord ſpake concerning Iſrael, and concerning Judah.

5 For thus ſaith the Lord, We have heard a [n] terrible voice, of fear and not of peace.

6 Demand now, and behold, if man travail with child: wherefore do I behold every man with his hands on his loins as a woman in travail, and all faces turned into a paleneſs?

7 Alas, for this [o] day is great: none hath been like it: it is even the time of Jacob's trouble, yet ſhall he be delivered from it.

8 For in that [p] day, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I will break [q] his yoke from off thy neck, and break thy bonds, and ſtrangers ſhall no more ſerve themſelves [r] of him.

9 But they ſhall ſerve the Lord their God, and [s] David their king, whom I will raiſe up unto them.

1 He rehearſeth God's benefits after their return from Babylon, 23 and the ſpiritual joy of the faithful in the church.

AT the [e] ſame time, ſaith the Lord, will I be the God of all the families of Iſrael, and they ſhall be my people.

6 For the days ſhall come that the [n] watchmen upon the mount of Ephraim ſhall cry, Ariſe, and let us go up unto [o] Zion, to the Lord our God.

7 For thus ſaith the Lord, Rejoice with gladneſs for Jacob, and ſhout for joy among the chief of the [p] Gentiles: publiſh praiſe, and ſay, O Lord, ſave thy people, the remnant of Iſrael.

8 Behold, I will bring them from the north country, and gather them from the coaſts of the world, with the blind and the lame among them, with the woman with child and her that is delivered alſo, a great company ſhall return hither.

18 I have heard [z] Ephraim lamenting thus, Thou haſt correcteded me, and I was chaſtiſed as an [a] untamed calf: [b] convert thou me, and I ſhall be converted: for thou art the Lord my God.

19 Surely after that I converted, I repented: and after that I was inſtructed, I ſmote upon my [c] thigh: I was aſhamed, yea, even confounded, becauſe I did bear the reproach of my youth.

20 Is Ephraim [d] my dear ſon, or pleaſant child? yet ſince I ſpake unto him, I ſtill [e] remembered him: therefore my bowels are troubled for him: I will ſurely have compaſſion upon him, ſaith the Lord.

21 Set thee up [f] ſigns: make thee heaps: ſet thine heart toward the path and way that thou haſt walked: turn again, O virgin of Iſrael: turn again to theſe thy cities.

22 How long wilt thou go aſtray, O thou rebellious daughter? for the Lord hath created [g] a new thing in the earth: A woman ſhall compaſs a man.

23 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Yet ſhall they ſay this thing in the land of Judah, and in the cities thereof, when I ſhall bring again their captivity, The Lord bleſs thee, O habitation of juſtice, and holy mountain.

24 And Judah ſhall dwell in it, and all the cities thereof together, the huſbandmen and they that go forth with the flock,

25 For I have ſatiated the weary ſoul, and I have repleniſhed every ſorrowful ſoul.

26 Therefore I awaked and beheld; and my [h] ſleep was ſweet unto me.

27 Behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that I will ſow the houſe of Iſrael and the houſe of Judah [i] with the ſeed of man, and with the ſeed of the beaſt.

28 And like as I have watched upon them, to pluck up, and to root out, and to throw down, and to deſtroy, and to plague them, ſo will I watch over them, to build and to plant them, ſaith the Lord.

29 In thoſe days ſhall they ſay no more, The fathers have [k] eaten a ſour grape, and the childrens teeth are ſet on edge.

30 But every one ſhall die for his own iniquity: every man that eateth the ſour grape, his teeth ſhall be ſet on edge.

31 ¶ Behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that I will make a [l] new covenant with the houſe of Iſrael, and with the houſe of Judah:

32 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers, when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, the which my covenant they [m] brake, although I was an ‡ huſband unto them, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. XXXII.

Jeremiah is caſt into priſon, becauſe he propheſied that the city ſhould be taken of the king of Babylon. 7 He ſheweth that the people ſhould come again to their own poſſeſſion. 38 The people of God are his ſervants, and he is their Lord.

THE word that came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, in the [s] tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar.

2 For then the king of Babel's hoſt beſieged Jeruſalem: and Jeremiah the prophet was ſhut up in the court of the priſon which was in the king of Judah's houſe.

3 For Zedekiah king of Judah had ſhut him up, ſaying, Wherefore doſt thou propheſy, and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord, * Behold, I will give this city into the hands of the king of Babel, and he ſhall take it:

* Ch. 29. 16, 17. and 34. 2.

4 And Zedekiah the king of Judah ſhall not eſcape out of the hand of the Chaldeans, but ſhall ſurely be delivered into the hands of the king of Babel, and ſhall ſpeak with him mouth to mouth, and his eyes ſhall behold his face:

5 And he ſhall lead Zedekiah to Babel, and there ſhall he be, until [t] I viſit him, ſaith the Lord: though ye fight with the Chaldeans, ye ſhall not proſper?

6 ¶ And Jeremiah ſaid, The word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

7 Behold, Hanameel, the ſon of Shallum thine uncle, ſhall come unto thee, and ſay, [u] Buy unto thee my field, that is in Anathoth: for ‡ the title by kindred appertaineth unto thee [w] to buy it.

‡ Or, right to redeem it.

8 So Hanameel, mine uncle's ſon, came to me in the court of the priſon, according to the word of the Lord, and ſaid unto me, Buy my [x] field, I pray thee, that is in Anathoth, which is in the country of Benjamin: for the right of the poſſeſſion is thine, and the purchaſe belongeth unto thee: buy it for thee. Then I knew that this was the word of the Lord.

Bef. Chr. 590.

9 And I bought the field of Hanameel, mine uncle's ſon, that was in Anathoth, and weighed him the ſilver, even [y] ſeven ſhekels, and ten pieces of ſilver.

10 And I wrote it in the book and ſigned it, and took witneſſes, and weighed him the ſilver in the balances.

11 So I took the book of the poſſeſſion, being ſealed [z] according to the law, and cuſtom, with the book that was open,

12 And I gave the book of the poſſeſſion unto Baruch the ſon of Neriah, the ſon of Maaſeiah, in the ſight of Hanameel mine uncle's ſon, and in the preſence of the witneſſes, written in the book of the poſſeſſion, before all the Jews that ſat in the court of the priſon.

13 And I charged Baruch before them, ſaying,

14 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Take the writings, even this book of the poſſeſſion, both that is ſealed, and this book that is open, and put them in an earthen [a] veſſel, that they may continue a long time.

15 For the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, ſaith thus, Houſes, and fields, and vineyards ſhall be poſſeſſed again in this land.

16 ¶ Now when I had delivered the book of the poſſeſſion unto Baruch, the ſon of Neriah, I prayed unto the Lord, ſaying, 17 Ah Lord God, behold, thou haſt made the heaven and the earth by thy great power, and by thy ſtretched out arm, and there is nothing ‡ hard unto thee.

‡ Or, hid.

25 And thou haſt ſaid unto me, O Lord God, Buy unto thee the field for ſilver, and take witneſſes: for the city ſhall be given into the hand of the Chaldeans.

26 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, ſaying,

27 Behold, I am the Lord God of all [e] fleſh: is there any thing too hard for me?

28 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will give this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, and he ſhall take it.

29 And the Chaldeans ſhall come and fight againſt this city, and ſet fire on this city, and burn it, with the houſes, upon whoſe roofs they have offered incenſe unto Baal, and poured drink-offerings unto other gods, to provoke me unto anger.

30 For the children of Iſrael, and the children of Judah, have ſurely done evil before me from their [f] youth: for the children of Iſrael have ſurely provoked me to anger with the works of their hands, ſaith the Lord.

31 Therefore this city hath been unto me as a provocation of mine anger, and of my wrath, from the day that they built it, even unto this day, that I ſhould remove it out of my ſight,

32 Becauſe of all the evil of the children of Iſrael, and of the children of Judah, which they have done to provoke me to anger, even they, their kings, their princes, their prieſts, and their prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem.

33 And they have turned unto me the back, and not the face: though I taught them, [g] riſing up early, and inſtructing them, yet they were not obedient to receive doctrine,

34 But they ſet their abominations in the houſe (whereupon my name was called) to defile it,

35 And they built the high [h] places of Baal, which are in the valley of [i] Ben-hinnom, to cauſe their ſons and their daughters to [k] paſs through the fire unto Moloch, which I commanded them not, neither came it into my mind, that they ſhould do ſuch abomination to cauſe Judah to ſin. 41 Yea, I will delight in them to do them good, and I will plant them in this land aſſuredly, with my whole heart, and with all my ſoul.

42 For thus ſaith the Lord, Like as I have brought all this great plague upon this people, ſo will I bring upon them all the good that I have promiſed them.

43 And the fields ſhall be poſſeſſed in this land, whereof ye ſay, It is deſolate without man or beaſt, and ſhall be given into the hand of the Chaldeans.

5 They come to [s] fight with the Chaldeans, but it is to fill themſelves with the dead bodies of men, whom I have ſlain in mine anger and in my wrath: for I have hid my [t] face from this city, becauſe of all their wickedneſs.

6 ¶ Behold, [u] I will give it health and amendment: for I will cure them, and will reveal unto them the abundance of peace and truth.

7 And I will cauſe the captivity of Judah, and the captivity of Iſrael, to return, and will build them as at the firſt.

8 And I will [w] cleanſe them from all their iniquity, whereby they have ſinned againſt me: yea, I will pardon all their iniquities, whereby they have ſinned againſt me, and whereby they have rebelled againſt me.

9 And it ſhall be to me a name, a [x] joy, a praiſe, and an honour before all the nations of the earth, which ſhall hear all the good that I do unto them: and they ſhall fear and tremble for all the goodneſs, and for all the wealth that I ſhew unto this city.

10 Thus ſaith the Lord, Again there ſhall be heard in this place (which ye ſay ſhall be deſolate, without man, and without beaſt, even in the cities of Judah, and in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, that are deſolate without man, and without an inhabitant, and without beaſt)

14 Behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that I will perform that good thing which I have promiſed unto the houſe of Iſrael, and unto the houſe of Judah.

15 In thoſe days, and at that time, will I cauſe [a] the branch of righteouſneſs to grow up unto David, and he ſhall execute judgment and righteouſneſs in the land.

Bef. Chr. 590.

16 In thoſe days ſhall Judah be ſaved, and Jeruſalem ſhall dwell ſafely, and he that ſhall call [b] her, is the Lord our [c] Righteouſneſs.

17 For thus ſaith the Lord, David ſhall never want a man to ſit upon the throne of the houſe of Iſrael.

18 Neither ſhall the prieſts and Levites want a man before me to offer [d] burnt-offerings and to offer meat-offerings, and to do ſacrifice continually.

19 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah, ſaying,

20 Thus ſaith the Lord, If you can break my covenant of the [e] day, and my covenant of the night, that there ſhould not be day and night in their ſeaſon,

21 Then may my covenant be broken with David my ſervant, that he ſhould not have a ſon to reign upon his throne, and with the Levites and prieſts my miniſters.

3 And thou ſhalt not eſcape out of his hand, but ſhalt ſurely be taken, and delivered into his hand, and thine eyes ſhall behold the face of the king of Babel, and he ſhall ſpeak with thee mouth to mouth, and thou ſhalt go to Babel.

4 Yet hear the word of the Lord, O Zedekiah, king of Judah: thus ſaith the Lord of thee, Thou ſhalt not die by the ſword,

5 But thou ſhalt die in [h] peace: and according to the burning of thy fathers the former kings which were before thee, ſo ſhall they burn odours for thee, and they ſhall lament thee, ſaying, Oh [i] lord: for I have pronounced the word, ſaith the Lord.

6 Then Jeremiah the prophet ſpake all theſe words unto Zedekiah king of Judah in Jeruſalem,

7 (When the king of Babel's hoſt fought againſt Jeruſalem, and againſt all the cities of Judah, that were left even againſt Lachiſh, and againſt Azekah: for theſe ſtrong cities remained of the cities of Judah)

8 This is the word that came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, after that the king Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people which were at Jeruſalem, [k] to proclaim liberty unto them,

9 That every man ſhould let his [l] ſervant go free, and every man his handmaid, which was an Hebrew or an Hebreweſs, and that none ſhould ſerve himſelf of them, to wit, of a Jew his brother.

10 Now when all the princes, and all the people which had agreed to the covenant, heard that every one ſhould let his ſervant go free, and every one his handmaid, and that none ſhould ſerve themſelves of them any more, they obeyed and let them go.

11 But afterward they † repented, and cauſed the ſervants and the handmaids, whom they had let go free, to return, and held them in ſubjection as ſervants and handmaids.

12 Therefore the word of the Lord came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, ſaying,

13 Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, I made a covenant with your fathers, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the houſe of ‡ ſervants, ſaying,

‡ Or, bondage.

14 * At the term of ſeven years let ye go every man his brother an Hebrew which hath been ſold unto thee: and when he hath ſerved thee ſix years, thou ſhalt let him go free from thee: but your fathers obeyed me not, neither inclined their ears.

* Deut. 15. 1, 12.

15 And ye were now turned, and had done right in my ſight in proclaiming liberty every man to his neighbour, and ye had made a covenant before me in [m] the houſe, whereupon my name is called.

16 But ye repented, and polluted my name: for ye have cauſed every man his ſervant, and every man his handmaid, whom ye had ſet at liberty at their pleaſure, to return, and hold them in ſubjection to be unto you as ſervants and as handmaids.

17 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, Ye have not obeyed me, in proclaiming freedom every man to his brother, and every man to his neighbour: behold, I proclaim a liberty for you, ſaith the Lord, to [n] the ſword, to the peſtilence, and to the famine, and I will make you a terror to all the kingdoms of the earth.

18 And I will give thoſe men that have broken my covenant, and have not kept the words of the covenant which they had made before me, when they [o] cut the calf in twain, and paſſed between the parts thereof,

19 The princes of Judah, and the princes of Jeruſalem, the eunuchs, and the prieſts, and all the people of the land which paſſed between the parts of the calf,

20 I will even give them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hands of them that ſeek their life: and their dead bodies ſhall be for meat unto the fowls of the heaven, and to the beaſts of the earth.

21 And Zedekiah king of Judah, and his princes, will I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of them that ſeek their life, and into the hand of the king of Babel's hoſt, which [p] are gone up from you.

22 Behold, I will command, ſaith the Lord, and cauſe them to return to this city, and they ſhall fight againſt it, and take it, and burn it with fire: and I will make the cities of Judah deſolate without an inhabitant.

1 He propheſieth the obedience of the Rechabites, and thereby confoundeth the pride of the Jews.

THE word which came unto Jeremiah from the Lord, in the [q] days of Jehoiakim the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, ſaying,

2 Go unto the houſe of the [r] Rechabites, and ſpeak unto them, and bring them into the houſe of the Lord, into one of the chambers, and give them wine to drink.

3 Then took I Jaazaniah, the ſon of Jeremiah the ſon of Habazziniah, and his brethren, and all his ſons, and the whole houſe of the Rechabites,

4 And I brought them into the houſe of the Lord, into the chamber of the ſons of Hanan, the ſon of Igdaliah a [s] man of God, which was by the chamber of the princes, which was above the chamber of Maaſeiah the ſon of Shallum, the keeper of the ‡ treaſure.

7 Neither ſhall you build houſe, nor ſow ſeed, nor plant vineyard, nor have any, but all your days you ſhall dwell in tents, that ye may live a long time in the land where ye be ſtrangers.

8 Thus have we obeyed the voice of Jonadab the ſon of Rechab our father, in all that he hath charged us, and we drink no wine all our days, neither we, our wives, our ſons, nor our daughters:

9 Neither build we houſes for us to dwell in, neither have we vineyard, nor field, nor ſeed,

10 But we have remained in tents, and have obeyed, and done according to [x] all that Jonadab our father commanded us.

11 But when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel came up into the land, we ſaid, Come, and let us go to Jeruſalem, from the hoſt of the Chaldeans, and from the hoſt of Aram: ſo we [y] dwell at Jeruſalem.

12 Then came the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah, ſaying,

13 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Go, and tell the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, Will [z] ye not receive doctrine to obey my words, ſaith the Lord?

14 The commandment of Jonadab ſon of Rechab, that he commanded his ſons, that they ſhould drink no wine, is ſurely kept: for unto this day they drink none, but obey their fathers commandment: notwithſtanding I have ſpoken unto you, [a] riſing early, and ſpeaking, but ye would not obey me.

15 I have ſent alſo unto you all my ſervants the prophets, riſing up early, and ſending them, ſaying, * Return now every man from his evil way, and amend your works, and go not after other gods to ſerve them, and ye ſhall dwell in the land which I have given unto you, and to your fathers, but you would not incline your ear, nor obey me.

* Ch. 18. 11. and 25. 5.

16 Surely the ſons of Jonadab the ſon of Rechab have kept the commandment of their father, which he gave them, but this people hath not obeyed me.

17 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will bring upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, all the evil that I have pronounced againſt them: becauſe I have [b] ſpoken unto them, but they would not hear, and I have called unto them: but they would not anſwer.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Baruch writeth, as Jeremiah inditeth, The book of the curſes againſt Judah and Iſrael. 9 He is ſent with the book unto the people, and readeth it before them all. 14 He is called before the rulers, and readeth it before them alſo. 32 The king caſteth it into the fire. 28 There is another written at the commandment of the Lord.

AND in the fourth [d] year of Jehoiakim the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, came this word unto Jeremiah from the Lord, ſaying,

2 Take thee a roll or book, and write therein all the words that I have ſpoken to thee againſt Iſrael, and againſt Judah, and againſt all the nations, from the day that I ſpake unto thee, [e] even from the days of Joſiah unto this day.

3 It may be that the houſe of Judah will hear of all the evil which I determined to do unto them, that they may return every man from his evil way, that I may forgive their iniquity and their ſins.

4 Then Jeremiah called Baruch the ſon of Neriah, and Baruch wrote [f] at the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord which he had ſpoken unto him, upon a roll or book.

5 And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, ſaying, I am [g] ſhut up, and cannot go into the houſe of the Lord.

6 Therefore go thou, and read the roll, wherein thou haſt written at my mouth the words of the Lord, in the audience of the people in the Lord's houſe upon the [h] faſting day: alſo thou ſhalt read them in the hearing of all Judah, that come out of their cities.

7 It may be that they will [i] pray before the Lord, and every one return from his evil way, for great is the anger and the wrath that the Lord hath declared againſt this people.

8 So Baruch the ſon of Neriah did according unto all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of the Lord in the Lord's houſe.

9 ¶ And in the fifth [k] year of Jehoiakim the ſon of Joſiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, they proclaimed a faſt before the Lord to all the people in Jeruſalem, and to all the people that came from the cities of Judah unto Jeruſalem.

[k] The faſt was then proclaimed, and Baruch read this roll, which was a little before that Jeruſalem was firſt taken, and then Jehoiakim and Daniel, and his companions, were led away captives.

Bef. Chr. 606.

10 Then read Baruch in the book the words of Jeremiah in the houſe of the Lord, in the chamber of Gemariah the ſon of Shaphan the ſecretary, in the higher court, at the entry of the [l] new gate of the Lord's houſe, in the hearing of all the people.

11 When Michaiah the ſon of Gemariah, the ſon of Shaphan, had heard out of the book all the words of the Lord,

12 Then he went down to the king's houſe in the chancellor's chamber, and lo, all the princes ſat there, even Eliſhama the chancellor, and Delaiah the ſon of Shemaiah, and Elnathan the ſon of Achbor, and Gemariah the ſon of Shaphan, and Zedekiah the ſon of Hananiah, and all the princes.

13 Then Michaiah declared unto them all the words that he had heard when Baruch read in the book in the audience of the people.

14 Therefore all the princes ſent Jehudi the ſon of Nethaniah, the ſon of Shelemiah, the ſon of Cuſhi, unto Baruch, ſaying, Take in thine hand the roll, wherein thou haſt read in the audience of the people, and come. So Baruch the ſon of Neriah took the roll in his hand, and came unto them.

15 And they ſaid unto him, Sit down now, and read it, that we may hear. So Baruch read it in their audience.

16 Now when they had heard all the words, they were [m] afraid both one and other, and ſaid unto Baruch, We will certify the king of all theſe words.

17 And they examined Baruch, ſaying, Tell us now, how didſt thou write all theſe words at his mouth?

18 Then Baruch anſwered them, He pronounced all theſe words unto me with his mouth, and I wrote them with ink in the book.

19 Then ſaid the princes unto Baruch, Go, [n] hide thee, thou and Jeremiah, and let no man know where ye be.

20 ¶ And they went in to the king, to the court, but they laid up the roll in the chamber of Eliſhama the chancellor, and told the king all the words, that he might hear.

21 So the king ſent Jehudi to fetch the roll, and he took it out of Eliſhama the chancellor's chamber, and Jehudi read it in the audience of the king, and in the audience of all the princes which ſtood beſide the king.

22 Now the king ſat in the winter houſe, in the [o] ninth month, and there was a fire burning before him.

23 And when Jehudi had read three or four ſides, he cut it with the penknife, and caſt it into the fire that was on the hearth, until all the roll was conſumed in the fire that was on the hearth.

Bef. Chr. 606.

24 Yet they were not afraid, nor rent [p] their garments, neither the king nor any of his ſervants, that heard all theſe words.

25 Nevertheleſs Elnathan, and Delaiah, and Gemariah, had beſought the king, that he would not burn the roll: but he would not hear them.

26 But the king commanded Jerahmeel the ſon of Hammelech, and Seraiah the ſon of Azriel, and Shelemiah the ſon of Abdiel, to take Baruch the ſcribe, and Jeremiah the prophet: but the Lord [q] hid them.

27 ¶ Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah (after that the king had burnt the roll, and the words which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremiah) ſaying,

28 Take thee again [r] another roll, and write in it all the former words that were in the firſt roll which Jehoiakim the king of Judah hath burnt.

29 And thou ſhalt ſay to Jehoiakim king of Judah, Thus ſaith the Lord, Thou haſt burnt this roll, ſaying, [s] Why haſt thou written therein, ſaying, That the king of Babel ſhall certainly come and deſtroy this land, and ſhall take thence both man and beaſt?

30 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord of Jehoiakim king of Judah, He ſhall [t] have none to ſit upon the throne of David, and his [u] dead body ſhall be caſt out in the day to the heat, and in the night to the froſt.

31 And I will viſit him and his ſeed, and his ſervants for their iniquity, and I will bring upon them and upon the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and upon the men of Judah, all the evil that I have pronounced againſt them: but they would not hear.

32 Then took Jeremiah another roll, and gave it Baruch the ſcribe the ſon of Neriah, which wrote therein at the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoiakim king of Judah had burnt in the fire, and there were added beſides them many like words.

11 ¶ When the hoſt of the Chaldeans was broken up from Jeruſalem, becauſe of Pharaoh's army, 12 Then Jeremiah went out of Jeruſalem to go into the [b] land of Benjamin, ſeparating himſelf thence from among the people.

13 And when he was in the [c] gate of Benjamin, there was a chief officer whoſe name was Irijah, the ſon of Shelemiah, the ſon of Hananiah, and he took Jeremiah the prophet, ſaying, Thou † fleeſt to the Chaldeans. † Heb. falleſt.

14 Then ſaid Jeremiah, That is falſe, I flee not to the Chaldeans: but he would not hear him: ſo Irijah took Jeremiah, and brought him to the princes.

15 Wherefore the princes were angry with Jeremiah, and ſmote him, and laid him in priſon in the houſe of Jonathan the ſcribe: for they had made that the [d] priſon.

16 When Jeremiah was entered into the dungeon, and into the priſons, and had remained there a long time,

17 Then Zedekiah the king ſent and took him out, and the king aſked him ſecretly in his houſe, and ſaid, Is there any word from the Lord? And Jeremiah ſaid, Yea: for, ſaid he, thou ſhalt be delivered into the hand of the king of Babel.

18 Moreover, Jeremiah ſaid unto king Zedekiah, What have I offended againſt thee, or againſt thy ſervants, or againſt this people, that ye have put me in priſon?

* Ch. 28. 4. 19 * Where are now your prophets which propheſied unto you, ſaying, The king of Babel ſhall not come againſt you, nor againſt this land?

21 Then Zedekiah the king commanded, that they ſhould put Jeremiah in the court of the priſon, and that they ſhould give him daily a piece of bread out of the baker's ſtreet, until all the [e] bread in the city were eaten up. Thus Jeremiah remained in the court of the priſon.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 By the motion of the rulers Jeremiah is put into a dungeon. 10 At the requeſt of Ebed-melech the king commandeth Jeremiah to be brought forth of the dungeon. 17 Jeremiah ſheweth the king how he might eſcape death.

THEN Shephatiah the ſon of Mattan, and Gedaliah the ſon of Paſhur, and Jucal the ſon of Shelemiah, and Paſhur the ſon of [f] Malchiah, heard the words that Jeremiah had ſpoken unto all the people, ſaying,

2 Thus ſaith the Lord, He that remaineth in this city ſhall die by the ſword, by the famine, and by the peſtilence: but he that goeth forth to the Chaldeans, ſhall live: for he ſhall have his life for a [g] prey, and ſhall live.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord, This city ſhall ſurely be given into the hand of the king of Babel's army, which ſhall take it.

4 Therefore the princes ſaid unto the king, We beſeech you, let this man be put to death: for thus he ‡ weakeneth the hands of the men of war [h] that remain in this city, and the hands of all the people, in ſpeaking ſuch words unto them: for this man ſeeketh not the wealth of this people, but the hurt. ‡ Or, diſcourageth.

5 Then Zedekiah the king ſaid, Behold, he is in your hands, for the king can deny [i] you nothing.

6 Then took they Jeremiah, and caſt him into the dungeon of Malchiah the ſon of Hammelech, that was in the court of the priſon: and they let down Jeremiah with cords, and in the dungeon there was no water, but mire: ſo Jeremiah ſtuck faſt in the mire.

7 Now when Ebed-melech the † black-moor, one of the eunuchs which was in the king's houſe, heard that they had put Jeremiah in the dungeon, (then the king ſat in the [k] gate of Benjamin) † Heb. Cuſhite, or Ethiopian.

8 And Ebed-melech went out of the king's houſe, and ſpake to the king, ſaying,

9 My lord the king, [l] theſe men have done evil in all that they have done to Jeremiah the prophet, whom they have caſt into the dungeon, and he dieth for hunger in the place where he is: for there is no more bread in the city.

10 Then the king commanded Ebed-melech the moor, ſaying, Take from hence thirty men with 11 So Ebed-melech took the men with him, and went to the houſe of the king under the treaſury, and took there old rotten rags, and old worn clouts, and let them down by cords into the dungeon to Jeremiah.

12 And Ebed-melech the black-moor ſaid unto Jeremiah, Put now theſe old rotten rags and worn under thine arm-holes, between the cords. And Jeremiah did ſo.

13 So they drew up Jeremiah with cords, and took him up out of the dungeon, and Jeremiah remained in [m] the court of the priſon.

14 ¶ Then Zedekiah the king ſent and took Jeremiah the prophet unto him, into the third entry that is in the houſe of the Lord, and the king ſaid unto Jeremiah, I will aſk thee a thing: hide nothing from me.

15 Then Jeremiah ſaid to Zedekiah, If I declare it unto thee, wilt not thou ſlay me? and if I give thee counſel, thou wilt not hear me.

16 So the king ſware ſecretly unto Jeremiah, ſaying, As the Lord liveth, that made us theſe ſouls, I will not ſlay thee, nor give thee into the hands of thoſe men that ſeek thy life.

17 Then ſaid Jeremiah unto Zedekiah, Thus ſaith the Lord God of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, If thou wilt go forth unto the king of Babel's [n] princes, then thy ſoul ſhall live, and this city ſhall not be burnt up with fire, and thou ſhalt live, and thine houſe.

18 But if thou wilt not go forth to the king of Babel's princes, then ſhall this city be given into the hand of the Chaldeans, and they ſhall burn it with fire, and thou ſhalt not eſcape out of their hands.

19 And Zedekiah the king ſaid unto Jeremiah, I am careful for the Jews that are fled unto the Chaldeans, leſt they deliver me into their hands, and [o] they mock me.

20 But Jeremiah ſaid, They ſhall not deliver thee: hearken unto the voice of the Lord, I beſeech thee, which I ſpeak unto thee: ſo ſhall it be well unto thee, and thy ſoul ſhall live.

21 But if thou wilt refuſe to go forth, this is the word that the Lord hath ſhewed me.

22 And behold, all the women that are [p] left in the king of Judah's houſe, ſhall be brought forth to the king of Babel's princes: and thoſe women ſhall ſay, Thy friends have perſuaded thee, and have prevailed againſt thee: thy feet are faſtened in the mire, and they are turned back.

23 So they ſhall bring out all thy wives, and thy children to the Chaldeans, and thou ſhalt not eſcape out of their hands, but ſhalt be taken by the hand of the king of Babel: and this city ſhalt thou cauſe to be burnt with fire.

24 Then ſaid Zedekiah unto Jeremiah, Let no man know of theſe words, and thou ſhalt not die.

25 But if the princes underſtand that I have talked with thee, and they come unto thee, and ſay unto thee, Declare unto us now, what thou haſt ſaid unto the king, hide it not from us, and we will not ſlay thee: alſo what the king ſaid unto thee:

26 Then ſhalt thou ſay unto them, I humbly [q] beſought the king, that he would not cauſe me to return to Jonathan's houſe, to die there.

27 Then came all the princes unto Jeremiah, and aſked him. And he told them according to all theſe words that the king had commanded: ſo they left off ſpeaking with him, for the matter was not perceived.

28 So Jeremiah abode ſtill in the court of the priſon, until the day that Jeruſalem was taken: and he was there, when Jeruſalem was taken.

BUT in the [i] ſeventh month came Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, the ſon of Eliſhama, of the ſeed royal, and the princes of the [k] king, and ten men with him, unto Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam, to Mizpah, and there they did [l] eat bread together in Mizpah.

2 Then aroſe Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, with theſe ten men that were with him, and ſmote Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam, the ſon of Shaphan, with the ſword, and ſlew him whom the king of Babel had made governor over the land.

3 Iſhmael alſo ſlew all the Jews that were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and all the Chaldeans that were found there, and the men of war.

4 Now the ſecond day that he had ſlain Gedaliah, and no man knew it,

6 And Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah went forth from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he went, and when he met them, he ſaid unto them, Come to [n] Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam.

7 And when they came into the midſt of the city, Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah ſlew them, and caſt them into the midſt of the pit, he and the men that were with him.

8 But ten men were found among them, that ſaid unto Iſhmael, Slay us not: for we have treaſures in the field, of wheat, and of barley, and of oil, and of honey: ſo he ſtaid, and ſlew them not among their brethren.

9 Now the pit wherein Iſhmael had caſt the dead bodies of the men (whom he had ſlain becauſe of Gedaliah) is it, which Aſa the king had [o] made becauſe of Baaſha king of Iſrael, and Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah filled it with them that were ſlain.

11 But when Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the [p] captains of the hoſt that were with him, heard of all the evil that Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah had done,

12 Then they all took their men, and went to fight with Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, and found him by the great waters that are in Gibeon.

13 Now when all the people whom Iſhmael had carried away captive, ſaw Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the captains of the hoſt that were with him, they were glad.

14 So all the people that Iſhmael had carried away captive from Mizpah, returned and came again, and went unto Johanan the ſon of Kareah.

15 But Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah eſcaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to the [q] Ammonites.

16 Then took Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the captains of the hoſt that were with him, all the remnant of the people, whom Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah had carried away captive from Mizpah (after that he had ſlain Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam) even the ſtrong men of war, and the women, and the children, and the eunuchs, whom he had brought again from Gibeon.

CHAP. XLIII.

Johanan carrieth the remnant of the people into Egypt, contrary to the mind of Jeremiah. 8 Jeremiah propheſieth the deſtruction of Egypt.

NOW when Jeremiah had made an end of ſpeaking unto the whole people all the words of the Lord their God, for the which the Lord their God had ſent him to them, even all theſe words,

2 Then ſpake [c] Azariah the ſon of Hoſhaiah, and Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the [d] proud men, ſaying unto Jeremiah, [e] Thou ſpeakeſt falſely: the Lord our God hath [f] not ſent thee to ſay, Go not into Egypt to dwell there:

3 But Baruch the ſon of Neriah [g] provoketh thee againſt us, for to deliver us into the hand of the Chaldeans, that they might ſlay us, and carry us away captives into Babel.

4 So Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the captains of the hoſt, and all the people, obeyed not the voice of the Lord, to dwell in the land of Judah.

5 But Johanan the ſon of Kareah, and all the captains of the hoſt, took all the remnant of Judah that were returned from all [h] nations, whither they had been driven, to dwell in the land of Judah:

CHAP. XLIV.

He reproveth the people for their idolatry. 15 They that ſet light by the threatening of the Lord, are chaſtened. 26 The deſtruction of Egypt, and of the Jews therein, is propheſied.

THE word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the Jews which dwell in the land of Egypt, and remained at Migdol and at [p] Tahpanhes, and at Noph, and in the country of Pathros, ſaying,

2 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Ye have ſeen all the evil that I have brought upon Jeruſalem, and upon all the cities of Judah: and behold, this day they are deſolate, and no man dwelleth therein,

3 Becauſe of their wickedneſs which they have committed, to provoke me to anger, in that they went to burn incenſe, and to ſerve other gods whom they knew not, neither they, nor you, nor your fathers.

4 Howbeit I ſent unto you all my ſervants the prophets, [q] riſing early and ſending them, ſaying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate!

5 But they would not hear, nor incline their ear to turn from their wickedneſs, and to burn no more incenſe unto other gods.

6 Wherefore [r] my wrath and mine anger was poured forth, and was kindled in the cities of Judah, and in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, and they are deſolate and waſted, as appeareth this day.

7 Therefore now thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Wherefore commit ye this great evil againſt your ſouls, to cut off from you man and woman, child and ſuckling out of Judah, and leave you none to remain:

Bef. Chr. 587.

8 In that ye provoke me unto wrath with the works of your hands, burning incenſe unto other gods in the land of Egypt, whither ye be gone to dwell: that ye might bring deſtruction unto yourſelves, and that ye might be a curſe and a reproach among all nations of the earth?

9 Have ye forgotten the wickedneſs of your fathers, and the wickedneſs of the [s] kings of Judah, and the wickedneſs of their wives, and your own wickedneſs, and the wickedneſs of your wives, which they have committed in the land of Judah, and in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem?

‡ Or, beaten down.

10 They are not ‡ humbled unto this day, neither have they feared nor walked in my law, nor in my ſtatutes, that I ſet before you and before your fathers.

* Amos 9. 4.

11 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will ſet my face againſt you * to evil, and to deſtroy all Judah.

12 And I will take the remnant of Judah, that [t] have ſet their faces to go into the land of Egypt there to dwell, and they ſhall all be conſumed and fall in the land of Egypt: they ſhall even be conſumed by the ſword, and by the famine, they ſhall die from the leaſt unto the moſt, by the ſword, and by the famine, and they ſhall be a deteſtation, and an aſtoniſhment, and a [u] curſe, and a reproach.

13 For I will viſit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have viſited Jeruſalem, by the ſword, by the famine, and by the peſtilence.

14 So that none of the remnant of Judah, which are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, ſhall eſcape or remain, that they ſhould return into the land of Judah, to the which they † have a deſire to return to dwell there: for none ſhall return, but [w] ſuch as ſhall eſcape.

15 Then all the men which knew that their wives had burnt incenſe unto other gods, and all the women that ſtood by, a great multitude, even all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt in Pathros, anſwered Jeremiah, ſaying,

16 The word that thou haſt ſpoken unto us, in the name of the Lord, we will [x] not hear it of thee:

17 But we will do whatſoever thing goeth out of our own mouth, as to burn incenſe [y] unto the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings unto her, as we have done, both we and our fathers, our kings, and our princes, in the cities of Judah, and in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem: for

20 Then ſaid Jeremiah unto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had given him that anſwer, ſaying,

21 Did not the Lord remember the incenſe that ye burnt in the cities of Judah, and in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, both you, and your fathers, your kings, and your princes, and the people of the land, and † hath he not conſidered it?

23 Becauſe ye have burnt incenſe, and becauſe ye have ſinned againſt the Lord, and have not obeyed the voice of the Lord, nor walked in his law, nor in his ſtatutes, nor in his teſtimonies, therefore this plague is come upon you, as appeareth this day.

24 Moreover, Jeremiah ſaid unto all the people, and to all the women, Hear the word of the Lord, all Judah that are in the land of Egypt.

25 ¶ Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, ſaying, Ye and your wives have both ſpoken with your mouths, and fulfilled with your [b] hand, ſaying, We will perform the vows that we have vowed to burn incenſe to the queen of heaven, and to pour out drink-offerings to her: ye will perform your vows, and do the things that ye have vowed.

26 Therefore hear the word of the Lord, all Judah that dwell in the land of Egypt. Behold, I have ſworn by my great name, ſaith the Lord, that my name [c] ſhall no more be called upon by the mouth of any man of Judah, in all the land of Egypt, ſaying, The Lord God liveth.

27 Behold, I will watch over them for evil and not for good, and all the men of Judah that are in the land of Egypt, ſhall be conſumed by the ſword, and by the famine, until they be utterly deſtroyed.

28 Yet a ſmall number that eſcape the ſword, [d] ſhall return out of the land of Egypt into the land of Judah: and all the remnant of Judah that are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there, ſhall know whoſe words ſhall ſtand, mine or theirs.

29 And this ſhall be a ſign unto you, ſaith the Lord, when I viſit you in this place, that ye may know that my words ſhall ſurely ſtand againſt you for evil.

30 Thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will [e] give Pharaoh Hophra king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that ſeek his life: as I gave Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babel his enemy, who alſo ſought his life.

[z] This is ſtill the argument of idolaters, which eſteem religion by the belly; and inſtead of acknowledging God's works, who ſendeth both plenty and dearth, health and ſickneſs, they attribute it to their idols, and ſo diſhonour God.

[a] This teacheth us, how great danger it is for the huſbands to permit their wives any thing whereof they be not aſſured by God's word: for thereby they take an occaſion to juſtify their doings, and their huſbands ſhall give an account thereof before God, read Iſa. 1. 25.

[b] You have committed double evil in making wicked vows, and in performing the ſame.

[c] This declareth an horrible plague toward idolaters, ſeeing that God will not vouchſafe to have his name mentioned by ſuch as have polluted it.

[d] We ſee therefore, that God hath a perpetual care over his, whereſoever they are ſcatterred: for though they be but two or three, yet he will deliver them when he deſtroyeth his enemies.

[e] He ſheweth the means whereby they ſhould be deſtroyed, to aſſure them of the certainty of the plague, and yet they remain ſtill in their obſtinacy till they periſh: for Joſephus, lib. 10. de Antiq. cap. 11. writeth, that five years after the taking of Jeruſalem, Nebuchadnezzar the younger having overcome the Moabites and the Ammonites, went againſt Egypt, and ſlew the king, and ſo brought theſe Jews and others into Babylon.

21 Alſo her hired men [d] are in the midſt of her like fat calves: they are alſo turned back and fled away together: they could not ſtand, becauſe the day of their deſtruction was come upon them, and the time of their viſitation.

23 They ſhall cut down [g] her foreſt, ſaith the Lord: for they cannot be counted, becauſe they are more than the [h] graſhoppers, and are innumerable.

24 The daughter of Egypt ſhall be confounded: ſhe ſhall be delivered into the hands of the people of the North.

28 Fear thou not, O Jacob my ſervant, ſaith the Lord: for I am with thee, and I will utterly deſtroy all the nations whither I have driven thee: but I will not utterly deſtroy thee, but correct [m] thee by judgment, and not utterly cut thee off.

He propheſieth of the deſtruction of Babylon, and the deliverance of Iſrael, which was in captivity.

THE word that the Lord ſpake concerning Babel, and concerning the land of the Chaldeans, by the † miniſtry of Jeremiah the prophet.

† Heb. hand.

2 Declare among the nations, and publiſh it, and ſet up a ſtandard, proclaim it, and conceal it not: ſay, [h] Babel is taken, Bel is confounded, [i] Merodach is broken down: her idols are confounded, and their images are burſt in pieces.

3 For out of the North there [k] cometh up a nation againſt her, which ſhall make her land waſte, and none ſhall dwell therein: they ſhall flee, and depart, both man and beaſt.

4 In thoſe days, and at that time, ſaith the Lord, the children of Iſrael ſhall [l] come, they, and the children of Judah together, going, and [m] weeping ſhall they go, and ſeek the Lord their God.

5 They ſhall aſk the way to Zion, with their faces thitherward, ſaying, Come, and let us cleave to the Lord in a perpetual covenant that ſhall not be forgotten.

6 ¶ My people hath been as loſt ſheep: their [n] ſhepherds have cauſed them to go aſtray, and have turned them away to the mountains: they have gone from [o] mountain to hill, and forgotten their reſting-place.

7 All that found them, have devoured them, and their enemies ſaid, We offend not, becauſe they have ſinned againſt the Lord, [p] the habitation of juſtice, even the Lord, the hope of their fathers.

17 Iſrael is like ſcattered ſheep: the lions have diſperſed them: firſt the king of [z] Aſſhur hath devoured him: and laſt, this Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel hath broken [a] his bones.

18 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will viſit the king of Babel and his land, as I have viſited the king of Aſſhur:

19 And I will bring Iſrael again to his habitation: he ſhall feed on Carmel and Baſhan, and his ſoul ſhall be ſatisfied upon the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In thoſe days, and at that time, ſaith the Lord, the iniquity of Iſrael ſhall be ſought for, and there ſhall be none · and the ſins of Judah, and they ſhall not be found: for I will be merciful unto them whom I reſerve.

7 Babel hath been as a golden cup in the [p] Lord's hand, that made all the earth drunken: the nations have drunken of her wine, therefore do the nations [q] rage.

9 We would have cured Babel, but ſhe could not be healed: forſake her, and let [r] us go every one into his own country: for her judgment is come up unto heaven, and is lifted up to the clouds.

10 The Lord hath brought forth our [s] righteouſneſs: come, and let us declare in Zion the work of the Lord our God.

‡ Or, fill, or multiply.

11 Make bright the arrows: ‡ gather the ſhields: the Lord hath raiſed up the ſpirit of the king of the Medes: for his purpoſe is againſt Babel to deſtroy it, becauſe it is the [t] vengeance of the Lord, and the vengeance of his temple.

12 Set up the ſtandard upon the walls of Babel, make the watch ſtrong: ſet up the watchmen: prepare the ſcouts: for the Lord hath both deviſed and done that which he ſpake againſt the inhabitants of Babel.

Bef. Chr. 595.

20 Thou art mine [z] hammer, and weapons of war: for with thee will I break the nations, and with thee will I deſtroy kingdoms:

21 And by thee will I break horſe and horſeman, and by thee will I break the chariot, and him that rideth therein.

22 By thee alſo will I break man and woman, and by thee will I break old and young, and by thee will I break the young man and the maid.

23 I will alſo break by thee the ſhepherd and his flock, and by thee will I break the huſbandman and his yoke of oxen, and by thee will I break the dukes and princes.

24 And I will render unto Babel, and to all the inhabitants of the Chaldeans, all their evil that they have done in Zion, even in your ſight, ſaith the Lord.

25 Behold, I come unto thee, O deſtroying [a] mountain, ſaith the Lord, which deſtroyeſt all the earth: and I will ſtretch out mine hand upon thee, and roll thee down from the [b] rocks, and will make thee a burnt mountain.

26 They ſhall not take of thee a ſtone for a corner, nor a ſtone for foundations, but thou ſhalt be deſtroyed for ever, ſaith the Lord.

27 Set up a ſtandard in the land: blow the trumpets among the nations: prepare the nations againſt her: call up the kingdoms of [c] Ararat, Minni, and Aſhkenaz againſt her: appoint the prince againſt her: cauſe horſes to come up as the rough caterpillars.

28 Prepare againſt her the nations with the kings of the Medes, the dukes thereof, and the princes thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land ſhall tremble and ſorrow: for the device of the Lord ſhall be performed againſt Babel, to make the land of Babel waſte without an inhabitant.

30 The ſtrong men of Babel have ceaſed to fight: they have remained in their holds: their ſtrength hath failed, and they were like women: they have burnt her dwelling-places, and her bars are broken.

31 A poſt ſhall run to meet the poſt, and a meſſenger to meet the meſſenger, to ſhew the king of Babel, that a city is taken on a [d] ſide thereof,

32 And that the paſſages are ſtopped, and the reeds burnt with fire, and the men of war troubled.

33 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, The daughter of Babel is like a threſhing-floor: the time of her threſhing is come: yet a little while, and the time of her harveſt [e] ſhall come.

35 The ſpoil of me, and that which was left of me, is brought unto Babel, ſhall the inhabitant of Zion ſay: and my blood unto the inhabitants of Chaldea, ſhall Jeruſalem ſay.

36 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, I will maintain thy [g] cauſe, and take vengeance for thee: and I will dry up the ſea, and dry up her ſprings.

37 And Babel ſhall be as heaps, a dwelling-place for dragons, an aſtoniſhment, and an hiſſing, without an inhabitant.

40 I will bring them down like lambs to the ſlaughter, and like rams and goats.

41 How is [i] Sheſhach taken! and how is the glory of the whole earth taken! how is Babel become an aſtoniſhment among the nations!

42 The [k] ſea is come up upon Babel: ſhe is covered with the multitude of the waves thereof.

43 Her cities are deſolate: the land is dry and a wilderneſs, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doth the ſon of man paſs thereby.

44 I will alſo viſit Bel in Babel, and I will bring out of his mouth that which [l] he hath ſwallowed up, and the nations ſhall run no more unto him, and the wall of Babel ſhall fall.

46 Leſt your heart even faint, and ye fear the rumour that ſhall be heard in the land: the rumour ſhall come this year, and after that in the other [m] year ſhall come a rumour, and cruelty in the land, and ruler againſt ruler.

47 Therefore, behold, the days come, that I will viſit the images of Babel, and the whole land ſhall be confounded, and all her ſlain ſhall fall in the midſt of her.

48 Then the heaven and [n] the earth, and all that is therein, ſhall rejoice for Babel: for the deſtroyers ſhall come unto her from the North, ſaith the Lord.

49 As Babel cauſed the [o] ſlain of Iſrael to fall, ſo by Babel the ſlain of all the earth did fall.

50 Ye that [p] have eſcaped the ſword, go away, ſtand not ſtill: remember the Lord afar off, and let Jeruſalem come into your mind.

51 We are [q] confounded, becauſe we have heard reproach: ſhame hath covered our faces, for ſtrangers are come into the ſanctuaries of the Lord's houſe.

52 Wherefore behold, the days come, ſaith the Lord, that I will viſit her graven images, and through all her land the wounded ſhall groan.

53 Though Babel ſhould mount up to [r] heaven, and though ſhe ſhould defend her ſtrength on high, yet from me ſhall her deſtroyers come, ſaith the Lord.

54 A ſound of a cry cometh from Babel, and great deſtruction from the land of the Chaldeans,

CHAP. LII.

4 Jeruſalem is taken. 10 Zedekiah's ſons are killed before his face, and his eyes put out. 13 The city is burned. 31 Jehoiachin is brought forth of priſon, and fed like a king.

* 2 Kings 24. 18. 2 Chron. 36. 11. ZEdekiah * was one and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem, and his mother's name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

2 And he did evil in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that Jehoiakim had done.

3 [y] Doubtleſs becauſe the wrath of the Lord was againſt Jeruſalem and Judah, till he had caſt them out from his preſence, therefore Zedekiah rebelled againſt the king of Babel.

* 2 Kings 25. 1. & Jer. 39. 1. 4 * But in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, the tenth day of the month, came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, he, and all his hoſt againſt Jeruſalem, and pitched againſt it, and built forts againſt it round about.

5 So the city was beſieged unto the eleventh year of the king Zedekiah.

6 Now in the fourth month, the ninth day of the month, the famine was ſore in the city, ſo that there was no more bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled, and went out of the city by night, by the [z] way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden: (now the Chaldeans were by the city round about) and they went by the way of the wilderneſs.

8 But the army of the Chaldeans purſued after the king, and took Zedekiah in the deſert of Jericho, and all his hoſt was ſcattered from him.

9 Then they took the king, and carried him up unto the king of Babel to Riblah, in the land of Hamath, [a] where he gave judgment upon him.

10 And the king of Babel ſlew the ſons of Zedekiah before his eyes: he ſlew alſo all the princes of Judah in Riblah.

11 Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and the king of Babel bound him in chains, and carried him to Babel, and put him in priſon till the day of his death.

12 Now in the fifth month, in the [b] tenth day of the month (which was the nineteenth year of the king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel) came Nebuzar-adan, chief ſteward, which [c] ſtood before the king of Babel in Jeruſalem,

13 And burnt the houſe of the Lord, and the king's houſe, and all the houſes of Jeruſalem, and all the great houſes burnt he with fire.

14 And all the army of the Chaldeans, that were with the chief ſteward, brake down all the walls of Jeruſalem round about. Bef. Chr. 588.

15 Then Nebuzar-adan, the chief ſteward, carried away captive certain of the poor of the people, and the reſidue of the people that remained in the city, and thoſe that were fled and fallen to the king of Babel, with the reſt of the multitude.

16 But Nebuzar-adan, the chief ſteward, left certain of the poor of the land, to dreſs the vines, and to till the land.

17 Alſo the [d] pillars of braſs that were in the houſe of the Lord, and the baſes, and the braſen ſea that was in the houſe of the Lord, the Chaldeans brake, and carried all the braſs of them to Babel.

18 The pots alſo and the [e] beſoms, and the inſtruments of muſick, and the baſons, and the incenſe-diſhes, and all the veſſels of braſs wherewith they miniſtered, took they away.

19 And the bowls, and the aſh-pans, and the baſons, and the pots, and the candleſticks, and the incenſe-diſhes, and the cups, and all that was of gold, and that was of ſilver, took the chief ſteward away:

20 With the two pillars, one ſea, and twelve braſen bulls, that were under the baſes, which king Solomon had made in the houſe of the Lord: the braſs of all theſe veſſels was without [f] weight.

21 And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eighteen cubits, and a thread of twelve cubits did compaſs it, and the thickneſs thereof was four fingers: it was hollow.

22 And a chapiter of braſs was upon it, and the height of one chapiter was five cubits with net-work, and pomegranates upon the chapiters round about, all of braſs: the ſecond pillar alſo, and the pomegranates were like unto theſe.

23 And there were ninety and ſix pomegranates on a ſide: and all the pomegranates upon the net-work were an [g] hundred round about.

24 And the chief ſteward took Seraiah the chief prieſt, and Zephaniah [h] the ſecond prieſt, and the three keepers of the door.

25 He took alſo out of the city an eunuch, which had the overſight of the men of war, and [i] ſeven men that were in the king's preſence, which were found in the city, and Sopher captain of the hoſt, who muſtered the people of the land, and threeſcore men of the people of the land, that were found in the midſt of the city.

26 Nebuzar-adan the chief ſteward took them, and brought them to the king of Babel to Riblah.

27 And the king of Babel ſmote them, and ſlew them in Riblah, in the land of Hamath: thus Judah was carried away captive out of his own land.

LAMENTATIONS.

CHAP. I.

1 The prophet bewaileth the miſerable eſtate of Jeruſalem, 5 and ſheweth that they are plagued becauſe of their ſins. The firſt and ſecond chapter begin every verſe according to the letters of the Hebrew alphabet. The third hath three verſes for every letter, and the fourth is as the firſt.

HOW doth [a] the city remain ſolitary that was full of people? ſhe is as a widow: ſhe that was great among the nations, and [b] princeſs among the provinces, is made tributary.

2 She weepeth continually in the [c] night, and her tears run down by her cheeks: among all her [d] lovers, ſhe hath none to comfort her: all her friends have dealt unfaithfully with her, and are her enemies.

3 Judah is carried away captive, becauſe of [e] affliction, and becauſe of great ſervitude: ſhe dwelleth among the heathen, and findeth no reſt: all her perſecutors took her in the ſtraits.

4 The ways of Zion lament, becauſe no man cometh [f] to the ſolemn feaſts: all her gates are deſolate: her prieſts ſigh: her virgins are diſcomforted, and ſhe is in † heavineſs.

5 Her adverſaries [g] are the chief, and her enemies proſper: for the Lord hath afflicted her, for the multitude of her tranſgreſſions, and her children are gone into captivity before the enemy.

6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beauty is departed: her princes are become [h] like harts that find no paſture, and they are gone without ſtrength before the purſuer.

7 Jeruſalem remembered the days of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and all her pleaſant things that ſhe had in times paſt, when her people [i] fell into the hand of the enemy, and none did help her: the adverſaries ſaw her, and did mock at her [k] ſabbaths.

8 Jeruſalem hath grievouſly ſinned, therefore ſhe is ‡ in deriſion: all that honoured her, deſpiſe her, becauſe they have ſeen her filthineſs: yea, ſhe ſigheth and turneth backward.

‡ Or, driven away.

9 [l] Her filthineſs is in her ſkirts: ſhe remembered not her laſt end, therefore ſhe came down wonderfully: ſhe had no comforter: O Lord, behold mine affliction: for the enemy † is proud.

10 The enemy hath ſtretched out his hand upon all her pleaſant things: for ſhe hath ſeen the heathen enter into her ſanctuary, whom [m] thou didſt command, that they ſhould not enter into thy church.

11 All her people ſigh and ſeek their bread: they have given their pleaſant things for meat to refreſh the ſoul: ſee, O Lord, and conſider: for I am become vile.

12 Have ye no regard, all ye that paſs by this way? behold, and ſee, if there be any [n] ſorrow like unto my ſorrow, which is done unto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in he day of his fierce wrath.

13 From above hath [o] he ſent fire into my bones, which prevaileth againſt them: he hath ſpread a net for my feet, and turned me back: he hath made me deſolate, and daily in heavineſs.

14 The [p] yoke of my tranſgreſſions is bound upon his hand: they are wrapped, and come up upon my neck: he hath made my ſtrength to fall: the Lord hath delivered me into their hands, neither am I able to riſe up.

6 For he hath deſtroyed his tabernacle as a garden, he hath deſtroyed his congregation: the Lord hath cauſed the feaſts and ſabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath deſpiſed in the indignation of his wrath the king and the prieſt.

7 The Lord hath forſaken his altar: he hath abhorred his ſanctuary: he hath given into the hand of the enemy the walls of her palaces: they have made a [b] noiſe in the houſe of the Lord, as in the day of ſolemnity.

8 The Lord hath determined to deſtroy the wall of the daughter of Zion: he ſtretched out a line, he hath not withdrawn his hand from deſtroying: therefore he made the rampart [c] and the wall to lament: they were deſtroyed together.

9 Her gates are ſunk to the ground: he hath deſtroyed and broken her bars: the king and her princes are among the Gentiles: the law is no more, neither can her prophets ‡ receive any viſion from the Lord.

‡ Or, find.

10 The elders of the daughter of Zion ſit upon the ground and keep ſilence: they have caſt up duſt upon their heads: they have girded themſelves with ſackcloth: the virgins of Jeruſalem hang down their heads to the ground.

11 Mine eyes do fail with tears: my bowels ſwell: my liver is poured upon the earth, for the deſtruction of the daughter of my people, becauſe the children and ſucklings ‡ ſwoon in the ſtreets of the city.

13 [d] What thing ſhall I take to witneſs for thee? what thing ſhall I compare to thee, O daughter Jeruſalem? what ſhall I liken to thee that I may comfort thee, O virgin daughter Zion? for thy breach is great like the ſea: who can heal thee?

14 Thy prophets have [e] looked out vain and fooliſh things for thee, and they have not diſcovered thine iniquity to turn away thy captivity, and have looked out for thee falſe ‡ prophciees, and cauſes of baniſhment.

‡ Or, burden.

CHAP. III.

I AM the man that hath ſeen [f] affliction in the rod of his indignation.

2 He hath led me and brought me into darkneſs, but not to light.

3 Surely he is turned againſt me: he turneth his hand againſt me all the day.

4 My fleſh and my ſkin hath he cauſed to wax old, and he hath broken my bones.

5 He hath [g] builded againſt me, and compaſſed me with gall and labour.

6 He hath ſet me in dark places, as they that be dead for ever.

7 He that hedged about me, that I cannot get out: he hath made my chains heavy.

8 Alſo when I cry and ſhout, he ſhutteth out my [h] prayer.

Bef. Chr. 588.

9 He hath [i] ſtopped up my ways with hewn ſtone, and turned away my paths.

10 [k] He was unto me as a bear lying in wait, and as a lion in ſecret places.

11 He hath ſtopped my ways, and pulled me in pieces: he hath made me deſolate.

12 He hath bent his bow, and made me a mark for the arrow.

13 He cauſed † the arrows of his quiver to enter into my reins. † Heb. ſons.

14 I was a deriſion to all my people, and their ſong all the day.

15 He hath filled me with bitterneſs, and made me drunken with [l] wormwood.

16 He hath alſo broken my teeth with ſtones, and hath covered me with aſhes.

17 Thus my ſoul was far off from peace: I forgat proſperity.

18 And I ſaid, My ſtrength and mine hope [m] is periſhed from the Lord.

19 Remembering mine affliction and my mourning, the wormwood and the gall.

20 My ſoul hath them in remembrance, and is humbled [n] in me.

21 I conſider this in mine heart: therefore have I hope.

22 It is the Lord's [o] mercies that we are not conſumed, becauſe his compaſſions fail not.

23 They are renewed [p] every morning: great is thy faithfulneſs.

24 The Lord is my [q] portion, ſaith my ſoul: therefore will I hope in him.

25 The Lord is good unto them that truſt in him, and to the ſoul that ſeeketh him.

26 It is good both to truſt, and to wait for the ſalvation of the Lord.

27 It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his [r] youth.

28 He ſitteth alone, [s] and keepeth ſilence, becauſe he hath borne it upon him.

29 He putteth his [t] mouth in the duſt, if there may be hope.

30 He giveth his cheek to him that ſmiteth him: he is filled full with reproaches.

31 For the Lord will not forſake for ever.

32 But though he ſend affliction, yet will he have compaſſion according to the multitude of his mercies.

33 For he doth not [u] puniſh † willingly, nor afflict the children of men. † Heb. with his heart.

[f] The prophet complaineth of the puniſhments and afflictions that he endured by the falſe prophets and hypocrites, when he declareth the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, as Jer. 20. 2.

[g] He ſpeaketh this as one that felt God's heavy judgments, which he greatly feared, and therefore ſetteth them out with this diverſity of words.

[h] This is a great temptation to the godly, when they ſee not the fruit of their prayers, and cauſeth them to think that they are not heard, which thing God uſeth to do, that they might pray more earneſtly and the oftener.

[i] And keepeth me in hold as a priſoner.

[k] He hath no pity on me.

[l] With great anguiſh and ſorrow he hath made me to loſe my ſenſe.

[m] Thus with pain he was driven to and fro between hope and deſpair, as the godly oft-times are, yet in the end the Spirit getteth the victory.

[n] He ſheweth that God thus uſeth to exerciſe his, to the intent that hereby they may know themſelves, and feel his mercy.

[o] Conſidering the wickedneſs of man, it is marvel that any remaineth alive: but only that God for his own mercies ſake, and for his promiſe, will ever have his church to remain, though they be never ſo few in number, Iſa. 1. 9.

[p] We feel thy benefits daily.

[q] The godly put their whole confidence in God, and therefore look for none other inheritance, as Pſalm 16. 5.

[r] He ſheweth that we can never begin too timely to be exerciſed under the croſs, that when the afflictions grow greater, our patience alſo by experience may be ſtronger.

[s] He murmureth not againſt God, but is patient.

[t] He humbleth himſelf as they that fall down with their face to the ground, and ſo with patience waiteth for ſuccour.

[u] He taketh no pleaſure in it, but doth it of neceſſity for our amendment, when he ſuffereth the wicked to oppreſs the poor.

36 In ſubverting a man in his cauſe: the Lord [w] ſeeth it not.

37 Who is he then that ſaith, and it cometh to paſs, and the Lord [x] commandeth it not?

38 Out of the mouth of the moſt High proceedeth not [y] evil and good?

39 Wherefore then is the living [z] man ſorrowful? man ſuffereth for his ſin.

40 Let us ſearch and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord.

41 Let us lift up our [a] hearts with our hands unto God in the heavens.

42 We have ſinned, and have rebelled, therefore thou haſt not ſpared.

43 Thou haſt covered us with wrath, and perſecuted us: thou haſt ſlain, and not ſpared.

49 Mine eye droppeth without ſtay, and ceaſeth not,

55 I called upon thy name, O Lord, out of the low dungeon.

56 Thou haſt heard my voice: ſtop not thine ear from my ſigh, and from my cry.

57 Thou dreweſt near in the day that I called upon thee: thou ſaidſt, Fear not.

58 O Lord, thou haſt maintained the cauſe of my [d] ſoul, and haſt redeemed my life.

59 O Lord, thou haſt ſeen my wrong, judge thou my cauſe.

60 Thou haſt ſeen all their vengeance, and all their devices againſt me.

61 Thou haſt heard their reproach, O Lord, and all their imaginations againſt me.

CHAP. V.

The prayer of Jeremiah.

REmember, O Lord, what is come upon us: [t] conſider, and behold our reproach.

2 Our inheritance is turned to the ſtrangers, our houſes to the aliens.

3 We are fatherleſs, even without father, and our mothers are as widows.

4 We have drunken our [u] water for money, and our wood is ſold unto us.

5 Our necks under perſecution, we are weary and have no reſt. Bef. Chr. 588.

6 We have given our [w] hands to the Egyptians, and to Aſhur, to be ſatisfied with bread.

7 Our fathers have ſinned, and are not, and we have borne their [x] iniquities.

8 Servants have ruled over us, none would deliver us out of their hands.

9 We gat our bread with the peril of our lives, becauſe of the ſword [y] of the wilderneſs.

10 Our ſkin was black like as an oven, becauſe of the terrible famine.

11 They defiled the women in Zion, and the maids in the cities of Judah.

12 The princes are hanged up by [z] their hand: the faces of the elders were not had in honour.

13 They took the young men to grind, and the children fell under [a] the wood.

14 The elders have ceaſed from the [b] gate, and the young men from their ſongs.

15 The joy of our heart is gone, our dance is turned into mourning.

16 The crown of our head is fallen: woe now unto us, that we have ſinned.

17 Therefore our heart is heavy for theſe things, our [c] eyes are dim.

18 Becauſe of the mountain of Zion, which is deſolate: the foxes run upon it.

19 But thou, O Lord, remaineſt for [d] ever: thy throne from generation to generation.

20 Wherefore doſt thou forget us for ever, and forſake ſo long time?

21 [e] Turn thou us unto thee, O Lord, and we ſhall be turned: renew our days as of old.

22 But thou haſt utterly rejected us: thou art exceedingly angry againſt us.

[o] That is, the enemies.

[p] He ſheweth two principal cauſes of their deſtruction: their cruelty, and their vain confidence in man: for they truſted in the help of the Egyptians.

[q] Our king Joſiah, in whom ſtood our hope of God's favour, and on whom depended our ſtate and life, was ſlain, whom he calleth anointed, becauſe he was a figure of Chriſt.

[r] This is ſpoken by deriſion.

[s] He comforteth the church by that, after ſeventy years their ſorrows ſhall have an end, whereas the wicked ſhould be tormented for ever.

[t] This prayer, as is thought, was made when ſome of the people were carried away captive, others, as the pooreſt remained, and ſome went into Egypt and other places for ſuccour: albeit it ſeemeth that the prophet foreſeeing their miſeries to come, thus prayed.

[u] Meaning their extreme ſervitude and bondage.

[w] We are joined in league and amity with them, or have ſubmitted ourſelves unto them.

[x] As our fathers have been puniſhed for their ſins, ſo we that are culpable of the ſame ſins, are puniſhed.

[y] Becauſe of the enemy that came from the wilderneſs, and would not ſuffer us to go and ſeek our neceſſary food.

[z] That is, by the enemies hand.

[a] Their ſlavery was ſo great, that they were not able to abide it.

[b] There were no more laws, nor form of commonwealth.

[c] With weeping.

[d] And therefore thy covenant and mercies can never fail.

[e] Whereby is declared, that it is not in man's power to turn to God, but is only his work to convert us, and thus God worketh in us before we can turn to him, Jer. 31. 18.

EZEKIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that Jehoiachin, by the counſel of Jeremiah and Ezekiel, had yielded himſelf to Nebuchadnezzar, and ſo went to captivity with his mother, and divers of his princes, and of the people, certain began to repent and murmur that they had obeyed the prophet's counſel, as though the thing which they had propheſied ſhould not come to paſs, and therefore their eſtate ſhould be ſtill miſerable under the Chaldeans: by reaſon whereof he confirmeth his former prophecies, declaring by new viſions and revelations ſhewed unto him, that the city ſhould moſt certainly be deſtroyed, and the people grievouſly tormented by God's plagues, inſomuch that they that remained ſhould be brought into cruel bondage. And leſt the godly ſhould deſpair in theſe great troubles, he aſſureth them that God will deliver his church at his time appointed, and alſo deſtroy their enemies, which either afflicted them, or rejoiced in their miſeries. The effect of the one and the other ſhould chiefly be performed under Chriſt, of whom in this book are many notable promiſes, and in whom the glory of the new temple ſhould perfectly be reſtored. He propheſied theſe things in Chaldea, at the ſame time that Jeremiah propheſied in Judah, and there began in the fifth year of Jehoiachin's captivity.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Ezekiel propheſied, and in what place. 3 His kindred. 5 The viſion of the four beaſts. 26 The viſion of the throne.

IT came to paſs in the [a] thirtieth year, in the fourth month, and in the fifth day of the month (as I was among the captives by the river [b] Chebar) that the heavens were opened, and I ſaw the viſions of [c] God.

2 In the fifth day of the month (which was the fifth year of king Jehoiachin's captivity)

3 The word of the Lord came unto Ezekiel the prieſt, the ſon of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river Chebar, where the [d] hand of the Lord was upon him.

4 And I looked, and behold, [e] a whirlwind came out of the North, a great cloud and a fire wrapped about it, and a brightneſs was about it, and in the midſt thereof, to wit, in the midſt of the fire, came out as the likeneſs of ‡ amber.

‡ Or, pale yellow.

5 Alſo out of the midſt thereof came the likeneſs of four [f] beaſts, and this was their form: they had the appearance of a man.

6 And every one had four faces, and every one had four wings.

7 And their feet were ſtraight feet, and the ſole of their feet was like the ſole of a calf's foot, and they ſparkled like the appearance of bright braſs.

8 And the hands of a man came out from under their wings in the four parts of them, and they four had their faces and their wings.

9 They were [g] joined by their wings one to another, and when they went forth, they returned not, but every one went ſtraight forward.

10 And the ſimilitude of their faces was as [h] the face of a man: and they four had the face of a lion on the right ſide, and they four had the face of a bullock on the left ſide: they four alſo had the face of an eagle.

11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were ſpread out above: two wings of every one were joined one to another, and two covered their bodies.

12 And every one went ſtraight forward: they went whither their † ſpirit led them, and they returned not when they went forth.

† Heb. whither their ſpirit or will was to go.

13 The ſimilitude alſo of the beaſts, and their appearance, was like burning coals of fire, and like the appearance of lamps: for the fire ran among the beaſts, and the fire gave a glitter, and out of the fire there went lightning.

14 And the beaſts ran, and [i] returned like unto lightning.

15 ¶ Now as I beheld the beaſts, behold, a wheel appeared upon the earth by the beaſts, having four faces.

16 The faſhion of the wheels and their work was like unto a [k] chryſolite: and they four had one form, and their faſhion, and their work, was as one wheel in another wheel:

17 When they went, they went upon their four ſides, and they returned not when they went.

18 They had alſo ‡ rings, and height, and were fearful to behold, and their rings were full of eyes, round about them four.

‡ Or, the trent.

19 And when the beaſts went, the wheels went with them: and when the beaſts were lift up from the earth, the wheels were lift up.

20 Whither their ſpirit led them, they went, and thither did the ſpirit of the wheels lead them, and the wheels were lifted up beſides them: for the ſpirit of the beaſts was in the wheels.

21 When the beaſts went, they went: and when they ſtood, they ſtood: and when they were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up beſides them: for the ſpirit of the beaſts was in the wheels.

22 And the ſimilitude of the firmament upon the heads of the beaſts was wonderful, like unto chryſtal, ſpread over their heads above.

23 And under the firmament were their wings ſtraight, the one toward another: every one had two, which covered them: and every one had two, which covered their bodies.

24 And when they went forth, I heard the noiſe of their [l] wings like the noiſe of great waters, and as the voice of the Almighty, even the voice of ſpeech, as the noiſe of an hoſt: and when they ſtood, they [m] let down their wings.

25 And there was a voice from the firmament, that was over their heads, when they ſtood, and had let down their wings.

26 And above the firmament that was over their heads, was the faſhion of a throne like unto a ſapphire ſtone, and upon the ſimilitude of the throne was, by appearance, as the ſimilitude of a man above upon it.

27 And I ſaw as the appearance of amber, and as the ſimilitude of fire [n] round about within it to look to, even from his loins upward: and to look to, even from his loins downward, I ſaw as a likeneſs of fire, and brightneſs round about it.

28 As the likeneſs of the bow that is in the cloud in the day of rain, ſo was the appearance of the light round about.

29 This was the appearance of the ſimilitude of the glory of the Lord: and when I ſaw it, I fell [o] upon my face, and I heard a voice of one that ſpake.

[m] Which ſignified, that they had no power of themſelves, but only waited to execute God's commandment.

[n] Whereby was ſignified a terrible judgment toward the earth.

CHAP. II.

The prophet is ſent to call the people from their error.

AND [p] he ſaid unto me, [q] Son of man, ſtand up upon thy feet, and I will ſpeak unto thee.

2 [r] And the Spirit entered into me, when he had ſpoken unto me, and ſet me upon my feet, ſo that I heard him that ſpake unto me.

3 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, I ſend thee to the children of Iſrael, to a rebellious nation, that hath rebelled againſt me: for they and their fathers have rebelled againſt me, even unto this very day.

4 For they are † impudent children, and ſtiff-hearted: I do ſend thee unto them, and thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God.

5 But ſurely they will not hear, neither indeed will they ceaſe, for they are a rebellious houſe: yet ſhall they know that [s] there hath been a prophet among them.

6 And thou ſon of man, [t] fear them not, neither be afraid of their words, although rebels and thorns be with thee, and thou remaineſt with ſcorpions: fear not their words, nor be afraid at their looks, for they are a rebellious houſe.

7 Therefore thou ſhalt ſpeak my words unto them: but ſurely they will not hear, neither will they indeed ceaſe: for they are rebellious.

8 But thou ſon of man, hear what I ſay unto thee: be not thou rebellious, like this rebellious houſe: open thy mouth, and [u] eat that I give thee.

9 And when I looked up, behold, an hand was ſent unto me, and lo, a roll of a book was therein.

10 And he ſpread it before me, and it was written within and without, and there was written therein, [w] lamentations, and mourning, and woe.

CHAP. III.

1 The prophet being fed with the word of God, and with the conſtant boldneſs of the Spirit, is ſent unto the people that were in captivity. 17 The office of true miniſters.

MOreover he ſaid unto me, Son of man, [x] eat that thou findeſt: eat this roll, and go, and ſpeak unto the houſe of Iſrael.

2 So I opened my mouth, and he gave me this roll to eat.

3 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, cauſe thy belly to eat, and fill thy bowels with this roll that I give thee. Then did I eat it, and it was in my mouth as ſweet as honey.

4 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, go, and enter into the houſe of Iſrael, and declare them my words.

5 For thou art not ſent to a people of an † unknown tongue, or of an hard language, but to the houſe of Iſrael:

6 Not to many people of an unknown tongue, or of an hard language, whoſe words thou canſt not underſtand: yet if I ſhould ſend thee to them, they would obey thee.

7 But the houſe of Iſrael will not obey thee: for they will not obey me: yea, all the houſe of Iſrael are impudent and ſtiff-hearted.

8 Behold, I have made thy face [y] ſtrong againſt their faces, and thy forehead hard againſt their foreheads.

9 I have made thy forehead as the adamant, and harder than the flint: fear them not therefore, neither be afraid at their looks: for they are a rebellious houſe.

10 He ſaid moreover unto me, Son of man, [z] receive in thine heart all my words that I ſpeak unto thee, and hear them with thine ears.

11 And go, and enter to them that are led away captives unto the children of thy people, and ſpeak unto them, and tell them, Thus ſaith the Lord God: but ſurely they will not hear, neither will they indeed ceaſe.

12 Then the Spirit took me up, and I heard behind me a noiſe of a great ruſhing, ſaying, [a] Bleſſed be the glory of the Lord out of his place.

13 I heard alſo the noiſe of the wings of the beaſts, that touched one another, and the rattling of the wheels that were by them, even a noiſe of a great ruſhing.

14 So the Spirit lift me up, and took me away, and I [b] went in bitterneſs, and indignation of my ſpirit, but the hand of the Lord was ſtrong upon me.

15 Then I came to them that were led away captives, to [c] Tel-abib, that dwelt by the river Chebar, and I ſat where they ſat, and remained there aſtoniſhed among them [d] ſeven days.

16 And at the end of ſeven days, the word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying, 17 Son of man, I have made thee a [e] watchman unto the houſe of Iſrael: therefore hear the word at my mouth, and give them warning from me.

18 When I ſhall ſay unto the wicked, Thou ſhalt ſurely die, and thou giveſt not him warning, nor

[s] This declareth on the one part, God's great affection toward his people, that notwithſtanding their rebellion, yet he will ſend his prophets among them; and admoniſheth his miniſters on the other part, that they ceaſe not to do their duty, though the people be never ſo obſtinate: for the word of God ſhall be either to their ſalvation, or greater condemnation.

[a] Whereby he ſignifieth that God's glory ſhould not be diminiſhed, although he departed out of his temple: for this declared, that the city and temple ſhould be deſtroyed.

[b] This ſheweth, that there is ever an infirmity of the fleſh which can never be ready to render full obedience to God, and alſo God's grace, who ever aſſiſteth his, and overcometh their rebellious affections.

20 Likewiſe if a [f] righteous man turn from his righteouſneſs, and commit iniquity, I will lay a [g] ſtumbling block before him, and he ſhall die, becauſe thou haſt not given him warning: he ſhall die in his ſin, and his [h] righteous deeds, which he hath done, ſhall not be remembered: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

21 Nevertheleſs, if thou admoniſh that righteous man, that the righteous ſin not, and that he doth not ſin, he ſhall live becauſe he is admoniſhed: alſo thou haſt delivered thy ſoul.

24 Then the Spirit entered into me, which [l] ſet me up upon my feet, and ſpake unto me, and ſaid to me, Come and [m] ſhut thyſelf within thine houſe.

25 But thou, O ſon of man, behold, they ſhall put bands upon thee, and ſhall bind thee with them, and thou ſhalt not go out among them.

26 And I will make thy tongue [n] cleave to the roof of thy mouth, that thou ſhalt be dumb, and ſhalt not be to them as a man that rebuketh: for they are a rebellious houſe.

27 But when I ſhall have ſpoken unto thee, I will open thy mouth, and thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, He that heareth, let him hear: and he that leaveth off, * let him leave: for they are a rebellious houſe.

CHAP. IV.

1 The beſieging of the city of Jeruſalem is ſignified.
9 The long continuance of the captivity of Iſrael.
16 An hunger is propheſied to come.

THOU alſo, ſon of man, take thee a brick, and lay it before thee, and pourtray upon it the city, even Jeruſalem,

2 And lay ſiege againſt it, and build a fort againſt it, and caſt a mount againſt it: ſet the camp alſo againſt it, and lay engines of war againſt it round about.

3 Moreover, take an [o] iron pan, and ſet it for a wall of iron between thee and the city, and direct thy face toward it, and it ſhall be beſieged, and thou ſhalt lay ſiege againſt it: this ſhall be a ſign unto the houſe of Iſrael.

Bef. Chr. 595.

4 Sleep thou alſo upon thy left ſide, and lay the iniquity of the [p] houſe of Iſrael upon it: according to the number of the days that thou ſhalt ſleep upon it, thou ſhalt bear their iniquity.

5 For I have laid upon thee the years of their iniquity, according to the number of the days, even three hundred and ninety days: ſo ſhalt thou bear the iniquity of the houſe of Iſrael.

6 And when thou haſt accompliſhed them, ſleep again upon thy [q] right ſide, and thou ſhalt bear the iniquity of the houſe of Judah forty days: I have appointed thee a day for a year, even a day for a year.

7 Therefore thou ſhalt direct thy face toward the ſiege of Jeruſalem, and thine [r] arm ſhall be uncovered, and thou ſhalt propheſy againſt it.

8 And behold, I will lay [s] bands upon thee, and thou ſhalt not turn thee from one ſide to another, till thou haſt ended the days of thy ſiege.

9 Thou ſhalt take alſo unto thee wheat and barley, and beans, and lentils, and millet, and [t] fitches, and put them in one veſſel, and make thee bread thereof, according to the number of the days that thou ſhalt ſleep upon thy ſide: even [u] three hundred and ninety days ſhalt thou eat thereof.

10 And the meat, whereof thou ſhalt eat, ſhall be by weight, even [w] twenty ſhekels a day: and from time to time ſhalt thou eat thereof.

11 Thou ſhalt drink alſo water by meaſure, even the ſixth part of [x] an hin: from time to time ſhalt thou drink.

12 And thou ſhalt eat it as barley cakes, and thou ſhalt bake it [y] in the dung that cometh out of man, in their ſight.

13 And the Lord ſaid, So ſhall the children of Iſrael eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles, whither I will caſt them.

14 Then ſaid I, Ah, Lord God, behold, my ſoul hath not been polluted: for from my youth up, even unto this hour, I have not eaten of any thing dead, or torn in pieces, neither came there any [z] unclean fleſh in my mouth.

15 Then he ſaid unto me, Lo, I have given thee bullocks [a] dung for man's dung, and thou ſhalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreover, He ſaid unto me, Son of man, behold, I will break [b] the ſtaff of bread in Jeruſalem, and they ſhall eat bread by weight, and with care, and they ſhall drink water by meaſure, and with aſtoniſhment.

The ſign of the hairs, whereby is ſignified the deſtruction of the people.

AND thou ſon of man, take thee a ſharp knife, or take thee a barber's razor, and cauſe it [c] to paſs upon thine head, and upon thy beard: then take thee balances to weigh, and divide the hair.

2 Thou ſhalt burn with fire the third part in the midſt of [d] the city, when the days of the ſiege are fulfilled, and thou ſhalt take the other third part, and ſmite about it with a knife, and the laſt third part thou ſhalt ſcatter in the wind, and I will draw out a ſword after them.

3 Thou ſhalt alſo take thereof a few in number, and bind them in thy [e] lap.

4 Then take of them again and caſt them into the midſt of the fire, and burn them in the fire: [f] for thereof ſhall a fire come forth into all the houſe of Iſrael.

5 Thus ſaith the Lord God, This is Jeruſalem: I have ſet it in the midſt of the nations and countries that are round about her.

6 And ſhe hath changed my [g] judgments into wickedneſs more than the nations, and my ſtatutes more than the countries that are round about her, for they have refuſed my judgments and my ſtatutes, and they have not walked in them.

7 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe your [h] multitude is greater than the nations that are round about you, and ye have not walked in my ſtatutes, neither have ye kept my judgments: no, ye have not done according to the judgments of the nations that are round about you.

8 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I, even I come againſt thee, and will execute judgment in the midſt of thee, even in the ſight of the nations.

9 And I will do in thee that I never did before, neither will do any more the like, becauſe of all thine abominations.

10 For in the midſt of thee, the fathers * ſhall eat their ſons, and the ſons ſhall eat their fathers, and I will execute judgment in thee, and the whole remnant of thee will I ſcatter into all the winds.

* Lev. 26. 29. Deut. 28. 53. 2 Kings 6. 29. Lament. 4. 10. Baruch 2. 3.

11 Wherefore, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, Surely, becauſe thou haſt defiled my ſanctuary with all thy filthineſs, and with all thine abominations, therefore will I alſo deſtroy thee, neither ſhall mine eye ſpare thee, neither will I have any pity.

12 The third part of thee ſhall die with the peſtilence, and with famine ſhall they be conſumed in the midſt of thee: and another third part ſhall fall by the ſword round about thee: and I will ſcatter the laſt third part into all winds, and I will draw out a ſword after them.

13 Thus ſhall mine anger be accompliſhed, and I will cauſe my wrath to ceaſe in them, and I will be [i] comforted: and they ſhall know, that I the Lord have ſpoken it in my zeal, when I have accompliſhed my wrath in them.

14 Moreover, I will make thee waſte, and abhorred among the nations that are round about thee, and in the ſight of all that paſs by.

15 So thou ſhalt be a reproach and ſhame, a chaſtiſement and an aſtoniſhment unto the nations that are round about thee, when I ſhall execute judgments in thee, in anger and in wrath, and in ſharp rebukes: I the Lord have ſpoken it.

16 When I ſhall ſend upon them the ‡ evil [k] arrows of famine, which ſhall be for their deſtruction, and which I will ſend to deſtroy you: and I will increaſe the famine upon you, and will break your ſtaff of bread.

CHAP. VI.

He ſheweth that Jeruſalem ſhall be deſtroyed for their idolatry. 8 He propheſieth the repentance of the remnant of the people, and their deliverance.

AGAIN the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſet thy face towards the * mountains of Iſrael, and propheſy againſt them,

3 And ſay, Ye mountains of Iſrael, hear the word of the Lord God: thus ſaith the Lord God to the [l] mountains and to the hills, to the rivers and to the vallies, Behold, I, even I will bring a ſword upon you, and I will deſtroy your high places:

4 And your altars ſhall be deſolate, and your images of the [m] ſun ſhall be broken: and I will caſt down your ſlain men before your idols.

5 And I will lay the dead carcaſes of the children of Iſrael before their [n] idols, and I will ſcatter your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling-places the cities ſhall be deſolate, and the high places ſhall be laid waſte, ſo that your altars ſhall be made waſte and deſolate, and your idols ſhall be broken, and ceaſe, and your images of the ſun ſhall be cut in pieces, and your works ſhall be aboliſhed.

7 And the ſlain ſhall fall in the midſt of you, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VII.

The end of all the land of Iſrael ſhall ſuddenly come.

MOreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Alſo thou ſon of man, thus ſaith the Lord God, An end is come unto the land of Iſrael: the end is come upon the four corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come upon thee, and I will ſend my wrath upon thee, and will judge thee according to thy ways, and will lay upon thee all [t] thine abominations.

4 Neither ſhall mine eye ſpare thee, neither will I have pity: but I will lay thy ways upon thee: and thine abominations ſhall be in the midſt of thee, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

‡ Or, behold, evil cometh after evil. 5 Thus ſaith the Lord God, ‡ Behold, one evil, even one evil is come.

6 An end is come, the end is come, it [u] watched for thee: behold, it is come.

Bef. Chr. 600. 7 The [w] morning is come unto thee, that dwelleſt in the land: the time is come, the day of trouble is near, and not the [x] ſounding again of the mountains.

8 Now I will ſhortly pour out my wrath upon thee, and fulfil mine anger upon thee: I will judge thee according to thy ways, and will lay upon thee all thine abominations.

9 Neither ſhall mine eye ſpare thee, neither will I have pity, but I will lay upon thee according to thy ways, and thine abominations ſhall be in the midſt of thee, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord that ſmiteth.

10 Behold, the day, behold, it is come: the morning is gone forth, the [y] rod nouriſheth: [z] pride hath budded.

11 [a] Cruelty is riſen up, into a rod of wickedneſs: none of them ſhall remain, nor of their riches, nor of any of theirs, neither ſhall there be [b] lamentation for them.

12 The time is come, the day draweth near: let not the buyer [c] rejoice, nor let him that ſelleth, [d] mourn: for the wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

13 For he that ſelleth, ſhall not [e] return to that which is ſold, although they were yet alive: for the [f] viſion was unto all the multitude thereof, and they returned not, [g] neither doth any encourage himſelf in the puniſhment of his life.

14 [h] They have blown the trumpet, and prepared all, but none goeth to the battle: for my wrath is upon all the multitude thereof.

15 The ſword is without, and the peſtilence, and the famine within: he that is in the field, ſhall die with the ſword: and he that is in the city, famine and peſtilence ſhall devour him.

16 But they that flee away from them, ſhall eſcape, and ſhall be in the mountains, like the doves of the vallies: all they ſhall mourn, every one for his iniquity.

17 * All hands ſhall be weak, and all knees ſhall fall away as water. * Iſa. 13. 7. Jer. 6. 24.

[f] This viſion ſignified that all ſhould be carried away, and none ſhould return for the jubilee.

[g] No man, for all this, endeavoureth himſelf, or taketh heart to repent for his evil life. Some read, for none ſhall be ſtrengthened in his iniquity of his life, meaning, that they ſhould gain nothing by flattering themſelves in evil.

[h] The Iſraelites made a brag, but their hearts failed them.

[i] Meaning, the ſanctuary.

21 And I will give it into the hands of the [k] ſtrangers to be ſpoiled, and to the wicked of the earth to be robbed, and they ſhall pollute it.

22 My face will I turn alſo from them, and they ſhall pollute my [l] ſecret places: for the deſtroyers ſhall enter into it, and defile it.

23 ¶ Make a [m] chain: for the land is full of the [n] judgment of blood, and the city is full of cruelty:

24 Wherefore I will bring the moſt wicked of the heathen, and they ſhall poſſeſs their houſes: I will alſo make the pomp of the mighty to ceaſe, and their [o] holy places ſhall be defiled.

25 When deſtruction cometh, they ſhall ſeek peace, and ſhall not have it.

26 Calamity ſhall come upon calamity, and rumour ſhall be upon rumour: then ſhall they ſeek a viſion of the prophet: but the law ſhall periſh from the prieſt, and counſel from the ancient.

27 The king ſhall mourn, and the prince ſhall be cloathed with deſolation, and the hands of the people in the land ſhall be troubled: I will do unto them according to their ways, and according to their judgments will I judge them, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VIII.

2 An appearance of the ſimilitude of God. 3 Ezekiel is brought to Jeruſalem in the Spirit. 6 The Lord ſheweth the prophet the idolatries of the houſe of Iſrael.

AND in the [p] ſixth year, in the [q] ſixth month, and in the fifth day of the month, as I ſat in mine houſe, and the elders of Judah ſat before me, the hand of the Lord God fell there upon me.

2 Then I beheld, and lo, there was a likeneſs, as the appearance of [r] fire to look to, from his loins downward: and from his loins upward, as the appearance of brightneſs, and like unto amber.

3 And he ſtretched out the likeneſs of an hand, and took me by an hairy lock of mine head, and the Spirit lift me up between the earth and the heaven, and brought me † by a divine [s] viſion to Jeruſalem, into the entry of the inner [t] gate that lieth toward the North, where remained the idol of [u] indignation, which provoked indignation.

† Heb. in the viſions of God.

4 And behold, the glory of the God of Iſrael was there, according to the viſion that I ſaw [w] in the field.

5 Then ſaid he unto me, Son of man, lift up thine eyes now toward the North. So I lift up mine eyes toward the North, and behold, Northward, at the gate of the [x] altar, this idol of indignation was in the entry.

6 He ſaid furthermore unto me, Son of man, ſeeſt thou not what they do? even the great abominations that the houſe of Iſrael committeth here to cauſe me to depart from [y] my ſanctuary? but yet turn thee and thou ſhalt ſee greater abominations.

7 And he cauſed me to enter at the gate of the court: and when I looked, behold, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then ſaid he unto me, Son of man, dig now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, behold, there was a door.

9 And he ſaid unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do here.

10 So I went in, and ſaw, and behold, there was every ſimilitude of creeping things and [z] abominable beaſts, and all the idols of the houſe of Iſrael, painted upon the wall round about.

11 And there ſtood before them ſeventy [a] men of the ancients of the houſe of Iſrael, and in the midſt of them ſtood Jaazaniah, the ſon of Shaphan, with every man his cenſer in his hand, and the vapour of the incenſe went up like [b] a cloud.

12 Then ſaid he unto me, Son of man, haſt thou ſeen what the ancients of the houſe of Iſrael [c] do in the dark, every one in the chamber of his imagery? for they ſay, The Lord ſeeth us not, the Lord hath forſaken the earth.

13 Again, he ſaid alſo unto me, Turn thee again, and thou ſhalt ſee greater abominations that they do.

14 And he cauſed me to enter into the entry of the gate of the Lord's houſe, which was toward the North: and behold, there ſat women mourning [d] for Tammuz.

15 Then ſaid he unto me, Haſt thou ſeen this, O ſon of man? Turn thee again, and thou ſhalt ſee greater abominations than theſe.

16 And he cauſed me to enter into the inner court of the Lord's houſe, and behold, at the door of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about five and twenty men with their backs toward the temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the Eaſt, and they worſhipped the ſun toward the Eaſt.

17 Then he ſaid unto me, Haſt thou ſeen this, O ſon of man? Is it a ſmall thing to the houſe of Judah to commit theſe abominations which they do here? for they have filled the land with cruelty, and have returned to provoke me: and lo, they have caſt out [e] ſtink before their noſes.

1 The deſtruction of the city. 4 They that ſhall be ſaved, are marked. 8 A complaint of the prophet for the deſtruction of the people.

HE cried alſo with a loud voice in mine ears, ſaying, The viſitations of [f] the city draw near, and every man hath a weapon in his hand to deſtroy it.

2 And behold, ſix [g] men came by the way of the high gate, which lieth toward the [h] North, and every man a weapon in his hand, to deſtroy it: and one man among them was clothed with linen, with a writer's [i] inkhorn by his ſide, and they went in and ſtood beſide the braſen altar.

3 And the glory of the God of Iſrael was [k] gone up from the cherub whereupon he was, and ſtood on ‡ the door of the houſe, and he called to the man clothed with linen, which had the writer's inkhorn by his ſide:

‡ Or, threſhold.

4 And the Lord ſaid unto him, Go through the midſt of the city, even through the midſt of Jeruſalem, and ſet a ‡ mark upon the foreheads of them that [l] mourn and cry for all the abominations that be done in the midſt thereof.

‡ Or, mark with Thau.

5 And to the other he ſaid, that I might hear, Go ye after him through the city, and ſmite: let your eye ſpare none, neither have pity.

6 Deſtroy utterly the old, and the young, and the maids, and the children, and the women, but touch no man upon whom is the [m] mark, and begin at my ſanctuary. Then they began at the [n] antient men, which were before the houſe.

7 And he ſaid unto them, Defile the houſe, and fill the courts with the ſlain, then go forth: and they went out, and ſlew them in the city.

8 Now when they had ſlain them, and I had eſcaped, I fell down upon my face, and cried, ſaying, [o] Ah Lord God, wilt thou deſtroy all the reſidue of Iſrael, in pouring out thy wrath upon Jeruſalem?

9 Then ſaid he unto me, The iniquity of the houſe of Iſrael and Judah is exceeding great, ſo that the land is [p] full of blood, and the city full of corrupt judgment: for they ſay, The Lord hath forſaken the earth, and the Lord ſeeth us not.

10 As touching me alſo, mine eye ſhall not ſpare them, neither will I have pity, but will recompenſe their ways upon their heads.

11 And behold, the man clothed with linen, which had the inkhorn by his ſide, made report, and ſaid, Lord, I have done as thou haſt commanded me.

1 Of the man that took hot burning coals out of the middle of the wheels of the cherubims. 8 A rehearſal of the viſion of the wheels, of the beaſts, and of the cherubims.

AND as I looked, behold, in the * firmament that was above the head of the [q] cherubims, there appeared upon them like unto the ſimilitude of a throne, as it were a ſapphire ſtone.

* Ch. 1. 22.

2 And he ſpake unto the man clothed with linen, and ſaid, Go in between the wheels, even under the cherub, and fill thine hands with coals of fire from between the cherubims, and ſcatter them over [r] the city. And he went in, in my ſight.

3 Now the cherubims ſtood upon the right ſide of the houſe, when the man went in, and the cloud filled the inner court.

4 Then the glory of the Lord [s] went up from the cherub, and ſtood over the door of the houſe, and the houſe was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with the brightneſs of the Lord's glory.

5 And the [t] ſound of the cherubim's wings was heard into the utter court, as the voice of the Almighty God, when he ſpeaketh.

6 And when he had commanded the man cloathed with linen, ſaying, Take fire from between the wheels, and from between the cherubims, then he went in and ſtood beſide the wheel.

7 And one cherub ſtretched forth his hand from between the cherubims, unto the fire that was between the cherubims, and took thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linen: who took it, and went out.

8 And there appeared in the cherubims the likeneſs of a man's hand under their wings.

9 And when I looked up, behold, four wheels were beſide the cherubims, one wheel by one cherub, and another wheel by another cherub, and the appearance of the wheels was as the colour of a [u] chryſolite ſtone.

22 And the likeneſs of their faces was the ſelf-ſame faces which I ſaw by the river Chebar, and the appearance of the cherubims was the ſelf-ſame, and they went every one ſtraight forward.

CHAP. XI.

1 Who they were that ſeduced the people of Iſrael. 5 Againſt theſe he propheſieth, ſhewing them how they ſhall be diſperſed abroad. 19 The renewing of the heart cometh of God. 21 He threateneth them that lean unto their own counſels.

MOreover, the Spirit lift me up, and brought me unto the Eaſt gate of the Lord's houſe, which lieth eaſtward, and behold, at the entry of the gate were five and twenty men: among whom I ſaw Jaazaniah the ſon of Azur, and Pelatiah the ſon of Benaiah, the princes of the people.

2 Then ſaid he unto me, Son of man, theſe are the men that imagine miſchief, and deviſe wicked counſel in this city.

3 For they ſay, [a] It is not near, let us build houſes: this city is the [b] cauldron, and we be the fleſh.

4 Therefore propheſy againſt them: ſon of man, propheſy.

5 And the Spirit of the Lord fell upon me, and ſaid unto me, Speak, Thus ſaith the Lord, O ye houſe of Iſrael, this have ye ſaid, and I know that which riſeth up of your minds.

6 Many have ye murdered in this city, and ye have filled the ſtreets thereof with the ſlain.

7 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, They that ye have ſlain and have laid in the midſt of it, they are [c] the fleſh, and this city is the cauldron, but I will bring you forth of the midſt of it.

8 Ye have feared the ſword, and I will bring a ſword upon you, ſaith the Lord God.

9 And I will bring you out of the midſt thereof, and deliver you into the [d] hands of ſtrangers, and will execute judgments among you.

10 Ye ſhall fall by the ſword, and I will judge you in the border of [e] Iſrael, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

11 This city ſhall not be your cauldron, neither ſhall you be the fleſh in the midſt thereof, but I will judge you in the border of Iſrael.

12 And ye ſhall know that I am the Lord: for ye have not walked in my ſtatutes, neither executed my judgments, but have done after the manners of the heathen, that are round about you.

13 ¶ And when I propheſied, Pelatiah the ſon of [f] Benaiah died: then fell I down upon my face, and cried with a loud voice, and ſaid, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then utterly deſtroy all the remnant of Iſrael?

14 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

15 Son of man, thy [g] brethren, even thy brethren, the men of thy kindred, and all the houſe of Iſrael, holy are they unto whom the inhabitants of Jeruſalem have ſaid, Depart ye far from the Lord: for the land is given us in poſſeſſion.

16 Therefore ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Although I have caſt them far off among the heathen, and although I have ſcattered them among the countries: yet will I be to them as a little [h] ſanctuary in the countries where they ſhall come.

17 Therefore ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will gather you again from the people, and aſſemble you out of the countries where you have been ſcattered, and I will give you the land of Iſrael.

18 And they ſhall come thither, and they ſhall take away all the idols thereof, and all the abominations thereof from thence.

22 ¶ Then did the Cherubims lift up their wings, and the wheels beſides them, and the glory of the God of Iſrael was upon them on high.

23 And the glory of the Lord went up from the midſt of the city, and ſtood upon the mountain which is toward the eaſt ſide of the city.

24 Afterward the Spirit took me up, and brought me in a viſion by the Spirit of God into Chaldea to them that were led away captives: ſo the viſion that I had ſeen, went up from me.

1 The parable of captivity. 18 Another parable whereby the diſtreſs of hunger and thirſt is ſignified.

THE word of the Lord alſo came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, thou dwelleſt in the midſt of a rebellious houſe, which have eyes to ſee, and ſee [l] not: they have ears to hear, and hear not: for they are a rebellious houſe.

3 Therefore, thou ſon of man, † prepare thy ſtuff to go into captivity, and go forth by day, in their ſight: and thou ſhalt paſs from thy place to another place in their ſight, if it be poſſible that they may conſider it: for they are a rebellious houſe.

† Heb. make thee veſſels to go into captivity.

4 Then ſhalt thou bring forth thy ſtuff by day in their ſight, as the ſtuff of him that goeth into captivity: and thou ſhalt go forth at even in their ſight, as they that go forth into captivity.

5 Dig thou through the wall in their ſight, and carry out thereby.

6 In their ſight ſhalt thou bear it upon thy ſhoulders, and carry it forth in the dark: thou ſhalt cover thy face that thou ſee not the earth: for I have ſet thee as a [m] ſign unto the houſe of Iſrael.

7 And as I was commanded, ſo I brought forth my ſtuff by day, as the ſtuff of one that goeth into captivity: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, and brought it forth in the dark, and I bare it upon my ſhoulder in their ſight.

8 And in the morning came the word of the Lord unto me, ſaying,

9 Son of man, hath not the houſe of Iſrael, the rebellious houſe, ſaid unto thee, What [n] doſt thou?

11 Say, I am your ſign: like as I have done, ſo ſhall it be done unto them: they ſhall go into bondage and captivity.

12 And the chiefeſt that is among them, ſhall bear upon his ſhoulder in the dark, and ſhall go forth: they ſhall dig through the wall, to carry out thereby: he ſhall cover his face, that he ſee not the ground with his eyes.

13 My net will I alſo ſpread [o] upon him, and he ſhall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel to the land of the Chaldeans, yet ſhall he not ſee it, though he ſhall die there.

14 And I will ſcatter toward every wind all that are about him to help him, and all his garriſons: and I will draw out the ſword after them.

15 And they ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I ſhall ſcatter them among the nations, and diſperſe them in the countries.

16 But I will leave a [p] little number of them from the ſword, from the famine, and from the peſtilence, that they may declare all theſe abominations among the heathen, where they come, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

18 Son of man, eat thy bread with trembling, and drink thy water with trouble, and with carefulneſs:

19 And ſay unto the people of the land, Thus ſaith the Lord God of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and of the land of Iſrael, They ſhall eat their bread with carefulneſs, and drink their water with deſolation: for the land ſhall be deſolate from her abundance, becauſe of the cruelty of them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited ſhall be left void, and the land ſhall be deſolate, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

21 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

22 Son of man, what is that proverb that you have in the land of Iſrael, ſaying, The days [q] are prolonged, and all viſions ‡ fail?

‡ Or, take none effect.

23 Tell them therefore, Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will make this proverb to ceaſe, and they ſhall no more uſe it as a proverb in Iſrael: but ſay unto them, the days are at hand, and the effect of every viſion.

4 O Iſrael, thy prophets are like the foxes, [t] in the waſte places.

5 [u] Ye have not riſen up in the gaps, neither made up the hedge for the houſe of Iſrael, to ſtand in the battle in the day of the Lord.

6 They have ſeen vanity, and lying divination, ſaying, The Lord ſaith it, and the Lord hath not ſent them: and they have made others to hope that they would confirm the word of their prophecy.

7 Have ye not ſeen a vain viſion? and have ye not ſpoken a lying divination? [w] ye ſay, The Lord ſaith it, albeit I have not ſpoken.

11 Say unto them which daub it with untempered morter, that it ſhall fall: for there ſhall come a great ſhower, and I will ſend hail-ſtones, which ſhall cauſe it to fall, and a ſtormy wind ſhall break it.

12 Lo, when the wall is fallen, ſhall it not be ſaid unto you, Where is the daubing wherewith ye have daubed it?

Bef. Chr. 591.

13 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, I will cauſe a ſtormy wind to break forth in my wrath, and a great ſhower ſhall be in mine anger, and hail-ſtones in mine indignation to conſume it.

14 So I will deſtroy the wall that ye have daubed with untempered morter, and bring it down to the ground, ſo that the foundation thereof ſhall be diſcovered, and it ſhall fall, and ye ſhall be conſumed in the midſt thereof, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

15 Thus will I accompliſh my wrath upon the wall, and upon them that have daubed it with [a] untempered morter, and will ſay unto you, The wall is no more, neither the daubers thereof:

16 To wit, the prophets of Iſrael, which propheſy upon Jeruſalem, and ſee viſions of peace for it: and there is no peace, ſaith the Lord God.

17 Likewiſe thou ſon of man, ſet thy face againſt the daughters of thy people, which propheſy out of their own heart: and propheſy thou againſt them, and ſay,

18 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Woe unto the women that ſew [b] pillows under all arm-holes, and make vails upon the head of every one that ſtandeth up to hunt ſouls: will ye hunt the ſouls of my people, and will ye give life to the ſouls that come unto you?

19 And will ye pollute me among my people, for handfuls of [c] barley, and for pieces of bread, to ſlay the ſouls of them that ſhould not die, and [d] to give life to the ſouls that ſhould not live, in lying to my people, that hear your lyes?

20 Wherefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will have to do with your pillows, wherewith ye hunt the [e] ſouls to make them to fly, and I will tear them from your arms, and will let the ſouls go, even the ſouls that ye hunt to make them to fly.

21 Your vails alſo will I tear, and deliver my people out of your hand, and they ſhall be no more in your hands to be hunted, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

4 The Lord ſendeth falſe prophets for the ingratitude of the people. 22 He reſerveth a ſmall portion for his church.

THEN came certain of the elders of Iſrael unto me, and [g] ſat before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

3 Son of man, theſe men have ſet up their idols in their [h] heart, and put the ſtumbling-block of their iniquity before their face: ſhould I, being required, anſwer them?

4 Therefore ſpeak unto them, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Every man of the houſe of Iſrael that ſetteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the ſtumbling-block of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to the [i] prophet, I the Lord will anſwer him that cometh, according to the multitude [k] of his idols.

5 That [l] I may take the houſe of Iſrael in their own heart, becauſe they are all departed from me through their idols.

6 Therefore ſay unto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Return, and withdraw yourſelves, and turn your faces from your idols, and turn your faces from all your abominations.

7 For every one of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtranger that ſojourneth in Iſrael, which departeth from me, and ſetteth up his idols in his heart, and putteth the ſtumbling-block of his iniquity before his face, and cometh to a prophet for to inquire of him for me, I the Lord will anſwer him ‡ for myſelf:

8 And I will ſet my face againſt that man, and will make him an example and proverb, and I will cut him off from the midſt of my people, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

9 And if the prophet be [m] deceived, when he hath ſpoken a thing, I the Lord have deceived that prophet, and I will ſtretch out mine hand upon him, and will deſtroy him from the midſt of my people of Iſrael.

10 And they ſhall bear their puniſhment: the puniſhment of the prophet ſhall be even as the puniſhment of him that aſketh.

11 That the houſe of Iſrael [n] may go no more aſtray from me, neither be polluted any more with all their tranſgreſſions, but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, ſaith the Lord God.

12 ¶ The word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

13 Son of man, when the land ſinneth againſt me by committing a treſpaſs, then will I ſtretch out mine hand upon it, [o] and will break the ſtaff of the bread thereof, and will ſend famine upon it, and I will deſtroy man and beaſt forth of it.

Bef. Chr. 594.

14 Though theſe three men, [p] Noah, Daniel, and Job were among them, they ſhould deliver but their own ſouls by their [q] righteouſneſs, ſaith the Lord God.

15 If I bring noiſome beaſts into the land, and they ſpoil it, ſo that it be deſolate, that no man may paſs through, becauſe of beaſts,

16 Though theſe three men were in the midſt thereof, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, they ſhall ſave neither ſons nor daughters: they only ſhall be delivered, but the land ſhall be waſte.

17 Or if I bring a ſword upon this land, and ſay, Sword, go through the land, ſo that I deſtroy man and beaſt out of it,

18 Though theſe three men were in the midſt thereof, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, they ſhall deliver neither ſons nor daughters, but they only ſhall be delivered themſelves.

19 Or if I ſend a peſtilence into this land, and pour out my wrath upon it in blood, to deſtroy out of it man and beaſt:

20 And though Noah, Daniel, and Job were in the midſt of it, as I live, ſaith the Lord God, they ſhall deliver neither ſon nor daughter: they ſhall but deliver their own ſouls by their righteouſneſs.

21 For thus ſaith the Lord God, How much more when I ſend my * four ſore judgments upon Jeruſalem, even the ſword, and famine, and the noiſome beaſt and peſtilence, to deſtroy man and beaſt out of it?

* Ch. 5. 17.

22 Yet behold, therein ſhall be left a [r] remnant of them that ſhall be carried away, both ſons and daughters: behold, they ſhall come forth unto you, and ye ſhall ſee their way, and their enterpriſes: and ye ſhall be comforted concerning the evil that I have brought upon Jeruſalem, even concerning all that I have brought upon it.

23 And they ſhall comfort you, when ye ſee their way and their enterpriſes: and ye ſhall know that I have not done without cauſe all that I have done in it, ſaith the Lord God.

As the unprofitable wood of the vine-tree is caſt into the fire, ſo Jeruſalem ſhall be burnt.

[g] He ſheweth the hypocriſy of the idolaters, who will diſſemble to hear the prophets of God, though in their heart they follow nothing leſs than their admonitions, and alſo how by one means or other God doth diſcover them.

[h] They are not only idolaters in heart, but alſo worſhip their filthy idols openly, which lead them in blindneſs, and cauſe them to ſtumble, and caſt them out of God's favour, ſo that he will not hear them when they call unto him. Read Jer. 10. 15.

4 Behold, it is caſt in the fire to be conſumed: the fire conſumeth both the ends of it, and the midſt of it is burnt. Is it meet for any work?

5 Behold, when it was whole, it was meet for no work: how much leſs ſhall it be meet for any work, when the fire hath conſumed it, and it is burnt?

6 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, As the vine-tree, that is among the trees of the foreſt, which I have given to the fire to be conſumed, ſo will I give the inhabitants of Jeruſalem.

7 And I will ſet my face againſt them: they ſhall go out from one [t] fire, and another fire ſhall conſume them: and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I ſet my face againſt them,

The prophet declareth the benefits of God toward Jeruſalem. 15 Their unkindneſs. 46 He juſtifieth the wickedneſs of other people in compariſon of the ſins of Jeruſalem. 49 The cauſe of the abominations into which the Sodomites fell. 60 Mercy is promiſed to the repentant.

AGAIN, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, cauſe Jeruſalem to know her abominations,

3 And ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God unto Jeruſalem, Thine habitation and thy kindred is of the land [u] of Canaan: thy father was an Ammonite, and thy mother an Hittite.

4 And in thy nativity when thou waſt [w] born, thy navel was not cut: thou waſt not waſhed in water to ſoften thee: thou waſt not ſalted with ſalt, nor ſwaddled in clouts.

5 None eye pitied thee to do any of theſe unto thee, for to have compaſſion upon thee, but thou waſt caſt out in the open field, to the contempt of thy perſon, in the day that thou waſt born.

6 And when I paſſed by thee, I ſaw thee polluted in thine [x] own blood, and I ſaid unto thee, when thou waſt in thy blood, Thou ſhalt live: even when thou waſt in thy blood, I ſaid unto thee, Thou ſhalt live.

7 I have cauſed thee to multiply as the bud of the field, and thou haſt increaſed and waxen great, and thou haſt gotten excellent ornaments: thy breaſts are faſhioned, thine hair is grown, whereas thou waſt naked and bare.

8 Now when I paſſed by thee, and looked upon thee, behold, thy time was as the time of love, Bef. Chr. 594. and I ſpread my ſkirts over thee, and covered [y] thy filthineſs: yea, I ſware unto thee, and entered into a covenant with [z] thee, ſaith the Lord God, and thou becameſt mine.

9 Then waſhed I thee with [a] water: yea, I waſhed away thy blood from thee, and I [b] anointed thee with oil.

10 I cloathed thee alſo with broidered work, and ſhod thee with badgers ſkin: and I girded thee about with fine linen, and I covered thee with ſilk.

11 I decked thee alſo with ornaments, and I put bracelets upon thine hands, and a chain on thy neck.

12 And I put a frontlet upon thy face, and ear-rings in thine ears, and a beautiful [c] crown upon thine head.

13 Thus waſt thou decked with gold and ſilver, and thy raiment was of fine linen, and ſilk, and broidered work: thou didſt eat fine flour, and honey, and oil, and thou waſt very beautiful, and thou didſt grow up into a kingdom.

14 And thy name was ſpread among the heathen for thy beauty: for it was perfect through my [d] beauty which I had ſet upon thee, ſaith the Lord God.

15 Now thou didſt [e] truſt in thine own beauty, and playedſt the harlot, becauſe of thy renown, and haſt poured out [f] thy fornications on every one that paſſed by, thy deſire was to him.

16 And thou didſt take thy garments, and deckedſt thine high places with divers colours, [g] and playedſt the harlot thereupon: the like things ſhall not come, neither hath any done ſo.

17 Thou haſt alſo taken thy fair jewels made of my gold and of my ſilver, which I had given thee, and [h] madeſt to thyſelf images of men, and didſt commit whoredom with them:

18 And tookeſt thy broidered garments, and coveredſt them: and thou haſt ſet mine oil and my perfume before them.

19 My meat alſo which I gave thee, as fine flour, oil, and honey, wherewith I fed thee, thou haſt even ſet it before them for a ſweet ſavour: thus it was, ſaith the Lord God.

20 Moreover, thou haſt taken thy ſons and thy daughters, whom thou haſt borne unto me, and theſe haſt thou ſacrificed unto them, to [i] be devoured: is this thy whoredom a ſmall matter, 21 That thou haſt ſlain my children, and delivered them, to cauſe them to paſs through fire for them?

22 And

[t] Though they eſcape one danger, yet another ſhall take them.

[u] Thou boaſteſt to be of the ſeed of Abraham, but thou art degenerated and followeſt the abominations of the wicked Canaanites, as children do the manners of their fathers. Iſa. 1. 4. and 57. 3.

[w] When I firſt brought thee out of Egypt, and planted thee in this land to be my church.

[x] Being thus in thy filthineſs, and forſaken of all men, I took thee, and gave thee life: whereby is meant, that before God waſh his church, and give life, there is nothing but filthineſs and death.

[y] Theſe words, as blood, pollution, nakedneſs, and filthineſs, are oft-times repeated, to beat down their pride, and to cauſe them to conſider what they were before God received them to mercy, favoured them, and covered their ſhame.

[z] That thou ſhouldeſt be a chaſte wife unto me, and that I ſhould maintain thee, and endue thee with all graces.

[a] I waſhed away thy ſins.

[b] I ſanctified thee with mine holy Spirit.

[c] Hereby he ſheweth how he ſaved his church, enriched it, and gave it power and dominion to reign.

[d] He declareth wherein the dignity of Jeruſalem ſtood: to wit, in that, that the Lord gave them of his beauty and excellency.

[e] In abuſing my gifts, and in putting thy confidence in thine own wiſdom and dignity, which were the occaſion of thine idolatry.

[f] There was none idolatry ſo vile wherewith thou didſt not pollute thyſelf.

[g] This declareth how the idolaters put their chief delight in thoſe things which pleaſe the eyes and outward ſenſes.

[h] Thou haſt converted my veſſels and inſtruments which I gave thee to ſerve me with, to the uſe of thine idols.

[i] Meaning, by fire, read Lev. 18. 21. 2 Kings 23. 10.

Bef. Chr. 594.

22 And in all thine abominations and whoredoms thou haſt not remembered the days of thy youth, when thou waſt naked and bare, and waſt polluted in thy blood.

23 And beſide all thy wickedneſs (woe, woe unto thee, ſaith the Lord God)

24 Thou haſt alſo built unto thee an high place, and haſt made thee an high place in every ſtreet.

25 Thou haſt built thine high place at every ‡ corner of the way, and haſt made thy beauty to be abhorred: thou haſt opened thy feet to every one that paſſed by, and multiplied thy whoredom.

‡ Or, head.

26 Thou haſt alſo committed fornication with the [k] Egyptians thy neighbours, which have great members, and haſt increaſed thy whoredom, to provoke me.

27 Behold, therefore I did ſtretch out mine hand over thee, and will diminiſh thine ordinary, and deliver thee unto the will of them that hate thee, even to the ‡ daughters of the Philiſtines, which are aſhamed of thy wicked way.

‡ Or, cities.

28 Thou haſt played the whore alſo with the Aſſyrians, becauſe thou waſt inſatiable: yea, thou haſt played the harlot with them, and yet couldeſt not be ſatisfied.

29 Thou haſt moreover multiplied thy fornication from the land of Canaan unto Chaldea, and yet thou waſt not ſatisfied herewith.

30 How weak is thine heart, ſaith the Lord God, ſeeing thou doſt all theſe things, even the work of a ‡ preſumptuous whoriſh woman?

‡ O, that will bear rule.

31 In that thou buildeſt thine high place in the corner of every way, and makeſt thine high place in every ſtreet, and haſt not been as an harlot [l] that hath deſpiſed a reward,

32 But as a wife that playeth the harlot, and taketh others for her huſband:

33 They give gifts to all other whores, but thou giveſt gifts unto all thy lovers, and rewardeſt them that they may come unto thee on every ſide for thy fornication.

34 And the contrary is in thee from other women in thy fornications, neither the like fornication ſhall be after thee: for in that thou giveſt a reward, and no reward is given unto thee, therefore thou art contrary.

35 Wherefore, O harlot, hear the word of the Lord.

36 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thy ‡ ſhame was poured out, and thy filthineſs diſcovered through thy fornications with thy lovers, and with all the idols of thine abominations, and by the blood of thy children, which thou didſt offer unto them;

37 Behold, therefore I will gather all [m] thy lovers, with whom thou haſt taken pleaſure, and all them that thou haſt loved, with all them that thou haſt hated: I will even gather them round about againſt thee, and will diſcover thy filthineſs unto them, that they may ſee all thy filthineſs.

Bef. Chr. 594.

38 And I will judge thee after the manner of them that are [n] harlots, and of them that ſhed blood, and I will give thee the blood of wrath and jealouſy.

39 I will alſo give thee into their hands, and they ſhall deſtroy thine high place, and ſhall break down thine high places: they ſhall ſtrip thee alſo out of thy cloaths, and ſhall take thy fair jewels, and leave thee naked and bare.

40 They ſhall alſo bring up a company againſt thee, and they ſhall ſtone thee with ſtones, and thruſt thee through with their ſwords.

41 And they * ſhall burn up thine houſes with fire, and execute judgments upon thee in the ſight of many women: and I will cauſe thee to ceaſe from playing the harlot, and thou ſhalt give no reward any more.

* 2 Kings 25. 9.

42 So will I make my wrath toward thee to reſt, and my [o] jealouſy ſhall depart from thee, and I will ceaſe and be no more angry.

43 Becauſe thou haſt not remembered the days of thy youth, but haſt provoked me with all theſe things, behold, therefore I alſo have [p] brought thy way upon thine head, ſaith the Lord God: yet haſt not thou had conſideration of all thine abominations.

44 Behold, all that uſe proverbs, ſhall uſe this proverb againſt thee, ſaying, As is the mother, [q] ſo is her daughter.

45 Thou art thy mother's daughter, that hath caſt off her huſband and her children, and thou art the ſiſter of thy [r] ſiſters, which forſook their huſbands and their children: your mother is an Hittite, and your father an Amorite.

46 And thine elder ſiſter is Samaria, and her [s] daughters that dwell at thy left hand, and † thy younger ſiſter that dwelleth at thy right hand, is Sodom and her daughters.

47 Yet haſt thou [t] not walked after their ways, nor done after their abominations: but as it had been a very little thing, thou waſt corrupted more than they in all thy ways.

48 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, Sodom thy ſiſter hath not done, neither ſhe nor her daughters, as thou haſt done, and thy daughters.

49 Behold, this was the iniquity of thy ſiſter Sodom, [u] Pride, fulneſs of bread, and abundance of idleneſs was in her, and in her daughters: neither did ſhe ſtrengthen the hand of the poor and needy.

50 But they were haughty, and committed abomination before me: therefore I took them away as pleaſed me.

53 Therefore I will bring again [y] their captivity with the captivity of Sodom, and her daughters, and with the captivity of Samaria, and her daughters: even the captivity of thy captives in the midſt of them.

54 That thou mayeſt bear thine own ſhame, and mayeſt be confounded in all that thou haſt done, in that thou haſt [z] comforted them.

55 And thy ſiſter Sodom and her daughters ſhall return to their former ſtate. Samaria alſo and her daughters ſhall return to their former ſtate, [a] when thou and thy daughters ſhall return to your former ſtate.

58 Thou haſt borne therefore thy wickedneſs, and thine abomination, ſaith the Lord.

59 For thus ſaith the Lord God, I might even deal with thee, as thou haſt done: when thou didſt deſpiſe the [e] oath, in breaking the covenant.

60 Nevertheleſs, I will [f] remember my covenant made with thee in the days of thy youth, and I will confirm unto thee an everlaſting covenant.

61 Then thou ſhalt remember thy ways, and be aſhamed, when thou ſhalt receive [g] thy ſiſters, both thy elder and thy younger, and I will give them unto thee for daughters, but not [h] by thy covenant.

62 And I will eſtabliſh my covenant with thee, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.

The parable of the two eagles.

Bef. Chr. 594.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, put forth a parable, and ſpeak a proverb unto the houſe of Iſrael,

3 And ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, The great [k] eagle with great wings, and long wings, and full of feathers which had divers colours, came unto Lebanon, and took the higheſt branch of the cedar,

4 And brake off the top of his twig, and carried it into the land of [l] merchants, and ſet it in a city of merchants.

5 He took alſo of the [m] ſeed of the land, and planted it in a fruitful ground: he placed it by great waters, and ſet it as a willow tree.

6 And it budded up, and was [n] like a ſpreading vine of [o] low ſtature, whoſe branches turned toward it, and the roots thereof were under it; ſo it became a vine, and it brought forth branches, and ſhot forth buds.

7 There was alſo [p] another great eagle with great wings, and many feathers, and behold, this vine did turn her roots toward it, and ſpread forth her branches toward it, that ſhe might water it by the trenches of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good ſoil by great [q] waters, that it ſhould bring forth branches, and bear fruit, and be an excellent vine.

9 Say thou, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Shall it proſper? ſhall [r] he not pull up the roots thereof, and deſtroy the fruit thereof, and cauſe them to dry? all the leaves of her bud ſhall wither without great power, or many people to pluck it up by the roots thereof.

10 Behold, it was planted: but ſhall it proſper? ſhall it not be dried up and wither? [s] when the eaſt wind ſhall touch it, it ſhall wither in the trenches, where it grew.

11 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

12 Say now to this rebellious houſe, Know ye not what theſe things mean? tell them, Behold, the king of Babel is come to Jeruſalem, and hath taken [t] the king thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel:

13 And hath taken one of the king's ſeed, and made a covenant with him, and hath taken [u] an oath of him: he hath alſo taken the princes of the land,

16 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, he ſhall die in the midſt of Babel, in the place of the king that had made him king, whoſe oath he deſpiſed, and whoſe covenant made with him he brake.

17 Neither ſhall Pharaoh with his mighty hoſt, and great multitude of people, maintain him in the war, when they have caſt up mounts, and builded ramparts to deſtroy many perſons.

18 For he hath deſpiſed the oath, and broken the covenant (yet lo, he had given [w] his hand): becauſe he hath done all theſe things, he ſhall not eſcape.

19 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, As I live, I will ſurely bring mine oath that he hath deſpiſed, and my covenant that he hath broken, upon his own head.

* Ch. 12. 13. and 32. 3.

20 * And I will ſpread my net upon him, and he ſhall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel, and will enter into judgment with him there for his treſpaſs that he hath committed againſt me.

21 And all that flee from him with all his hoſt, ſhall fall by the ſword, and they that remain ſhall be ſcattered toward all the winds, and ye ſhall know that I the Lord have ſpoken it.

22 Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will alſo take off the top [x] of this high cedar, and will ſet it, and cut off the [y] top of the tender plant thereof, and I will plant it upon an high mountain and great.

23 Even in the high mountain of Iſrael will I plant it: and it ſhall bring forth boughs and bear fruit, and be an excellent cedar, and under it ſhall remain all birds, and every [z] fowl ſhall dwell in the ſhadow of the branches thereof.

24 And all the [a] trees of the field ſhall know that I the Lord have brought down the high tree and exalted the low tree: that I have dried up the green tree, and made the dry tree to flouriſh: I the Lord have ſpoken it, and have done it.

CHAP. XVIII.

2 He ſheweth that every man ſhall bear his own ſin.
21 To him that amendeth, is ſalvation promiſed.
24 Death is propheſied to the righteous, which turneth back from the right way.

THE word of the Lord came unto me again, ſaying,

2 What mean ye that ye ſpeak this proverb, concerning the land of Iſrael, ſaying, [b] The fathers have eaten ſour grapes, and the children's teeth are ſet on edge?

3 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, ye ſhall uſe this proverb no more in Iſrael.

4 Behold, all ſouls are mine, both the ſoul of the father, and alſo the ſoul of the ſon, are mine: the ſoul that ſinneth, it ſhall die.

5 But if a man be juſt, and do that which is lawful and right,

6 And hath not eaten [c] upon the mountains, neither hath lift up his eyes to the idols of the houſe of Iſrael, neither * hath defiled his neighbour's wife, neither hath † lien with a * menſtruous woman.

* Lev. 18. 20.
† Heb. come near.
* Lev. 20. 18.
* Iſa. 58. 7. Matt. 25. 35.

7 Neither hath oppreſſed any, but hath reſtored the pledge to his debtor: he that hath ſpoiled none by violence, * but hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment:

* Exod. 22. 25. Lev. 25. 37. Deut. 23. 19. Pſ. 15. 5.

8 And hath not given forth upon * uſury, neither hath taken any increaſe, but hath withdrawn his hand from iniquity, and hath executed true judgment between man and man,

9 And hath walked in my ſtatutes, and hath kept my judgments to deal truly: he is juſt, he ſhall ſurely live, ſaith the Lord God.

‡ Or, a cruel man.

10 ¶ If he beget a ſon that is ‡ a thief, or a ſhedder of blood, if he do any one of theſe things:

11 Though he do not all theſe things, but either hath eaten upon the mountains, or defiled his neighbour's wife,

12 Or hath oppreſſed the poor and needy, or hath ſpoiled by violence, or hath not reſtored the pledge, or hath lift up his eyes unto the idols, or hath committed abomination,

13 Or hath given forth upon uſury, or hath taken increaſe, ſhall he live? he ſhall not live: ſeeing he hath done theſe abominations, [d] he ſhall die the death, and his blood ſhall be upon him.

14 ¶ But if he beget a ſon that ſeeth all his father's ſins which he hath done, and feareth, neither doth ſuch like,

15 That hath not eaten upon the mountains, neither hath lift up his eyes to the idols of the houſe of Iſrael, nor hath defiled his neighbour's wife,

16 Neither hath oppreſſed any, nor hath withholden the pledge, neither hath ſpoiled by violence, but hath given his bread to the hungry, and hath covered the naked with a garment,

17 Neither hath withdrawn his hand from the afflicted, nor received uſury nor increaſe, but hath executed my judgments, and hath walked in my ſtatutes, he ſhall not die in the iniquity of his father: but he ſhall ſurely live.

18 His father, becauſe he cruelly oppreſſed and ſpoiled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, lo, even he dieth in his iniquity.

19 Yet ſay ye, Wherefore ſhall not the ſon bear the iniquity of the father? Becauſe the ſon hath executed judgment and juſtice, and hath kept all my ſtatutes, and done them, he ſhall ſurely live.

* Deut. 24. 16. 2 Kings 14. 6. 2 Chron. 25. 4.

20 * The ſame ſoul that ſinneth, ſhall die: the ſon ſhall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither ſhall the father bear the iniquity of the ſon: but the righteouſneſs of the righteous ſhall be upon him, and the wickedneſs of the wicked ſhall be upon himſelf.

21 But if the wicked will return from all his ſins that he hath committed, and keep all my [e] ſtatutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he ſhall ſurely live, and ſhall not die.

[w] Becauſe he took the name of God in vain, and brake his oath which he had confirmed by giving his hand; therefore the prophet declareth that God would not ſuffer ſuch perjury and infidelity to eſcape puniſhment.

[x] This promiſe is made to the church, which ſhall be as a ſmall remnant, and as the top of a tree.

[y] I will trim it, and dreſs it.

[z] Both the Jews and Gentiles ſhall be gathered into it.

[a] All the world ſhall know that I have plucked down the proud enemies, and ſet up my church which was low and contemned.

[b] The people murmured at the chaſtiſings of the Lord, and therefore uſed this proverb, meaning that their fathers had ſinned, and their children were puniſhed for their tranſgreſſions, read Jer. 31. 29.

[c] If he hath not eaten of the fleſh that hath been offered up to idols, to honour them thereby.

[d] He ſheweth how the ſon is puniſhed for his father's fault: that is, if he be wicked as his father was, and doth not repent, he ſhall be puniſhed as his father was, or elſe not.

[e] He joineth the obſervation of the commandments with repentance: for none can repent indeed, except he labour to keep the law.

Bef. Chr. 594.

‡ Or, not laid to his charge.

‡ Or, rather that he may return from his ways and live.

22 All his tranſgreſſions which he committed, they ſhall not be ‡ mentioned unto him, but in his [f] righteouſneſs that he hath done, he ſhall live.

23 [g] Have I any deſire that the wicked ſhould die, ſaith the Lord God? ‡ or ſhall he not live, if he return from his ways?

24 But if the righteous turn away from his righteouſneſs, and commit iniquity, and do according to all the abominations that the wicked man doth, ſhall he live? All his [h] righteouſneſs that he hath done, ſhall not be mentioned: but in his tranſgreſſion that he hath committed, and in his ſin that he hath ſinned, in them ſhall he die.

25 Yet ye ſay, The way of the Lord is not equal: hear now, O houſe of Iſrael, Is not my way equal? or are not your ways unequal?

26 For when a righteous man turneth away from his righteouſneſs, and committeth iniquity, he ſhall even die for the ſame, he ſhall even die for his iniquity that he hath done.

27 Again, when the wicked turneth away from his wickedneſs that he hath committed, and doth that which is lawful and right, he ſhall ſave his ſoul alive.

28 Becauſe he conſidereth, and turneth away from all his tranſgreſſions that he hath committed, he ſhall ſurely live, and ſhall not die.

29 Yet ſaith the houſe of Iſrael, The way of the Lord is not equal. O houſe of Iſrael, are not my ways equal? or are not your ways unequal?

30 Therefore I will judge you, O houſe of Iſrael, every one according to his ways, ſaith the Lord God: return therefore and cauſe others to turn away from all your tranſgreſſions: ſo iniquity ſhall not be your deſtruction.

31 Caſt away from you all your tranſgreſſions whereby ye have tranſgreſſed, and make [k] you a new heart, and a new ſpirit: for why will ye die, O houſe of Iſrael?

32 For I deſire not the death of him that dieth, ſaith the Lord God: cauſe therefore one another to return, and live ye.

6 In the day that I lift up mine hand unto them, to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a land that I had provided for them, flowing with milk and honey, which is pleaſant among all lands,

7 Then ſaid I unto them, Let every man caſt away the abominations of his eyes, [y] and defile not yourſelves with the idols of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled againſt me, and would not hear me: for none caſt away the abominations of [z] their eyes, neither did they forſake the idols of Egypt: then I thought to pour out mine indignation upon them, and to accompliſh my wrath againſt them in the midſt of the land of Egypt.

9 But I had reſpect to my [a] name, that it ſhould not be polluted before the heathen among whom they were, and in whoſe ſight I made myſelf known unto them, in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

10 Now I carried them out of the land of Egypt, and brought them into the wilderneſs.

13 But the houſe of Iſrael rebelled againſt me in the wilderneſs: they walked not in my ſtatutes, and they caſt away my judgments, which if a man do, he ſhall live in them, and my ſabbaths have they greatly polluted: then I thought to pour out mine indignation upon them * in the wilderneſs to conſume them.

* Num. 14. 28, 29. and 26. 65.

14 But I had reſpect to my name, that it ſhould not be polluted before the [b] heathen, in whoſe ſight I brought them out.

15 Yet nevertheleſs, I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderneſs, that I would not bring them into the land which I had given them, flowing with milk and honey, which was pleaſant above all lands.

16 Becauſe they caſt away my judgments, and walked not in my ſtatutes, but have polluted my [c] ſabbaths: for their heart went after their idols:

17 Nevertheleſs mine eye ſpared them, that I would not deſtroy them, neither would I conſume them in the wilderneſs.

18 But I ſaid unto their children in the wilderneſs, walk ye not in the ordinances of your [d] fathers, neither obſerve their manners, nor defile yourſelves with their idols.

19 I am the Lord your God: walk in my ſtatutes, and keep my judgments and do them,

20 And ſanctify my ſabbaths, and they ſhall be a ſign between me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithſtanding the children rebelled againſt me: they walked not in my ſtatutes, nor kept my judgments to do them, which if a man do, he ſhall live in them, but they polluted my ſabbaths: then I thought to pour out mine indignation upon them, and to accompliſh my wrath againſt them in the wilderneſs.

22 Nevertheleſs I withdrew mine hand, and had reſpect to my name, that it ſhould not be polluted before the heathen, in whoſe ſight I brought them forth.

23 Yet I lift up mine hand unto them in the wilderneſs, that I would ſcatter them among the heathen, and diſperſe them through the countries,

24 Becauſe they had not executed my judgments, but had caſt away my ſtatutes, and had polluted my ſabbaths, and their eyes were after [e] their fathers idols.

25 Wherefore I [f] gave them alſo ſtatutes that were not good, and judgments wherein they ſhould not live.

26 And I polluted them in their own [g] gifts, in that they cauſed to paſs by the fire all that firſt openeth the womb, that I might deſtroy them, to the end that they might know that I am the Lord.

27 Therefore, ſon of man, ſpeak unto the houſe of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Yet in this your fathers have blaſphemed me, though they had before grievouſly tranſgreſſed againſt me.

28 [h] For when I had brought them into the land, for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to them, then they ſaw every high hill, and all the thick trees, and they offered there their ſacrifices, and there they preſented their offering of provocation: there alſo they made their ſweet ſavour, and poured out there their drink-offerings.

[w] This declareth the great lenity and patience of God, which calleth ſinners to repentance before he condemns them.

[x] I ſware that I would be their God, which manner of oath was obſerved from all antiquity, where they uſed to lift up their hands toward the heaven, acknowledging God to be the author of truth, and the defender thereof; and alſo the judge of the heart, wiſhing that he ſhould take vengeance, if they concealed any thing which they knew to be truth.

17 I will alſo ſmite mine hands together, and will cauſe my wrath to ceaſe. I the Lord have ſaid it.

18 ¶ The word of the Lord came unto me again, ſaying,

19 Alſo, thou ſon of man, appoint thee [h] two ways, that the ſword of the king of Babel may come: both twain ſhall come out of one land, and chuſe a place, and chuſe it in the corner of the way of the city.

20 Appoint a way, that the ſword may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and [i] to Judah in Jeruſalem the ſtrong city.

21 And the king of Babel ſtood at the [k] parting of the way, at the head of the two ways, conſulting by divination, and made his arrows bright: he conſulted with idols, and looked into the [l] liver.

22 At his right hand was the divination for Jeruſalem to appoint captains, to open their mouth in the ſlaughter, and to lift up their voice with ſhouting, to lay engines of war againſt the gates, to caſt a mount, and to build a fortreſs. Bef. Chr. 593.

23 And it ſhall be unto them [m] as a falſe divination in their ſight, for the oaths made unto them: [n] but he will call to remembrance their iniquity, to the intent they ſhould be taken.

24 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ye have made your iniquity to be remembered, in diſcovering their rebellion, that in all your works your ſins might appear: becauſe, I ſay, that ye are come to remembrance, ye ſhall be taken with the hand.

25 And thou [o] prince of Iſrael polluted, and wicked, whoſe day is come, when iniquity ſhall have an end,

26 Thus ſaith the Lord God, I will take away the [p] diadem, and take off the crown: this ſhall be no more the ſame: I will exalt the humble, and will abaſe him that is high.

27 I will overturn, overturn, overturn it, and it ſhall be no more until he [q] come, whoſe right it is, and I will give it him.

28 ¶ And thou ſon of man, propheſy, and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blaſphemy: ſay thou, I ſay, The ſword, the ſword is drawn forth and furbiſhed to the ſlaughter, to conſume, becauſe of the glittering:

29 While they ſee [r] vanity unto thee, and propheſied a lye unto thee to bring thee upon the necks of the wicked that are ſlain, whoſe day is come when their iniquity ſhall have an end.

30 Shall I cauſe it to return into his ſheath? I will judge thee in the place where thou waſt created, even in the land of thine habitation.

31 And I will pour out mine indignation upon thee, and will blow againſt thee in the fire of my wrath, and deliver thee into the hand of beaſtly men, and ſkilful to deſtroy.

32 Thou ſhalt be in the fire to be devoured; thy blood ſhall be in the midſt of the land, and thou ſhalt be no more remembered: for I the Lord have ſpoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

[z] And ſo cauſe a fear.

[a] Meaning, the ſceptre: ſhewing that it will not ſpare the king, who ſhould be as the Son of God, and in his place.

[b] That is, the reſt of the people.

[c] To wit, unto the army of the Chaldeans.

[d] Read Jer. 31. 19.

[e] Ezekiel, moved with compaſſion, thus complaineth, fearing the deſtruction of the kingdom which God had confirmed to David, and his poſterity, by promiſe: which promiſe God performed, although here it ſeemed to man's eye that it ſhould utterly periſh.

[f] That is, encourage the ſword.

[g] Provide for thyſelf: for thou ſhalt ſee God's plague of all parts on this country.

[h] This was ſpoken, becauſe that when Nebuchadnezzar came againſt Judah, his purpoſe was alſo to go againſt the Ammonites: but doubting in the way which enterpriſe to undertake firſt, he conſulted with his ſoothſayers, and ſo went againſt Judah.

[i] That is, to the tribe of Judah that kept themſelves in Jeruſalem.

[k] To know whether he ſhould go againſt the Ammonites, or them of Jeruſalem.

[l] He uſed conjuring and ſorcery.

[m] Becauſe there was a league between the Jews and the Babylonians, they of Jeruſalem ſhall think nothing leſs than that this thing ſhould come to paſs.

[n] That is, Nebuchadnezzar will remember the rebellion of Zedekiah, and ſo come upon them.

[o] Meaning, Zedekiah, who practiſed with the Egyptians to make him high, and able to reſiſt the Babylonians.

[p] Some refer this to the prieſt's attire: for Jehozadek the prieſt went into captivity with the king.

[q] That is, unto the coming of Meſſiah: for though the Jews had ſome ſign of government afterward under the Perſians, Greeks and Romans, yet this reſtitution was not till Chriſt's coming, and at length ſhould be accompliſhed, as was promiſed, Gen. 49. 10.

[r] Though the Jews and Ammonites would not believe that thou, to wit, the ſword, ſhouldeſt come upon them, and ſaid that the prophets which threatened ſpake lies, yet thou ſhalt as ſurely come, as though thou werdſt already upon their necks.

Bef. Chr. 593.

MOreover the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Now thou ſon of man, wilt thou [s] judge, wilt thou judge this bloody city? wilt thou ſhew her all her abominations?

3 Then ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, The city ſheddeth blood in the midſt of it, that her [t] time may come, and maketh idols [u] againſt herſelf to pollute herſelf.

4 Thou haſt offended in thy blood that thou haſt ſhed, and haſt polluted thyſelf in thine idols which thou haſt made, and thou haſt cauſed thy days to draw near, and art come unto thy term: therefore have I made thee a reproach to the heathen, and a mocking to all countries.

5 Thoſe that be near, and thoſe that be far from thee, ſhall mock thee, which art vile in [w] name, and ſore in affliction.

6 Behold, the princes of Iſrael, every one in thee was ready to his power to ſhed blood.

7 In thee have they deſpiſed father and mother: in the midſt of thee [x] have they oppreſſed the ſtranger: in thee have they vexed the fatherleſs and the widow.

8 Thou haſt deſpiſed mine holy things, and haſt polluted my ſabbaths.

9 In thee are men that carry tales to ſhed blood: in thee are they that eat upon the mountains: in the midſt of thee they commit abomination.

* Lev. 20. 11. 18. 10 * In thee have they diſcovered their father's ſhame: in thee have they vexed her that was polluted in her flowers.

* Jer. 5. 8. 11 And every one * hath committed abomination with his neighbour's wife, and every one hath wickedly defiled his daughter-in-law, and in thee hath every man forced his own ſiſter, even his father's daughter.

12 In thee have they taken gifts to ſhed blood: thou haſt taken uſury and the increaſe, and thou haſt defrauded thy neighbour by extortion, and haſt forgotten me, ſaith the Lord God.

13 Behold, therefore I have [y] ſmitten mine hands upon thy covetouſneſs that thou haſt uſed, and upon the blood which hath been in the midſt of thee.

14 Can thine heart endure, or can thine hand [z] be ſtrong, in the days that I ſhall have to do with thee? I the Lord have ſpoken it, and will do it.

15 And I will ſcatter thee among the heathen, and diſperſe thee in the countries, and will cauſe thy [a] filthineſs to ceaſe from thee.

16 And thou ſhalt take thine [b] inheritance in thyſelf in the ſight of the heathen, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

18 Son of man, the houſe of Iſrael is unto me as [c] droſs: all they are braſs, and tin, and iron, and lead, in the midſt of the furnace: they are even the droſs of ſilver.

19 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ye are as droſs, behold, therefore, I will gather you in the midſt of Jeruſalem.

20 As they gather ſilver and braſs, and iron, and lead, and tin into the midſt of the furnace, to blow the fire upon it to melt it, ſo will I gather you in mine anger and in my wrath, and I will put you there, [d] and melt you.

21 I will gather you, I ſay, and blow the fire of my wrath upon you, and you ſhall be melted in the midſt thereof.

22 As ſilver is melted in the midſt of the furnace, ſo ſhall ye be melted in the midſt thereof, and ye ſhall know that I the Lord have poured out my wrath upon you.

23 And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

24 Son of man, ſay unto her, Thou art the land that is unclean, [e] and not rained upon in the day of wrath.

25 There is a conſpiracy [f] of her prophets in the midſt thereof, like a roaring lion, ravening the prey: they have devoured ſouls: they have taken the rich and precious things: they have made her many widows in the midſt thereof.

26 Her prieſts have broken my law, and have defiled mine holy things: they have put no difference between the holy and prophane, neither diſcerned between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their [g] eyes from my ſabbath, and I am profaned among them.

27 Her princes in * the midſt thereof are like wolves, ravening the prey to ſhed blood, and to deſtroy ſouls for their own covetous lucre. * Micah 3. 11. Zeph. 3. 3.

28 And her [h] prophets have daubed them with untempered morter, ſeeing vanities, and divining lyes unto them, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord God, when the Lord hath not ſpoken.

29 The people of the land have violently oppreſſed by ſpoiling and robbing, and have vexed the poor and the needy: yea, they have oppreſſed the ſtranger againſt right.

30 And I ſought for a man among them, that ſhould [i] make up the hedge, and ſtand in the gap before me for the land, that I ſhould not deſtroy it, but I found none.

31 Therefore have I poured out mine indignation upon them, and conſumed them with the fire of my wrath: their own ways have I rendered upon their heads, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIII.

Of the idolatry of Samaria and Jeruſalem, under the names of Aholah and Aholibah.

[s] Art thou ready to execute thy charge which I commit unto thee againſt Jeruſalem, that murdered the prophets, and them that are godly?

[t] That is, the time of her deſtruction.

[u] To her own undoing.

[w] Whoſe very name all men hate.

[x] He meaneth hereby that there was no kind of wickedneſs which was not committed in Jeruſalem, and therefore the plagues of God ſhould ſpeedily come upon her.

[y] In token of my wrath and vengeance.

[z] That is, able to defend thyſelf.

[a] I will thus take away the occaſion of thy wickedneſs.

[b] Thou ſhalt be no more the inheritance of the Lord, but forſaken.

[c] Which before was moſt precious.

[d] Meaning hereby, that the godly ſhould be tried, and the wicked deſtroyed.

[e] Thou art like a barren land, which the Lord plagueth with drought.

[f] The falſe prophets have conſpired together to make their doctrine more probable.

[g] They have neglected my ſervice.

[h] They which ſhould have reproved them, flattered them in their vices, and covered their doings with lyes, ch. 13. 10.

[i] Which would ſhew himſelf zealous in my cauſe by reſiſting vice, Iſa. 59. 16. and 63. 5. and alſo pray unto me to with-hold my plagues, Pſalm 106. 23.

Bef. Chr. 593. THE word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, there were two woman, the daughters of one [k] mother.

3 And they committed fornication [l] in Egypt, they committed fornication in their youth: there were their breaſts preſſed, and there they bruiſed the teats of their virginity.

4 And the names of [m] them were Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her ſiſter: and they were mine, and they bare ſons and daughters: thus were their names, Samaria is Aholah, and Jeruſalem Aholibah.

† Heb. und e. 5 And Aholah played the harlot ‡ when [n] ſhe was mine, and ſhe was ſet on fire with her lovers, to wit, with the Aſſyrians her neighbours,

6 Which were cloathed with blue ſilk, both captains and princes: they were all pleaſant young men, and horſemen riding upon horſes.

7 Thus ſhe committed her whoredom with them, even with all them that were the choſen men of Aſſhur, and with all on whom ſhe doted, and defiled herſelf with all their idols.

8 Neither left ſhe her fornications, learned of the Egyptians: for in her youth they [o] lay with her, and they bruiſed the breaſts of her virginity, and poured their whoredom upon her.

9 Wherefore I delivered her into the hands of her lovers, even into the hands of the Aſſyrians, upon whom ſhe doted.

10 Theſe diſcovered her ſhame: they took away her ſons and her daughters, and ſlew her with the ſword, and ſhe had an evil name among women: for [p] they had executed judgment upon her.

11 And when her ſiſter Aholibah ſaw this, ſhe marred herſelf with inordinate love more than ſhe, and with her fornications more than her ſiſter with her fornications.

12 She doted upon the Aſſyrians her neighbours, both captains and princes clothed with divers ſuits, horſemen riding upon horſes: they were all pleaſant young men.

13 Then I ſaw that ſhe was defiled, and that they were both after one ſort,

14 And that ſhe increaſed her fornications: for when ſhe ſaw men [q] painted upon the wall, the images of the Chaldeans painted with vermilion,

15 And girded with girdles upon their loins, and with dyed attire upon their heads (looking all like princes after the manner of the Babylonians in Chaldea, the land of their nativity)

16 As ſoon, I ſay, as ſhe ſaw them, ſhe doted upon them, and ſent meſſengers unto them into Chaldea.

17 Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of love, they defiled her with their fornication, and ſhe was polluted with them, and her luſt departed from them. Bef. Chr. 593.

18 So ſhe diſcovered her fornication, and diſcloſed her ſhame: then mine heart forſook her, like as mine heart had forſaken her ſiſter.

19 Yet ſhe increaſed her whoredom more, and called to remembrance the days of her youth, wherein ſhe had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For ſhe doted upon their ſervants, whoſe members are as the members of aſſes, and whoſe iſſue is like the iſſue of horſes.

21 Thou calledſt to remembrance the wickedneſs of thy youth, when thy teats were bruiſed by the Egyptians: therefore the paps of thy youth are thus.

22 Therefore, O Aholibah, thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will raiſe up thy lovers againſt thee, from whom thine heart is departed, and I will bring them againſt thee on every ſide,

23 To wit, the Babylonians, and all the Chaldeans, [r] Peked, and Shoah, and Koa, and all the Aſſyrians with them: they were all pleaſant young men, captains and princes: all they were valiant and renowned, riding upon horſes.

24 Even theſe ſhall come againſt thee with chariots, waggons, and wheels, and with a multitude of people, which ſhall ſet againſt thee buckler and ſhield, and helmet round about: and † I will leave the puniſhment unto them, and they ſhall judge thee according to their ‡ judgments. † Heb. I will give judgment before them. ‡ Or, laws.

25 And I will lay mine indignation upon thee, and they ſhall deal cruelly with thee: they ſhall cut off thy [s] noſe and thine ears, and thy remnant ſhall fall by the ſword: they ſhall carry away thy ſons and thy daughters, and thy reſidue ſhall be devoured by the fire.

26 They ſhall alſo ſtrip thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy fair jewels.

27 Thus will I make thy wickedneſs to ceaſe from thee, and thy fornication out of the land of Egypt: ſo that thou ſhalt not lift up thine eyes unto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will deliver thee into the hand of them whom thou hateſt: even into the hands of them from whom thine heart is departed.

29 And they ſhall handle thee deſpitefully, and ſhall take away all thy [t] labour, and ſhall leave thee naked and bare, and the ſhame of thy fornications [u] ſhall be diſcovered, both thy wickedneſs, and thy whoredom.

30 I will do theſe things unto thee, becauſe thou haſt gone a whoring after the heathen, and becauſe thou art polluted with their idols.

31 Thou haſt walked in the way of thy ſiſter: therefore will I give her [w] cup into thine hand.

32 Thus

[k] Meaning, Iſrael and Judah, which came both out of one family.

[l] They became idolaters, after the manner of the Egyptians.

[m] Aholah, ſignifieth a manſion or dwelling in herſelf, meaning, Samaria, which was the royal city of Iſrael: and Aholibah ſignifieth my manſion in her, whereby is meant Jeruſalem, where God's temple was.

[n] When the Iſraelites were named, the people of God, they became idolaters, and forſook God, and put their truſt in the Aſſyrians.

[o] The Holy Ghoſt uſeth theſe terms, which ſeem ſtrange to chaſte ears, to cauſe this wicked vice of idolatry ſo as to be abhorred, that unneth any ſhould abide to hear the name thereof mentioned.

[p] Meaning, the Aſſyrians.

[q] This declareth, that no words are able ſufficiently to expreſs the rage of idolaters, and therefore the Holy Ghoſt here compareth them to thoſe which in their raging love and filthy luſts dote upon the images and paintings of them after whom they luſt.

[r] Theſe were the names of certain princes and captains under Nebuchadnezzar.

[s] They ſhall deſtroy thy princes and prieſts, with the reſt of thy people.

[t] All thy treaſures and riches which thou haſt gotten by labour.

[u] All the world ſhall ſee thy ſhameful forſaking of God to ſerve idols.

[w] I will execute the ſame judgments and vengeance againſt thee, and that with greater ſeverity.

Bef. Chr. 593.

32 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Thou ſhalt drink of thy ſiſter's cup, deep and large: thou ſhalt be laughed to ſcorn and had in deriſion, becauſe it containeth much.

33 Thou ſhalt be filled with [x] drunkenneſs and ſorrow, even with the cup of deſtruction and deſolation, with the cup of thy ſiſter Samaria.

34 Thou ſhalt even drink it, and wring it out to the dregs, and thou ſhalt break the ſherds thereof, and tear thine own breaſts: for I have ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God.

35 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thou haſt forgotten me, and caſt me behind thy back, therefore thou ſhalt alſo bear thy wickedneſs and thy whoredom.

36 ¶ The Lord ſaid moreover unto me, Son of man, Wilt thou judge Aholah and Aholibah? and wilt thou declare to them their abominations?

37 For they have played the whores, and blood is in their hands, and with their idols have they committed adultery, and have alſo cauſed their ſons, whom they bare unto me, to paſs by the fire to be their [y] meat.

38 Moreover, thus have they done unto me: they have defiled my ſanctuary in the ſame day, and have profaned my ſabbaths.

39 For when they had ſlain their children to their idols, they came the ſame day into my ſanctuary to defile it: and lo, thus have they done in the midſt of mine houſe.

40 And how much more is it that they ſent for men to come from [z] far, unto whom a meſſenger was ſent, and lo, they came? for whom thou didſt waſh thyſelf, and paintedſt thine eyes, and deckedſt thee with ornaments,

41 And ſateſt [a] upon a coſtly bed, and table prepared before it, whereupon thou haſt ſet mine incenſe and mine oil.

42 And a voice of a multitude being at eaſe, was with her: and with the men to make the company great were brought men of [b] Saba from the wilderneſs, which put bracelets upon their hands, and beautiful crowns upon their heads.

43 Then I ſaid unto her, that was old in adulteries, Now ſhall ſhe and her fornications come to an end.

44 And they went in unto her as they go to a common harlot: ſo went they to Aholah and Aholibah the wicked women.

45 And the righteous men they ſhall judge them, after the manner of [c] harlots, and after the manner of murderers: for they are harlots, and blood is in their hands.

46 Wherefore thus ſaith the Lord God, I will bring a multitude upon them, and will give them unto the tumult, and to the ſpoil, 47 And the multitude ſhall ſtone them with ſtones, and cut them with their ſwords: they ſhall ſlay their ſons and their daughters, and burn up their houſes with fire.

Bef. Chr. 593.

48 Thus will I cauſe wickedneſs to ceaſe out of the land, that all [d] women may be taught not to do after your wickedneſs.

49 And they ſhall lay your wickedneſs upon you, and ye ſhall bear the ſins of your idols, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 He ſheweth the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by a parable of a ſeething-pot. 16 The parable of Ezekiel's wife being dead.

AGAIN in the [e] ninth year, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the [f] month, came the word of the Lord unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, write thee the name of the day, even of this ſame day: for the king of Babel ſet himſelf againſt Jeruſalem this ſame day.

3 Therefore ſpeak a parable unto the rebellious houſe, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Prepare a [g] pot, prepare it, and alſo pour water into it.

4 Gather the [h] pieces thereof into it, even every good piece, as the thigh and the ſhoulder, and fill it with the chief bones.

5 Take one of the beſt ſheep, and ‡ turn alſo the [i] bones under it, and make it boil well, and ſeethe the bones of it therein,

‡ Or, heap.

6 Becauſe the Lord God ſaith thus, Wo to the bloody city, even to the pot [k] whoſe ſcum is therein, and whoſe ſcum is not gone out of it: bring it out [l] piece by piece: let no [m] lot fall upon it.

7 For her blood is in the midſt of her: ſhe ſet it upon an high [n] rock, and poured it not upon the ground to cover it with duſt,

8 That it might cauſe wrath to ariſe and take vengeance: even I have ſet her blood upon an high rock, that it ſhould not be covered.

9 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, * Wo to the bloody city, for I will make ‡ the burning great.

* Nahum 3. 1. Hab. 2. 12.
‡ Or, an heap of wood.

10 Heap on much wood: [o] kindle the fire, conſume the fleſh, and caſt in ſpice, and let the bones be burnt.

11 Then ſet it empty upon the coals thereof, that ‡ the braſs of it may be hot, and may burn, and that the filthineſs of it may be molten in it, and that the ſcum of it may be conſumed.

‡ Or, bottom.

12 [p] She hath wearied herſelf with lyes, and her great ſcum went not out of her: therefore her ſcum ſhall be conſumed with fire.

13 Thou remaineſt in thy filthineſs and wickedneſs: becauſe I would [q] have purged thee, and thou waſt not purged, thou ſhalt not be purged from

---

[x] Meaning, that the afflictions ſhould be ſo great, that they ſhould cauſe them to loſe their ſenſes and reaſon.

[y] That is, to be ſacrifices to their idols, read ch. 16. 20.

[z] They ſent into other countries to have ſuch as ſhould teach the ſervice of their idols.

[a] He meaneth the altar that was prepared for the idols.

[b] Which ſhould teach the manner of worſhipping their gods.

[c] That is, worthy death, read chap. 16. 38.

[d] Meaning, all other cities and countries.

[e] Of Jeconiah's captivity, and of the reign of Zedekiah, 2 Kings 25. 1.

[f] Called Tebeth, which containeth part of December, and part of January, in the which month and day Nebuchadnezzar beſieged Jeruſalem.

[g] Whereby was meant Jeruſalem.

[h] That is, the citizens, and the chief men thereof.

[i] Meaning, of the innocents, whom they had ſlain, who were the cauſe of the kindling of God's wrath againſt them.

[k] Whoſe iniquities and wicked citizens there yet remain.

[l] Signifying, that they ſhould not be deſtroyed all at once, but by little and little.

[m] Spare no eſtate or condition.

[n] The city ſhewed her cruelty to all the world, and was not aſhamed thereof, neither yet hid it.

[o] Meaning, that the city ſhould be utterly deſtroyed, and that he would give the enemies an appetite thereunto.

[p] The city hath flattered herſelf in vain.

[q] I laboured by ſending my prophets to call thee to repentance, but thou wouldeſt not.

from thy filthineſs, till I have cauſed my wrath to light upon thee.

14 I the Lord have ſpoken it: it ſhall come to paſs, and I will do it: I will not go back, neither will I ſpare, neither will I repent: according to thy ways, and according to thy works ſhall [r] they judge thee, ſaith the Lord God.

15 ¶ Alſo the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

16 Son of man, behold, I take away from thee the [s] pleaſure of thine eyes with a plague: yet ſhalt thou neither mourn nor weep, neither ſhall thy tears run down.

17 Ceaſe from ſighing: make no mourning for the dead, and bind the tire of thine head upon thee, [t] and put on thy ſhoes upon thy feet, and cover not thy lips, and eat [u] not the bread of men.

18 So I ſpake unto the people in the morning, and at even my wife died: and I did in [w] the morning as I was commanded.

19 And the people ſaid unto me, Wilt thou not tell us what theſe things mean toward us, that thou doſt ſo?

20 Then I anſwered them, The word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying, 21 Speak unto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will [x] pollute my ſanctuary, even the [y] pride of your power, the pleaſure of your eyes, and your hearts deſire, and your ſons and your daughters whom ye have left ſhall fall by the ſword.

22 And ye ſhall do as I have done: ye ſhall not cover your lips, neither ſhall ye eat the bread of men.

23 And your tire ſhall be upon your heads, and your ſhoes upon your feet: ye ſhall not mourn nor weep, but ye ſhall pine away for your iniquities, and mourn one toward another.

24 Thus Ezekiel is unto you a ſign: according to all that he hath done, ye ſhall do: and when this cometh, ye ſhall know that I am the Lord God.

25 Alſo, thou ſon of man, ſhall it not be in the day when I take from them their power, the joy of their honour, the pleaſure of their eyes, and the † deſire of their heart, their ſons and their daughters,

26 That he that eſcapeth in that day, ſhall come unto thee to tell thee that which he hath heard with his ears?

27 In that day ſhall thy mouth be opened to him which is eſcaped, and thou ſhalt ſpeak, and be no more dumb, and thou ſhalt be a ſign unto them, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The word of the Lord againſt Ammon, which rejoiced at the fall of Jeruſalem. 8 Againſt Moab and Seir, Idumea, and the Philiſtines.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſet thy face againſt the Ammonites, and propheſy againſt them,

3 And ſay unto the Ammonites, Hear the word of the Lord God, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thou ſaidſt, [z] Ha, ha, againſt my ſanctuary, when it was polluted, and againſt the land of Iſrael when it was deſolate, and againſt the houſe of Judah when they went into captivity,

4 Behold, therefore I will deliver thee to the [a] men of the Eaſt for a poſſeſſion, and they ſhall ſet their [b] palaces in thee, and make their dwellings in thee: they ſhall eat thy fruit, and they ſhall drink thy milk.

5 And I will make [c] Rabbah a dwelling-place for camels, and the Ammonites a ſheep-cote, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

6 For thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe thou haſt clapped thy hands, and ſtamped with the feet, and rejoiceſt in heart with all thy deſpite againſt the land of Iſrael:

7 Behold, therefore, I will ſtretch out mine hand upon thee, and will deliver thee to be ſpoiled of the heathen, and I will root thee out from the people, and I will cauſe thee to be deſtroyed out of the countries, and I will deſtroy thee, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.

8 Thus ſaith the Lord God, becauſe that Moab and Seir do ſay, Behold, the houſe of Judah is like unto all the heathen,

9 Therefore behold, I will open the ſide of Moab, even of the cities [d] of his cities, I ſay, in his frontiers with the pleaſant country, Beth-jeſhimoth, Baal-meon, and Kiriathaim.

10 I will call the men of the Eaſt againſt the Ammonites, and will give them in poſſeſſion, ſo that the Ammonites ſhall no more be remembered among the nations.

11 And I will exerciſe judgment upon Moab, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

12 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe that Edom hath done evil by taking vengeance upon the houſe of Judah, and hath committed great offence, and revenged himſelf upon them,

13 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, I will alſo ſtretch out mine hand upon Edom, and deſtroy man and beaſt out of it, and I will make it deſolate from Teman, and they of Dedan ſhall fall by the ſword.

14 And I will execute my vengeance upon Edom by the hand of my people Iſrael, and they ſhall do in Edom according to mine anger, and according to mine indignation, and they ſhall know my vengeance, ſaith the Lord God.

15 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe the Philiſtines have executed vengeance, and revenged themſelves with a deſpiteful heart, to deſtroy it for the old hatred,

16 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will ſtretch out mine hand upon the Philiſtines, and I will cut off the [e] Cherethims, and deſtroy the remnant of the ſea-coaſt.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 He propheſieth that Tyrus ſhall be overthrown, becauſe it rejoiced at the deſtruction of Jeruſalem. 15 The wondering and aſtoniſhment of the merchants for the deſtruction of Tyrus.

AND in the [f] eleventh year, in the firſt day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, becauſe that Tyrus hath ſaid againſt Jeruſalem, Aha, the [g] gate of the people is broken: it is turned unto me: for ſeeing ſhe is deſolate, I ſhall be [h] repleniſhed:

3 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I come againſt thee, O Tyrus, and I will bring up many nations againſt thee, as the ſea mounteth up with his waves.

4 And they ſhall deſtroy the walls of Tyrus, and break down her towers: I will alſo ſcrape her duſt from her, and make her like the top of a rock.

5 Thou ſhalt be for the ſpreading of nets in the midſt of the ſea: for I have ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God, and it ſhall be a ſpoil to the nations.

6 And her [i] daughters which are in the fields, ſhall be ſlain by the ſword, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

7 For thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring upon Tyrus Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel, a king of kings from the North, with horſes, and with chariots, and with horſemen, with a multitude, and much people.

8 He ſhall ſlay with the ſword thy daughters in the field, and he ſhall make a fort againſt thee, and lift up the buckler againſt thee.

9 He ſhall ſet engines of war before him againſt thy walls, and with his weapons break down thy towers.

10 The duſt of his horſes ſhall cover thee, for their multitude: thy walls ſhall ſhake at the noiſe of the horſemen, and of the wheels, and of the chariots, when he ſhall enter into thy gates, as into the entry of a city that is broken down.

11 With the hoofs of his horſes ſhall he tread down all thy ſtreets: he ſhall ſlay thy people by the ſword, and the [k] pillars of thy ſtrength ſhall fall down to the ground.

12 And they ſhall rob thy riches, and ſpoil thy merchandize, and they ſhall break down thy walls, and deſtroy thy pleaſant houſes, and they ſhall caſt thy ſtones, and thy timber, and thy duſt into the midſt of the water.

* Jer. 7. 34. 13 * Thus will I cauſe the ſound of thy ſongs to ceaſe, and the ſound of thine harps ſhall be no more heard.

14 I will lay thee like the top of a rock: [l] thou ſhalt be for a ſpreading of nets: thou ſhalt be built no more: for I the Lord have ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God. Bef. Chr. 588.

15 Thus ſaith the Lord God to Tyrus, Shall not the iſles tremble at the ſound of thy fall: and at the cry of thy wounded, when they ſhall be ſlain and murdered in the midſt of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the [m] ſea ſhall come down from their thrones: they ſhall lay away their robes, and put off their broidered garments, and ſhall cloath themſelves with aſtoniſhment: they ſhall ſit upon the ground, and be aſtoniſhed at every moment, and be amazed at thee.

17 And they ſhall take up a lamentation for thee, and ſay to thee, How art thou deſtroyed, that waſt inhabited [n] of the ſea men, the renowned city, which was ſtrong in the ſea, both ſhe and her inhabitants, which cauſe their fear to be on all that haunt therein!

18 Now ſhall the iſles be aſtoniſhed in the day of thy fall: yea, the iſles that are in the ſea ſhall be troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus ſaith the Lord God, When I ſhall make thee a deſolate city, like the cities that are not inhabited, and when I ſhall bring the deep upon thee, and great waters ſhall cover thee,

20 When I ſhall caſt thee down with them that deſcend into the pit, with the people [o] of old time, and ſhall ſet thee in the low parts of the earth, like the old ruins, with them, I ſay, which go down to the pit, ſo that thou ſhalt not be inhabited, and I ſhall ſhew my glory in the land of the [p] living:

21 I will ‡ bring thee to nothing, and thou ſhalt be no more: though thou be ſought for, yet ſhalt thou never be found again, ſaith the Lord God. ‡ Or, make thee a terror.

16 And it ſhall be no more the confidence of the houſe of Iſrael, to bring their [a] iniquity to remembrance by looking after them, ſo ſhall they know that I am the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the [b] ſeven and twentieth year alſo, in the firſt month, and in the firſt day of the month, came the word of the Lord unto me, ſaying,

18 Son of man, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel cauſed his army to ſerve a great [c] ſervice againſt Tyrus: every head was made bald, and every ſhoulder was made bare: yet had he no wages, nor his [d] army for Tyrus, for the ſervice that he ſerved againſt it.

The deſtruction of Egypt, and the cities thereof.

THE word of the Lord came again unto me, ſaying,

‡ Or, Heliopolis.

‡ Or, Pubaſtum.

18 At Tehaphnehes the day [g] ſhall reſtrain his light, when I ſhall break there the [h] bars of Egypt: and when the pomp of her power ſhall ceaſe in her, the cloud ſhall cover her, and her daughters ſhall go into captivity,

19 Thus will I execute judgments in Egypt, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

20 ¶ And in the [i] eleventh year, in the firſt month, and in the ſeventh day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

21 Son of man, [k] I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt: and lo, it ſhall not be bound up to be healed, neither ſhall they put a roll to bind it, and ſo make it ſtrong, to hold the ſword.

22 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I come againſt Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will break his [l] arm, that was ſtrong, but it is broken, and I will cauſe the ſword to fall out of his hand.

23 And I will ſcatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will diſperſe them through the countries.

24 And I will ſtrengthen the arm of the king of Babel, and put my ſword in his hand, but I will break Pharaoh's arms, and he ſhall caſt out ſighings, as the ſighings of him that is wounded before him.

25 But I will ſtrengthen the arms of the king of Babel, and the arms of Pharaoh ſhall fall down, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord [m] when I ſhall put my ſword into the hand of the king of Babel, and he ſhall ſtretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

26 And I will ſcatter the Egyptians among the nations, and diſperſe them among the countries, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXI.

A compariſon of the proſperity of Pharaoh, with the proſperity of the Aſſyrians. 10 He propheſieth a like deſtruction to them both.

Bef. Chr. 588.

AND in the [n] eleventh year, in the third month, and in the firſt day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſpeak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whom art thou [o] like in thy greatneſs?

3 Behold, Aſhur was like a cedar in Lebanon with fair branches, and with thick ſhadowing boughs, and ſhot up very high, and his top was among the thick boughs:

4 The waters nouriſhed him, and the deep exalted him on high with her rivers running round about his plants, and ſent out her [p] little rivers unto all the trees of the ‡ field.

‡ Or, country.

5 Therefore his height was exalted above all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches were long, becauſe of the multitude of the waters which the deep ſent out.

6 All the fowls of the heaven made their neſts in his boughs, and under his branches did all the beaſts of the field bring forth their young, and under his ſhadow dwelt all mighty nations.

7 Thus was he fair in his greatneſs, and in the length of his branches: for his root was near great waters.

8 The cedars in the garden [q] of God could not hide him: no fir-tree was like his branches, and the cheſnut-tree was not like his boughs: all the trees in the garden of God were not like unto him in his beauty.

9 I made him fair by the multitude of his branches: ſo that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, envied him.

10 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe ‡ he is lifted up on high, and hath ſhot up his top among the thick boughs, and his heart is lift up in his height:

‡ Or, thou waſt lift up.

11 I have therefore delivered him into the hands of the [r] mightieſt among the heathen: he ſhall handle him, for I have caſt him away for his wickedneſs.

12 And the ſtrangers have deſtroyed him, even the terrible nations, and they have left him upon the mountain, and in all the vallies his branches are fallen, and his boughs are [s] broken by all the rivers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his ſhadow, and have forſaken him.

13 Upon his ruin ſhall all the fowls of the heaven remain, and all the beaſts of the field ſhall be upon his branches,

14 So that none of all the trees by the waters ſhall be exalted by their height, neither ſhall ſhoot up their top among the thick boughs, neither ſhall their leaves ſtand up in their height which drink ſo much water: for they are all delivered unto death in the nether parts of the earth, in the midſt of the children of men, among them that go down to the pit.

15 Thus ſaith the Lord God, In the day when he went down to hell, I cauſed them to mourn,

---

[g] Meaning, that there ſhall be great ſorrow and affliction.

[h] That is, the ſtrength and force.

[i] Of the captivity of Jeconiah, or of Zedekiah's reign.

[k] For Nebuchadnezzar deſtroyed Pharaoh Necho at Carchemiſh, Jer. 46. 26.

[m] Whereby we ſee that tyrants have no power of themſelves, neither can do any more harm than God appointeth, and when he will they muſt ceaſe.

[n] Of Zedekiah's reign, or of Jeconiah's captivity.

[o] Meaning, that he was not like in ſtrength to the king of the Aſſyrians, whom the Babylonians overcame.

[p] Many other nations were under their dominion.

[q] Signifying, that there was no greater power in the world than his was.

[r] That is, of Nebuchadnezzar, who afterward was the monarch and only ruler of the world.

[s] Hereby is ſignified the deſtruction of the power of the Aſſyrians by the Babylonians.

mourn, and I [t] covered the deep for him, and I did reſtrain the floods thereof, and the great waters were ſtayed: I cauſed Lebanon to mourn for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

16 I made the nations to ſhake at the ſound of his fall, when I caſt him down to hell, with them that deſcend into the pit, and all the excellent trees of Eden, and the beſt of Lebanon: even all that are nouriſhed with waters, ſhall [u] be comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

17 They alſo went down to hell with him, unto them that be ſlain with the ſword, and his arm, and they that dwell under his ſhadow in the midſt of the heathen.

18 To whom [w] art thou thus like in glory and in greatneſs among the trees of Eden? yet thou ſhalt be caſt down with the trees of Eden, unto the nether parts of the earth: thou ſhalt ſleep in the midſt of the [x] uncircumciſed, with them that be ſlain by the ſword: this is Pharaoh and all his multitude, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXII.

2 The prophet is commanded to bewail Pharaoh king of Egypt. 12 He propheſieth that deſtruction ſhall come unto Egypt through the king of Babylon.

AND in the [y] twelfth year, in the twelfth month, and in the firſt day of the month, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, take up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and ſay unto him, Thou art like a [z] lion of the nations, and art as
‡Or, whale. a ‡ dragon in the ſea: thou caſtedſt out thy rivers, [a] and troubledſt the waters with thy feet, and ſtampedſt in their rivers.

*Ch. 12. 13. and 17. 20. 3 Thus ſaith the Lord God, * I will therefore ſpread my net over thee with a great multitude of people, and they ſhall make thee to come up into my net.

4 Then will I leave thee upon the land, and I will caſt thee upon the open field, and I will cauſe all the fowls of the heaven to remain upon thee, and I will fill all the beaſts of the field with thee.

5 And I will lay thy fleſh upon the mountains, and fill the vallies [b] with thine height.

6 I will alſo water with thy blood the land wherein thou [c] ſwimmeſt, even to the mountains, and the rivers ſhall be full of thee.

7 And when I ſhall [d] put thee out, I will cover the heaven, and make the ſtars thereof
*Iſa. 13. 10, Joel 2. 31. and 3. 15. Matt. 24. 29. dark: * I will cover the ſun with a cloud, and the moon ſhall not give her light.

8 All the lights of heaven will I make dark for thee, and bring [e] darkneſs upon thy land, ſaith the Lord God.

9 I will alſo trouble the hearts of many people, when I ſhall bring thy deſtruction among the nations, and upon the countries which thou haſt not known.

10 Yea, I will make many people amazed at thee, and their kings ſhall be aſtoniſhed with fear for thee, when I ſhall make my ſword to glitter againſt their faces, and they ſhall be afraid at every moment: every man for his own life in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus ſaith the Lord God, The ſword of the king of Babel ſhall come upon thee.

12 By the ſwords of the mighty will I cauſe thy multitude to fall: they all ſhall be terrible nations, and they ſhall deſtroy the [f] pomp of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof ſhall be conſumed.

13 I will deſtroy alſo all the beaſts thereof from the great water ſides, neither ſhall the foot of man trouble them any more, nor the hoofs of beaſts trouble them.

14 Then will I make [g] their waters deep, and cauſe their rivers to run like oil, ſaith the Lord God.

15 When I ſhall make the land of Egypt deſolate, and the country, with all that is therein, ſhall be laid waſte: when I ſhall ſmite all them which dwell therein, then ſhall they know that I am the Lord.

16 This is the mourning wherewith they ſhall lament her: the daughters of the nations ſhall lament her: they ſhall lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, ſaith the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the twelfth year alſo, in the fifteenth day of the month, came the word of the Lord unto me, ſaying,

18 Son of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and [h] caſt them down, even them and the daughters of the mighty nations, unto the nether parts of the earth, with them that go down into the pit.

19 Whom doſt thou paſs [i] in beauty? go down and ſleep with the uncircumciſed.

20 They ſhall fall in the midſt of them that are ſlain by the ſword: [k] ſhe is delivered to the ſword: draw her down, and all her multitude.

21 The moſt mighty and ſtrong ſhall ſpeak to [l] him out of the midſt of hell with them that help her: they are gone down and ſleep with the uncircumciſed that be ſlain with the ſword.

22 Aſhur is there and all her company: their graves are about him: all they are ſlain and fallen by the ſword.

23 Whoſe graves are made in the ſide of the pit, and his multitude are round about his grave: all they are ſlain and fallen by the ſword, which cauſed fear to be in the land of the living.

24 There

[t] The deep waters that cauſed him to mount ſo high (meaning his great abundance and pomp) ſhall now lament as though they were covered with ſackcloth.

[u] To cauſe this deſtruction of the king of Aſſyria to ſeem more horrible, he ſetteth forth other kings and princes which are dead, as though they rejoiced at the fall of ſuch a tyrant.

[w] Meaning, that Pharaoh's power was nothing ſo great as his was.

[x] Read chap. 28. 10.

[y] Which was the firſt year of the general captivity under Zedekiah.

[z] Thus the ſcriptures compare tyrants to cruel and huge beaſts, which devour all that be weaker than they, and ſuch as they may overcome.

[a] Thou preparedſt great armies.

[b] With heaps of the carcaſes of thine army.

[c] As Nilus overflowed Egypt, ſo will I make the blood of thine hoſts to overflow it.

[d] The word ſignifieth, to be put out as a candle is put out.

[e] By this manner of ſpeech is meant the great ſorrow that ſhall be for the ſlaughter of the king and his people.

[f] This came to paſs in leſs than four years after this prophecy.

[g] To wit, of the Chaldeans thine enemies, which ſhall quietly enjoy all thy commodities.

[h] That is, propheſy that they ſhall be caſt down: thus the Lord giveth his prophets power both to plant and to deſtroy by his word, read Jer. 1. 10.

[i] Have not other kingdoms, more beautiful than thou, periſhed?

[k] That is, Egypt.

[l] To make the matter more ſenſible, he bringeth in Pharaoh, whom the dead ſhall meet and marvel at him, read Iſa. 14. 9.

Bef. Chr. 587.

24 There is [m] Elam and all his multitude round about his grave: all they are ſlain and fallen by the ſword which are gone down with the uncircumciſed into the nether parts of the earth, which cauſed themſelves to be feared in the land of the [n] living, yet have they borne their ſhame with them that are gone down to the pit.

25 They have made his bed in the midſt of the ſlain with all his multitude: their graves are round about him: all theſe uncircumciſed are ſlain by the ſword: though they have cauſed their fear in the land of the living, yet have they borne their ſhame with them that go down to the pit: they are laid in the midſt of them that be ſlain.

26 There is [o] Meſhech, Tubal, and all their multitude, their graves are round about them: all theſe uncircumciſed were ſlain by the ſword, though they cauſed their fear to be in the land of the living.

27 And they ſhall not lie with the valiant [p] of the uncircumciſed that are fallen, which are gone down to the grave, with their weapons of war, and have laid their ſwords under their heads, but their iniquity ſhall be upon their bones: becauſe they were the fear of the mighty in the land of the living.

28 Yea, thou ſhalt be broken in the midſt of the uncircumciſed, and lie with them that are ſlain with the ſword.

29 There is Edom, his kings, and all his princes, which with their ſtrength are laid by them that were ſlain by the ſwords: they ſhall ſleep with the uncircumciſed, and with them that go down to the pit.

30 There be all the princes of the [q] North, with all the Zidonians, which are gone down with the ſlain, with their fear: they are aſhamed of their ſtrength, and the uncircumciſed ſleep with them that be ſlain by the ſword, and bear their ſhame with them that go down to the pit.

31 Pharaoh ſhall ſee them, and he ſhall be [r] comforted over all his multitude: Pharaoh, and all his army ſhall be ſlain by the ſword, ſaith the Lord God.

32 For I have cauſed my [s] fear to be in the land of the living: and he ſhall be laid in the midſt of the uncircumciſed, with them that are ſlain by the ſword, even Pharaoh and all his multitude, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXIII.

2 The office of the governors and miniſters. 14 He ſtrengtheneth them that deſpair, and boldeneth them with the promiſe of mercy. 30 The word of the Lord againſt the mockers of the prophet.

AGAIN, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſpeak to the children of thy people, and ſay unto them, When I bring the ſword upon a land, if the people of the land take a man ‡ from among them, and make him their [t] watchman, Bef. Chr. 587. ‡ Or, of their coaſts.

3 If when he ſeeth the ſword come upon the land, he blow the trumpet, and warn the people,

4 Then he that heareth the ſound of the trumpet, and will not be warned, if the ſword come, and take him away, his blood ſhall be upon his own head.

5 For he heard the ſound of the trumpet, and would not be admoniſhed: therefore his blood ſhall be upon him: but he that receiveth warning, ſhall ſave his life.

6 But if the watchman ſee the ſword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned: if the ſword come, and take any perſon from among them, he is taken away for his [u] iniquity, but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand.

7 * So thou, O ſon of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the houſe of Iſrael: therefore thou ſhalt hear the word at my [w] mouth, and admoniſh them from me. * Ch. 3. 17.

8 When I ſhall ſay unto the wicked, O wicked man, thou ſhalt die the death: if thou doeſt not ſpeak, and admoniſh the wicked of his way, that wicked man ſhall die for his iniquity, but his blood will I [x] require at thine hand.

9 Nevertheleſs, if thou warn the wicked of his way, to turn from it, if he do not turn from his way, he ſhall die for his iniquity, but thou haſt delivered thy ſoul.

10 Therefore, O thou ſon of man, ſpeak unto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ye ſpeak and ſay, If our tranſgreſſions and our ſins be upon us, and we are conſumed becauſe of them, [y] how ſhould we then live?

11 Say unto them, As I live, ſaith the Lord God, [z] I deſire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn you, turn you, from your evil ways, for why will ye die, O ye houſe of Iſrael?

12 Therefore thou ſon of man, ſay unto the children of thy people, [a] The righteouſneſs of the righteous ſhall not deliver him in the day of his tranſgreſſion, nor the wickedneſs of the wicked ſhall cauſe him to fall therein, in the day that he returneth from his wickedneſs, neither ſhall the righteous live for his righteouſneſs in the day that he ſinneth.

13 When I ſhall ſay unto the righteous, that he ſhall ſurely live, if he truſt to his own righteouſneſs, and commit iniquity, all his righteouſneſs ſhall be no more remembered, but for his iniquity that he hath committed, he ſhall die for the ſame.

14 Again, when I ſhall ſay unto the wicked, Thou

ſhalt

---

[m] Meaning, the Perſians.

[n] Whom in this life all the world feared.

[o] That is, the Cappadocians and Italians, or Spaniards, as Joſephus writeth.

[p] Which died not by cruel death, but by the courſe of nature, and are honourably buried with their coat-armour, and ſigns of honour.

[q] The kings of Babylon.

[r] As the wicked rejoice when they ſee others partakers of their miſeries.

[s] I will make the Egyptians afraid of me, as they cauſed others to fear them.

[t] He ſheweth, that the people ought to have continually governors and teachers which may have a care over them, and to warn them ever of the dangers which are at hand.

[u] Signifying, that the wicked ſhall not eſcape puniſhment, though the watchmen be negligent; but if the watchman blow the trumpet, and then he will not obey, he ſhall deſerve double puniſhment.

[w] Which teacheth that he that receiveth not his charge at the Lord's mouth, is a ſpy, and not a true watchman.

[x] The watchman muſt anſwer for the blood of all that periſh through his negligence.

[y] Thus the wicked, when they hear God's judgments for their ſins, deſpair of his mercies, and murmur.

[z] Read chap. 18. 23.

[a] Read of this righteouſneſs, chap. 18. 22, 24.

Bef. Chr. 587. ſhalt die the death, if he turn from his ſin and do that which is lawful and [b] right.

15 To wit, if the wicked reſtore the pledge, and give again that he had robbed, and walk in the ſtatutes of life, without committing iniquity, he ſhall ſurely live, and not die.

16 None of his ſins that he hath committed, ſhall be mentioned unto him: becauſe he hath done that which is lawful and right, he ſhall ſurely live.

* Ch. 18. 25. 17 Yet the children of thy people ſay, * The way of the Lord is not equal: but their own way is equal.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteouſneſs, and committeth iniquity, he ſhall even die thereby.

19 But if the wicked return from his wickedneſs, and do that which is lawful and right, he ſhall live thereby.

20 Yet ye ſay, The word of the Lord is not equal. O ye houſe of Iſrael, I will judge you every one after his ways.

21 Alſo in the twelfth year of [c] our captivity, in the tenth month, and in the fifth day of the month, one that had eſcaped out of Jeruſalem came unto me, and ſaid, The city is ſmitten.

22 Now the [d] hand of Lord had been upon me in the evening afore he that had eſcaped came, and had opened my mouth, until he came to me in the morning, and when he had opened my [e] mouth, I was no more dumb.

23 Again, the word of the Lord came unto me, and ſaid,

24 Son of man, theſe that dwell in the deſolate places of the land of Iſrael, talk and ſay, [f] Abraham was but one, and he poſſeſſed the land: but we are many, therefore the land ſhall be given us in poſſeſſion.

25 Wherefore ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Ye eat with the [g] blood, and lift up your eyes toward your idols, and ſhed blood: ſhould ye then poſſeſs the land?

26 Ye lean upon your [h] ſwords: ye work abomination, and ye defile every one his neighbour's wife: ſhould ye then poſſeſs the land?

27 Say thus unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, As I live, ſo ſurely they that are in the deſolate places ſhall fall by the ſword: and him that is in the open field, will I give unto the beaſts to be devoured: and they that be in the forts and in the caves, ſhall die of the peſtilence.

28 For I will lay the land deſolate and waſte, and the * pomp of her ſtrength ſhall ceaſe: and the mountains of Iſrael ſhall be deſolate, and none ſhall paſs through.

* Ch. 7. 24. and 24. 21. and 30. 6, 7.

29 Then ſhall they know that I am the Lord, when I have laid the land deſolate and waſte, becauſe of all their abominations that they have committed.

30 Alſo thou ſon of man, the children of thy people that [i] talk of thee by the walls and in the doors of houſes; and ſpeak one to another, every one to his brother, ſaying, Come, I pray you, and hear what is the word that cometh from the Lord. Bef. Chr. 587.

31 For they come unto thee, as the people uſeth to come: and my people ſit before thee and hear thy words, but they will not do them: for with their mouths they make [k] jeſts, and their heart goeth after their covetouſneſs.

32 And lo, thou art unto them as a ‡ jeſting ſong of one that hath a pleaſant voice, and can ſing well, for they hear thy words, but do them not.

‡ Or, pleaſant, and love ſong.

33 And when this cometh to paſs (for lo, it will come) then ſhall they know that a prophet hath been among them.

CHAP. XXXIV.

2 Againſt the ſhepherds that deſpiſe the flock of Chriſt, and ſeek their own gain. 7 The Lord ſaith that he will viſit his diſperſed flock, and gather them together. 23 He promiſeth the true ſhepherd Chriſt, and with him peace.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, propheſy againſt the ſhepherds of Iſrael, propheſy and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God unto the ſhepherds, * Wo be unto the [l] ſhepherds of Iſrael, that feed themſelves: ſhould not the ſhepherds feed the flocks?

* Jer. 23. 1.

3 Ye eat the [m] fat, and ye cloath you with the wool: ye kill them that are fed, but ye feed not the ſheep.

4 The [n] weak have ye not ſtrengthened, the ſick have ye not healed, neither have ye bound up the broken, nor brought again that which was driven away, neither have ye ſought that which was loſt: but with cruelty, and with rigour have ye ruled them.

5 And they were ſcattered without a ſhepherd: and when they were diſperſed, they were [o] devoured of all the beaſts of the field.

6 My ſheep wandered through all the mountains, and upon every high hill: yea, my flock was ſcattered through all the earth, and none did ſeek or ſearch after them.

7 Therefore ye ſhepherds, hear the word of the Lord.

8 As I live, ſaith the Lord God, ſurely becauſe my flock was ſpoiled, and my ſheep were devoured of all the beaſts of the field: having no ſhepherd, neither did my ſhepherds ſeek my ſheep, but the ſhepherds fed themſelves and fed not my ſheep,

9 Therefore, hear ye the word of the Lord, O ye ſhepherds.

---

[b] Hereby he condemneth all them of hypocriſy, which pretend to forſake wickedneſs, and yet declare not themſelves ſuch by their fruits, that is, in obeying God's commandments, and by godly life.

[c] When the prophet was led away captive with Jeconiah.

[d] I was endued with the ſpirit of prophecy, chap. 8. 2.

[e] Whereby is ſignified, that the miniſters of God cannot ſpeak till God give them courage, and open their mouths, chap. 24. 27. and 29. 21. Eph. 6. 19.

[f] Thus the wicked think themſelves more worthy to enjoy God's promiſe than the ſaints of God, to whom they were made: and would bind God to be ſubject to them, though they would not be bound to him.

[g] Contrary to the law, Lev. 17. 14.

[h] As they that are ready ſtill to ſhed blood.

[i] In deriſion.

[k] This declareth, that we ought to hear God's word with ſuch zeal and affection, that we ſhould in all points obey it: elſe we abuſe the word to our own condemnation, and make of his miniſters as though they were jeſts to ſerve men's fooliſh fancies.

[l] By the ſhepherds he meaneth the king, the magiſtrates, prieſts, and prophets.

[m] Ye ſeek to enrich yourſelves by their commodities, and ſo ſpoil their riches and ſubſtance.

[n] He deſcribeth the office and duty of a good paſtor: who ought to love and ſuccour his flock, and not to be cruel toward them.

[o] For lack of good government and doctrine they periſhed.

10 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I come againſt the ſhepherds, and will require my ſheep at their hands, and cauſe them to ceaſe from feeding the ſheep: neither ſhall the ſhepherds feed themſelves any more: for I will deliver my ſheep from [p] their mouths, and they ſhall no more devour them.

11 For thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will ſearch my ſheep and ſeek them out.

12 As a ſhepherd ſearcheth out his flock, when he hath been among his ſheep that are ſcattered, ſo will I ſeek out my ſheep, and will deliver them out of all places where they have been ſcattered in [q] the cloudy and dark day.

13 And I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their own land, and feed them upon the mountains of Iſrael, by the rivers, and in all the inhabited places of the country.

14 I will feed them in a good paſture, and upon the high mountains of Iſrael ſhall their fold be: there ſhall they lie in a good fold, and in fat paſture ſhall they feed upon the mountains of Iſrael.

15 I will feed my ſheep, and bring them to their reſt, ſaith the Lord God.

16 I will ſeek that which was loſt, and bring again that which was driven away, and will bind up that which was broken, and will ſtrengthen the weak: but I will deſtroy the fat and the [r] ſtrong, and I will feed them with [s] judgment.

17 Alſo you my ſheep, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I judge between ſheep and ſheep, between the rams and the goats.

18 Seemeth it a ſmall thing unto you to have eaten up the good [t] paſture, but ye muſt tread down with your feet the reſidue of your paſture? and to have drunk of the great waters, but ye muſt trouble the reſidue with your feet?

19 And my ſheep eat that which ye have trodden with your feet: and drink that which ye have troubled with your feet.

20 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God unto them, Behold, I, even I will judge between the fat ſheep and the lean ſheep.

21 Becauſe ye have thruſt with ſide and with ſhoulder, and puſhed all the weak with your horns, till ye have ſcattered them abroad,

22 Therefore will I help my ſheep, and they ſhall no more be ſpoiled, and I will judge between ſheep and ſheep.

23 And I will ſet up a ſhepherd over them, and he ſhall feed them, even my ſervant [u] David, he ſhall feed them, and he ſhall be their ſhepherd.

24 And I the Lord will be their God, and my ſervant David ſhall be the prince among them. I the Lord have ſpoken it.

25 And I will make with them a covenant of peace, and will cauſe the evil beaſts to ceaſe out of the land: and they ſhall [x] dwell ſafely in the wilderneſs, and ſleep in the woods.

26 And I will ſet them as a bleſſing even round about my mountain; and I will cauſe rain to come down in due ſeaſon, and there ſhall be rain of bleſſing.

27 And the [y] tree of the field ſhall yield her fruit, and the earth ſhall give her fruit, and they ſhall be ſafe in the land, and ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I have broken the cords of their yoke, and delivered them out of the hands of thoſe that ſerved themſelves of them.

28 And they ſhall no more be ſpoiled of the heathen, neither ſhall the beaſts of the land devour them, but they ſhall dwell ſafely, and none ſhall make them afraid.

29 And I will raiſe up for them [z] a plant of renown: and they ſhall be no more conſumed with hunger in the land, neither bear the reproach of the heathen any more.

30 Thus ſhall they underſtand that I the Lord their God am with them, and that they, even the houſe of Iſrael, are my people, ſaith the Lord God.

31 And ye my ſheep, the ſheep of my paſture, are men, and I am your God, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXV.

2 The deſtruction that ſhall come on mount Seir, becauſe they troubled the people of the Lord.

MOREOVER the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſet thy face againſt mount [a] Seir, and propheſy againſt it.

3 And ſay unto it, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, O mount Seir, I come againſt thee, and I will ſtretch out mine hand againſt thee, and will make thee deſolate and waſte.

4 I will lay thy cities waſte, and thou ſhalt be deſolate, and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.

5 Becauſe thou haſt had a perpetual hatred, and haſt put the children of Iſrael to flight by the force of the ſword in the time of their calamity, when their [b] iniquity had an end.

6 Therefore as I live, ſaith the Lord God, I will prepare thee unto blood, and blood ſhall purſue thee: except thou [c] hate blood, even blood ſhall purſue thee.

7 Thus will I make mount Seir deſolate and waſte, and cut off from it him that paſſeth out and him that returneth.

8 And I will fill his mountains with his ſlain men: in thine hills, and in thy vallies, and in all thy rivers ſhall they fall, that are ſlain with the ſword.

9 I will make thee perpetual deſolations, and thy

8 He promiſeth to deliver Iſrael from the Gentiles. 22 The benefits done unto the Jews, are to be aſcribed to the mercy of God, and not unto their deſervings. 26 God reneweth our hearts, that we may walk in his commandments.

* Ch. 6. 2. ALSO thou ſon of man, propheſy unto the * mountains of Iſrael, and ſay, Ye mountains of Iſrael, hear the word of the Lord.

2 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Becauſe the [i] enemy hath ſaid againſt you, Aha, even the [k] high places of the world are ours in poſſeſſion,

4 Therefore ye mountains of Iſrael, hear the word of the Lord God, Thus ſaith the Lord God to the mountains and to the hills, to the rivers and to the vallies, and to the waſte and deſolate places, and to the cities that are forſaken: which are ſpoiled and had in deriſion of the reſidue of the heathen that are round about:

5 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Surely, in the fire of mine indignation have I ſpoken againſt the reſidue of the heathen, and againſt all Idumea, which [m] have taken my land for their poſſeſſion, with the joy of all their heart, and with deſpiteful minds, to caſt it out for a prey. Bef. Chr. 587.

6 Propheſy therefore upon the land of Iſrael, and ſay unto the mountains, and to the hills, to the rivers and to the vallies, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I have ſpoken in mine indignation, and in my wrath, becauſe ye have ſuffered the [n] ſhame of the heathen.

7 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, I have [o] lifted up mine hand, ſurely the heathen that are about you ſhall bear their ſhame.

8 But you, O mountains of Iſrael, ye ſhall [p] ſhoot forth your branches, and bring forth your fruit to my people of Iſrael: for they are ready to come.

9 For behold, I come unto you, and I will turn unto you, and ye ſhall be tilled and ſown.

10 And I will multiply the men upon you, even all the houſe of Iſrael wholly, and the cities ſhall be inhabited, and the deſolate places ſhall be builded.

11 And I will multiply upon you man and beaſt, and they ſhall increaſe and bring fruit, and I will cauſe you to dwell after your old eſtate, and I will beſtow benefits upon you more than [q] at the firſt, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

15 Neither will I cauſe men to hear in thee the ſhame of the heathen any more, neither ſhalt thou bear the reproach of the people any more, neither ſhalt cauſe thy folk to fall any more, ſaith the Lord God.

16 ¶ Moreover the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

17 Son of man, when the houſe of Iſrael dwelt in their own land, they defiled it by their own ways, and by their deeds: their way was before me as the filthineſs of the menſtruous.

18 Wherefore I poured my wrath upon them, for the blood that they had ſhed in the land, and for the idols wherewith they had polluted it.

19 And I ſcattered them among the heathen, and they were diſperſed through the countries: for according to their ways, and according to their deeds, I judged them.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 He propheſieth the bringing again of the people, being in captivity. 16 He ſheweth the union of the ten tribes with the two.

THE hand of the Lord was upon me, and carried me out in the Spirit of the Lord, and ſet me down in the midſt of the ‡ field, which was full of [a] bones.

‡ Or, valley.

2 And he led me round about by them, and behold, there were very many in the open field, and lo, they were very dry.

3 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, can theſe bones live? And I anſwered, O Lord God, thou knoweſt.

4 Again he ſaid unto me, Propheſy upon theſe bones, and ſay unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord.

5 Thus ſaith the Lord God unto theſe bones, Behold, I will cauſe breath to enter into you, and ye ſhall live.

6 And I will lay ſinews upon you, and make fleſh grow upon you, and cover you with ſkin, and put breath in you, that ye may live, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord.

7 So I propheſied, as I was commanded: and as I propheſied, there was a noiſe, and behold, there was a ſhaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone.

8 And when I beheld, lo, the ſinews and the fleſh grew upon them, and above, the ſkin covered them, but there was no breath in them.

9 Then ſaid he unto me, Propheſy, unto the wind: propheſy, ſon of man, and ſay to the wind, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Come from the four [b] winds, O breath, and breathe upon theſe ſlain, that they may live.

10 So I propheſied, as he had commanded me: and the breath came into them, and they lived, and ſtood up upon their feet, an exceeding great army.

11 Then he ſaid unto me, Son of man, theſe bones are the whole houſe of Iſrael. Behold, they ſay, Our bones are dried, and our hope is gone away, and we are clean cut off.

12 Therefore propheſy, and ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, my people, I will open your graves, and cauſe you to come up out of your ſepulchres, and bring you into the land of Iſrael.

13 And ye ſhall know that I am the Lord, [c] when I have opened your graves, O my people,

16 Moreover, thou ſon of man, take thee a piece of wood, and write upon it, Unto Judah, and to the children of Iſrael his companions: then take [d] another piece of wood, and write upon it, Unto Joſeph the tree of Ephraim, and to all the houſe of Iſrael his companions.

17 And thou ſhalt join them one to another into one tree, and they ſhall be as one in thine hand.

18 And when the children of thy people ſhall ſpeak unto thee, ſaying, Wilt thou not ſhew us what thou meaneſt by theſe?

19 Thou ſhalt anſwer them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the tree [e] of Joſeph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Iſrael his fellows, and will put them with him, even with the tree of Judah, and make them one tree, and they ſhall be one in mine hand.

20 And the pieces of wood, whereon thou writeſt, ſhall be in thine hand in their ſight.

21 And ſay unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I will take the children of Iſrael from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every ſide, and bring them into their own land.

* John 10. 16.

23 Neither ſhall they be polluted any more with their idols, nor with their abominations, nor with any of their tranſgreſſions: but I will ſave them out of all their dwelling places, wherein they have ſinned, and will cleanſe them: ſo ſhall they be my people, and I will be their God.

26 Moreover, I will make * a covenant of peace with them: it ſhall be an everlaſting covenant with them, and I will place them, and multiply them, and will ſet my ſanctuary among them for evermore.

* Pſ. 109. 4. and 116. 2.

27 My tabernacle alſo ſhall be with them: yea, I will be their God, and they ſhall be my people.

28 Thus the heathen ſhall know that I the Lord do ſanctify Iſrael, when my ſanctuary ſhall be among them for evermore.

2 He propheſieth that Gog and Magog ſhall fight with great power againſt the people of God. 21 Their deſtruction.

AND the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

2 Son of man, ſet thy face againſt [g] Gog and againſt the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meſhech and Tubal, and propheſy againſt him,

3 And ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I come againſt thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meſhech and Tubal.

4 And I will deſtroy thee, and put hooks in thy jaws, and I will bring thee forth, and all thine hoſt, both horſes and horſemen, all clothed with all ſorts of armour, even a great multitude with bucklers and ſhields, all [h] handling ſwords.

7 Prepare thyſelf, and [l] make thee ready, both thou, and all thy multitude that are aſſembled unto thee, and be thou their ſafeguard.

8 After many days thou ſhalt be viſited: for in the latter years thou ſhalt come into the land that hath been deſtroyed with the ſword, and is gathered out of many people upon the mountains of Iſrael, which have long lain waſte: yet ‡ they have been brought out of the people, and they ſhall dwell all ſafe.

[h] He ſheweth that the enemies ſhould bend themſelves againſt the church, but it ſhould be to their own deſtruction.

[i] The Perſians, Ethiopians, and men of Africa.

[k] Gomer was Japhet's ſon, and Togarmah the ſon of Gomer, and are thought to be they that inhabited Aſia minor.

[l] Signifying, that all the people of the world ſhould aſſemble themſelves againſt the church, and Chriſt their head.

[m] That is, to moleſt and deſtroy the church.

[n] Meaning, Iſrael, which had now been deſtroyed, and was not yet built again: declaring hereby the ſimplicity of the godly, who ſeek not ſo much to fortify themſelves by outward force, as to depend on the providence and goodneſs of God.

[o] One enemy ſhall envy another, becauſe every one ſhall think to have the ſpoil of the church.

14 Therefore, Son of man, propheſy, and ſay unto Gog, Thus ſaith the Lord God, In that day when my people Iſrael [p] dwelleth ſafe, ſhalt thou not know it?

15 And come from thy place out of the North parts, thou and much people with thee? all ſhall ride upon horſes, even a great multitude and a mighty army.

16 And thou ſhalt come up againſt my people of Iſrael, as a cloud to cover the land: thou ſhalt be in the [q] latter days, and I will bring thee upon my land, that the heathen may know me, when I [r] ſhall be ſanctified in thee, O Gog, before their eyes.

17 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Art not thou he of whom I have ſpoken in old time, [s] by the hand of my ſervants the prophets of Iſrael, which propheſied in thoſe days, and years, that I would bring thee upon them?

18 At the ſame time alſo when Gog ſhall come againſt the land of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God, my wrath ſhall ariſe in mine anger.

19 For in mine indignation and in the fire of my wrath have I ſpoken it: ſurely at that time there ſhall be a great ſhaking in the land of Iſrael,

20 So that the fiſhes of the ſea, and the fowls of the heaven, and the beaſts of the field, and all that move and creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the earth, ſhall tremble at my preſence, and the mountains ſhall be overthrown, and the [t] ſtars ſhall fall, and every wall ſhall fall to the ground.

21 For I will call for a ſword againſt him [u] throughout all my mountains, ſaith the Lord God: every man's ſword ſhall be againſt his brother.

22 And I will plead againſt him with peſtilence, and with blood, and I will cauſe to rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the great people that are with him, a ſore rain and hailſtones, fire and brimſtone.

23 Thus will I be * magnified and ſanctified, and known in the eyes of many nations, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

THerefore, thou ſon of man, propheſy againſt Gog, and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Behold, I come againſt thee, O Gog, the chief prince of Meſhech and Tubal.

2 And I will deſtroy thee, [w] and leave but the ſixth part of thee, and will cauſe thee to come up from the north parts, and will bring thee upon the mountains of Iſrael:

3 And I will ſmite thy bow out of thy left hand, and I will cauſe thine arrows to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou [x] ſhalt fall upon the mountains of Iſrael, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: for I will give thee unto the birds, and to every feathered fowl and beaſt of the field, to be devoured.

5 Thou ſhalt fall upon the open field: for I have ſpoken it, ſaith the Lord God.

6 And I will ſend a fire on Magog, and among them that dwell ſafely in the [y] iſles, and they ſhall know that I am the Lord.

7 So will I make mine holy name known in the midſt of my people Iſrael, and I will not ſuffer them to pollute mine holy name any more, and the heathen ſhall know that I am the Lord, the holy One of Iſrael.

8 Behold, [z] it is come, and it is done, ſaith the Lord God: this is the day whereof I have ſpoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of Iſrael, ſhall go [a] forth, and ſhall burn and ſet fire upon the weapons, and on the ſhields, and bucklers, upon the bows, and upon the arrows, and upon the ſtaves in their hands, and upon the ſpears, and they ſhall burn them with fire ſeven years.

10 So that they ſhall bring no wood out of the field, neither cut down any out of the foreſts: for they ſhall burn the weapons with fire, and they ſhall rob thoſe that robbed them: and ſpoil thoſe that ſpoiled them, ſaith the Lord God.

11 And at the ſame time will I give unto Gog [b] a place there for burial in Iſrael, even the valley whereby men go toward the eaſt part of the ſea: and it ſhall cauſe them that paſs by to ſtop their [c] noſes, and there ſhall they bury Gog with all his multitude: and they ſhall call it the valley of ‡ Hamon-gog.

12 [d] And ſeven months long ſhall the houſe of Iſrael be burying of them, that they may cleanſe the land.

13 Yea, all the people of the land ſhall bury them, and they ſhall have a name when I ſhall be glorified, ſaith the Lord God,

14 And they ſhall chuſe men to go continually through the [e] land with them that travel, to bury thoſe that remain upon the ground to cleanſe it: they ſhall ſearch to the end of ſeven months.

15 And the travellers that paſs through the land, if any ſee a man's bone, then ſhall he ſet up a ſign by it, till the buriers have buried it in the valley of Hamon-Gog.

[p] Shalt not thou ſpy thine occaſions to come againſt my church when they ſuſpect nothing?

[q] Meaning, in the laſt age, and from the coming of Chriſt unto the end of the world.

[r] Signifying, that God will be ſanctified by maintaining his church, and deſtroying his enemies, as ch. 36. 23. and 37. 28.

[s] Hereby he declareth that no affliction can come to the church, whereof they have not been advertiſed aforetime, to teach them to endure all things with more patience when they know that God hath ſo ordained.

[t] All means whereby man ſhould think to ſave himſelf ſhall fail, the affliction in thoſe days ſhall be ſo great, and the deſtruction ſhall be ſo terrible.

[u] Againſt the people of Gog and Magog.

[w] Or deſtroy thee with ſix plagues, as chap. 38. 22.

[y] That is, among all nations where the enemies of my people dwell, ſeem they never ſo far ſeparate.

[z] That is, this plague is fully determined in my counſel, and cannot be changed.

[a] After this deſtruction the church ſhall have great peace and tranquillity, and burn all their weapons, becauſe they ſhall no more fear the enemy: and this is chiefly meant of the accompliſhment of Chriſt's kingdom, when by their head Chriſt all enemies ſhall be overcome.

[b] Which declareth, that the enemies ſhall have an horrible fall.

[c] For the ſtink of the carcaſes.

[d] Meaning, a long time.

[e] Partly, that the holy land ſhould not be polluted, and partly, for the compaſſion that the children of God have, even on their enemies.

16 And alſo the name of the city ſhall be ‡ Hamonah: thus ſhall they cleanſe the land.

‡ Or, multitude.

17 And thou ſon of man, thus ſaith the Lord God, Speak unto every feathered fowl, and to all the beaſts of the field, Aſſemble yourſelves, and come: [f] gather yourſelves on every ſide to my ſacrifice: for I do ſacrifice a great ſacrifice for you upon the mountains of Iſrael, that ye may eat fleſh, and drink blood.

18 Ye ſhall eat the fleſh of the valiant, and drink the blood of the princes of the earth, of the wethers, of the lambs, and of the goats, and of bullocks, even of all fat beaſts of Baſhan.

19 And, ſhall eat fat till ye be full, and drink blood, till ye be drunken, of my ſacrifice which I have ſacrificed for you.

20 Thus you ſhall be filled at my table with horſes and chariots, with valiant men, and with all men of war, ſaith the Lord God.

21 And I will ſet my glory among the heathen, and all the heathen ſhall ſee my judgment that I have executed, and mine hand which I have laid upon them.

22 So the houſe of Iſrael ſhall know that I am the Lord their God from that day and ſo forth.

23 And the heathen ſhall know that the houſe of Iſrael went into captivity for [g] their iniquity, becauſe they treſpaſſed againſt me: therefore hid I my face from them, and gave them into the hand of their enemies: ſo fell they all by the ſword.

24 According to their uncleanneſs, and according to their tranſgreſſions have I done unto them, and hid my face from them.

25 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, Now will I bring again the captivity of Jacob, and have compaſſion upon the whole houſe of Iſrael, and will be jealous for mine holy name.

26 After that they have borne their ſhame, and all their tranſgreſſion whereby they have tranſgreſſed againſt me, when they dwelt ſafely in their land, and without fear of any.

27 When I have brought them again from the people, and gathered them out of their enemies land, and am * ſanctified in them in the ſight of many nations,

* Ch. 36, 23.

28 Then ſhall they know that I am the Lord their God, which cauſed them to be led into captivity among the heathen: but I have gathered them unto their own land, and have left none of them any more there.

29 Neither will I hide my face any more from them: for I have poured out my Spirit upon the houſe of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God.

CHAP. XL.

The reſtoring of the city and the temple.

IN the five and twentieth year of our being in captivity, in the [h] beginning of the year, in the tenth day of the month, in the fourteenth year after that the city was ſmitten, in the ſelfſame day the hand of the Lord was upon me, and brought me thither.

2 Into the land of Iſrael brought he me by ‡ a divine viſion, and ſet me upon a very high mountain, whereupon was as the building of a city toward the South.

Bef. Chr. 574.

‡ Or, viſions of God.

3 And he brought me thither, and behold, there was a [i] man, whoſe ſimilitude was to look to like braſs, with a linen thread in his hand, and a reed to meaſure with: and he ſtood at the gate.

4 And the man ſaid unto me, Son of man, behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, and ſet thine heart upon all that I ſhall ſhew thee: for to the intent that they might be ſhewed thee, art thou brought hither: declare all that thou ſeeſt unto the houſe of Iſrael.

5 And behold, I ſaw a wall on the outſide of the houſe round about: and in the man's hand was a reed to meaſure with, of ſix cubits long, by the cubit, and an hand breadth: ſo he meaſured the breadth of the building with one reed, and the height with one reed.

6 Then came he unto the gate which looketh toward the Eaſt, and went up the ſtairs thereof, and meaſured the ‡ poſt of the gate, which was one reed broad, and ‡ the other poſt of the gate, which was one reed broad.

‡ Or, threſhold.

‡ Or, upper poſt.

7 And every chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad, and between the chambers were five cubits: and the poſt of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reed.

8 He meaſured alſo the porch of the gate within, with one reed.

9 Then meaſured he the porch of the gate of eight cubits, and the ‡ poſts thereof, of two cubits, and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the chambers of the gate eaſtward were three on this ſide, and three on that ſide: they three were of one meaſure, and the poſts had one meaſure on this ſide, and one on that ſide.

11 And he meaſured the breadth of the entry of the gate ten cubits, and the height of the gate thirteen cubits.

12 The ſpace alſo before the chambers was one cubit on this ſide, and the ſpace was one cubit on that ſide, and the chambers were ſix cubits on this ſide, and ſix cubits on that ſide.

13 He meaſured then the gate from the roof of a chamber to the top of the gate: the breadth was five and twenty cubits, door againſt door.

14 He made alſo poſts of threeſcore cubits, and the poſts of the court and of the gate had one meaſure round about.

15 And upon the fore-front of the entry of the gate unto the fore-front of the porch of the gate within, were fifty cubits.

16 And there were narrow windows in the chambers, and in their poſts within the gate round about, and likewiſe to the arches: and the windows went round about within: and upon the poſts were palm-trees.

17 ¶ Then brought he me into the outward court, and lo, there were chambers, and a pavement made for the court round about, and thirty chambers were upon the pavement.

18 And the pavement was by the ſide of the gates gates over-againſt the length of the gates, and the pavement was beneath.

19 Then he meaſured the breadth from the fore-front of the lower gate without, unto the fore-front of the court within, an hundred cubits Eaſtward and Northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court, that looked toward the North, meaſured he after the length and breadth thereof.

21 And the chambers thereof were three on this ſide, and three on that ſide, and the poſts thereof, and the arches thereof, were after the meaſure of the firſt gate: the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

22 And their windows and their arches, with their palm-trees, were after the meaſure of the gate that looketh toward the Eaſt, and the going up unto it had ſeven ſteps, and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner-court ſtood over-againſt the gate toward the North, and toward the Eaſt, and he meaſured from gate to gate an hundred cubits.

24 After that, he brought me toward the South, and lo, there was a gate toward the South, and he meaſured the poſts thereof, and the arches thereof, according to theſe meaſures.

25 And there were windows in it, and in the arches thereof round about like thoſe windows: the height was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

26 And there were ſeven ſteps to go up to it, and the arches thereof were before them: and it had palm-trees, one on this ſide, and another on that ſide, upon the poſts thereof.

27 ¶ And there was a gate in the inner court toward the South, and he meaſured from gate to gate toward the South an hundred cubits.

28 And he brought me into the inner court by the ſouth-gate, and he meaſured the ſouth-gate, according to theſe meaſures.

29 And the chambers thereof, and the poſts thereof, and the arches thereof, according to theſe meaſures, and there were windows in it, and the arches thereof round about, it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

30 And the arches round about were five and twenty cubits long, and five cubits broad.

31 And the arches thereof were toward the outer court, and palm-trees were upon the poſts thereof, and the going up to it had eight ſteps.

32 ¶ Again, he brought me into the inner [k] court toward the Eaſt, and he meaſured the gate according to theſe meaſures.

33 And the poſts thereof, and the arches thereof, were according to theſe meaſures, and there were windows therein, and in the arches thereof round about: it was fifty cubits long, and five and twenty cubits broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the outer court, and palm-trees were upon the poſts thereof, on this ſide and on that ſide, and the going up to it had eight ſteps.

35 ¶ After he brought me to the North-gate, and meaſured it, according to theſe meaſures, 36 The chambers thereof, the poſts thereof, and the arches thereof, and there were windows therein round about: the height was fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits.

37 And the poſts thereof were toward the outer court, and palm-trees were upon the poſts thereof on this ſide, and on that ſide, and the going up to it had eight ſteps.

38 And every [l] chamber, and the entry thereof, was under the poſts of the gates: there they waſhed the burnt-offering.

39 And in the porch of the gate ſtood two tables on this ſide, and two tables on that ſide, upon the which they ſlew the burnt-offering, and the ſin-offering, and the treſpaſs-offering.

40 And at the ſide beyond the ſteps, at the entry of the North-gate, ſtood two tables, and on the other ſide, which was at the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Four tables were on this ſide, and four tables on that ſide, by the ſide of the gate, even eight tables whereupon they ſlew their ſacrifice.

42 And the four tables were of hewn ſtone for the burnt-offering, of a cubit and an half long, and a cubit and an half broad, and one cubit high: whereupon alſo they laid the inſtruments wherewith they ſlew the burnt-offering and the ſacrifice.

43 And within were boards an hand broad faſtened round about, and upon the tables lay the fleſh of the offering.

44 And without the inner-gate were the chambers of the ſingers in the inner-court, which was at the ſide of the North-gate: and their proſpect was toward the South, and one was at the ſide of the Eaſt gate, having the proſpect toward the North.

45 And he ſaid unto me, This chamber, whoſe proſpect is toward the South, is for the prieſts that have the charge to keep the houſe.

46 And the chamber whoſe proſpect is toward the North, is for the prieſts that have the charge to keep the altar: theſe are the ſons of Zadok among the ſons of Levi, which may come near to the Lord to miniſter unto him.

47 So he meaſured the court, an hundred cubits long, and an hundred cubits broad, even four ſquare: likewiſe the altar that was before the houſe.

48 And he brought me to the porch of the houſe, and meaſured the [m] poſts of the porch, five cubits on this ſide, and five cubits on that ſide: and the breadth of the gate was three cubits on this ſide, and three cubits on that ſide.

49 The length of the porch was twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits, and he brought me by the ſteps whereby they went up to it, and there were pillars by the poſts, one on this ſide, and another on that ſide.

CHAP. XLI.

1 The diſpoſition and order of the building of the temple, and the other things thereto belonging.

AFterward he brought me to the temple, and meaſured the poſts, ſix cubits broad on the one ſide, and ſix cubits broad on the other ſide, which was the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the entry was ten cubits,

---

[k] In all he maketh ſix courts, two on the eaſt ſide, two on the north, and two on the ſouth ſide.

[l] He ſpeaketh of the chambers, which were in the porch of the inner court on the north ſide.

[m] By the poſts of the porch, he meaneth the wall, which was five cubits thick on either ſide of the alley or porch.

Bef. Chr. 574. bits, and the ſides of the entry were five cubits on the one ſide, and five cubits on the other ſide, and he meaſured the length thereof forty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

3 Then went [n] he in, and meaſured the poſts of the entry two cubits, and the entry ſix cubits, and the breadth of the entry ſeven cubits.

4 So he meaſured the length thereof twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits before the temple. And he ſaid unto me, This is the moſt holy place.

5 After, he meaſured the wall of the houſe ſix cubits, and the breadth of every chamber four cubits round about the houſe, on every ſide.

6 And the chambers were chamber upon chamber, three and thirty foot high, and they entered into the wall made for the chambers which was round about the houſe, that the poſts might be faſtened therein, and not be faſtened in the wall of the houſe.

7 And it was large, and went round, mounting upward to the chambers: for the ſtair of the houſe was mounting upward round about the houſe: therefore the houſe was larger upward: ſo they went up from the loweſt chamber to the higheſt by the midſt.

8 I ſaw alſo the houſe high round about: the foundations of the chambers were a full reed of ſix great cubits.

9 The thickneſs of the wall which was for the chamber without was five cubits, and that which remained was the place of the chambers that were within.

10 And between the chambers was the wideneſs of twenty cubits round about the houſe on every ſide.

11 And the doors of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one door toward the North, and another door toward the South, and the breadth of the place that remained was five cubits round about.

12 Now the building that was before the ſeparate place toward the weſt corner was ſeventy cubits broad, and the wall of the building was five cubits thick, round about, and the length ninety cubits.

13 So he meaſured the houſe an hundred cubits long, and the ſeparate place and the building with the walls thereof were an hundred cubits long.

14 Alſo the breadth of the forefront of the houſe, and of the ſeparate place toward the Eaſt, was an hundred cubits.

15 And he meaſured the length of the building, over-againſt the ſeparate place which was behind it, and the chambers on the one ſide and on the other ſide an hundred cubits with the temple within, and the arches of the court.

16 The poſts and the narrow windows, and the chambers round about, on [o] three ſides over againſt the poſts, cieled with cedar wood round about, and from the ground up to the windows, and the windows were cieled.

17 And from above the door unto the inner houſe and without, and by all the wall round about within and without, it was cieled according to the meaſure.

18 And it was made with cherubims and palm-trees, ſo that a palm-tree was between a cherub and a cherub: and every cherub had two faces. Bef. Chr. 574.

19 So that the face of a man was toward the palm-tree on the one ſide, and the face of a lion toward the palm-tree on the other ſide: thus was it made through all the houſe round about.

20 From the ground unto above the door were cherubims and palm-trees made as in the wall of the temple.

21 The poſts of the temple were ſquared, and thus to look unto was the ſimilitude and form of the ſanctuary.

22 The altar of wood was three cubits high, and the length thereof two cubits, and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the ſides thereof were of wood. And he ſaid unto me, This is the table that ſhall be before the Lord.

23 And the temple and the ſanctuary had two doors.

24 And the doors had two wickets, even two turning wickets, two wickets for one door, and two wickets for another door.

25 And upon the doors of the temple there were made cherubims and palm-trees, like as was made upon the walls, and there were thick planks upon the forefront of the porch without.

26 And there were narrow windows and palm-trees on the one ſide, and on the other ſide, by the ſides of the porch, and upon the ſides of the houſe, and thick planks.

CHAP. XLII.

Of the chambers of the temple for the prieſts, and the holy things.

THEN brought he me into the outer court by the way toward the North, and he brought me into the chamber that was over-againſt the ſeparate place, and which was before the building, toward the North.

2 Before the length of an hundred cubits was the north door, and it was fifty cubits broad.

3 Over-againſt the twenty cubits which were for the inner court, and over-againſt the pavement which was for the outer court, was chamber againſt chamber in three rows.

4 And before the chambers was a gallery of ten cubits wide, and within was a way of one cubit, and their doors toward the North.

5 Now the [p] chambers above were narrower: for thoſe chambers ſeemed to eat up theſe, to wit, the lower, and thoſe that were in the midſt of the building:

6 For they were in three rows, but had not pillars as the pillars of the court: therefore there was a difference from them beneath and from the middlemoſt, even from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without, over-againſt the chambers, toward the outer court on the forefront of the chambers, was fifty cubits long.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the outer court was [q] fifty cubits: and lo, before the temple were an hundred cubits.

---

[n] The angel went into the moſt holy place.

[o] He declareth that whatſoever was of ſtone-work from the bottom to the top, was covered with wood on the eaſt, ſouth and north ſides.

[p] Theſe chambers were contrary faſhioned to them of the temple.

[q] So that the wall for the chambers of the outward court and the wall of the inner, was either fifty cubits, and the whole court an hundred.

9 And under theſe chambers was the [y] entry, on the eaſt ſide, as one goeth into them from the outward court.

10 The chambers were in the thickneſs of the wall of the court toward the Eaſt, over-againſt the ſeparate place, and over-againſt the building.

11 And the way before them was after the manner of the chambers, which were toward the North, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their entries were like, both according to their faſhions, and according to their doors.

12 And according to the doors of the chambers, that were toward the South, was a door in the corner of the way, even the way directly before the wall toward the Eaſt, as one entereth.

13 Then ſaid he unto me, The North chambers and the South chambers, which are before the ſeparate place, they be holy chambers, wherein the prieſts that approach unto the Lord ſhall eat the moſt holy things: there ſhall they lay the moſt holy things, and the meat-offering, and the ſin-offering, and the treſpaſs-offering: for the place is holy.

14 When the prieſts enter therein, they ſhall not go out of the holy place into the outer court, but there they ſhall lay their garments wherein they miniſter: for they are holy, and ſhall put on other garments, and ſo ſhall approach to thoſe things which are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an end of meaſuring the inner-houſe, he brought me forth toward the gate whoſe proſpect is toward the Eaſt, and meaſured it round about.

16 He meaſured the eaſt ſide with the meaſuring rod, five hundred reeds, even with the meaſuring reed round about.

17 He meaſured alſo the north ſide, five hundred reeds, even with the meaſuring reed round about.

‡ Or, wind. 18 And he meaſured the ‡ ſouth ſide, five hundred reeds with the meaſuring reed.

19 He turned about alſo to the weſt ſide, and meaſured five hundred reeds with the meaſuring reed.

20 He meaſured it by the four ſides: it had a wall round about, five hundred reeds long, and five hundred broad, to make a ſeparation between the ſanctuary and the profane place.

CHAP. XLIII.

2 He ſeeth the glory of God going into the temple, from whence it had before departed. 7 He mentioneth the idolatry of the children of Iſrael, for the which they were conſumed and brought to nought. 9 He is commanded to call them again to repentance.

AFterward he brought me to the gate, even the gate that turneth toward the Eaſt.

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Iſrael came from out of the Eaſt, whoſe voice was like a noiſe of great waters, and the earth was made light with his glory.

* Ch. 9. 3. 3 And the viſion which I ſaw was * like the viſion, even as the viſion that I ſaw [s] when I came to deſtroy the city: and the viſions were like the viſion that I ſaw by the river Chebar: and I fell upon my face.

4 And the [t] glory of the Lord came into the houſe by the way of the gate, whoſe proſpect is toward the Eaſt.

5 So the Spirit took me up and brought me into the inner-court, and behold, the glory of the Lord filled the houſe.

6 And I heard one ſpeaking unto me out of the houſe: and there ſtood a man by me,

7 Which ſaid unto me, Son of man, this place is my throne, and the place of the ſoles of my feet, whereas I will dwell among the children of Iſrael for ever, and the houſe of Iſrael ſhall no more [u] defile mine holy name, neither they, nor their kings, by their fornication, nor by the carcaſes of [w] their kings in their high places.

8 Albeit they ſet their threſholds by my threſholds, and their poſts by my poſts (for there was but a wall between me and them) yet have they defiled mine holy name with their abominations that they have committed: wherefore I have conſumed them in my wrath.

9 Now therefore let them put away their fornication, and the carcaſes of their kings far from me, and I will dwell among them for ever.

10 ¶ Thou ſon of man, ſhew this houſe to the houſe of Iſrael, that they may be aſhamed of their wickedneſs, and let them meaſure the pattern.

11 And if they be aſhamed of all that they have done, ſhew them the form of the houſe, and the pattern thereof, and the going out thereof, and the coming in thereof, and the whole faſhion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the figures thereof, and all the laws thereof: and write it in their ſight, that they may keep the whole faſhion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and do them.

12 This is the † deſcription of the houſe, It ſhall be upon the top of the mount: all the limits thereof round about ſhall be moſt holy. Behold, this is the deſcription of the houſe: † Heb. law.

13 And theſe are the meaſures of the altar, after the cubits, the cubit is a cubit and an handbreadth, even the bottom ſhall be a cubit, and the breadth a cubit, and the border thereof by the edge thereof round about ſhall be a ſpan: and this ſhall be the height of the altar.

14 And from the bottom which toucheth the ground to the lower piece ſhall be two cubits: and the breadth one cubit, and from the little piece to the great piece ſhall be four cubits, and the breadth one cubit.

15 So the altar ſhall be four cubits, and from the altar upwards ſhall be four horns.

16 And the altar ſhall be twelve cubits long, and twelve broad, and four-ſquare in the four corners thereof.

17 And the frame ſhall be fourteen cubits long, and fourteen broad in the four-ſquare corners thereof, and the border about it ſhall be half a cubit, and the bottom thereof ſhall be a cubit about, and the ſteps thereof ſhall be turned toward the Eaſt.

18 ¶ And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, thus ſaith the Lord God, Theſe are the ordinances of the altar in the day when they ſhall make it to offer the burnt-offering thereon, and to ſprinkle blood thereon.

19 And

20 And thou ſhalt take of the blood thereof, and put it on the four horns of it, and on the four corners of the frame, and upon the border round about: thus ſhalt thou cleanſe it, and reconcile it.

21 Thou ſhalt take the bullock alſo of the ſin-offering, and burn it in the appointed place of the houſe without the ſanctuary.

22 But the ſecond day thou ſhalt offer an he-goat without blemiſh for a ſin-offering, and they ſhall cleanſe the altar, as they did cleanſe it with the bullock.

23 When thou haſt made an end of cleanſing it, thou ſhalt offer a young bullock without blemiſh, and a ram out of the flock without blemiſh.

24 And thou ſhalt offer them before the Lord, and the prieſts ſhall caſt ſalt upon them, and they ſhall offer them for a burnt-offering unto the Lord.

25 Seven days ſhalt thou prepare every day an he-goat for a ſin-offering: they ſhall alſo prepare a young bullock and a ram out of the flock, without blemiſh.

26 Thus ſhall they ſeven days purify the altar and cleanſe it, and † conſecrate it.

27 And when theſe days are expired, upon the eighth day, and ſo forth, the prieſts ſhall make your burnt-offerings upon the altar, and your peace-offerings, and I will accept you, ſaith the Lord God.

He reproveth the people for their offence. 7 The uncircumciſed in heart, and in the fleſh. 9 Who are to be admitted to the ſervice of the temple, and who to be refuſed.

THEN he brought me toward the gate of the outward ſanctuary, which turneth toward the Eaſt, and it was ſhut.

2 Then ſaid the Lord unto me, This gate ſhall be [x] ſhut, and ſhall not be opened, and no man ſhall enter by it, becauſe the Lord God of Iſrael hath entered by it, and it ſhall be ſhut.

3 It appertaineth to the prince: the prince himſelf ſhall ſit in it to eat bread before the Lord: he ſhall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and ſhall go out by the way of the ſame.

4 ¶ Then brought he me toward the north gate before the houſe: and when I looked, behold, the glory of the Lord filled the houſe of the Lord, and I fell upon my face.

5 And the Lord ſaid unto me, Son of man, † mark well, and behold with thine eyes, and hear with thine ears, all that I ſay unto thee, concerning all the ordinances of the houſe of the Lord, and all the laws thereof, and mark well the entering in of the houſe, with every going forth of the ſanctuary.

8 For ye have not kept the [z] ordinances of mine holy things: but you yourſelves have ſet other to take the charge of my ſanctuary.

9 Thus ſaith the Lord God, No ſtranger uncircumciſed in heart, nor uncircumciſed in fleſh, ſhall enter into my ſanctuary, of any ſtranger that is among the children of Iſrael:

10 Neither yet the [a] Levites that are gone back from me, when Iſrael went aſtray, which went aſtray from me after their idols, but they ſhall bear their iniquity.

11 And they ſhall ſerve in my ſanctuary, and keep the gates of the houſe, and miniſter in the houſe: they ſhall ſlay the burnt-offering, and the ſacrifice for the people: and they ſhall ſtand before them to ſerve them.

12 Becauſe they ſerved before their idols, and cauſed the houſe of Iſrael to fall into iniquity, therefore have I lifted up mine hand againſt them, ſaith the Lord God, and they ſhall bear their iniquity,

13 And they ſhall not come near unto me to do the office of the prieſt unto me, neither ſhall they come near unto any of mine holy things in the moſt holy place, but they ſhall bear their ſhame and their abominations, which they have committed.

14 And I will make them keepers of the watch of the houſe, for all the ſervice thereof, and for all that ſhall be done therein.

15 But the prieſts of the Levites, the ſons of Zadok, that [b] kept the charge of my ſanctuary, when the children of Iſrael went aſtray from me, they ſhall come near to me to ſerve me, and they ſhall ſtand before me to offer me the fat and the blood, ſaith the Lord God.

16 They ſhall enter into my ſanctuary, and ſhall come near to my table to ſerve me, and they ſhall keep my charge.

17 And when they ſhall enter in at the gates of the inner court, they ſhall be clothed with linen garments, and no wool ſhall come upon them while they ſerve in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 They ſhall have linen bonnets upon their heads, and ſhall have linen breeches upon their loins: they ſhall not gird themſelves in the ſweating places.

19 But when they go forth into the outer court, even to the outer court to the people, they ſhall put off their garments wherein they miniſtered, and lay them in the holy chambers, and they ſhall put on other garments: for they ſhall not ſanctify the people with their garments.

20 They ſhall not alſo [c] ſhave their heads, nor ſuffer their locks to grow long, but round their heads.

2 Of this there ſhall be for the ſanctuary five hundred in length, with five hundred in breadth, all ſquare round about, and fifty cubits round about for the ſuburbs thereof.

3 And of this meaſure ſhalt thou meaſure the length of five and twenty thouſand, and the breadth of ten thouſand: and it ſhall be the ſanctuary, and the moſt holy place.

4 The holy portion of the land ſhall be the prieſts, which miniſter in the ſanctuary, which come near to ſerve the Lord: and it ſhall be a place for their houſes, and an holy place for the ſanctuary.

5 And in the five and twenty thouſand of length, and the ten thouſand of breadth, ſhall the Levites that miniſter in the houſe have their poſſeſſion for twenty chambers.

Bef. Chr. 574.

6 Alſo ye ſhall appoint the poſſeſſion of the city five thouſand broad, and five and twenty thouſand long, over-againſt the oblation of the holy portion: it ſhall be for the whole houſe of Iſrael.

7 And a portion ſhall be for the prince on the one ſide, and on that ſide of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the poſſeſſion of the city, even before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the poſſeſſion of the city from the weſt corner weſtward, and from the eaſt corner eaſtward, and the length ſhall be by one of the portions from the weſt border unto the eaſt border.

8 In this land ſhall be his poſſeſſion in Iſrael: and my princes ſhall no more oppreſs my people, and the reſt of the land ſhall they give to the houſe of Iſrael, according to their tribes.

9 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Let [f] it ſuffice you, O princes of Iſrael: leave off cruelty and oppreſſion, and execute judgment and juſtice: take away your exactions from my people, ſaith the Lord God.

10 Ye ſhall have juſt balances, and a true [g] ephah, and a true bath.

11 The ephah and the bath ſhall be equal: a bath ſhall contain the tenth part of an homer, and an ephah the tenth part of an homer: the equality thereof ſhall be after the homer.

12 * And the ſhekel ſhall be twenty gerahs, and twenty ſhekels, and [h] five and twenty ſhekels and fifteen ſhekels ſhall be your maneh.

13 ¶ This is the oblation that ye ſhall offer, the ſixth part of an ephah of an homer of wheat, and ye ſhall give the ſixth part of an ephah of an homer of barley.

14 Concerning the ordinance of the oil, even of the bath of oil, ye ſhall offer the tenth part of a bath out of the Cor (ten baths are an homer: for ten baths fill an homer.)

15 And one lamb of two hundred ſheep out of the fat paſtures of Iſrael for a meat-offering, and for a burnt-offering and for peace-offerings, to make reconciliation for them, ſaith the Lord God.

16 All the people of the land ſhall give this oblation for the prince in Iſrael.

17 And it ſhall be the prince's part to give burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and drink-offerings, in the ſolemn feaſts and in the new moons, and in the ſabbaths, and in all the high feaſts of the houſe of Iſrael: he ſhall prepare the ſin-offering, and the meat-offering, and the burnt-offering, and the peace-offerings to make reconciliation for the houſe of Iſrael.

22 And upon that day ſhall the prince prepare for himſelf, and for all the people of the land, a bullock for a ſin-offering.

23 And in the ſeven days of the feaſt he ſhall make a burnt-offering to the Lord, even of ſeven bullocks, and ſeven rams without blemiſh daily for ſeven days, and an he-goat daily for a ſin-offering.

24 And he ſhall prepare a meat-offering of an ephah for a bullock, an ephah for a ram, and an [k] hin of oil for an ephah.

25 In the ſeventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, ſhall he do the like in the feaſt for ſeven days, according to the ſin-offering, according to the burnt-offering, and according to the meat-offering, and according to the oil.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 The ſacrifices of the ſabbath, and of the new moons. 8 Through which doors they muſt go in, or come out of the temple, &c.

THUS ſaith the Lord God, The gate of the inner court, that turneth toward the Eaſt, ſhall be ſhut the ſix working days: but on the ſabbath it ſhall be opened, and in the day of the new moon it ſhall be opened.

2 And the prince ſhall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and ſhall ſtand by the poſt of the gate, and the prieſt ſhall make his burnt-offering, and his peace-offerings, and he ſhall worſhip at the threſhold of the gate: after, he ſhall go forth, but the gate ſhall not be ſhut till the evening.

3 Likewiſe, the people of the land ſhall worſhip at the entry of this gate before the Lord on the ſabbaths, and in the new moons.

4 And the burnt-offering that the prince ſhall offer unto the Lord on the ſabbath day, ſhall be ſix lambs without blemiſh, and a ram without blemiſh.

5 And the meat-offering ſhall be an ephah for a ram: and the meat-offering for the lambs [l] a gift of his hand, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

6 And in the day of the new moon it ſhall be a young bullock without blemiſh, and ſix lambs and a ram: they ſhall be without blemiſh.

7 And he ſhall prepare a meat-offering, even an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and for the lambs [m] according as his hand ſhall bring, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

8 And when the prince ſhall enter, he ſhall go in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he ſhall go forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the land ſhall come before the Lord in the ſolemn feaſts, he that entereth in by the way of the north gate to worſhip, ſhall go out by the way of the ſouth gate: and he that entereth by the way of the ſouth gate, ſhall go forth by the way of the north gate: he ſhall not return by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but they ſhall go forth over-againſt it. Bef. Chr. 574.

10 And the prince ſhall be in the midſt of them: he ſhall go in when they go in, and when they go forth, they ſhall go forth together.

11 And in the feaſts, and in the ſolemnities, the meat-offering ſhall be an ephah to a bullock, and an ephah to a ram, and to the lambs the gift of his hand, and an hin of oil to an ephah.

12 Now when the prince ſhall make a free burnt-offering, or peace-offerings freely unto the Lord, one ſhall then open him the gate that turneth toward the Eaſt, and he ſhall make his burnt-offering and his peace-offerings as he did on the ſabbath day: after he ſhall go forth, and when he is gone forth, one ſhall ſhut the gate.

13 Thou ſhalt daily make a burnt-offering unto the Lord of a lamb of one year without blemiſh: thou ſhalt do it every morning.

14 And thou ſhalt prepare a meat-offering for it every morning, the ſixth part of an ephah, and the third part of an hin of oil, to mingle with the fine flour: this meat-offering ſhall be continually by a perpetual ordinance unto the Lord.

15 Thus ſhall they prepare the lamb, and the meat-offering, and the oil every morning, for a continual burnt-offering.

16 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord God, If the prince give a gift of his inheritance unto any of his ſons, it ſhall be his ſons, and it ſhall be their poſſeſſion by inheritance.

17 But if he give a gift of his inheritance to one of his ſervants, then it ſhall be his to the [n] year of liberty: after, it ſhall return to the prince, but his inheritance ſhall remain to his ſons for them.

18 Moreover, the prince ſhall [o] not take of the people's inheritance, nor thruſt them out of their poſſeſſion: but he ſhall cauſe his ſons to inherit of his own poſſeſſion, that my people be not ſcattered every man from his poſſeſſion.

19 ¶ After, he brought me through the entry, which was at the ſide of the gate, into the holy chambers of the prieſts, which ſtood toward the North: and behold, there was a place at the weſt ſide of them.

20 Then ſaid he unto me, This is the place where the prieſts ſhall ſeethe the treſpaſs-offering, and the ſin-offering, where they ſhall bake the meat-offering, that they ſhould not bear them into the outer court, [p] to ſanctify the people.

21 Then he brought me forth into the outer court, and cauſed me to go by the four corners of the court: aud behold, in every corner of the court there was a court.

22 In the four corners of the court there were courts joined of forty cubits long, and thirty broad: theſe four corners were of one meaſure.

23 And there went a wall about them, even about thoſe four, and kitchens were made under the walls round about.

24 Then ſaid he unto me, This is the kitchen where the miniſters of the houſe ſhall ſeethe the ſacrifice of the people.

CHAP. XLVII.

1 The viſion of the waters that came out of the temple. 13 The coaſts of the land of promiſe, and the diviſion thereof by tribes.

AFterward he brought me unto the door of the houſe: and behold, [q] waters iſſued out from the threſhold of the houſe eaſtward: for the forefront of the houſe ſtood toward the Eaſt, and the waters ran down from under the right ſide of the houſe, at the ſouth ſide of the altar.

2 Then brought he me out toward the north gate, and led me about by the way without unto the outer gate, by the way that turneth eaſtward: and behold, there came forth waters on the right ſide.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand went forth eaſtward, he meaſured a thouſand cubits, and he brought me through the waters: the waters were to the ancles.

4 Again, he meaſured a thouſand, and brought me through the waters: the waters were to the knees: again, he meaſured a thouſand, and brought me through: the waters were to the loins.

5 Afterward he meaſured a thouſand, and it was a [r] river that I could not paſs over: for the waters were riſen, and the waters did flow as a river that could not be paſſed over.

6 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man, haſt thou ſeen this? Then he brought me, and cauſed me to return to the brink of the river.

7 Now when I returned, behold, at the brink of the river were very [s] many trees on the one ſide, and on the other.

8 Then ſaid he unto me, Theſe waters iſſue out toward the eaſt country, and run down into the plain, and ſhall go into one [t] ſea: they ſhall run into another ſea, and the [u] waters ſhall be wholſome.

9 And every thing that liveth, which moveth, whitherſoever the rivers ſhall come, ſhall live, and there ſhall be a very great multitude of fiſh, becauſe theſe waters ſhall come thither: for they ſhall be wholſom, and every thing ſhall live whither the river cometh.

10 And then the [w] fiſhers ſhall ſtand upon it, and from En-gedi even unto [x] Eneglaim, they ſhall ſpread out their nets: for their fiſh ſhall be according to their kinds, as the fiſh of [y] the main ſea, exceeding many.

11 But [z] the miry places thereof, and the marſhes thereof ſhall not be wholſom: they ſhall be made ſalt pits.

12 And by this river, upon the brink thereof, on this ſide, and on that ſide, ſhall grow all ‡ fruitful trees, whoſe leaf ſhall not fade, neither ſhall the fruit thereof fail: it ſhall bring forth new fruit according to his months, becauſe their waters run out of the ſanctuary: and the fruit thereof ſhall be meat, and the leaf thereof ſhall be for ‡ medicine.

17 And the border from the ſea ſhall be Hazar-enan, and the border of Damaſcus, and the reſidue of the North, northward, and the border of Hamath: ſo ſhall be the north part.

18 But the eaſt ſide ſhall ye meaſure from Hauran, and from Damaſcus, and from Gilead, and from the land of Iſrael by Jordan, and from the border unto the Eaſt ſea: and ſo ſhall be the eaſt part.

DANIEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

The great providence of God, and his ſingular mercy toward his church, are moſt lively here ſet forth, who never leaveth his deſtitute, but now in their greateſt miſeries and afflictions giveth them prophets, as Ezekiel and Daniel, whom he adorned with ſuch graces of his holy Spirit, that Daniel above all other had moſt ſpecial revelations of ſuch things as ſhould come to the church, even from the time that they were in captivity, to the laſt end of the world, and to the general reſurrection, as of the four monarchies and empires of the world, to wit, of the Babylonians, Perſians, Grecians, and Romans. Alſo of the certain number of the times even unto Chriſt, when all ceremonies and ſacrifices ſhould ceaſe, becauſe he ſhould be the accompliſhment thereof: moreover, he ſheweth Chriſt's office, and the cauſe of his death, which was by his ſacrifice to take away ſins, and to bring everlaſting life. And as from the beginning, God ever exerciſed his people under the croſs, ſo he teacheth here, that after that Chriſt is offered, he will ſtill leave this exerciſe to his church until the dead riſe again, and Chriſt gather his into his kingdom in the heavens.

CHAP. I.

1 The captivity of Jehoiakim king of Judah. 4 The king chuſeth certain young men of the Jews to learn his law. 5 They have the king's ordinary appointed, 8 but they abſtain from it.

IN the [a] third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babel unto Jeruſalem, and beſieged it.

2 And the Lord gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with part of the veſſels of the houſe of God, which he carried into the land of [b] Shinar, to the houſe of his god, and he brought the veſſels into his god's treaſury.

3 And the king ſpake unto [c] Aſhpenaz the maſter of his [d] eunuchs, that he ſhould bring certain of the children of Iſrael, of the [e] king's ſeed, of the princes:

4 Children in whom was no blemiſh, but [f] well-favoured, and inſtructed in all wiſdom, and well ſeen in knowledge, and able to utter knowledge, and ſuch as were able to ſtand in the king's palace, and whom they might teach the [g] learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them proviſion every day of a [h] portion of the king's meat, and of the wine which he drank, ſo nouriſhing them [i] three years, that at the end thereof they might [k] ſtand before the king.

6 Now among theſe were certain of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah:

Bef. Chr. 606.

7 Unto whom the chief of the eunuchs [l] gave other names: for he called Daniel, Belteſhazzar, and Hananiah, Shadrach, and Miſhael, Meſhach, and Azariah, Abednego.

8 ¶ But Daniel had determined in his heart, that he would not [m] defile himſelf with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank: therefore he required the chief of the eunuchs that he might not defile himſelf.

9 (Now God had brought Daniel into favour and tender love with the chief of the eunuchs)

10 And the chief of the eunuchs ſaid unto Daniel, [n] I fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your meat and your drink: therefore if he ſee your faces worſe liking than the other children which are of your ſort, then ſhall ye make me loſe mine head unto the king.

11 Then ſaid Daniel to Melzar, whom the chief of the eunuchs had ſet over Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah, 12 Prove thy ſervants, I beſeech thee, [o] ten days, and let them give us [p] pulſe to eat, and water to drink.

13 Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenances of the children that eat of the portion of the king's meat: and as thou ſeeſt, deal with thy ſervants.

[a] Read 2 Kings 24. 1. and Jer. 25. 1.

[b] Which was a plain by Babylon, where was the temple of their great god, and is here taken for Babylon.

[c] Who was as maſter of the wards.

[d] He calleth them Eunuchs, whom the king nouriſhed and brought up to be rulers of other countries afterward.

[e] His purpoſe was to keep them as hoſtages, and that he might ſhew himſelf victorious, and alſo by their good intreaty and learning of his religion, they might favour rather him than the Jews, and ſo to be able to ſerve him as governors in their land: moreover, by this means the Jews might be better kept in ſubjection, fearing otherwiſe to procure hurt to theſe noble men.

[f] The king required three things, that they ſhould be of noble birth, that they ſhould be witty and learned, and that they ſhould be of a ſtrong and comely nature, that they might do him better ſervice: this did he for his own commodity, therefore it is not to praiſe his liberality: yet in this he is worthy praiſe, that he eſteemed learning, and knew that it was a neceſſary mean to govern by.

[g] That they might forget their own religion and country faſhions, to ſerve him the better to his purpoſe: yet it is not to be thought that Daniel did learn any knowledge that was not godly: in all points he refuſed the abuſe of things and ſuperſtition, inſomuch that he would not eat the meat that the king appointed him, but was content to learn the knowledge of natural things.

[h] That by their good entertainment they might learn to forget the mediocrity of their own people.

[i] To the intent that in this time they might both learn the manners of the Chaldeans, and alſo their tongue.

[k] As well to ſerve at the table, as in other offices.

[l] That they might altogether forget their religion: for the Jews gave their children names, which might ever put them in remembrance of ſome point of religion: therefore this was a great temptation, and a ſign of ſervitude, which they were not able to reſiſt.

[m] Not that he thought any religion to be in the meat or drink (for afterward he did eat) but becauſe the king ſhould not entice him by this ſweet poiſon to forget his religion and accuſtomed ſobriety, and that in his meat and drink he might daily remember of what people he was: and Daniel bringeth this in, to ſhew how God from the beginning aſſiſted him with his Spirit, and at length called him to be a prophet.

[n] He ſuppoſed they did this for their religion, which was contrary to the Babylonians, and therefore herein he repreſenteth them which are of no religion: for neither he would condemn theirs, nor maintain his own.

[o] Meaning, that within this ſpace he might have the trial, and that no man ſhall be able to diſcern it: and thus he ſpake, being moved by the Spirit of God.

[p] Not that it was a thing abominable to eat dainty meats, and to drink wine, as both before and after they did; but if they ſhould have hereby been won to the king, and have refuſed their own religion, that meat and drink had been accurſed.

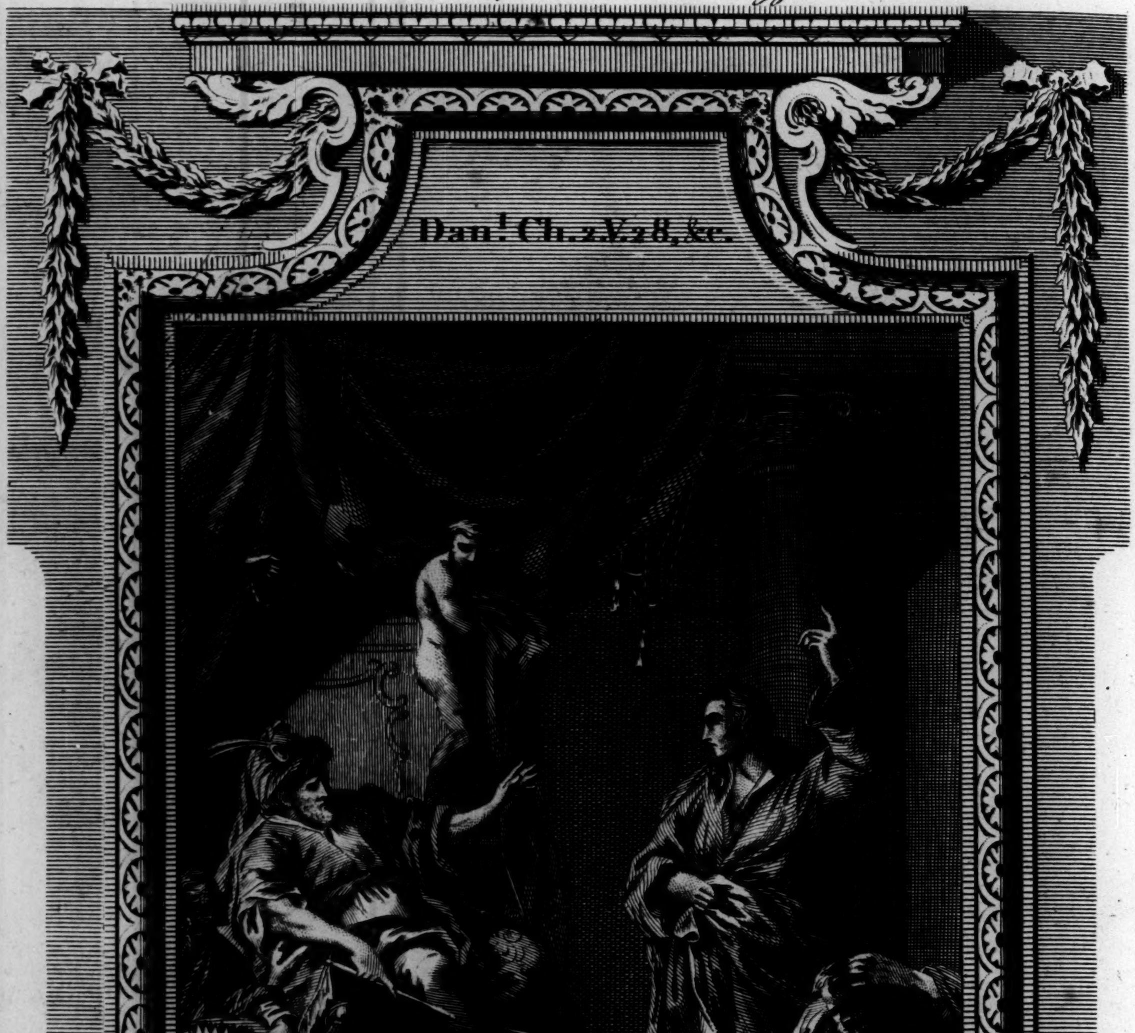
Daniel discovers and interprets Nebuchadnezzar's Dream.



Dan.l Ch. 2 V. 28, &c.
There is a GOD in heaven that revealeth Secrets

G. Burder sculpt.

Bef. Chr. 606.

14 So he conſented to them in this matter, and proved them ten days.

15 And at the end of ten days, their [q] countenances appeared fairer and in ‡ better liking than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat.

16 Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they ſhould drink, and gave them pulſe.

17 As for theſe four children, God gave them knowledge, and underſtanding in all learning [r] and wiſdom: alſo he gave Daniel underſtanding of all [s] viſions and dreams.

18 Now when the time was [t] expired, that the king had appointed to bring them in, the chief of the eunuchs brought them before Nebuchadnezzar.

19 And the king communed with them: and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah: therefore ſtood they before the king.

20 And in all matters of wiſdom, and underſtanding, that the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the enchanters and aſtrologers that were in all his realm.

21 And Daniel was unto [u] the firſt year of king Cyrus.

CHAP. II.

1 The dream of Nebuchadnezzar. 13 The king commandeth all the wiſe men of Babylon to be ſlain, becauſe they could not interpret his dream. 16 Daniel requireth time to ſolve the queſtion. 24 Daniel is brought unto the king, and ſheweth him his dream and the interpretation thereof. 44 Of the everlaſting kingdom of Chriſt.

AND in the ſecond [w] year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed [x] dreams, wherewith his ſpirit was [y] troubled, and his [z] ſleep was upon him.

2 Then the king commanded to call the enchanters, and the aſtrologers, and the ſorcerers, and the [a] Chaldeans, for to ſhew the king his dreams: ſo they came and ſtood before the king.

3 And the king ſaid unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and my ſpirit was troubled to know the dream.

4 Then ſpake the Chaldeans to the king in the [b] Aramites language, O king, live for ever: ſhew thy ſervants the dream, and we ſhall ſhew the interpretation.

5 And the king anſwered and ſaid to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye will not make me underſtand the dream, with the interpretation thereof, ye [c] ſhall be drawn in pieces, and your houſes ſhall be made a jakes.

Bef. Chr. 603.

6 But if ye declare the dream and the interpretation thereof, ye ſhall receive of me gifts and rewards, and great honour: therefore ſhew me the dream and the interpretation thereof.

7 They anſwered again, and ſaid, Let the king ſhew [d] his ſervants the dream, and we will declare the interpretation thereof.

8 Then the king anſwered, and ſaid, I know certainly that ye would † gain the time, becauſe ye ſee the thing is gone from me.

† Heb. redeem the time.

9 But if ye will not declare me the dream, there is but one judgment for you: for ye have prepared lying and corrupt words to ſpeak before me till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dream, that I may know if ye can declare me the interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Chaldeans anſwered before the king, and ſaid, There is no man upon earth that can declare the king's matter: yea, there is neither king nor prince, nor lord that aſked ſuch things at an enchanter, or aſtrologer, or Chaldean.

11 For it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can declare it before the king, except the gods, whoſe dwelling is not with fleſh.

12 For this cauſe the king was angry and in great fury, and commanded to deſtroy all the wiſe men of Babel,

13 ¶ And when ſentence was given, the wiſe men were ſlain: and they [e] ſought Daniel and his fellows to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel anſwered with counſel and wiſdom to Arioch the king's ‡ chief ſteward, which was gone forth to put to death the wiſe men of Babel,

‡ Or, the captain of the guard.

15 Yea, he anſwered and ſaid unto Arioch the king's captain, Why is the ſentence ſo haſty from the king? Then Arioch declared the thing to Daniel.

16 So Daniel went, and deſired the king that he would give him leiſure, and that he would ſhew the king the interpretation thereof.

17 ¶ Then Daniel went to his houſe, and ſhewed the matter to Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah his companions,

18 That they ſhould beſeech the God of heaven for grace in this ſecret, that Daniel and his fellows ſhould not periſh with the reſt of the wiſe men of Babel.

[q] This bare feeding, and that alſo of Moſes when he fled from the court of Egypt, declareth, that we muſt live in ſuch ſobriety as God doth call us unto, ſeeing he will make it more profitable unto us than all dainties: for his bleſſing only ſufficeth.

[r] Meaning, in the liberal ſciences and natural knowledge, and not in the magical arts which are forbidden, Deut. 18. 11.

[s] So that he only was a prophet, and none of the other: for by dreams and viſions God appeared to his prophets, Numb. 12. 6.

[t] Of the three years above-mentioned, ver. 5.

[u] That is, he was eſteemed in Babylon as a prophet, ſo long as that commonwealth ſtood.

[w] The father and the ſon were both called by this name: ſo that this is meant of the ſon when he reigned alone: for he reigned alſo after a ſort with his father.

[x] Not that he had many dreams, but becauſe many matters were contained in this dream.

[y] Becauſe it was ſo rare and ſtrange a dream, that he had not had the like.

[z] He was ſo heavy with ſleep, that he began to ſleep again. Some read, and his ſleep was broken from him.

[a] For all theſe aſtrologers and ſorcerers called themſelves by this name of honour, as though all the wiſdom and knowledge of the country depended upon them, and that all other countries were void of the ſame.

[b] That is, in the Syrian tongue, which differed not much from the Chaldean, ſave it ſeemed to be more eloquent, and therefore the learned uſed to ſpeak it: as the Jewiſh writers do to this day.

[c] This is a juſt reward of their arrogancy (which vaunted of themſelves that they had the knowledge of all things) that they ſhould be proved fools, and that to their perpetual ſhame and confuſion.

[d] Herein appeared their ignorance, that notwithſtanding their brags, yet they were not able to tell the dream, except he entered them into the matter, and therefore they would pretend knowledge where was but mere ignorance, and ſo as deluders of the people, they were worthy to die.

[e] Which declareth that God would not have his ſervants joined in the company of theſe ſorcerers and aſtrologers, whoſe arts were wicked, and therefore juſtly ought to die, though the king did it upon a rage, and no zeal.

Bef. Chr. 603.

19 Then was the ſecret revealed unto Daniel in a viſion by night: therefore Daniel praiſed the God of heaven.

*Pſ. 113. 2. and 115. 18.

20 And Daniel anſwered, and ſaid, * The name of God be praiſed for ever and ever: for wiſdom and ſtrength are his,

21 And he changeth the times and ſeaſons: he taketh away kings: he ſetteth up kings: he giveth wiſdom unto the wiſe, and underſtanding to thoſe that underſtand.

22 He diſcovereth the deep and ſecret things: he knoweth what is in the darkneſs, and the [f] light dwelleth with him.

23 I thank thee, and praiſe thee, O thou God of my [g] fathers, that thou haſt given me wiſdom and ſtrength, [h] and haſt ſhewed me now the thing that we deſired of thee: for thou haſt declared unto us the king's matter.

24 ¶ Therefore Daniel went unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to deſtroy the wiſe men of Babel: he went and ſaid thus unto him, Deſtroy not [i] the wiſe men of Babel, but bring me before the king, and I will declare unto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought Daniel before the king in haſte, and ſaid thus unto him, I have found a man of the children of Judah that were brought captives, that will declare unto the king the interpretation.

26 Then anſwered the king, and ſaid unto Daniel, whoſe name was Belteſhazzar, Art thou able to ſhew me the dream which I have ſeen, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel anſwered in the preſence of the king, and ſaid, The ſecret which the king hath demanded, can neither the wiſe, the aſtrologers, the enchanters, nor the ſoothſayers declare unto the king:

28 But there is a God in [k] heaven that revealeth ſecrets, and ſheweth the king Nebuchadnezzar what ſhall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the things which thou haſt ſeen in thine head upon thy bed, is this.

29 O king, when thou waſt in thy bed, thoughts came into thy mind, what ſhould come to paſs hereafter, and he that revealeth ſecrets, telleth thee what ſhall come.

30 As [l] for me, this ſecret is not ſhewed me for any wiſdom that I have, more than any other living, but only to ſhew the interpretation, and that thou mighteſt know the thoughts of thine heart.

31 O king, thou ſaweſt, and behold, there was a great image: this great image, whoſe glory was ſo excellent, ſtood before thee, and the form thereof was terrible.

Bef. Chr. 603.

32 This image's head was of fine [m] gold, his breaſt and his arms of ſilver, his belly and his thighs of braſs,

33 His legs of iron, and his feet were part of iron, and part of clay.

34 Thou beheldeſt it till a ſtone was cut without hands, which ſmote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the braſs, the ſilver, and the gold broken all together, and became like the chaff of the ſummer flowers, and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the ſtone that ſmote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dream, and we will declare before the king the interpretation thereof.

37 ¶ O king, thou art a king of kings: for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and ſtrength, and glory.

38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beaſts of the field, and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all: thou art [n] this head of gold.

39 And after thee ſhall ariſe another kingdom, [o] inferior to thee, of ſilver, and another [p] third kingdom ſhall be of braſs, which ſhall bear rule over all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdom ſhall be ſtrong as iron: for as iron breaketh in pieces, and ſubdueth all things, and as iron bruiſeth all theſe things, ſo ſhall it break in [q] pieces, and bruiſe all.

41 Whereas thou ſaweſt the feet and toes, part of potters clay, and part of iron: the kingdom ſhall be [r] divided, but there ſhall be in it of the ſtrength of the iron, as thou ſaweſt the iron mixed with the clay and earth.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, ſo ſhall the kingdom be partly ſtrong, and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou ſaweſt iron mixed with clay and earth, they ſhall mingle themſelves with the [s] ſeed of men: but they ſhall not join one

---

[f] He ſheweth that man hath neither wiſdom nor knowledge, but very dark blindneſs and ignorance of himſelf: for it cometh only of God that man underſtandeth any thing.

[g] To whom thou madeſt thy promiſe, and who lived in thy fear: whereby he excludeth all other gods.

[h] Meaning, power to interpret it.

[i] Whereby appeareth that many were ſlain, as ver. 13. and the reſt at Daniel's offer, were preſerved on condition: not that Daniel favoured their wicked profeſſion, but that he had reſpect to equity, becauſe the king proceeded according to his wicked affection, and not conſidering if their ſcience were lawful or no.

[k] He affirmeth that man by reaſon and art is not able to attain to the cauſe of God's ſecrets, but the underſtanding only thereof muſt come of God: whereby he ſmiteth the king with a certain fear and reverence of God, that he might be the more apt to receive the high myſteries that ſhould be revealed.

[l] Becauſe he had ſaid, that God only muſt reveal: the ſignification of this dream, the king might have aſked why Daniel did enterpriſe to interpret it, and therefore he ſheweth, that he was but God's miniſter, and had no gifts but ſuch as God had given him to ſet forth his glory.

[m] By gold, ſilver, braſs and iron, are meant the Chaldean, Perſian, Macedonian and Roman kingdom, which ſhould ſucceſſively rule all the world, till Chriſt (which is here called the ſtone) come himſelf, and deſtroy the laſt and this was to aſſure the Jews that their afflictions ſhould not end with the empire of the Chaldeans, but that they ſhould patiently abide the coming of Meſſiah, which ſhould be at the end of this fourth monarchy.

[n] Daniel leaveth out the kingdom of the Aſſyrians, which was before the Babylonians, both becauſe it was not a monarchy and general empire, and alſo becauſe he would declare the things that were to come, to the coming of Chriſt, for the comfort of the elect among theſe wonderful alterations: and he calleth the Babylonian kingdom the golden head, becauſe in reſpect of the other three, it was the beſt, and yet was of itſelf wicked and cruel.

[o] Meaning, the Perſians, which were not inferior in dignity, power and riches, but were worſe touching ambition, cruelty, and all kinds of vice; ſhewing, that the world ſhould grow worſe and worſe, till it was reſtored by Chriſt.

[p] That is, of the Macedonians ſhall be of braſs, not alluding to the hardneſs thereof, but to the vileneſs, in reſpect of ſilver.

[q] That is, the Roman empire ſhall ſubdue all theſe other aforenamed, which after Alexander were divided into the Macedonians, Grecians, Syrians and Egyptians.

[r] They ſhall have civil wars and continual diſcords among themſelves.

[s] They ſhall by marriages and affinities think to make themſelves ſtrong: yet ſhall they never be joined in hearts.

Bef. Chr. 603. one with another, as iron cannot be mixed with clay.

44 And in the days of theſe kings, ſhall the God of heaven ſet up a kingdom, which [t] ſhall never be deſtroyed: and this kingdom ſhall not be given to another people, but it ſhall break and deſtroy all theſe kingdoms, and it ſhall ſtand for ever.

45 Whereas thou ſaweſt, that the [u] ſtone was cut out of the mountain without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the braſs, the clay, the ſilver, and the gold: ſo the great God hath ſhewed the king what ſhall come to paſs hereafter, and the dream is true, and the interpretation thereof is ſure.

46 ¶ Then the king Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and [w] bowed himſelf unto Daniel, and commanded that they ſhould offer meat-offerings, and ſweet odours unto him.

47 Alſo the king anſwered unto Daniel, and ſaid, I know of a truth that your God [x] is a God of gods, and the Lord of kings, and the revealer of ſecrets, ſeeing thou couldeſt open this ſecret.

48 So the king made Daniel a great man, and gave him many and great [y] gifts. He made him governor over the whole province of Babel, and chief of the rulers, and above all the wiſe men of Babel.

49 Then Daniel [z] made requeſt to the king, and he ſet Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego, over the charge of the province of Babel: but Daniel ſat in the [a] gate of the king.

CHAP. III.

1 The king ſetteth up a golden image. 8 Certain are accuſed becauſe they deſpiſed the king's commandment, and are put into a burning oven. 25 By belief in God they are delivered from the fire. 26 Nebuchadnezzar confeſſeth the power of God after the ſight of the miracle.

NEbuchadnezzar the king made [b] an image of gold, whoſe height was threeſcore cubits, and the breadth thereof ſix cubits: he ſet it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babel.

Bef. Chr. 580. 2 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king ſent forth to gather together the nobles, the princes, and the dukes, the judges, the receivers, the counſellors, the officers, and all the governors of the provinces, that they ſhould come to the [c] dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the [d] king had ſet up.

3 So the nobles, princes and dukes, the judges, the receivers, the counſellors, the officers, and all the governors of the provinces, were aſſembled unto the dedicating of the image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had ſet up: and they ſtood before the image which Nebuchadnezzar had ſet up.

4 Then an herald cried aloud, Be it known to you, O people, [e] nations, and languages,

5 That when you hear the ſound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, ſackbut, pſaltery, dulcimer, and all inſtruments of muſick, ye fall down and worſhip the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king hath ſet up:

6 And whoſoever falleth not down and worſhippeth, ſhall the ſame hour be caſt into the midſt of an hot fiery furnace.

7 Therefore as ſoon as all the people heard the ſound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, ſackbut, pſaltery, and all inſtruments of muſick, all the people, nations, and languages fell down, and worſhipped the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had ſet up.

8 ¶ By reaſon whereof at that ſame time came men of the Chaldeans, and grievouſly accuſed the Jews:

9 For they ſpake and ſaid to the king Nebuchadnezzar, O king, live for ever:

10 Thou, O king, haſt made a decree, that every man that ſhall hear the ſound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, ſackbut, pſaltery, and dulcimer, and all inſtruments of muſick, ſhall fall down and worſhip the golden image:

11 And whoſoever falleth not down, and worſhippeth, that he ſhould be caſt into the midſt of an hot fiery furnace:

12 There are certain Jews whom thou haſt ſet over the charge of the province of Babel, [f] Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego: theſe men,

[t] His purpoſe is to ſhew that all the kingdoms of the world are tranſitory, and that the kingdom of Chriſt ſhall only remain for ever.

[u] Meaning Chriſt, who was ſent of God, and not ſet up by man, whoſe kingdom at the beginning ſhould be ſmall, and without beauty to man's judgment, but ſhould at length grow and fill the whole earth, which he calleth a great mountain, as ver. 35. And this kingdom, which is not only referred to the perſon of Chriſt, but alſo to the whole body of his church, and to every member thereof, ſhall be eternal: for the Spirit that is in them, is life eternal, Rom. 8. 10.

[w] Though this humbling of the king ſeemed to deſerve commendation, yet becauſe he joined God's honour with the prophet's, it is to be reproved, and Daniel herein erred, if he ſuffered it: but it is credible that Daniel admoniſhed him of his fault, and did not ſuffer it.

[x] This confeſſion was but a ſudden motion, as it was alſo in Pharaoh, Exod. 9. 27, 28. but his heart was not touched, as appeared ſoon afterward.

[y] Not that the prophet was deſirous of gifts or honour, but becauſe by this means he might relieve his poor brethren which were grievouſly oppreſſed in this their captivity, and alſo he received them, leſt he ſhould offend this cruel king, which willingly gave them.

[z] He did not this for their private profit, but that the whole church, which was then there in affliction, might have ſome releaſe and eaſe by this benefit.

[a] Meaning, that either he was a judge, or that he had the whole authority, ſo that none could be admitted to the king's preſence but by him.

[b] Under pretence of religion and holineſs, in making an image to his idol Bel, he ſought his own ambition and vain glory: and this declareth that he was not touched with the true fear of God before, but that he confeſſed him on a ſudden motion, as the wicked when they are overcome with the greatneſs of his works. The Greek interpreters write, that this was done eighteen years after the dream, and as may appear the king feared leſt the Jews by their religion ſhould have altered the ſtate of his commonwealth, and therefore he meant to bring all to one kind of religion, and ſo rather ſought his own greatneſs than God's glory.

[c] Shewing, that the idol is not known for an idol ſo long as he is with the workman: but when the ceremonies and cuſtoms are received and uſed, and the conſent of the people is there, then of a block they think they have made a god.

[d] This was ſufficient with the wicked at all times to approve their religion, if the king's authority were alledged for the eſtabliſhing thereof, not conſidering in the mean ſeaſon what God's word did permit.

[e] Theſe are the two dangerous weapons wherewith Satan uſeth to fight againſt the children of God, the conſent of the multitude, and the cruelty of the puniſhment: for tho' ſome feared God, yet the multitude which conſented to the wickedneſs, aſtoniſhed them: and here the king required not an inward conſent but an outward geſture, that the Jews might by little and little learn to forget their true religion.

[f] It ſeemeth that they named not Daniel, becauſe he was greatly in the king's favour, thinking if theſe three had been deſtroyed, they might have had better occaſion to accuſe Daniel: and this declareth that this policy of erecting this image was invented by the malicious flatterers, which ſought nothing but the deſtruction of the Jews, whom they accuſed of rebellion and ingratitude.

men, O king, have not regarded thy commandment, neither will they ſerve thy gods, nor worſhip the golden image that thou haſt ſet up.

13 ¶ Then Nebuchadnezzar, in his anger and wrath, commanded that they ſhould bring Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego: ſo theſe men were brought before the king.

14 And Nebuchadnezzar ſpake, and ſaid unto them, What diſorder? will not you, Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego, ſerve my god, nor worſhip the golden image that I have ſet up?

15 [g] Now therefore, are ye ready, when ye hear the ſound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, ſackbut, pſaltery, and dulcimer, and all inſtruments of muſick, to fall down, and worſhip the image which I have made? for if ye worſhip it not, ye ſhall be caſt immediately into the midſt of an hot fiery furnace: for who is that God that can deliver you out of mine hands?

16 Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego anſwered, and ſaid to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, we [h] are not careful to anſwer thee in this matter.

17 Behold, our God whom we ſerve, is [i] able to deliver us from the hot fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.

18 But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not ſerve thy gods, nor worſhip the golden image which thou haſt ſet up.

19 ¶ Then was Nebuchadnezzar full of rage, and the form of his viſage was changed againſt Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego: therefore he charged and commanded that they ſhould heat the furnace at once ſeven [k] times more than it was wont to be heated.

20 And he charged the moſt valiant men of war that were in his army, to bind Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego, and to caſt them into the hot fiery furnace.

21 So theſe men were bound in their coats, their hoſe, and their cloaks, with their other garments, and caſt into the midſt of the hot fiery furnace.

22 Therefore, becauſe the king's commandment was ſtrait, that the furnace ſhould be exceeding hot, the flame of the fire ſlew thoſe men that brought forth Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego.

23 And theſe three men, Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego fell down bound into the midſt of the hot fiery furnace,

24 ¶ Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was aſtoniſhed, and roſe up in haſte, and ſpake, and ſaid unto his counſellors, Did not we caſt three men bound into the midſt of the fire? Who anſwered, and ſaid unto the king, It is true, O king.

25 And he anſwered, and ſaid, Lo, I ſee four men looſe, walking in the midſt of the fire, and they have no hurt, and the form of the fourth is like the [l] ſon of God.

26 Then the king Nebuchadnezzar came near to the mouth of the hot fiery furnace, and ſpake and ſaid, Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego, the ſervants of the high God, go forth, and come hither: ſo Shadrach, Meſhach, and Abednego [m] came forth of the midſt of the fire.

27 Then the nobles, princes, and dukes, and the king's counſellors came together to ſee theſe men, becauſe the fire had no power over their bodies: for not an hair of their head was burnt, neither were their coats changed, nor any ſmell of fire come upon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchadnezzar ſpake and ſaid, [n] Bleſſed be the God of Shadrach, Meſhach and Abednego, who hath ſent his angel, and delivered his ſervants, that put their truſt in him, and have changed the king's commandment, and yielded their bodies rather than they would ſerve or worſhip any god, ſave their own God.

29 Therefore I make a decree, that every people, nation and language, which ſpeak any [o] blaſphemy againſt the God of Shadrach, Meſhach and Abednego, ſhall be drawn in pieces, and their houſes ſhall be made a jakes, becauſe there is no god that can deliver after this ſort.

30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meſhach and Abednego, in the province of Babel.

31 Nebuchadnezzar king, unto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the [p] world, Peace be multiplied unto you:

32 I thought it good to declare the ſigns and wonders that the high God hath wrought toward me.

33 How great are his ſigns, and how mighty are his wonders! [q] his kingdom is an everlaſting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

CHAP. IV.

2 Another dream of Nebuchadnezzar, which Daniel declareth. 29 The prophet declareth how of a proud king he ſhould become as a beaſt. 31 After he confeſſeth the power of God, and is reſtored to his former dignity.

I Nebuchadnezzar being at [r] reſt in mine houſe, and flouriſhing in my palace,

2 Saw a [s] dream, which made me afraid, and the

---

[g] Signifying, that he would receive them to grace, if they would now at the length obey his decree.

[h] For they ſhould have done injury to God, if they ſhould have doubted in this holy cauſe, and therefore they ſay, that they are reſolved to die for God's cauſe.

[i] They ground on two points, firſt, on the power and providence of God over them, and ſecondly, on their cauſe, which was God's glory, and the teſtifying of his true religion with their blood, and ſo make open confeſſion, that they will not ſo much as outwardly conſent to idolatry.

[k] This declareth that the more that tyrants rage, and the more witty they ſhew themſelves in inventing ſtrange and cruel puniſhments, the more is God glorified by his ſervants, to whom he giveth patience and conſtancy to abide the cruelty of their puniſhment, for either he delivereth them from death, or elſe for this life giveth them a better.

[l] For the angels were called the ſons of God, becauſe of their excellency: therefore the king called this angel, whom God ſent to comfort his in theſe great torments, the ſon of God.

[m] This commendeth their obedience unto God, that they would not for any fear depart out of this furnace till the time appointed, as Noah remained in the ark till the Lord called him forth.

[n] He was moved by the greatneſs of the miracle to praiſe God, but his heart was not touched. And here we ſee that miracles are not ſufficient to convert men to God, but that doctrine muſt chiefly be adjoined, without the which there can be no faith.

[o] If this heathen king, moved by God's Spirit, would not ſee blaſphemy unpuniſhed, but made a law and ſet a puniſhment to ſuch tranſgreſſors, much more ought all they that profeſs religion, take order that ſuch impiety reign not, leſt according as their knowledge and charge is greater, ſo they ſuffer double puniſhment.

[q] Read chap. 2. 44.

[r] There was no trouble that might cauſe me to dream, and therefore it came only of God.

[s] This was another dream beſides that which he ſaw of the four empires: for Daniel both declared what that dream was, and what it meant: and here he only expoundeth the dream.

Bef. Chr. 570. the thoughts upon my bed, and the viſions of mine head troubled me.

3 Therefore made I a decree, that they ſhould bring all the wiſe men of Babel before me, that they might declare unto me the interpretation of the dream.

4 So came the enchanters, the aſtrologers, the Chaldeans, and the ſoothſayers, to whom I told the dream, but [t] they could not ſhew me the interpretation thereof.

5 Till at the laſt Daniel came before me, (whoſe name was [u] Belteſhazzar, according to the name of my god, which hath the ſpirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I told the dream, ſaying,

6 O Belteſhazzar, [w] chief of the enchanters, becauſe I know that the ſpirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no ſecret troubleth thee, tell me the viſion of my dream that I have ſeen, and the interpretation thereof.

7 Thus were the viſions of mine head in my bed: And behold, I ſaw a [x] tree in the midſt of the earth, and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tree and ſtrong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven, and the ſight thereof to the ends of all the earth.

9 The boughs thereof were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all: it made a ſhadow under it for the beaſts of the field, and the fowls of the heaven dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all fleſh fed of it.

10 I ſaw in the viſions of mine head upon my bed, and behold, [y] a watchman and an holy one came down from heaven,

11 And cried aloud, and ſaid thus, Hew down the tree, and break off his branches: ſhake off his leaves, and ſcatter his fruit, that the beaſts may flee from under it, and the fowls from his branches.

12 Nevertheleſs, leave the ſtump of his roots in the earth, and with a band of iron and braſs bind it among the graſs of the field, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beaſts among the graſs of the field.

13 [z] Let his heart be changed from man's nature, and let a beaſt's heart be given unto him, and let ſeven times be paſſed over him.

14 [a] The ſentence is according to the decree of the watchmen, and according to the word of the holy ones: the demand was anſwered, to the intent that living men may know that the moſt High hath power over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomſoever he will, and appointeth over it the moſt abject among men.

15 This is the dream, that I king Nebuchadnezzar have ſeen: therefore thou, O Belteſhazzar, declare the interpretation thereof: for all the wiſe men of my kingdom are not able to ſhew me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the ſpirit of the holy gods is in thee. Bef. Chr. 570.

16 ¶ Then Daniel (whoſe name was Belteſhazzar) held his [b] peace by the ſpace of one hour, and his thoughts troubled him, and the king ſpake, and ſaid, Belteſhazzar, let neither the dream, nor the interpretation thereof, trouble thee. Belteſhazzar anſwered, and ſaid, My lord, the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

17 The tree that thou ſaweſt, which was great and mighty, whoſe height reached unto the heaven, and the ſight thereof through all the world,

18 Whoſe leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all, under the which the beaſts of the field dwelt, and upon whoſe branches the fowls of the heaven did ſit,

19 It is thou, O king, that art great and mighty: for thy greatneſs is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, and thy dominions to the ends of the earth.

20 Whereas the king ſaw a watchman, and an holy one, that came down from heaven, and ſaid, Hew down the tree and deſtroy it, yet leave the ſtump of the roots thereof in the earth, and with a band of iron and braſs bind it among the graſs of the field, and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beaſts of the field, [c] till ſeven times paſs over him.

21 This is the interpretation, O king, and it is the decree of the moſt High, which is come upon my lord the king:

22 That they ſhall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling ſhall be with the beaſts of the field: they ſhall make thee eat graſs as the [d] oxen, and they ſhall wet thee with the dew of heaven: and ſeven times ſhall paſs over thee, till thou know that the [e] moſt High beareth rule over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomſoever he will.

23 Whereas they ſaid, that one ſhould leave the ſtump of the tree roots, thy kingdom ſhall remain unto thee: after that, thou ſhalt know that the heavens have the rule.

24 Wherefore, O king, let my counſel be acceptable unto thee, and [f] break off thy ſins by righteouſneſs, and thine iniquities by mercy toward the poor: lo, let there be an [g] healing of thine error.

[t] In that that he ſent abroad to others, whoſe ignorance in times paſt he had experienced, and left Daniel; which was ever ready at hand: it declareth the nature of the ungodly, which never ſeek to the ſervants of God, but for very neceſſity, and then they ſpare no flatterings.

[u] This no doubt was a great grief to Daniel, not only to have his name changed, but to be called by the name of a vile idol, which thing Nebuchadnezzar did, to make him forget the true religion of God.

[w] Which alſo was a great grief to the prophet, to be numbered among the ſorcerers, and men whoſe practices were wicked, and contrary to God's word.

[x] By the tree is ſignified the dignity of a king, whom God ordaineth to be a defence for all kind of men, and whoſe ſtate is profitable for mankind.

[y] Meaning, the angel of God, which neither eateth nor ſleepeth, but is ever ready to do God's will, and is not infected with man's corruption, but is ever holy: and in that that he commandeth to cut down this tree, he knew that it ſhould not be cut down by man, but by God.

[z] Hereby he meaneth that Nebuchadnezzar ſhould not only for a time loſe his kingdom, but be like a beaſt.

[a] God hath decreed this judgment, and the whole army of heaven have, as it were, ſubſcribed unto it, like as alſo they deſire the execution of his decree againſt all them that lift up themſelves againſt God.

[b] He was troubled for the great judgment of God which he ſaw ordained againſt the king: and ſo the prophets uſed, on the one part, to denounce God's judgments for the zeal they bear to his glory: and on the other part, to have compaſſion upon man, and alſo to conſider, that they ſhould be ſubject to God's judgments, if they did not regard them with pity.

[c] Whereby he meaneth a long ſpace, as ſeven years. Some interpret ſeven months, and others ſeven weeks, but it ſeemeth he meant of years.

[d] Not that his ſhape or form was changed into a beaſt, but that he was either ſtricken mad, and ſo avoided man's company, or was caſt out for his tyranny, and ſo wandered among the beaſts, and ate herbs and graſs.

[e] Daniel ſheweth the cauſe why God thus puniſhed him.

[f] Ceaſe from provoking God to anger any longer by thy ſins, that he may mitigate his puniſhment, if thou ſhew by thine upright life that thou haſt true faith and repentance.

[g] Suffer the errors of thy former life to be redreſſed.

Bef. Chr. 570.

25 All theſe things ſhall come upon the king Nebuchadnezzar.

26 ¶ At the end of twelve [h] months, he walked in the royal palace of Babel.

27 And the king ſpake, and ſaid, Is not this great Babel, that I have built for the houſe of the kingdom, by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majeſty?

28 While the word was in the king's mouth, a voice came down from heaven, ſaying, O king Nebuchadnezzar, to thee be it ſpoken, Thy kingdom is departed from thee,

29 And they ſhall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling ſhall be with the beaſts of the field: they ſhall make thee to eat graſs as the oxen, and ſeven times ſhall paſs over thee, until thou knoweſt that the moſt High beareth rule over the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomſoever he will.

30 The very ſame hour was this thing fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar, and he was driven from men, and did eat graſs as the oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his hairs were grown as eagles feathers, and his nails like birds claws.

31 And at the end of theſe [i] days, I Nebuchadnezzar lift up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine underſtanding was reſtored unto me, and I gave thanks unto the moſt High, and I praiſed and honoured him that liveth for ever, * whoſe power is an everlaſting power, and his kingdom is from generation to generation.

* Ch. 7. 14. Mic. 4. 17. Luke 1. 33.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his [k] will he worketh in the army of heaven, and in the inhabitants of the earth, and none can ſtay his hand, nor ſay unto him, What doeſt thou?

33 At the ſame time was mine underſtanding reſtored unto me, and I returned to the honour of my kingdom: my glory and my beauty was reſtored unto me, and my counſellors [l] and my princes ſought unto me, and I was eſtabliſhed in my kingdom, and my glory was augmented toward me.

34 Now therefore, I Nebuchadnezzar [m] praiſe and extol and magnify the King of heaven, whoſe works are all truth, and his ways judgment; and thoſe that walk in pride, he is able to abaſe.

CHAP. V.

1 Belſhazzar king of Babylon ſeeth an hand-writing on the wall. 8 The ſoothſayers called of the king cannot expound the writing. 25 Daniel readeth it, and interpreteth it alſo. 30 The king is ſlain. 31 Darius enjoyeth the kingdom.

Bef. Chr. 538.

KING [n] Belſhazzar made a great feaſt to a thouſand of his princes, and drank wine [o] before the thouſand.

2 And Belſhazzar, ‡ while he taſted the wine, commanded to bring him the golden and ſilver veſſels, which his [p] father Nebuchadnezzar had brought from the temple in Jeruſalem, that the king and his princes, his wives and his concubines, might drink therein.

3 Then were brought the golden veſſels that were taken out of the temple of the Lord's houſe at Jeruſalem, and the king and his princes, his wives and his concubines, drank in them.

4 They drank wine, and praiſed the [q] gods of gold, and of ſilver, of braſs, of iron, of wood, and of ſtone.

5 At the ſame hour appeared fingers of a man's hand, which wrote [r] over-againſt the candleſtick upon the plaiſter of the wall of the king's palace, and the king ſaw the palm of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the king's countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, ſo that the joints of his loins were looſed, and his [s] knees ſmote one againſt the other.

7 Wherefore the king cried aloud, that they ſhould bring [t] the aſtrologers, the Chaldeans and the ſoothſayers. And the king ſpake, and ſaid to the wiſe men of Babel, Whoſoever can read this writing, and declare me the interpretation thereof, ſhall be cloathed with purple, and ſhall have a chain of gold about his neck, and ſhall be the third ruler in the kingdom.

8 Then came all the king's wiſe men, but they could neither read the writing, nor ſhew the king the interpretation.

9 Then was king Belſhazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were aſtoniſhed.

10 Now the [u] queen, by reaſon of the talk of the king and his princes, came into the banquet-houſe, and the queen ſpake, and ſaid, O king, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed:

11 There is a man in thy kingdom, in whom is the ſpirit of the holy gods, and in the days of thy father, light and underſtanding and wiſdom, like the wiſdom of the gods, was found in him: whom the king Nebuchadnezzar thy father, the king, I ſay, thy father, made chief of the [w] inchanters, aſtrologers, Chaldeans, and ſoothſayers.

[h] After that Daniel had declared this viſion: and this his pride declareth that it is not in man to convert to God, except his Spirit move him, ſeeing that theſe terrible threatenings could not move him to repent.

[i] When the term of theſe ſeven years was accompliſhed.

[k] He confeſſeth God's will to be the rule of all juſtice, and a moſt perfect law whereby he governeth both man and angels, and devils, ſo that none ought to murmur, or aſk a reaſon of his doing, but only to ſtand content therewith, and give him the glory.

[l] By whom it ſeemeth that he had been put from his kingdom before.

[m] He doth not only praiſe God for his deliverance, but alſo confeſſeth his fault, that God may only have the glory, and man the ſhame, and that he may be exalted, and man caſt down.

[n] Daniel reciteth the hiſtory of king Belſhazzar, Evil-merodach's ſon, to ſhew God's judgments againſt the wicked for the deliverance of his church, and how the prophecy of Jeremiah was true, that they ſhould be delivered after ſeventy years.

[o] The kings of the eaſt parts then uſed to ſit alone commonly, and diſdained that any ſhould ſit in their company: and now to ſhew his power, and how little he ſet by his enemy, which then beſieged Babylon, he made a ſolemn banquet, and uſed exceſs in their company, which is meant here by drinking wine: thus the wicked are moſt diſſolute and negligent, when their deſtruction is at hand.

[q] In contempt of the true God, they praiſed their idols; not that they thought that the gold or ſilver were gods, but that there was a certain virtue and power in them to do them good, which is alſo the opinion of all idolaters.

[r] That it might the better be ſeen.

[s] So he that before contemned God, was moved by this ſight to tremble for fear of God's judgments.

[t] Thus the wicked in their troubles ſeek many means, which draw them from God, becauſe they ſeek not to him who is the only comfort in all afflictions.

[u] To wit, his grandmother, Nebuchadnezzar's wife, which for her age was not before at the feaſt, but came thither when ſhe heard of theſe ſtrange news.

[w] Read chap. 4. 6. and this declareth, that both this name was odious unto him, and alſo that he did not uſe theſe vile practices, becauſe he was not among them when all were called.

Bef. Chr. 538. 12 Becauſe a more excellent ſpirit, and knowledge, and underſtanding (for he did expound dreams, and declare hard ſentences, and diſſolved doubts) were found in him, even in Daniel, whom the king named Belteſhazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he will declare the interpretation.

13 ¶ Then was Daniel brought before the king, and the king ſpake, and ſaid unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children, of the captivity of Judah, whom my father the king brought out of Jewry?

14 Now, I have heard of thee, that [x] the ſpirit of the holy gods is in thee, and that light, and underſtanding, and excellent wiſdom is found in thee.

15 Now therefore, wiſe men, and aſtrologers have been brought before me, that they ſhould read this writing, and ſhew me the interpretation thereof: but they could not declare the interpretation of the thing.

16 Then heard I of thee, that thou couldſt ſhew interpretations, and diſſolve doubts: now if thou canſt read the writing, and ſhew me the interpretation thereof, thou ſhalt be cloathed with purple, and ſhalt have a chain of gold about thy neck, and ſhalt be the third ruler in the kingdom.

17 Then Daniel anſwered, and ſaid before the king, Keep thy rewards to thyſelf, and give thy gifts to another: yet I will read the writing unto the king, and ſhew him the interpretation.

18 O king, hear thou, The moſt high God gave unto [y] Nebuchadnezzar thy father a kingdom, and majeſty, and honour, and glory.

19 And for the majeſty that he gave him, all people, nations, and languages trembled, and feared before him: he put to death whom he would: he ſmote whom he would: whom he would he ſet up, and whom he would he put down.

20 But when his heart was puft up, and his mind hardened in pride, he was depoſed from his kingly throne, and they took his honour from him.

21 And he was driven from the ſons of men, and his heart was made like the beaſts, and his dwelling was with the wild aſſes: they fed him with graſs like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till he knew that the moſt high God bare rule over the kingdom of men, and that he appointeth over it whomſoever he pleaſeth.

22 And thou his ſon, O Belſhazzar, haſt not humbled thine heart, though thou kneweſt all theſe things,

23 But haſt lift thyſelf up againſt the Lord of heaven, and they have brought the veſſels of his houſe before thee, and thou and thy princes, thy wives and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them, and thou haſt praiſed the gods of ſilver and gold, of braſs, iron, wood and ſtone, which neither ſee, neither hear, nor underſtand: and the God, in whoſe hand thy breath is, and all thy ways, him haſt thou not glorified. Bef. Chr. 538.

24 [z] Then was the palm of the hand ſent from him, and hath written this writing.

25 And this is the writing that he hath written, [a] MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing, MENE, God hath numbered thy kingdom, and hath finiſhed it.

27 TEKEL, Thou art weighed in the balance, and art found ‡ too light. ‡ Or, wanting.

28 PERES, Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Perſians.

29 Then at the commandment of Belſhazzar they cloathed Daniel with purple, and put a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he ſhould be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 The ſame night was Belſhazzar the king of the Chaldeans ſlain.

31 And Darius [b] of the Medes took the kingdom, being threeſcore and two years old.

1 Daniel is made ruler over the governors. 5 An act againſt Daniel. 16 He is put into a den of lions by the commandment of the king. 23 He is delivered by faith in God. 24 Daniel's accuſers are put unto the lions. 25 Darius by a decree magnifieth the God of Daniel.

2 And over theſe, three rulers (of whom Daniel was one) that the governors might give accounts unto them, and the king ſhould ‡ have no damage. ‡ Or, not be troubled.

3 Now this Daniel [d] was preferred above the rulers and governors, becauſe the ſpirit was excellent in him, and the king thought to ſet him over the whole realm.

4 ¶ Wherefore the rulers and governors [e] ſought an occaſion againſt Daniel concerning the kingdom: but they could find none occaſion or fault: for he was ſo faithful, that there was no blame nor fault found in him.

5 Then ſaid theſe men, We ſhall not find an occaſion againſt this Daniel, except we find it againſt him concerning the law of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and theſe governors went together to the king, and ſaid thus unto him, King Darius, live for ever.

[d] This heathen king preferred Daniel a ſtranger to all his nobles and familiars, becauſe the graces of God were more excellent in him than in others.

[e] Thus the wicked cannot abide the graces of God in others, but ſeek by all occaſions to deface them: therefore againſt ſuch aſſaults there is no better remedy than to walk uprightly in the fear of God, and to have a good conſcience.

Bef. Chr. 537. aſk a petition of any god or man for thirty days, ſave of thee, O king, he ſhall be caſt into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, confirm the decree, and ſeal the writing, that it be not changed according to the law of the Medes and Perſians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius [f] ſealed the writing and the decree.

10 ¶ Now when Daniel underſtood that he had ſealed the writing, he went into his houſe, and his [g] window being open in his chamber toward Jeruſalem, he kneeled upon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and praiſed his God, as he did aforetime.

11 Then theſe men aſſembled, and found Daniel praying, and making ſupplication unto his God.

12 So they came, and ſpake unto the king, concerning the king's decree, Haſt thou not ſealed the decree, that every man that ſhall make a requeſt to any god or man within thirty days, ſave to thee, O king, ſhall be caſt into the den of lions? The king anſwered and ſaid, The thing is true, according the law of the Medes and Perſians, which altereth not.

13 Then anſwered they, and ſaid unto the king, This Daniel, which is of the children of the captivity of Judah, regardeth not thee, O king, nor the decree that thou haſt ſealed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 When the king heard theſe words, he was ſore diſpleaſed with himſelf, and ſet his heart on Daniel to deliver him: and he laboured till the ſun went down, to deliver him.

15 Then theſe men aſſembled unto the king, and ſaid unto the king, Underſtand, O king, that the law of the Medes and Perſians is, that no decree nor ſtatute which the king confirmeth may be [h] altered.

16 ¶ Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and caſt him into the den of lions: now the king ſpake, and ſaid unto Daniel, Thy God, whom thou alway ſerveſt, even he will deliver thee.

17 And a ſtone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den, and the king ſealed it with his own ſignet, and with the ſignet of his princes, that the purpoſe might not be changed concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went unto his palace, and remained faſting, neither were the inſtruments of muſick brought before him, and his ſleep went from him.

19 ¶ Then the king roſe early in the morning, and went in all haſte unto the den of lions. Bef. Chr. 537.

20 And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel: and the king ſpake, and ſaid unto Daniel, O Daniel, the ſervant of the living God, is not thy God, (whom thou alway ſerveſt) [i] able to deliver thee from the lions?

21 Then Daniel ſaid unto the king, O king, live for ever.

22 My God hath ſent his angel, and hath ſhut the lions mouths, that they have not hurt me: for my [k] juſtice was found out before him: and unto thee, O king, I have done [l] no hurt.

23 Then was the king exceedingly glad for him, and commanded that they ſhould take Daniel out of the den: ſo Daniel was brought out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, becauſe he [m] believed in his God.

24 And by the commandment of the king, theſe men which had accuſed Daniel, were brought, and were [n] caſt into the den of lions, even they, their children, and their wives: and the lions had the maſtery of them, and brake all their bones a-pieces or ever they came at the ground of the den.

25 ¶ Afterward king Darius wrote, Unto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world: Peace be multiplied unto you.

26 I make a decree, that in all the dominion of my kingdom, men tremble and fear [o] before the God of Daniel: for he is the [p] living God, and remaineth for ever, and his kingdom ſhall not periſh, and his dominion ſhall be everlaſting:

27 He reſcueth and delivereth, and he worketh ſigns and wonders in heaven and in earth, who hath delivered Daniel from the power of the lions.

28 So this Daniel proſpered in the reign of Darius, and in the reign of Cyrus of Perſia.

CHAP. VII.

1 A viſion of four beaſts is ſhewed unto Daniel. 8 The ten horns of the fourth beaſt. 27 Of the everlaſting kingdom of Chriſt.

IN the firſt year of Belſhazzar king of Babel, Daniel ſaw a dream, and there were viſions in his head, upon his bed: [q] then he wrote the dream, and declared the ſum of the matter.

2 Daniel,

[f] Herein is condemned the wickedneſs of the king, who would be ſet up as a god, and paſſed not what wicked laws he approved for the maintenance of the ſame.

[g] Becauſe he would not by his ſilence ſhew that he conſented to this wicked decree, he ſet open his windows toward Jeruſalem, when he prayed: both to ſtir up himſelf with the remembrance of God's promiſes to his people when they ſhould pray toward that temple, and alſo that others might ſee that he would neither conſent in heart nor deed for theſe few days, to any thing that was contrary to God's glory.

[h] Thus the wicked maintain evil laws by conſtancy and authority, which is oft-times either lightneſs or ſtubbornneſs, whenas the innocents thereby periſh: and therefore governors neither ought to fear, nor be aſhamed to break ſuch.

[i] This declareth that Darius was not touched with the true knowledge of God, becauſe he doubted of his power.

[k] My juſt cauſe and uprightneſs in this thing wherein I was charged, is approved of God.

[l] For he did diſobey the king's commandment to obey God, and ſo did no injury to the king, who ought to command nothing whereby God ſhould be diſhonoured.

[m] Becauſe he committed himſelf wholly unto God whoſe cauſe he did defend, he was aſſured, that nothing but good could come unto him: wherein we ſee the power of faith, as Heb. 11. 33.

[n] This is a terrible example againſt all the wicked, which do againſt their conſcience make cruel laws to deſtroy the children of God, and alſo admoniſheth princes how to puniſh ſuch, when their wickedneſs is come to light: though not in every point, or with ſuch-like circumſtances, yet to execute true juſtice upon them.

[o] This proveth not that Darius did worſhip God aright, or elſe was converted: for then he would have deſtroyed all ſuperſtition and idolatry, and not only given God the chief place, but alſo have ſet him up, and cauſed him to be honoured according to his word: but this was a certain confeſſion of God's power, whereunto he was compelled by this wonderful miracle.

[p] Which hath not only life in himſelf, but is the only fountain of life, and quickeneth all things, ſo that without him there is no life.

[q] Whereas the people of Iſrael looked for a continual quietneſs after theſe ſeventy years, as Jeremiah had declared, he ſheweth that this reſt ſhall not be a deliverance from all troubles, but a beginning, and therefore encourageth them

Bef. Chr. 555.

2 Daniel ſpake and ſaid, I ſaw in my viſion by night, and behold, the four winds of heaven ſtrove upon [r] the great ſea:

3 And four great beaſts came up from the ſea, one diverſe from another.

4 The firſt was as a [s] lion, and had eagles wings: I beheld, till the wings thereof were pluckt off, and it was lifted up from the earth, and ſet upon his feet as a man, and a man's heart was given him.

5 And behold, another beaſt which was the ſecond, was like a [t] bear, and ſtood upon the [u] one ſide: and he had three ribs in his [w] mouth between his teeth, [x] and they ſaid thus unto him, Ariſe, and devour much fleſh.

6 After this, I beheld, and lo, there was another like a [y] leopard, which had upon his back [z] four wings of a fowl: the beaſt had alſo four heads, and [a] dominion was given him.

7 After this, I ſaw in the viſions by night, and behold, the [b] fourth beaſt was fearful and terrible, and very ſtrong. It had [c] great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces and ſtamped [d] the reſidue under his feet: and it was unlike to the beaſts that were before it: for it had [e] ten horns.

8 As I conſidered the horns, behold, there came up among them another little [f] horn, before whom there were [g] three of the firſt horns pluckt away: and behold, in this horn were [h] eyes like the eyes of a man, and a mouth ſpeaking preſumptuous things.

9 I beheld, till the [i] thrones were ſet up, and the [k] Ancient of days did ſit, whoſe garment was white as ſnow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire.

Bef. Chr. 555.

10 A fiery ſtream iſſued and came forth from before him: thouſand thouſands miniſtered unto him, and ten thouſand [l] thouſands ſtood before him: the judgment was ſet, and the [m] books opened.

11 Then I beheld, [n] becauſe of the voice of the preſumptuous words, which the horn ſpake: I beheld, even till the beaſt was ſlain, and his body deſtroyed, and given to the burning fire.

12 As [o] concerning the other beaſts, they had taken away their dominion: yet their lives were prolonged for a certain time and ſeaſon.

13 ¶ As I beheld in viſions by night, behold, [p] one like the Son of man came in the clouds of heaven, and [q] approached unto the Ancient of days, and they brought him before him.

14 And he gave him [r] dominion and honour, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages ſhould ſerve him: his dominion is an everlaſting dominion, which never ſhall be taken away: and his kingdom ſhall never be deſtroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniel was [s] troubled in my ſpirit, in the midſt of my body, and the viſions of mine head made me afraid.

16 Therefore I came unto [t] one of them that ſtood by, and aſked him the truth of all them to look for a continual affliction, till the Meſſiah be uttered and revealed, by whom they ſhould have a ſpiritual deliverance, and all the promiſes fulfilled: whereof they ſhould have a certain token in the deſtruction of the Babylonical kingdom.

[r] Which ſignified that there ſhould be horrible troubles and afflictions in all the corners of the world, and at ſundry times.

[s] Meaning, the Aſſyrian and Chaldean empire, which was moſt ſtrong and fierce in power, and muſt ſoon come to their authority, as though they had wings to fly, yet their wings were pulled by the Perſians, and they went on their feet, and were made like other men, which is here meant by man's heart.

[t] Meaning, the Perſians, which were barbarous and cruel.

[u] They were ſmall in the beginning, and were ſhut up in the mountains, and had no bruit.

[w] That is, deſtroyed many kingdoms, and was inſatiable.

[x] To wit, the angels by God's commandment, who by this means puniſhed the ingratitude of the world.

[y] Meaning, Alexander king of Macedonia.

[z] That is, his four chief captains, which had the empire among them after his death. Seleucus had Aſia the great, Antigonus the leſs, Caſſander, and after him Antipater, was king of Macedonia, and Ptolomæus had Egypt.

[a] It was not of himſelf, nor of his own power, that he got all theſe countries: for his armies contained but thirty thouſand men, and he overcame in one battle Darius, which had ten hundred thouſand, when he was ſo heavy with ſleep that his eyes were ſcarce open, as the ſtories report: therefore this power was given him of God.

[b] That is, the Roman empire, which was as a monſter, and could not be compared to any beaſt, becauſe the nature of none was able to expreſs it.

[c] Signifying, the tyranny and greedineſs of the Romans.

[d] That which the Romans could not quietly enjoy in other countries, they would give it to other kings and rulers, that at all times when they would they might take it again: which liberality is here called, the ſtamping of the reſt under the feet.

[e] That is, ſundry and divers provinces which were governed by the deputies and proconſuls, whereof every one may be compared to a king.

[f] Which is meant of Julius Cæſar, Auguſtus, Tiberius, Caligula, Claudius and Nero, &c. who were as kings in effect, but becauſe they could not rule but by the conſent of the ſenate, their power is compared to a little horn. For Mahomet came not of the Roman empire, and the pope hath no vocation of government: therefore this cannot be applied unto them: and alſo in this prophecy the prophet's purpoſe is chiefly to comfort the Jews unto the revelation of Chriſt. Some take it for the whole body of Antichriſt.

[g] Meaning, a certain portion of the ten horns: that is, a part from the whole eſtate was pluckt away. For Auguſtus took from the ſenate the liberty of chuſing the deputies to ſend into the provinces, and took the government of certain countries to himſelf.

[h] Theſe Roman emperors at the firſt uſed a certain humanity and gentleneſs, and were content that others, as the conſuls and ſenates, ſhould bear the name of dignity, ſo that they might have the profit, and therefore in elections and counſels would behave themſelves according as did other ſenators: yet againſt their enemies, and thoſe that would reſiſt them, they were fierce and cruel, which is here meant by the proud mouth.

[i] Meaning, the places where God and his angels ſhould come to judge theſe monarchies; which judgment ſhould begin at the firſt coming of Chriſt.

[k] That is, God, which was before all times, and is here deſcribed as man's nature is able to comprehend ſome portion of his glory.

[l] That is, an infinite number of angels, which were ready to execute his commandment.

[m] This is meant of the firſt coming of Chriſt, when as the will of God was plainly revealed by his goſpel.

[n] Meaning, that he was aſtoniſhed, when he ſaw theſe emperors in ſuch dignity and pride, and ſo ſuddenly deſtroyed at the coming of Chriſt, when this fourth monarchy was ſubject to men of other nations.

[o] As the three former monarchies had an end at the time that God appointed, although they flouriſhed for a time, ſo ſhall this fourth have, and they that patiently abide God's appointment, ſhall enjoy the promiſes.

[p] Which is meant of Chriſt, who had not yet taken upon him man's nature, neither was the ſon of David according to the fleſh, as he was afterward: but appeared then in a figure, and that in the clouds: that is, being ſeparate from the common ſort of men by manifeſt ſigns of his divinity.

[q] To wit, when he aſcended into the heavens, and his divine majeſty appeared, and all power was given unto him in reſpect of that, that he was our Mediator.

[r] This is meant of the beginning of Chriſt's kingdom, when God the Father gave unto him all dominion, as to the Mediator, to the intent that he ſhould govern here his church in earth continually, till the time that he brought them to eternal life.

[s] Through the ſtrangeneſs of the viſion.

[t] Meaning, of the angels, as ver. 10.

Bef. Chr. 555. this: ſo he told me, and ſhewed me the interpretation of theſe things.

17 Theſe great beaſts which are four, are four kings which ſhall ariſe out of the earth,

18 And they ſhall take the [u] kingdom of the ſaints of the [w] Moſt High, which ſhall poſſeſs the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever.

19 ¶ After this I would know the truth of the fourth beaſt, which was ſo [x] unlike to all the others, very fearful, whoſe teeth were of iron, and his nails of braſs: which devoured, brake in pieces, and ſtamped the [y] reſidue under his feet.

20 Alſo to know of the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other which came up, before whom three fell, and of the horn that had eyes, and of the mouth that ſpake preſumptuous things, whoſe [z] look was more ſtout than his fellows.

21 I beheld, and the ſame [a] horn made battle againſt the ſaints, yea, and prevailed againſt them,

22 Until [b] the Ancient of days came, and judgment was given to the ſaints of the Moſt High: and the time approached that the ſaints poſſeſſed the kingdom.

23 Then he ſaid, The fourth beaſt ſhall be the fourth kingdom in the earth, which ſhall be unlike to all the kingdoms, and ſhall devour the whole earth, and ſhall tread it down and break it in pieces.

24 And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that ſhall riſe: and another ſhall riſe after them, and he ſhall be unlike to the firſt, and he ſhall ſubdue [c] three kings,

25 And ſhall ſpeak words againſt [d] the Moſt High, and ſhall conſume the ſaints of the Moſt High, and think that he may [e] change times and laws, and they ſhall be given into his hand, until a [f] time and times, and the dividing of time.

26 But the [g] judgment ſhall ſit, and they that take away his dominion to conſume and deſtroy it unto the end. Bef. Chr. 555.

27 And the [h] kingdom, and dominion, and the greatneſs of the kingdom under the whole heaven, ſhall be given to the holy people of the Moſt High, whoſe kingdom is an everlaſting kingdom, and all [i] powers ſhall ſerve and obey him.

28 Even this is the end of the matter, I Daniel had many [k] cogitations which troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I kept the matter in mine heart.

CHAP. VIII.

A viſion of a battle between a ram and a goat. 20 The underſtanding of the viſion.

IN the third year of the reign of king Belſhazzar, a viſion appeared unto me, even unto me Daniel, [l] after that which appeared unto me at the firſt.

2 And I ſaw in a viſion, and when I ſaw it, I was in the palace of Shuſhan, which is in the province [m] of Elam, and in a viſion methought I was by the river of Ulai.

3 Then I looked up and ſaw, and behold, there ſtood before the river a [n] ram, which had two horns: and theſe two horns were high: but one was [o] higher than another, and the higheſt came up laſt.

4 And I ſaw the ram puſhing againſt the Weſt, and againſt the North, and againſt the South: ſo that no [p] beaſts might ſtand before him, nor could deliver out of his hand, but he did what he liſted, and became great.

5 And as I conſidered, behold, [q] a goat came from the Weſt over the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and this goat had an [r] horn that appeared between his eyes.

6 And he came unto the ram that had the two horns, whom I had ſeen ſtanding by the river, and ran unto him in his fierce rage.

[u] Becauſe Abraham was appointed heir of all the world, Rom. 4. 13. and in him all the faithful, therefore the kingdom thereof is theirs by right, which theſe four beaſts or tyrants ſhould invade and uſurp until the world were reſtored by Chriſt: and this was to confirm them that were in troubles, that their afflictions ſhould have an end at length.

[w] That is, of the moſt high things, becauſe God hath choſen them out of this world, that they ſhould look up to the heavens, whereon all their hope dependeth.

[x] For the other three monarchies were governed by a king, and the Roman empire by conſuls: the Romans changed their governors yearly, and the other monarchies retained them for term of life: alſo the Romans were the ſtrongeſt of all the other, and were never quiet among themſelves.

[y] Read ver 7.

[z] This is meant of the fourth beaſt, which was more terrible than the other.

[a] Meaning, the Roman emperors, who were moſt cruel againſt the church of God, both of the Jews and of the Gentiles.

[b] Till God ſhewed his power in the perſon of Chriſt, and by the preaching of the goſpel gave unto his ſome reſt, and ſo obtained a famous name in the world, and were called the church of God, or the kingdom of God.

[c] Read the expoſition hereof, ver. 8.

[d] That is, ſhall make wicked decrees and proclamations againſt God's word, and ſend throughout all their dominion, to deſtroy all that did profeſs it.

[e] Theſe emperors ſhall not conſider that they have their power of God, but think it is in their own power to change God's laws and man's, and as it were the order of nature, as appeareth by Octavius, Tiberius, Caligula, Nero, Domitianus, &c.

[f] God ſhall ſuffer them thus to rage againſt his ſaints for a long time, which is meant by the time and times, but at length he will aſſuage theſe troubles, and ſhorten the times for his elect's ſake, Matt. 24. 22. which is here meant by the dividing of time.

[g] God by his power ſhall reſtore things that were out of order, and ſo deſtroy this little horn, that it ſhall never riſe up again.

[h] He ſheweth wherefore the beaſt ſhould be deſtroyed, to wit, that his church might have reſt and quietneſs, which though they do not fully enjoy here, yet they have it in hope, and by the preaching of the goſpel enjoy the beginning thereof, which is meant, by theſe words, 'under the heaven:' and therefore he here ſpeaketh of the beginning of Chriſt's kingdom in this world, which kingdom the faithful have by the participation that they have with Chriſt their head.

[i] That is, ſome of every ſort that bear rule.

[k] Tho' he had many motions in his heart, which moved him to and fro to ſeek out this matter curiouſly: yet he was content with that which God revealed, and kept it in memory, and wrote it for the uſe of the church.

[l] After the general viſion he cometh to certain particular viſions: as touching the deſtruction of the monarchy of the Perſians and Macedonians: for the ruin of the Babylonians was at hand, and alſo he had ſufficiently ſpoken thereof.

[m] That is, of Perſia.

[n] Which repreſenteth the kingdom of the Perſians and Medes, which were joined together.

[o] Meaning, Cyrus, which after grew greater in power than Darius his uncle and father-in-law.

[p] That is, no kings or nations.

[q] Meaning, Alexander that came from Greece, with great ſpeed and expedition.

[r] Though he came in the name of all Greece, yet he bare the title and dignity of the general captain, ſo that the ſtrength was attributed to him which is meant by this horn.

Bef. Chr. 553. 7 And I ſaw him come unto the ram, and being moved againſt him, he [s] ſmote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to ſtand againſt him, but he caſt him down to the ground, and ſtamped upon him, and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his power.

8 Therefore the goat waxed exceeding great, and when he was at the ſtrongeſt, his great [t] horn was broken: and for it came up four that [u] appeared toward the four winds of the heaven.

9 And out of one of them came forth [w] a little horn, which waxed very great toward the [x] South, and toward the [y] Eaſt, and toward the [z] pleaſant land.

10 Yea, it grew up unto the [a] hoſt of heaven, and it caſt down ſome of the hoſt, and of the ſtars to the ground, and trod upon them,

11 And extolled himſelf againſt the [b] Prince of the hoſt, from whom the [c] daily ſacrifice was taken away, and the place of his ſanctuary was caſt down.

12 And [d] a time ſhall be given him over the daily ſacrifice for the iniquity: and it ſhall [e] caſt down the truth to the ground, and thus ſhall it do, and proſper.

13 Then I heard one of the [f] ſaints ſpeaking, and one of the ſaints ſpake unto a certain one, ſaying, How long ſhall I endure the viſion of the daily ſacrifice, and the iniquity of the [g] deſolation to tread both the ſanctuary and the [h] army under foot?

14 And [i] he anſwered me, Unto the [k] evening and the morning, two thouſand and three hundred: then ſhall the ſanctuary be cleanſed.

15 ¶ Now when I Daniel had ſeen the viſion, and ſought for the meaning, behold, there ſtood before me [l] like the ſimilitude of a man.

16 And I heard a man's voice between the banks of Ulai, which called, and ſaid, Gabriel, [m] make this man to underſtand the viſion.

17 So he came where I ſtood: and when he came, I was afraid, and fell upon my face: but he ſaid unto me, Underſtand, O ſon of man: for [n] in the laſt time ſhall be the viſion. Bef. Chr. 553.

18 Now as he was ſpeaking unto me, I being aſleep, fell on my face to the ground: but he touched me, and ſet me up in my place.

19 And he ſaid, Behold, I will ſhew thee what ſhall be in the laſt [o] wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it ſhall come.

20 The ram which thou ſaweſt having two horns, are the kings of the Medes and Perſians.

21 And the goat is the king of Greece, and the great horn that is between his eyes is the firſt king.

22 And that that is broken, and four ſtood up for it, are four kingdoms, which ſhall ſtand up [p] of that nation, but not [q] in his ſtrength.

23 And in the end of their kingdom, when the rebellious ſhall be conſumed, a king of [r] fierce countenance, and underſtanding dark ſentences, ſhall ſtand up:

24 And his power ſhall be mighty, but not [s] in his ſtrength: and he ſhall deſtroy wonderfully, and ſhall proſper, and practiſe, and ſhall deſtroy the [t] mighty, and the holy people.

25 And through his [u] policy alſo, he ſhall cauſe craft to proſper in his hand, and he ſhall extol himſelf in his heart, and by [w] peace ſhall deſtroy many: he ſhall alſo ſtand up againſt the [x] Prince of princes, but he ſhall be broken down [y] without hand.

26 And the viſion of the [z] evening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therefore ſeal thou up the viſion, for it ſhall be after many days.

27 And I Daniel was ſtricken and ſick [a] certain days: but when I roſe up, I did the king's buſineſs, and I was aſtoniſhed at the viſion, but none underſtood it.

CHAP. IX.

4 Daniel deſireth to have that performed of God, which he had promiſed concerning the return of the

---

[s] Alexander overcame Darius in two ſundry battles, and ſo had the two kingdoms of the Medes and Perſians.

[t] Alexander's great power was broken, for when he had overcome all the Eaſt, he thought to return toward Grecia to ſubdue them that there had rebelled, and ſo died by the way.

[u] That is, which were famous: for almoſt in the ſpace of fifteen years, there were fifteen divers ſucceſſors before this monarchy was divided to theſe four, whereof Caſſander had Macedonia, Seleucus Syria, Antigonus Aſia the leſs, and Ptolomæus Egypt.

[w] Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who was of a ſervile and flattering nature, and alſo there were other between him and the kingdom, and therefore is here called the little horn, becauſe neither princely conditions, nor any other thing was in him, why he ſhould obtain this kingdom.

[x] That is, toward Egypt.

[y] Whereby he meaneth Ptolemais.

[z] That is, Judea.

[a] Antiochus raged againſt the elect of God, and trod his precious ſtars under feet, which are ſo called, becauſe they are ſeparated from the world.

[b] That is, God, who governeth and maintaineth his church.

[c] He laboured to aboliſh all religion, and therefore caſt God's ſervice out of his temple, which God had choſen as a little corner from all the reſt of the world to have his name there truly called upon.

[d] He ſheweth that their ſins are the cauſe of all theſe horrible afflictions: and yet comforteth them, in that he appointeth this tyrant a time, whom he would not ſuffer utterly to aboliſh his religion.

[e] This horn ſhall aboliſh for a time the true doctrine, and ſo corrupt God's ſervice.

[f] Meaning, that he heard one of the angels aſking this queſtion of Chriſt, whom he calleth a certain one, or a ſecret one, or a marvellous one.

[g] That is, the Jews ſins, which were the cauſe of this deſtruction.

[h] That is, which ſuppreſſeth God's religion, and his people.

[i] Chriſt anſwered me for the comfort of the church.

[k] That is, until ſo many natural days be paſt, which make ſix years three months and an half, for ſo long under Antiochus was the temple profaned.

[l] Which was Chriſt, who in this manner declared himſelf to the old fathers, how he would be God manifeſted in the fleſh.

[m] This power to command the angel, declared that he was God.

[n] The effect of this viſion ſhall not yet appear, but a long time after.

[o] Meaning that great rage which Antiochus ſhould ſhew againſt the church.

[p] That is, out of Greece.

[q] They ſhall not have like power as had Alexander.

[r] Noting, that this king Antiochus was impudent and cruel, and alſo crafty, that he could not be deceived.

[s] That is, not like Alexander's ſtrength.

[t] Both the Gentiles that dwell about him, and alſo the Jews.

[u] Whatſoever he goeth about by his craft, he ſhall bring it to paſs.

[w] That is, under pretence of peace: or as it were in ſport.

[x] Meaning, againſt God.

[y] For God would deſtroy him with a notable plague, and ſo comfort his church.

[z] Read ver. 14.

[a] For fear and aſtoniſhment.

Bef. Chr. 538.

the people from their baniſhment in Babylon. 5 A true confeſſion. 20 Daniel's prayer is heard. 21 21 Gabriel the angel expoundeth unto him the viſion of the ſeventy weeks. 24 The anointing of Chriſt. 25 The building again of Jeruſalem. 26 The death of Chriſt.

IN the firſt year of Darius the ſon of [b] Ahaſuerus, of the ſeed of the Medes, which was made king over the [c] realm of the Chaldeans,

2 Even in the firſt year of his reign, I Daniel underſtood by [d] books, the number of the years, whereof the Lord had ſpoken unto Jeremiah the prophet, that he would accompliſh ſeventy years in the deſolation of Jeruſalem.

3 And I turned my face unto the Lord God, and [e] ſought by prayer and ſupplications, with faſting and ſackcloth and aſhes,

4 And I prayed unto the Lord my God, and made my confeſſion, ſaying, O Lord God, which art [f] great and fearful, and keepeſt covenant and mercy toward them which love † thee, and toward them that keep thy commandments, † Heb. him.

5 We have ſinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, yea, we have rebelled, and have departed from thy precepts, and from thy judgments:

6 For we would not obey thy ſervants the prophets, which ſpake in thy name to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, [g] righteouſneſs belongeth unto thee, and unto us ‡ open ſhame, as appeareth this day, to every man of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem: yea, unto all Iſrael, both near and far off, through all the countries whither thou haſt driven them, becauſe of their offences that they have committed againſt thee.

8 O Lord, unto us appertaineth open ſhame, to our [h] kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, becauſe we have ſinned againſt thee.

9 Yet compaſſion and forgiveneſs is in the Lord our God, albeit we have rebelled againſt him:

10 For we have not obeyed the [k] voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws, which he had laid before us by the miniſtry of his ſervants the prophets.

11 Yea, all Iſrael have tranſgreſſed thy law, and are turned back, and have not heard thy voice: therefore the [l] curſe is poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the law of Moſes the ſervant of God, becauſe we have ſinned againſt him.

12 And he hath confirmed his words, which he ſpake againſt us, and againſt our judges that ‡ judged us, by bringing upon us a great plague: for under the whole heaven hath not been the like, as hath been brought upon Jeruſalem.

Bef. Chr. 538.

‡ Or, governed us.

13 All this plague is come upon us, as it is written in the law of Moſes: yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and underſtand thy truth.

14 Therefore hath the Lord † made ready the plague, and brought it upon us: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his works which he doth: for we would not hear his voice.

† Heb. watched upon the evil.

15 * And now, O Lord our God, that haſt brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and haſt gotten thee renown, as appeareth this day, we have ſinned, we have done wickedly.

* Exod. 14. 28.

16 O Lord, according to all thy [m] righteouſneſs, I beſeech thee, let thine anger and thy wrath be turned away from the city Jeruſalem thine holy mountain: for becauſe of our ſins, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jeruſalem and thy people are a reproach to all that are about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy ſervant, and his ſupplications, and cauſe thy face to [n] ſhine upon thy ſanctuary that lieth waſte, for the [o] Lord's ſake.

18 O my God, incline thine ear and hear: open thine eyes and behold our deſolations, and the city whereupon thy name is called: for we do not preſent our ſupplications before thee for our [p] own righteouſneſs, but for thy great tender mercies.

19 O Lord, hear, O Lord, forgive, O Lord, [q] conſider, and do it: defer not, for thine own ſake, O my God: for thy name is called upon thy city, and upon thy people.

20 ¶ And whiles I was ſpeaking and praying, and confeſſing my ſin, and the ſin of my people Iſrael, and did preſent my ſupplication before the Lord my God, for the holy mountain of my God,

21 Yea, while I was ſpeaking in prayer, even the man * Gabriel, whom I had ſeen before in the viſion, came flying, and touched me about the time of the evening oblation.

* Ch. 8. 16.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and ſaid, O Daniel, I am now come forth to give thee knowledge and underſtanding.

23 At the beginning of thy ſupplications the commandment came forth, and I am come to ſhew thee, for thou art greatly beloved: therefore underſtand the matter and conſider the viſion.

[b] Who was alſo called Aſtyages.

[c] For Cyrus, led with ambition, went about wars in other countries, and therefore Darius had the title of the kingdom, though Cyrus was king in effect.

[d] For though he was an excellent prophet, yet he daily increaſed in knowledge by reading of the ſcriptures.

[e] He ſpeaketh not of that ordinary prayer, which he uſed in his houſe thrice a day, but of a rare and vehement prayer, leſt their ſins ſhould cauſe God to delay the time of their deliverance propheſied by Jeremiah.

[f] That is, haſt all power in thyſelf to execute thy terrible judgments againſt obſtinate ſinners, as thou art rich in mercy to comfort them which obey thy word, and love thee.

[g] He ſheweth that whenſoever God puniſheth, he doth it for juſt cauſe: and thus the godly never accuſe him of rigour as the wicked do, but acknowledge that in themſelves there is juſt cauſe why he ſhould ſo intreat them.

[h] He doth not excuſe the kings becauſe of their authority, but prayeth chiefly for them as the chief occaſions of theſe great plagues.

[k] He ſheweth that they rebel againſt God, which ſerve him not according to his commandment and word.

[l] As Deut. 27. 15. or the curſe confirmed by an oath.

[m] That is, according to all thy merciful promiſes and the performance thereof.

[n] Shew thyſelf favourable.

[o] That is, for thy Chriſt's ſake, in whom thou wilt accept all our prayers.

[p] Declaring, that the godly flee only unto God's mercies, and renounce their own works, when they ſeek for remiſſion of their ſins.

[q] Thus he could not content himſelf with any vehemency of words: for he was ſo led with a fervent zeal, conſidering God's promiſe made to the city, in reſpect of his church, and for the advancement of God's glory.

Bef. Chr. 538.

24 Seventy [q] weeks are determined upon [r] thy people, and upon thy holy city, to finiſh the wickedneſs, and to ſeal up the [s] ſins, and to reconcile the iniquity, and to bring in everlaſting righteouſneſs, and to ſeal up the viſion and prophecy, and to anoint the moſt Holy.

25 Know therefore and underſtand, that from [t] the going forth of the commandment to bring again the people, and to build Jeruſalem, unto Meſſiah the prince, ſhall be ſeven [u] weeks and [w] threeſcore and two weeks, and the ſtreet ſhall be built again, and the wall, even in a † troublous time.

† Heb. in ſtreights of time.

26 And after threeſcore and [x] two weeks, ſhall Meſſiah be ſlain, and ſhall [y] have nothing, and the people of [z] the prince that ſhall come ſhall deſtroy the city and the ſanctuary, and the end thereof ſhall be with a flood: and unto the end of the battle it ſhall be deſtroyed by deſolations.

27 And he [a] ſhall confirm the covenant with many for one week: and in the midſt of the week he ſhall cauſe the ſacrifice and the oblation to [b] ceaſe, [c] and for the overſpreading of the abominations, he ſhall make it deſolate, even until the conſummation determined ſhall be poured upon the deſolate.

CHAP. X.

There appeareth unto Daniel a man cloathed in linen:
11 Which ſheweth him wherefore he is ſent.

IN the [d] third year of Cyrus king of Perſia, a thing was revealed unto Daniel (whoſe name was called Belteſhazzar) and the word was true, but the time appointed was [e] long, and he underſtood the thing, and had underſtanding of the viſion.

2 At the ſame time I Daniel was in heavineſs for three weeks of days.

3 I ate no pleaſant bread, neither came fleſh nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoint myſelf at all, till three weeks of days were fulfilled.

4 Then in the four and twentieth day of the [f] firſt month, as I [g] was by the ſide of that great river, even Hiddekel,

5 And I lift up mine eyes, and looked, and behold, there was a man [h] cloathed in linen, whoſe loins were girded with fine gold of * Uphaz: Bef. Chr. 534.

* Jer. 10. 9.

6 His body alſo was like the chryſolite, and his face (to look upon) like the lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet were like in colour to poliſhed braſs, and the voice of his words was like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone ſaw the viſion: for the men that were with me ſaw not the viſion: but a great fear fell upon them, ſo that they fled away and hid themſelves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and ſaw this great viſion, and there remained no ſtrength in me: for [i] my ſtrength was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no power.

9 Yet heard I the voice of his words: and when I heard the voice of his words, I ſlept on my face: and my face was toward the ground.

10 And behold, an [k] hand touched me, which ſet me upon my knees, and upon the palms of mine hands.

11 And he ſaid unto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloved, underſtand the words that I ſpeak unto thee, and ſtand in thy place: for unto thee am I now ſent. And when he had ſaid this word unto me, I ſtood trembling.

12 Then ſaid he unto me, Fear not, Daniel: for from the firſt day that thou didſt ſet thine heart to underſtand, and to humble thyſelf before thy God, thy words were heard, and I am come for thy words.

13 But the [l] prince of the kingdom of Perſia withſtood me one and twenty days: but lo, [m] Michael one of the chief princes, came to help me, and I remained there by the kings of Perſia.

14 Now I am come to ſhew thee what ſhall come to thy people in the latter days: for yet the [n] viſion is for many days.

15 And when he ſpake theſe words unto me, I ſet my face toward the ground, and held my tongue.

16 And behold, [o] one like the ſimilitude of the ſons of man touched my lips: then I opened

---

[q] He alludeth to Jeremiah's prophecy, who propheſied that their captivity ſhould be ſeventy years: but now God's mercy ſhould ſevenfold exceed his judgment, which ſhould be four hundred and ninety years, even to the coming of Chriſt, and ſo then it ſhould continue for ever.

[r] Meaning Daniel's nation, over whom he was careful.

[s] To ſhew mercy, and to put ſin out of remembrance.

[t] That is, from the time that Cyrus gave them leave to depart.

[u] Theſe weeks make forty-nine years, whereof 46 are referred to the time of the building of the temple, and three to the laying of the foundation.

[w] Counting from the ſixth year of Darius, who gave the ſecond commandment for the building of the temple, are ſixty-two weeks, which make four hundred and thirty-nine years, which comprehend the time from this building of the temple, unto the baptiſm of Chriſt.

[x] In this laſt week of the ſeventy ſhall Chriſt come and preach, and ſuffer death.

[y] He ſhall ſeem to have no beauty, nor to be of any eſtimation, as Iſa. 53. 2.

[z] Meaning Titus, Veſpaſian's ſon, who ſhould come and deſtroy both the temple and the people, without all hope of recovery.

[a] By the preaching of the goſpel he confirmed his promiſe, firſt to the Jews, and after to the Gentiles.

[b] Chriſt accompliſhed this by his death and reſurrection.

[c] Meaning, that Jeruſalem and the ſanctuary ſhould be utterly deſtroyed for their rebellion againſt God, and their idolatry: or as ſome read, that the plagues ſhall be ſo great, that they ſhall all be aſtoniſhed at them.

[d] He noteth this third year, becauſe at this time the building of the temple began to be hindered by Cambyſes, Cyrus's ſon, when the father made war in Aſia minor againſt the Scythians, which was a diſcouraging to the godly, and a great fear to Daniel.

[e] Which is to declare that the godly ſhould not haſten too much, but patiently abide the iſſue of God's promiſe.

[f] Called Abib, which containeth part of March and part of April.

[g] Being carried by the ſpirit of prophecy to have the ſight of this river Tygris.

[h] This was the angel of God, which was ſent to aſſure Daniel in this prophecy that followeth.

[i] The word alſo ſignifieth, comelineſs or beauty, ſo that for fear he was like a dead man for deformity.

[k] Which declareth, that when we are ſtricken down with the majeſty of God, we cannot riſe, except he alſo lift us up with his hand, which is his power.

[l] Meaning, Cambyſes, who reigned in his father's abſence, and did not only for this ſpace hinder the building of the temple, but would have further raged, if God had not ſent me to reſiſt him, and therefore have I ſtaid for the profit of the church.

[m] Though God could by one angel deſtroy all the world, yet to aſſure his children of his love, he ſendeth forth double power, even Michael, that is, Chriſt Jeſus, the head of angels.

[n] For though the prophet Daniel ſhould end and ceaſe, yet his doctrine ſhould continue till the coming of Chriſt, for the comfort of his church.

[o] This was the ſame angel that ſpake with him before in the ſimilitude of a man.

Bef. Chr. 534. my mouth and ſpake, and ſaid unto him that ſtood before me, O my lord, [p] by the viſion my ſorrows are returned upon me, and I have retained no ſtrength.

17 For how can the ſervant of this my lord talk with my lord, being ſuch one? for as for me, ſtraightway there remained no ſtrength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came again and touched me, one like the appearance of a man, and he ſtrengthened me,

19 And ſaid, O man, greatly beloved, fear not: [q] peace be unto thee: be ſtrong and of good courage. And when he had ſpoken unto me, I [r] was ſtrengthened, and ſaid, Let my Lord ſpeak, for thou haſt ſtrengthened me.

20 Then ſaid he, Knoweſt thou wherefore I am come unto thee? but now will I return to fight with the prince of Perſia: and when I am gone forth, lo, the [s] prince of Grecia ſhall come.

21 But I will ſhew thee that which is decreed in the ſcripture of truth: [t] and there is none that holdeth with me in theſe things, but Michael your prince.

CHAP. XI.

A prophecy of the kingdoms which ſhould be enemies to the church of God, as of Perſia, 3 of Grecia, 5 of Egypt, 28 of Syria, 36 and of the Romans.

ALSO I, in the firſt year of Darius of the Medes, even I [u] ſtood to encourage and to ſtrengthen him.

2 And now will I ſhew thee the truth, Behold, there ſhall ſtand up yet [x] three kings in Perſia, and the fourth ſhall be far richer than they all: and by his ſtrength, and by his riches, he ſhall ſtir up [y] all againſt the realm of Grecia.

3 But a [z] mighty king ſhall ſtand up, that ſhall rule with great dominion, and do according to his pleaſure.

4 And when he ſhall ſtand up, [a] his kingdom ſhall be broken, [b] and ſhall be divided toward [c] the four winds of heaven, and not to his [d] poſterity, nor according to his [e] dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom ſhall be pluckt up, even to be for others beſides [f] thoſe. Bef. Chr. 534.

5 And the [g] king of the South ſhall be mighty, and one of [h] his princes, and ſhall prevail againſt him, and bear rule: his dominion ſhall be a great dominion.

6 And in the end of the years they ſhall be joined together: for the king's [i] daughter of the South ſhall come to the king of the North to make an agreement, but ſhe ſhall not retain the power of [k] the arm, neither ſhall [l] he continue, nor his [m] arm: but ſhe ſhall be delivered to death, and they that brought her, and he [n] that begat her, and he that comforted her in theſe times.

7 But out of the bud of her [o] roots ſhall one ſtand up in his ſtead, [p] which ſhall come with an army, and ſhall enter into the fortreſs of the king of the North, and do with them as he liſt, and ſhall prevail.

8 And ſhall alſo carry captives into Egypt, their gods with their molten images, and with their precious veſſels of ſilver and of gold, and he ſhall continue [q] more years than the king of the North.

9 So the king of the South ſhall come into his kingdom, and ſhall return into his own land.

10 Wherefore his [r] ſons ſhall be ſtirred up, and ſhall aſſemble a mighty great army: and one [s] ſhall come, and overflow, and paſs through: then ſhall he [t] return, and be ſtirred up at his fortreſs.

11 And the king of the South ſhall be angry, and ſhall come forth, and fight with him, even with the king of the North: for he ſhall ſet forth a great [u] multitude, and the multitude ſhall be given into his hand.

12 Then

[p] I was overcome with fear and ſorrow, when I ſaw the viſion.

[q] He declareth hereby, that God would be merciful unto the people of Iſrael.

[r] Which declareth, that when God ſmiteth down his children, he doth not immediately lift them up at once, (for now the angel had touched him twice) but by little and little.

[s] Meaning, that he would not only himſelf bridle the rage of Cambyſes, but alſo the other kings of Perſia, by Alexander the king of Macedonia.

[t] For this angel was appointed for the defence of the church under Chriſt, who is the head thereof.

[u] The angel aſſureth Daniel, that God hath given him power to perform theſe things, ſeeing he appointed him to aſſiſt Darius, when he overcame the Chaldeans.

[x] Whereof Cambyſes that now reigned, was the firſt, the ſecond Smerdis, the third Darius the ſon of Hyſtaſpes, and the fourth Xerxes, which all were enemies to the people of God, and ſtood againſt them.

[y] For he raiſed up all the Eaſt countries to fight againſt the Grecians: and albeit he had in his army nine hundred thouſand men, yet in four battles he was diſcomfited and fled away with ſhame.

[z] That is, Alexander the Great.

[a] For when his eſtate was moſt flouriſhing, he overcame himſelf with drink, and ſo fell into a diſeaſe, or, as ſome write, was poiſoned by Caſſander.

[b] For his twelve chief princes firſt divided his kingdom among themſelves.

[c] After this his monarchy was divided into four: for Seleucus had Syria, Antigonus Aſia minor, Caſſander the kingdom of Macedonia, and Ptolomæus Egypt.

[d] Thus God revenged Alexander's ambition and cruelty, in cauſing his poſterity to be murdered, partly of the father's chief friends, and partly one of another.

[e] None of theſe four ſhall be able to be compared to the power of Alexander.

[f] That is, his poſterity having no part thereof.

[g] To wit, Ptolomæus king of Egypt.

[h] That is, Antiochus, the ſon of Seleucus, and one of Alexander's princes, ſhall be more mighty: for he ſhould have both Aſia and Syria.

[i] That is, Berenice the daughter of Ptolomæus Philadelphus, ſhall be given in marriage to Antiochus Theos, thinking by this affinity, that Syria and Egypt ſhould have a continual peace together.

[k] That force and ſtrength ſhall not continue: for ſoon after Berenice and her young ſon, after her huſband's death, was ſlain of her ſtep-ſon Seleucus Calinicus, the ſon of Laodice, the lawful wife of Antiochus, but put away for this woman's ſake.

[m] Some read, ſeed, meaning the child begotten of Berenice.

[n] Some read, ſhe that begat her, and thereby underſtand her nurſe, which brought her up: ſo that all they that were the occaſion of this marriage, were deſtroyed.

[o] Meaning, that Ptolomæus Euergetes, after the death of his father Philadelphus, ſhould ſucceed in the kingdom, being of the ſame ſtock that Berenice was.

[q] For this Ptolomæus reigned ſix and forty years.

[r] Meaning, Seleucus, and Antiochus the Great, the ſons of Calinicus, ſhall make war againſt Ptolomæus Philopater, the ſon of Philadelphus.

[s] For his elder brother Seleucus died, or was ſlain whilſt the wars were preparing.

[t] That is, Philopater, when he ſhall ſee Antiochus to take great dominions from him in Syria, and alſo ready to invade Egypt.

[u] For Antiochus had ſix thouſand horſemen, and threeſcore thouſand footmen.

Bef. Chr. 534.

12 Then the multitude ſhall be proud, and their heart ſhall be lifted up: for he ſhall caſt down thouſands: but he ſhall not ſtill prevail.

13 For the king of the North [w] ſhall return, and ſhall ſet forth a greater multitude than afore, and ſhall come forth (after certain years) with a mighty army, and great riches.

14 And at the ſame time there ſhall [x] many ſtand up againſt the king of the South: alſo the rebellious children of thy [y] people ſhall exalt themſelves to eſtabliſh the viſion, but they ſhall fall.

15 So the king of the North ſhall come, and caſt up a mount, and take the ſtrong city: and the arms of the South ſhall [z] not reſiſt, neither his choſen people, neither ſhall there be any ſtrength to withſtand.

16 But he that ſhall come, ſhall do unto him as he liſt, and none ſhall ſtand againſt him: and he ſhall ſtand in the [a] pleaſant land, which by his hand ſhall be conſumed.

17 Again he ſhall [b] ſet his face to enter with the power of his whole kingdom, and his confederates with him: thus ſhall he do, and he ſhall give him the [c] daughter of women, to deſtroy [d] her: but [e] ſhe ſhall not ſtand on his ſide, neither before him.

18 After this, ſhall he turn his face unto the [f] iſles, and ſhall take many, but a prince [g] ſhall cauſe his ſhame to light upon him, beſides that he ſhall cauſe his own ſhame to turn upon [h] himſelf.

19 For he ſhall turn his face towards the forts of [i] his own land: but he ſhall be overthrown and fall, and be no more [k] found.

20 [l] Then ſhall ſtand up in his place, in the glory of the kingdom, one that ſhall raiſe taxes: but after few days he ſhall be deſtroyed, neither in [m] wrath, nor in battle.

Bef. Chr. 534.

21 And in his place ſhall ſtand up a [n] vile perſon, to whom they ſhall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he ſhall come in peaceably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries.

22 And the [o] arms ſhall be overthrown with a flood before him, and ſhall be broken: and alſo the prince of the [p] covenant.

23 And after [q] the league made with him, he ſhall work deceitfully: for he ſhall come up, and overcome with a [r] ſmall people.

24 He ſhall enter into the quiet and plentiful province, and he ſhall do that which his [s] fathers have not done, nor his fathers fathers: he ſhall divide among them the prey and the ſpoil, and the ſubſtance, yea, and he ſhall forecaſt his devices againſt the ſtrong holds, even for a [t] time.

25 Alſo he ſhall ſtir up his power, and his courage againſt the king of the South, with a great army, and the king of the South ſhall be ſtirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army: but he ſhall not [u] ſtand: for they ſhall forecaſt and practiſe againſt him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of [w] his meat, ſhall deſtroy him: and his army [x] ſhall overflow: and many ſhall fall, and be ſlain.

27 And both theſe kings hearts ſhall be to do [y] miſchief, and they ſhall talk of deceit at one table, but it ſhall not avail: for [z] yet the end ſhall be at the time appointed.

28 Then ſhall he return into his land with great [a] ſubſtance: for his heart ſhall be againſt the holy covenant: ſo ſhall he do and return to his own land.

29 At the time appointed he ſhall return, and come toward the South: but the laſt ſhall not be as the firſt.

30 For the ſhips [b] of Chittim ſhall come againſt him:

---

[x] For not only Antiochus came againſt him, but alſo Philip king of Macedonia, and theſe two brought great power with them.

[y] For under Onias, which falſely alledged that place of Iſa. 19. 19. certain of the Jews retired with him into Egypt, to fulfil this prophecy: alſo the angel ſheweth that all theſe troubles which are in the church, are by the providence and counſel of God.

[z] The Egyptians were not able to reſiſt Stopas, Antiochus's captain.

[a] He ſheweth that he ſhall not only afflict the Egyptians, but alſo the Jews, and ſhall enter into their country, whereof he admoniſhed them before, that they may know that all theſe things come by God's providence.

[b] This was the ſecond battle that Antiochus fought againſt Ptolomæus Epiphanes.

[c] To wit, a beautiful woman, which was Cleopatra, Antiochus's daughter.

[d] For he regarded not the life of his daughter, in reſpect of the kingdom of Egypt.

[e] She ſhall not agree to his wicked counſel, but ſhall love her huſband as her duty requireth, and not ſeek his deſtruction.

[f] That is, toward Aſia, Greece, and thoſe iſles which are in the ſea called Mediterranean: for the Jews called all countries Iſles, which were divided from them by ſea.

[g] For whereas Antiochus was wont to contemn the Romans, and put their ambaſſadors to ſhame in all places, Attilius the conſul, or Lucius Scipio, put him to flight, and cauſed his ſhame to turn on his own head.

[h] By his wicked life, and obeying of fooliſh counſel.

[i] For fear of the Romans he ſhall flee to his holds.

[k] For when as under the pretence of poverty he would have robbed the temple of Jupiter Dodonæus, the countrymen ſlew him.

[l] That is, Seleucus ſhall ſucceed his father Antiochus.

[m] Not by foreign enemies, or battle, but by treaſon.

[n] Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who, as is thought, was the occaſion of Seleucus his brother's death, and was of a vile, cruel and flattering nature, and defrauded his brother's ſon of the kingdom, and uſurped the kingdom without the conſent of the people.

[o] He ſheweth that great foreign powers ſhall come to help the young ſon of Seleucus, againſt his uncle Antiochus, and yet ſhall be overthrown.

[p] Meaning Ptolomæus Philometor, Philopater's ſon, who was this child's couſin german, and is here called the prince of the covenant, becauſe he was the chief, and all others followed his conduct.

[q] For after the battle, Philometor and his uncle Antiochus made a league.

[r] For he came upon him unawares, and when he ſuſpected his uncle Antiochus nothing.

[s] Meaning, in Egypt.

[t] He will content himſelf with the ſmall holds for a time, but ever labour by craft to attain to the chiefeſt.

[u] He ſhall be overcome with treaſon.

[w] Signifying his princes, and the chief about him.

[x] Declaring, that his ſoldiers ſhall burſt out, and venture their lives to ſlay and be ſlain for the ſafeguard of their prince.

[y] The uncle and the nephew ſhall take truce, and banquet together, yet in their hearts they ſhall imagine miſchief one againſt another.

[z] Signifying, that it ſtandeth not in the counſel of men to bring things to paſs, but in the providence of God, who ruleth the kings by a ſecret bridle, that they cannot do what they liſt themſelves.

[a] Which he ſhall take of the Jews in ſpoiling of Jeruſalem and the temple, and this is told them before, to move them to patience, knowing that all things are done by God's providence.

[b] That is, the Roman power ſhall come againſt him: for P. Popilius the ambaſſador appointed him to depart in the Romans name, to which thing he obeyed, although with grief, and to revenge his rage, he came againſt the people of God the ſecond time.

Bef. Chr. 534.

him: therefore he ſhall be ſorry and return, and fret againſt the holy covenant: ſo ſhall he do, he ſhall even return [c] and have intelligence with them that forſake the holy covenant.

31 And arms [d] ſhall ſtand on his part, and they ſhall pollute the ſanctuary [e] of ſtrength, and ſhall take away the daily ſacrifice, and they ſhall ſet up the abominable deſolation.

32 And ſuch as wickedly [f] break the covenant ſhall he cauſe to ſin by flattery: but the people that do know their God, ſhall prevail and proſper.

33 And they that underſtand among [g] the people, ſhall inſtruct many: [h] yet they ſhall fall by ſword, and by flame, by captivity and by ſpoil many days.

34 Now when they ſhall fall, they ſhall be holpen with a [i] little help: but many ſhall cleave unto them [k] feignedly.

35 And ſome of [l] them of underſtanding ſhall fall to try them, and to purge, and to make them white, till the time be out: for there is a time appointed.

36 And the [m] king ſhall do what him liſt: he ſhall exalt himſelf, and magnify himſelf againſt all that is God, and ſhall ſpeak marvellous things againſt the God of gods, and ſhall proſper, till the wrath [n] be accompliſhed: for the determination is made.

37 Neither ſhall he regard the [o] God of his fathers, nor the deſires [p] of women, nor care for any god: for he ſhall magnify himſelf above all.

38 But in his place ſhall he honour the [q] god Mauzzim, and the god whom his fathers knew not ſhall he honour with [r] gold and with ſilver, and with precious ſtones, and pleaſant things.

39 Thus ſhall he do in [s] the holds of Mauzzim with a ſtrange god whom he ſhall acknowledge: he ſhall increaſe his glory, and ſhall cauſe them to rule over many, and ſhall divide the land for gain.

Bef. Chr. 534.

40 And at the end of time ſhall the king of the [t] South puſh at him, and the king of the North ſhall come againſt him like a whirlwind with chariots and with horſemen, and with many ſhips, and he ſhall enter into the countries, and ſhall overflow and paſs through.

41 He ſhall enter alſo into the [u] pleaſant land, and many countries ſhall be overflown: but theſe ſhall eſcape out of his hand, even Edom and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.

42 He ſhall ſtretch forth his hands alſo upon the countries, and the land of Egypt ſhall not eſcape.

43 But he ſhall have power over the treaſures of gold and of ſilver, and over all the precious things of Egypt, and of the Lybians, and of the blackmoors where he ſhall paſs.

44 But the tidings out of the Eaſt and the North ſhall [x] trouble him: therefore he ſhall go forth [y] with great wrath to deſtroy and root out many.

45 And he ſhall plant the tabernacles [z] of his palace between the ſeas in the glorious and holy mountain, yet he ſhall come to his end, and none ſhall help him.

CHAP. XII.

1 Of the deliverance of the church by Chriſt.

AND at that [a] time ſhall Michael ſtand up, the great prince, which ſtandeth for the children of thy people, and there ſhall be a time of trouble, ſuch as never was ſince there began to be a nation unto that ſame time: and at that time thy people ſhall be delivered, every one that ſhall be found written in the book.

2 And many [b] of them that ſleep in the duſt of the earth ſhall awake, ſome to everlaſting life, and ſome to ſhame and perpetual contempt.

---

[c] With the Jews which ſhall forſake the covenant of the Lord: for firſt he was called againſt the Jews by Jaſon the high prieſt, and this ſecond time by Menelaus.

[d] A great faction of the wicked Jews ſhall hold with Antiochus.

[e] So called, becauſe the power of God was nothing deminiſhed, although this tyrant ſet up in the temple the image of Jupiter Olympius, and ſo began to corrupt the pure ſervice of God.

[f] Meaning, ſuch as bare the name of Jews: but indeed were nothing leſs: for they ſold their ſouls, and betrayed their brethren for gain.

[g] They that remain conſtant among the people ſhall teach others by their example, and edify many in the true religion.

[h] Whereby he exhorteth the godly to conſtancy, although they ſhould periſh a thouſand times, and though their miſeries endure never ſo long.

[i] As God will not leave his church deſtitute, yet will he not deliver it all at once, but ſo help, as they may ſtill ſeem to fight under the croſs, as he did in the time of the Maccabees, whereof he here propheſieth.

[k] That is, there ſhall be even of this ſmall number, many hypocrites.

[l] To wit, of them that fear God, and will loſe their life for the defence of true religion, ſignifying alſo that the church muſt continually be tried and purged, and ought to look for one perſecution after another: for God hath appointed the time, therefore we muſt obey.

[m] Becauſe the angel's purpoſe is to ſhew the whole courſe of the perſecutions of the Jews unto the coming of Chriſt, he now ſpeaketh of the monarchy of the Romans, which he noteth by the name of a king, who were without all religion, and contemned the true God.

[n] So long the tyrants ſhall prevail as God hath appointed to puniſh his people, but he ſheweth it is but for a time.

[o] The Romans ſhall obſerve no certain form of religion as other nations, but ſhall change their gods at their pleaſure, yea contemn them, and prefer themſelves to their gods.

[p] Signifying that they ſhould be without all humanity: for the love of women is taken for ſingular or great love, as 2 Sam. 1. 26.

[q] That is, the God of power and riches: they ſhall eſteem their own power above all their gods, and worſhip it.

[r] Under pretence of worſhipping the gods, they ſhall enrich their city with the moſt precious jewels of all the world, becauſe that hereby all men ſhould have them in admiration for their power and riches.

[s] Although in their hearts they had no religion, yet they did acknowledge the gods, and worſhipped them in their temples, leſt they ſhould have been deſpiſed as atheiſts: but this was to encreaſe their fame and riches: and when they got any country, they ſo made others the rulers thereof, that the profit ever came to the Romans.

[t] That is, both the Egyptians and Syrians ſhall at length fight againſt the Romans, but they ſhall be overcome.

[u] The angel forewarneth the Jews that when they ſhould ſee the Romans invade them, and that the wicked ſhould eſcape their hands, that then they ſhould not think but that all this was done by God's providence, foraſmuch as he warned them of it ſo long before, and therefore he would ſtill preſerve them.

[x] Hearing that Craſſus was ſlain, and Antonius diſcomfited.

[y] For Auguſtus overcame the Parthians, and recovered that which Antonius had loſt.

[z] The Romans after this reigned quietly throughout all countries, and from ſea to ſea, and in Judea: but at length for their cruelty God ſhall deſtroy them.

[a] The angel here noteth two things: firſt, that the church ſhall be in great affliction and trouble at Chriſt's coming, and next, that God will ſend his angel to deliver it, whom here he calleth Michael, meaning Chriſt, which is publiſhed by the preaching of the goſpel.

[b] Meaning, all ſhall riſe at the general reſurrection, which thing he here nameth, becauſe the faithful ſhould have ever their reſpect to that: for in the earth there ſhall be no ſure comfort.

Bef. Chr. 534.

3 And they that be [c] wiſe ſhall ſhine as the brightneſs of the firmament: and they that [d] turn many to righteouſneſs, ſhall ſhine as the ſtars for ever and ever.

4 But thou, O Daniel, [e] ſhut up the words, and ſeal the book [f] till the end of the time: many ſhall run to and fro, and knowledge ſhall be increaſed.

5 ¶ Then I Daniel looked, and behold, there ſtood other two, the one on this ſide of the brink of the [g] river, and the other on that ſide of the brink of the river.

6 And one ſaid unto the man cloathed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, When ſhall be the end of theſe wonders?

7 And I heard the man cloathed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his [h] right hand, and his left hand unto heaven, and ſware by him that liveth for ever, that it ſhall tarry for a [i] time, two times and an half: and when he ſhall have accompliſhed [k] to ſcatter the power of the holy people, all theſe things ſhall be finiſhed.

8 Then I heard it, but I underſtood it not: then ſaid I, O my lord, what ſhall be the end of theſe things?

9 And he ſaid, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are cloſed up, and ſealed, till the end of the time.

10 Many ſhall be purified, made white, and tried: but the wicked ſhall do wickedly, and none of the wicked ſhall have underſtanding: but the wiſe ſhall underſtand.

11 And from the time that the [l] daily ſacrifice ſhall be taken away, and the abominable deſolation ſet up, there [m] ſhall be a thouſand two hundred and ninety days.

12 Bleſſed is he that waiteth and cometh to the thouſand three hundred and [n] five and thirty days.

13 But go [o] thou thy way till the end be: for thou ſhalt reſt, and ſtand up in thy lot at the end of the days.

[c] Who have kept the true fear of God, and his religion.

[d] He chiefly meaneth the miniſters of God's word, and next all the faithful which inſtruct the ignorant, and bring them to the true knowledge of God.

[e] Though the moſt part deſpiſe this propheſy, yet keep thou it ſure, and eſteem it as a treaſure.

[f] Till the time that God hath appointed for the full revelation of theſe things: and then many ſhall run to and fro to ſearch the knowledge of theſe myſteries, which things they obtain now by the light of the goſpel.

[g] Which was Tygris.

[h] Which was as it were a double oath, and did the more confirm the thing.

[i] Meaning, a long time, a longer time, and at length a ſhort time: ſignifying, that their troubles ſhould have an end.

[k] When the church ſhall be ſcattered and diminiſhed in ſuch ſort, as it ſhall ſeem to have no power.

[l] From the time that Chriſt by his ſacrifice ſhall take away the ſacrifice and ceremonies of the law.

[m] Signifying, that the time ſhall be long of Chriſt's ſecond coming, and yet the children of God ought not to be diſcouraged, though it be deferred.

[n] In this number he addeth a month and an half to the former number, ſignifying, that it is not in man to appoint the time of Chriſt's coming, but that they are bleſſed that patiently abide his appearing.

[o] The angel warneth the prophet patiently to abide till the time appointed come, ſignifying that he ſhould depart this life and riſe again with the elect, when God had ſufficiently humbled and purged his church.

HOSEA.

THE ARGUMENT.

After that the ten tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked and ſubtil counſel of Jeroboam, the ſon of Nebat, and inſtead of his true ſervice commanded by his word, worſhipped him according to their own fancies and traditions of men, giving themſelves to moſt vile idolatry and ſuperſtition, the Lord from time to time ſent them prophets to call them to repentance: but they grew ever worſe and worſe, and ſtill abuſed God's benefits. Therefore now when their proſperity was at the higheſt under Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh, God ſent Hoſea and Amos to the Iſraelites (as he did at the ſame time Iſaiah and Micah to them of Judah) to condemn them of their ingratitude: and whereas they thought themſelves to be greatly in the favour of God, and to be his people, the prophet calleth them baſtards and children born in adultery: and therefore ſheweth them that God would take away their kingdom, and give them to the Aſſyrians to be led away captives. Thus Hoſea faithfully executed his office for the ſpace of ſeventy years, though they remained ſtill in their vices and wickedneſs, and derided the prophets, and contemned God's judgments. And becauſe they ſhould neither be diſcouraged with threatenings only, nor yet flatter themſelves by the ſweetneſs of God's promiſes, he ſetteth before them the two principal parts of the law, which are the promiſe of ſalvation, and the doctrine of life: for the firſt part he directeth the faithful to Meſſiah, by whom only they ſhould have true deliverance: and for the ſecond, he uſeth threatenings and menaces to bring them from their wicked manners and vices, and this is the chief ſcope of all the prophets, either by God's promiſes to allure them to be godly, or elſe by threatenings of his judgments to fear them from vice: and albeit that the whole law contain theſe two points, yet the prophets moreover note peculiarly both the time of God's judgments and the manner.

Bef. Chr. 785.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Hoſea propheſied. 2 The idolatry of the people. 10 The calling of the Gentiles. 11 Chriſt is the head of all people.

THE word of the Lord that came unto Hoſea the ſon of Beeri, in the days of [a] Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, [b] kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh king of Iſrael.

2 At the beginning the Lord ſpake by Hoſea, and the Lord ſaid unto Hoſea, Go, take unto thee a wife [c] of fornications, and children of fornications: for the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the Lord.

3 So he went, and took [d] Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, which conceived and bare him a ſon.

4 And the Lord ſaid unto him, Call his name [e] Jezreel: for yet a little, and I will viſit the blood of Jezreel upon the [f] houſe of Jehu, and will cauſe to ceaſe the kingdom of the houſe of Iſrael.

5 And at that [g] day will I alſo break the bow of Iſrael in the valley of Jezreel.

6 She conceived yet again, and bare a daughter, and God ſaid unto him, Call her name [h] Lo-ruhamah: for I will no more have pity upon the houſe of Iſrael: but I will utterly [i] take them away.

7 Yet I will have mercy upon the houſe of Judah, and will [k] ſave them by the Lord their God, and will not ſave them by bow, nor by ſword, nor by battle, by horſes, nor by horſemen.

8 Now when ſhe had weaned Lo-ruhamah, ſhe conceived and bare a ſon.

9 Then ſaid God, Call his name [l] Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people: therefore will I not be yours.

10 Yet the number of the [m] children of Iſrael ſhall be as the ſand of the ſea, which cannot be meaſured nor told: and in the place where it was ſaid unto them, Ye are not my people, it ſhall be ſaid unto them, Ye are the ſons of the living God.

Bef. Chr. 785.

11 Then ſhall the children of Judah and the children of Iſrael be [n] gathered together, and appoint themſelves one head, and they ſhall come up out of the land: for great is the [o] day of Jezreel.

CHAP. II.

1 The people is called to repentance. 5 He ſheweth their idolatry, and threateneth them except they repent.

SAY unto your [p] brethren, Ammi, and to your ſiſters, Ruhamah,

2 Plead with your [q] mother: plead with her, for ſhe is not my wife, neither am I her huſband, but let her take away her fornications out of her ſight, and her adulteries [r] from between her breaſts,

3 [s] Leſt I ſtrip her naked, and ſet her as in the day that ſhe was [t] born, and make her as a wilderneſs, and leave her like a dry land, and ſlay her for thirſt.

4 And I will have no pity upon her children: for they be the [u] children of fornications.

5 For their mother hath played the harlot: ſhe that conceived them, hath done ſhamefully: for ſhe ſaid, I will go after my [w] lovers that gave me my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, mine oil and my drink.

6 Therefore behold, I will [x] ſtop thy way with thorns, and make an hedge, that ſhe ſhall not find her paths.

7 Though ſhe follow after her lovers, yet ſhall ſhe not come at them: though ſhe ſeek them, yet ſhall ſhe not find them: then ſhall ſhe ſay, [y] I will go and return to my firſt huſband: for at that time was I better than now.

8 Now ſhe did not know that I gave her corn, [z] and wine, and oil, and multiplied her ſilver and gold, which they beſtowed upon Baal.

9 There-

---

[a] Called alſo Azariah, who being a leper was depoſed from his kingdom.

[b] So that it may be gathered by the reign of theſe four kings, that he preached above ſixty years.

[c] That is, one that of long time hath accuſtomed to play the harlot: not that the prophet did this thing in effect, but he ſaw this in a viſion, or elſe was commanded by God to ſet forth under this parable or figure the idolatry of the ſynagogue, and of the people her children.

[d] Gomer ſignifieth a conſumption or corruption, and Diblaim cluſters of figs, declaring that they were all corrupt like rotten figs.

[e] Meaning, that they ſhould be no more called Iſraelites, of the which name they boaſted, becauſe Iſrael did prevail with God: but that they were as baſtards, and therefore ſhould be called Jezreelites, that is, ſcattered people, alluding to Jezreel, which was the chief city of the ten tribes under Ahab, where Jehu ſhed ſo much blood, 2 Kings 10. 8, 11.

[f] I will be revenged upon Jehu for the blood that he ſhed in Izreel: for albeit God ſtirred him up to execute his judgments, yet he did them for his own ambition, and not for the glory of God, as the end declared: for he built up that idolatry which he had deſtroyed.

[g] When the meaſure of their iniquity is full, and I ſhall take vengeance and deſtroy all their policy and force.

[h] That is, not obtaining mercy, whereby he ſignifieth that God's favour was departed from them.

[i] For the Iſraelites never returned after that they were taken captives by the Aſſyrians.

[k] For after their captivity he reſtored them miraculouſly by the means of Cyrus, Ezra 1. 1.

[l] That is, not my people.

[m] Becauſe they thought that God could not have been true in his promiſe except he had preſerved them, he declareth that though they were deſtroyed, yet the Iſraelites, which are the ſons of the promiſe, ſhould be without number, which ſtand both of the Jews and the Gentiles, Rom. 9. 26.

[n] To wit, after the captivity of Babylon, when the Jews were reſtored, but chiefly this is referred to the time of Chriſt, who ſhould be the head both of the Jews and Gentiles.

[o] The calamity and deſtruction of Jezreel ſhall be ſo great, that to reſtore them ſhall be as a miracle.

[p] Seeing, that I have promiſed you deliverance, it remaineth that you encourage one another to embrace the ſame, conſidering that ye are my people, on whom I will have mercy.

[q] God ſheweth, that the fault was not in him, but in their ſynagogue, and their idolatries, that he forſook them, Iſa. 50. 1.

[r] Meaning, that their idolatry was ſo great, that they were not aſhamed, but boaſted of it, Ezek. 16. 25.

[s] For though this people were as an harlot for their idolatries, yet he had left them with their apparel and dowry, and certain ſigns of his favour; but if they continued ſtill, he would utterly deſtroy them.

[t] When I brought her out of Egypt, Ezek. 16. 4. 39.

[u] That is, baſtards, and begotten in adultery.

[w] Meaning, the idols which they ſerved, and by whom they thought they had wealth and abundance.

[x] I will puniſh thee, that then thou mayeſt try whether thine idols can help thee, and bring thee unto ſuch ſtraightneſs, that thou ſhall have no luſt to play the wanton.

[y] This he ſpeaketh of the faithful which are truly converted, and alſo ſheweth the uſe and profit of God's rods.

[z] This declareth that idolaters defraud God of his honour, when they attribute his benefits to their idols.

Bef. Chr. 785. 9 Therefore will I return, and take away [a] my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in the ſeaſon thereof, and will recover my wool and my flax lent to cover her ſhame.

10 And now will I diſcover [b] her lewdneſs in the ſight of her lovers, and no man ſhall deliver her out of mine hand.

11 I will alſo cauſe all her mirth to ceaſe, her feaſt days, her new moons, and her ſabbaths, and all her ſolemn feaſts.

12 And I will deſtroy her vines and her fig-trees, whereof ſhe hath ſaid, Theſe are my rewards that my lovers have given me: and I will make them as a foreſt, and the wild beaſts ſhall eat them.

13 And I will viſit upon her the days of [c] Baalim, wherein ſhe burnt incenſe to them: and ſhe decked herſelf with her [d] ear-rings and her jewels, and ſhe followed her lovers, and forgat me, ſaith the Lord.

14 Therefore behold, I will [e] allure her, and bring her into the wilderneſs, and ſpeak friendly unto her.

15 And I will give her her vineyards from thence, and the valley [f] of Achor for the door of hope, and ſhe ſhall [g] ſing there as in the days of her youth, and as in the day when ſhe came up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And at that day, ſaith the Lord, thou ſhalt call me [h] Iſhi, and ſhalt call me no more [i] Baali.

17 For I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they ſhall be no more remembered by their [k] names.

18 And in that day will I make a covenant for them with the [l] wild beaſts, and with the fowls of the heaven, and with that that creepeth upon the earth: and I will break the bow and the ſword and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to ſleep ſafely.

19 And I will marry thee unto me for ever: yea, I will marry thee unto me in righteouſneſs, and in judgment, and in mercy, and in compaſſion.

20 I will even marry thee unto me in [m] faithfulneſs, and thou ſhalt know the Lord.

21 And in that day I will hear, ſaith the Lord, I will even hear [n] the heavens, and they ſhall hear the earth.

22 And the earth ſhall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil, and they ſhall hear Izreel.

23 And will ſow her unto me in the earth, and I will have mercy upon her that was not pitied: and I will ſay to them which were not my people, * Thou art my people: and they ſhall ſay, Thou art my God. Bef. Chr. 785.

* Rom. 9. 25. 1 Pet. 2. 10.

CHAP. III.

1 The Jews ſhall be caſt off for their idolatry. 5 Afterward they ſhall return to the Lord.

THEN ſaid the Lord to me, [o] Go yet, and love a woman (beloved of her huſband, and was an harlot) according to the love of the Lord toward the children of Iſrael: yet they looked to other gods, and [p] loved the wine bottles.

2 So [q] I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of ſilver, and for an homer of barley, and an half homer of barley.

3 And I ſaid unto her, Thou ſhalt abide with me [r] many days: thou ſhalt not play the harlot, and thou ſhalt be to none other man, and I will be ſo unto thee.

4 For the children of Iſrael ſhall [s] remain many days without a king, and without a [t] prince, and without an offering, and without an image, and without an ephod, and without Teraphim.

5 Afterward ſhall the children of Iſrael convert, and ſeek the Lord their God, and [u] David their king, and ſhall fear the Lord, and his goodneſs in the latter days.

CHAP. IV.

A complaint againſt the people, and the prieſts of Iſrael.

HEAR the word of the Lord, ye children of Iſrael: for the Lord [w] hath a controverſy with the inhabitants of the land, becauſe there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By ſwearing, and lying, and killing, and ſtealing, and whoring they break out, and [x] blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore ſhall the land mourn, and every one that dwelleth therein ſhall be cut off, with the beaſts of the field, and with the fowls of the heaven, and alſo the fiſhes of the ſea ſhall be taken away.

4 Yet

---

[a] Signifying, that God will take away his benefits when man by his ingratitude doth abuſe them.

[b] That is, all her ſervice, ceremonies, and inventions, whereby ſhe worſhipped her idols.

[c] I will puniſh her for her idolatry.

[d] By ſhewing how harlots trim themſelves to pleaſe others, he declareth how the ſuperſtitious idolaters ſet a great part of their religion in decking themſelves on their holy days.

[e] By my benefits in offering her grace and mercy, even in that place where ſhe ſhall think herſelf deſtitute of all help and comfort.

[f] Which was a plentiful valley, and wherein they had great comfort when they came out of the wilderneſs, as Joſh. 7. 26. and is called the door of hope, becauſe it was a departing from death, and an entry into life.

[g] She ſhall then praiſe God, as ſhe did when ſhe was delivered out of Egypt.

[h] That is, mine huſband, knowing that I am joined to thee by an inviolable covenant.

[i] That is, my maſter: which name was applied to their idols.

[k] No idolatry ſhall once come into their mouth, but they ſhall ſerve me purely according to my word.

[l] Meaning, that he will ſo bleſs them, that all creatures ſhall favour them.

[m] With a covenant that never ſhall be broken.

[n] Then ſhall the heaven deſire rain for the earth, which ſhall bring forth for the uſe of man.

[o] Herein the prophet repreſenteth the perſon of God, which loved his church before he called her, and did not withdraw the ſame when ſhe gave herſelf unto idols.

[p] That is, gave themſelves wholly to pleaſures, and could not take up, as they that are given to drunkenneſs.

[q] Yet I loved her, and paid a ſmall portion for her, leſt ſhe perceiving the greatneſs of my love, ſhould have abuſed me, and not been under duty: for fifteen pieces of ſilver were but half the price of a ſlave, Exod. 21. 32.

[r] I will try thee a long time as in thy widowhood, whether thou wilt be mine or no.

[s] Meaning, not only all the time of their captivity, but alſo unto Chriſt.

[t] That is, they ſhould neither have policy nor religion, and their idols alſo wherein they put their confidence, ſhould be deſtroyed.

[u] This is meant of Chriſt's kingdom, which was promiſed unto David to be eternal, Pſalm 72. 17.

[w] Becauſe the people would not obey the admonitions of the prophet, he citeth them before the judgment-ſeat of God, againſt whom they chiefly offended, Iſa. 7. 13. Zech. 12. 10. Micah 6. 1, 2.

[x] In every place appeareth a liberty to moſt heinous vices, ſo that one followeth on the neck of another.

4 Yet [y] let none rebuke nor reprove another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the prieſt.

5 Therefore ſhalt thou fall in the [z] day, and the prophet ſhall fall with thee in the night, and I will deſtroy thy [a] mother.

6 My people are deſtroyed for lack of knowledge: becauſe [b] thou haſt refuſed knowledge, I will alſo refuſe thee that thou ſhalt be no prieſt to me: and ſeeing [c] thou haſt forgotten the law of thy God, I will alſo forget thy children.

7 As they were [d] increaſed, ſo they ſinned againſt me: therefore will I change their glory into ſhame.

8 [e] They eat up the ſins of my people, and lift up their minds in their iniquity.

9 And there ſhall be like people, like [f] prieſt: for I will viſit their ways upon them, and reward them their deeds.

10 For they ſhall eat, and not have enough: they ſhall [g] commit adultery, and ſhall not increaſe, becauſe they have left off to take heed to the Lord.

11 [h] Whoredom, and wine, and new wine take away their heart.

12 My [i] people aſk counſel at their ſtocks, and their ſtaff teacheth them: for the [k] ſpirit of fornications hath cauſed them to err, and they have gone a whoring from under their God.

13 They ſacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incenſe upon the hills under the oaks and the poplar-tree and the elm, becauſe the ſhadow thereof is good: therefore your daughters ſhall be [l] harlots, and your ſpouſes ſhall be whores.

14 I will not [m] viſit your daughters when they are harlots, nor your ſpouſes when they are whores: for they themſelves are ſeparated with harlots, and ſacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doth not underſtand, ſhall fall.

15 Though thou, Iſrael, play the harlot, yet [n] let not Judah ſin: come not ye unto [o] Gilgal, neither go ye up to [p] Beth-aven, nor ſwear, The Lord liveth.

16 For Iſrael is rebellious as an unruly heifer. Now the Lord will feed them as a [q] lamb in a large place.

17 Ephraim is joined to idols: let him alone.

18 Their drunkenneſs ſtinketh: they have committed whoredom: their rulers love to ſay with ſhame, [r] Bring ye.

19 The wind hath [s] bound them up in her wings, and they ſhall be aſhamed of their ſacrifices.

CHAP. V.

1 Againſt the prieſts and rulers of Iſrael. 13 The help of man is in vain.

O Ye prieſts, hear this, and hearken ye, O houſe of Iſrael, and give ye ear, O houſe of the king: for judgment is toward you, becauſe ye have been a [t] ſnare on Mizpah, and a net ſpread upon Tabor.

2 Yet they were profound to decline to [u] ſlaughter, though I have been a [w] rebuker of them all.

3 I know [x] Ephraim, and Iſrael is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim, thou art become an harlot, and Iſrael is defiled.

4 They will not give their minds to turn unto their God: for the ſpirit of fornication is in the midſt of them, and they have not known the Lord.

5 And the [y] pride of Iſrael doth teſtify to his face: therefore ſhall Iſrael and Ephraim fall in the iniquity: Judah alſo ſhall fall with them.

6 They ſhall go with their ſheep, and with their bullocks to ſeek the Lord: but they ſhall not find him, for he hath withdrawn himſelf from them.

7 They have tranſgreſſed againſt the Lord: for they have begotten [z] ſtrange children: now ſhall [a] a month devour them with their portions.

8 Blow ye the trumpet in Gibeah, and the ſhaum in Ramah: cry out at Beth-aven, after thee, O [b] Benjamin.

9 Ephraim ſhall be deſolate in the day of rebuke

---

[y] As though he would ſay, that it were in vain to rebuke them: for no man can abide it: yea, they will ſpeak againſt the prophets and prieſts, whoſe office it is chiefly to rebuke them.

[z] Ye ſhall periſh all together: the one becauſe he would not obey, and the other, becauſe he would not admoniſh.

[a] That is, the ſynagogue, wherein thou boaſteſt.

[b] That is, the prieſts ſhall be caſt off, becauſe that for lack of knowledge they are not able to execute their charge, and inſtruct others, Deut. 33. 3. Mal. 2. 7.

[c] Meaning, the whole body of the people, which were weary with hearing the word of God.

[d] The more I was beneficial unto them.

[e] To wit, the prieſts ſeek to eat the people's offerings, and flatter them in their ſins.

[f] Signifying, that as they have ſinned together, ſo ſhall they be puniſhed together.

[g] Shewing, that their wickedneſs ſhall be puniſhed on all ſorts: for though they think by the multitude of wives to have many children, yet they ſhall be deceived of their hope.

[h] In giving themſelves to pleaſures, they become like brute beaſts.

[i] Thus he ſpeaketh by deriſion in calling them his people, which now for their ſins they were not: for they ſought help of ſtocks and ſticks.

[k] They are carried away with a rage.

[l] Becauſe they take away God's honour and give it to idols, therefore he will give them up to their luſts, that they ſhall diſhonour their own bodies, Rom. 1. 28.

[m] I will not correct your ſhame to bring you to amendment, but let you run headlong to your own damnation.

[n] God complaineth that Judah is infected, and willeth them to learn by their example to return in time.

[o] For albeit the Lord had honoured this place in time paſt by his preſence, yet becauſe it was abuſed by their idolatry, he would not that his people ſhould reſort thither.

[p] He calleth Bethel, that is, the houſe of God, Beth-aven, that is, the houſe of iniquity, becauſe of their abominations ſet up there, ſignifying, that no place is holy, where God is not purely worſhipped.

[q] God will ſo diſperſe them, that they ſhall not remain in any certain place.

[r] They are ſo impudent in receiving bribes, that they will command men to bring them unto them.

[s] To carry them ſuddenly away.

[t] The prieſts and princes catched the poor people in their ſnares, as the fowlers did the birds in theſe two high mountains.

[u] Notwithſtanding they ſeemed to be given altogether to holineſs and to ſacrifices, which here he calleth ſlaughter in contempt.

[w] Though I had admoniſhed them continually by my prophets.

[x] They boaſted themſelves not only to be Iſraelites, but alſo Ephraimites, becauſe their king Jeroboam came of that tribe.

[y] Meaning, their contemning of all admonitions.

[z] That is, their children are degenerate, ſo that there is no hope in them.

[a] Their deſtruction is not far off.

[b] That is, all Iſrael comprehended under this part, ſignifying, that the Lord's plagues ſhould purſue them from place to place, till they were deſtroyed.

Bef. Chr. 780. rebuke : among the tribes of Iſrael have I cauſed to [c] know the truth.

10 The princes of Judah were like them that [d] remove the bound, therefore will I pour out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ephraim is oppreſſed, and broken in judgment, becauſe he willingly walked after the [e] commandment.

12 Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the houſe of Judah as a rottenneſs.

13 When Ephraim ſaw his ſickneſs, and Judah his wound, then went Ephraim unto [f] Aſſhur, and ſent unto king [g] Jareb : yet could he not heal you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For I will be unto Ephraim as a lion, and as a lion's whelp to the houſe of Judah : I, even I, will ſpoil, and go away : I will take away, and none ſhall reſcue it.

15 I will go, and return to my place, till they acknowledge their fault, and ſeek me : in their affliction they will ſeek me diligently.

CHAP. VI.

1 Affliction cauſeth a man to turn to God. 9 The wickedneſs of the prieſts.

COME, and let us [h] return to the Lord : for he hath ſpoiled, and he will heal us : he hath wounded us, and he will bind us up.

2 After two days will [i] he revive us, and in the third day he will raiſe us up, and we ſhall live in his ſight.

3 Then ſhall we have knowledge, and endeavour ourſelves to know the Lord : his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he ſhall come unto us as the rain, and as the latter rain unto the earth.

4 O Ephraim, what ſhall I do unto thee ? O Judah, how ſhall I entreat thee ? for [k] your goodneſs is as a morning cloud, and as the morning dew it goeth away.

5 Therefore have I [l] cut down by the prophets : I have ſlain them by the words of my mouth, and thy [m] judgments were as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I deſired [n] mercy and not ſacrifice, and the knowledge of God more than burnt-offerings.

7 But they [o] like men have tranſgreſſed the covenant : there have they treſpaſſed againſt me.

8 [p] Gilead is a city of them that work iniquity, and is polluted with blood. Bef. Chr. 780.

9 And as thieves wait for a man, ſo the company of prieſts murder in the way by conſent : for they work miſchief.

10 I have ſeen villainy in the houſe of Iſrael : there is the whoredom of Ephraim : Iſrael is defiled.

11 Yea, Judah hath ſet a [q] plant for thee, while I would return the captivity of my people.

CHAP. VII.

1 Of the vices and wantonneſs of the people. 12 Of their puniſhment.

WHEN I would have healed Iſrael, then the iniquity of Ephraim was diſcovered, and the wickedneſs of Samaria : for they have dealt falſly : and [r] the thief cometh in, and the robber ſpoileth without.

2 And they conſider not in their hearts, that I remember all their wickedneſs : now their own inventions have beſet them about : they are in my ſight.

3 They make the [s] king glad with their wickedneſs, and the princes with their lyes.

4 They are all adulterers, and as a very [t] oven heated by the baker, which ceaſeth from raiſing up and from kneading the dough until it be leavened.

5 This is the [u] day of our king : the princes have made him ſick with flaggons of wine : he ſtretcheth out his hand to ſcorners.

6 For they have made ready their heart like an oven, while they lie in wait : their baker ſleepeth all the night : in the morning it burneth as a flame of fire.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have [w] devoured their judges : all their kings are fallen : there is none among them that calleth unto me.

8 Ephraim hath [x] mixed himſelf among the people, Ephraim is as a cake on the hearth not turned.

9 Strangers have devoured his ſtrength, and he knoweth it not : yea, [y] grey hairs are here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Iſrael teſtifieth to his face, and they do not return to the Lord their God, nor ſeek him for all this.

11 Ephraim alſo is like a dove deceived, without [z] heart : they call to Egypt : they go to Aſſhur.

---

[c] By the ſucceſs they ſhall know that I have ſurely determined this.

[d] They have turned upſide down all political order, and all manner of religion.

[e] To wit, after king Jeroboam's commandment, and did not rather follow God.

[f] Inſtead of ſeeking for remedy at God's hand.

[g] Who was king of the Aſſyrians.

[h] He ſheweth the people how they ought to turn to the Lord, that he might call back his plagues.

[i] Though he correct us from time to time, yet his help will not be far off, if we return to him.

[k] You ſeem to have a certain holineſs and repentance, but it is upon the ſudden, and as a morning cloud.

[l] I have ſtill laboured by my prophets, and as it were framed you to bring you to amendment, but all was in vain : for my word was not meat to feed them, but a ſword to ſlay them.

[m] My doctrine which I taught thee, was moſt evident.

[n] He ſheweth to what ſcope his doctrine tended, that they ſhould join the obedience of God, and the love of their neighbour with outward ſacrifice.

[o] That is, light and weak perſons.

[p] Which was the place where the prieſts dwelt, and which ſhould have been beſt inſtructed in my word.

[q] That is, doth imitate thine idolatry, and hath taken graffs of thy trees.

[r] Meaning, that there was no one kind of vice among them, but that they were ſubject to all wickedneſs, both ſecret and open.

[s] They eſteem their wicked king Jeroboam above God, and ſeek but how to flatter and pleaſe him.

[t] He compareth the rage of the people to a burning oven which the baker heateth ſtill, till his dough be leavened and raiſed.

[u] They uſed all riot and exceſs in their feaſts and ſolemnities, whereby their king was overcome with ſurfeit, and brought into diſeaſes, and delighted in flatteries.

[w] By their occaſion God hath deprived them of all good rulers.

[x] That is, he counterfeiteth the religion of the Gentiles, yet is but as a cake baked on the one ſide, and raw on the other, that is, neither thorough hot, nor thorough cold, but partly a Jew, and partly a Gentile.

[y] Which are a token of his manifold afflictions.

[z] That is, without all judgment, as they that cannot tell whether it is better to cleave only to God, or to ſeek the help of man.

Bef. Chr. 780. 12 But when they ſhall go, I will ſpread my net upon them, and draw them down as the fowls of the heaven: I will chaſtiſe them as their [a] congregation hath heard.

13 Wo unto them, for they have fled away from me: deſtruction ſhall be unto them, becauſe they have tranſgreſſed againſt me: though I have [b] redeemed them, yet they have ſpoken lyes againſt me.

14 And they have not cried unto me with their hearts, [c] when they howled upon their beds: [d] they aſſembled themſelves for corn, and wine, and they rebel againſt me.

15 Though I have bound and ſtrengthened their arm, yet do they imagine miſchief againſt me.

16 They return, but not to the moſt High: they are like a deceitful bow: their princes ſhall fall by the ſword, for the rage of [e] their tongues: this ſhall be their deriſion in the land of Egypt.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The deſtruction of Judah and Iſrael, becauſe of their idolatry.

SET the trumpet to thy [f] mouth, he ſhall come as an eagle againſt the houſe of the Lord, becauſe they have tranſgreſſed my covenant, and treſpaſſed againſt my law.

2 Iſrael ſhall [g] cry unto me, My God, we know thee.

3 Iſrael hath caſt off the thing that is good: the enemy ſhall purſue him.

4 They have ſet up a [h] king, but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew it not: of their ſilver and their gold have they made them idols: therefore ſhall they be deſtroyed.

5 Thy calf, O Samaria, hath caſt thee off: mine anger is kindled againſt them: how long will they be without [i] innocency!

6 [k] For it came even from Iſrael: the workman made it, therefore it is not God: but the calf of Samaria ſhall be broken in pieces.

7 For they have [l] ſown the wind, and they ſhall reap the whirlwind, it hath no ſtalk: the bud ſhall bring forth no meal: if ſo be it bring forth, the ſtrangers ſhall devour it.

8 Iſrael is devoured, now ſhall they be among the Gentiles as a veſſel wherein is no pleaſure.

9 For they are gone up to Aſſhur: they are as a [m] wild aſs alone by himſelf: Ephraim hath hired lovers.

Bef. Chr. 760. 10 Yet though they have hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they ſhall ſorrow a little, for the [n] burden of the king and the princes.

11 Becauſe Ephraim hath made many altars to ſin, his altars ſhall be to ſin.

12 I have written to them the great things of my law, but they were counted as a [o] ſtrange thing.

13 They ſacrifice fleſh for the ſacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it: but [p] the Lord accepteth them not: now will he remember their iniquity, and viſit their ſins: they ſhall return to Egypt.

14 For Iſrael hath forgotten his Maker, and buildeth temples, and Judah hath increaſed ſtrong cities: but I will ſend a fire upon his cities, and it ſhall devour the palaces thereof.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captivity of Iſrael.

REJOICE not, O Iſrael, for joy, [q] as other people: for thou haſt gone a whoring from thy God: thou haſt loved [r] a reward upon every corn floor.

2 [s] The floor and the wine-preſs ſhall not feed them, and the new wine ſhall fail in her.

3 They ſhall not dwell in the Lord's land, but Ephraim will return to Egypt, and they will eat unclean things in Aſſhur.

4 They ſhall not offer [t] wine to the Lord, neither ſhall their ſacrifices be pleaſant unto him: but they ſhall be unto them as the bread of mourners; all that eat thereof ſhall be polluted: for their bread [u] for their ſouls ſhall not come into the houſe of the Lord.

5 What will ye do [w] then in the ſolemn day, and in the day of the feaſt of the Lord?

6 For lo, they are gone from [x] deſtruction: but Egypt ſhall gather them up, and Memphis ſhall bury them: the nettle ſhall poſſeſs the pleaſant places of their ſilver, and the thorn ſhall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of viſitation are come: the days of recompence are come: Iſrael ſhall know it: [y] the prophet is a fool: the ſpiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity: therefore the hatred is great.

8 The watchman of Ephraim [z] ſhould be with my God: but the prophet is the ſnare of a fowler in all his ways, and hatred in the houſe of his God.

---

[a] According to my curſes made to the whole congregation of Iſrael.

[b] That is, divers times redeemed them, and delivered them from death.

[c] When they were in affliction, and cried out for pain, they ſought not unto me for help.

[d] They only ſeek their own commodity and wealth, and paſs not for me their God.

[e] Becauſe they boaſt of their own ſtrength, and paſs not what they ſpeak againſt me and my ſervants, Pſalm 73. 9.

[f] God encourageth the prophet to ſignify the ſpeedy coming of the enemy againſt Iſrael, which was once the people of God.

[g] They ſhall cry like hypocrites, but not from the heart, as their deeds declare.

[h] That is, Jeroboam, by whom they ſought their own liberty, and not to obey my will.

[i] That is, upright judgment, and godly life.

[k] Meaning, the calf was invented by themſelves, and of their fathers in the wilderneſs.

[l] Shewing, that their religion hath but a ſhew, and in itſelf is but vanity.

[m] They never ceaſe, but run to and fro to ſeek help.

[n] That is, for the tribute which the king and the princes ſhall lay upon them: which means the Lord uſeth to bring them to repentance.

[o] Thus the idolaters count the word of God as ſtrange in reſpect of their own invention,.

[p] Saying, that they offer it to the Lord, but he accepteth no ſervice which he himſelf hath not appointed.

[q] For though all other people ſhould eſcape, yet thou ſhalt be puniſhed.

[r] Thou haſt committed idolatry in hope of reward, and to have thy barns filled, Jer. 44. 17. as an harlot that had rather live by playing the whore, than to be entertained of her own huſband.

[s] Their outward things that thou ſeekeſt, ſhall be taken from thee.

[t] All theſe doings both touching policy and religion ſhall be rejected as things polluted.

[u] The meat-offering, which they offered for themſelves.

[w] When the Lord ſhall take away all the occaſions of ſerving him, which ſhall be the moſt grievous point of your captivity, when ye ſhall ſee yourſelves cut off from God.

[x] Though they think to eſcape by fleeing the deſtruction that is at hand, yet ſhall they be deſtroyed in the place whither they flee for ſuccour.

[y] Then they ſhall know that they were deluded by them who challenged to themſelves to be their prophets and ſpiritual men.

[z] The prophet's duty is to bring men to God, and not to be a ſnare to pull them from God.

Bef. Chr. 760.

9 They [z] are deeply ſet: they are corrupt as in the days of Gibeah: therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will viſit their ſins.

10 I found Iſrael like [a] grapes in the wilderneſs: I ſaw your fathers as the firſt ripe in the fig-tree at her firſt time, but they went to Baal-Peor, and ſeparated themſelves unto that ſhame, and their abominations were according to [b] their lovers.

11 Ephraim their glory ſhall flee away like a bird: from the birth [c] and from the womb, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring up their children, yet I will deprive them from being men: yea, woe to them when I depart from them.

13 Ephraim, as I ſaw, is as a tree [d] in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim ſhall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 O Lord, give them: what wilt thou give them? give them a [e] barren womb and dry breaſts.

15 All their wickedneſs is in [f] Gilgal, for there do I hate them: for the wickedneſs of their inventions, I will caſt them out of mine houſe: I will love them no more: all their princes are rebels.

16 Ephraim is ſmitten, their root is dried up: they can bring no fruit: yea, though they bring forth, yet will I ſlay even the deareſt of their body.

17 My God will caſt them away, becauſe they did not obey him: and they ſhall wander among the nations.

CHAP. X.

1 Againſt Iſrael and his idols. 14 His deſtruction for the ſame.

ISRAEL is an [g] empty vine, yet hath it brought forth fruit unto itſelf, and according to the multitude of the fruit thereof, he hath increaſed the altars: according to the [h] goodneſs of their land they have made fair images.

2 Their heart is [i] divided: now ſhall they be found faulty: he ſhall break down their altars: he ſhall deſtroy their images.

3 For now they ſhall ſay, We have no [k] king, becauſe we feared not the Lord: and what ſhould a king do to us?

Bef. Chr. 740.

4 They have ſpoken words, ſwearing falſely in making a [l] covenant: thus [m] judgment groweth as wormwood in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria ſhall [n] fear becauſe of the calf of Beth-aven: for the people thereof ſhall mourn over it, and the [o] Chemarims thereof that rejoiced in it for the glory thereof, becauſe it is departed from it.

6 It ſhall be alſo brought to Aſhur for a preſent unto king Jareb: Ephraim ſhall receive ſhame, and Iſrael ſhall be aſhamed of his own counſel.

7 Of Samaria, the king thereof is deſtroyed, as the foam upon the water.

8 The high places alſo of [p] Aven ſhall be deſtroyed: even the ſin of Iſrael: the thorn and thiſtle ſhall grow upon their altars, and they ſhall ſay to the mountains, * Cover us, and to the hills, Fall upon us.

* Iſa. 2. 19 Luke 23. 30. Rev. 6. 16. 9. and 6.

9 O Iſrael, thou haſt [q] ſinned from the days of Gibeah: there they [r] ſtood: the battle in Gibeah againſt the children of iniquity did not [s] touch them.

10 It is my deſire [t] that I ſhould chaſtiſe them, and the people ſhall be gathered againſt them, when they ſhall gather themſelves in their two [u] furrows.

11 And Ephraim is as an heifer uſed to delight [w] in threſhing: but I will paſs by her [x] fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride: Judah ſhall plow, and Jacob ſhall break his clods.

12 Sow to yourſelves in righteouſneſs: reap after the meaſure of mercy: [y] break up your fallow ground: for it is time to ſeek the Lord, till he come and rain righteouſneſs upon you.

13 But you have plowed wickedneſs: ye have reaped iniquity: you have eaten the fruit of lyes: becauſe thou didſt truſt in thine own ways, and in the multitude of thy ſtrong men,

14 Therefore ſhall a tumult ariſe among thy people, and all thy munitions ſhall be deſtroyed, as [z] Shalman deſtroyed Beth-arbel in the day of battle: the mother with the children was daſhed in pieces:

15 So ſhall Beth-el do unto you, becauſe of your malicious wickedneſs: in the morning ſhall the king of Iſrael be deſtroyed.

CHAP.

---

[z] This people is ſo rooted in their wickedneſs, that Gibeah, which was like to Sodom, was never more corrupt, Judges 19. 22.

[a] Meaning, that he ſo eſteemed them, and delighted in them.

[b] They were as abominable unto me, as their lovers, the idols.

[c] Signifying, that God would deſtroy their children by theſe ſundry means, and ſo conſume them by little and little.

[d] As they kept tender plants in their houſes in Tyrus, to preſerve them from the cold air of the ſea, ſo was Ephraim at the firſt unto me, but now I will give him to the ſlaughter.

[e] The prophet ſeeing the great plagues of God toward Ephraim, prayeth to God to make them barren, rather than that this great ſlaughter ſhould come upon their children.

[f] The chief cauſe of their deſtruction is, that they commit idolatry, and corrupt my religion in Gilgal.

[g] Whereof though the grapes were gathered, yet ever as it gathered new ſtrength, it increaſed new wickedneſs, ſo that the correction which ſhould have brought them to obedience, did but utter their ſtubbornneſs.

[h] As they were rich and had abundance.

[i] To wit, from God.

[k] The day ſhall come that God ſhall take away their king, and then they ſhall feel the fruit of their ſins, and how they truſted in him in vain, 2 Kings 17. 6, 7.

[l] In promiſing to be faithful toward God.

[m] Thus their integrity and fidelity which they pretended, was nothing but bitterneſs and grief.

[n] When the calf ſhall be carried away.

[o] Chemarims were certain idolatrous prieſts, which did wear black apparel in their ſacrifices, and cried with a loud voice, which ſuperſtition Elijah derided, 1 Kings 18. 27. Read 2 Kings 23. 5.

[p] Thus he ſpeaketh in contempt of Beth-el. Read ch. 4. 15.

[q] In thoſe days waſt thou as wicked as the Gibeonites, as God there partly declared: for thy zeal could not be good in executing God's judgments, ſeeing thine own deeds were as wicked as theirs.

[r] To wit, to fight, or the Iſraelites remained in that ſtubbornneſs from that time.

[s] The Iſraelites were not moved by their example to ceaſe from their ſins.

[t] Becauſe they are ſo deſperate, I will delight to deſtroy them.

[u] That is, when they have gathered all their ſtrength together.

[w] Wherein is pleaſure, as in plowing is labour and pain.

[x] I will lay my yoke upon her fat neck.

[y] Read Jer. 4. 4.

[z] That is, Shalmanazzar, in the deſtruction of that city, ſpared neither kind nor age.

Bef. Chr. 740.

CHAP. XI.

1 The benefits of the Lord toward Iſrael. 5 Their ingratitude againſt him.

WHEN Iſrael [a] was a child, then I loved him, and called my ſon out of Egypt.

2 They called them, but they [b] went thus from them: they ſacrificed unto Baalim, and burnt incenſe to images.

3 I led Ephraim alſo, as one ſhould bear them in his arms: but they knew not that I healed them.

4 I led them with cords [c] of a man, even with bands of love, and I was to them as he that taketh off the yoke from their jaws, and I laid the meat unto them.

5 He ſhall no more return into the land of Egypt: but Aſſhur ſhall be his [d] king, becauſe they refuſed to convert.

6 And the ſword ſhall fall on his cities, and ſhall conſume his bars, and devour them, becauſe of their own counſels.

7 And my people are bent to rebellion againſt me: though [e] they called them to the moſt High: yet none at all would exalt him.

8 [f] How ſhall I give thee up, Ephraim? how ſhall I deliver thee, Iſrael? how ſhall I make thee as [g] Admah? how ſhall I ſet thee as Zeboim? mine heart is turned within me: [h] my repentings are rolled together.

9 I will not execute the fierceneſs of my wrath: I will not return to deſtroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not man, the holy One in the midſt of thee, and I will not [i] enter into the city.

10 They ſhall walk after the Lord: he ſhall roar like a lion: when he ſhall roar, then the children of the Weſt ſhall fear.

11 [k] They ſhall fear as a ſparrow out of Egypt: and as a dove out of the land of Aſſhur, and I will place them in their houſes, ſaith the Lord.

12 Ephraim compaſſeth me about with lyes, and the houſe of Iſrael with deceit: but Judah yet ruleth with [l] God, and is faithful with the ſaints.

CHAP. XII.

He admoniſheth by Jacob's example to truſt in God, and not in man.

EPhraim is fed [m] with the wind, and followeth after the eaſt wind: he increaſeth daily lyes and deſtruction, and they do make a covenant with Aſſhur, and [n] oil is carried into Egypt.

Bef. Chr. 725.

2 The Lord hath alſo a controverſy with [o] Judah, and will viſit Jacob according to his ways: according to his works, will he recompenſe him.

3 He took his brother by the heel in the womb, and by his ſtrength he had [p] power with God,

4 And had [q] power over the angel, and prevailed: he wept and prayed unto him: [r] He found him in Beth-el, and there he ſpake with us.

5 Yea, the Lord God of hoſts, the Lord is himſelf his memorial.

6 Therefore turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and hope ſtill in thy God:

7 He is [s] Canaan: the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to oppreſs.

8 And Ephraim ſaid, Notwithſtanding I am rich, I have found me out riches in all my labours: they ſhall find none iniquity in me, [t] that were wickedneſs.

9 Though I am the Lord thy God, from the land of Egypt, yet will I make thee to dwell in the tabernacles, as in [u] the days of the ſolemn feaſt.

10 I have alſo ſpoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied viſions, and uſed ſimilitudes by the miniſtry of the prophets.

11 Is there [w] iniquity in Gilead? ſurely they are vanity: they ſacrifice bullocks in Gilgal, and their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the field.

12 [x] And Jacob fled into the country of Aram, and Iſrael ſerved for a wife, and for a wife he kept ſheep.

13 And by a [y] prophet the Lord brought Iſrael out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he reſerved.

14 But Ephraim provoked him with high places: therefore ſhall his blood be poured upon him, and his reproach ſhall his Lord reward him.

CHAP.

---

[a] While the Iſraelites were in Egypt, and did not provoke my wrath by their malice and ingratitude.

[b] They rebelled, and went a contrary way when the prophets called them to repentance.

[c] That is, friendly: and not as beaſts or ſlaves.

[d] Seeing they contemn all this kindneſs, they ſhall be led captive into Aſſyria.

[e] To wit, the prophets.

[f] God conſidereth with himſelf, and that with a certain grief how to puniſh them.

[g] Which were two of the cities that were deſtroyed with Sodom, Deut. 29. 23.

[h] Meaning, that his love wherewith he firſt loved them, made him between doubt and aſſurance what to do: and herein appeareth his fatherly affection, that his mercy toward his ſhall overcome his judgments, as he declareth in the next verſe.

[i] To conſume thee, but will cauſe thee to yield, and ſo receive thee to mercy: and this is meant of the ſmall number who ſhall walk after the Lord.

[k] The Egyptians and Aſſyrians ſhall be afraid when the Lord maintaineth his people.

[l] Governeth their ſtate according to God's word, and doth not degenerate.

[m] That is, flattereth himſelf with vain confidence.

[n] Meaning, preſents, to get friendſhip.

[o] Which in theſe points was like to Ephraim, but not in idolatries.

[p] Seeing that God did thus prefer Jacob their father, Judah's ingratitude was the more to be abhorred.

[q] Read Gen. 32. 31.

[r] God found Jacob as he lay ſleeping in Beth-el, Gen. 28. 12. and ſo ſpake with him there, that the fruit of that ſpeech appertained to the whole body of the people, whereof we are.

[s] As for Ephraim, he is more like the wicked Canaanites, than godly Abraham or Jacob.

[t] Thus the wicked meaſure God's favour by outward proſperity, and like hypocrites cannot abide that any ſhould reprove their doings.

[u] Seeing thou wilt not acknowledge my benefits, I will bring thee again to dwell in tents, as in the feaſt of the tabernacles, which thou doſt now contemn.

[w] The people thought that no man durſt have ſpoken againſt Gilead, that holy place, and yet the prophet ſaith, that all their religion was but vanity.

[x] If you boaſt of your riches and nobility, ye ſeem to reproach your father, who was a poor fugitive and ſervant.

[y] Meaning, Moſes, whereby appeareth, that whatſoever they have, it cometh of God's free goodneſs.

Bef. Chr. 725.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The abomination of Iſrael, 9 and the cauſe of their deſtruction.

WHEN Ephraim ſpake, there was [a] trembling: he [b] exalted himſelf in Iſrael, but he hath ſinned in Baal, [c] and is dead.

2 And now they ſin more and more, and have made them molten images of their ſilver, and idols according to their own underſtanding: they were all the work of the craftſmen: they ſay one to another while they ſacrifice a [d] man, Let them kiſs the calves.

3 Therefore they ſhall be as the morning cloud, and as the morning dew that paſſeth away, as the chaff that is driven with a whirlwind out of the floor, and as the ſmoak that goeth out of the chimney.

4 Yet I am the Lord thy God [e] from the land of Egypt, and thou ſhalt know no God but me: for there is no Saviour beſide me.

5 I did know thee in the wilderneſs, in the land of drought.

6 And in their paſtures, ſo were they filled: they were filled, and their heart was exalted, therefore have they forgotten me.

7 And I will be unto them as a very lion, and as a leopard in the way of Aſſhur.

8 I will meet them, as a bear that is robbed of her whelps, and I will break the caul of their heart, and there I will devour them like a lion: the wild beaſt ſhall tear them.

9 O Iſrael, one [f] hath deſtroyed thee, but in me is thine help.

10 [g] I am: where is thy king, that ſhould help thee in all thy cities? and thy judges, of whom thou ſayeſt, Give me a king, and princes?

11 I gave thee a king in mine anger, and I took him away in my wrath.

12 The iniquity of Ephraim is [h] bound up: his ſin is hid.

13 The ſorrows of a travailing woman ſhall come upon him: he is an unwiſe ſon, elſe would he not ſtand ſtill at the time, even at the [i] breaking forth of the children.

14 I will redeem them from the power of the grave: I will deliver them from death: O [k] death, I will be thy death: O grave, I will be thy deſtruction: [l] repentance is hid from mine eyes.

15 Though he grew up among his brethren, an eaſt wind ſhall come, even the wind of the Lord ſhall come up from the wilderneſs, and dry up his vein, and his fountain ſhall be dried up: he ſhall ſpoil the treaſure of all pleaſant veſſels.

Bef. Chr. 725.

CHAP. XIV.

1 The deſtruction of Samaria. 2 He exhorteth Iſrael to turn to God, who requireth praiſe and thanks.

SAmaria ſhall be deſolate, for ſhe hath rebelled againſt her God: they ſhall fall by the ſword: their infants ſhall be daſhed in pieces, and their women with child ſhall be ript.

2 O Iſrael, [m] return unto the Lord thy God: for thou haſt fallen by thine iniquity.

3 Take unto you words, and turn to the Lord, and ſay unto him, [n] Take away all iniquity, and receive us graciouſly: ſo will we render the calves of our [o] lips.

4 Aſſhur ſhall [p] not ſave us, neither will we ride upon horſes, neither will we ſay any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: for in thee the fatherleſs findeth mercy.

5 [q] I will heal their rebellion: I will love them freely, for mine anger is turned away from him.

6 I will be as the dew unto Iſrael: he ſhall grow as the lily, and faſten his roots as the trees of Lebanon.

7 His branches ſhall ſpread, and his beauty ſhall be as the olive-tree, and his ſmell as Lebanon.

8 They that dwell under his [r] ſhadow, ſhall return: they ſhall revive as the corn, and flouriſh as the vine: the ſcent thereof ſhall be as the wine of Lebanon.

9 Ephraim ſhall ſay, What have I to do any more with idols? I [s] have heard him, and looked upon him: I am like a green fir-tree: upon me is thy fruit found.

10 Who is [t] wiſe, and he ſhall underſtand theſe things? and prudent, and he ſhall know them? for the ways of the Lord are righteous, and the juſt ſhall walk in them: but the wicked ſhall fall therein.

---

[a] He ſheweth the excellency and authority that this tribe had above all the reſt.

[b] He made a king of his tribe.

[c] The Ephraimites are not far from deſtruction, and have loſt their authority.

[d] The falſe prophets perſuaded the idolaters to offer their children after the example of Abraham, and he ſheweth how they would exhort one another to the ſame, and to kiſs and worſhip theſe calves which were their idols.

[e] He calleth them to repentance, and reproveth their ingratitude.

[f] The deſtruction is certain, and my benefits toward thee declare that it cometh not of me: therefore thine own malice, idolatry, and vain confidence in men muſt needs be the cauſe thereof.

[g] I am all one, James 1. 17.

[h] It is ſurely laid up to be puniſhed, as Jer. 17. 1.

[i] But would come out of the womb, that is, out of this danger wherein he is, and not tarry to be ſtifled.

[k] Meaning, that no power ſhall reſiſt God, when he will deliver his, but even in death will he give them life.

[l] Becauſe they will not turn to me, I will not change my purpoſe.

[m] He exhorteth them to repentance, to avoid all theſe plagues, willing them to declare by words their obedience and repentance.

[n] He ſheweth them how they ought to confeſs their ſins.

[o] Declaring that this is the true ſacrifice that the faithful can offer, even thanks and praiſe, Heb. 13. 15.

[p] We will leave off all vain confidence and pride.

[q] He declareth how ready God is to receive them that do repent.

[r] Whoſoever join themſelves to this people, ſhall be bleſſed.

[s] God ſheweth how prompt he is to hear his, when they repent, and to offer himſelf as a protection and ſafeguard unto them, as a moſt ſufficient fruit and profit.

[t] Signifying, that the true wiſdom and knowledge conſiſteth in this, even to reſt upon God.

JOEL.

THE ARGUMENT.

The prophet Joel firſt rebuketh them of Judah, that being now puniſhed with a great plague of famine, remaineth ſtill obſtinate. Secondly, he threateneth greater plagues, becauſe they grew daily to a more hardneſs of heart, and rebellion againſt God, notwithſtanding his puniſhments. Thirdly, he exhorteth them to repentance, ſhewing that it muſt be earneſt, and proceed from the heart, becauſe they had grievouſly offended God. And ſo doing, he promiſeth that God will be merciful, and not forget his covenant that he made with their fathers: but will ſend his Chriſt, who ſhall gather the ſcattered ſheep, and reſtore them to life and liberty, though they ſeemed to be dead.

CHAP. I.

1 A propheсy againſt the Jews. 2 He exhorteth the people to prayer and faſting, for the miſery that was at hand.

Bef. Chr. 800.

THE word of the Lord that came to Joel, the ſon of Pethuel.

2 Hear ye this, O [a] elders, and hearken ye, all inhabitants of the land, whether [b] ſuch a thing hath been in your days, or yet in the days of your fathers.

3 Tell your children of it, and let your children ſhew to their children, and their children to another generation.

4 That which is left of the palmer-worm, hath the graſs-hopper eaten, and the reſidue of the graſs-hopper hath the canker-worm eaten, and the reſidue of the canker-worm hath the caterpillar eaten.

5 Awake ye [c] drunkards, and weep and howl, all ye drinkers of wine, becauſe of the new wine: for it ſhall be pulled from your mouth.

6 Yea, [d] a nation cometh upon my land, mighty, and without number, whoſe teeth are like the teeth of a lion, and he hath the jaws of a great lion.

7 He maketh my vine waſte, and peeleth off the bark of my fig-tree: he maketh it bare, and caſteth it down: the branches thereof are made white.

8 Mourn like a virgin girded with ſackcloth for the [e] huſband of her youth.

9 The meat-offering, and the drink-offering, is [f] cut off from the houſe of the Lord: the prieſts, the Lord's miniſters mourn.

10 The field is waſted: the land mourneth: for the corn is deſtroyed: the [g] new wine is dried up, and the oil is decayed.

11 Be ye aſhamed, O huſbandmen: howl, O ye vine-dreſſers, for the wheat, and for the barley, becauſe the harveſt of the field is periſhed.

12 The vine is dried up, and the fig-tree is decayed: the pomegranate-tree, and the palm-tree, and the apple-tree, even all the trees of the field are withered: ſurely alſo the joy is withered away from the ſons of men.

Bef. Chr. 800.

13 [h] Gird yourſelves and lament, ye prieſts: howl, ye miniſters of the altar: come, and lie all night in ſackcloth, ye miniſters of my God: for the meat-offering, and the drink-offering is taken away from the houſe of your God.

14 Sanctify you a faſt: call a ſolemn aſſembly: gather the elders, and all the inhabitants of the land, into the houſe of the Lord your God, and cry unto the Lord,

15 Alas: for the day, for the [i] day of the Lord is at hand, and it cometh as a deſtruction from the Almighty.

16 Is not the meat cut off from our eyes? and joy and gladneſs from the houſe of our God?

17 The ſeed is rotten under their clods: the garners are deſtroyed: the barns are broken down, for the corn is withered.

18 How did the beaſts mourn! the herds of cattle pine away, becauſe they have no paſture, and the flocks of ſheep are deſtroyed.

19 O Lord, to thee will I cry: for the fire hath devoured the paſtures of the wilderneſs, and the flame hath burnt up all the trees of the field.

20 The beaſts of the field cry all unto thee: for the rivers of water are dried up, and the [k] fire hath devoured the paſtures of the wilderneſs.

CHAP. II.

He propheſieth of the coming and cruelty of their enemies. 13 An exhortation to move them to convert. 18 The love of God toward his people.

BLOW [l] the trumpet in Zion, and ſhout in mine holy mountain: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord is come: for it is at hand.

2 A [m] day of darkneſs, and of blackneſs, a day of clouds and obſcurity, as the morning ſpread upon the mountains, ſo is there a [n] great people, and a mighty: there was none like it from the beginning, neither ſhall be any more after it, unto the years of many generations.

3 A fire devoureth before him, and behind him a flame burneth up: the land is as the garden

[a] Signifying, the princes, the prieſts and the governors.

[b] He calleth the Jews to the conſideration of God's judgments, who had now plagued the fruits of the ground for the ſpace of four years, which was for their ſins, and to call them to repentance.

[c] Meaning, that the occaſion of their exceſs and drunkenneſs was taken away.

[d] This was another plague wherewith God had puniſhed them, when he ſtirred up the Aſſyrians againſt them.

[e] Mourn grievouſly, as a woman which had loſt her huſband, to whom ſhe hath been married in her youth.

[f] The tokens of God's wrath did appear in his temple, inſomuch as God's ſervice was left off.

[g] All comfort and ſubſtance for nouriſhment is taken away.

[h] He ſheweth that the only means to avoid God's wrath, and to have all things reſtored, is unfeigned repentance.

[i] We ſee by theſe great plagues, that utter deſtruction is at hand.

[k] That is, drought.

[l] He ſheweth the great judgments of God which are at hand, except they repent.

[m] Of affliction and trouble.

[n] Meaning, the Aſſyrians.

4 The beholding of him is like the ſight of horſes, and like the horſemen, ſo ſhall they run:

5 Like the noiſe of chariots in the tops of the mountains ſhall they leap, like the noiſe of a flame of fire that devoureth the ſtubble, and as a mighty people prepared to the battle.

6 Before his face ſhall the people tremble: all faces [p] ſhall gather blackneſs.

7 They ſhall run like ſtrong men, and go up to the wall like men of war, and every man ſhall go forward in his ways, and they ſhall not ſtay in their paths:

8 Neither ſhall one [q] thruſt another, but every one ſhall walk in his path: and when they fall upon the ſword, they ſhall not be wounded.

9 They ſhall run to and fro in the city: they ſhall run upon the wall: they ſhall climb up upon the houſes, and enter in at the windows like the thief.

10 The earth ſhall tremble before him, the heavens ſhall ſhake, the [r] ſun and the moon ſhall be dark, and the ſtars ſhall withdraw their ſhining,

11 And the Lord ſhall [s] utter his voice before his hoſt: for his hoſt is very great: for he is ſtrong that doth his word: * for the day of the Lord is great and very terrible, and who can abide it? * Jer. 30. 7 Amos 5. 18. Zeph. 1 K.

12 Therefore alſo now the Lord ſaiith, Turn you unto me with all your heart, and with faſting, and with weeping, and with mourning,

13 And [t] rent your heart, and not your cloaths: and turn unto the Lord your God, for he is gracious, and merciful, ſlow to anger, and of great kindneſs, and repenteth him of the evil.

14 Who knoweth, if he will [u] return and repent, and leave a bleſſing behind him, even a meat-offering, and a drink-offering unto the Lord your God?

15 Blow the trumpet in Zion, ſanctify a faſt, call a ſolemn aſſembly.

16 Gather the people: ſanctify the congregation, gather the elders: aſſemble the [w] children, and thoſe that ſuck the breaſt: let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her bride chamber.

17 Let the prieſts, the miniſters of the Lord, weep between the porch and the altar, and let them ſay, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage into reproach, that the heathen ſhould rule over them. * Wherefore ſhould they ſay among the people, Where is their God? * Pſ. 79. 10.

18 Then will the Lord be [x] jealous over his land, and ſpare his people.

19 Yea, the Lord will anſwer, and ſay unto his people, Behold, I will ſend you corn, and wine, and oil, and you ſhall be ſatisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproach among the heathen,

20 But I will remove far off from you the [y] northern army, and I will drive him into a land barren and deſolate, with his face toward the [z] eaſt ſea, and his end to the utmoſt ſea, and his ſtink ſhall come up, and his corruption ſhall aſcend, becauſe he hath exalted himſelf to do this.

21 Fear not, O land, but be glad, and rejoice: for the Lord will do great things.

22 Be not afraid, ye beaſts of the field: for the paſtures of the wilderneſs are green: for the tree beareth her fruit: the fig-tree and the vine do give their force.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God: for he hath given you the rain of [a] righteouſneſs, * and he will cauſe to come down for you the rain, even the firſt rain, and the latter rain in the firſt month. * Rev. 26. 4. Deut. 11. 14.

24 And the barns ſhall be full of wheat, and the preſſes ſhall abound with wine and oil.

25 And I will render you the years that the graſhopper hath eaten, the canker-worm, and the caterpillar, and the palmer-worm, my great hoſt which I ſent among you.

26 So you ſhall eat and be ſatisfied, and praiſe the name of the Lord your God, that hath dealt marvellouſly with you: and my people ſhall never be aſhamed.

27 Ye ſhall alſo know that I am in the midſt of Iſrael: and that I am the Lord your God, and none other, and my people ſhall never be aſhamed.

28 And afterward will I pour [b] out my Spirit upon all fleſh: and your ſons and your daughters ſhall propheſy: your old men ſhall dream [c] dreams, and your young men ſhall ſee viſions.

29 And alſo upon the ſervants and upon the maidens in thoſe days will I pour my Spirit.

30 And I will ſhew [d] wonders in the heavens, and in the earth: blood and fire, and pillars of ſmoak.

31 The [e] ſun ſhall be turned into darkneſs, and the moon into blood, before the great and terrible day of the Lord come.

32 But whoſoever ſhall call [f] on the name of the Lord, ſhall be ſaved: for in mount Zion, and

CHAP. III.

Of the judgments of God againſt the enemies of his people.

FOR behold, in [h] thoſe days and in that time, when I ſhall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jeruſalem,

2 I will alſo gather all nations, and I will bring them down into the [i] valley of Jehoſhaphat, and will plead with them there for my people, and for mine heritage Iſrael, whom they have ſcattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And they have caſt lots for my people, and have given the child [k] for the harlot, and ſold the girl for wine, that they might drink.

4 Yea, and [l] what have you to do with me, O Tyrus and Zidon, and all the coaſts of Paleſtina? will ye render me [m] a recompenſe? and if ye recompenſe me, ſwiftly and ſpeedily will I render your recompence upon your head:

5 For ye have taken my ſilver, and have carried into your temples my goodly and pleaſant things.

6 The children alſo of Judah and the children of Jeruſalem have you ſold unto the Grecians, that ye might ſend them far from their border.

7 Behold, I will raiſe them out of the place where ye have ſold them, and will render your reward upon your own head.

8 And I will ſell your ſons and your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah: and they [n] ſhall ſell them to the Sabeans, to a people far off: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

9 Publiſh this among the Gentiles: prepare war, wake up the mighty men: let all the men of war draw near and come up.

10 [o] Break your plowſhares into ſwords, and your ſcythes into ſpears: let the weak ſay, I am ſtrong.

11 Aſſemble yourſelves, and come, all ye heathen, and gather yourſelves together round about: there ſhall the Lord caſt down thy mighty men.

12 Let the heathen be wakened and come up to the valley of Jehoſhaphat, for there will I ſit to judge all the heathen round about.

13 Put in your [p] ſcythes, for the harveſt is ripe: come, get you down, for the wine-preſs is full: yea, the wine-preſſes run over, for their wickedneſs is great.

14 O multitude, O multitude, come into the valley of threſhing: for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of threſhing.

15 The ſun and moon ſhall be darkened, and the ſtars ſhall withdraw their light.

16 The Lord alſo ſhall roar out of Zion, and utter his voice from Jeruſalem, and the heavens and the earth ſhall ſhake, but the Lord will be the hope [q] of his people, and the ſtrength of the children of Iſrael.

17 So ſhall ye know that I am the Lord your God, dwelling in Zion, mine holy mountain: then ſhall Jeruſalem be holy, and there ſhall no ſtrangers go [r] through her any more.

18 And in that day ſhall the mountains [s] drop down new wine, and the hills ſhall flow with milk, and all the rivers of Judah ſhall run with waters, and a fountain ſhall come forth of the houſe of the Lord, and ſhall water the valley of Shittim.

19 [t] Egypt ſhall be waſte, and Edom ſhall be a deſolate wilderneſs, for the injuries of the children of Judah, becauſe they have ſhed innocent blood in their land.

20 But Judah ſhall dwell for ever, and Jeruſalem from generation to generation.

21 For I will [u] cleanſe their blood that I have not cleanſed, and the Lord will dwell in Zion.

---

[g] Meaning hereby the Gentiles, Rom. 10. 13.

[h] When I ſhall deliver my church, which ſtandeth of the Jews and of the Gentiles.

[i] It appeareth that he alludeth to that great victory of Jehoſhaphat, when as God without man's help deſtroyed the enemies, 2 Chron. 20. 26. alſo he hath reſpect to this word Jehoſhaphat, which ſignifieth pleading or judgment, becauſe God would judge the enemies of his church, as he did there.

[k] That which the enemy got for the ſale of my people, he beſtowed upon harlots and drink.

[l] He taketh the cauſe of his church in hand againſt the enemy, as though the injury were done to himſelf.

[m] Have I done you wrong, that ye will render me the like?

[n] For afterward God ſold them by Nebuchadnezzar and Alexander the Great, for the love he bare to his people, and thereby they were comforted as though the price had been theirs.

[o] When I ſhall execute my judgments againſt mine enemies, I will cauſe every one to be ready, and to prepare their weapons to deſtroy one another, for my church ſake.

[p] Thus he ſhall encourage the enemies when their wickedneſs is full ripe to deſtroy one another, which he calleth the valley of God's judgments.

[q] God aſſureth his againſt all troubles, that when he deſtroyeth his enemies, his children ſhall be delivered.

[r] The ſtrangers ſhall no more deſtroy his church: which if they do, it is the people, which by their ſins make the breach for the enemy.

[s] He promiſeth to his church abundance of graces, read Ezek. 47. 1. which ſhould water and comfort the moſt barren places, Amos 9. 13.

[t] The malicious enemies ſhall have no part of this grace.

[u] He had ſuffered his church hitherto to lie in their filthineſs, but now he promiſeth to cleanſe them, and to make them pure unto him.

AMOS.

THE ARGUMENT.

Among many other prophets that God raiſed up to admoniſh the Iſraelites of his plagues for their wickedneſs and idolatry, he ſtirred up Amos, who was an herdſman or ſhepherd of a poor town, and gave him both knowledge and conſtancy to reprove all eſtates and degrees, and to denounce God's horrible judgments againſt them, except they did in time repent: ſhewing them, that if God ſpared not the other nations about them, who had lived as it were in ignorance of God in reſpect of them, but for their ſins will puniſh them, that they could look for nothing, but an horrible deſtruction, except they turned to the Lord by unfeigned repentance. And finally, he comforteth the godly with hope of the coming of the Meſſiah, by whom they ſhould have perfect deliverance and ſalvation.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the prophecy of Amos. 3 The word of the Lord againſt Damaſcus, 6 the Philiſtines, Tyrus, Idumea and Ammon.

THE words of Amos, who was among the herdmen at [a] Tekoa, which he ſaw upon Iſrael, in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of [b] Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh king of Iſrael, two years before the [c] earthquake.

2 And he ſaid, The Lord ſhall roar from Zion, and utter his voice from Jeruſalem, and the dwelling-places of the ſhepherds ſhall periſh, and the top of [d] Carmel ſhall wither.

3 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For [e] three tranſgreſſions of Damaſcus, and for four, I will not turn to it, becauſe they have [f] threſhed Gilead with threſhing-inſtruments of iron:

4 Therefore will I ſend a fire into the houſe of Hazael, and it ſhall devour the [g] palaces of Benhadad.

5 I will break alſo the bars of Damaſcus, and cut off the inhabitant of Bikeath-aven: and him that holdeth the ſceptre out of Beth-eden, and the people of Aram ſhall go into captivity unto [h] Kir, ſaith the Lord.

6 Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Azzah, and for four, I will not turn to it, becauſe they [i] carried away priſoners the whole captivity to ſhut them up in Edom:

7 Therefore will I ſend a fire upon the walls of Azzah, and it ſhall devour the palaces thereof:

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Aſhdod, and him that holdeth the ſceptre from Aſhkelon, and turn mine hand to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philiſtines ſhall periſh, ſaith the Lord God.

9 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Tyrus, and for four, I will not turn to it, becauſe they ſhut the whole captivity in Edom, and have not remembered the [k] brotherly covenant:

10 Therefore will I ſend a fire upon the walls of Tyrus, and it ſhall devour the palaces thereof.

11 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Edom, and for four, I will not turn to it, becauſe he did purſue his brother with the ſword, and did † caſt off all pity, and his anger ſpoiled him evermore, and his wrath watched him [l] alway:

† Heb. corrupt his compaſſions.

12 Therefore will I ſend a fire upon Teman, and it ſhall devour the palaces of Bozrah.

13 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn to it, becauſe they [m] have ript up the women with child of Gilead, that they might enlarge their border:

14 Therefore will I kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it ſhall devour the palaces thereof, with ſhouting in the day of battle, and with a tempeſt in the day of the whirlwind.

15 And their king ſhall go into captivity, he and his princes together, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. II.

Againſt Moab, Judah and Iſrael.

THUS ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Moab, and for four, I will not turn to it, becauſe it burnt the [n] bones of the king of Edom into lime:

2 Therefore will I ſend a fire upon Moab, and it ſhall devour the palaces of Kerioth, and Moab ſhall die with tumult, with ſhouting, and with the ſound of a trumpet.

3 And I will cut off the judge out of the midſt thereof, and will ſlay all the princes thereof with him, ſaith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of Judah, and for four, [o] I will not turn to it, becauſe they have caſt away the law of the Lord, and have not kept his commandments, and their lyes cauſed them to err, after the which their fathers have walked.

5 Therefore will I ſend a fire upon Judah, and it ſhall devour the palaces of Jeruſalem.

6 ¶ Thus ſaith the Lord, For three tranſgreſſions of [p] Iſrael, and for four, I will not turn to it, becauſe they ſold the righteous for ſilver, and the poor [q] for ſhoes.

7 They gape over the head of the poor, in the [r] duſt of the earth, and pervert the ways of the meek: and a man and his father will go in to a maid to diſhonour mine holy name.

8 And they lie down upon cloaths laid to pledge [s] by every altar: and they [t] drink the wine of the condemned in the houſe of their God.

---

[a] Which was a town ſix miles from Jeruſalem in Judea, but he propheſied in Iſrael.

[b] In his days the kingdom of Iſrael did moſt flouriſh.

[c] Which, as Joſephus writeth, was when Uzziah would have uſurped the prieſt's office, and therefore was ſmitten with the leproſy.

[d] Whatſoever is fruitful and pleaſant in Iſrael ſhall ſhortly periſh.

[e] He ſheweth, firſt, that all the people round about ſhould be deſtroyed for their manifold ſins: which are meant by three and four, which make ſeven, becauſe the Iſraelites ſhould the more deeply conſider God's judgments toward them.

[f] If the Syrians ſhall not be ſpared for committing this cruelty againſt one city, it is not poſſible that Iſrael ſhould eſcape puniſhment, which hath committed ſo many and grievous ſins againſt God and man.

[g] The antiquity of their buildings ſhall not avoid my judgments, read Jer. 49. 27.

[h] Tiglath Pileſer led the Syrians captive, and brought them to Cyrene, which he calleth here Kir.

[i] They joined themſelves with the Edomites their enemies, which carried them away captives.

[k] For Eſau, (of whom came the Edomites) and Jacob were brethren: therefore they ought to have admoniſhed them of their brotherly friendſhip, and not to have provoked them to hatred.

[l] He was a continual enemy unto him.

[m] He noteth the great cruelty of the Ammonites, that ſpared not the women, but moſt tyrannouſly tormented them, and yet the Ammonites came of Lot, who was of the houſhold of Abraham.

[n] For the Moabites were ſo cruel againſt the king of Edom, that they burnt his bones after that he was dead, which declared their barbarous rage, ſeeing they would revenge themſelves of the dead.

[o] Seeing the Gentiles that had not ſo far knowledge, were thus puniſhed, Judah which was ſo fully inſtructed of the Lord's will, might not think to eſcape.

[p] If he ſpare not Judah, unto whom his promiſes were made, much more he will not ſpare this degenerate kingdom.

[q] They eſteemed moſt vile bribes more than men's lives.

[r] When they have ſpoiled him and thrown him to the ground, they gape for his life.

[s] Thinking by theſe ceremonies, that is, by ſacrificing and being near mine altar, they may excuſe all their other wickedneſs.

[t] They ſpoil others, and offer there f unto God, thinking that he will diſpenſe with them when he is made partaker of their iniquity.

9 Yet deſtroyed I the [u] Amorite before them, whoſe height was like the height of the cedars, and he was ſtrong as the oaks: notwithſtanding I deſtroyed his fruit from above, and his root from beneath.

10 Alſo I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and led you forty years through the wilderneſs, to poſſeſs the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raiſed up of your ſons for prophets, and [w] of your young men for Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord?

12 But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink, and commanded the prophets, ſaying, Propheſy not.

13 Behold, I am [x] preſſed under you as a cart is preſſed that is full of ſheaves.

14 Therefore the flight ſhall periſh from the [y] ſwift, and the ſtrong ſhall not ſtrengthen his force, neither ſhall the mighty ſave his life.

15 Nor he that handleth the bow ſhall ſtand, and he that is ſwift of foot ſhall not eſcape, neither ſhall he that rideth the horſe ſave his life.

16 And he that is of a mighty courage among the ſtrong men ſhall flee away naked in that day, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. III.

He reproveth the houſe of Iſrael of ingratitude, 11 For the which God will puniſh them.

HEAR this word that the Lord pronounceth againſt you, O children of Iſrael, even againſt the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, ſaying,

2 You [z] only have I known of all the families of the earth: therefore I will viſit you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walk together except they be [a] agreed?

4 Will a [b] lion roar in the foreſt, when he hath no prey? or will a lion's whelp cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing?

5 [c] Can a bird fall in a ſnare upon the earth, where no fowler is? or will he take up the [d] ſnare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

6 Or [e] ſhall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people be not afraid? or ſhall there [f] be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it?

7 Surely, the Lord God will do nothing, but he [g] revealeth his ſecret unto his ſervants the prophets.

8 The lion hath roared: who will not be afraid? the Lord God hath ſpoken: who can but [h] propheſy?

9 Proclaim in the palaces at [i] Aſhdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and ſay, Aſſemble yourſelves upon the mountains of Samaria: ſo behold the great tumults in the midſt thereof, and the oppreſſed in the midſt thereof.

10 For they know not to do right, ſaith the Lord: they ſtore up violence and robbery [k] in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God, An adverſary ſhall come even round about the country, and ſhall bring down thy ſtrength from thee, and thy palaces ſhall be ſpoiled.

12 Thus ſaith the Lord, As the ſhepherd taketh [l] out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear: ſo ſhall the children of Iſrael be taken out that dwell in Samaria, in the corner of a bed, and in [m] Damaſcus, as in a couch.

13 Hear, and teſtify in the houſe of Jacob, ſaith the Lord God, the God of hoſts,

14 Surely in the day that I ſhall viſit the tranſgreſſions of Iſrael upon him, I will alſo viſit the altars of Beth-el, and the horns of the altar ſhall be broken off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will ſmite the winter-houſe with the ſummer-houſe, and the houſes of ivory ſhall periſh, and the great houſes ſhall be conſumed, ſaith the Lord.

HEAR this word, ye [n] kine of Baſhan that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppreſs the poor, and deſtroy the needy, and they ſay to their maſter, [o] Bring, and let us drink.

2 The Lord God hath ſworn by his holineſs, that lo, the days ſhall come upon you, that he will take you away with [p] thorns, and your poſterity with fiſh-hooks.

3 And ye ſhall go out at the breaches, every cow forward: and ye ſhall caſt yourſelves out of the palace, ſaith the Lord.

[x] You have wearied me with your ſins, Iſa. 1. 14.

[y] None ſhall be delivered by any means.

[z] I have only choſen you to be mine among all other people: and yet you have forſaken me.

[a] Hereby the prophet ſignifieth that he ſpeaketh not of himſelf, but as God guideth and moveth him, which is called the agreement between God and his prophets.

[b] Will God threaten by his prophets, except there be ſome great occaſion?

[c] Can any thing come without God's providence?

[d] Shall his threatenings be in vain?

[e] Shall the prophets threaten God's judgments, and the people not be afraid?

[f] Doth any adverſity come without God's appointment? Iſa. 45. 7.

[g] God dealeth not with the Iſraelites as he doth with other people: for he ever warneth them before of his plagues by his prophets.

[h] Becauſe the people ever murmured againſt the prophets, he ſheweth, that God's Spirit moved them ſo to ſpeak as they did.

[i] He calleth the ſtrangers, as the Philiſtines and Egyptians, to be witneſſes of God's judgments againſt the Iſraelites for their cruelty and oppreſſion.

[k] The fruit of their cruelty and theft appeareth by their great riches which they have in their houſes.

[l] When the lion hath ſatiate his hunger, the ſhepherd findeth a leg, or a tip of an ear, to ſhew that the ſheep have been worried.

[n] Thus he calleth the princes and governors, which being overwhelmed with the great abundance of God's benefits forgat God, and therefore he calleth them by the name of beaſts, and not of men.

[o] They encourage ſuch as have authority over the people, to plunder them, ſo that they may have profit by it.

[p] He alludeth to fiſhers which catch fiſh by hooks and thorns.

[q] He ſpeaketh this in contempt of them which reſorted to theſe places, thinking that their great devotion and good intention had been ſufficient to have bound God unto them.

6 And therefore have I given you [w] cleanneſs of teeth in all your cities, and ſcarceneſs of bread in all your palaces: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

7 And alſo I have with-holden the rain from you, when there were yet three [x] months to the harveſt, and I cauſed it to rain upon one city, and have not cauſed it to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered unto one city to drink water, but they were [y] not ſatisfied: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

9 I have ſmitten you with blaſting and mill-dew: your great gardens and your vineyards, and your fig-trees, and your olive-trees did the palmer-worm devour: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

10 Peſtilence have I ſent among you, after the manner of [z] Egypt: your young men have I ſlain with the ſword, and have taken away your horſes: and I have made the ſtink of your tents to come up even unto your noſtrils: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

11 I have overthrown you as God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah: and ye were as a [a] fire-brand pluckt out of the burning: yet have ye not returned unto me, ſaith the Lord.

12 Therefore, thus will I do unto thee, O Iſrael: and becauſe I will do this unto thee, prepare to [b] meet thy God, O Iſrael.

13 For lo, he that formeth the mountains and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought; which maketh the morning darkneſs, and walketh upon the high places of the earth, the Lord God of hoſts is his name.

CHAP. V.

A lamentation for the captivity of Iſrael.

HEAR ye this word, which I lift upon you, even a lamentation of the houſe of Iſrael.

2 The [c] virgin Iſrael is fallen, and ſhall no more riſe: ſhe is left upon her land, and there is none to raiſe her up.

3 For thus ſaith the Lord God, The city which went out by a thouſand, ſhall leave an [d] hundred: and that which went forth by an hundred, ſhall leave ten to the houſe of Iſrael.

4 For thus ſaith the Lord unto the houſe of Iſrael, Seek ye me, and ye ſhall live.

5 But ſeek not to Beth-el, nor enter into [e] Gilgal, and go not to Beer-ſheba: for Gilgal ſhall go into captivity, and Beth-el ſhall come to nought.

6 Seek the Lord, and ye ſhall live, leſt he break out like fire in the houſe of Joſeph, and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

7 They turn [f] judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteouſneſs in the earth.

8 He [g] maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and he turneth the ſhadow of death into the morning, and he maketh the day dark as night: he calleth the waters of the ſea, and poureth them out upon the open earth: the Lord is his name.

9 He ſtrengtheneth the deſtroyer againſt the mighty: and the deſtroyer ſhall come againſt the fortreſs.

10 They have hated him [h] that rebuketh in the gate: and they abhorred him that ſpeaketh uprightly.

11 Foraſmuch then as your treading is upon the poor, and [i] ye take from him burdens of wheat: ye have built houſes of hewn ſtone, but ye ſhall not dwell in them: ye have planted pleaſant vineyards, but ye ſhall not drink wine of them.

12 For I know your manifold tranſgreſſions, and your mighty ſins; they afflict the juſt, they take rewards, and they oppreſs the poor in the gate;

13 Therefore [k] the prudent ſhall keep ſilence in that time, for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and the Lord God of hoſts will be with you, as you have ſpoken.

15 Hate the evil, and love the good, and eſtabliſh judgment in the gate: it may be that the Lord God of hoſts will be merciful unto the remnant of Joſeph.

16 Therefore the Lord God of hoſts, the Lord ſaith thus, Mourning ſhall be in all ſtreets: and they ſhall ſay in all the high ways, Alas, alas! and they ſhall call the [l] huſbandman to lamentation, and ſuch as can mourn, to mourning.

17 And in all the vines ſhall be lamentation: for I will paſs through thee, ſaith the Lord.

18 Wo unto you that [m] deſire the day of the Lord: what have you to do with it? the day of the Lord is darkneſs and not light.

19 As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him: or went into the houſe, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a ſerpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the Lord be darkneſs, and not light? even darkneſs and no light in it?

21 I hate and abhor your feaſt days, and I will not ſmell in your ſolemn aſſemblies.

11 For behold, the Lord commandeth, and he will ſmite the great houſe with breaches, and the little houſe with clefts.

12 Shall horſes [d] run upon the rock? or will one plow there with oxen? for ye have turned judgment into gall, and the fruit of righteouſneſs into [e] wormwood.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Idumeans which came of Eſau, were mortal enemies always to the Iſraelites, which came of Jacob, and therefore did not only vex them continually with ſundry kinds of cruelty, but alſo ſtirred up others to fight againſt them. Therefore when they were now in their greateſt proſperity, and did moſt triumph againſt Iſrael, which was in great affliction and miſery, God raiſed up his prophet to comfort the Iſraelites, foraſmuch as God had now determined to deſtroy their adverſaries, which did ſo ſore vex them, and to ſend them ſuch as ſhould deliver them, and ſet up the kingdom of Meſſiah, which he had promiſed.

[a] God hath certainly revealed to his prophets that he will raiſe up the heathen to deſtroy the Edomites, whereof the rumour is now publiſhed, Jer. 49. 14.

[b] Thus the heathen encourage themſelves to riſe againſt Edom.

[c] Which deſpiſeſt all others in reſpect of thyſelf, and yet art but an handful in compariſon of others, and art ſhut up among the hills, as ſeparate from the reſt of the world.

[d] God will ſo deſtroy them, that he will leave none, though thieves, when they come, take but till they have enough, and they that gather grapes, ever leave ſome behind them, Jer. 49. 9.

Bef. Chr. 587. grape-gatherers came to thee, would they not leave ſome grapes?

6 How are the things of Eſau ſought up, and his treaſures ſearched?

7 All the men of thy confederacy [e] have driven thee to the borders: the men that were at peace with thee, have deceived thee, and prevailed againſt thee: they that eat thy [f] bread, have laid a wound under thee: there is none underſtanding in him.

8 Shall not I in that day, ſaith the Lord, even deſtroy the wiſe men out of Edom, and underſtanding from the mount of Eſau?

9 And thy ſtrong men, O Teman, ſhall be afraid, becauſe every one of the mount of Eſau ſhall be cut off by ſlaughter.

10 For thy cruelty againſt thy [g] brother Jacob, ſhame ſhall cover thee, and thou ſhalt be cut off for ever.

11 When thou ſtoodeſt [h] on the other ſide, in the day that the ſtrangers carried away his ſubſtance, and ſtrangers entered into his gates, and caſt lots upon Jeruſalem, even thou waſt as one of them.

12 But thou ſhouldeſt not have beholden the day of thy brother, in the day that he was made [i] a ſtranger, neither ſhouldeſt thou have rejoiced over the children of Judah, in the day of their deſtruction: thou ſhouldeſt not have ſpoken proudly in the day of affliction.

13 Thou ſhouldeſt not have entered into the gate of my people in the day of their deſtruction, neither ſhouldeſt thou have once looked on their affliction in the day of their deſtruction, nor have laid hands on their ſubſtance in the day of their deſtruction.

14 Neither ſhouldeſt thou have ſtood in the croſs ways to cut off them that ſhould eſcape, neither ſhouldeſt thou have ſhut up the remnant thereof in the day of affliction. Bef. Chr. 587.

15 For the day [k] of the Lord is near, upon all the heathen: as thou haſt done, it ſhall be done to thee: thy reward ſhall return upon thine head.

16 For as ye have [l] drunk upon mine holy mountain, ſo ſhall all the heathen drink continually: yea, they ſhall drink and ſwallow up, and they ſhall be [m] as though they had not been.

17 But upon Mount Zion ſhall be deliverance, and it ſhall be holy, and the houſe of Jacob ſhall poſſeſs their poſſeſſions,

18 And the houſe of Jacob ſhall be [n] a fire, and the houſe of Joſeph a flame, and the houſe of Eſau as ſtubble, and they ſhall kindle in them and devour them: and there ſhall be no remnant of the houſe of Eſau: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

19 And they ſhall poſſeſs the ſouth ſide of the [o] mount of Eſau, and the plain of the Philiſtines: and they ſhall poſſeſs the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria, and Benjamin ſhall have Gilead.

20 And the captivity of this hoſt of the children of Iſrael, which were among the [p] Canaanites, ſhall poſſeſs unto Zarephath, and the captivity of Jeruſalem, which is in Sepharad, ſhall poſſeſs the cities of the South, 21 And they [q] that ſhall ſave, ſhall come up to mount Zion to judge the mount of Eſau, and the kingdom ſhall be the Lord's.

---

[e] They in whom thou didſt truſt, for to have help and friendſhip of them, ſhall be thine enemies, and deſtroy thee.

[f] That is, thy familiar friends and gueſts have by ſecret practices deſtroyed thee.

[g] He ſheweth the cauſe why the Edomites were ſo ſharply puniſhed: to wit, becauſe they were enemies to his church, whom now he comforteth by puniſhing their enemies.

[h] When Nebuchadnezzar came againſt Jeruſalem, thou joinedſt with him, and hadſt part of the ſpoil, and ſo didſt rejoice, when my people, that is, thy brother, were afflicted, whereas thou ſhouldeſt have pitied and holpen thy brother.

[i] When the Lord deprived them of their former dignity, and gave them to be carried into captivity.

[k] When he will ſummon all the heathen, and ſend them to deſtroy thee.

[l] That is, rejoiced and triumphed.

[m] The Edomites ſhall utterly be deſtroyed, and yet in deſpite of all the enemies, I will reſerve my church and reſtore it.

[n] God attributeth this power, to conſume his enemies, to his church, which power is only proper to himſelf, as Iſa. 10. 17. Deut. 4. 24. Heb. 12. 29.

[o] He deſcribeth, how the church ſhall be enlarged and have great poſſeſſions, but this chiefly is accompliſhed under Chriſt, whenas the faithful are made heirs and lords of all things by him which is their head.

[p] By the Canaanites the Jews mean the Dutchmen: and by Zarephath, France; and by Sepharad, Spain.

[q] Meaning, that God will raiſe up in his church ſuch as ſhall rule and govern for the defence of the ſame, and deſtruction of his enemies under Meſſiah, whom the prophet calleth here the Lord and head of this kingdom.

JONAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

When Jonah had long propheſied in Iſrael and had little profited, God gave him expreſs charge to go and denounce his judgments againſt Nineveh the chief city of the Aſſyrians, becauſe he had appointed, that they which were of the heathen, ſhould convert by the mighty power of his word, and that within three days preaching, that Iſrael might ſee how horribly they had provoked God's wrath, which for the ſpace of ſo many years had not converted to the Lord for ſo many prophets, and ſo diligent preaching. He propheſied under Joaſh and Jeroboam, as 2 Kings 14. 25.

CHAP. I.

3 Jonah fled when he was ſent to preach. 4 A tempeſt ariſeth, and he is caſt into the ſea for his diſobedience.

THE word of the Lord came [a] alſo unto Jonah the ſon of Amittai, ſaying,

2 Ariſe, and go to [b] Nineveh, that [c] great city, and cry againſt it: for their wickedneſs is come up before me.

3 But Jonah roſe up to [d] flee into Tarſhiſh from the preſence of the Lord, and went down to [e] Japho: and he found a ſhip going to Tarſhiſh: ſo he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, that he might go with them unto Tarſhiſh from the [f] preſence of the Lord.

4 But the Lord ſent out a great wind into the ſea, and there was a mighty tempeſt in the ſea, ſo that the ſhip was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and caſt the wares that were in the ſhip, into the ſea, to lighten it of them: but Jonah was gone down [g] into the ſides of the ſhip, and he lay down, and was faſt aſleep.

6 So the ſhip-maſter came to him, and ſaid unto him, What meaneſt thou, O ſleeper? Ariſe, call upon thy [h] God, if ſo be that God will think upon us, that we periſh not.

7 And they ſaid every one to his fellow, Come, and let us caſt [i] lots, that we may know for whoſe cauſe this evil is upon us. So they caſt lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then ſaid they unto him, tell us, for whoſe cauſe this evil is upon us? what is thine occupation, and whence comeſt thou? which is thy country, and of what people art thou?

9 And he anſwered them, I am an Hebrew, and I fear the Lord God of heaven, which hath made the ſea, and the dry land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou done this? (for the men knew that he fled from the preſence of the Lord, becauſe he had told them)

11 Then ſaid they unto him, What ſhall we do unto thee, that the ſea may be calm unto us? (for the ſea wrought and was troublous)

12 And he ſaid unto them, Take me, and caſt me into the ſea, ſo ſhall the ſea be calm unto you: for I know that for my ſake this great tempeſt is upon you.

13 Neverthe leſs, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but they could not: for the ſea wrought, and was troublous againſt them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the Lord, and ſaid, [k] We beſeech thee, O Lord, we beſeech thee, let us not periſh for this man's life, and lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, haſt done as it pleaſed thee.

15 So they took up Jonah, and caſt him into the ſea, and the ſea ceaſed from her raging.

16 Then the men [l] feared the Lord exceedingly, and offered a ſacrifice unto the Lord, and made vows.

17 Now the Lord had prepared a great fiſh to ſwallow up Jonah: and Jonah was in the [m] belly of the fiſh three days and three nights.

CHAP. II.

1 Jonah is in the fiſh's belly. 2 His prayer. 10 He is delivered.

THEN Jonah prayed unto the Lord his God, [n] out of the fiſh's belly,

2 And ſaid, I cried in mine affliction unto the Lord, and he heard me: out of the [o] belly of hell cried I, and thou heardeſt my voice.

3 For thou hadſt caſt me into the bottom in the midſt of the ſea, and the floods compaſſed me about: all thy ſurges and all thy waves paſſed over me.

4 Then I ſaid, I am [p] caſt away out of thy ſight: yet will I look again toward thine holy temple.

5 The waters compaſſed me about unto the ſoul: the depth cloſed me round about, and the weeds were wrapt about my head.

6 I went down to the bottom of the mountains: the earth with her bars was about me for ever, yet haſt thou brought up my [q] life from the pit, O Lord my God.

7 When my ſoul fainted within me, I remembered the Lord: and my prayer came unto thee into thine holy temple.

8 They that wait upon lying [r] vanities, forſake their own [s] mercy.

9 But

[a] After that he had preached a long time in Iſrael: and ſo Ezekiel, after that for a time he had propheſied in Judah, he had viſions in Babylon, Ezek. 1. 1.

[b] For ſeeing the great obſtination of the Iſraelites, he ſent his prophet to the Gentiles, that they might provoke them to repentance, or at leaſt, make them inexcuſable: for Nineveh was the chief city of the Aſſyrians.

[c] For as authors write, it contained in circuit about eight and forty miles, and had a thouſand and five hundred towers, and at this time there were an hundred and twenty thouſand children therein, chap. 4. 11.

[d] Whereby he declareth his weakneſs, that would not promptly follow the Lord's calling, but gave place to his own reaſon, which perſuaded him that he ſhould nothing at all profit there, ſeeing he had done ſo ſmall good among his own people, chap. 4. 2.

[e] Which was the haven and port to take ſhipping thither, called alſo Joppa.

[f] From that vocation whereunto God had called him, and wherein he would have aſſiſted him.

[g] As one that would have caſt off this care and ſolicitude, by ſeeking reſt and quietneſs.

[h] As they had called on their idols, which declareth that idolaters have no ſtay nor certainty, but in their troubles ſeek they cannot tell to whom.

[i] Which declareth, that the matter was in great extremity and doubt, which thing was God's motion in them, for the trial of the cauſe: and this may not be done but in matters of great importance.

[k] This declarath that the very wicked in their neceſſities flee unto God for ſuccour, and alſo that they are touched with a certain fear to ſhed man's blood, whereas they know no manifeſt ſign of wickedneſs.

[l] They were touched with a certain repentance of their life paſt, and began to worſhip the true God, by whom they ſaw themſelves ſo wonderfully delivered: but this was done for fear and not of a pure heart and affection, neither according to God's word.

[m] Thus the Lord would chaſtiſe his prophet with a moſt terrible ſpectacle of death, and hereby alſo confirmed him of his favour and ſupport in this his charge, which was enjoined him.

[n] Being now ſwallowed up of death and ſeeing no remedy to eſcape, his faith brake out unto the Lord, knowing that out of the very hell he was able to deliver him.

[o] For he was now in the fiſh's belly, as in a grave or place of darkneſs.

[p] This declared what his prayer was, and how he laboured between hope and deſpair, conſidering the neglect of his vocation, and God's judgments for the ſame: but yet in the end faith got the victory.

[q] Thou haſt delivered me from the belly of the fiſh, and all theſe dangers, as it were raiſing me from death to life.

[r] They that depend upon any thing ſave on God alone.

[s] They refuſe their own felicity, and that goodneſs which they ſhould elſe receive of God.

9 But I will ſacrifice unto thee with the voice of thankſgiving, and will pay that that I have vowed: ſalvation is of the Lord.

10 And the Lord ſpake unto the fiſh, and it caſt out Jonah upon the dry land.

CHAP. III.

1 Jonah is ſent again to Nineveh. 5 The repentance of the king of Nineveh.

AND the word of the Lord came unto [t] Jonah the ſecond time, ſaying,

2 Ariſe, go unto Nineveh that great city, and preach unto it the preaching which I bid thee.

3 So Jonah aroſe and went to Nineveh according to the word of the Lord: now Nineveh was a [u] great and excellent city of three days journey.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the city a day's [w] journey, and he cried, and ſaid, Yet forty days, and Nineveh ſhall be overthrown.

5 So the people of Nineveh [x] believed God, and proclaimed a faſt, and put on ſackcloth, from the greateſt of them, even to the leaſt of them.

6 For the word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he aroſe from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with ſackcloth, and ſat in aſhes.

7 And he proclaimed and ſaid through Nineveh, (by the counſel of the king and his nobles) ſaying, Let neither man nor [y] beaſt, bullock nor ſheep, taſte any thing, neither feed, nor drink water.

8 But let man and beaſt put on ſackcloth, and [z] cry mightily unto God: yea, let every man turn from his evil way, and from the wickedneſs that is in their hands.

9 [a] Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce wrath, that we periſh not?

10 And God ſaw their [b] works, that they turned from their evil ways: and [c] God repented of the evil that he ſaid that he would do unto them, and he did it not.

CHAP. IV.

The great goodneſs of God toward his creatures.

THerefore it diſpleaſed [d] Jonah exceedingly, and he was angry.

2 And he prayed unto the Lord, and ſaid, I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my ſaying, when I was yet in my country? therefore I prevented it to flee unto [e] Tarſhiſh: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and merciful, ſlow to anger, and of great kindneſs, and repenteſt thee of the evil.

3 Therefore now, O Lord, take, I beſeech thee, my life [f] from me: for it is better for me to die than to live.

4 Then ſaid the Lord, doſt thou well to be [g] angry?

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and ſat on the eaſt ſide of the city, and there made him a booth, and ſat under it in the ſhadow [h] till he might ſee what ſhould be done in the city.

6 And the Lord God prepared a [i] gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a ſhadow over his head, and deliver him from his grief. So Jonah was exceedingly glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worm when the morning roſe the next day, and it ſmote the gourd, that it withered.

8 And when the ſun did ariſe, God prepared alſo a fervent eaſt wind, and the ſun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wiſhed in his heart to die, and ſaid, It is better for me to die than to live.

9 And God ſaid unto Jonah, Doſt thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he ſaid, I do well to be [k] angry unto the death.

10 Then ſaid the Lord, Thou haſt had pity on the gourd, for the which thou haſt not laboured, neither madeſt it grow, which came up in a night, and periſhed in a night:

11 And ſhould [l] not I ſpare Nineveh that great city, wherein are ſix-ſcore thouſand perſons that [m] cannot diſcern between their right hand, and their left hand, and alſo much cattle?

---

[t] This is a great declaration of God's mercy, that he receiveth him again, and ſendeth him forth as his prophet, which had before ſhewed ſo great infirmity.

[u] Read chap. 1. 2.

[w] He went forward one day in the city and preached, and ſo he continued till the city was converted.

[x] For he declared that he was a prophet ſent to them from God, to denounce his judgments againſt them.

[y] Not that the dumb beaſts had ſinned, or could repent, but that by their example man might be aſtoniſhed, conſidering that for his ſin the anger of God hanged over all creatures.

[z] He willed that the men ſhould earneſtly call unto God for mercy.

[a] For partly by the threatening of the prophet, and partly by the motion of his conſcience, he doubted whether God would ſhew them mercy.

[b] That is, the fruits of their repentance, which did proceed of faith, which God had planted by the miniſtry of his prophet.

[c] Read Jer. 18. 8.

[d] Becauſe hereby he ſhould be taken as a falſe prophet, and ſo the name of God, which he preached, ſhould be blaſphemed.

[e] Read chap. 1. 3.

[f] Thus he prayed of grief, fearing leſt God's name by this forgiveneſs might be blaſphemed, as though he ſent his prophets forth to denounce his judgments in vain.

[g] Wilt thou be judge when I do things for my glory, and when I do not?

[h] For he doubted as yet, whether God would ſhew them mercy or not, and therefore after forty days he departed out of the city, looking what iſſue God would ſend.

[i] Which was a further means to cover him from the heat of the ſun, as he remained in his booth.

[k] This declareth the great inconveniences whereinto God's ſervants do fall, when they give place to their own affections, and do not in all things willingly ſubmit themſelves to God.

[l] Thus God mercifully reproveth him, which would pity himſelf, and this gourd, and yet would reſtrain God to ſhew his compaſſion to ſo many thouſand people.

[m] Meaning, that they were children and infants.

MICAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Micah the prophet, of the tribe of Judah, ſerved in the work of the Lord concerning Judah and Iſrael at the leaſt thirty years: at what time Iſaiah propheſied. He declareth the deſtruction, firſt of the one kingdom, and then of the other, becauſe of their manifold wickedneſs, but chiefly for their idolatry. And to this end he noteth the wickedneſs of the people, the cruelty of the princes and governors, and the permiſſion of falſe prophets, and the delighting in them. Then he ſetteth forth the coming of Chriſt, his kingdom, and the felicity thereof. This prophet was not that Micah which reſiſted Ahab and all his falſe prophets, as 1 Kings 22. 8. but another of the ſame name.

Bef. Chr. 750.

CHAP. I.

1 The deſtruction of Judah and Iſrael becauſe of their idolatry.

THE word of the Lord, that came unto Micah the [a] Moraſhite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he ſaw concerning Samaria and Jeruſalem.

2 Hear, [b] all ye people: hearken thou, O earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God be witneſs againſt you, even the Lord from his holy temple.

3 For behold, the Lord cometh out of his place, and will come [c] down, and tread upon the high places of the earth.

4 And the mountains ſhall melt under him (ſo ſhall the vallies cleave) as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are poured downward.

5 For the wickedneſs of Jacob is all this, and for the ſins of the houſe of Iſrael: what is the wickedneſs of Jacob? Is not [d] Samaria? and which are the [e] high places of Judah? Is not Jeruſalem?

6 Therefore I will make Samaria as an heap of the field, and for the planting of a vineyard, and I will cauſe the ſtones thereof to tumble down in the valley, and I will diſcover the foundations thereof.

7 And all the graven images thereof ſhall be broken, and all the [f] gifts thereof ſhall be burnt with the fire, and all the idols thereof will I deſtroy: for ſhe gathered it of the hire of an harlot, and they ſhall return [g] to the wages of an harlot.

8 Therefore I will mourn and howl: I will go without cloaths, and naked: I will make lamentation like the dragons, and mourning as the oſtriches.

9 For her plagues are grievous: for it is come into Judah: the enemy is come unto the gate of my people, unto Jeruſalem.

10 Declare ye it not at [h] Gath, neither weep ye: for the houſe of [i] Aphrah roll thyſelf in the duſt.

11 Thou that dwelleſt at [k] Shaphir, go together naked with ſhame: ſhe that dwelleth at Zaanan ſhall not come forth in the mourning of Beth-ezel: the enemy ſhall [l] receive of you for his ſtanding.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but evil came from the Lord unto the [m] gate of Jeruſalem.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachiſh, bind the chariot to the beaſts [n] of price: ſhe [o] is the beginning of the ſin to the daughter of Zion: for the tranſgreſſions of Iſrael were found in thee.

14 Therefore ſhalt thou give preſents to Moreſheth [p] Gath: the houſes of Achzib ſhall be as a lye to the kings of Iſrael.

15 Yet will I bring an [q] heir unto thee, O inhabitant of Mareſhah, he ſhall come unto Adullam, [r] the glory of Iſrael.

16 Make thee bald: and ſhave thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldneſs as the eagle, for they are gone into captivity from thee.

[a] Born in Mareſhah, a city of Judah.

[b] Becauſe of the malice and obſtinacy of the people whom he had ſo oft exhorted to repentance, he ſummoneth them to God's judgments, taking all creatures and God himſelf to witneſs, that the preaching of his prophets, which they have abuſed, ſhall be revenged.

[c] Meaning hereby, that God will come to judgment againſt the ſtrong cities and holds.

[d] Samaria, which ſhould have been an example to all Iſrael of true religion and juſtice, was the puddle and ſtews of all idolatry and corruption, and boaſted themſelves of their father Jacob.

[e] That is, the idolatry and infection.

[f] Which they gathered by evil practices, and thought that their idols had enriched them therewith, for their ſervice done unto them.

[g] The gain that came by their idols, ſhall be conſumed as a thing of nought; for as the wages or riches of harlots are wickedly gotten, ſo are they vilely and ſpeedily ſpent.

[h] Leſt the Philiſtines our enemies rejoice at our deſtruction.

3 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, Behold, againſt this family have I deviſed a plague, whereout ye ſhall not pluck your necks, and ye ſhall not go ſo proudly, for this time is evil.

4 In that day ſhall they take up a parable againſt you, and lament with a doleful lamentation, and ſay, [t] We be utterly waſted: he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he taken it away to reſtore it unto me? he hath divided our fields.

5 Therefore thou ſhalt have none that ſhall caſt a cord by lot in [u] the congregation of the Lord.

6 [w] They that propheſied, propheſy ye not. [x] They ſhall not propheſy to them, neither ſhall they take ſhame.

7 O thou that art named of the houſe of Jacob, is the Spirit of the Lord ſhortened? [y] are theſe his works? are not my words good unto him [z] that walketh uprightly?

8 But he that was [a] yeſterday my people, is riſen up on the other ſide, as againſt an enemy: they ſpoil the [b] beautiful garment from them that paſs by peaceably, as though they returned from the war.

9 The women of my people have ye caſt out from their pleaſant houſes, and from their children have ye taken away [c] my glory continually.

10 Ariſe, and depart, for this is not your [d] reſt: becauſe it is polluted, it ſhall deſtroy you, even with a ſore deſtruction.

11 If a man [e] walk in the ſpirit, and would lye falſly, ſaying, [f] I will propheſy unto thee of wine, and of ſtrong drink, he ſhall even be the prophet of this people.

12 I will ſurely [g] gather thee wholly, O Jacob: I will ſurely gather the remnant of Iſrael: I will put them together as the ſheep of Bozrah, even as the flock in the midſt of their fold: the cities ſhall be full of bruit of the men.

13 The [h] breaker-up ſhall come up before them: they ſhall break out, and paſs by the gate, and go out by it, and their king ſhall go before them, and the Lord ſhall be [i] upon their heads.

CHAP. III.

Bef. Chr. 710.

1 Againſt the tyranny of princes, and falſe prophets.

AND I ſaid, Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jacob, and ye princes of the houſe of Iſrael: ſhould not ye know [k] judgment?

2 But they hate the good, and love the evil: they pluck off their ſkins from them, and their fleſh from their bones.

3 And they eat alſo the [l] fleſh of my people, and flay off their ſkin from them, and they break their bones, and chop them in pieces as for the pot, and as fleſh within the cauldron.

4 Then [m] ſhall they cry unto the Lord, but he will not hear them: he will even hide his face from them at that time, becauſe they have done wickedly in their works.

5 Thus ſaith the Lord, Concerning the prophets that deceive my people, and [n] bite them with their teeth, and cry peace, but if a man put not into their mouths, they prepare war againſt him.

6 Therefore [o] night ſhall be unto you for a viſion, and darkneſs ſhall be unto you for a divination, and the ſun ſhall go down over the prophets, and the day ſhall be dark over them.

7 Then ſhall the ſeers be aſhamed, and the ſoothſayers confounded: yea, they ſhall all [p] cover their lips, for they have none anſwer of God.

8 Yet notwithſtanding I am full [q] of power by the Spirit of the Lord, and of judgment, and of ſtrength to declare unto Jacob his tranſgreſſion, and to Iſrael his ſin.

9 Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the houſe of Jacob, and princes of the houſe of Iſrael: they abhor judgment, and pervert all equity.

10 They build up Zion with [r] blood, and Jeruſalem with iniquity.

11 The heads thereof judge for rewards, and the prieſts thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof propheſy for money: yet will they [s] lean upon the Lord, and ſay, Is not the Lord among us? no evil can come upon us.

[t] Thus the Jews lament, and ſay, that there is no hope of reſtitution, ſeeing their poſſeſſions are divided among the enemies.

[u] Ye ſhall have no more lands to divide, as you had in times paſt, and as you uſed to meaſure them in the jubilee.

[w] Thus the people warn the prophets that they ſpeak to them no more . for they cannot abide their threatenings.

[x] God ſaith that they ſhall not propheſy, nor receive any more of their rebukes or taunts.

[y] Are theſe your works according to his law?

[z] Do not the godly find my words comfortable?

[a] That is, aforetime.

[b] The poor can have no commodity by them, but they ſpoil them as though they were enemies.

[c] That is, their ſubſtance and living, which is God's bleſſing, and as it were part of his glory.

[d] Jeruſalem ſhall not be your ſafeguard, but the cauſe of your deſtruction.

[e] That is, ſhew himſelf to be a prophet.

[f] He ſheweth what prophets they delight in, that is, in flatterers, which tell them pleaſant tales, and ſpeak of their commodities.

[g] To deſtroy thee.

[h] The enemy ſhall break their gates and walls, and lead them into Chaldea.

[i] To drive them forward, and to help their enemies.

[k] That thing which is juſt and lawful, both to govern my people aright, and alſo to diſcharge your own conſcience?

[l] The prophet condemneth the wicked governors, not only of covetouſneſs, theft and murder, but compareth them to wolves, lions, and moſt cruel beaſts.

[m] That is, when I ſhall viſit their wickedneſs: for though I hear the godly before they cry, Iſa. 1. 65. 24. yet I will not hear thoſe though they cry, Iſa. 15. and Ezek. 8. 18. James 2. 12. 1 Pet. 3. 11, 12.

[n] They devour all their ſubſtance, and then flatter them, promiſing that all ſhall go well: but if one reſtrain from their bellies, then they invent all ways to miſchief.

[o] As you have loved to walk in darkneſs, and to propheſy lyes, ſo God ſhall reward you with groſs blindneſs and ignorance, ſo that when all others ſhall ſee the bright beams of God's graces, ye ſhall as blind men grope as in the night.

[p] When God ſhall diſcover them to the world, they ſhall be afraid to ſpeak: for all ſhall know that they were but falſe prophets, and did belye the word of God.

[q] The prophet being aſſured of his vocation by the Spirit of God, letteth himſelf alone againſt all the wicked, ſhewing how God both gave him gifts, ability and knowledge, to diſcern between good and evil, and alſo conſtancy to reprove the ſins of the people, and not to flatter them.

[r] They build them houſes by bribery, which he calleth blood and iniquity.

[s] They will ſay, that they are the people of God, and abuſe his name as a pretence to cloak their hypocriſy.

CHAP. IV.

1 Of the kingdom of Chriſt, and felicity of his church.

BUT in the [u] laſt days it ſhall come to paſs, that the mountain of the houſe of the Lord ſhall be prepared in the top of the mountains, and it ſhall be exalted above the [x] hills, and people ſhall flee unto it.

2 Yea, many nations ſhall come and ſay, Come, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, and to the houſe of the God of Jacob, and he will [x] teach us his ways, and we will walk in his paths: for the law ſhall go forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jeruſalem,

3 And he ſhall judge among many people, and [y] rebuke mighty nations afar off, and they ſhall break their ſwords into mattocks, and their ſpears into [z] ſcythes: nation ſhall not lift up a ſword againſt nation, neither ſhall they [a] learn to fight any more.

4 But they ſhall ſit every man under his vine, and under his fig-tree, and none ſhall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hoſts hath ſpoken it.

5 For all the people will walk [b] every one in the name of his God, and we will walk in the name of the Lord our God, for ever and ever.

6 At the ſame day, ſaith the Lord, will I gather her that halteth, and I will gather her that is caſt out, and her that I have afflicted.

7 And I will make her that halted, [c] a remnant: and her that was caſt far off, a mighty nation: and the Lord ſhall reign over them in mount Zion, from henceforth even for ever.

8 And thou, O [d] tower of the flock, the ſtrong hold of the daughter Zion, unto thee ſhall it come, even [e] the firſt dominion and kingdom ſhall come to the daughter Jeruſalem.

9 Now why doſt thou cry out with lamentation? is [f] there no king in thee? is thy counſellor periſhed? for ſorrow hath taken thee as a woman in travail,

10 Sorrow and mourn, O daughter Zion, like a woman in travail: for now ſhalt thou go forth of the city, and dwell in the field, and ſhalt go into Babel, but there ſhalt thou be delivered: there the Lord ſhall redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies. Bef. Chr. 710.

11 Now alſo many nations are gathered againſt thee, ſaying, Zion ſhall be condemned, and our eye ſhall look upon Zion.

12 But they [g] know not the thoughts of the Lord: they underſtand not his counſel, for he ſhall gather them as the ſheaves in the barn.

13 Ariſe, and threſh, [h] O daughter Zion, for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thine hoofs braſs, and thou ſhalt break in pieces many people: and I will conſecrate their riches unto the Lord, and their ſubſtance unto the ruler of the whole world.

CHAP. V.

1 The deſtruction of Jeruſalem. 2 The excellency of Beth-lehem.

NOW aſſemble thy garriſons, O daughter of [i] garriſons: he hath laid ſiege againſt us: they ſhall ſmite the judge of Iſrael a rod upon the cheek.

2 And thou Beth-lehem Ephratah art [k] little to be among the thouſands of Judah, yet out of thee ſhall he come forth unto me that ſhall be the ruler in Iſrael, whoſe [l] goings-forth have been from the beginning, and from everlaſting.

3 Therefore will he give them up, until the time that [m] ſhe which ſhall bear ſhall travail, then the remnant of their brethren ſhall return unto the children of Iſrael.

4 And he ſhall [n] ſtand and feed in the ſtrength of the Lord, and in the Majeſty of the name of the Lord his God, and they ſhall dwell ſtill: for now ſhall he be magnified unto the ends of the world.

5 And he [o] ſhall be our peace when Aſſhur ſhall come into our land: when he ſhall tread in our palaces, then ſhall we raiſe againſt him ſeven ſhepherds, and eight principal men.

6 And they ſhall deſtroy [p] Aſſhur with the ſword, and the land of Nimrod with their ſwords: thus ſhall he [q] deliver us from Aſſhur, when [u] When Chriſt ſhall come, and the temple ſhall be deſtroyed.

[w] Read Iſa. 2. 2.

[x] He ſheweth that there is no true church but where the people are taught by God's pure word.

[y] By his corrections and threatenings he will bring the people into ſubjection, which are in the utmoſt corners of the world.

[z] They ſhall abſtain from all evil doing, and exerciſe themſelves in godlineſs and well doing to others.

[a] Read Iſa. 2. 4.

[b] He ſheweth that the people of God ought to remain conſtant in their religion, albeit all the world ſhould give themſelves to their ſuperſtition and idolatry.

[c] I will cauſe that Iſrael, which is now as one lame and halting, and ſo almoſt deſtroyed, ſhall live again and grow into a great people.

[d] Meaning, Jeruſalem, where the Lord's flock was gathered.

[e] The flouriſhing ſtate of the kingdom, as it was under David and Solomon, which thing was accompliſhed to the church by the coming of Chriſt.

[f] In the mean ſeaſon he ſheweth that they ſhould endure great troubles and temptations when they ſaw themſelves neither to have king nor counſel.

[g] He ſheweth that the faithful ought not to meaſure God's judgments by the brags and threatenings of the wicked, but thereby are admoniſhed to lift up their hearts to God to call for deliverance.

[h] God giveth his church this victory ſo often as he overcometh their enemies: but the accompliſhment hereof ſhall be at the laſt coming of Chriſt.

[i] He forewarneth them of the dangers that ſhall come before they enjoy theſe comforts, ſhewing that foraſmuch as Jeruſalem was accuſtomed with her garriſons to trouble others, the Lord would now cauſe other garriſons to vex her, and that her rulers ſhould be ſmitten on the face moſt contemptuouſly.

[k] For ſo the Jews divided their country, that for every thouſand there was a chief captian, and becauſe Beth-lehem was not able to make a thouſand, he calleth it little, but yet God will raiſe up his captain and governor therein: and thus it is not the leaſt by reaſon of this benefit, as Matt. 2. 6.

[l] He ſheweth that the coming of Chriſt, and all his ways, were appointed of God from all eternity.

[m] He compareth the Jews to women with child, who for a time ſhould have great ſorrows, but at length they ſhould have a comfortable deliverance, John 16. 21.

[n] That is, Chriſt's kingdom ſhall be ſtable and everlaſting, and his people, as well the Gentiles as the Jews, ſhall dwell in ſafety.

[o] This Meſſiah ſhall be a ſufficient ſafeguard for us, and though the enemy invade us for a time, yet ſhall God ſtir up many which ſhall be able to deliver us.

[p] Theſe whom God ſhall raiſe up for the deliverance of his church, ſhall deſtroy all the enemies thereof; which are meant here by the Aſſyrians and Babylonians, which were the chief at that time.

[q] By theſe governors will God deliver us, when the enemy cometh into our land.

when he cometh into our land, and when he ſhall tread without our borders.

7 And the [r] remnant of Jacob ſhall be among many people, as a dew from the Lord, and as the ſhowers upon the graſs, that waiteth not for man, nor hopeth in the ſons of Adam.

8 And the remnant of Jacob ſhall be among the Gentiles in the midſt of many people, as the lion among the beaſts of the foreſt, and as the lion's whelp among the flocks of ſheep, who when he goeth through, treadeth down and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver.

9 Thine hand ſhall be lift up upon thine adverſaries, and all thine enemies ſhall be cut off.

10 And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, ſaith the Lord, that I will cut off thine [s] horſes out of the midſt of thee, and I will deſtroy thy chariots.

11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and overthrow all thy ſtrong holds.

12 And I will cut off thine inchanters out of thine hand: and thou ſhalt have no more ſoothſayers.

13 Thine idols alſo will I cut off, and thine images out of the midſt of thee: and thou ſhalt no more worſhip the work of thine hands.

14 And I will pluck up thy groves out of the midſt of thee: ſo I will deſtroy thine enemies.

15 And I will execute a vengeance in my wrath and indignation upon the heathen, [t] which they have not heard.

CHAP. VI.

An exhortation to the dumb creatures to hear the judgment againſt Iſrael being unkind. 6 What manner of ſacrifices do pleaſe God.

HEARKEN ye now what the Lord ſaith, Ariſe thou, and contend before the [u] mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

2 Hear ye, O mountains, the Lord's quarrel, and ye mighty foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a quarrel againſt his people, and he will plead with Iſrael.

3 O my people, what have I done unto thee? or wherein have I grieved thee? teſtify againſt me.

4 Surely I [w] brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the houſe of ſervants, and I have ſent before thee Moſes, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what Balak king of Moab had deviſed, and what Balaam, the ſon of Beor, anſwered him, from [x] Shittim unto Gilgal, that ye may know the [y] righteouſneſs of the Lord.

6 Wherewith [z] ſhall I come before the Lord, and bow myſelf before the high God? ſhall I come before him with burnt-offerings, and with calves of a year old?

7 Will the Lord be pleaſed with thouſands of rams, or with ten thouſand rivers of oil? ſhall I give my [a] firſt-born for my tranſgreſſion, even the fruit of my body for the ſin of my ſoul?

8 He hath ſhewed thee, O man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: [b] ſurely to do juſtly, and to love mercy, and to humble thyſelf to walk with thy God.

9 The Lord's voice crieth unto the [c] city, and the man of wiſdom ſhall ſee thy name: Hear the rod, and who hath appointed it.

10 Are yet the treaſures of wickedneſs in the houſe of the wicked, and the ſcant meaſure that is abominable?

11 Shall I juſtify the wicked balances, and the bag of deceitful weights?

12 For the rich men [d] thereof are full of cruelty, and the inhabitants thereof have ſpoken lyes, and their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.

13 Therefore alſo will I make thee ſick in ſmiting thee, and in making thee deſolate, becauſe of thy ſins.

14 Thou ſhalt eat and not be ſatisfied, and [e] thy caſting down ſhall be in the midſt of thee, and thou ſhalt [f] take hold, but ſhalt not deliver: and that which thou delivereſt, will I give up to the ſword.

15 Thou ſhalt ſow, but not reap; thou ſhalt tread the olives, but thou ſhalt not anoint thee with oil: and make ſweet wine, but ſhalt not drink wine.

16 For the [g] ſtatutes of Omri are kept, and all the manner of the houſe of Ahab, and ye walk in their counſels, that I ſhould make thee waſte, and the inhabitants thereof an hiſſing: therefore ye ſhall bear the reproach of my people.

CHAP. VII.

1 A complaint for the ſmall number of the righteous. 4 The wickedneſs of thoſe times. 14 The proſperity of the church.

---

[r] This remnant, or church which God ſhall deliver, ſhall only depend on God's power and defence, as doth the graſs of the field, and not on the hope of man.

[s] I will deſtroy all things wherein thou putteſt thy confidence, as thy vain confidence and idolatry, and ſo will help thee.

[t] It ſhall be ſo terrible that the like hath not been heard of.

[u] He taketh the high mountains and hard rocks to witneſs againſt the obſtinacy of his people.

[w] I have not hurt thee, but beſtowed infinite benefits upon thee.

[x] That is, remember my benefits from the beginning, how I delivered you from Balaam's curſe, and alſo ſpared you from Shittim, which was in the plain of Moab, till I brought you into the land promiſed.

[y] That is, the truth of his promiſe, and his manifold benefits toward you.

[z] Thus the people by hypocriſy aſk how to pleaſe God, and are content to offer ſacrifices, but will not change their lives.

[a] There is nothing ſo dear to man but the hypocrites will offer it unto God, if they think thereby to avoid his anger: but they will never be brought to mortify their own affections, and give themſelves willingly to ſerve God as he commandeth.

[b] The prophet in few words calleth them to the obſervation of the ſecond table, to know if they will obey God aright or no, ſaying, that God hath preſcribed them to do this.

[c] Meaning, that when God ſpeaketh to any city or nation, the godly will acknowledge his Majeſty, and conſider not the mortal man that bringeth the threatening, but God that ſendeth it.

[d] That is, of Jeruſalem.

[e] Thou ſhalt be conſumed with inward grief and evils.

[f] Meaning, that the city ſhould go about to ſave her men, as they that lay hold on that which they would preſerve.

[g] You have received all the corruption and idolatry, wherewith the ten tribes were infected under Omri, and Ahab his ſon: and to excuſe your doings, you alledge the king's authority by his ſtatutes, and alſo wiſdom and policy in ſo doing, but you ſhall not eſcape puniſhment, but as I ſhewed you great favour, and took you for my people, ſo ſhall your plagues be accordingly, Luke 12. 47.

Bef. Chr. 710.

WO is me, for I am as [h] the ſummer gatherings, and as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluſter to eat: my ſoul deſired the firſt ripe fruits.

2 The good man is periſhed out of the earth, and there is none righteous among them: [i] they all lie in wait for blood: every man hunteth his brother with a net.

3 To make good for the evil of their hands, the prince aſked, and the judge judgeth for a reward: therefore the [k] great man he ſpeaketh out the corruption of his ſoul: ſo [l] they wrap it up.

4 The beſt of them is as [m] a brier, and the moſt righteous of them is ſharper than a thorn hedge: the day of [n] thy watchmen and thy viſitation cometh: then ſhall be their confuſion.

5 Truſt ye not in a friend, neither put ye confidence in a counſellor: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy boſom:

6 For the ſon revileth the father: the daughter riſeth up againſt her mother: the daughter-in-law againſt her mother-in-law, and a man's enemies are the men of his own houſe.

7 Therefore I [o] will look unto the Lord: I will wait for God my Saviour: my God will hear me.

8 Rejoice not againſt me, [p] O mine enemy: though I fall, I ſhall ariſe: when I ſhall ſit in darkneſs, the Lord ſhall be a light unto me.

9 I will bear the wrath of the Lord, becauſe I have ſinned againſt him, until he plead my cauſe, and execute judgment for me: then will he bring me forth to the light, and I ſhall ſee his righteouſneſs.

10 Then ſhe that is mine enemy, ſhall look upon it, and ſhame ſhall cover her, which ſaid unto me, Where is the Lord thy God? Mine eyes ſhall behold her: now ſhall ſhe be trodden down as the mire of the ſtreets.

11 This is [q] the day that thy walls ſhall be built: this day ſhall drive far away [r] the decree.

12 In this day alſo they ſhall come unto thee from [s] Aſſhur, and from the ſtrong cities, and from the ſtrong holds even unto the river, and from ſea to ſea, and from mountain to mountain.

13 Notwithſtanding, the land ſhall be deſolate becauſe of them that dwell therein, and for the fruits of [t] their inventions.

14 [u] Feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thine heritage (which dwell ſolitary in the wood) as in the midſt of Carmel: let them feed in Baſhan and Gilead, as in old time.

15 [w] According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt, will I ſhew unto him marvellous things.

16 The nations ſhall ſee, and be confounded for all their power: they ſhall [x] lay their hand upon their mouth: [y] their ears ſhall be deaf.

17 They ſhall [z] lick the duſt like a ſerpent: they ſhall move out of their holes like worms: they ſhall be afraid of the Lord our God, and ſhall fear becauſe of thee.

18 Who is a God like unto thee, that taketh away iniquity, and [a] paſſeth by the tranſgreſſion of the remnant of his heritage? He retaineth not his wrath for ever, becauſe mercy pleaſeth him.

19 He will turn again, and have compaſſion upon us: he will ſubdue our iniquities, and caſt all [b] their ſins into the bottom of the ſea.

20 Thou wilt perform thy [c] truth to Jacob, and mercy to Abraham, as thou haſt ſworn unto our fathers in old time.

---

[h] The prophet taketh upon him the perſon of the earth, which complaineth that all her fruits are gone, ſo that none is left: that is, that there is no godly man remaining: for all are given to cruelty and deceit, ſo that none ſpareth his own brother.

[i] He ſheweth that the prince, the judge, and the rich man are linked together, all to do evil, and to cloke the doings one of another.

[k] That is, the rich man that is able to give money, abſtaineth from no wickedneſs nor injury.

[l] Theſe men agree among themſelves, and conſpire with one conſent to do evil.

[m] They that are of moſt eſtimation, and are counted moſt honeſt among them, are but thorns and briers to prick.

[n] Meaning of the prophets and governors.

[o] The prophet ſheweth that the only remedy for the godly in deſperate evils, is to flee unto God for ſuccour.

[p] This is ſpoken in the perſon of the church, which calleth the malignant church her enemy.

[q] To wit, when God ſhall ſhew himſelf a deliverer of his church and a deſtroyer of his enemies.

[r] Meaning, the cruel empire of the Babylonians.

[s] When the church ſhall be reſtored, they that were enemies afore ſhall come out of all the corners of the world unto her, ſo that neither holds, rivers, ſeas, nor mountains ſhall be able to let them.

[t] Afore this grace appear, he ſheweth how grievouſly the hypocrites themſelves ſhall be puniſhed, ſeeing that the earth itſelf, which cannot ſin, ſhall be made waſte becauſe of their wickedneſs.

[u] The prophet prayeth to God to be merciful unto his church, when they ſhould be ſcattered abroad as in ſolitary places in Babylon, and to be beneficial unto them as in time paſt.

[w] God promiſeth to be favourable to his people, as he had been aforetime.

[x] They ſhall be as dumb men, and dare brag no more.

[y] They ſhall be aſtoniſhed and afraid to hear men ſpeak, leſt they ſhould hear of their deſtruction.

[z] They ſhall fall flat on the ground for fear.

[a] As though he would not ſee it, but wink at it.

[b] Meaning, of his elect.

[c] The church is aſſured that God will declare in effect the truth of his merciful promiſe which he had made of old to Abraham, and to all that ſhould apprehend the promiſe by faith.

NAHUM.

THE ARGUMENT.

As they of Nineveh ſhewed themſelves prompt and ready to receive the words of God at Jonah's preaching, and ſo turned to the Lord by repentance: ſo after a certain time, rather giving themſelves to worldly means to increaſe their dominion, than ſeeking to continue in the fear of God, and trade wherein they had begun, they caſt off the care of religion, and ſo returned to their vomit, and provoked God's juſt judgment againſt them, in afflicting his people. Therefore their city Nineveh was deſtroyed, and Meroch-baladan king of Babel (or, as ſome think, Nebuchadnezzar) enjoyed the empire of the Aſſyrians. But becauſe God hath continual care of his church, he ſtirreth up his prophet to comfort the godly, ſhewing that the deſtruction of their enemies ſhould be for their conſolation. And as it ſeemeth, he propheſied about the time of Hezekiah, and not in the time of Manaſſeh his ſon, as the Jews write.

Of the deſtruction of the Aſſyrians, and of the deliverance of Iſrael.

THE [a] burden of Nineveh. [b] The book of the viſion of Nahum the [c] Elkeſhite.

2 God is [d] jealous, and the Lord revengeth: the Lord revengeth: even the Lord [e] of anger, the Lord will take vengeance on his adverſaries, and he reſerveth wrath for his enemies.

3 The [f] Lord is ſlow to anger, but he is great in power, and will not ſurely clear the wicked: the Lord hath his way in the whirlwind and in the ſtorm, and the clouds are the duſt of his feet.

4 He rebuketh the ſea, and drieth it, and he drieth up all the rivers: Baſhan is waſted and Carmel, and the flower of Lebanon is waſted.

5 The mountains tremble for him, and the hills melt, and the earth is burnt at his ſight, yea, the world, and all that dwell therein.

6 [g] Who can ſtand before his wrath? or who can abide in the fierceneſs of his wrath? his wrath is poured out like fire, and the rocks are broken by him.

7 The Lord is good [h] and as a ſtrong hold in the day of trouble, and he knoweth them that truſt in him.

8 But paſſing over as with a flood, he will utterly deſtroy the [i] place thereof, and darkneſs ſhall purſue his enemies.

9 What do ye [k] imagine againſt the Lord? he will make an utter deſtruction: affliction ſhall not riſe up the ſecond time.

10 For he ſhall come as unto [l] thorns folded one in another, and as unto drunkards in their drunkenneſs: they ſhall be devoured as ſtubble fully dried.

11 There [m] cometh one out of thee that imagineth evil againſt the Lord, even a wicked counſellor.

12 Thus ſaith the Lord, Though they be [n] quiet, and alſo many, yet thus ſhall they be cut off when he ſhall paſs by: though I have afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more.

13 For now I will break his yoke from thee, and will burſt thy bonds in ſunder.

14 And the Lord hath given a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name be [o] ſown: out of the houſe of thy gods will I cut off the graven and the molten image: I will make it thy grave for thee, for thou art vile.

15 * Behold, upon the mountains the feet of him that declareth and publiſheth [p] peace: O Judah, keep thy ſolemn feaſts, perform thy vows: for the wicked ſhall no more paſs through thee: he is utterly cut off. * [illegible] Rom. 1

CHAP. II.

He deſcribeth the victories of the Chaldeans againſt the Aſſyrians.

THE [q] deſtroyer is come before thy face: keep the munition: look to the way: make thy loins ſtrong: increaſe thy ſtrength mightily.

2 For the Lord hath [r] turned away the glory of Jacob, as the glory of Iſrael: for the emptiers have emptied them out, and [s] marred their vine-branches.

3 The ſhield of his mighty men is made red: [t] the valiant men are in ſcarlet: the chariots ſhall be as in the fire, and flames in the day of his preparation, and [u] the fir-trees ſhall tremble.

4 The chariots ſhall rage in the ſtreets: they ſhall run to and fro in the high-ways, they ſhall ſeem like lamps: they ſhall ſhoot like the lightening.

5 [w] He ſhall remember his ſtrong men: they ſhall ſtumble as they go: they ſhall make haſte to the walls thereof, and the defence ſhall be prepared.

6 The gates of the rivers ſhall be opened, and the palace ſhall melt.

7 And Huzzab the queen ſhall be led away captive, and her maids ſhall lead her as with the voice of doves, ſmiting upon their breaſts.

8 But Nineveh is [x] of old like a pool of water: yet they ſhall flee away. Stand, ſtand, ſhall they cry: but none ſhall look back.

9 [y] Spoil ye the ſilver, ſpoil the gold: for there is none end of the ſtore and glory of all the pleaſant veſſels.

[a] Read Iſa. 13. 1.

[b] The viſion or revelation, which God commanded Nahum to write concerning the Ninevites.

[c] That is, born in a poor village in the tribe of Simeon.

[d] Meaning, of his glory.

[e] With his he is but angry for a time, but his anger never aſſwageth toward the reprobate, though for a time he defer it.

[f] Thus the wicked would make God's mercy an occaſion to ſin, but the prophet willeth them to conſider his force and juſtice.

[g] If all creatures be at God's commandment, and none is able to reſiſt his wrath, ſhall man flatter himſelf, and think by any means to eſcape when he provoketh his God to anger?

[h] Leſt the faithful ſhould be diſcouraged by hearing the power of God, he ſheweth them that his mercies appertain unto them, and that he hath care over them.

[i] Signifying, that God will ſuddenly deſtroy Nineveh, and the Aſſyrians, in ſuch ſort, as they ſhall lie in perpetual darkneſs, and never recover their ſtrength again.

[k] He ſheweth that the enterprizes of the Aſſyrians againſt Judah and the church, were againſt God, and therefore he would ſo deſtroy them at once, that he ſhould not need to return the ſecond time.

[l] Though the Aſſyrians think themſelves like thorns that prick on all ſides, yet the Lord will ſet fire on them, and as drunken men are not able to ſtand againſt any force, ſo they ſhall be nothing able to reſiſt him.

[m] Which may be underſtood either of Sennacherib, or of the whole body of the people of Nineveh.

[n] Though they think themſelves in moſt ſafety, and of greateſt ſtrength, yet when God ſhall paſs by, he will deſtroy them: notwithſtanding, he comforteth his church, and promiſeth to make an end of puniſhing them by the Aſſyrians.

[o] Meaning Sennacherib, who ſhould have no more children, but be ſlain in the houſe of his gods, 2 Kings 19. 36, 37.

[p] Which peace the Jews ſhould enjoy by the death of Sennacherib.

[q] That is, Nebuchadnezzar is in a readineſs to deſtroy the Aſſyrians: and the prophet derideth the enterpriſes of the Aſſyrians which prepared to reſiſt him.

[r] Seeing God hath puniſhed his own people Judah and Iſrael, he will now puniſh the enemies by whom he ſcourged them: read Iſa. 10. 12.

[s] Signifying, that the Iſraelites were utterly deſtroyed.

[t] Both to fear the enemy, and alſo that they themſelves ſhould not ſo ſoon eſpy blood one of another to diſcourage them.

[u] Meaning, their ſpears ſhould ſhake and craſh together.

[w] Then the Aſſyrians ſhall ſeek by all means to gather their power, but all things ſhall fail them.

[x] The Aſſyrians will flatter themſelves and ſay, that Nineveh is ſo ancient that it can never periſh, and is as a fiſh-pool, whoſe waters they that walk on the banks cannot touch: but they ſhall be ſcattered, and ſhall not look back, though men would call them.

[y] God commandeth the enemies to ſpoil Nineveh, and promiſeth them infinite riches and treaſures.

11 Where is the [b] dwelling of the lions, and the paſture of the lions whelps: where the lion and the lioneſs walked, and the lion's whelp, and none made them afraid?

12 The lion did tear in pieces enough for his whelps, and worried for his lioneſs, and filled his holes with prey, and his dens with ſpoil.

13 Behold, I come unto thee, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and I will burn her chariots in the [c] ſmoak, and the ſword ſhall devour thy young lions, and I will cut off thy ſpoil from the earth, and the voice of thy [d] meſſengers ſhall no more be heard.

5 Behold, I come upon thee, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and will diſcover thy ſkirts upon thy face, and will ſhew the nations thy filthineſs, and the kingdoms thy ſhame.

6 And I will caſt filth upon thee, and make thee vile, and will ſet thee as a gazing-ſtock.

7 And it ſhall come to paſs that all they that look upon thee, ſhall flee from thee, and ſay, Nineveh is deſtroyed, who will have pity upon her? where ſhall I ſeek comforters for thee?

Bef. Chr. 713.

8 Art thou better than [h] No, which was full of people? that lay in the rivers, and had the waters round about it? whoſe ditch was the ſea, and her wall was from the ſea?

14 Draw thee waters for the ſiege: fortify thy ſtrong holds: go into the clay, and temper the morter: make ſtrong brick.

15 There ſhall the fire devour thee: the ſword ſhall cut thee off: it ſhall eat thee up like the [i] locuſts, though thou be multiplied like the locuſts, and multiplied like the graſhopper.

16 Thou haſt multiplied thy merchants above the ſtars of heaven: the locuſt ſpoileth and flieth away.

HABAKKUK.

THE ARGUMENT.

The prophet complaineth unto God, conſidering the great felicity of the wicked, and the miſerable oppreſſion of the godly, which endure all kind of affliction and cruelty, and yet can ſee no end. Therefore he had this revelation ſhewed him of God, that the Chaldeans ſhould come and take them away captives, ſo that they could look for no end of their troubles as yet, becauſe of their ſtubbornneſs and rebellion againſt the Lord. And leſt the godly ſhould deſpair, ſeeing this horrible confuſion, he comforteth them by this, that God will puniſh the Chaldeans their enemies, when their pride and cruelty ſhall be at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithful to patience by his own example, and ſheweth them a form of prayer, wherewith they ſhould comfort themſelves.

CHAP. I.

2 A complaint againſt the wicked that perſecute the juſt.

THE burden which Habakkuk the prophet did ſee.

2 O Lord, how long ſhall I cry, and thou wilt not hear? even cry out unto thee [a] for violence, and thou wilt not help?

3 Why doſt thou ſhew me iniquity, and cauſe me to behold ſorrow? for ſpoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raiſe up ſtrife and contention.

4 Therefore the law is diſſolved, and judgment doth never go forth: for the wicked doth [b] compaſs about the righteous: therefore [c] wrong judgment proceedeth.

5 Behold among the heathen, and regard and wonder, and marvel: for I will work a work in your days: [d] ye will not believe it, though it be told you.

6 For lo, I raiſe up the Chaldeans, that bitter and furious nation, which ſhall go upon the breadth of the land to poſſeſs the dwelling-places that are not theirs.

7 They are terrible and fearful: [e] their judgment and their dignity ſhall proceed of themſelves.

8 Their horſes alſo are ſwifter than the leopards, and are more fierce than the wolves in the * evening: and their horſemen are many: and their horſemen ſhall come from far: they ſhall flee as the eagle haſting to meat. * Zeph. 3. 3.

9 They come all to ſpoil: before their faces ſhall be an [f] eaſt wind, and they ſhall gather the captivity [g] as the ſand.

10 And they ſhall mock the kings, and the princes ſhall be a ſcorn unto them: they ſhall deride every ſtrong hold: for they ſhall gather [h] duſt, and take it.

11 Then ſhall they [i] take courage, and tranſgreſs and do wickedly, imputing this their power unto their god.

12 Art not thou of old, O Lord my God, mine Holy one? we ſhall [k] not die: O Lord, thou haſt ordained them for judgment, and, O God, thou haſt eſtabliſhed them for correction.

13 Thou art of pure eyes, and canſt not ſee evil: thou canſt not behold wickedneſs: wherefore doſt thou look upon the tranſgreſſors, and holdeſt thy tongue when the wicked devoureth the man that is more righteous than he?

14 And makeſt men as the [l] fiſhes of the ſea, and as the creeping things, that have no ruler over them?

15 They take up all with the angle: they catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarn, whereof they rejoice and are glad.

16 Therefore they ſacrifice unto their [m] net, and burn incenſe unto their yarn, becauſe by them their portion is fat, and their meat plenteous.

17 Shall they therefore ſtretch out their net, and not ſpare continually to ſlay [n] the nations?

CHAP. II.

2 A viſion, 5 againſt pride, covetouſneſs, drunkenneſs, and idolatry.

I Will ſtand upon my [o] watch, and ſet me upon the tower, and will look and ſee what he would ſay unto me, and what I ſhall anſwer to him that rebuketh me.

2 And the Lord anſwered me, and ſaid, Write the viſion, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run [p] that readeth it.

3 For the viſion is yet for an appointed time, but at the [q] laſt it ſhall ſpeak, and not lye: though it tarry, wait: for it ſhall ſurely come, and ſhall not ſtay.

4 Behold, [r] he that lifteth up himſelf, his mind is not upright in him: but the juſt ſhall live by his faith:

5 Yea, indeed the proud man is as [s] he that tranſgreſſeth by wine: therefore ſhall he not endure, becauſe he hath enlarged his deſire as the hell, and is as death, and cannot be ſatisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people.

6 Shall not all theſe take up a parable againſt him, and a ranting proverb againſt him, and ſay, Ho, he that increaſeth that which is not his! [t] how long? and he that ladeth himſelf with thick clay?

7 Shall [u] they not riſe up ſuddenly, that ſhall bite thee? and awake, that ſhall ſtir thee? and thou ſhalt be their prey?

8 Becauſe thou haſt ſpoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people ſhall ſpoil thee, becauſe of men's blood, and for the wrong done in the land,

[a] The prophet complaineth unto God, and bewaileth that among the Jews is left none equity or brotherly love: but inſtead hereof reigneth cruelty, theft, contention, and ſtrife.

[b] To ſuppreſs him, if any ſhould ſhew himſelf zealous of God's cauſe.

[c] Becauſe the judges which ſhould redreſs this exceſs, are as evil as the reſt.

[d] As in times paſt you would not believe God's word, ſo ſhall ye not now believe the ſtrange plagues which are at hand.

[e] They themſelves ſhall be your judges in this cauſe, and none ſhall have authority over them to controul them.

[f] For the Jews moſt feared this wind, becauſe it deſtroyed their fruits.

[g] They ſhall be ſo many in number.

[h] They ſhall caſt up mounts againſt it.

[i] The prophet comforteth the faithful, that God will alſo deſtroy the Babylonians, becauſe they ſhall abuſe this victory, and become proud and inſolent, attributing the praiſe hereof to their idols.

[k] He aſſureth the godly of God's protection, ſhewing that the enemy can do no more than God hath appointed, and alſo that their ſins required ſuch a ſharp rod.

[l] So that the great devoureth the ſmall, and the Chaldeans deſtroy all the world.

[m] Meaning, that the enemies flatter themſelves, and glory in their own force, power and wit.

[n] Meaning, that they ſhould not.

[o] I will renounce mine own judgment, and only depend on God, to be inſtructed what I ſhall anſwer them that abuſe my preaching, and to be armed againſt all temptations.

[s] He compareth the proud and covetous man to a drunkard that is without reaſon and ſenſe, whom God will puniſh and make him a laughing-ſtock to all the world: and this he ſpeaketh for the comfort of the godly, and againſt the Chaldeans.

[t] Signifying, that all the world ſhall wiſh the deſtruction of tyrants, and that by their oppreſſion and covetouſneſs they heap but upon themſelves more heavy burdens: for the more they get, the more are they troubled.

12 Wo unto him that buildeth a town with blood, and erecteth a city by iniquity.

13 Behold, is it not of the [w] Lord of hoſts that the people ſhall labour in the very fire? the people ſhall even weary themſelves for very vanity.

14 For the earth ſhall [x] be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the ſea.

15 Wo unto him that giveth his neighbour [y] drink: thou joineſt thine heat, and makeſt him drunken alſo, that thou mayeſt ſee their privities.

16 Thou art filled with ſhame [z] for glory: drink thou alſo, and be made naked: the cup of the Lord's right hand ſhall be turned unto thee, and ſhameful ſpewing ſhall be for thy glory.

17 For the [a] cruelty of Lebanon ſhall cover thee: ſo ſhall the ſpoil of the beaſts, which made them afraid becauſe of men's blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the city, and unto all that dwell therein.

19 Wo unto him that ſaith to the wood, Awake, and to the dumb ſtone, Riſe up, it ſhall teach thee: [c] behold, it is laid over with gold and ſilver, and there is no breath in it.

20 But the Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep ſilence before him.

CHAP. III.

2 A prayer for the faithful.

A Prayer of Habakkuk the prophet for the [d] ignorances.

2 [e] O Lord, I have heard thy voice, and was afraid: O Lord, revive thy [f] work in the midſt of the people, in the midſt of the years make it known: in wrath remember mercy.

3 God cometh from [g] Teman, and the holy One from mount Paran, Selah. His glory covereth the heavens, and the earth is full of his praiſe,

4 And his brightneſs was as the light: [h] he had horns coming out of his hands, and there was the hiding of his power.

5 Before him went the peſtilence, and burning coals went out before his feet.

6 He ſtood and meaſured the earth: he beheld and diſſolved the nations, and the everlaſting mountains were broken, and the ancient hills did bow: his [i] ways are everlaſting,

7 [k] For his iniquity I ſaw the tents of Cuſhan, and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.

8 Was the Lord angry againſt the [l] rivers? or was thine anger againſt the floods? or was thy wrath againſt the ſea, that thou didſt ride [m] upon thine horſes? thy chariots brought ſalvation.

9 Thy [n] bow was manifeſtly revealed, and the [o] oaths of the tribes were a ſure word, Selah: thou [p] didſt cleave the earth with rivers.

10 The mountains ſaw thee, and they trembled: the ſtream of the water [q] paſſed by: the deep made a noiſe, and lift up his hand on high.

11 The [r] ſun and moon ſtood ſtill in their habitation: [s] at the light of thine arrows they went, and at the bright ſhining of thy ſpears.

12 Thou troddeſt down the land in anger, and didſt threſh the heathen in diſpleaſure.

13 Thou welteſt forth for the ſalvation of thy people, even for ſalvation with thine [t] Anointed: thou haſt wounded the head of the houſe of the wicked, and diſcoveredſt the foundations unto the [u] neck, Selah.

[u] The ſtones of the houſe ſhall cry, and ſay, that they are built of blood, and the wood ſhall anſwer, and ſay the ſame of itſelf.

[w] Meaning, that God will not defer his vengeance long, but will come and deſtroy all their labours, as though they were conſumed with fire.

[x] In the deſtruction of the Babylonians his glory ſhall appear through all the world.

[y] He reproacheth thus the king of Babylon, who as he was drunken with covetouſneſs and cruelty, ſo he provoked others to the ſame, and inflamed them by his rage, and ſo in the end brought them to ſhame.

[z] Whereas thou thoughteſt to have glory of theſe thy doings, they ſhall turn to thy ſhame, for thou ſhalt drink of the ſame cup with others in thy turn.

[a] Becauſe the Babylonians were cruel, not only againſt other nations, but alſo againſt the people of God, which is meant by Lebanon, and the beaſts therein, he ſheweth that the like cruelty ſhall be executed againſt them.

[b] He ſheweth that the Babylonian gods could nothing avail them: for they were but blocks and ſtones, read Jer. 10. 8.

[c] If thou wilt conſider what it is, and how that it hath neither breath nor life, but is a dead thing.

16 When I [x] heard, my belly trembled: my lips ſhook at the voice: rottenneſs entered into my bones, and I trembled in myſelf, that I might reſt in [y] the day of trouble: for when he cometh up [z] unto the people, he ſhall deſtroy them.

17 For the fig-tree ſhall not flouriſh, neither ſhall fruit be in the vines: the labour of the olive ſhall fail, and the fields ſhall yield no meat: the ſheep ſhall be cut off from the fold, and there ſhall be no bullock in the ſtalls:

18 But I will rejoice in the Lord: I will joy [a] in the God of my ſalvation.

THE ARGUMENT.

Seeing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was now no hope of amendment, he denounceth the great judgment of God which was at hand, ſhewing that their country ſhould be utterly deſtroyed, and they carried away captives by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithful he propheſied of God's vengeance againſt their enemies, as the Philiſtines, Moabites, Aſſyrians, and others, to aſſure them that God had a continual care over them. And as the wicked ſhould be puniſhed for their ſins and tranſgreſſions: So he exhorteth the godly to patience, and to truſt to find mercy by reaſon of the free promiſe of God made unto Abraham: therefore quietly to abide till God ſhew them the effect of that grace, whereby in the end they ſhould be gathered unto him, and counted as his people and children.

THE ARGUMENT.

When the time of the ſeventy years captivity propheſied by Jeremiah was expired, God raiſed up Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi, to comfort the Jews, and to exhort them to the building of the temple, which was a figure of the ſpiritual temple and church of God, whoſe perfection and excellence ſtood in Chriſt. And becauſe that all were given to their own pleaſures and commodities, he declareth that that plague of famine, which God then ſent among them, was a juſt reward of their ingratitude, in that they contemned God's honour, who had delivered them. Yet he comforteth them, if they will return to the Lord, with the promiſe of greater felicity, foraſmuch as the Lord will finiſh the work that he hath begun, and ſend Chriſt whom he had promiſed, and by whom they ſhould attain to perfect joy and glory.

Bef. Chr. 520.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the prophecy of Haggai. 8 An exhortation to build the temple again.

IN the ſecond year of king [a] Darius, in the ſixth month, the firſt day of the month, came the word of the Lord (by the miniſtry of the prophet Haggai) unto [b] Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, a prince of Judah, and to Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt, ſaying,

2 Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, ſaying, This people ſay, The time is not yet come that [c] the Lord's houſe ſhould be builded.

3 Then came the word of the Lord by the miniſtry of the prophet Haggai, ſaying,

4 Is it time for yourſelves to dwell in your [d] cieled houſes, and this houſe lie waſte?

5 Now therefore thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Conſider your own ways in your hearts.

6 [e] Ye have ſown much, and bring in little: ye eat, but ye have not enough: ye drink, but

[b] Becauſe the building of the temple began to ceaſe, by reaſon that the people were diſcouraged by their enemies: and if theſe two notable men had need to be ſtirred up, and admoniſhed of their duties, what ſhall we think of other governors, whoſe doings are either againſt God, or very cold in his cauſe?

[c] Not that they condemned the building thereof, but they preferred policy and private profit to religion, being content with ſmall beginnings.

[d] Shewing, that they ſought not only their neceſſities, but their very pleaſures before God's honour.

[e] Conſider the plagues of God upon you for preferring your policies to his religion, and becauſe ye ſeek not him firſt of all.

Bef. Chr. 520. ye are not filled: ye clothe you, but ye be not warm: and he that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bag.

7 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Conſider your own ways in your hearts.

8 Go [f] up to the mountain and bring wood, and build this houſe, and [g] I will be favourable in it, and I will [h] be glorified, ſaith the Lord.

9 Ye looked for much, and lo, it came to little: and when ye brought it home, I did blow [i] upon it. And why, ſaith the Lord of hoſts? Becauſe of mine houſe that is waſte, and ye run every man to his own houſe.

10 Therefore the heaven over you ſtayed itſelf from dew, and the earth ſtayed her fruit,

11 And I called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the wine, and upon the oil, upon all that the ground bringeth forth: both upon men and upon cattle, and upon all the labour of the hands.

12 When Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt, with all the remnant of the people, heard the [k] voice of the Lord their God, and the works of the prophet Haggai (as the Lord their God had ſent him) then the people did fear before the Lord.

13 Then ſpake Haggai the Lord's meſſenger in the Lord's meſſage unto the people, ſaying, I am with you, ſaith the Lord.

14 And the Lord ſtirred up [l] the ſpirit of Zerubbabel, the ſon of Shealtiel, a prince of Judah, and the ſpirit of Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt, and the ſpirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the work in the houſe of the Lord of hoſts their God.

CHAP. II.

He ſheweth that the glory of the ſecond temple ſhall exceed the firſt.

IN the four and twentieth day of the ſixth month, in the ſecond year of king Darius,

2 In the ſeventh month, in the one and twentieth day of the month, came the word of the Lord by the miniſtry of the prophet Haggai, ſaying,

3 Speak now to Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel prince of Judah, and to Joſhua the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt, and to the reſidue of the people, ſaying,

4 Who is left among you, that ſaw this [m] houſe in her firſt glory, and how do you ſee it now? is it not in your eyes, in compariſon of it, as nothing? Bef. Chr. 520.

5 Yet now be of good courage, O Zerubbabel, ſaith the Lord, and be of good comfort, O Joſhua, ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt: and be ſtrong, all ye people of the land, ſaith the Lord, and [n] do it: for I am with you, ſaith the Lord of hoſts,

6 According to the word that I covenanted with you, when ye came out of Egypt: ſo my Spirit ſhall remain among you: fear ye not:

7 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, [o] Yet a little while, and I will ſhake the heavens and the earth, and the ſea, and the dry land:

8 And I will move all nations, and [p] the deſire of all nations ſhall come, and I will fill this houſe with glory, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

9 The [q] ſilver is mine, and the gold is mine, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

10 The glory of this laſt houſe ſhall be greater than the firſt, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: and in this place will I give [r] peace, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

11 ¶ In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the ſecond year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto the prophet Haggai, ſaying,

12 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Aſk now the prieſts concerning the law, and ſay,

13 If one bear [s] holy fleſh in the ſkirt of his garment, and with his ſkirt do touch the bread, or the pottage, or the wine, or the oil, or any meat, ſhall it be holy? And the prieſts anſwered, and ſaid, No.

14 Then ſaid Haggai, If a polluted perſon touch any of theſe, ſhall it be unclean? And the prieſts anſwered, and ſaid, It ſhall be unclean.

15 Then anſwered Haggai, and ſaid, So is this people, and ſo is this nation before me, ſaith the Lord: and ſo are all the works of their hands, and that which they offer here, is unclean.

16 And now, I pray you conſider in your minds, from this [t] day, and afore, even afore a ſtone was laid upon a ſtone in the temple of the Lord:

17 [u] Before theſe things were, when one came to an heap of twenty meaſures, there were but ten: when one came to the wine-preſs for to draw

[f] Meaning, that they ſhould leave off their own commodities, and go forward in the building of God's temple, and in the ſetting forth of his religion.

[g] That is, I will hear your prayers according to my promiſe, 1 Kings 8. 21, 29.

[h] That is, my glory ſhall be ſet forth by you.

[i] And ſo brought it to nothing.

[k] This declared that God was the author of the doctrine, and that he was but the miniſter, as Exod. 14. 31. Judges 7. 20. Acts 15. 28.

[l] Which declareth that men are unapt and dull to ſerve the Lord, neither can they obey his word or his meſſengers, before God reform their hearts, and give them new ſpirits, John 6. 44.

[m] For the people, according as Iſa. 32. 11, and Ezek. 41. 1. had propheſied, thought this temple ſhould have been more excellent than Solomon's temple, which was deſtroyed by the Babylonians, but the prophets meant the ſpiritual temple, the church of Chriſt.

[n] That is, go forward in building the temple.

[o] He exhorteth them to patience, though they ſee not as yet this temple ſo glorious as the prophets had declared: for this ſhould be accompliſhed in Chriſt, by whom all things ſhould be renewed.

[p] Meaning Chriſt, whom all ought to look for and deſire: or by deſire, he may ſignify all precious things, as riches, and ſuch like.

[q] Therefore when his time cometh, he can make all the treaſures of the world to ſerve his purpoſe: but the glory of this ſecond temple doth not ſtand in material things, neither can it be built.

[r] Meaning all ſpiritual bleſſings and felicity purchaſed by Chriſt, Phil. 4. 7.

[s] That is, the fleſh of the ſacrifices, whereby he ſignifieth that that thing which of itſelf is good, cannot make another thing ſo, and therefore they ought not to juſtify themſelves by their ſacrifices and ceremonies: but contrary, he that is unclean and not pure of heart, doth corrupt thoſe things and make them deteſtable unto God, which elſe are good and godly.

[t] Conſider how God did plague you with famine afore you began to build the temple.

[u] That is, before the bailding was begun.

Bef. Chr. 520. draw out fifty veſſels out of the preſs, there were but twenty.

18 I ſmote you with blaſting and with mildew, and with hail, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to me, ſaith the Lord.

19 Conſider, I pray you, in your minds, from [w] this day, and afore, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, even from the day that the foundation of the Lord's temple was laid: conſider it in your minds.

20 Is the [x] ſeed yet in the barn? as yet the vine, and the fig-tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive-tree hath not brought forth: from this day will I bleſs you.

21 And again the word of the Lord came unto Haggai in the four and twentieth day of the month, ſaying, Bef. Chr. 520.

22 Speak unto Zerubbabel the prince of Judah, and ſay, I [y] will ſhake the heavens and the earth,

23 And I will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, and I will deſtroy the ſtrength of the [z] kingdoms of the heathen, and I will overthrow the chariots, and thoſe that ride in them, and the horſe and the riders ſhall come down, every one by the ſword of his brother.

24 In that day, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel my ſervant, the ſon of Shealtiel, ſaith the Lord, and will make thee as a [a] ſignet: for I have choſen thee, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

---

[w] From the time they began to build the temple, he promiſed that God would bleſs them: and albeit as yet the fruit was not come forth, yet in the gathering they ſhould have plenty.

[x] He exhorteth them to patience, and to abide till the harveſt came, and then they ſhould ſee God's bleſſings.

[y] I will make a change and renew all things in Chriſt, of whom Zerubbabel here is a figure.

[z] Hereby he ſheweth that there ſhall be no let nor hindrance when God will make this wonderful reſtitution of his church.

[a] Signifying, that his dignity ſhould be moſt excellent, which thing was accompliſhed in Chriſt.

ZECHARIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Two months after that Haggai had begun to propheſy, Zechariah was alſo ſent of the Lord to help him in the labour, and to confirm the ſame doctrine. Firſt therefore he putteth them in remembrance for what cauſe God had ſo ſore puniſhed their fathers: and yet comforteth them, if they will repent unfeignedly, and not abuſe this great benefit of God in their deliverance, which was a figure of that true deliverance that all the faithful ſhould have from death and ſin by Chriſt. But becauſe they ſtill remained in their wickedneſs, and coldneſs to ſet forth God's glory, and were not yet made better by their long baniſhment, he rebuketh them moſt ſharply: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he ever mixeth the promiſe of grace, that they might by this means be prepared to receive Chriſt, in whom all ſhould be ſanctified to the Lord.

CHAP. I.

Bef. Chr. 520. 1 He exhorteth the people to turn to the Lord, and to eſchew the wickedneſs of their fathers. 16 He ſignifieth the reſtitution of Jeruſalem and the temple.

IN the eighth month of the ſecond year of [a] Darius, came the word of the Lord unto [b] Zechariah the ſon of Barachiah, the ſon of Iddo the prophet, ſaying,

2 The Lord hath been [c] ſore diſpleaſed with your fathers.

3 Therefore ſay thou unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, [d] Turn ye unto me, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and I will turn unto you, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, unto whom the former *prophets have cried, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Turn you now from your evil ways, and from your wicked works: but they would not hear, nor hearken unto me, ſaith the Lord. * Jer. 3. 12. zek. 18. 0. Hoſea 4. 2. Joel . 12. Bef. Chr. 520.

5 Your fathers, where [e] are they? and do the prophets live for ever?

6 But did not my words and my ſtatutes, which I commanded by my ſervants the prophets, take hold of [f] your fathers? and [g] they returned, and ſaid, As the Lord of hoſts hath determined to do unto us, according to our own ways, and according to our works, ſo hath he dealt with us.

7 Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is the month [h] Shebat, in the ſecond year of Darius, came the word of the Lord unto Zechariah the ſon of Barachiah, the ſon of Iddo the prophet, ſaying,

8 I [i] ſaw by night, and behold [k] a man riding upon a red horſe, and he ſtood among the myrrh-trees, that were in a bottom, and behind him

---

[a] Who was the ſon of Hyſtaſpis.

[b] This was not that Zechariah whereof is mention, 2 Chron. 24. 20. but had the ſame name, and is called the ſon of Barachiah, as he was, becauſe he came of thoſe progenitors, as of Jehoiada or Barachiah and Iddo.

[c] He ſpeaketh this to fear them with God's judgments, that they ſhould not provoke him as their fathers had done, whom he ſo grievouſly puniſhed.

[d] Let your fruits declare that you are God's people, and that he hath wrought in you by his Spirit, and mortified you: for elſe man hath no power to return to God, but God muſt convert him, as Jer. 31. 18. Lament. 5. 21. Iſa. 21. 8. and 31. 6. and 45. 21.

[e] Though your fathers be dead, yet God's judgments in puniſhing them ought ſtill to be before your eyes: and though the prophets be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for ever, 2 Pet. 1. 15.

[f] Seeing ye ſaw the force of my doctrine in puniſhing your fathers, why do not ye fear the threatenings contained in the ſame, and declared by my prophets?

[g] As men aſtoniſhed with my judgments, and not that they were touched with true repentance.

[h] Which containeth part of January, and part of February.

[i] This viſion ſignifieth the reſtoration of the church, but as yet it ſhould not appear to man's eyes, which is here meant by the night, by the bottom, and by the myrrh-trees which are ſo black, and give a dark ſhadow: yet he compareth God to a king, who hath his poſts and meſſengers abroad, by whom he ſtill worketh his purpoſe, and bringeth his matters to paſs.

[k] Who was the chief among the reſt of the horſemen.

Bef. Chr. 519. him were there [l] red horſes, ſpeckled and white.

9 Then ſaid I, O my Lord, what are theſe? And the angel that talked with me, ſaid unto me, I will ſhew thee what theſe be.

10 And the man that ſtood among the myrrh-trees, anſwered, and ſaid, Theſe are they whom the Lord hath ſent to go through the world.

11 And they anſwered the angel of the Lord, that ſtood among the myrrh-trees, and ſaid, We have gone through the world: and behold, all the world ſitteth ſtill, and is at reſt.

12 Then the [m] angel of the Lord anſwered and ſaid, O Lord of hoſts, how long wilt thou be unmerciful to Jeruſalem, and to the cities of Judah, with whom thou haſt been diſpleaſed now theſe threeſcore and ten years?

13 And the Lord anſwered the angel that talked with me, with good words and comfortable words.

14 So the angel that communed with me, ſaid unto me, Cry thou, and ſpeak, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I am [n] jealous over Jeruſalem and Zion with a great zeal,

15 And am greatly angry againſt the careleſs heathen: for I was angry but [o] a little, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus ſaith the Lord, I will return unto Jeruſalem with tender mercy: mine houſe ſhall be builded in it, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and a line [p] ſhall be ſtretched upon Jeruſalem.

17 Cry yet and ſpeak, Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, My cities ſhall yet [q] be broken with plenty: the Lord ſhall yet comfort Zion, and ſhall yet chuſe Jeruſalem.

18 Then lift I up mine eyes and ſaw, and behold, [r] four horns:

19 And I ſaid unto the angel that talked with me, What be theſe? And he anſwered me, Theſe are the horns which have ſcattered Judah, Iſrael, and Jeruſalem.

20 And the Lord ſhewed me four [s] carpenters.

21 Then ſaid I, What come theſe to do? And he anſwered, and ſaid, Theſe are the horns which have ſcattered Judah, ſo that a man durſt not lift up his head: but theſe are come to fray them, and to caſt out the horns of the Gentiles, which lift up their horn over the land of Judah to ſcatter it. Bef. Chr. 519.

3 And behold, the angel that talked with me, went forth: and another angel went out to meet him,

4 And ſaid unto him, Run, ſpeak to this [u] young man, and ſay, Jeruſalem ſhall be inhabited without walls, for the multitude of men and cattle therein:

5 For I, ſaith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of [w] fire round about, and will [x] be the glory in the midſt of her.

6 Ho, ho, come [y] forth, and flee from the land of the North, ſaith the Lord: for I have ſcattered you into the four [z] winds of the heaven, ſaith the Lord.

7 [a] Save thyſelf, O Zion, that dwelleſt with the daughter of Babel.

8 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, After this [b] glory hath he ſent me unto the nations which ſpoiled you: for he that toucheth you, toucheth the [c] apple of his eye,

9 For behold, I will lift up mine hand [d] upon them: and [e] they ſhall be a ſpoil to thoſe that ſerved them, and ye ſhall know that the Lord of hoſts hath [f] ſent me.

10 Rejoice, and be glad, O daughter Zion: for lo, I come, and will dwell in the midſt of thee, ſaith the Lord.

11 And many nations ſhall be joined to the Lord in that day, and ſhall be my people: and I will dwell in the midſt of thee, and thou ſhalt know that the Lord of hoſts hath ſent me unto thee.

12 And the Lord ſhall inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and ſhall chuſe Jeruſalem again.

[a] By flying from Babylon and coming to the church.

[b] Seeing that God hath begun to ſhew his grace among you by delivering you, he continueth the ſame ſtill toward you, and therefore ſendeth me his angel, and his Chriſt, to defend you from your enemies, that they ſhall not hurt you, neither by the way nor at home.

[c] Ye are ſo dear unto God, that he can no more ſuffer your enemies to hurt you, than a man can abide to be thruſt in the eye, Pſalm 17. 8.

[d] Upon the heathen your enemies.

[e] They ſhall be your ſervants, as you have been theirs.

[f] This muſt neceſſarily be underſtood of Chriſt, who being God equal with his Father, was ſent as he was mediator to dwell in his church, and to govern them.

Bef. Chr. 519. 13 Let all fleſh be ſtill before the Lord, for he is raiſed up out of his holy place.

CHAP. III.

A prophecy of Chriſt and of his kingdom.

AND he ſhewed me Joſhua the high prieſt, [g] ſtanding before the angel of the Lord, and [h] Satan ſtood at his right hand to reſiſt him.

2 And the [i] Lord ſaid unto Satan, The Lord reprove thee, O Satan: even the Lord that hath choſen Jeruſalem, reprove thee. Is not this a [k] brand taken out of the fire?

3 Now Joſhua was clothed with filthy garments, and ſtood before the angel.

4 And he anſwered and ſpake unto thoſe that ſtood before him, ſaying, Take away the [l] filthy garments from him. And unto him he ſaid, Behold, I have [m] cauſed thine iniquity to depart from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I ſaid, let them [n] ſet a fair diadem upon his head. So they ſet a fair diadem upon his head, and cloathed him with garments, and the angel of the Lord ſtood by.

6 And the angel of the Lord teſtified unto Joſhua, ſaying,

7 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, If thou wilt walk in my ways, and keep my watch, thou ſhalt alſo [o] judge mine houſe, and ſhalt alſo keep my [p] courts, and I will give thee place among [q] theſe that ſtand by.

8 Hear now, O Joſhua the high prieſt, thou and thy fellows that ſit before thee: for they [r] are monſtrous perſons: but behold, I will bring forth the [s] Branch my ſervant.

9 For lo, the [t] ſtone that I have laid before Joſhua: upon one ſtone ſhall be ſeven eyes: behold I [u] will cut out the graving thereof, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and I will take [w] away the iniquity of this land in one day.

10 In that day, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, ſhall ye call every man his neighbour under the [x] vine, and under the fig-tree. Bef. Chr. 519.

CHAP. IV.

The viſion of the golden candleſtick, and the expoſition thereof.

AND the angel that talked with me, came again and waked me, as a man that is raiſed out of his ſleep,

2 And ſaid unto me, What ſeeſt thou? And I ſaid, I have looked, and behold, a [y] candleſtick all of gold, with a bowl upon the top of it, and his ſeven lamps therein, and ſeven [z] pipes to the lamps, which were upon the top thereof,

3 And two olive-trees over it, one upon the right ſide of the bowl, and the other upon the left ſide thereof.

4 So I anſwered, and ſpake to the angel that talked with me, ſaying, What are theſe, my Lord?

5 Then the angel that talked with me, anſwered and ſaid unto me, Knoweſt thou not what theſe be? And I ſaid, No, my lord.

6 Then he anſwered and ſpake unto me, ſaying, This is the word of the Lord unto [a] Zerubbabel, ſaying, Neither by [b] an army nor ſtrength, but by my Spirit, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

7 Who art thou, O [c] great mountain, before Zerubbabel? thou ſhalt be a plain, and [d] he ſhall bring forth the head ſtone thereof, with ſhoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.

8 Moreover, the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundations of this houſe: his hands ſhall alſo finiſh it, and [e] thou ſhalt know that the Lord of hoſts hath ſent me unto you.

10 For who hath deſpiſed the day of the [f] ſmall things? but they ſhall rejoice, and ſhall

[g] He prayed to Chriſt the mediator for the ſtate of the church.

[h] Which declareth that the faithful have not only war with fleſh and blood, but with Satan himſelf, and ſpiritual wickedneſſes, Eph. 6. 12.

[i] That is, Chriſt ſpeaketh to God as the mediator of his church, that he would rebuke Satan: and here he ſheweth himſelf to be the continual preſerver of his church.

[k] Meaning, that Joſhua was wonderfully preſerved in the captivity, and now Satan ſought to afflict and trouble him when he was doing his office.

[l] In reſpect of the glorious garments and precious ſtones that the prieſts did wear before the captivity: and by this contemptible ſtate the prophet ſignifieth that theſe ſmall beginnings ſhould be made excellent, when Chriſt ſhall make the full reſtitution of his church.

[m] He ſheweth of what apparel he ſpeaketh, which is when our filthy ſins are taken away and we are clad with God's mercies, which is meant of the ſpiritual reſtitution.

[n] The prophet prayeth that beſides the raiment, the prieſt might alſo have tire for his head accordingly, that is, that the dignity of the prieſthood might be perfect: and this was fulfilled in Chriſt, who was both prieſt and King: and here all ſuch are condemned that can content themſelves with any mean reformation in religion, ſeeing the prophet deſireth the perfection, and obtaineth it.

[o] That is, have rule and government in my church, as thy predeceſſors have had.

[p] Whereby he meaneth to have the whole charge and miniſtry of the church.

[q] That is, the angels who repreſented the whole number of the faithful: ſignifying, that all the godly ſhould willingly receive him.

[r] Becauſe they follow my word, they are contemned in the world, and eſteemed as monſters, Iſa. 8. 18.

[s] That is, Chriſt, who did ſo humble himſelf, that not only he became the ſervant of God, but alſo the ſervant of men: and therefore in him they ſhould have comfort, although in the world they were contemned. Iſa. 11. 1. Jer. 23. 5. and 33. 14, 15.

[t] He ſheweth that the miniſters cannot build, before God lay the firſt ſtone, which is Chriſt, who is full of eyes, both becauſe he giveth light unto all others, and that all ought to ſeek light at him, chap. 4. 10.

[u] That is, I will make it perfect in all points, as a thing wrought by the hand of God.

[w] Though I have puniſhed this land for a time, yet I will even now be pacified, and viſit their ſins no more.

[x] Ye ſhall then live in peace and quietneſs, that is, in the kingdom of Chriſt. Iſa. 2. 2. Micah 4. 4. Hag. 2. 10.

[y] Which was ever in the midſt of the temple, ſignifying, that the graces of God's Spirit ſhould ſhine there in moſt abundance, and in all perfection.

[z] Which conveyed the oil that dropped from the trees into the lamps, ſo that the light never failed: and this viſion was to confirm the faithful, that God had ſufficient power in himſelf to continue his graces, and to bring his promiſe to paſs, though he had no help of man.

[a] Who was a figure of Chriſt, and therefore this doctrine was directed to all the church, who are his body and members.

[b] He ſheweth that God's power only is ſufficient to preſerve his church, though he uſe not man's help thereunto.

[c] He compareth the power of the adverſaries to a great mountain, who thought the Jews nothing in reſpect of them, and would have hindered Zerubbabel, who repreſented Chriſt, whom the enemies daily labour to let, in the building of his ſpiritual temple, but all in vain.

[d] Though the enemies think to ſtay this building, yet Zerubbabel ſhall lay the higheſt ſtone thereof, and bring it to perfection, ſo that all the godly ſhall rejoice, and pray unto God that he would continue his grace and favour toward the temple.

[e] Meaning, the prophet, that I am Chriſt ſent of my Father for the building and preſervation of my ſpiritual temple.

[f] Signifying, that all were diſcouraged at the ſmall and poor beginnings of the temple.

Bef. Chr. 519. ſee the ſtone of [i] tin in the hand of Zerubbabel: [k] theſe ſeven are the eyes of the Lord, which go through the whole world.

11 Then anſwered I, and ſaid unto him, What are theſe two olive-trees upon the right and upon the left ſide thereof?

12 And I ſpake moreover, and ſaid unto him, What be theſe two olive branches, which through the two golden pipes empty themſelves into the gold?

13 And he anſwered me, and ſaid, Knoweſt thou not what theſe be? And I ſaid, No, my lord.

14 Then ſaid he, Theſe are the two [l] olive branches, that ſtand with the ruler of the whole earth.

CHAP. V.

1 The viſion of the flying book, ſignifying the curſe of thieves, and ſuch as abuſe the name of God. 6 By the viſion of the meaſure is ſignified the bringing of Judah's afflictions into Babylon.

THEN I turned me, and lifted up mine eyes and looked, and behold, a flying book.

2 And he ſaid unto me, What ſeeſt thou? And I anſwered, I ſee a flying [m] book: the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 Then ſaid he unto me, This is the curſe that goeth forth over the whole earth: for every one that [n] ſtealeth, ſhall be cut off as well on this [o] ſide, as on that: and every one that [p] ſweareth, ſhall be cut off as well on this ſide, as on that.

4 I will bring it forth, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and it ſhall enter into the houſe of the thief, and into the houſe of him that falſly ſweareth by my name: and it ſhall remain in the midſt of his houſe, and ſhall conſume it, with the timber thereof, and the ſtones thereof.

5 Then the angel that talked with me, went forth, and ſaid unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and ſee what is this that goeth forth.

6 And I ſaid, What is it? And he ſaid, This is an [q] ephah that goeth forth. He ſaid moreover, This is the [r] ſight of them through all the earth.

7 And behold, there was lift up a [s] talent of lead: and this is a [t] woman that ſitteth in the midſt of the ephah. Bef. Chr. 519.

8 And he ſaid, This is [u] wickedneſs, and he caſt it into the midſt of the ephah, and he caſt the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lift I up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came out two [w] women, and the wind was in their wings (for they had wings like the wings of a ſtork) and they lift up the ephah between the earth and the heaven.

10 Then ſaid I to the angel that talked with me, Whither do theſe bear the ephah?

11 And he ſaid unto me, [x] To build it an houſe in the land of Shinar, and it ſhall be eſtabliſhed and ſet there upon her own place.

CHAP. VI.

By the four chariots he deſcribeth the four monarchies.

AGAIN, I turned and lift up mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came four [y] chariots out from between two [z] mountains, and the mountains were mountains of braſs.

2 In the firſt chariot were [a] red horſes, and in the ſecond chariot [b] black horſes,

3 And in the third chariot [c] white horſes, and in the fourth chariot horſes of [d] divers colours, and reddiſh.

4 Then I anſwered, and ſaid unto the angel that talked with me, What are theſe, my lord?

5 And the angel anſwered, and ſaid unto me, Theſe are the [e] four ſpirits of the heaven, which go forth from ſtanding with the Lord of all the earth.

6 That with the black horſe went forth into the land of the North, and the white went out after them, and they of divers colours went forth toward the [f] ſouth country.

7 And the [g] reddiſh went out, and required to go and paſs through the world: and he ſaid, Go paſs through the world. So they went throughout the world.

8 Then

[i] Whereby he ſignifieth the plummet and line, that is, that Zerubbabel which repreſented Chriſt, ſhould go forward with his building, to the joy and comfort of the godly, though the world be againſt him, and though his for a while be diſcouraged, becauſe they ſee not things pleaſant to the eye.

[k] That is, God hath ſeven eyes: meaning, a continual providence: ſo that neither Satan nor any power in the world can go about to bring any thing to paſs to hinder his work. chap. 3. 9.

[l] Which were ever green and full of oil, ſo that ſtill they poured forth oil into the lamps: ſignifying that God will continually maintain and preſerve his church, and endue it ſtill with abundance and perfection of graces.

[m] Becauſe the Jews had provoked God's plagues by contemning his word, and caſting off all judgment and equity, he ſheweth that God's curſes written in this book had juſtly light both on them and their fathers: but now if they would repent, God would ſend the ſame among the Chaldeans their former enemies.

[n] That is, uſeth any injury toward his neighbour.

[o] Meaning, whereſoever he be in the world.

[p] He that tranſgreſſeth the firſt table, and ſerveth not God aright, but abuſeth God's name.

[q] Which was a meaſure, in dry things, containing about ten pottles.

[r] That is, all the wickedneſs of the ungodly is in God's ſight, which he keepeth in a meaſure, and can ſhut it or open it at his pleaſure.

[s] To cover the meaſure.

[t] Which repreſenteth iniquity, as in the next verſe.

[u] Signifying, that Satan ſhould not have ſuch power againſt the Jews to tempt them, as he had in time paſt, but that God would ſhut up iniquity in a meaſure, as in a priſon.

[w] Which declared that God would execute his judgments by the means of weak and infirm means.

[x] To remove the iniquity and afflictions that came for the ſame from Judah, to place it for ever in Babylon.

[y] By chariots here, as by horſes afore, he meaneth the ſwift meſſengers of God, to execute and declare his will.

[z] By the braſen mountains he meaneth the eternal counſel and providence of God, whereby he hath from before all eternity decreed what ſhall come to paſs, and that which neither Satan nor all the world can alter.

[a] Which ſignified the great cruelty and perſecutions that the church had endured under divers enemies.

[b] Signifying, that they had endured great afflictions under the Babylonians.

[c] Theſe repreſented their ſtate under the Perſians, which reſtored them to liberty.

[d] Which ſignified that God would ſometime give his church reſt, and pour his plagues upon their enemies, as he did in deſtroying Nineveh and Babylon, and other their enemies.

[e] Meaning, all the actions and motions of God's Spirit, which according to his unchangeable counſel he cauſeth to appear through all the world.

[f] That is, toward Egypt, and other countries thereabout.

[g] That is, they of divers colours, which aſk leave, to ſignify that Satan hath no power to hurt or afflict, till God give it him, Job 1. 12.

Bef. Chr 519. 8 Then cried he upon me, and ſpake unto me, ſaying, Behold, theſe that go toward the north country, have pacified my [h] ſpirit in the north country.

9 And the word of the Lord came unto me, ſaying,

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, and of Tobijah, and Jedaiah, which are come from Babel, and come thou the ſame day, and go unto the houſe [i] of Joſhia, the ſon of Zephaniah.

11 Take even ſilver, and gold, and make crowns, and ſet them upon the [k] head of Joſhua, the ſon of Joſedech the high prieſt,

12 And ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, and ſaith, Behold the man whoſe name is the [l] Branch, and he ſhall grow up [m] out of his place, and he ſhall [n] build the temple of the Lord,

13 Even he ſhall build the temple of the Lord, and he ſhall bear the [o] glory, and ſhall ſit and rule upon his throne, and he ſhall be a prieſt upon his throne, and the counſel of peace ſhall be between them [p] both.

14 And the crowns ſhall be to [q] Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to [r] Hen the ſon of Zephaniah, for a [s] memorial in the temple of the Lord.

15 And they that are [t] far off, ſhall come and build in the temple of the Lord, and ye ſhall know that the Lord of hoſts hath ſent me unto you. And this ſhall come to paſs, if ye will [u] obey the voice of the Lord your God.

CHAP. VII.

5 The true faſting. 11 The rebellion of the people is the cauſe of their affliction.

AND in the fourth year of king Darius, the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in [w] Chiſleu,

2 For [x] they had ſent unto the houſe of God Sharezer, and Regem-melech, and their men to pray before the Lord,

3 And to ſpeak unto the prieſts, which were in the houſe of the Lord of hoſts, and to the prophets, ſaying, Should I [y] weep in the fifth month, and [z] ſeparate myſelf as I have done theſe ſo many [a] years? Bef. Chr. 519.

4 Then came the word of the Lord of hoſts unto me, ſaying,

5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the [b] prieſts, and ſay, When ye faſted, and mourned in the fifth and ſeventh month, even theſe ſeventy years, did ye faſt unto me? [c] do I approve it?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, did ye not eat [d] for yourſelves, and drink for yourſelves?

7 Should ye not hear the words which the Lord [e] hath cried by the miniſtry of the former prophets when Jeruſalem was inhabited, and in proſperity, and the cities thereof round about her, when the South and the plain was inhabited?

8 And the word of the Lord came unto Zechariah, ſaying,

9 Thus ſpeaketh the Lord of hoſts, ſaying, [f] Execute true judgment, and ſhew mercy and compaſſion, every man to his brother:

10 And oppreſs not the widow, nor the fatherleſs, the ſtranger nor the poor, and let none of you imagine evil againſt his brother in your heart.

11 But they refuſed to hearken, and [g] pulled away the ſhoulder, and ſtopped their ears, that they ſhould not hear.

12 Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant ſtone, leſt they ſhould hear the law, and the words which the Lord of hoſts ſent in his [h] Spirit by the miniſtry of the former prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the Lord of hoſts.

13 Therefore it is come to paſs, that as he cried, and they would not hear, ſo they cried, and I would not hear, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

14 But I ſcattered them among all the nations, whom they knew not: thus the land was deſolate

---

[h] By puniſhing the Chaldeans mine anger ceaſed, and you were delivered.

[i] To receive of him and the other three, money to make the two crowns: which were men of great authority among the Jews, and doubted of the reſtitution of the kingdom, and of the prieſthood, and hurt others by their example.

[k] Becauſe this could not be attributed to any one according to the law, therefore it followeth that Joſhua muſt repreſent the Meſſiah, who was both prieſt and king.

[l] Meaning, Chriſt, of whom Joſhua was the figure: for in Greek they were both called Jeſus.

[m] That is, of himſelf without the help of man.

[n] Which declareth that none could build this temple, whereof Haggai ſpeaketh, but only Chriſt: and therefore it was ſpiritual and not material, Haggai 2. 10.

[o] Whereof Joſhua had but a ſhadow.

[p] The two offices of the kingdom and prieſthood ſhall be ſo joined together, that they ſhall no more be diſſevered.

[q] Who was alſo called Heldai.

[r] He was alſo called Joſhia.

[s] That they may acknowledge their infirmity, which looked that all things ſhould have been reſtored incontinently: and of this their infidelity theſe two crowns ſhall remain as tokens, Acts 1. 6.

[t] That is, the Gentiles by the preaching of the goſpel ſhall help toward the building of this ſpiritual temple.

[u] If ye will believe and remain in the obedience of faith.

[w] Which contained part of November and part of December.

[x] That is, the reſt of the people that remained yet in Chaldea, ſent to the church at Jeruſalem for the reſolution of theſe queſtions, becauſe theſe feaſts were conſented upon by the agreement of the whole church, the one in the month that the temple was deſtroyed, and the other when Gedaliah was ſlain. Jer. 41. 2.

[y] By weeping and mourning, appear what exerciſes they uſed in their faſting.

[z] That is, prepare myſelf with all devotion to this faſt.

[a] Which was now ſince the time the temple was deſtroyed.

[b] For there were both of the people and of the prieſts, which doubted as touching this controverſy, beſides them that yet remained in Chaldea, and reaſoned of it, as one of the chief points of their religion.

[c] For they thought they had deſerved toward God, becauſe of this faſt, which they invented of themſelves: and though faſting of itſelf be good, yet becauſe they thought it a ſervice toward God, and truſted therein, it is here reproved.

[d] Did ye not eat and drink for your own commodity and neceſſity? and ſo likewiſe ye did abſtain according to your own fancies, and not after the preſcript of my law.

[e] Hereby he condemneth their hypocriſy, which thought by their faſting to pleaſe God, and by ſuch things as they invented, and in the mean ſeaſon would not ſerve him as he had commanded.

[f] He ſheweth that they did not faſt with a ſincere heart, but for hypocriſy, and that it was not done of a pure religion, becauſe that they lacked theſe offices of charity, which ſhould have declared that they were godly, Matt. 23. 23.

[g] And would not carry the Lord's burden, which was ſweet and eaſy, but would bear their own which was heavy and grievous to the fleſh, thinking to merit thereby: which ſimilitude is taken of oxen, which ſhrink at the yoke, Nehem. 9 29.

[h] Which declareth that they rebelled not only againſt the prophets, but againſt the Spirit of God, that ſpake in them.

Bef. Chr. 519.

ſolate [i] after them, that no man paſſed through nor returned: for they laid the pleaſant land [k] waſte.

CHAP. VIII.

2 Of the return of the people unto Jeruſalem, and of the mercy of God toward them. 16 Of good works. 20 The calling of the Gentiles.

AGAIN, the word of the Lord of hoſts came to me, ſaying,

2 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I was [l] jealous for Zion with great jealouſy, and I was jealous for her with great wrath.

3 Thus ſaith the Lord, I will return unto Zion, and will dwell in the midſt of Jeruſalem: and Jeruſalem ſhall be called a city of truth, and the mountain of the Lord of hoſts, the holy mountain.

4 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, There ſhall yet old [n] men and old women dwell in the ſtreets of Jeruſalem, and every man with his ſtaff in his hand for very age,

5 And the ſtreets of the city ſhall be full of boys and girls, playing in the ſtreets thereof.

6 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Though it be [o] impoſſible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in theſe days, ſhould it therefore be impoſſible in my ſight, ſaith the Lord of hoſts?

7 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Behold I will deliver my people from the eaſt country, and from the weſt country:

8 And I will bring them, and they ſhall [p] dwell in the midſt of Jeruſalem, and they ſhall be my people, and I will be their God in truth, and in righteouſneſs.

9 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, Let your [q] hands be ſtrong, ye that hear in theſe days theſe words by the mouth of the prophets, which were in the day that the foundation of the houſe of the Lord of hoſts was laid, that the temple might be builded.

10 For before theſe days there was no hire for [r] man, nor any hire for beaſt, neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in, becauſe of the affliction: for I ſet all men, every one againſt his neighbour.

11 But now, I will not intreat the reſidue of this people as aforetime, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

12 For the ſeed ſhall be proſperous: the vine ſhall give her fruit, and the ground ſhall give her increaſe, and the heavens ſhall give their dew, and I will cauſe the remnant of this people to poſſeſs all theſe things.

Bef. Chr. 519.

13 And it ſhall come to paſs; that as ye were a curſe among the heathen, O houſe of Judah, and houſe of Iſrael, ſo will I deliver you; and ye ſhall be a bleſſing: fear not, but let your hands be ſtrong:

14 For thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, As I thought to puniſh [s] you, when your fathers provoked me unto wrath, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and repented not,

15 So again have I determined in theſe days [t] to do well unto Jeruſalem, and to the houſe of Judah: fear ye not.

16 Theſe are the things that ye ſhall do, ſpeak ye every man the truth unto his neighbour: execute judgment truly and uprightly in your gates,

17 And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts againſt his neighbour, and love no falſe oath: for all theſe are the things that I hate, ſaith the Lord.

18 And the word of the Lord of hoſts came unto me, ſaying,

19 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, The faſt of the fourth month, and the faſt of the fifth, and the faſt of the ſeventh, and the faſt of the [u] tenth, ſhall be to the houſe of Judah joy and gladneſs, and proſperous high feaſts: therefore love the truth and peace.

20 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, that there ſhall yet come [w] people, and the inhabitants of great cities,

21 And they that dwell in one city, ſhall go to another, ſaying, * Up, let us go and pray before the Lord, and ſeek the Lord of hoſts: I will go alſo.

* Iſa. 2. 2. Micah 4. 2.

22 Yea, great people, and mighty nations ſhall come to ſeek the Lord of hoſts in Jeruſalem, and to pray before the Lord.

23 Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts, in thoſe days ſhall ten men take hold of all languages of the nations, even take hold of the ſkirt of him that is a Jew, and ſay, We will go with you: for we have heard that God is with you.

CHAP. IX.

1 The threatening of the Gentiles. 9 The coming of Chriſt.

THE burden of the word of the Lord in the land of [x] Hadrach: and Damaſcus ſhall be his [y] reſt: when the [z] eyes of man, even of all the tribes of Iſrael ſhall be toward the Lord.

[i] That is, after they were carried captive.

[k] By their ſins, whereby they provoked God to anger.

[l] I loved my city with a ſingular love, ſo that I could not abide that any ſhould do her any injury.

[m] Becauſe ſhe ſhall be faithful and loyal toward me her huſband.

[n] Though their enemies did greatly moleſt and trouble them, yet God would come and dwell among them, and ſo preſerve them ſo long as nature would ſuffer them to live, and increaſe their children in great abundance.

[o] He ſheweth wherein our faith ſtandeth, that is, to believe that God can perform that which he hath promiſed, though it ſeem never ſo impoſſible to man. Rom. 4. 20. Gen. 18. 14.

[p] So that their return ſhall not be in vain: for God will accompliſh his promiſe, and their proſperity ſhall be ſure and ſtable.

[q] Let neither reſpect of your private commodities, neither counſel of others, nor fear of enemies diſcourage you in the going forward with the building of the temple, but be conſtant, and obey the prophets which encourage you thereunto.

[r] For God curſed your work ſo, that neither man nor beaſt had profit of their labours.

[s] Read Ezek. 18. 20.

[t] Which declareth that man cannot turn to God till he change man's heart by his Spirit, and ſo begin to do well, which is to pardon his ſins, and to give him his graces.

[u] Which faſt was appointed when the city was beſieged, and was the firſt faſt of theſe four: and here the prophet ſheweth, that if the Jews will repent and turn wholly to God, they ſhall have no more occaſion to faſt, or to ſhew ſigns of heavineſs: for God will ſend them joy and gladneſs.

[w] He declareth the great zeal that God ſhould give the Gentiles to come to his church, and to join with the Jews in his true religion, which ſhould be in the kingdom of Chriſt.

[x] Whereby he meaneth Syria.

[y] God's anger ſhall abide upon their chief city, and not ſpare ſo much as that.

[z] When the Jews ſhall convert and repent, then God will deſtroy their enemies.

Bef. Chr. 587. 2 And Hamath alſo ſhall border [a] thereby: Tyrus alſo and Zidon, though they be [b] very wiſe.

3 For Tyrus did build herſelf a ſtrong hold, and heaped up ſilver as the duſt, and gold as the mire of the ſtreets.

4 Behold, the Lord will ſpoil her, and he will ſmite her [c] power in the ſea, and ſhe ſhall be devoured with fire.

5 Aſhkelon ſhall ſee it, and fear, and Azzah alſo ſhall be very ſorrowful, and Ekron: for her countenance ſhall be aſhamed, and the king ſhall periſh from Azzah, and Aſhkelon ſhall not be inhabited.

6 And the [d] ſtranger ſhall dwell in Aſhdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philiſtines.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his [e] teeth: but he that remaineth, even he ſhall be for our God, and he ſhall be as a prince in Judah, but [f] Ekron ſhall be as a Jebuſite.

8 And I will camp about [g] mine houſe againſt the army, againſt him that paſſeth by, and againſt him that returneth, and no oppreſſor ſhall come upon them any more: for now [h] have I ſeen with mine eyes.

9 Rejoice greatly, O daughter Zion, ſhout for joy, O daughter Jeruſalem, behold thy king cometh unto thee: [i] he is juſt, and ſaved himſelf, poor and riding upon [k] an aſs, and upon a colt the foal of an aſs.

10 And I will cut off the chariots from Ephraim, and the horſe from Jeruſalem: the bow of the battle ſhall be broken, and he ſhall ſpeak peace unto the heathen, and his dominion ſhall be from [m] ſea unto ſea, and from the [n] river to the end of the land.

11 [o] Thou alſo ſhalt be ſaved through the blood of thy covenant: I have looſed thy [p] priſoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turn you to the [q] ſtrong hold, ye [r] priſoners of hope: even to-day do I declare, that I will render the [s] double unto thee:

13 For Judah have I [t] bent as a bow for me: Ephraim's hand have I filled, and I have raiſed up thy ſons, O Zion, againſt thy ſons, O Greece, and have made thee as a giant's ſword. Bef. Chr. 587.

14 And the Lord ſhall be ſeen over them, and his arrow ſhall go forth as the lightning: and the Lord God ſhall blow the trumpet, and ſhall come forth with the whirlwinds of the South.

15 The Lord of hoſts ſhall defend them, and they ſhall devour them, [u] and ſubdue them with ſling-ſtones, and they ſhall drink, and make a noiſe as through wine, and they ſhall be filled like bowls, and as the horns of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God ſhall deliver them in that day as the flock of his people: for they ſhall be as the [w] ſtones of the crown lifted up upon his land:

17 For how great is his goodneſs! and how great is his beauty! corn ſhall make the young men chearful, and new wine the maids.

CHAP. X.

1 The vanity of idolatry. 3 The Lord promiſeth to viſit and comfort the houſe of Iſrael.

ASK you of the [x] Lord rain in the time of the latter rain: ſo ſhall the Lord make white clouds, and give you ſhowers of rain, and to every one graſs in the field.

2 Surely [y] the idols have ſpoken vanity, and the ſoothſayers have ſeen a lye, and the dreamers have told a vain thing: they comfort in vain: therefore [z] they went away as ſheep: they were troubled, becauſe there was no ſhepherd.

3 My wrath was kindled againſt the ſhepherds, and I did viſit the [a] goats: but the Lord of hoſts will viſit his flock, the houſe of Judah, and will make them as [b] his beautiful horſe in the battle.

---

[a] That is, by Damaſcus, meaning, that Hamath or Antiochia ſhould be under the ſame rod and plague.

[b] He ſecretly ſheweth the cauſe of their deſtruction, becauſe they deceived all other by their craft and ſubtility, which they cloaked with this name of wiſdom.

[c] Though they of Tyrus think themſelves invincible by reaſon of the ſea, that compaſſeth them round about, yet they ſhall not eſcape God's judgments.

[d] Meaning, that all ſhould be deſtroyed ſave a very few, that ſhould remain as ſtrangers.

[e] He promiſeth to deliver the Jews when he ſhall take vengeance on their enemies for their cruelty, and wrongs done to them.

[f] As the Jebuſites had been deſtroyed, ſo ſhould Ekron and all the Philiſtines.

[g] He ſheweth that God's power only ſhall be ſufficient to defend his church againſt all adverſaries, be they never ſo cruel, or aſſemble their power never ſo often.

[h] That is, God hath now ſeen the great injuries and afflictions wherewith they have been afflicted by their enemies.

[i] That is, he hath righteouſneſs and ſalvation in himſelf for the uſe and commodities of his church.

[k] Which declareth that they ſhould not look for ſuch a king as ſhould be glorious in the eyes of man, bnt ſhould be poor, and yet in himſelf have all power to deliver his: and this is meant of Chriſt, as Matt. 21. 5.

[l] No power of man or creature ſhall be able to let this kingdom of Chriſt, and he ſhall peaceably govern them by his ſword.

[m] That is, from the Red ſea, to the ſea called Syriacum: and by theſe places which the Jews knew, he meaneth an infinite ſpace and compaſs over the whole world.

[n] That is, from Euphrates.

[o] Meaning, Jeruſalem, or the church which is ſaved by the blood of Chriſt, whereof the blood of the ſacrifices was a figure, and is here called the covenant of the church, becauſe God made it with his church, and left it with them for the love that he bare unto them.

[p] God ſheweth that he will deliver his church out of all dangers, ſeem they never ſo great.

[q] That is, into the holy land, where the city and the temple are, where God will defend you.

[r] Meaning, the faithful, which ſeemed to be in danger of their enemies on every ſide, and yet lived in hope that God would reſtore them to liberty.

[s] That is, double benefits and proſperity, in reſpect of that which your fathers enjoyed from David's time to the captivity.

[t] I will make Judah and Ephraim, that is, my whole church, victorious againſt all enemies, which he here meaneth by the Grecians.

[u] He promiſeth that the Jews ſhall deſtroy their enemies, and have abundance and exceſs of all things, as there is abundance on the altar when the ſacrifice is offered: which things are not to move them to intemperance, but to ſobriety and a thankful remembrance of God's great liberality.

[w] The faithful ſhall be preſerved and reverenced of all, that the very enemies ſhall be compelled to eſteem them: for God's glory ſhall ſhine in them, as Joſephus declareth of Alexander the Great when he met Jadi the high prieſt.

[x] The prophet reproveth the Jews, becauſe by their own infidelity they put back God's graces promiſed, and ſo famine came by God's juſt judgment: therefore to avoid this plague he willeth them to turn to God, and to pray in faith to him, and ſo he will give them abundance.

[y] He calleth to remembrance God's puniſhments in times paſt, becauſe they truſted not in him, but in their idols and ſorcerers, who ever deceived them.

[z] That is, the Jews went into captivity.

[a] Meaning, the cruel governors, which did oppreſs the poor ſheep, Ezek. 34. 16, 17.

[b] He will be merciful to his church, and cheriſh them as a king or prince doth his beſt horſe, which ſhall be for his own uſe in the war.

4 Out [c] of him ſhall the corner come forth: out of him the nail, out of him the bow of battle, and out of him every [d] appointer of tribute alſo.

5 And they ſhall be as the mighty men, which tread down their enemies in the mire of the ſtreets in the battle, and they ſhall fight, becauſe the Lord is with them, and the riders on horſes ſhall be confounded.

6 And I will ſtrengthen the houſe of Judah, and I will preſerve the houſe [e] of Joſeph, and I will bring them again, for I pity them: and they ſhall be as though I had not caſt them off: for I am the Lord their God, and will hear them.

7 And they of Ephraim ſhall be as a giant, and their heart ſhall rejoice as through wine: yea, their children ſhall ſee it, and be glad: and their heart ſhall rejoice in the Lord.

8 I will [f] hiſs for them, and gather them, for I have redeemed them: and they ſhall increaſe, as they have increaſed.

9 And I will [g] ſow them among the people, and they ſhall remember me in far countries: and they ſhall live with their children and [h] turn again.

10 I will bring them again alſo out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Aſſhur: and I will bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon, and place ſhall not be found for them.

11 And he [i] ſhall go into the ſea with affliction, and ſhall ſmite the waves in the ſea, and all the depths of the river ſhall dry up: and the pride of Aſſhur ſhall be caſt down, and the ſcepter of Egypt ſhall depart away.

12 And I will ſtrengthen them in the Lord, and they ſhall walk in his name, ſaith the Lord.

CHAP. XI.

1 The deſtruction of the temple. 4 The care of the faithful is committed to Chriſt. 7 A grievous viſion againſt Jeruſalem and Judah.

OPEN thy doors, O [k] Lebanon, and the fire ſhall devour thy cedars.

2 Howl, [l] fir-trees: for the cedar is fallen, becauſe all the mighty are deſtroyed: howl ye, O oaks of Baſhan, for the [m] defenced foreſt is cut down.

3 There is the voice of the howling of the ſhepherds, for their [n] glory is deſtroyed: the voice of the roaring of lions whelps, for the pride of Jordan is deſtroyed.

4 Thus ſaith the Lord my God, Feed the ſheep of the [o] ſlaughter.

5 They that poſſeſs them, ſlay them [p] and ſin not: and they that ſell them, ſay, [q] Bleſſed be the Lord, for I am rich, and their own ſhepherds ſpare them not.

6 Surely I will no more ſpare thoſe that dwell in the land, ſaith the Lord: but lo, [r] I will deliver the men every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his [s] king: and they ſhall ſmite the land, and out of their hands I will not deliver them.

7 For I fed the ſheep of ſlaughter, even the [t] poor of the flock, and I took unto me [u] two ſtaves: the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands, and I fed the ſheep.

8 [w] Three ſhepherds alſo I cut off in one month, and my ſoul loathed [x] them, and their ſoul abhorred me.

9 Then ſaid I, I will not feed you: that that dieth, let it die: and that that periſheth, let it periſh: and let the remnant eat, every one the fleſh of his neighbour.

10 And I took my ſtaff, even Beauty, and brake it, that I might diſanul my covenant, which I had made with all people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and ſo the [y] poor of the ſheep that waited upon me knew that it was the word of the Lord.

12 And I ſaid unto them, If ye think it good, give me my [z] wages: and if not, leave off: ſo they weighed for my wages thirty pieces of ſilver.

13 And the Lord ſaid unto me, Caſt it unto the [a] potter: a goodly price, that I was valued at of them: And I took the thirty pieces of ſilver, and caſt them to the potter in the houſe of the Lord.

14 Then brake I mine other ſtaff, even the Bands, that I might diſſolve the brotherhood between Judah and Iſrael.

---

[c] Out of Judah ſhall the chief governor proceed, who ſhall be as a corner to uphold the building, and as a nail to faſten it together.

[d] Over their enemies.

[e] That is, the ten tribes, which ſhould be gathered under Chriſt, to the reſt of the church.

[f] Whereby he declareth the power of God, who needeth no great preparation, when he will deliver his: for with a beck or hiſs he can call them from all places ſuddenly.

[g] Though they ſhall yet be ſcattered and ſeem to be loſt, yet it ſhall be profitable unto them: for there they ſhall come to the knowledge of my name, which was accompliſhed under the goſpel among whom it was firſt preached.

[h] Not that they ſhould return into their country, but be gathered and joined in one faith, by the doctrine of the goſpel.

[i] He alludeth to the deliverance of the people out of Egypt, when the angel ſmote the floods and rivers.

[k] Becauſe the Jews thought themſelves ſo ſtrong by reaſon of this mountain, that no enemy could come to hurt them, the prophet ſheweth, that when God ſendeth the enemies, it ſhall ſhew itſelf ready to receive them.

[l] Shewing that if the ſtrong men were deſtroyed, the weaker were not able to reſiſt.

[m] Seeing that Lebanon was deſtroyed, which was the ſtrongeſt munition, the weaker places could not think to hold out.

[n] That is, the renown of Judah and Iſrael ſhould periſh.

[o] Which being now deſtined to be ſlain, were delivered as out of the lion's mouth.

[p] Their governors deſtroy them without any remorſe of conſcience, or yet thinking that they do evil.

[q] He noteth the hypocrites, which ever have the name of God in their mouths, though in their life and doings they deny God, attributing their gain to God's bleſſings, which cometh of the ſpoil of their brethren.

[r] I will cauſe one to deſtroy another.

[s] Their governors ſhall execute cruelty over them.

[t] That is, the ſmall remnant whom he thought worthy to ſhew mercy unto.

[u] God ſheweth his great benefits toward his people, to convince them of greater ingratitude, which would neither be ruled by his moſt beautiful order of government, neither continue in the bands of brotherly unities, and therefore he breaketh both the one and the other. Some read, for bands, deſtroyers; but in the fourteenth verſe the firſt reading is confirmed.

[w] Whereby he ſheweth his care and diligence, that he would ſuffer them to have no evil rulers, becauſe they ſhould conſider his great love.

[x] Meaning, the people, becauſe they would not acknowledge theſe great benefits of God.

[y] He ſheweth that the leaſt part ever profit by God's judgments.

[z] Beſides their ingratitude, God accuſeth them of malice and wickedneſs, which did not only forget his benefits, but eſteemed them as things of nought.

[a] Shewing, that it was too little to pay his wages, which could ſcarce ſuffice to make a few tiles for to cover the temple.

Bef. Chr. 587.

15 And the Lord ſaid unto me, Take to thee yet the [b] inſtruments of a fooliſh ſhepherd.

16 For lo, I will raiſe up a ſhepherd in the land, which ſhall not look for the thing that is loſt, nor ſeek the tender lambs, nor heal that that is hurt, nor feed that that [c] ſtandeth up: but he ſhall eat the fleſh of the fat, and tear their claws in pieces.

17 O idol ſhepherd that leaveth the flock: the ſword ſhall be upon his [d] arm, and upon his right eye. His arm ſhall be clean dried up, and his right eye ſhall be utterly darkened.

CHAP. XII.

Of the deſtruction and building again of Jeruſalem.

THE burden of the word of the Lord upon [e] Iſrael, ſaith the Lord, which ſpread the heavens, and laid the foundation of the earth and formed the ſpirit of man within him.

2 Behold, I will make Jeruſalem a [f] cup of poiſon unto all the people round about: and alſo with Judah will he be, in the ſiege againſt Jeruſalem.

3 And in that day I will make Jeruſalem an heavy ſtone for all people: all that lift it up, ſhall be torn, though all the people of the earth be gathered together againſt it.

4 In that day, ſaith the Lord, will I ſmite every horſe with aſtoniſhment, and his rider with madneſs, and I will open mine eyes upon the houſe of Judah, and will ſmite every horſe of the people with blindneſs.

5 And the princes of Judah ſhall ſay in their hearts, The [g] inhabitants of Jeruſalem ſhall be my ſtrength in the Lord of hoſts their God.

6 In that day will I make the princes of Judah like coals of fire among the wood, and like a firebrand in the ſheaf, and they ſhall devour all the people round about on the right hand and on the left: and Jeruſalem ſhall be inhabited again in her own place, even in Jeruſalem.

7 The Lord alſo ſhall preſerve the [h] tents of Judah, as aforetime: therefore the glory of the houſe of David ſhall not boaſt, nor the glory of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem againſt Judah.

8 In that day ſhall the Lord defend the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and he that is feeble among them in that day ſhall be as David: and the houſe of David ſhall be as God's houſe, and as the angel of the Lord before them.

Bef. Chr. 587.

9 And in that day will I ſeek to deſtroy all the nations that come againſt Jeruſalem.

10 And I will pour upon the houſe of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, the Spirit of [i] grace and of compaſſion, and they ſhall look upon me whom they have [k] pierced, and they ſhall lament for [l] him, as one mourneth for his only ſon, and be ſorry for him as one is ſorry for his firſt born.

11 In that day ſhall there be a great mourning in Jeruſalem, as the [m] mourning of [n] Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the [o] land ſhall bewail, every family [p] apart: the family of the [q] houſe of David apart, and their wives apart: the family of the houſe of Nathan apart, and their wives apart:

13 The family of the houſe of Levi apart, and their wives apart: the family [r] of Shimei apart, and their wives apart:

14 All the families that [s] remain, every family apart, and their wives apart.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Of the fountain of grace. 2 Of the clean riddance of idolatry. 3 The zeal of the godly againſt falſe prophets.

IN that day there [t] ſhall be a fountain opened to the houſe of David, and to the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, for ſin and for uncleanneſs.

2 And in that day, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I will cut off the [u] names of the idols out of the land: and they ſhall no more be remembered: and I will cauſe the [w] prophets and the unclean ſpirit to depart out of the land.

3 And when any ſhall yet [x] propheſy, his father and his mother that begat him, ſhall ſay unto him, Thou ſhalt not live, for thou ſpeakeſt lyes in the name of the Lord: and his father and his mother that begat him, [y] ſhall thruſt him through, when he propheſieth.

4 And in that day ſhall the prophets be [z] aſhamed

---

[b] Signifying, that they ſhould have a certain kind of regiment and outward ſhew of government: but in effect, it ſhould be nothing: for they ſhould be wolves and devouring beaſts inſtead of ſhepherds.

[c] And is in health and ſound.

[d] By the arm he ſignifieth ſtrength, as he doth wiſdom and judgment by the eye: that is, the plague of God ſhall take away both thy ſtrength and judgment.

[e] That is, the ten tribes, which neglected God's benefit in delivering their brethren, and had rather remain in captivity than to return home, when God called them.

[f] Jeruſalem ſhall be defended againſt all her enemies: ſo ſhall God defend all Judah, and ſhall deſtroy the enemies.

[g] Every captain that had many under him afore, ſhall now think that the ſmall power of Jeruſalem ſhall be ſufficient to defend them againſt all enemies, becauſe the Lord is among them.

[h] The people which are now as it were diſperſed by the fields, and lie open to their enemies, ſhall be no leſs preſerved by my power, then if they were under their kings, (which is meant by the houſe of David) or in their defenced cities..

[i] They ſhall have the feeling of my grace by faith, and know that I have compaſſion on them.

[k] That is, whom they have continually vexed with their obſtinacy, and grieved my Spirit, John 19. 37. where it is referred to Chriſt's body, which here is referred to the Spirit of God.

[l] They ſhall turn to God by true repentance, whom before they had ſo grievouſly offended by their ingratitude.

[m] They ſhall lament and repent exceedingly for their offences againſt God.

[n] Which was the name of a town and place near to Megiddo, where Joſiah was ſlain, 2 Chron. 35. 22.

[o] That is, in all places where the Jews ſhall remain.

[p] Signifying that this mourning or repentance ſhould not be a vain ceremony: but every one touched with his own grief ſhall lament.

[q] Under theſe certain families he containeth all the tribes, and ſheweth that both the kings and the prieſts had by their ſins pierced Chriſt.

[r] Called alſo Simeon.

[s] To wit, which were elect by grace, and preſerved from the common deſtruction.

[t] He ſheweth what ſhall be the fruit of their repentance, to wit, remiſſion of ſins, by the blood of Chriſt, which ſhall be a continual running fountain and purge them from all uncleanneſs.

[u] He promiſeth that God will alſo purge them from all ſuperſtition, and that their religion ſhall be pure.

[w] Meaning, the falſe prophets and teachers, who are the corrupters of all religion, whom the prophet here calleth unclean ſpirits.

[x] That is, when they ſhall propheſy lyes, and make God, who is the author of truth, a cloak thereunto.

[y] He ſheweth what zeal the godly ſhall have under the kingdom of Chriſt, Deut. 13. 6, 9.

[z] God ſhall make them aſhamed of their errors and lyes, and bring them to repentance: and they ſhall no more wear prophets apparel to make their doctrine ſeem more holy.

Bef. Chr. 587.

aſhamed every one of his viſion, when he hath propheſied: neither ſhall they wear a rough garment to deceive.

5 But he ſhall ſay, I am no [a] prophet: I am an huſbandman: for man taught me to be an herdſman from my youth up.

6 And one ſhall ſay unto him, What are theſe [b] wounds in thine hands? Then ſhall he anſwer, Thus was I wounded in the houſe of my friends.

7 ¶ Ariſe, O ſword, upon my [c] ſhepherd, and upon the man that is my fellow, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: ſmite the ſhepherd, and the ſheep ſhall be ſcattered: and I will turn mine hand upon the little ones.

8 And in all the land, ſaith the Lord, [d] two parts therein ſhall be cut off, and die: but the third ſhall be left therein.

9 And I will bring that third part through the fire, and will fine them as the ſilver is fined. and will try them as gold is tried: they ſhall call on my name, and I will hear them: I will ſay, It is my people: and they ſhall ſay: The Lord is my God.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Of the doctrine that ſhall proceed out of the church, and of the reſtoration thereof.

BEHOLD, the day of the Lord cometh, and thy ſpoil ſhall be [e] divided in the midſt of thee.

2 For I will gather all nations againſt Jeruſalem to battle, and the city ſhall be taken, and the houſes ſpoiled, and the women defiled, and half of the city ſhall go into captivity, and the reſidue of the people ſhall not be cut off from the city.

3 Then ſhall the Lord God go forth, and fight againſt thoſe nations, as when he [f] fought in the day of battle.

4 And his feet ſhall ſtand in that day upon the [g] mount of Olives, which is before Jeruſalem on the eaſt ſide, and the mount of Olives ſhall cleave in the midſt thereof: toward the Eaſt and toward the Weſt there ſhall be a very great [h] valley, and half of the mountain ſhall remove toward the North, and half of the mountain toward the South.

5 And ye ſhall flee unto the [i] valley of the mountains: for the valley of the mountains ſhall reach unto Azal: yea, ye ſhall flee like as ye fled from the [k] earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: and the Lord [l] my God ſhall come, and all the ſaints with thee.

Bef. Chr. 587.

6 And in that day ſhall there be no clear light, but dark.

7 And there ſhall be a day (it is known to the Lord) [m] neither day nor night, but about the evening time it ſhall be light.

8 And in that day ſhall there [n] waters of life go out from Jeruſalem, half of them toward the eaſt ſea, and half of them toward the uttermoſt ſea, and ſhall be both in ſummer and winter.

9 And the Lord ſhall be king over all the earth: in that day ſhall there be one [o] Lord, and his name ſhall be one.

10 All the land ſhall be turned [p] as a plain from Geba to Rimmon, toward the ſouth of Jeruſalem, and it ſhall be lifted up, and inhabited in her place: from Benjamin's gate unto the place of the firſt gate, unto the corner gate, and from the tower of Hananeel, unto the king's wine-preſſes.

11 And men ſhall dwell in it, and there ſhall be no more deſtruction, but Jeruſalem ſhall be ſafely inhabited.

12 And this ſhall be the plague, wherewith the Lord will ſmite all people that have fought againſt Jeruſalem: their fleſh ſhall conſume away, though they ſtand upon their feet, and their eyes ſhall conſume in their holes, and their tongues ſhall conſume in their mouth.

13 But in that day [q] a great tumult of the Lord ſhall be among them, and every one ſhall take [r] the hand of his neighbour, and his hand ſhall riſe up againſt the hand of his neighbour.

14 And Judah ſhall fight againſt Jeruſalem, and the arm of the heathen ſhall be gathered round about, with [s] gold and ſilver, and great abundance of apparel.

15 Yet this ſhall be the plague of the horſe, of the mule, of the camel, and of the aſs, and of all the beaſts that be in theſe tents as this [t] plague.

16 But it ſhall come to paſs that every one that is left of all the nations, which came againſt Jeruſalem, ſhall go up from year to year to worſhip the King the Lord of hoſts, and to keep the feaſt of tabernacles.

---

[a] They ſhall confeſs their former ignorance, and be content to labour for their living.

[b] Hereby he ſheweth, that though their parents and friends dealt more gently with them and put them not to death, yet they would ſo puniſh their children that became falſe prophets, that the marks and ſigns ſhould remain for ever.

[c] The prophet warneth the Jews, that before this great comfort ſhall come under Chriſt, there ſhould be an horrible diſſipation among the people: for their governors and paſtors ſhould be deſtroyed, and the people ſhould be as ſcattered ſheep: and the evangeliſt applieth this to Chriſt, becauſe he was the head of all paſtors, Matt. 26. 31.

[d] The greateſt part ſhall have no portion of theſe bleſſings, and yet they that ſhall enjoy them ſhall be tried with great afflictions, ſo that it ſhall be known that only God's power and his mercies do preſerve them.

[e] He armeth the godly againſt the great temptations that ſhould come before they enjoyed this proſperous eſtate, promiſed under Chriſt, that when theſe dangers ſhould come, they might know that they were warned of them before.

[f] As your fathers and you have had experience, both at the Red ſea, and at all other times.

[g] By this manner of ſpeech the prophet ſheweth God's power and care over his church, and how he will as it were by miracle ſave it.

[h] So that out of all the parts of the world they ſhall ſee Jeruſalem, which was before hid with this mountain: and this he meaneth of the ſpiritual Jeruſalem the church.

[i] He ſpeaketh of the hypocrites, which could not abide God's preſence, but ſhould flee into all places, where they might hide them among the mountains.

[k] Read Amos 1. 1.

[l] Becauſe they did not credit the prophet's words, he turneth to God and comforteth himſelf in that that he knew that theſe things ſhould come, and ſaith, Thou, O God, with thine angels, wilt come to perform this great thing.

[m] Signifying, that there ſhould be great troubles in the church, and that the time hereof is in the Lord's hands, yet at length (which is here meant by the evening) God would ſend comfort.

[n] That is, the ſpiritual graces of God, which ſhould ever continue in moſt abundance.

[o] All idolatry and ſuperſtition ſhall be aboliſhed, and there ſhall be one God, one faith, and one religion.

[p] This new Jeruſalem ſhall be ſeen through all the world, and ſhall excel the firſt in excellency, wealth, and greatneſs.

[q] God will not only raiſe up war without, but ſedition at home, to try them.

[r] To hurt and oppreſs him.

[s] The enemies are rich, and therefore ſhall not come for a prey, but to deſtroy and ſhed blood.

[t] As the men ſhould be deſtroyed, ver. 12.

Bef. Chr. 587. 17 And whoſo will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jeruſalem to worſhip the King the Lord of hoſts, even upon them ſhall come no rain.

18 And if the family of [u] Egypt go not up, and come not, it ſhall not rain upon them. This ſhall be the plague wherewith the Lord will ſmite all the heathen, that come not up to keep the feaſt of tabernacles.

19 This ſhall be the puniſhment of Egypt, and the puniſhment of all the nations that come not up to keep the feaſt of tabernacles.

20 In that day there ſhall be written upon the [w] bridles of the horſes, The holineſs unto the Lord, and the [x] pots in the Lord's houſe ſhall be like the bowls before the altar. Bef. Chr. 587.

21 Yea, every pot in Jeruſalem and Judah ſhall be holy unto the Lord of hoſts: and all they that ſacrifice, ſhall come and take of them, and ſeethe therein: and in that day there ſhall be no more the [y] Canaanite in the houſe of the Lord of hoſts.

---

[u] By the Egyptians, which were greateſt enemies to true religion, he meaneth all the Gentiles.

[w] Signifying, that to what ſervice they were put now (whether to labour, or to ſerve in war) they were now holy, becauſe the Lord had ſanctified them.

[x] As precious the one as the other, becauſe they ſhall be ſanctified.

[y] But all ſhould be pure and clean, and there ſhall neither be hypocrite, nor any that ſhall corrupt the true ſervice of God.

MALACHI.

THE ARGUMENT.

This prophet was one of the three which God raiſed up for the comfort of his church after the captivity, and after him there was no more until John Baptiſt was ſent, which was either a token of God's wrath, or an admonition that they ſhould with more fervent deſires look for the coming of Meſſiah. He confirmeth the ſame doctrine that the two former do, but chiefly he reproveth the prieſts for their covetouſneſs, and for that they ſerved God after their own fancies, and not according to the preſcript of his word. He alſo noteth certain peculiar ſins, which were then among them, as marrying of idolatrous and many wives, murmurings againſt God, impatience, and ſuch like. Notwithſtanding, for the comfort of the godly, he declareth that God would not forget his promiſe made unto their fathers, but would ſend Chriſt his meſſenger, in whom the covenant ſhould be accompliſhed, whoſe coming ſhould be terrible to the wicked, and bring all conſolation and joy unto the godly.

Bef. Chr. 397.

CHAP. I.

A complaint againſt Iſrael, and chiefly the prieſts.

THE [a] burden of the word of the Lord to Iſrael by the miniſtry of Malachi.

2 I have loved you, ſaith the Lord: yet ye ſay, [b] Wherein haſt thou loved us? Was not Eſau Jacob's brother, ſaith the Lord? yet I loved Jacob,

3 And I [c] hated Eſau, and made his mountains waſte, and his heritage a wilderneſs for dragons.

4 Though Edom ſay, We are impoveriſhed, but we will return and build the deſolate places, yet ſaith the Lord of hoſts, They ſhall build, but I will deſtroy it: and they ſhall call them, The border of wickedneſs, and the people with whom the Lord is angry for ever.

5 And your eyes ſhall ſee it, and ye ſhall ſay, The Lord will be magnified upon the border of Iſrael.

6 A ſon honoureth his father, and a ſervant his maſter. If then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a maſter, where is my fear, ſaith the Lord of hoſts unto you, [d] O prieſts, that deſpiſe my name? and ye ſay, [e] Wherein have we deſpiſed thy name? Bef. Chr. 397.

7 Ye offer [f] unclean bread upon mine altar, and you ſay, Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye ſay, The table of the Lord is not [g] to be regarded.

8 And if ye offer the blind for ſacrifice, it is not [h] evil: and if ye offer the lame and ſick, it is not evil: offer it now unto thy prince: will he be content with thee, or accept thy perſon, ſaith the Lord of hoſts?

9 And now, I pray you, [i] pray before God, that he may have mercy upon us: this hath been by your means: will he regard your [k] perſons, ſaith the Lord of hoſts?

---

[a] Read Iſa. 13. 1.

[b] Which declareth their great ingratitude that did not acknowledge this love, which was ſo evident in that he choſe Abraham from out of all the world, and next, choſe Jacob the younger brother, of whom they came, and left Eſau the elder.

[c] For beſides that the ſigns of my hatred appeared, even when he was made ſervant unto his younger brother, being yet in his mother's belly, and alſo afterward in that he was put from his birthright, yet even now before your eyes the ſigns hereof are evident, in that his country lieth waſte, and he ſhall never return to inhabit it, whereas ye my people, whom the enemy hated more than them, are by my grace and love toward you delivered, read Rom. 9. 13.

[d] Beſides the reſt of the people he condemneth the prieſts chiefly, becauſe they ſhould have reproved others for their hypocriſy and obſtinacy againſt God, and not have hardened them by their example to greater evils.

[e] He noteth their groſs hypocriſy, which would not ſee their faults, but moſt impudently covered them, and ſo were blind guides.

[f] Ye receive all manner of offerings for your own greedineſs, and do not examine whether they be according to my law or no.

[g] Not that they ſaid thus, but by their doings they declared no leſs.

[h] You make it no fault: whereby he condemneth them that think it ſufficient to ſerve God, partly, as he hath commanded, and partly, after man's fancy, and ſo come not to that pureneſs of religion which he requireth, and therefore, in reproach, he ſheweth them that a mortal man would not be content to be ſo ſerved.

[i] He derideth the prieſts, who bare the people in hand that they prayed for them, and ſheweth that they were the occaſion that theſe evils came upon the people.

[k] Will God conſider your office and ſtate, ſeeing you are ſo covetous and wicked?

10 Who is there even among you [l] that would ſhut the doors, and kindle not fire on mine altar in vain? I have no pleaſure in you, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For from the riſing of the ſun unto the going down of the ſame, my name is [m] great among the Gentiles, and in every place incenſe ſhall be offered unto my name and a pure offering: for my name is great among the heathen, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

12 But ye have polluted it, in that ye ſay, The table of the Lord is [n] polluted, and the fruit thereof, even his meat is not to be regarded.

13 Ye ſaid alſo, Behold, it is a [o] wearineſs, and ye have ſnuffed at it, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and ye offered that which was torn, and the lame and the ſick: thus ye offered an offering: ſhould I accept this of your hand, ſaith the Lord?

14 But curſed be the deceiver, which hath in his flock [p] a male, and voweth and ſacrificeth unto the Lord a corrupt thing: for I am a great king, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and my name is terrible among the heathen.

CHAP. II.

Threatenings againſt the prieſts, being the ſeducers of the people.

AND now, O ye [q] prieſts, this commandment is for you.

2 If ye will not hear it, nor conſider it in your heart, to give glory [r] unto my name, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, I will even ſend a curſe upon you, and will curſe your [s] bleſſings: yea, I have curſed them already, becauſe ye do not conſider it in your heart.

3 Behold, I will corrupt [t] your ſeed, and caſt dung upon your faces, even the [u] dung of your ſolemn feaſts, and you ſhall be like unto it.

4 And ye ſhall know that I have [w] ſent this commandment unto you, that my covenant, which I made with Levi might ſtand, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

5 My [x] covenant was with him of life and peace: and I [y] gave him fear, and he feared me, and was afraid before [z] my name.

6 The law of [a] truth was in his mouth, and there was no iniquity found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did turn many away from iniquity:

7 For the prieſts [b] lips ſhould preſerve knowledge, and they ſhould ſeek the law at his mouth: for he is the [c] meſſenger of the Lord of hoſts.

8 But ye are gone out of the way: ye have cauſed many to fall by the law: ye have broken the covenant of Levi, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

9 Therefore have I alſo made you to be deſpiſed, and vile before all the people, becauſe ye kept not my ways, but have been partial in the law.

10 Have we not all one [d] father? hath not one God made us? why do we tranſgreſs every one againſt his brother, and break the covenant of [e] our fathers?

11 Judah hath tranſgreſſed, and an abomination is committed in Iſrael and in Jeruſalem: for Judah hath defiled the holineſs of the Lord, which he loved, and hath married the [f] daughter of a ſtrange god.

12 The Lord will cut off the man that doth this: both the maſter and the ſervant out of the tabernacle of Jacob, and him that [g] offereth an offering unto the Lord of hoſts.

13 And this have ye done again, and [h] covered the altar of the Lord with tears, with weeping and with mourning: becauſe the offering is no more regarded, neither received acceptably at your hands.

14 Yet ye ſay, [i] Wherein? Becauſe the Lord hath been witneſs between thee and the wife of thy youth, againſt whom thou haſt tranſgreſſed: yet is ſhe thy [k] companion, and the wife of thy [l] covenant.

---

[l] Becauſe the Levites, who kept the doors, did not try whether the ſacrifices that came in, were according to the law, God wiſheth that they would rather ſhut the doors, than to receive ſuch as were not perfect.

[m] God ſheweth that their ingratitude, and neglect of his true ſervice, ſhall be the cauſe of the calling of the Gentiles: and here the prophet that was under the law framed his words to the capacity of the people, and by the altar and ſacrifice he meaneth the ſpiritual ſervice of God which ſhould be under the goſpel, when an end ſhall be made to all theſe legal ceremonies by Chriſt's only ſacrifice.

[n] Both the prieſts and the people were infected with this error, that they paſſed not what they offered: for they thought that God was as well content with the lean as with the fat: but in the mean ſeaſon they ſhewed not that obedience to God which he required, and ſo committed both impiety, and alſo ſhewed their contempt of God, and covetouſneſs.

[o] The prieſts and people were both weary with ſerving God, and paſſed not what manner of ſacrifice and ſervice they gave to God, for that which was leaſt profitable, was thought good enough for the Lord.

[p] That is, hath ability to ſerve the Lord according to his word, and yet will ſerve him according to his covetous mind.

[q] He ſpeaketh unto them chiefly, but under them he containeth the people alſo.

[r] To ſerve me according to my word.

[s] That is, the abundance of God's benefits.

[t] Your ſeed ſown ſhall come to no profit.

[u] You boaſt of your holineſs, ſacrifices and feaſts, but they ſhall turn to your ſhame, and be as vile as dung.

[w] The prieſts objected againſt the prophet that he could not reprove them, but he muſt ſpeak againſt the prieſthood, and the office eſtabliſhed of God by promiſe: but he ſheweth that the office is nothing ſlandered when theſe villains and dung are called by their own names.

[x] He ſheweth what were the two conditions of the covenant made with the tribe of Levi: on God's part, that he would give them long life and felicity; and on their part, that they ſhould faithfully ſerve him according to his word.

[y] I preſcribed Levi a certain law to ſerve me.

[z] He ſerved me, and ſet forth my glory with all humility and ſubmiſſion.

[a] He ſheweth that the prieſts ought to have knowledge to inſtruct others in the word of the Lord.

[b] He is as the treaſure-houſe of God's word, and ought to give to every one according to their neceſſity, and not to reſerve it for himſelf.

[c] Shewing, that whoſoever doth not declare God's will, is not his meſſenger and prieſt.

[d] The prophet accuſeth the ingratitude of the Jews toward God and man: for ſeeing they were all born of one father Abraham, and God had elected them to be his holy people, they ought neither to offend God nor their brethren.

[e] Whereby they had bound themſelves to God to be an holy people.

[f] They have joined themſelves in marriage with them that are of another religion.

[g] That is, the prieſts.

[h] Ye cauſe the people to lament, becauſe that God doth not regard their ſacrifices, ſo that they ſeem to ſacrifice in vain.

[i] This is another fault whereof he accuſeth them, that is, that they brake the laws of marriage.

[k] As the one half of thyſelf.

[l] She that was joined to thee by a ſolemn covenant, and by the invocation of God's name.

15 And did not [m] he make one? yet had he [n] abundance of ſpirit: and wherefore one? becauſe he ſought a godly [o] ſeed: therefore keep yourſelves in your [p] ſpirit, and let none treſpaſs againſt the wife of his youth.

16 If thou hateſt her, [q] put her away, ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, yet he covereth [r] the injury under his garment, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: therefore keep yourſelves in your ſpirit, and tranſgreſs not.

17 Ye have [s] wearied the Lord with your words: yet ye ſay, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye ſay, every one that [t] doth evil, is good in the ſight of the Lord, and he delighteth in them. Or where is the God of [u] judgment?

CHAP. III.

1 Of the meſſenger of the Lord, John Baptiſt, and of Chriſt's office.

BEHOLD, I will ſend my [w] meſſenger, and he ſhall prepare the way before me: and the [x] Lord whom ye ſeek, ſhall ſpeedily come to his temple: even the [y] meſſenger of the covenant, whom ye deſire: behold, he ſhall come, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

2 But who [z] may abide the day of his coming? and who ſhall endure when he appeareth? for he is like a purging fire, and like fullers ſoap.

3 And he ſhall ſit down to try and fine the ſilver: he ſhall even fine the ſons of [a] Levi, and purify them as gold and ſilver, that they may bring offerings unto the Lord in righteouſneſs.

4 Then ſhall the offerings of Judah and Jeruſalem be acceptable unto the Lord, as in old time and in the years afore.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment, and I will be a ſwift witneſs againſt the ſoothſayers, and againſt the adulterers, and againſt falſe ſwearers, and againſt thoſe that wrongfully keep back the hireling's wages, and vex the widow and the fatherleſs, and oppreſs the ſtranger, and fear not me, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye ſons of Jacob [b] are not conſumed.

7 From the days of your fathers, ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and have not kept them: [c] return unto me, and I will return unto you, ſaith the Lord of hoſts: but ye ſaid, Wherein ſhall we return?

8 Will a [d] man ſpoil his gods? yet have ye ſpoiled me: but ye ſay, Wherein have we ſpoiled thee? In [e] tithes and offerings.

9 Ye are curſed with a curſe: for ye have ſpoiled me, even this whole nation.

10 Bring ye all the tithes into the ſtorehouſe, that there may be meat in mine houſe, and prove me now herewith, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, if I will not open the windows of heaven unto you, and pour you out a bleſſing [f] without meaſure.

11 And I will rebuke the [g] devourer for your ſakes, and he ſhall not deſtroy the fruit of your ground, neither ſhall your vine be barren in the field, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

12 And all nations ſhall call you bleſſed: for ye ſhall be a pleaſant land, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

13 Your words have been ſtout [h] againſt me, ſaith the Lord: yet ye ſay, What have we ſpoken againſt thee?

14 Ye have ſaid, It is in vain to ſerve God: and what profit is it that we have kept his commandment, and that we walked humbly before the Lord of hoſts?

15 Therefore we count the proud bleſſed: even they that work wickedneſs are ſet up, and they that tempt God, yea, they are [i] delivered.

16 [k] Then ſpake they that feared the Lord, every one to his neighbour, and the Lord hearkened and heard it, and a [l] book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon his name.

17 And they ſhall be to me, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, in that day [m] that I ſhall do this, for a flock, and I will [n] ſpare them, as a man ſpareth his own ſon that ſerveth him.

18 Then ſhall you return, and diſcern between the righteous and wicked, between him that ſerveth God, and him that ſerveth him not.

CHAP.

---

[m] Did not God make man and woman as one fleſh, and not many?

[n] By his power and virtue he could have made many women for one man.

[o] Such as ſhould be born in lawful and moderate marriage, wherein is no exceſs of luſts.

[p] Contain yourſelves within your bounds, and be ſober in mind, and bridle your affections.

[q] Not that he doth allow divorcement, but of the two faults he ſheweth which is the leſs.

[r] He thinketh it ſufficient to keep his wife ſtill, albeit he take others, and ſo as it were covereth his fault.

[s] Ye murmured againſt God, becauſe he heard not you as ſoon as ye called.

[t] In thinking that God favoured the wicked, and had not reſpect to them that ſerve him.

[u] Thus they blaſphemed God in condemning his power and juſtice, becauſe he judged not according to their fancies.

[w] This is meant of John Baptiſt, as Chriſt expoundeth it, Luke 7. 27.

[x] Meaning, Meſſiah, as Pſalm 40. 1, 7. Dan. 9. 17, 25.

[y] That is, Chriſt, by whom the covenant was made and ratified, who is called the angel or meſſenger of the covenant, becauſe he reconcileth us to his Father: and is Lord or King, becauſe he hath the government of his church.

[z] He ſheweth that the hypocrites, which wiſh ſo much for the Lord's coming, will not abide when he draweth near: for he will conſume them, and purge his and make them clean.

[a] He beginneth at the prieſts, that they might be lights, and ſhine unto others.

[b] They murmured againſt God becauſe they ſaw not his help ever preſent to defend them: and therefore he accuſeth them of ingratitude, and ſheweth that in that they are not daily conſumed, it is a token that he doth ſtill defend them; and ſo his mercy toward them never changeth.

[c] Read Zech. 1. 3.

[d] There are none of the heathen ſo barbarous, that will defraud their gods of their honour, or deal deceitfully with them.

[e] Whereby the ſervice of God ſhould have been maintained, and the prieſts and the poor relieved.

[f] Not having reſpect how much ye need, but I will give you in all abundance: ſo that ye ſhall lack place to put my bleſſings in.

[g] Meaning, the caterpillar, and whatſoever deſtroyeth corn and fruits.

[h] The prophet condemneth them of double blaſphemy againſt God: firſt, in that they ſaid, that God had no reſpect to them that ſerved him; and next, that the wicked were more in his favour than the godly.

[i] They are not only preferred to honour, but alſo delivered from dangers.

[k] After theſe admonitions of the prophet, ſome were lively touched, and encouraged others to fear God.

[l] Both becauſe the thing was ſtrange that ſome turned to God in that great and univerſal corruption, and alſo that this might be an example of God's mercies to all penitent ſinners.

[m] When I ſhall reſtore my church according to my promiſe, they ſhall be as mine own proper goods.

[n] That is, forgive their ſins, and govern them with my Spirit.

Bef. Chr. 397.

CHAP. IV.

The day of the Lord before the which Elijah ſhould come.

FOR behold, the day cometh that ſhall [o] burn as an oven, and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, ſhall be ſtubble, and the day that cometh ſhall burn them up, ſaith the Lord of hoſts, and ſhall leave them neither root nor branch.

2 But unto you that fear my name, ſhall the [p] Sun of righteouſneſs ariſe, and health ſhall be under his wings, and ye ſhall [q] go forth, and grow up as fat calves.

3 And ye ſhall tread down the wicked: for they ſhall be duſt under the ſoles of your feet in the day that I ſhall do this, ſaith the Lord of hoſts.

Bef. Chr. 397.

4 [r] Remember the law of Moſes my ſervant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Iſrael, with the ſtatutes and judgments.

5 Behold, I will ſend you [s] Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and [t] fearful day of the Lord.

6 And he ſhall [u] turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, leſt I come [w] and ſmite the earth with a curſe.

---

[o] He propheſieth of God's judgments againſt the wicked, who would not receive Chriſt, when as God ſhould ſend him for, the reſtoration of his church.

[p] Meaning, Chriſt, who with his wings, or beams of his grace, ſhould lighten and comfort his church, Eph. 5. 14. and he is called the Sun of righteouſneſs, becauſe in himſelf he hath all perfection; and alſo the juſtice of the Father dwelleth in him, whereby he regenerateth us into righteouſneſs, cleanſeth us from the filth of this world, and reformeth us to the image of God.

[q] Ye ſhall be ſet at liberty, and increaſe in the joy of the Spirit, 2 Cor. 3. 17.

[r] Becauſe the time was come that the Jews ſhould be deſtitute of prophets until the time of Chriſt, becauſe they ſhould with more fervent minds deſire his coming, the prophet exhorteth them to exerciſe themſelves diligently in ſtudying the law of Moſes in the mean ſeaſon, whereby they might continue in the true religion, and alſo be armed againſt all temptations.

[s] This Chriſt expoundeth of John Baptiſt, Matt. 11: 13, 14. who both for his zeal, and reſtoring of religion, is aptly compared to Elijah.

[t] Which as it is true for the wicked, ſo doth it waken the godly, and call them to repentance.

[u] He ſheweth wherein John's office ſhould ſtand: in the turning of men to God, and joining of the father and children in one unity of faith: ſo that the father ſhall turn to the religion of his ſon which is converted unto Chriſt, and the ſon ſhall embrace the faith of the true fathers, Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob.

[w] The ſecond point of his office was to denounce God's judgments againſt them that would not receive Chriſt.

The PRINTER to the Diligent READER.

DEAR Chriſtian Reader, to the intent that thou mighteſt the better enjoy the benefit of theſe notes or expoſitions upon the New Teſtament, I thought it not amiſs to declare unto thee the uſe of the ſame.

The notes that are directed by figures of arithmetic, as [1], [2], [3], [4], &c. throughout the Evangeliſts and Acts, declare the effect or ſum of the doctrine contained between one of the ſaid figures, and the next that followeth: as for example, from the figure [1], in the firſt line and firſt word of Matthew, unto the figure [2], in the eighteenth verſe of the ſame chapter, the doctrine there gathered is ſet down in this ſort: '[1] Jeſus came of Abraham of the tribe of Judah, and of the ſtock of David, as God promiſed.' And in the Epiſtles in like ſort they declare the method and art which the apoſtles uſe, and how every argument or reaſon dependeth one upon another: theſe figures are begun again at the beginning of every chapter.

Laſtly, the notes which go by order of the letters of the alphabet placed in the text, with the like anſwering unto them at the bottom of the page, ſerve to expound and lighten the dark words and phraſes immediately following them. As in the firſt line and ſecond word, the letter [a] being referred unto [a], at the bottom of the page, ſheweth that this word, Book, ſignifieth, 'A rehearſal, as the Hebrews uſe to ſpeak: as Gen. 5. 1. The book of the generations.' Theſe letters begin at the beginning of every chapter, continuing unto [z], and ſo beginning again with [a], if there be ſo many notes that they do exceed in number the letters of one alphabet. This have I faithfully done for thy commodity, reap thou the fruit, and give the praiſe to God.

15 And Eliud begat Eleazar. And Eleazar begat Matthan. And Matthan begat Jacob.

16 And Jacob begat Joſeph the huſband of Mary, of whom was born Jeſus, that is called Chriſt.

17 So [e] all the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations: and from David until they were carried away into Babylon, fourteen generations: and after they were carried away into Babylon until Chriſt, fourteen generations.

18 ¶ Now the birth of [2] Jeſus Chriſt was thus. When as his mother Mary was * betrothed to Joſeph, before they came together, ſhe was found with child of the Holy Ghoſt. * Luke 1. 27.

19 Then Joſeph her huſband being a juſt man, and not willing to * make her a publick example, was minded to put her away ſecretly. * Deut. 24. 1.

20 But while he thought theſe things, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, ſaying, Joſeph the ſon of David, fear not to [f] take Mary thy [g] wife: for that which is [h] conceived in her, is of the Holy Ghoſt.

21 And ſhe ſhall bring [3] forth a ſon, and thou ſhalt * call his name Jeſus: for he ſhall * [i] ſave his people from their ſins. * Luke 1, 31. * Acts 4, 12.

22 And all this was done, that it might be fulfilled, which is ſpoken of the Lord by the prophet, ſaying,

23 * Behold, a [k] virgin ſhall be with child, and ſhall bear a ſon, and they ſhall call his name Emmanuel, which is by interpretation, God with us. * Iſa. 7. 14.

24 ¶ Then Joſeph, being raiſed from ſleep, did as the angel of the Lord had enjoined him, and took his wife.

[1] Jeſus Chriſt came of Abraham, of the tribe of Judah, and of the ſtock of David, as God promiſed.

[a] Rehearſal: as the Hebrews uſe to ſpeak, as Gen. 5. 1. The book of the generations.

[b] Of the anceſtors of whom Chriſt came.

[c] Which Chriſt is alſo the ſon of Abraham.

[d] That is, the captivity fell in the days of Jakim and Jechonias: for Jechonias was born before their carrying away into captivity.

[e] All theſe which are reckoned up in the pedigree of David's ſtock, as they begat one another orderly in their degrees.

[2] Chriſt the true Immanuel, and therefore Jeſus (that is, Saviour) is conceived in the virgin by the Holy Ghoſt, as it was foretold by the prophets.

[f] Receive her at her parents and kinsfolks hands.

[g] Which was promiſed and made ſure to thee to be thy wife.

[h] Of the mother's ſubſtance by the Holy Ghoſt.

[3] Chriſt is born of the ſame virgin which never knew man, and is called Jeſus of God himſelf, by the angel.

[i] Deliver, and this ſheweth us the meaning of this name Jeſus.

[k] There is in the Hebrew and Greek text an article added, to point out the woman, and ſet her forth plainly: as you would ſay, That virgin, or, a certain virgin.

25 But he knew her not, [1] till ſhe had brought forth her firſt born ſon, and he called his name Jeſus.

CHAP. II.

The wiſe men, who are the firſt fruits of the Gentiles, worſhip Chriſt. 14 Joſeph fleeth into Egypt with Jeſus, and his mother. 16 Herod ſlayeth the children.

* Luke 2. 6. The 4th year before the common account called Anno Domini.

WHEN * [1] Jeſus then was born at Bethlehem in [a] Judea, in the days of Herod the king, behold there came [b] wiſe men from the Eaſt to Jeruſalem,

2 Saying, Where is that king of the Jews that is born? for we have ſeen his ſtar in the Eaſt, and are come to worſhip him.

3 When king Herod heard this, he was [c] troubled, and all Jeruſalem with him.

4 And gathering together all the [d] chief prieſts and [e] ſcribes of the people, he aſked of them, where Chriſt ſhould be born.

5 And they ſaid unto him, At Bethlehem in Judea: for ſo it is written by the prophet,

* Mic. 5. 2. John 7. 42

6 * And thou Bethlehem in the land of Juda, art not the [f] leaſt among the princes of Juda: For out of thee ſhall come the governor that [g] ſhall feed my people Iſrael.

7 Then Herod privily called the wiſe men, and diligently inquired of them the time of the ſtar that appeared.

8 And ſent them to Bethlehem, ſaying, Go, and ſearch diligently for the babe: and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come alſo and worſhip him.

9 ¶ So when they had heard the king, they departed: and lo, the ſtar which they had ſeen in the Eaſt, went before them, till it came and ſtood over the place where the babe was.

10 And when they ſaw the ſtar, they rejoiced with an exceeding great joy,

11 And went into the houſe, and found the babe with Mary his mother, and fell [h] down, and worſhipped him, and opened their [i] treaſures, and preſented unto him gifts, even gold, and frankincenſe, and myrrh.

12 And after they were * warned of God in a dream, that they ſhould not go again to Herod, they returned into their country another way.

13 ¶ [2] After their departure, behold, the angel of the Lord appeared to Joſeph in a dream, ſaying, Ariſe, and take the babe and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there till I bring thee word: for Herod will ſeek the babe to deſtroy him.

The 4th year before the common account called Anno Domini.

14 So he aroſe, and took the babe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt,

15 And was there unto the death of Herod, that that might be fulfilled which is ſpoken of the Lord by the * prophet, ſaying, Out of Egypt have I called my ſon.

* Hoſ. 11. 1.

16 ¶ Then Herod, ſeeing that he was mocked of the wiſe men, was exceeding wroth, and ſent forth, and ſlew all the male children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coaſts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently ſearched out of the wiſe men.

17 Then was that fulfilled which was ſpoken [l] by the prophet Jeremiah, ſaying, 18 * In Rama was [m] a voice heard, mourning, and weeping, and great howling: [n] Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, becauſe they were not.

* Jer. 31. 15.

19 [3] And when Herod was dead, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joſeph in Egypt,

20 Saying, Ariſe, and take the babe and his mother, and go into the land of Iſrael, for they are dead which ſought the babe's life.

21 Then he aroſe up, and took the babe and his mother, and came into the land of Iſrael.

22 But when he heard that Archelaus did reign in Judea inſtead of his father Herod, he was afraid to go thither: yet after he was warned of God in a dream, he turned aſide into the parts of Galilee,

23 And went and dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by the prophets, which was, That he ſhould be called a Nazarite.

CHAP. III.

1 John preacheth. 4 His apparel and meat. 5 He baptizeth. 8 The fruits of repentance. 10 The ax at the root of the tree. 12 The fan and the chaff. 13 Chriſt is baptized.

* Mark 1. 4. Luke 3. 3.

AND in * [a] thoſe days, [1] John the Baptiſt came, and preached in the [b] wilderneſs of Judea,

2 And

---

[1] This little word 'till,' in the Hebrew tongue, giveth us to underſtand alſo, that a thing ſhall not come to paſs in time to come: as Michal had no children till her death's day, 2 Sam. 6. 23. And in the laſt chapter of this evangeliſt: Behold I am with you till the end of the world.'

[1] Chriſt a poor child laid down in a crib, and nothing ſet by of his own people, receiveth notwithſtanding a noble witneſs of his divinity from heaven, and of his kingly eſtate, of ſtrangers: which his own alſo unwittingly allow of, although they do not acknowledge him.

[a] For there was another in the tribe of Zebulun.

[b] Wiſe and learned men: it is a Perſian word which they uſe in good part.

[c] Was much moved, for he was a ſtranger, and came to the kingdom by force: and the Jews were troubled: for wickedneſs is mad and raging.

[d] The chief prieſts, that is, ſuch as were of Aaron's family, which were divided into four and twenty orders, 1 Chron. 24. 5. and 2 Chron. 36. 14.

[e] They that expound the law to the people, for the Hebrews take this word of another, which ſignifieth as much as to expound and declare.

[f] Though thou be a ſmall town, yet ſhalt thou be very famous and noble through the birth of the Meſſias, who ſhall be born in thee.

[g] That ſhall rule and govern: for kings are fitly called feeders and ſhepherds of the people.

[h] A kind of humble and lowly reverence.

[i] The rich and coſtly preſents which they brought him.

[k] God warned and told them of it, when as they aſked it not.

[2] Chriſt being yet ſcarce born, beginneth to be crucified for us, both in himſelf, and alſo in his members.

[l] For God ſpeaketh by the mouth of the prophets.

[m] A voice of lamenting, weeping, and howling.

[n] That is to ſay, All that compaſs about Bethlehem: for Rachel, Jacob's wife, who died in childbed, was buried in the way that leadeth to this town, which is alſo called Ephrata, becauſe of the fruitfulneſs of the ſoil, and plenty of corn.

[3] Chriſt is brought up in Nazareth, after the death of the tyrant, by God's providence: that by the very name of the place it might plainly appear to the world, that he is the Lord's true Nazarite.

[a] Not when Joſeph went to dwell at Nazareth, but a great while after, about the ſpace of five and twenty years: for in the thirtieth year of his age was Jeſus baptized of John: therefore by thoſe days is meant, at that time that Jeſus remained as yet an inhabitant of the town of Nazareth.

[1] John, who, through his ſingular holineſs and rare auſtereneſs of life, cauſed all men to caſt their eyes upon him, prepareth the way for Chriſt, following faſt on at his heels, as the prophet Iſaiah foretold, and delivereth the ſum of the goſpel, which in ſhort ſpace after ſhould be delivered more fully.

[b] In an hilly country, which was notwithſtanding inhabited, for Zechariah dwelt there, Luke 1. 39. and there was Joab's houſe, 1 Kings 2. 34. and beſides theſe, Joſhua maketh mention of ſix towns that were in this wilderneſs, chap. 5. 61.

2 And ſaid, [c] Repent: for the [d] kingdom of heaven is at hand.

3 For this is he of whom it is ſpoken by the Prophet Eſaias, ſaying, * The voice of him that crieth in the wilderneſs, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: [e] make his paths ſtraight.

* Iſa. 40. 3. Mark 1. 3. John 1. 23.

4 * And this John had his garment of camels hair, and a girdle of a ſkin about his loins: his meat was alſo [f] locuſts and wild honey.

* Mark 1. 6.

5 * Then went out to him [g] Jeruſalem and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan.

* Mark 1. 5. Luke 3. 7.

6 And they were baptized of him in Jordan, [h] confeſſing their ſins.

7 [2] Now when he ſaw many of the Phariſees, and of the Sadducees come to his baptiſm, he ſaid unto them, * O generation of vipers, who hath forewarned you to flee from the anger to come?

* Ch. 12. 34.

8 [3] Bring forth therefore fruit worthy amendment of life.

9 [4] And [i] think not to ſay [k] with yourſelves, * We have Abraham to our father: for I ſay unto you, that God is able even of theſe ſtones to raiſe up children unto Abraham.

* John 8. 39. Acts 13. 26.

10 And now alſo is the ax put to the root of the trees: * therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down, and caſt into the fire.

* Ch. 7. 19.

11 * [5] Indeed I baptize you with water to [l] amendment of life, but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whoſe ſhoes I am not worthy to bear, he will baptize you with the Holy Ghoſt, and with fire:

* Mark 1. 8. Luke 3. 16. John 1. 26. Acts 1. 5. and 2. 4. and 8. 17. and 19. 4.

12 [6] Which hath his fan in his hand, and will [m] make clean his floor, and gather his wheat into his garner, but will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire:

13 ¶ * [7] Then came Jeſus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him.

* Mark 1. 9. Luke 3. 21.

14 But John earneſtly put him back, ſaying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comeſt thou to me?

15 Then Jeſus anſwering, ſaid to him, Let be now: for thus it becometh us to fulfill all [n] righteouſneſs. So he ſuffered him.

16 And Jeſus, when he was baptized, came ſtraight out of the water. And lo, the heavens were opened unto [o] him, and John ſaw the Spirit of God deſcending like a dove, and lighting upon him.

A. D. 27.

17 [8] And lo, a voice came from heaven, ſaying, * This is my beloved ſon, in whom I am [h] well pleaſed.

* Col. 1. 13. 2 Pet. 1. 17.

CHAP. IV.

1 Chriſt is tempted. 4 He vanquiſheth the devil with Scripture. 11 The Angels miniſter unto him. 12 He preacheth repentance, and that himſelf is come. 18 The calling of Peter, Andrew, 21 James and John. 23 He preacheth the Goſpel, and healeth the diſeaſed.

THEN * was [1] Jeſus led aſide by the Spirit into the wilderneſs, to be tempted of the devil.

* Mark 1. 12. Luke 4. 1.

2 And when he had faſted forty [a] days and forty nights, he was afterward hungry.

3 Then came to him the tempter, and ſaid, If thou be the Son of God, command that theſe ſtones be made bread.

4 But he anſwering, ſaid, It is written, * Man ſhall not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

* Deut. 8. 3.

5 Then the devil took him up into the holy city, and ſet him on a [b] pinacle of the temple,

6 And ſaid unto him, If thou be the Son of God, caſt thyſelf down: for it is written, * that he will give his angels charge over thee, and with their hands they ſhall lift thee up, leſt at any time thou ſhouldeſt daſh thy foot againſt a ſtone.

* Pſ. 91. 11.

7 Jeſus ſaid unto him, It is written again, * Thou ſhalt not [c] tempt the Lord thy God.

* Deut. 6. 16.

8 Again the devil took him up into an exceeding high mountain, and ſhewed him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them,

9 And ſaid to him, All theſe will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worſhip me.

10 Then ſaid Jeſus unto him, Avoid, ſatan: for it is written, * Thou ſhalt worſhip the Lord thy God, and him only ſhalt thou ſerve.

* Deut. 6. 13. and 10. 20.

11 * Then the devil left him: and behold, the angels came and miniſtered unto him.

* Mark 1. 13. Luke 4. 13.

12 ¶ * [2] And when Jeſus had heard that John was committed to priſon, he returned unto Galilee.

[c] The word in the Greek tongue ſignifieth a changing of our minds and hearts from evil to better.

[d] The kingdom of Meſſias, whoſe government ſhall be heavenly, and nothing but heavenly.

[e] Make him a plain and ſmooth way.

[f] Locuſts were a kind of meat, which certain of the Eaſt people uſe, which were therefore called devourers of locuſts. Euſt. in Ode 9.

[g] The people of Jeruſalem.

[h] Acknowledging that they were ſaved only by free remiſſion and forgiveneſs of their ſins.

[2] There is nothing that ſtoppeth up the way of mercy and ſalvation againſt us ſo much, as the opinion of our own righteouſneſs doth.

[3] True repentance is an inward thing, which hath his ſeat in the mind and heart.

[4] The faith of the fathers availeth the unbelieving children nothing at all: and yet for all that, God playeth not the lyar, nor dealeth unfaithfully in his league which he made with the holy fathers.

[i] Think not that you have any cauſe to be proud of Abraham.

[k] In your hearts.

[5] We may neither dwell upon the ſigns which God hath ordained, as means to lead us unto our ſalvation, neither upon them that miniſter them: but we muſt climb up to the matter itſelf, that is to ſay, to Chriſt, who inwardly worketh that effectually, which is outwardly ſignified unto us.

[l] The outward ſign putteth us in mind of this, that we muſt change our lives, and become better, aſſuring us, as by a ſeal, that we are ingraffed into Chriſt, whereby our old man dieth, and the new man riſeth up, Rom. 6. 6.

[6] The triumphs of the wicked ſhall end in everlaſting torment.

[m] Will cleanſe it throughly, and make a full riddance.

[7] Chriſt ſanctifieth our baptiſm in himſelf.

[n] All ſuch things as he hath appointed us to keep.

[o] To John.

[8] Chriſt's full conſecration and authorizing to the office of the mediatorſhip, is ſhewed by the Father's own voice, and a viſible ſign of the Holy Ghoſt.

[p] The Greek work betokeneth a thing of great account: and ſuch as highly pleaſeth a man. So then the Father ſaith, that Chriſt is the only man, whom when he beholdeth, look what an opinion he had conceived of us, he layeth it clean aſide.

[1] Chriſt was tempted all manner of ways, and ſtill overcometh, that we alſo through his virtue may overcome.

[a] Full forty days.

[b] The battlement wherewith the flat roof of the temple was compaſſed about, that no man might fall down: as was appointed by the law, Deut. 22. 8.

[c] Word for word, Thou ſhalt not go on ſtill in tempting.

[2] When the herald's mouth is ſtopped, the Lord revealeth himſelf, and bringeth full light into the darkneſs of this world, preaching free forgiveneſs of ſins to them that repent.

A. D. 31.

13 And leaving Nazareth, went and dwelt in [d] Capernaum, which is near the ſea, in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthalim,

14 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by Eſaias the Prophet, ſaying,

* Iſa. 9. 1. 15 * The land of Zabulon, and the land of Nephthalim by the way of the [e] ſea, beyond Jordan, [f] Galiſee of the Gentiles:

16 The people which ſat in darkneſs, ſaw great light: and to them that ſat in the region and ſhadow of death, light is riſen up.

*Mark 1. 15. 17 * From that time Jeſus began to preach, and to ſay, Amend your lives, for the kingdom of heaven is at [g] hand.

18 ¶ [3] And Jeſus walking by the ſea of Galilee, ſaw two brethren, Simon, which is called Peter, and Andrew his brother, caſting a net into the ſea (for they were fiſhers)

*Mark 1 16. 1 Cor. 1. 27. 19 * And he ſaid unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fiſhers of men.

20 And they ſtraightway leaving the nets, followed him.

21 And when he was gone forth from thence, he ſaw other two brethren, James the ſon of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a ſhip, with Zebedee their father, mending their nets, and he called them.

22 And they without tarrying, leaving the ſhip, and their father, followed him.

23 So [4] Jeſus went about all Galilee, teaching in [h] their [i] ſynagogues, and preaching the goſpel of the [k] kingdom, and healing [l] every ſickneſs, and every [m] diſeaſe among the people.

24 And his fame ſpread abroad through all Syria: and they brought unto him all ſick people, that were taken with divers diſeaſes and [n] torments, and them that were poſſeſſed with devils, and thoſe which were [o] lunatic, and thoſe that had the [p] palſy: and he healed them.

25 And there followed him great multitudes out of Galilee and Decapolis, and Jeruſalem, and Judea, and from beyond Jordan.

4 * Bleſſed are they that mourn: for they ſhall be comforted. * Iſa. 61. 2, 3. Luke 6. 21.

5 * Bleſſed are the meek: for they ſhall inherit the earth. * Pſ. 37. 11.

6 * Bleſſed are they which hunger and thirſt for righteouſneſs: for they ſhall be filled. * Iſa. 65. 13.

7 Bleſſed are the merciful: for they ſhall obtain mercy.

8 Bleſſed are the * [c] pure in heart: for they ſhall ſee God. * Pſ. 24. 4.

9 Bleſſed are the peace-makers: for they ſhall be called the children of God.

10 Bleſſed are they * which ſuffer perſecution for righteouſneſs ſake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. * 1 Cor. 14. 33. 1 Pet. 3. 14.

11 * Bleſſed ſhall ye be when men revile you, and perſecute you, and ſay all manner of evil againſt you for my ſake, falſly. * Acts 5. 41. 1 Pet. 4. 14.

12 Rejoice and be glad, for great is your reward in heaven: for ſo perſecuted they the prophets which were before you.

13 * Ye [2] are the ſalt of the [d] earth: but if the ſalt have loſt his ſavour, wherewith ſhall it be [e] ſalted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be caſt out, and to be trodden under foot of men. * Mark 9. 50. Luke 14. 34.

14 Ye are the [f] light of the world. A city that is ſet on an hill, cannot be hid.

15 * Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a buſhel, but on a candleſtick, and it giveth light unto all that are in the houſe. * Mark 4. 21. Luke 8. 16. and 11. 33.

[d] Which was a town a great deal more famous than Nazareth was.

[e] Of Tiberias, or becauſe that country bended toward Tyrus, which ſtandeth upon the ſea that cutteth the midſt of the world.

[f] So called, becauſe it bordered upon Tyrus and Sidon, and becauſe Solomon gave the king of Tyrus twenty cities in that quarter, 1 Kings 9. 11.

[g] Is come to you.

[3] Chriſt thinking by time, that he ſhould at length depart from us, even at the beginning of his preaching, getteth him diſciples after an heavenly ſort, men indeed poor, and utterly unlearned, and therefore ſuch as might be leaſt ſuſpected witneſſes of the truth of thoſe things they heard and ſaw.

[4] Chriſt aſſureth the hearts of the believers of his ſpiritual and ſaving virtue, by healing the diſeaſes of the body.

[h] Their, that is, the Galileans.

[i] Synagogues, that is, the Jews churches.

[k] Of Meſſias.

[l] Diſeaſes of all kinds, but not every one: that is, as we ſay, ſome of every one.

[m] The word ſignifieth properly, the weakneſs of the ſtomach, but here it is taken for thoſe diſeaſes which make men faint and wear away, that have them.

[n] The word ſignifieth properly, the ſtone wherewith gold is tried, and by a borrowed kind of ſpeech is applied to all kind of examination by torture, when as by rough dealing and torments we go about to draw out the truth of men, which otherwiſe they would not confeſs: and in this place it is taken for thoſe diſeaſes which put ſick men to great woe.

[o] Which at every full moon, or other changes of the moon, are ſhrewdly troubled and diſeaſed.

[p] Weak and feeble men, who have the parts of their body looſed, and ſo weakened, that they are neither able to gather them up together, nor put them out as they would.

[1] Chriſt teacheth that the greateſt joy and felicity is not in the commodities and pleaſures of this life, but is laid up in heaven for them that willingly reſt in the good will and pleaſure of God, and endeavour to profit all men, although they be cruelly vexed and troubled of the worldlings, becauſe they will not faſhion themſelves to their manners.

[a] Under the name of poverty, are all ſuch miſeries meant, as are joined with poverty.

[b] Whoſe minds and ſpirits are brought under, and tamed, and obey God.

[c] Fitly is this word, Pure, joined with the heart, for as a bright and ſhining reſemblance or image may be ſeen plainly in a clear and pure looking-glaſs, even ſo doth the face (as it were) of the everlaſting God ſhine forth, and clearly appear in a pure heart.

[2] The miniſters of the word, eſpecially (unleſs they will be the moſt caitiffs of all) muſt needs lead others both by word and deed to this greateſt joy and felicity.

[d] Your doctrine muſt be very ſound and good, for if it be not ſo, it ſhall be nought ſet by, and caſt away as a thing unſavoury and vain.

[e] What ſhall you have to ſalt withal? And ſo are fools in the Latin tongue called Saltleſſe, as you would ſay, men that have no ſalt or ſavour and taſte in them.

[f] You ſhine and give light, by being made partakers of the true Light.

A. D. 31.

* 1 Pet. 2. 12. 16 * Let your light ſo ſhine before men, that they may ſee your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

17 [3] Think not that I am come to deſtroy the law or the prophets. I am not come to deſtroy them, but to [g] fulfil them.

* Luke 16. 17. 18 * For truly I ſay unto you, Till heaven and earth periſh, one jot or one tittle of the law ſhall not eſcape, till all things be fulfilled.

* James 2. 10. 19 * [4] Whoſoever therefore ſhall break one of theſe leaſt commandments, and teach men ſo, he ſhall be called the [h] leaſt in the kingdom of heaven: but whoſoever ſhall obſerve and teach them, the ſame ſhall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

* Luke 11. 39. 20 For I ſay unto you, Except your righteouſneſs * exceed the righteouſneſs of the Scribes and Phariſees, ye ſhall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

* Exod. 20. 13. Deut. 5. 17. 21 [5] Ye have heard that it was ſaid unto them of the old time, * Thou ſhalt not kill: for whoſoever killeth, ſhall be culpable of judgment.

22 But I ſay unto you, Whoſoever is angry with his brother unadviſedly, ſhall be [i] culpable [k] of judgment. And whoſoever ſaith unto his brother, Raca, ſhall be worthy to be puniſhed by the [l] council. And whoſoever ſhall ſay Fool, ſhall be worthy to be puniſhed with [m] hell [n] fire.

23 [6] If then thou bring thy gift to the [o] altar, and there remembereſt that thy brother hath aught againſt thee,

24 Leave there thine offering before the altar, and go thy way: firſt be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.

* Luke 12. 58. 25 * [p] Agree with thine adverſary quickly, whilſt thou art in the way with him, leſt thine adverſary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the ſerjeant, and thou be caſt into priſon.

26 Verily I ſay unto thee, thou ſhalt not come out thence, till thou haſt [q] payed the utmoſt farthing.

A. D. 31.

* Exod. 20. 14. Rom. 13. 9. 27 ¶ [7] Ye have heard, that it was ſaid to them of old time, * Thou ſhalt not commit adultery.

28 But I ſay unto you, that whoſoever looketh on a woman to luſt after her, hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

* Ch. 18. 8, 9. Mark 9. 47. 29 * Wherefore if thy [r] right eye cauſe thee [s] to offend, pluck it out, and caſt it from thee: for better it is for thee, that one of thy members periſh, than that thy whole body ſhould be caſt into hell.

30 Alſo if thy right hand make thee to offend, cut it off, and caſt it from thee: for better it is for thee, that one of thy members periſh, than that thy whole body ſhould be caſt into hell.

* Ch. 19. 7. Deut. 24. 1. Mark 10. 4. Luke 16. 18. 1 Cor. 7. 10. 31 It hath been ſaid alſo, * Whoſoever ſhall put away his wife, let him give her a bill of divorcement.

32 But I ſay unto you, Whoſoever ſhall put away his wife (except it be for fornication) cauſeth her to commit adultery: and whoſoever ſhall marry her that is divorced, committeth adultery.

* Exod. 20. 7. Lev. 19. 12. Deut. 5. 11. 33 [8] Again, ye have heard that it was ſaid to them of old time, * Thou ſhalt not forſwear thyſelf: but ſhalt perform thine oaths to the Lord.

34 But I ſay unto you, Swear not at all, neither by heaven, for it is the throne of God:

35 Nor yet by the earth, for it is his footſtool: neither by Jeruſalem, for it is the city of the great King.

36 Neither ſhalt thou ſwear by thine head, becauſe thou canſt not make one hair white or black.

* James 5. 12. 37 * But let your communication be [t] Yea, yea: Nay, nay. For whatſoever is more than theſe, cometh of [u] evil.

---

[3] Chriſt came not to bring any new way of righteouſneſs and ſalvation into the world, but to fulfil that in deed which was ſhadowed by the figures of the law, by delivering them through grace from the curſe of the law: and moreover to teach the true uſe of obedience, which the law appointed, and to grave in our hearts the force of obedience.

[g] That the prophecies may be accompliſhed.

[4] He beginneth with the true expounding of the law, and ſetteth it againſt the old (but yet falſe) gloſſes of the ſcribes: ſo far is he from aboliſhing the leaſt commandment of his Father.

[h] He ſhall have no place in the church.

[5] The true meaning of the ſixth commandment.

[i] He ſpeaketh of the judgment of God, and of the difference of ſins, and therefore applieth his words to the form of civil judgments, which were then uſed.

[k] Of that judgment which was ruled by thoſe men, who had the hearing and deciding of money matters, and ſuch other ſmall cauſes.

[l] By that judgment which ſtood of three and twenty judges, who had the hearing and deciding of weighty affairs, and matters of life and death: as the higheſt judges of all were to the number of ſeventy and one, which had the hearing of moſt weighty affairs, as the matter of an whole tribe, or of an high prieſt, or of a falſe prophet.

[m] Whereas we read here, hell, it is in the text itſelf, Gehenna, which is an Hebrew word made of two, and is as much to ſay, as the valley of Hinnom, which otherwiſe the Hebrews called Tophet: it was a place where the Iſraelites were wont moſt cruelly to ſacrifice their children to falſe gods, whereupon it was taken for a place appointed to torment the reprobates in. Jer. 7. 31.

[n] The Jews uſed four kinds of puniſhments, before their government was taken away by Herod, hanging, beheading, ſtoning and burning: this is it that Chriſt ſhot at, becauſe burning was the greateſt puniſhment, therefore in that he maketh mention of a judgment, a council, and a fire, he ſheweth that ſome ſins are worſe than other ſome, but yet they are all ſuch, that we muſt give an account for them, and ſhall be puniſhed for them.

[6] The covetous Phariſees taught, that God was appeaſed by the ſacrifices appointed in the law, which they themſelves devoured. But Chriſt on the contrary ſide denieth, that God accepteth any man's offering, unleſs he maketh ſatisfaction to his brother whom he hath offended: and ſaith moreover, that theſe ſtubborn and ſtiff-necked deſpiſers of their brethren ſhall never eſcape the wrath and curſe of God before they have made full ſatisfaction to their brethren.

[o] He applieth all this ſpeech to the ſtate of his time, when as there was an altar ſtanding in Jeruſalem: and therefore they are very fooliſh that gather hereupon, that we muſt build altars, and uſe ſacrifices: but they are more fools, which draw that to purgatory, which is ſpoken of peace-making and atonement one with another.

[p] Cut off all cauſe of enmity.

[q] Thou ſhalt be dealt withal to the utmoſt extremity.

[7] He is taken for an adulterer before God, whatſoever he be, that coveteth a woman: and therefore we muſt keep our eyes chaſte, and all the members we have, yea, and we muſt eſchew all occaſions which might move us to evil, how dear ſoever it coſt us.

[r] He nameth the right eye, and the right hand, becauſe the parts of the right ſide of our body are the chiefeſt, and readieſt to commit any wickedneſs.

[s] Word for word, do cauſe thee to offend: for ſins are ſtumbling blocks, as it were, that is to ſay, rocks which we are caſt upon.

[8] The meaning of the third commandment, againſt the froward opinion and judgment of the ſcribes, which excuſed by oaths or indirect forms of ſwearing.

[t] Whatſoever you vouch, vouch it barely; and whatſoever you deny, deny it barely, without any more words.

[u] From an evil conſcience, or from the devil.

CHAP. VI.

1 Alms. 5 Prayers. 14 Forgiving our brother. 16 Faſting. 19 Our treaſure. 20 We muſt ſuccour the poor. 24 God and riches. 25 Careful ſeeking for meat and drink, and apparel, forbidden. 33 The kingdom of God and his righteouſneſs.

TAKE heed that ye give not your [1] alms before men, to be ſeen of them, or elſe ye ſhall have no [a] reward of your father which is in heaven.

* Rom. 12. 8. 2 * Therefore when thou giveſt thine alms, thou ſhalt not make a trumpet to be blown before thee, as the [b] hypocrites do in the ſynagogues, and in the ſtreets, to be praiſed of men. Verily I ſay unto you, they have their reward.

3 But when thou doſt thine alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doth,

4 That thine alms may be in ſecret: and thy Father that ſeeth in ſecret, he will reward thee openly.

5 [2] And when thou prayeſt, be not as the hypocrites: for they love to ſtand and pray in the ſynagogues, and in the corners of the ſtreets, becauſe they would be ſeen of men. Verily I ſay unto you, they have their reward.

6 But when thou prayeſt, enter into thy chamber: and when thou haſt ſhut thy door, pray unto thy Father which is in ſecret, and thy Father which ſeeth in ſecret, ſhall reward thee openly.

7 Alſo when ye pray, uſe no [c] vain repetitions as the heathen: for they think to be heard for their much babling.

8 Be ye not like them therefore: for your Father knoweth whereof ye have need, before ye aſk of him.

9 [3] After this manner therefore pray ye, * Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. * Luke 11. 2.

10 Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done even in earth, as it is in heaven.

11 Give us this day our [d] daily bread.

12 And forgive us our debts, as we alſo forgive our debtors.

13 And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us * from [e] evil: for thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory for ever. Amen. * Ch. 13. 19.

14 * [4] For if ye do forgive men their treſpaſſes, your heavenly Father will alſo forgive you. * Mark 11. 25.

15 But if ye do not forgive men their treſpaſſes, no more will your Father forgive you your treſpaſſes.

16 [5] Moreover, when ye faſt, look not ſour as the hypocrites: for they [f] disfigure their faces, that they might ſeem unto men to faſt. Verily I ſay unto you, that they have their reward.

17 But when thou faſteſt, anoint thine head, and waſh thy face,

18 That thou ſeem not unto men to faſt, but unto thy Father which is in ſecret: and thy Father which ſeeth in ſecret, will reward thee openly.

19 ¶ [6] Lay not up treaſures for yourſelves upon the earth, where the moth and canker corrupt, and where thieves dig through and ſteal:

20 * But lay up treaſures for yourſelves in heaven, where neither the moth nor canker corrupteth, and where thieves neither dig through nor ſteal. * Luke 12. 33. 1 Tim. 6. 19.

21 For where your treaſure is, there will your hearts be alſo.

22 ¶ * [7] The light of the body is the eye: if then thine [g] eye be ſingle, the whole body ſhall light. * Luke 11. 34.

23 But if thine eye be wicked, then all thy body ſhall be dark. Wherefore if the light that is in thee, be darkneſs, how great is that darkneſs!

24 * [8] No man can ſerve [h] two maſters: for * Luke 16. 13.

[9] He ſheweth clean contrary to the doctrine of the ſcribes, that the ſum of the ſecond table muſt be ſo underſtood, that we may in no wiſe render evil for evil, but rather ſuffer double injury, and do well to them that are our deadly enemies.

[10] A double reaſon: the one is taken of the relatives, The children muſt be like their father: the other is taken of compariſons, The children of God muſt be better than the children of this world.

[x] They that were the toll-maſters, and had the overſight of tributes and cuſtoms: a kind of men that the Jews hated to death, both becauſe they ſerved the Romans in thoſe offices, (whoſe yokeful bondage they could hardly away withal) and alſo, becauſe theſe toll-maſters are for the moſt part given to covetouſneſs.

[1] Ambition maketh alms vain.

[a] This word, Reward, is always taken in the ſcriptures for a free recompence, and therefore the ſchoolmen do fondly ſet it to be anſwerable to a deſerving, which they call merit.

[b] Counterfeits, for hypocrites were players that played a part in a play.

[2] He reprehendeth two foul faults in prayer, ambition and vain babbling.

[c] Long prayers are not condemned, but vain, needleſs, and ſuperſtitious.

[3] A true ſum and form of all Chriſtian prayers.

[d] That that is meet for our nature for our daily food, or ſuch as may ſuffice our nature and complexion.

[e] From the devil, or from all adverſity.

[4] They that forgive wrongs, to them their ſins are forgiven, but revenge is prepared for them that revenge.

[5] Againſt ſuch as hunt after a name of holineſs by faſting.

[f] They ſuffer not their firſt hue to be ſeen, that is to ſay, they mar the natural colour of their faces, that they may ſeem lean and pale faced.

[6] Thoſe men's labours are ſhewed to be vain, which paſs not for the aſſured treaſure of everlaſting life, but ſpend their lives in ſcraping together frail and vain riches.

[7] Men do maliciouſly and wickedly put out even the little light of nature that is in them.

[g] The judgment of the mind: that as the body is with the eyes, ſo our whole life may be ruled with right reaſon, that is to ſay, with the Spirit of God wherewith we are lightened.

[8] God will be worſhipped of the whole man.

[h] Which be at jarr together; for if two agree, they are as one.

A. D. 31.

for either he ſhall hate the one, and love the other: or elſe he ſhall lean to the one, and deſpiſe the other. Ye cannot ſerve God and [i] riches.

* Luke 12. 22. Phil. 4. 6. 1 Tim. 6. 8. 1 Pet. 5. 7. Pſ. 53. 23.

25 * [9] Therefore I ſay unto you, Be not careful for your life, what ye ſhall eat, or what ye ſhall drink: nor yet for your body, what ye ſhall put on. Is not the life more worth than meat? and the body than raiment?

26 Behold the fowls of the [k] heaven: for they ſow not, neither reap, nor carry into the barns: yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

27 Which of you by [l] taking care is able to add one cubit unto his ſtature?

28 And why care ye for raiment? Learn how the lilies of the field do grow: they [m] are not wearied, neither ſpin:

29 Yet I ſay unto you, that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of theſe.

30 Wherefore if God ſo cloath the graſs of the field, which is to-day, and to-morrow is caſt into the oven, ſhall he not do much more unto you, O ye of little faith?

31 Therefore take no thought, ſaying, What ſhall we eat? or what ſhall we drink? or wherewith ſhall we be cloathed?

32 (For after all theſe things ſeek the Gentiles) for your heavenly Father knoweth, that ye have need of all theſe things.

33 But ſeek ye firſt the kingdom of God, and his righteouſneſs, and all theſe things ſhall be miniſtered unto you.

34 Care not then for the morrow: for the morrow ſhall care for itſelf: the day hath enough with his own grief.

18 A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit: neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

* Ch. 3. 10.

19 * Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit, is hewn down, and caſt into the fire.

20 Therefore by their fruits ye ſhall know them.

[i] This word is a Syrian word, and ſignifieth all things that belong to money.

[9] The froward carking carefulneſs for things of this life, is corrected in the children of God by an earneſt thinking upon the providence of God.

[2] The ſtiff-necked and ſtubborn enemies of the goſpel are unworthy to have it preached unto them.

[a] A pearl hath his name among the Grecians, for the orient brightneſs that is in it: and a pearl was in ancient time in great eſtimation among the Latins: for a pearl that Cleopatra had, was valued at two hundred and fifty thouſand crowns: and the word is now borrowed from that, to ſignify the moſt precious heavenly doctrine.

[7] Even the beſt gifts that are, are nothing without godlineſs.

[d] By name here, is meant that mighty working power of God, which every man witneſſeth that calleth upon him.

ſide, into the country of the Gergeſenes, there met him two poſſeſſed with devils, which came out of the graves very fierce, ſo that no man might go by that way.

29 And behold, they cried out, ſaying, Jeſus the Son of God, What have we to do with thee? Art thou come hither to torment us before the time?

30 Now there was [f] afar off from them, a great herd of ſwine feeding.

31 And the devils beſought him, ſaying, If thou caſt us out, ſuffer us to go into the herd of ſwine.

32 And he ſaid unto them, Go. So they went out and departed into the herd of ſwine: and behold, the whole herd of ſwine ran headlong into the ſea, and died in the water.

33 Then the herdmen fled: and when they were come into the city, they told all things, and what was become of them that were poſſeſſed with the devils,

3 And behold, certain of the Scribes ſaid within themſelves, This man [c] blaſphemeth.

4 But when Jeſus ſaw their thoughts, he ſaid, Wherefore think ye evil things in your hearts?

5 For whether is it eaſier to ſay, Thy ſins are forgiven thee, or to ſay, Ariſe, and walk?

6 And that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority on earth to forgive ſins, (then ſaid he to the ſick of the palſy) Ariſe, take up thy bed, and go to thine houſe.

10 And it came to paſs, as Jeſus ſat at meat in his houſe, Behold, many Publicans and [e] ſinners, that came thither, ſat down at the table with Jeſus and his diſciples.

11 And when the Phariſees ſaw that, they ſaid to his diſciples, Why eateth your maſter with Publicans and ſinners?

12 Now when Jeſus heard it, he ſaid unto them, The whole need not a phyſician, but they that are ſick.

13 But go ye and learn what this is, * I will have mercy, and not ſacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but the * ſinners to repentance. * Hoſ. 6. 6. Ch. 12. 7. * 1 Tim. 1. 15.

14 ¶ * [3] Then came the diſciples of John to him, ſaying, Why do we and the Phariſees faſt oft, and thy diſciples faſt not? * Mark 2. 18. Luke 5. 33.

15 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Can the [f] children of the marriage chamber mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? But the days will come, when the bridegroom ſhall be taken from them, and then ſhall they faſt.

16 Moreover, no man pieceth an old garment with a piece of [g] new cloth, for that that ſhould fill it up, taketh away from the garment, and the breach is worſe.

17 Neither do they put new wine into old veſſels: for then the veſſels would break, and the wine would be ſpilt, and the veſſels ſhould periſh: but they put new wine into new veſſels, and ſo are both preſerved.

18 ¶ * [4] While he thus ſpake unto them, behold, there came a certain ruler, and worſhipped him, ſaying, My daughter is now deceaſed, but come and lay thine hand on her, and ſhe ſhall live. * Mark 5. 22. Luke 8. 41.

19 And Jeſus aroſe, and followed him with his diſciples.

20 (And behold, a woman which was diſeaſed with an iſſue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and touched the hem of his garment.

21 For ſhe ſaid in herſelf, If I may touch but his garment only, I ſhall be whole.

22 Then Jeſus turned him about, and ſeeing her, did ſay, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole at that ſame moment.)

23 [5] Now when Jeſus came into the ruler's houſe, and ſaw the [h] minſtrels and the multitude making noiſe,

24 He ſaid unto them, Get you hence: for the maid is not dead, but ſleepeth. And they laughed him to ſcorn.

[f] On an hill, as Mark and Luke witneſs: now Gedera, as Joſeph recordeth, book 17. chap. 13. lived after the order of the Grecians, and therefore we may not marvel if there were ſwine there.

[g] Where men live as ſwine, there doth not Chriſt tarry, but devils.

[1] Sins are the cauſes of our afflictions, and Chriſt only forgiveth them, if we believe.

[a] Into Capernaum, for as Theoph. ſaith, Bethlehem brought him forth, Nazareth brought him up, and Capernaum was his dwelling-place.

[b] Knowing by a manifeſt ſign.

[c] To blaſpheme, ſignifieth, amongſt the divines, to ſpeak wickedly: and amongſt the more eloquent Grecians, to ſlander.

[2] Chriſt calleth the humble ſinners unto him, but he contemneth the proud hypocrites.

[d] At the cuſtomers table, where it was received.

[e] The cuſtomers fellows which were placed by the Romans, after that Judea was brought into the form of the province, to gather the cuſtoms, and therefore of the reſt of the Jews they were called ſinners, that is to ſay, very vile men.

[3] Againſt naughty emulation in matters indifferent.

[f] An Hebrew kind of ſpeech; for they that are admitted into the marriage chamber, are as the neareſt about the bridegroom.

[g] Raw, which was never put to the fuller.

[4] There is no evil ſo old and incurable which Chriſt cannot heal by and by, if he be touched with true faith: but lightly, as it were, with the hand.

[5] Even death itſelf giveth place to the power of Chriſt.

[h] It appeareth that they uſed minſtrels at their mourning.

A. D. 31.

25 And when the multitude were put forth, he went in and took her by the hand, and the maid aroſe.

26 And this bruit went throughout all that land.

27 [6] And as Jeſus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and ſaying, O ſon of David, have mercy upon us.

28 And when he was come into the houſe, the blind came to him: and Jeſus ſaid unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? And they ſaid unto him, Yea, Lord.

29 Then touched he their eyes, ſaying, According to your faith be it unto you.

30 And their eyes were opened, and Jeſus gave them great charge, ſaying, See that no man know it.

31 But when they were departed, they ſpread abroad his fame throughout all that land.

* Luke 11. 14. 32 ¶ * [7] And as they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man poſſeſſed with a devil.

33 And when the devil was caſt out, the dumb ſpake: then the multitude marvelled, ſaying, The like was never ſeen in Iſrael.

* Ch. 12. 24. Mark 3. 22. Luke 11. 15. 34 But the Phariſees ſaid, * He caſteth out devils through the prince of devils.

* Mark 6. 6. Luke 13. 22. 35 ¶ And * Jeſus went about all cities and towns, teaching in their ſynagogues, and preaching the goſpel of the kingdom, and healing every ſickneſs, and every diſeaſe among the people.

* Mark 6. 34. 36 [8] But * when he ſaw the multitude, he had compaſſion upon them, becauſe they were diſperſed, and ſcattered abroad, as ſheep having no ſhepherd.

* Luke 10. 2. John 4. 35, 36. 37 Then ſaid he to his diſciples, * Surely the harveſt is great, but the labourers are few.

38 Wherefore pray the Lord of the harveſt, that he would [i] ſend forth labourers into his harveſt.

CHAP. X.

1 The gift of healing given to the apoſtles. 5 They are ſent to preach the goſpel. 13 Peace. 14 Shaking off the duſt. 16 Affliction. 22 Continuance unto the end. 23 Flying from perſecution. 28 Fear. 29 Two ſparrows. 30 Hairs of our head. 32 To acknowledge Chriſt. 34 Peace and the ſword. 35 Variance. 37 Love of parents. 38 The croſs. 39 To loſe the life. 40 To receive a preacher.

* Mark 3. 13, 14, 15. Luke 9. 1, 2. AND * [1] he called his twelve diſciples unto him, and gave them power againſt unclean ſpirits, to caſt them out, and to heal every ſickneſs, and every diſeaſe.

2 Now the names of the twelve apoſtles are theſe. The [a] firſt is Simon, called Peter, and Andrew his brother: James the ſon of Zebedee, and John his brother:

A. D. 31.

3 Philip and Bartholomew: Thomas, and Matthew the Publican: James the ſon of Alpheus, and Lebbeus, whoſe ſurname was Thaddeus:

4 Simon the Canaanite, and Judas [b] Iſcariot, who alſo betrayed him.

5 Theſe twelve did Jeſus ſend forth, and commanded them, ſaying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into the cities of the Samaritans enter ye not:

6 But go rather * to the loſt ſheep of the houſe of Iſrael. * Acts 13. 46.

7 * [2] And as ye go, preach, ſaying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. * Luke 10. 9, 11.

8 [3] Heal the ſick, cleanſe the lepers: raiſe up the dead: caſt out the devils. Freely ye have received, freely give.

9 * [4] Poſſeſs [c] not gold, nor ſilver, nor money in your girdles, * Mark 6. 8, 9. Luke 9. 3, and 22. 35.

10 Nor a ſcrip for the journey, neither two coats, neither ſhoes, nor a ſtaff: * for the workman is worthy of his [d] meat. * 1 Tim. 5. 15.

11 [5] And into * whatſoever city or town ye ſhall come, enquire who is worthy in it, and there abide till ye go thence. * Luke 10. 8.

12 And when ye come into an houſe, ſalute the ſame.

13 And if the houſe be worthy, let your [e] peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you.

14 * And whoſoever ſhall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that houſe, or that city, * ſhake off the duſt of your feet. * Mark 6. 11. Luke 9. 5. * Acts 13. 51.

15 Truly I ſay unto you, it ſhall be eaſier for them of the land of Sodom and Gomorrah, in the day of judgment, than for that city.

16 ¶ * [6] Behold, I ſend you as [f] ſheep in the midſt of wolves: be ye therefore wiſe as ſerpents, and [g] innocent as doves. * Luke 10. 3.

17 But beware of [h] men, for they will deliver you up to the councils, and will ſcourge you in their ſynagogues.

18 And ye ſhall be brought to the governors and kings for my ſake, in witneſs to them, and to the Gentiles.

19 * But when they deliver you up, take no thought how or what ye ſhall ſpeak: for it ſhall be given you in that hour what ye ſhall ſay. * Mark 13. 11. Luke 12. 11.

20 For it is not ye that ſpeak, but the Spirit of your Father which ſpeaketh in you.

21 And the * brother ſhall betray the brother to * Luke 21. 16.

[6] By healing theſe two blind, Chriſt ſheweth that he is the light of the world.

[7] An example of that power, that Chriſt hath over the devil.

[8] Although the ordinary paſtors ceaſe, yet Chriſt hath not caſt off the care of his church.

[i] Word for word, caſt them out: for men are very ſlow in ſo holy a work.

[1] The apoſtles are ſent to preach the goſpel in Iſrael.

[a] Theophylact ſaith, that Peter and Andrew are called the firſt, becauſe they were firſt called.

[b] A man of Kerioth. Now Kerioth was in the tribe of Judah, Joſh. 15. 25.

[2] The ſum of the goſpel, or preaching of the apoſtles.

[3] Miracles are dependences of the word.

[4] The miniſters of the word muſt caſt away all cares that might hinder them the leaſt wiſe that might be.

[c] For this journey, to wit, both that nothing might hinder them, and alſo that they might feel ſome taſte of God's providence: for at their return back, the Lord aſketh of them, whether they lacked any thing by the way, Luke. 22. 35.

[d] God will provide you meat.

[5] Happy are they that receive the preaching of the goſpel: and unhappy are they that refuſe it.

[e] It is a manner of ſpeech taken from the Hebrews, whereby they meant all kind of happineſs.

[6] Chriſt ſheweth how the miniſters muſt behave themſelves under the croſs.

[f] You ſhall be in great danger.

[g] You ſhall not ſo much as revenge an injury: and by the mixing of theſe beaſts natures together, he will not have our wiſdom to be malicious, nor our ſimplicity mad, but a certain form of good nature as exquiſitely framed of both them as may be.

[h] For in the cauſe of religion men are wolves one to another.

A. D. 31.

to death, and the father the ſon, and the children ſhall riſe againſt their parents, and ſhall cauſe them to die.

22 And ye ſhall be hated of all men for my name: * but he that endureth to the end, he ſhall be ſaved. * Mark 13. 13.

23 And when they perſecute you in this city, flee into another: for verily I ſay unto you, ye ſhall not [i] go over all the cities of Iſrael, till the Son of man be come.

24 * The diſciple is not above his maſter, nor the ſervant above his lord. * Luke 6. 40. John 13. 16. and 15. 20.

25 It is enough for the diſciple to be as his maſter is, and the ſervant as his lord. * If they have called the maſter of the houſe [k] Beelzebub, how much more them of his houſhold? * Ch. 12. 24.

26 [l] Fear them not therefore: * for there is nothing covered, that ſhall not be diſcloſed: nor hid, that ſhall not be known. * Mark 4. 22. Luke 8. 17. and 12. 2.

27 What I tell you in darkneſs, that ſpeak ye in light: and what ye hear in the ear, that preach ye on the [m] houſes.

28 And [n] fear ye not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the ſoul: but rather fear him, which is able to deſtroy both ſoul and body in hell.

29 Are not two ſparrows ſold for a [o] farthing? and one of them ſhall not fall on the ground without your Father.

30 * Yea, and all the hairs of your head are numbered. * 1 Sam. 14. 45. 2 Sam. 14. 11. Acts 27. 34.

31 Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many ſparrows.

32 [7] * Whoſoever therefore ſhall confeſs me before men, him will I confeſs alſo before my Father which is in heaven. * Mark 8. 38. Luke 9. 26. and 12. 8. 2 Tim. 2. 12.

33 But whoſoever ſhall deny me before men, him will I alſo deny before my Father which is in heaven.

34 * [8] Think not that I am come to ſend peace into the earth: I came not to ſend peace, but the ſword. * Luke 12. 51.

35 For I am come to ſet a man at variance againſt his father, and the daughter againſt her mother, and the daughter-in-law againſt her mother-in-law.

36 * And a man's enemies ſhall be they of his own houſhold. * Mic. 7. 6.

37 * [9] He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me. And he that loveth ſon or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me. * Luke 14. 26.

38 * And he that taketh not his croſs, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me. * Ch. 16. 24. Mark 8. 34. Luke 9. 23. and 14. 27.

39 * He that will [p] find his life, ſhall loſe it: and he that loſeth his life for my ſake, ſhall find it. * John 12. 25.

40 [10] He that receiveth you, receiveth me: and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that ſent me.

A. D. 31.

41 * [11] He that receiveth a prophet in [q] the name of a prophet, ſhall receive a prophet's reward: and he that receiveth a righteous man in the name of a righteous man, ſhall receive the reward of a righteous man. * Luke 10. 16. John 13. 20.

42 * And whoſoever ſhall give unto one of theſe [r] little ones to drink a cup of cold water only, in the name of a diſciple, verily, I ſay unto you, he ſhall not loſe his reward. * Mark 9. 41.

1 John ſendeth his diſciples to Chriſt. 7 Chriſt's teſtimony of John. 13 The law and the prophets. 18 Chriſt and John. 21 Chorazin, Bethſaida. 25 The goſpel revealed to children. 28 They that are weary and laden.

AND [1] it came to paſs, that when Jeſus had made an end of [a] commanding his twelve diſciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in [b] their cities.

2 ¶ * And when John heard in the priſon the works of Chriſt, he ſent two of his diſciples, and ſaid unto him, * Luke 7. 18.

3 Art thou he that ſhould come, or ſhall we look for another?

4 And Jeſus anſwering, ſaid unto them, Go, and ſhew John what things ye hear and ſee.

5 The blind receive ſight, and the halt do walk: the lepers are cleanſed, and the deaf hear: the dead are raiſed up, and the * poor receive the goſpel. * Iſa. 61. 1. Luke 4. 18.

6 And bleſſed is he that ſhall not be offended in me.

7 [2] And as they departed, Jeſus began to ſpeak unto the multitude of John, What went ye out into the wilderneſs to ſee? a reed ſhaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out to ſee? a man clothed in ſoft raiment? Behold, they that wear ſoft clothing are in kings houſes.

9 But what went ye out to ſee? A prophet? Yea, I ſay unto you, and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he of whom it is written, * Behold, I ſend my meſſenger before thy face, which ſhall prepare thy way before thee. * Mal. 3. 1. Luke 7. 27.

11 Verily, I ſay unto you, Among them which are begotten of women, aroſe there not a greater than John Baptiſt: notwithſtanding, he that is the leaſt in the [c] kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 And from * the time of John Baptiſt hitherto, the kingdom of heaven ſuffereth violence, and the violent take it by force. * Luke 16. 16.

[i] Bring to an end, that is, you ſhall not have gone through all the cities of Iſrael, and preached in them.

[k] It was the idol of the Acronites, which we call the god of flies.

[l] Truth ſhall not always be hid.

[m] Openly, and in the higheſt places. For the tops of their houſes were ſo made, that they might walk upon them, Acts 10. 9.

[n] Though tyrants be never ſo raging and cruel, yet we may not fear them.

[o] The fourth part of an ounce.

[7] The neceſſity and reward of open confeſſing Chriſt.

[8] Civil diſſenſions follow the preaching of the goſpel.

[9] Nothing without exception is to be preferred before our duty to God.

[p] They are ſaid to find their life, which deliver it out of danger: and that is ſpoken after the opinion of the people, which think them clean loſt that die, becauſe they think not of the life to come.

[10] God is both author and revenger of his holy miniſtry.

[11] We ſhall loſe nothing that we beſtow upon Chriſt.

[q] As a prophet.

[a] Of inſtructing them with precepts.

[b] The diſciples cities, that is to ſay, in Galilee, where many of them were born, Acts 2. 7.

[2] What agreement, and what difference is betwixt the miniſtry of the prophets, the preaching of John, and the full light of the goſpel, which Chriſt hath brought.

[c] In the new ſtate of the church, where the true glory of God ſhineth: the perſons are not compared together, but the kinds of doctrine, the preaching of John with the law and the prophets, and again, the moſt clear preaching of of the goſpel with John.

A. D. 31.

13 For all the prophets and the law [d] propheſied unto John.

16 * [3] But whereunto ſhall I liken this generation? [e] It is like unto little children which ſit in the markets, and call unto their fellows,

17 And ſay, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced: we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they ſay, He hath a devil.

19 The Son of man came eating and drinking, and they ſay, Behold a glutton and a drinker of wine, a friend unto Publicans and ſinners: [4] but [f] wiſdom is juſtified of her children.

* Luke 10. 13.

20 ¶ [5] * Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein moſt of his great works were done, becauſe they repented not.

21 Wo be to thee, Chorazin: Wo be to thee, Bethſaida: for if the great works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they had repented long agone in ſackcloth and aſhes.

22 But I ſay unto you, It ſhall be eaſier for Tyre and Sidon at the day of judgment than for you.

23 And thou Capernaum, which art lifted up unto heaven, ſhalt be brought down to hell: for if the great works, which have been done in thee, had been done among them of Sodom, they had remained to this day.

24 But I ſay unto you, that it ſhall be eaſier for them of the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee.

* Luke 10. 21.

25 * At that time Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid, I give thee thanks, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, becauſe thou haſt hid theſe things from the wiſe and men of underſtanding, and haſt [g] opened them unto babes.

26 It is [h] ſo, O Father, becauſe thy [i] good pleaſure was ſuch.

* John 3. 35.
* John 6. 46.

27 * [6] All things are given unto me of my Father: and * no man knoweth the Son, but the Father: neither knoweth any man the Father, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

28 Come unto me, all ye that are weary and laden, and I will eaſe you.

* Jer. 6. 16.

29 Take my yoke on you, and learn of me, that I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye ſhall find * reſt unto your ſouls.

11 And he ſaid unto them, What man ſhall there be among you, that hath a ſheep, and if it fall on a ſabbath-day into a pit, doth he not take it, and lift it out?

12 How much more then is a man better than a ſheep? therefore it is lawful to do well on the ſabbath day.

13 Then ſaid he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he ſtretched it forth, and it was made whole as the other.

14 [3] Then the Phariſees went out, and conſulted againſt him, how they might deſtroy him.

A. D. 31.

35 A good man out of the good treaſure of his heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of an evil treaſure bringeth forth evil things.

36 But I ſay unto you, that of every [e] idle word that men ſhall ſpeak, they ſhall give account thereof at the day of judgment.

37 For by thy words thou ſhalt be juſtified, and by thy words thou ſhalt be condemned.

43 ¶ * Now when the unclean ſpirit is gone out of a man, he walketh throughout dry places, ſeeking reſt, and findeth none.

* Mark 3. 1. Luke 8. 20.

46 ¶ [10] * While he yet ſpake to the multitude, behold, his mother and his brethren ſtood without, deſiring to ſpeak with him.

47 Then one ſaid unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren ſtand without, deſiring to ſpeak with thee.

48 But he anſwered and ſaid to him that told him, Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?

49 [11] And he ſtretched forth his hand toward his diſciples, and ſaid, Behold my mother and my brethren.

50 For whoſoever ſhall do my Father's will which is in heaven, the ſame is my brother and ſiſter and mother.

[c] By judgment is meant a ſettled ſtate, becauſe Chriſt was to publiſh true religion among the Gentiles, and to caſt out ſuperſtition, which thing whereſoever it is done, the Lord is ſaid to reign and judge there: that is to ſay, to govern and rule matters.

[d] He ſhall pronounce ſentence and judgment, maugre the world and Satan, and ſhew himſelf conqueror over all his enemies.

[4] A truth, be it never ſo manifeſt, is ſubject to the ſlander of the wicked: yet notwithſtanding it ought to be avouched ſtoutly.

[5] The kingdom of Chriſt, and the kingdom of the devil cannot conſiſt together.

[8] Againſt froward deſirers of miracles.

[f] Baſtards which fell from Abraham's faith, or forſook the true worſhip of God.

[9] Chriſt teacheth by the ſorrowful example of the Jews, that there are none more miſerable than they which put out the light of the goſpel, which was kindled in them.

[g] He meaneth the queen of Sheba, whoſe country is South, in reſpect of the land of Iſrael, 1 Kings 10.

[h] For Sheba is ſituate in the utmoſt coaſt of happy Arabia, upon the mouth of the Arabian ſea.

[10] Chriſt teacheth by his own example, how that all things ought to be ſet apart, in reſpect of God's glory.

* Mark 4. 1. Luke 8. 4. 5.

THE * ſame day went Jeſus out of the houſe, and ſat by the ſea ſide.

2 [1] And great multitudes reſorted unto him, ſo that he went into a ſhip, and ſat down: and the whole multitude ſtood on the ſhore.

3 Then he ſpake many things to them in parables, ſaying, Behold, a ſower went forth to ſow.

4 And as he ſowed, ſome fell by the wayſide, and the fowls came and devoured them up.

5 And ſome fell upon ſtony ground, where they had not much earth, and anon they ſprung up, becauſe they had no depth of earth.

6 And when the ſun was up, they were parched, and for lack of rooting, withered away.

7 And ſome fell among thorns, and the thorns ſprung up, and choked them.

8 Some again fell in good ground, and brought forth fruit, one corn an hundred-fold, ſome ſixty-fold, and another thirty-fold.

9 He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 ¶ Then the diſciples came, and ſaid to him, Why ſpeakeſt thou to them in parables?

11 [2] And he anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Becauſe it is given unto you to know the ſecrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

* Chap. 25. 29.

12 * For whoſoever hath, to him ſhall be given, and he ſhall have abundance: but whoſoever hath not, from him ſhall be taken away even that he hath.

13 Therefore ſpeak I to them in parables, becauſe they ſeeing, do not ſee: and hearing, they hear not, neither underſtand.

* Iſa. 6. 9. Mark 4. 12. Luke 8. 10. John 12. 40. Acts 28. 26. Rom. 11. 8.

14 So in them is fulfilled the prophecy of Eſaias, which prophecy ſaith, * By hearing, ye ſhall hear, and ſhall not underſtand: and ſeeing, ye ſhall ſee, and ſhall not perceive.

15 For this people's heart is waxed fat, and their ears are dull of hearing, and with their eyes they have winked, leſt they ſhould ſee with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and ſhould underſtand with their hearts, and ſhould return that I might heal them.

16 [3] But bleſſed are your eyes, for they ſee: and your ears, for they hear.

* Luke 10. 24.

17 * For verily, I ſay unto you, that many prophets and righteous men have deſired to ſee thoſe things which ye ſee, and have not ſeen them: and to hear thoſe things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

* Mark 4. 15. Luke 8. 11.

18 ¶ * Hear ye therefore the parable of the ſower.

19 Whenſoever any man heareth the word of that kingdom, and underſtandeth it not, that evil one cometh, and catcheth away that which was ſown in his [a] heart: and this is he which hath received the ſeed by the way ſide.

20 And he that received ſeed in the ſtony ground, is he which heareth the word, and incontinently with joy receiveth it,

21 Yet hath he no root in himſelf, and dureth but a ſeaſon: for as ſoon as tribulation or perſecution cometh becauſe of the word, by and by he is offended.

22 And he that received the ſeed among thorns, is he that heareth the word: but the care of this world, and the deceitfulneſs of riches, choke the word, and he is made unfruitful.

23 But he that received the ſeed in the good ground, is he that heareth the word, and underſtandeth it, which alſo beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, ſome an hundred-fold, ſome ſixty-fold, and ſome thirty-fold.

24 ¶ [4] Another parable put he forth unto them, ſaying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a man which ſowed good ſeed in his field:

25 But while men ſlept, there came his enemy, and ſowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 And when the blade was ſprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares alſo.

27 Then came the ſervants of the houſholder, and ſaid unto him, Maſter, ſowedſt not thou good ſeed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 And he ſaid to them, Some envious man hath done this. Then the ſervants ſaid unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?

29 But he ſaid, Nay, leſt while ye go about to gather the tares, ye pluck up alſo with them the wheat.

30 Let both grow together until the harveſt, and in time of harveſt I will ſay to the reapers, Gather ye firſt the tares, and bind them in ſheaves to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.

* Mark 4. 30. Luke 13. 19.

31 ¶ * [5] Another parable he put forth unto them, ſaying, The kingdom of heaven is like unto a grain of muſtard-ſeed, which a man taketh and ſoweth in his field:

32 Which indeed is the leaſt of all ſeeds: but when it is grown, it is the greateſt among herbs, and it is a tree, ſo that the birds of heaven come and build in the branches thereof.

* Luke 13. 21.

---

[1] Chriſt ſheweth, in putting forth this parable of the ſower, that the ſeed of life which is ſown in the world, cometh not on ſo well in one as in another, and the reaſon is, for that men, for the moſt part, either do not receive it, or ſuffer it not to ripen.

[2] The gift of underſtanding and of faith is proper to the elect, and all the reſt are blinded through the juſt judgment of God.

[3] The condition of the church under, and ſince Chriſt, is better than it was in the time of the fathers under the law.

[a] Though there be mention made of the heart, yet this ſowing is referred to hearing, without underſtanding. For whether the ſeed be received in the heart or no, yet he that ſoweth, ſoweth to the heart.

[4] Chriſt ſheweth in another parable of the evil ſeed mixt with the good, that the church ſhall never be free and quit from offences, both in doctrine and manners, until the day appointed for the reſtoring of all things do come, and therefore the faithful have to arm themſelves with patience and conſtancy.

[5] God beginneth his kingdom with very ſmall beginnings, to the end that by the growing on of it, beſide the expectation and hope of all men, his mighty power and working may be the more ſet forth.

A. D. 31. The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman taketh and hideth in three pecks of meal, till all be leavened.

* Mark 4. 33. 34. 34 ¶ * All theſe things ſpake Jeſus unto the multitude in parables, and without parables ſpake he not to them,

35 That it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by the prophet, ſaying, * I will open my mouth in parables, and will utter the things which have been kept ſecret from the foundation of the world. * Pſ. 78. 2.

36 Then ſent Jeſus the multitude away, and went into the houſe. And his diſciples came unto him, ſaying, Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

37 [6] Then anſwered he, and ſaid to them, He that ſoweth the good ſeed, is the Son of man.

38 And the field is the world, and the good ſeed are the children of the kingdom, and the tares are the children of that wicked one.

39 And the enemy that ſoweth them, is the devil, * and the harveſt is the end of the world, and the reapers be the angels. * Joel. 3. 13. Rev. 14. 15.

40 As then the tares are gathered and burned in the fire, ſo ſhall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Son of man ſhall ſend forth his angels, and they ſhall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity.

42 And ſhall caſt them into a furnace of fire. There ſhall be wailing and gnaſhing of teeth.

43 * Then ſhall the juſt men ſhine as the ſun in the kingdom of their Father. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. * Dan. 12. 3.

44 ¶ [7] Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a treaſure hid in the field, which when a man hath found, he hideth it, and for joy thereof departeth, and ſelleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

45 ¶ Again, the kingdom of heaven is like to a merchant-man, that ſeeketh good pearls,

46 Who having found a pearl of great price, went and ſold all that he had, and bought it.

47 ¶ [8] Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a draw-net caſt into the ſea, that gathereth of all kinds of things,

48 Which, when it is full, men draw to land, and ſit and gather the good into veſſels, and caſt the bad away.

49 So ſhall it be at the end of the world. The angels ſhall go forth, and ſever the bad from among the juſt,

50 And ſhall caſt them into a furnace of fire: there ſhall be wailing, and gnaſhing of teeth.

51 ¶ [9] Jeſus ſaid unto them, Underſtand ye all theſe things? They ſaid unto him, Yea, Lord. A. D. 31.

52 Then ſaid he unto them, Therefore every Scribe which is taught unto the kingdom of heaven, is like unto an houſholder, which bringeth forth out of his treaſure things both new and old.

53 ¶ And it came to paſs, that when Jeſus had ended theſe parables, he departed thence,

54 * [10] And came into his own country, and taught them in their ſynagogue, ſo that they were aſtoniſhed, and ſaid, Whence cometh this wiſdom and great works unto this man? * Mark 6. 1. Luke 4. 16.

55 Is not this the carpenter's ſon? Is not his mother called Mary, * and his brethren James, and Joſes, and Simon, and Judas? * John 6. 42.

56 And are not his ſiſters all with us? Whence then hath he all theſe things?

57 And they were offended with him. Then Jeſus ſaid to them, * A prophet is not without honour, ſave in his own country, and in his own houſe. * Mark 6. 4. Luke 4. 24. John 4. 44.

58 And he did not many great works there, for their unbelief's ſake.

[6] He expoundeth the former parable of the good and evil ſeed.

[7] Few men underſtand how great the riches of the kingdom of heaven are; and no man can be partaker of them, but he that redeemeth them with the loſs of all his goods.

[8] There are many in the church, which notwithſtanding are not of the church, and therefore at length ſhall be caſt out: but the full and perfect cleanſing of them is deferred to the laſt day.

[9] They ought to be diligent, which have not only to be wiſe for themſelves, but to diſpenſe the wiſdom of God to others.

[10] Men do not only ſin of ignorance, but alſo wittingly and willingly lay ſtumbling-blocks in their own ways, that when God calleth them, they may not obey, and ſo moſt plainly deſtroy and caſt away themſelves.

[1] Here is in John an example of invincible courage, which all faithful miniſters of God's word ought to follow: in Herod, an example of tyrannous vanity, pride and cruelty, and to be ſhort, of a courtly conſcience, and of their miſerable ſlavery, which have once given themſelves over to pleaſures: in Herodias and her daughter, an example of whorelike wantonneſs and womanlike cruelty.

[a] By works, he meaneth that force and power, whereby works are wrought, and not the works, as is ſeen oft before.

[b] There were three Herods: the firſt of them was Antipater's ſon, who is alſo called Aſcalonius, in whoſe reign Chriſt was born, and he it was that cauſed the children to be ſlain. The ſecond was called Antipas, Magnus his ſon, whoſe mother's name was Malthaca or Martaca, and this was called Tetrarch, by reaſon of enlarging his dominion, when Archelaus was baniſhed to Vienne in France. The third was Agrippa, Magnus his nephew by Ariſtobulus, and he it was that ſlew James.

cauſe of the oath, and them that ſat with him at the table, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And ſent, and beheaded John in the priſon.

11 And his head was brought in a platter, and given to the maid, and ſhe brought it unto her mother.

12 And his diſciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went and told Jeſus.

* Mark 6. 35. Luke 9. 10.

13 * And when Jeſus heard it, he departed thence by ſhip into a deſert place apart. And when the multitude had heard it, they followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 [2] And Jeſus went forth, and ſaw a great multitude, and was moved with compaſſion toward them, and he healed their ſick.

* Mark 6. 35. Luke 9. 12. John 6. 5.

15 ¶ And when even was come, * his diſciples came to him, ſaying, This is a deſert place, and the time is already paſt: let the multitude depart, that they may go into the towns, and buy them victuals.

16 But Jeſus ſaid to them, They have no need to go away: give ye them to eat.

17 Then ſaid they unto him, We have here but five loaves and two fiſhes.

18 And he ſaid, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to ſit down on the graſs, and took the five loaves and the two fiſhes, and looked up to heaven, and bleſſed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his diſciples, and the diſciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eat, and were ſufficed, and took up of the fragments that remained, twelve baſkets full.

21 And they that had eaten, were about five thouſand men, beſide women, and little children.

22 ¶ And ſtraightway Jeſus compelled his diſciples to enter into a ſhip, and to go over before him, while he ſent the multitude away.

* Mark 6. 45, 46, 47. John 6. 16, 17, 18.

23 And as ſoon as he had ſent the multitude away, he went up into a mountain alone to pray: and * when the evening was come, he was there alone.

24 [3] And the ſhip was now in the midſt of the ſea, and was toſſed with waves: for it was a contrary wind.

25 And in the [c] fourth watch of the night, Jeſus went unto them, walking on the ſea.

26 And when his diſciples ſaw him walking on the ſea, they were troubled, ſaying, It is a [d] ſpirit, and cried out for fear.

27 But ſtraightway Jeſus ſpake unto them, ſaying, Be of good comfort, it is I: be not afraid.

A. D. 31.

28 [4] Then Peter anſwered him, and ſaid, Maſter, if it be thou, bid me come unto thee on the water.

29 And he ſaid, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ſhip, he walked on the water, to go to Jeſus.

30 But when he ſaw a mighty wind, he was afraid: and as he began to ſink, he cried, ſaying, Maſter, ſave me.

31 So immediately Jeſus ſtretched forth his hand, and caught him, and ſaid unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didſt thou doubt?

32 And as ſoon as they were come into the ſhip, the wind ceaſed.

33 Then they that were in the ſhip, came and worſhipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God.

* Mark 6. 54.

34 ¶ * And when they were come over, they came into the land of [e] Genneſaret.

35 [5] And when the men of that place knew him, they ſent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were ſick,

36 And beſought him that they might touch the hem of his garment only: and as many as touched it were made whole.

8 This

---

[2] Chriſt refreſheth a great multitude with five loaves and two little fiſhes, ſhewing thereby that they ſhall want nothing, which lay all things aſide, and ſeek the kingdom of heaven.

[3] We muſt ſail through mighty tempeſts, and Chriſt will never forſake us, ſo that we go whither he hath commanded us.

[c] By the fourth watch is meant the time near to day breaking: for in old time they divided the night into four watches, in which they ſcouted.

[d] A ſpirit, as it is here taken, is that which a man imagineth to himſelf vainly in his mind, perſuading himſelf that he ſeeth ſomething, and ſeeth nothing.

[4] By faith we tread under our feet even the tempeſts themſelves, but yet by the virtue of Chriſt, which helpeth that virtue, which he of his mercy hath given.

[e] This Genneſaret was a lake nigh to Capernaum, which is alſo called the ſea of Galilee, and Tyberias, ſo that the country itſelf grew to be called by that name.

[5] In that that Chriſt healeth the ſick, we are given to underſtand, that we muſt ſeek remedy for ſpiritual diſeaſes at his hands: and that we are bound not only to run ourſelves, but alſo to bring others unto him.

[1] None commonly are more bold contemners of God, than they whom God appointeth to keep his law.

[a] Which they received of their anceſtors from hand to hand, or their elders allowed, which were the governors of the church.

[2] Their wicked boldneſs in corrupting the commandments of God, and that upon pretence of godlineſs, and uſurping authority to make laws, is here reproved.

[b] By honour is meant, all kind of duty which children owe to their parents.

[c] The meaning is this: whatſoever I beſtow upon the temple, is to thy profit, for it is as good as if I gave it thee, for (as the Phariſees of our time ſay) it ſhall be meritorious for thee: for under this colour of religion they raked all to themſelves, as though he that had given anything to the temple, had done the duty of a child.

[d] You made it of no power and authority as much as lay in you: for otherwiſe the commandments of God ſtand faſt in the church of God, in deſpite of the world and Satan.

[3] The ſame men are condemned for hypocriſy and ſuperſtition, becauſe they made the kingdom of God to ſtand in outward things.

A. D. 32.

* Iſa. 29, 13. 8 * This people draw near unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with the lips, but their heart is far off from me.

* Mark 7. 18. 11 * That which goeth into the mouth, defileth not the man: but that which cometh out of the mouth, that defileth the man.

* Mark 7. 17. 15 ¶ * Then anſwered Peter, and ſaid to him, Declare unto us this parable.

16 Then ſaid Jeſus, Are ye yet without underſtanding?

17 Perceive ye not yet, that whatſoever entereth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is caſt out into the draught?

18 But thoſe things which proceed out of the mouth, come from the heart, and they defile the man.

* Gen. 6. 5. and 8. 21. Mark 7. 21. 19 For out of the heart * come evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, falſe teſtimonies, ſlanders.

20 Theſe are the things which defile the man: but to eat with unwaſhen hands, defileth not the man.

* Mark 7. 24, 25. 21 * And Jeſus went thence, and departed into the [e] coaſts of Tyre and Sidon.

22 And behold, a woman a [f] Canaanite came out of the ſame coaſts, and cried, ſaying unto him, Have mercy on me, O Lord, the ſon of David: my daughter is miſerably vexed with a devil.

23 [5] But he anſwered her not a word. Then came to him his diſciples, and beſought him, ſaying, Send her away, for ſhe crieth after us.

* Chap. 10. 6. 24 But he anſwered, and ſaid, I am not ſent but unto the * loſt ſheep of the [g] houſe of Iſrael.

25 Yet ſhe came, and worſhipped him, ſaying, Lord, help me.

26 And he anſwered, and ſaid, It is not good to take the children's bread, and to caſt it to whelps.

27 But ſhe ſaid, Truth, Lord: yet indeed the whelps eat of the crums which fall from their maſter's table.

A. D. 32.

28 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it to thee as thou deſireſt. And her daughter was made whole at that hour.

* Mark 7. 31. 29 ¶ [6] So Jeſus * went away from thence, and came near unto the ſea of Galilee, and went up into a mountain and ſat down there.

* Iſa. 35. 5. 30 And great multitudes came unto him, * having with them halt, blind, dumb, [h] maimed, and many other, and caſt them down at Jeſus's feet, and he healed them:

31 Inſomuch that the multitude wondered, to ſee the dumb ſpeak, the maimed whole, the halt to go, and the blind to ſee: and they glorified the God of Iſrael.

* Mark 8. 1. 32 * [7] Then Jeſus called his diſciples unto him, and ſaid, I have compaſſion on this multitude, becauſe they have [i] continued with me already three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not let them depart faſting, leſt they faint in the way.

33 And his diſciples ſaid unto him, Whence ſhould we get ſo much bread in the wilderneſs, as ſhould ſuffice ſo great a multitude?

34 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, How many loaves have ye? And they ſaid, Seven, and a few little fiſhes.

35 Then he commanded the multitude to [k] ſit down on the ground,

36 And took the ſeven loaves, and the fiſhes, and gave thanks, and brake them, and gave to his diſciples, and the diſciples to the multitude.

37 And they did all eat, and were ſufficed: and they took up of the fragments that remained, ſeven [l] baſkets full.

38 And they that had eaten, were four thouſand men, beſide women, and little children.

39 Then Jeſus ſent away the multitude, and took ſhip, and came into the parts of Magdala.

[4] Chriſt teacheth us, that hypocriſy of falſe teachers which deceive our ſouls, is not to be borne withal, no not in indifferent matters, and there is no reaſon why their ordinary vocation ſhould blind our eyes, otherwiſe we are likely to periſh with them.

[5] In that, that Chriſt doth ſometimes as it were ſtop his ears againſt the prayers of his ſaints, he doth it for his glory, and our profit.

[g] Of the people of Iſrael, which people was divided into tribes, but all theſe tribes came of one houſe.

[6] Chriſt ceaſeth not to be beneficial, even there, where he is contemned, and in the midſt of wolves he gathereth together and foſtereth his flock.

[h] Whoſe members were weakened with the palſy, or by nature; for afterward it is ſaid, he healed them. Now Chriſt was wont to heal in this wiſe, that ſuch members as were weak, he reſtored to health; and yet he could eaſily, if he would, have given them hands and feet, and other members which wanted them.

[7] By doing again this miracle, Chriſt ſheweth that he will never be wanting to them that follow him, no not in the wilderneſs.

[l] A kind of veſſel wrought with twigs.

[1] The wicked, which otherwiſe are at defiance one with another, agree well together againſt Chriſt, but do what they can, Chriſt beareth away the victory, and triumpheth over them.

[a] To try whether he could do that which they deſired, but their purpoſe was naught, for they thought to find ſome thing in him by that means, whereupon they might have juſt occaſion to reprehend him: or elſe diſtruſt and curioſity moved them ſo to do, for by ſuch means alſo is God ſaid to be tempted, that is to ſay, provoked to anger, as though men would ſtrive with him.

[b] The outward ſhew and countenance, as it were of all things, is called in the Hebrew tongue, a face.

[c] The article ſheweth the notableneſs of the deed.

[2] Falſe teachers muſt be taken heed of.

[d] Not by others, but by virtue of his divinity.

[e] That five thouſand men were filled with ſo many loaves?

[f] A demand or queſtion joined with admiration.

[g] Said, for commanded.

[3] There are divers judgments and opinions of Chriſt, notwithſtanding he is known of his alone.

[h] There were two Ceſareas, the one called Stratonis upon the ſea Mediterranean, which Herod built ſumptuouſly in the honour of Octavius, Joſeph lib. 15. the other was Ceſarea Philippi, which Herod the great, the Tetrarch's ſon by Cleopatra, built in the honour of Tiberias, at the foot of Lebanon, Joſeph. lib. 15.

[i] As Herod thought.

[4] Faith is of grace, not of nature.

[k] By this kind of ſpeech is meant man's natural procreation upon the earth, the creature, not being deſtroyed, which was made, but deformed through ſin: ſo then this is the meaning: "this was not revealed to thee by any underſtanding of man, but God ſhewed it thee from heaven."

[5] That is, true faith, which confeſſeth Chriſt, the virtue whereof is invincible.

[l] Chriſt ſpake in the Syrian tongue, and therefore uſed not this deſcanting betwixt Petros, which ſignifieth Peter, and Petra, which ſignifieth a rock, but in both places uſed this word Cepha: but his mind was that wrote in Greece, by the divers termination to make a difference between Peter, which is a piece of the building, and Chriſt the Petra, that is, the rock and foundation: or elſe he gave his name Peter, becauſe of the confeſſion of his faith, which is the church's as well as his, as the old fathers witneſs: for ſo ſaith Theoph. "That confeſſion which thou haſt made, ſhall be the foundation of the believers."

[m] The enemies of the church are compared to a ſtrong kingdom, and therefore by gates are meant cities, which are made ſtrong with counſel and fortreſſes: and this is the meaning, whatſoever Satan can do by counſel or ſtrength. So doth Paul, 2 Cor. 10. 4. call them ſtrong holds.

[6] The authority of the church is from God.

[n] A metaphor taken of ſtewards which carry the keys, and here is ſet forth the power of the miniſters of the word, as Iſa. 22. 22. and that power is common to all miniſters, as chap. 18. 18. and therefore the miniſtry of the goſpel may rightly be called the key of the kingdom of heaven.

[o] They are bound whoſe ſins are retained, heaven is ſhut againſt them, becauſe they receive not Chriſt by faith: on the other ſide, how happy are they, to whom heaven is open, which embrace Chriſt, and are delivered by him, and become fellow-heirs with him!

[7] Men muſt firſt learn, and then teach.

[8] The minds of men are in time to be prepared, and made ready againſt the ſtumbling-block of perſecution.

[s] By this word we are taught, that Peter ſinned through a falſe perſuaſion of himſelf.

[10] No men do worſe provide for themſelves, than they that love themſelves more than God.

[t] Shall gain himſelf: and this is his meaning, they that deny Chriſt to ſave themſelves, do not only gain that which they look for, but alſo loſe the thing they would have kept, that is, themſelves, which loſs is the greateſt of all: but as for them that doubt not to die for Chriſt, it fareth far otherwiſe with them.

2 And was [b] transfigured before them : and his face did ſhine as the ſun, and his cloaths were white as the light.

3 And behold, there appeared unto them Moſes and Elias, talking with him.

4 Then anſwered Peter, and ſaid to Jeſus, Maſter, it is good for us to be here : if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moſes, and one for Elias.

[1] Chriſt is in ſuch ſort humble in the goſpel, that in the mean ſeaſon he is Lord both of heaven and earth.

[a] Luke reckoneth eight days, containing in that number, the firſt and laſt, and Matthew ſpeaketh but of them that were betwixt them.

[b] Changed into another hue.

[c] The article, or the word, That, ſevereth Chriſt from other children. For he is God's natural Son, we by adoption, therefore he is called the firſt begotten among the brethren, becauſe that although he be of right the only Son, yet is he chief among many, in that he is the Fountain and Head of the adoption.

[d] Fell down flat on their faces, and worſhipped him, as chap 2. 11.

[k] Ought he not to pay ?

[l] They that were from twenty years of age to fifty, paid half a ſhekel of the ſanctuary, Exod. 30. 13. This was an Attic didrachm which the Romans exacted after they had ſubdued Judea.

3 And ſaid, Verily I ſay unto you, except ye be * [b] converted, and become as little children, ye ſhall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. * Chap. 19. 14. 1 Cor. 14. 20.

4 Whoſoever therefore ſhall humble himſelf as this little child, the ſame is the greateſt in the kingdom of heaven.

5 And whoſoever ſhall receive one ſuch little child in my name, receiveth me.

7 [3] Wo be unto the world becauſe of offences: for it muſt needs be that [c] offences ſhall come, but wo be to that man by whom the offence cometh.

8 * Wherefore, if thy hand or thy foot cauſe thee to [d] offend, cut them off, and caſt them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life halt or maimed, than having two hands, or two feet, to be caſt into everlaſting fire. * Chap. 5. 29, 30. Mark 9. 45.

9 And if thine eye cauſe thee to offend, pluck it out and caſt it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, than having two eyes to be caſt into hell fire.

13 And if ſo be that he find it, verily I ſay unto you, he rejoiceth more of that ſheep, than of the ninety and nine which went not aſtray:

14 So it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of theſe little ones ſhould periſh.

15 ¶ * [5] Moreover, if thy brother treſpaſs againſt [e] thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he hear thee, thou haſt won thy brother: * Lev. 19. 17. Luke 17. 3. James 5. 19.

17 [6] And if he [h] refuſe to hear them, tell it unto the [i] church: and if he refuſe to hear the church alſo, let him be unto thee as [k] an heathen man, and a publican.

18 Verily I ſay unto you, * Whatſoever ye bind on earth, ſhall be bound in heaven: and * whatſoever ye looſe on earth, ſhall be looſed in heaven. * 1 Cor. 5. 4. 2 Theſſ. 3. 14. * John 20. 23.

19 Again, Verily I ſay unto you, that if two of you ſhall [l] agree in earth upon any thing, whatſoever they ſhall deſire, it ſhall be given them of my Father which is in heaven.

20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midſt of them.

21 [7] Then came Peter to him, and ſaid, Maſter, how oft ſhall my brother ſin againſt me, and I ſhall forgive him? * unto ſeven times? * Luke 17. 4.

22 Jeſus ſaid unto him, I ſay not unto thee, Unto ſeven times, but unto ſeventy times ſeven times:

23 Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take an account of his ſervants.

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him [m] ten thouſand talents:

6 Wherefore they are no more twain, but one fleſh. Let not man therefore put aſunder that, which God hath [e] coupled together.

*Deut. 24. 1.

7 [2] They ſaid to him, Why did then * Moſes command to give a bill of divorcement, and to put her away?

10 Then ſaid his diſciples to him, If the [i] matter be ſo between man and wife, it is not good to marry.

11 [3] But he ſaid unto them, All men cannot [k] receive this thing, ſave they to whom it is given.

12 For there are ſome [l] eunuchs which were ſo born of their mothers belly: and there be ſome eunuchs which be gelded by men: and there be ſome eunuchs which have [m] gelded themſelves for the kingdom of heaven. He that is able to receive this, let him receive it.

[c] The Greek word importeth to be glewed unto, whereby is ſignified that ſtrait knot which is between man and wife, as though they were glewed together.

[d] They which were two, become as it were one: and this word fleſh, is by a figure taken for the whole man, or the body, after the manner of the Hebrews.

[e] Hath made them yoke-fellows, as the marriage itſelf is by a borrowed kind of ſpeech called a yoke.

[2] Becauſe politic laws are conſtrained to bear with ſome things, it followeth not by and by that God alloweth them.

[f] Being occaſioned by reaſon of the hardneſs of your hearts.

[g] By a politic law, not by the moral law, for this law is a perpetual law of God's juſtice, the other boweth and bendeth as the carpenter's bevil.

[h] Therefore in theſe days the laws that were made againſt adulterers, were not regarded: for they ſhould have needed no divorcement, if marriage had been cut aſunder with puniſhment by death.

[i] If the matter ſtand ſo between man and wife, or in marriage.

22 And when the young man heard that ſaying, he went away ſorrowful: for he had great poſſeſſions.

23 [6] Then Jeſus ſaid unto his diſciples, Verily I ſay unto you, that a rich man ſhall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven.

24 And again, I ſay unto you, It is [o] eaſier for a [p] camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

1 Labourers hired into the vineyard. 15 The evil eye. 17 He foretelleth his paſſion. 20 Zebedee's ſons. 22 The cup. 28 Chriſt is our miniſter. 30 Two blind men.

FOR the kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain [1] houſholder, which went out at the dawning of the day to hire labourers into his vineyard.

2 And he [a] agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, and ſent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and ſaw others ſtanding idle in the market-place,

4 And ſaid unto them, Go ye alſo into my vineyard, and whatſoever is right, I will give it you: and they went their way.

5 Again he went out about the ſixth and ninth hour, and did likewiſe.

6 And he went out about the [b] eleventh hour, and found other ſtanding idle, and ſaid unto them, Why ſtand ye here all the day idle?

7 They ſaid unto him, Becauſe no man hath hired us. He ſaid unto them, Go ye alſo into my vineyard, and whatſoever is right, that ſhall ye receive.

8 ¶ And when even was come, the maſter of the vineyard ſaid unto his ſteward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning at the laſt, till thou come to the firſt.

9 And they which were hired about the eleventh hour, came and received every man a penny.

10 Now when the firſt came, they ſuppoſed that they ſhould receive more, but they likewiſe received every man a penny,

11 And when they had received it, they murmured againſt the maſter of the houſe,

12 Saying, Theſe laſt have wrought but one hour, and thou haſt made them equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day.

13 And he anſwered one of them, ſaying, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didſt thou not agree with me for a penny?

14 Take that which is thine own, and go thy way: I will give unto this laſt as much as to thee.

15 Is it not lawful for me to do as I will with mine own? Is thine eye [c] evil, becauſe I am good?

* Ch. 19. 30. and 22. 14. Mark 10. 31. Luke 13. 30.

16 * So the laſt ſhall be firſt, and the firſt laſt: for many are called, but few choſen.

* Mark 10. 32. Luke 18. 31.

17 * [2] And Jeſus went up to Jeruſalem, and took the twelve diſciples apart in the way, and ſaid unto them,

* John 18. 32.

19 [4] And * ſhall deliver him to the Gentiles, to mock, and to ſcourge, and to crucify him, but the third day he ſhall riſe again.

* Mark 10. 35.

20 * [5] Then came to him the mother of Zebedee's children with her ſons, worſhipping him, and deſiring a certain thing of him.

21 And he ſaid unto her, What wouldeſt thou? She ſaid to him, Grant that theſe my two ſons may ſit, the one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy kingdom.

22 And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid, Ye know not what ye aſk. Are ye able to [d] drink of the cup that I ſhall drink of, and to be baptized with the bap-

[6] Rich men have need of a ſingular gift of God to eſcape out of the ſnares of Satan.

[o] Word for word, it is of leſs labour.

[p] Theophylact noteth that by this word is meant a cable rope, but Caninius alledgeth out of the Talmudiſts, that it is a proverb, and the word, ‘Camel,’ ſignifieth the beaſt itſelf.

[7] It is not loſt that is neglected for God's ſake.

[q] The regeneration is taken for that day, wherein the [illegible] ſhall begin to live a new life, that is to ſay, when they enjoy the heavenly inheritance, both in body and ſoul.

[8] [illegible] have begun well, and not to continue unto the end, doth not only not profit, but alſo hurteth very much.

[1] God is bound to no man, and therefore he calleth whomſoever, and whenſoever he liſteth. This only every man ought to take heed of, and hereupon beſtow his whole endeavour, that he go forward and come to the mark without all ſtopping or ſtaggering, and not curiouſly to examine other men's doings, or the judgments of God.

[a] Word for word, fell in time: it is a kind of ſpeech taken from ſong.

[b] The laſt hour, for the day was twelve hours long, and the firſt hour began at the ſun-riſing.

[c] Nought, that is to ſay, doſt thou envy at my goodneſs towards them? for the Hebrews by an evil eye mean envy, becauſe ſuch diſpoſitions appear chiefly in the eyes, as above, chap. 6. 23. It is ſet to anſwer the word, ‘ſingle,’ and it is taken there for corrupt: for whereas he ſaid there afore, verſ. 22. If thine eye be ſingle, he addeth in the 23d, But if thine eye be wicked, or corrupt; the word being the ſame in that place, as it is here.

[2] Chriſt goeth to the croſs neceſſarily, but yet willingly.

[3] They that leaſt ought, are the greateſt perſecutors of Chriſt.

[4] The ignominy of the croſs is the ſure way to the glory of everlaſting life.

[5] The manner of the heavenly kingdom is quite contrary to the earthly kingdom.

[d] This is ſpoken by a figure, taking the cup for that which is contained in the cup. And again, the Hebrews underſtand by this word ‘cup,’ ſometimes, the manner of puniſhment which is rendered to ſin, as Pſalm 11. 6. or the joy that is given to the faithful, as Pſalm 23. 5. and ſometimes a lot, or condition, as Pſalm 16. 5.

A. D. 33. [e] baptiſm that I ſhall be baptized with? They ſaid to him, We are able.

23 And he ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall drink indeed of my cup, and ſhall be baptized with the baptiſm that I am baptized with: but to ſit at my right hand, and at my left hand, is [f] not mine to give, but it ſhall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father.

* Mark 10. 41. Luke 22. 25. 24 * And when the other ten heard this, they diſdained at the two brethren.

25 Therefore Jeſus called them unto him, and ſaid, Ye know that the lords of the Gentiles have [g] domination over them: and they that are great, exerciſe authority over them.

26 But it ſhall not be ſo among you: but whoſoever will be great among you, let him be your ſervant.

27 And whoſoever will be chief among you, let him be your ſervant.

* Pſ. 2. 7. 28 * Even as the Son of man came not to be ſerved, but to ſerve, and to give his life for the ranſom of many.

* Mark 10. 46. Luke 18. 35. 29 ¶ * [6] And as they departed from Jericho, a great multitude followed him.

30 And behold, two blind men, ſitting by the way ſide, when they heard that Jeſus paſſed by, cried, ſaying, O Lord the ſon of David, have mercy on us.

31 And the multitude rebuked them, becauſe they ſhould hold their peace: but they cried the more, ſaying, O Lord, the ſon of David, have mercy on us.

32 Then Jeſus ſtood ſtill, and [h] called them, and ſaid, What will ye that I ſhould do to you?

33 They ſaid to him, Lord, that our eyes may be opened.

34 And Jeſus, moved with compaſſion, touched their eyes, and immediately their eyes received ſight, and they followed him.

* Mark 11. 1. Luke 19. 29. AND * [1] when they drew dear to Jeruſalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of the Olives, then ſent Jeſus two diſciples,

2 Saying to them, Go into the town that is over-againſt you, and anon ye ſhall find an aſs bound, and a colt with her: looſe them, and bring them unto me.

3 And if any man ſay aught unto you, ſay ye, that the Lord hath need of them, and ſtraightway [a] he will let them go. A. D. 33.

4 All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was ſpoken by the prophet, ſaying,

5 ¶ * Tell ye the [b] daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and ſitting upon an aſs, and a colt, the foal of an aſs uſed to the yoke. * Iſa. 62. 11. Zech. 9. 9. John 12. 15.

6 So the diſciples went, and did as Jeſus had commanded them,

7 And brought the aſs and the colt, and put on them their [c] cloaths, and ſet him [d] thereon.

8 And a great multitude ſpread their garments in the way: and others cut down branches from the trees, and ſtrewed them in the way.

9 Moreover, the people that went before, and they alſo that followed, cried, ſaying, [e] Hoſanna to the ſon of David, [f] Bleſſed be he that cometh in the name of the Lord, Hoſanna thou which art in the higheſt heavens.

14 Then the blind and the halt came to him in the temple, and he healed them.

15 [2] But when the chief prieſts and Scribes ſaw the marvels that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and ſaying, Hoſanna to the ſon of David, they diſdained,

16 And ſaid unto him, Heareſt thou what theſe ſay? And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Yea: read ye never, * By the mouth of babes and ſucklings thou haſt [h] made perfect the praiſe? * Pſ. 8. 2.

17 ¶ [3] So he left them, and went out of the city into Bethany, and lodged there.

19 And ſeeing a fig-tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaves only, and ſaid to it, Never fruit grow on thee henceforwards. And anon the fig-tree withered.

20 And when his diſciples ſaw it, they marvelled, ſaying, How ſoon is the fig-tree withered!

21 [5] And Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto them, Verily

[e] This is applied to affliction, as David commonly uſeth.

[f] The almightineſs of Chriſt his divinity is not ſhut out by this, but it ſheweth the debaſing of himſelf by taking man's nature upon him.

[g] Somewhat ſharply and roughly.

[6] Chriſt by healing theſe blind men with an only touch, ſheweth that he is the only light of the world.

[h] Himſelf, not by other men's means.

[1] Chriſt by his humility triumphing over the pride of this world, aſcendeth to true glory, by ignominy of the croſs.

[b] The city of Sion. An Hebrew kind of ſpeech, commonly uſed in the Lamentations of Jeremiah.

[c] Their uppermoſt garments.

[d] Upon their garments, not upon the aſs and the colt.

[e] This was an ancient kind of crying, which they uſed in the feaſt of tabernacles, when they carried boughs, according as God commanded, Levit. 23. 40. And the word is corruptly made of two, for we ſhould ſay, Hoſhiangena, which is as much to ſay, Save, I pray thee.

[f] Well be it to him that cometh in the name of the Lord, that is to ſay, whom the Lord hath given us for our king.

[g] That is, all the men of Jeruſalem were moved.

[2] Such as ſhould be maſters of godlineſs, are they that do moſt envy the glory of Chriſt: but in vain.

[h] Thou haſt made moſt perfect. We read in David, Thou haſt eſtabliſhed or grounded: and if the matter be conſidered well, it is all one that the Evangeliſt ſaith, for that is ſtable and ſure, which is moſt perfect.

[3] Chriſt doth ſo forſake the wicked, that yet he hath a conſideration and regard of his church.

[4] Hypocrites ſhall at length have their maſks diſcovered, and vizards plucked from their faces.

[5] How great the force of faith is.

25 The [m] baptiſm of John, whence was it? from [n] heaven, or of men? Then they [o] reaſoned among themſelves, ſaying, If we ſhall ſay, From heaven, he will ſay unto us, Why did ye not then believe him?

29 But he anſwered, and ſaid, I will not: yet afterwards he repented himſelf, and went.

30 Then came he to the ſecond, and ſaid likewiſe. And he anſwered, and ſaid, I will, Sir: yet he went not.

31 Whether of them twain did the will of the father? They ſaid unto him, the firſt. Jeſus ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, that the Publicans and the harlots [p] go before you into the kingdom of God.

32 For John came unto you in the [q] way of righteouſneſs, and ye believed him not: but the Publicans and the harlots believed him, and ye, though ye ſaw it, were not moved with repentance afterward, that ye might believe him.

[i] The Greek word ſignifieth a ſticking or wavering of mind, ſo that we cannot tell which way to take.

[6] Againſt them which overſlipping the doctrine, bind the calling and vocation to an ordinary ſucceſſion, going about by that falſe pretext, to ſtop Chriſt's mouth.

[k] Or by what power.

[l] One word, that is to ſay, I will aſk you in one word.

[m] John his preaching is called by a figure, Baptiſm, becauſe he preached the baptiſm of repentance, &c. Mark 1. 4. Acts 19. 3.

[n] From God, and ſo it is plainly ſeen, how theſe are ſet one againſt another.

[o] Beat their heads about it and muſed, or laid their heads together.

[7] It is no new thing to ſee them to be the worſt of all men, which ought to ſhew the way of godlineſs to others.

[p] They make haſte to the kingdom of God, and you ſlack: ſo that at leaſtwiſe you ſhould have followed their example. Mark then that this word, 'go before,' is improperly taken in this place, whereas no man followeth.

[q] Living uprightly, being of a good and honeſt converſation: for the Hebrews uſe this word, 'way,' for life and manners.

[8] Thoſe men oftentimes are the cruelleſt enemies of the church, to whoſe fidelity it is committed: But the vocation of God is neither tied to time, place, nor perſon.

[r] Made the place ſtrong: for a tower is the ſtrongeſt place of a wall.

[s] Word for word, let us hold it faſt.

[t] A kind of proverb, ſhewing what end the wicked are worthy of.

[u] Maſter-builders, which are chief builders of the houſe, that is, of the church.

[x] Began to be.

[y] The chief ſtone in the corner is called the head of the corner: which beareth up the couplings or joints of the whole building.

[z] This matter (in that the ſtone which was caſt away is made the head) is the Lord's doing, which we behold and greatly marvel at.

[a] They bring forth the fruits of the kingdom of God, which bring forth the fruits of the Spirit, and not of the fleſh, Gal. 5.

[b] As chaff uſeth to be ſcattered with the wind, for he uſeth a word which ſignifieth properly to ſeparate the chaff from the corn with winnowing, and to ſcatter it abroad.

[9] The wicked can do nothing but what God will.

[1] Not all the whole company of them that are called by the voice of the goſpel, are the true church before God: for the moſt part of them had rather follow the commodities of this life: and ſome do moſt cruelly perſecute thoſe that call them:

A. D. 33.

3 And ſent forth his ſervants, to call them that were bid to the wedding, but they would not come.

4 Again he ſent forth other ſervants, ſaying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: mine oxen and my fatlings are [a] killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, and another about his merchandize.

6 And the remnant took his ſervants, and intreated them ſharply, and ſlew them.

7 [2] But when the king heard it, he was wroth, and ſent forth his warriors, and deſtroyed thoſe murderers, and burnt up their city.

8 Then ſaid he to his ſervants, Truly the [b] wedding is prepared: but they which were bidden, were not worthy.

9 [3] Go ye therefore out into the high ways, and as many as you find, bid them to the marriage.

10 So theſe ſervants went out into the high ways, and gathered together all that ever they found, both good and [c] bad: ſo the wedding was furniſhed with gueſts.

11 [4] Then the king came in to ſee the gueſts, and ſaw there a man which had not on a wedding garment.

12 And he ſaid unto him, Friend, how cameſt thou in hither, and haſt not on a wedding garment? and he was [d] ſpeechleſs.

13 Then ſaid the king to the [e] ſervants, Bind him hand and foot: take him away, and caſt him into utter darkneſs: * there ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth. * Ch. 8. 12. and 13. 42. and 25. 30.

14 * For many are called, but few choſen. * Ch. 20. 16.

15 ¶ * Then went the Phariſees, and took counſel how they might [f] tangle him in talk. * Mark 12. 13. Luke 20. 20.

16 And they ſent unto him their diſciples with the [g] Herodians, ſaying, Maſter, we know that thou art true, and teacheſt the way of God [h] truly, neither careſt for any man: for thou conſidereſt not the [i] perſon of men.

17 [5] Tell us therefore, how thinkeſt thou? Is it lawful to give [k] tribute unto Ceſar, or not?

18 But Jeſus perceived their wickedneſs, and ſaid, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew me the tribute-money: And they brought him a [l] penny. A. D. 33.

20 And he ſaid unto them, Whoſe is this image and ſuperſcription?

21 And they ſaid unto him, Ceſar's. Then ſaid he unto them, * Give therefore to Ceſar the things which are Ceſar's, and give unto God thoſe things which are God's. * Mark 12. 17. Luke 20. 25. Rom. 13. 7.

22 And when they heard it, they marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

23 ¶ [6] * The ſame day the Sadducees came to him (which ſay that there is no reſurrection) and aſked him, * Mark 12. 18. Luke 20. 27. Acts 23. 8.

24 Saying, Maſter, * Moſes ſaid, If a man die, having no [m] children, his brother ſhall marry his wife by the right of alliance, and raiſe up ſeed unto his brother. * Deut. 25. 5.

25 Now there were with us ſeven brethren, and the firſt married a wife, and deceaſed, and having no iſſue, left his wife unto his brother.

26 Likewiſe alſo the ſecond, and the third, unto the ſeventh.

27 And laſt of all the woman died alſo.

28 Therefore in the reſurrection, whoſe wife ſhall ſhe be of the ſeven? for all had her.

29 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Ye are deceived, not knowing the ſcriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the reſurrection they neither marry wives, nor wives are beſtowed in marriage, but are as the [n] angels of God in heaven.

31 And concerning the reſurrection of the dead, have ye not read what is ſpoken unto you of God, ſaying,

32 * I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living. * Exod. 3. 6. Mark 12. 27.

33 And when the multitude heard it, they were aſtoniſhed at his doctrine.

34 ¶ * [7] But when the Phariſees had heard that he had put the Sadducees to ſilence, they aſſembled together. * Mark 12. 28.

35 And [o] one of them, which was an expounder of the law, aſked him a queſtion, tempting him, and ſaying, them: but they are the true church, which obey when they are called, ſuch as for the moſt part they are, whom the world deſpiſeth.

[a] The word here uſed is commonly uſed in ſacrifices, and is by tranſlation uſed for other feaſts alſo: For feaſts and banquets were wont to begin with ſacrifices.

[2] A dreadful deſtruction of them that contemn Chriſt.

[b] The marriage-feaſt.

[3] God doth firſt call us, when we think nothing of it.

[c] The general calling offereth the goſpel to all men: but their life is examined that enter in.

[4] In the ſmall number which come at the calling, there are ſome caſtaways which do not confirm their faith with newneſs of life.

[d] Word for word, haltered, that is to ſay, he held his peace, as though he had had a bridle or an halter about his neck.

[e] To them that ſerved the gueſts.

[f] Snare him in his words or talk. The Greek word is derived of ſnares which hunters lay.

[g] They which with Herod made a new religion, patched together of the heatheniſh and of the Jewiſh religion.

[h] Truly and ſincerely.

[i] Thou art not moved with any appearance and outward ſhew.

[5] The Chriſtians muſt obey their magiſtrates, although they be wicked, and extortioners, but ſo far forth as the authority that God hath over us may remain ſafe unto him, and his honour not be diminiſhed.

[k] The word that is uſed here, ſignifieth a valuing and rating of men's ſubſtance, according to the proportion whereof they payed tribute in thoſe provinces which were ſubject to tribute, and it is here taken for the tribute itſelf.

[l] Before, chap. 17. 24. there is mention made of a didrachm, and here of a penny, whereas a didrachm is more by the ſeventh part than a penny: ſo that there ſeemeth to be a jar in thoſe two places: but they may eaſily be accorded thus: The penny was payed to the Romans for tribute, according to the proportion they were rated at, the drachm was paid of every one to the temple, which alſo the Romans took to themſelves, when they had ſubdued Judea.

[6] Chriſt voucheth the reſurrection of the fleſh againſt the Sadducees.

[m] Under which name are daughters alſo comprehended, but yet as touching the family and name of a man, becauſe he that left daughters was in no better caſe, than if he had left no children at all (for they were not reckoned in the family); by the name of children are ſons underſtood.

[n] He ſaith not that they ſhall be without bodies, for then they ſhould not be men any more, but they ſhall be as angels, for they ſhall neither marry nor be married.

[7] The goſpel doth not aboliſh the precepts of the law, but doth rather confirm them.

Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy [p] ſoul, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the firſt and the great commandment.

* Mark 12. 31. Rom. 13. 9. Gal. 5. 14. James 2. 8.

39 And the ſecond is like unto this, * Thou ſhalt love thy [q] neighbour as thyſelf:

40 On theſe two commandments hangeth the whole law and the prophets.

* Mark 12. 35. Luke 20. 41.

41 ¶ [8] * While the Phariſees were gathered together, Jeſus aſked them,

42 Saying, What think ye of Chriſt? [r] whoſe ſon is he? They ſaid unto him, David's.

43 He ſaid unto them, How then doth David in ſpirit call him Lord, ſaying,

* Pſ. 110. 1.

44 * The Lord ſaid to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footſtool?

45 If then David call him Lord, how is he then his ſon?

46 And none could anſwer him a word, neither durſt any from that day forth aſk him any more queſtions.

THEN ſpake Jeſus to the multitude, and to his diſciples,

* Nehem. 8. 4.

2 [1] Saying, The * Scribes and the Phariſees [a] ſit in Moſes' ſeat.

3 [b] All therefore whatſoever they bid you obſerve, that obſerve and do: but after their works do not: for they ſay, and do not.

* Luke 11. 46. Acts 15. 10.

4 * [2] For they bind heavy burdens, and grievous to be borne, and lay them on mens ſhoulders, but they themſelves will not move them with one of their fingers.

A. D. 33.

5 [3] All their works they do for to be ſeen of men: for they make their [c] phylacteries broad, and make long [d] the * fringes of their garments.

* Num. 15. 38. Deut. 22. 12. Mark 12. 38. * Luke 11. 43. and 20. 46.

6 * And love the chief place at feaſts, and to have the chief ſeats in the [e] aſſemblies,

7 And greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, [f] Rabbi.

* James 3. 1.

8 * [4] But be not ye [g] called Rabbi: for [h] one is your doctor, to wit, Chriſt, and all ye are brethren.

* Mal. 1. 6.

9 * And call no man your [i] father upon the earth: for there is but one your Father, which is in heaven.

10 Be not called [k] doctors: for one is your doctor, even Chriſt.

11 But he that is greateſt among you, let him be your ſervant.

* Luke 14. 11. and 18. 14.

12 * For whoſoever [l] will exalt himſelf, ſhall be brought low: and whoſoever will humble himſelf ſhall be exalted.

13 ¶ [5] Woe therefore be unto you, Scribes and Phariſees, [m] hypocrites, becauſe ye ſhut up the kingdom of heaven before men: for ye yourſelves go not in, neither ſuffer ye them that would [n] enter, to come in.

* Mark 12. 40. Luke 20. 47.

14 * [6] Woe be unto you, Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: for ye devour widows houſes, even [o] under a colour of long prayers: wherefore ye ſhall receive the greater damnation.

15 Woe be unto you, Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: for ye compaſs ſea and [p] land to make one of your profeſſion: and when he is made ye make him twofold more the child of hell than yourſelves.

16 Woe be unto you, blind guides, which ſay, Whoſoever ſweareth by the temple, it is nothing: but whoſoever ſweareth by the gold of the temple, he [q] offendeth.

17 Ye fools and blind, whether is greater, the gold, or the temple that [r] ſanctifieth the gold?

18 And whoſoever ſweareth by the altar, it is nothing: but whoſoever ſweareth by the offering that is upon it, offendeth.

19 Ye

[p] The Hebrew text readeth, Deut. 6. 5. with thine heart, ſoul, and ſtrength: and in Mark 12. 30. and Luke 10. 27. we read, with ſoul, heart, ſtrength, and thought.

[q] Another man.

[8] Chriſt proveth manifeſtly that he is David's ſon according to the fleſh, but otherwiſe David's Lord and very God.

[r] Of whoſe ſtock or family: for the Hebrews call a man's poſterity ſons.

[1] We ought to hear whatſoever any wicked teachers teach us purely out of the word of God, yet ſo that we eſchew their evil manners.

[a] Becauſe God appointed the order, therefore the Lord would have his word to be heard even from the mouth of hypocrites and hirelings.

[b] Provided always, that they deliver Moſes his doctrine which they profeſs, which thing the metaphor of the ſeat ſheweth, which they occupied as teachers of Moſes his learning.

[2] Hypocrites for the moſt part are moſt ſevere exactors of thoſe things which they themſelves chiefly neglect.

[3] Hypocrites are ambitious.

[c] It was a thread, or ribband of blue ſilk in the fringe of a corner, the beholding whereof made them to remember the laws and ordinances of God: and therefore was it called a phylactery, as ye would ſay, a keeper, Num. 15. 38. Deut. 6. 8. which order the Jews afterward abuſed, as they do now-a-days, which hang St. John's goſpel about their necks: a thing condemned many years ago in the council of Antioch.

[d] Word for word, twiſted taſſels of thread, which hanged at the nethermoſt hems of their garments.

[e] When aſſemblies and councils are gathered together.

[f] This word Rabbi ſignifieth one that is above his fellows, and is as good as a number of them: and we may ſee by the repeating of it, how proud a title it was. Now they were called Rabbi, which by laying on of hands were uttered and declared to the world to be wiſe men.

[4] Modeſty is a ſingular ornament of God's miniſters.

[g] Seek not ambitiouſly after it: for our Lord doth not forbid us to give the magiſtrate and our maſters the honour that is due to them. Auguſtine de ſermone verbi Domini ex Matth. cap. 11.

[h] He ſeemeth to allude to a place of Iſaiah, chap. 54. 13 and Jer. 31. 24.

[i] He ſhooteth at a faſhion which the Jews uſed, for they called the rabbins our fathers.

[k] It ſeemeth that the Scribes did very greedily hunt after ſuch titles, whom, verſe 16. he calleth blind guides.

[l] He ſeemeth to allude to the name of the Rabbins, for Rab ſignifieth one that is aloft.

[5] Hypocrites can abide none to be better than themſelves.

[m] Chriſt, when he reproveth any man ſharply, uſeth this word, to give us to underſtand, that there is nothing more deteſtable than hypocriſy and falſhood in religion.

[n] Which are even at the door.

[6] It is a common thing amongſt hypocrites to abuſe the pretence of zeal to covetouſneſs and extortion.

[o] Word for word, under a colour of long praying. And this word, 'even,' noteth a double naughtineſs in them: the one, that they devoured widows goods: the other, that they did it under a colour of godlineſs.

[p] The dry part: now that part of the earth is called dry, which the Lord hath given us to dwell upon.

[q] Is a debtor. Sins are called in the Syrian tongue, debts; and it is certain that Chriſt ſpake in the Syrian tongue.

[r] Cauſeth the gold to be counted holy, which is dedicated o an holy uſe.

A. D. 33.

19 Ye fools and blind, whether is greater, the offering, or the altar which ſanctifieth the offering?

20 Whoſoever therefore ſweareth by the altar, ſweareth by it, and by all things thereon.

21 * And whoſoever ſweareth by the temple, ſweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth therein. * Kings 8.13. 2 Chron. 6.2.

22 * And he that ſweareth by heaven, ſweareth by the [s] throne of God, and by him that ſitteth thereon. * Ch. 5. 34.

23 ¶ [7] * Woe be to you, Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: for ye tythe mint and aniſe, and cummin, and leave the weightier matters of the law, as judgment, and mercy, and [t] fidelity. Theſe ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other. * Luke 11. 42.

24 Ye blind guides, which ſtrain at a gnat, and ſwallow a camel.

25 ¶ [8] Woe be to you, * Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: for ye make clean the outer ſide of the cup, and of the platter: but within they are full of bribery and exceſs. * Luke 11. 39.

26 Thou blind Phariſee, cleanſe firſt the inſide of the cup and platter, that the outſide of them may be clean alſo.

27 Woe be to you, Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: for ye are like unto whited tombs, which appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all filthineſs.

28 So are ye alſo: for outward ye appear righteous unto men, but within ye are full of hypocriſy and iniquity.

29 ¶ [9] Wo be unto you, Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: for ye build the tombs of the prophets, and garniſh the ſepulchres of the righteous,

30 And ſay, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partners with them in the blood of the prophets.

31 So then ye be witneſſes unto yourſelves, that ye are the children of them that murdered the prophets.

32 [u] Fulfil ye alſo the meaſure of your fathers.

33 O ſerpents, the generation of vipers, how ſhould ye eſcape the damnation [x] of hell?

34 [10] Wherefore behold, I ſend unto you prophets, and wiſe men, and ſcribes, and of them ye ſhall kill and crucify: and of them ſhall ye ſcourge in your ſynagogues, and perſecute from city to city,

35 [11] That upon you may come all the righteous blood that was ſhed upon the earth, * from the blood of Abel the righteous, unto the blood of Zecharias, the ſon of [y] Barachias, * whom ye ſlew between the temple and the altar. * Gen. 4. 8. * 2 Chron. 24. 22.

36 Verily I ſay unto you, all theſe things ſhall come upon this generation.

37 [12] * Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, which killeſt the prophets, and ſtoneſt them which are ſent to thee, how often would I have [z] gathered thy children together, as the hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not! * Luke 13. 34.

38 Behold, your habitation ſhall be left unto you deſolate.

39 For I ſay unto you, ye ſhall not ſee me henceforth, till that ye ſay, Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

[r] From the four quarters of the world.

[7] If God hath preſcribed a certain order to nature, much more hath he done to his eternal judgments: but the wicked underſtand it not, or rather make a mock at it; but the godly do mark it, and wait for it.

[t] This age: this word generation, or age, being uſed for the men of this age.

[8] The Lord doth now begin the judgment, which he will make an end of in the latter day.

[9] It is ſufficient for us to know that God hath appointed a latter day for the reſtoring of all things, but when it ſhall be, it is hidden from us all, for our profit, that we may be ſo much the more watchful, that we be not taken, as they were in old time, in the flood.

[u] The word which the evangeliſt uſeth, expreſſeth the matter more fully than ours doth: for it is a word which is proper to brute beaſts: and his meaning is, that in thoſe days men ſhall be given to their bellies like unto brute beaſts: for otherwiſe it is no fault to eat and drink.

[10] Againſt them that perſuade themſelves that God will be merciful to all men, and do by that means give over themſelves to ſin, that they may in the mean while live in pleaſure void of all care.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The virgins looking for the bridegroom. 13 We muſt watch. 14 The talents delivered unto the ſervants. 24 The evil ſervant. 30 After what ſort the laſt judgment ſhall be. 41 The curſed.

THEN [z] the kingdom of heaven ſhall be likened unto ten virgins, which took their lamps, and [a] went forth to meet the bridegroom:

2 And five of them were wiſe, and five fooliſh.

3 The fooliſh took their lamps, but took no oil with them.

4 But the wiſe took oil in their veſſels with their lamps.

5 Now while the bridegroom tarried long, all [b] ſlumbered and ſlept.

6 And at midnight there was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh: go out to meet him.

7 Then all thoſe virgins aroſe, and trimmed their lamps.

8 And the fooliſh ſaid to the wiſe, Give us of your oil, for our lamps are out.

9 But the wiſe anſwered, ſaying, Not ſo, leſt there will not be enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that ſell, and buy for yourſelves.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came: and they that were ready, went in with him to the wedding, and the gate was ſhut.

11 Afterwards came alſo the other virgins, ſaying, Lord, Lord, open to us.

12 But he anſwered, and ſaid, Verily I ſay unto you, I know you not.

13 * Watch therefore: for ye know neither the day nor the hour when the Son of man will come.

* Ch. 24. 42. Mark 13. 35.

14 * [z] For the kingdom of heaven is as a man that going into a ſtrange country, called his ſervants, and delivered to them his goods.

* Luke 19. 12, 13.

15 And unto one he gave five talents, and to another two, to another one, to every man after his own [c] ability, and ſtraightway went from home.

16 Then he that had received the five talents, went and occupied with them, and gained other five talents.

17 Likewiſe alſo, he that received two, he alſo gained other two.

18 But he that received that one, went, and digged it in the earth, and hid his maſter's money.

19 But after a long ſeaſon, the maſter of thoſe ſervants came, and reckoned with them.

20 Then came he that had received five talents, and brought other five talents, ſaying, Maſter, thou deliveredſt unto me five talents: behold, I have gained with them other five talents.

21 Then his maſter ſaid unto him, It is well done, good ſervant and faithful, thou haſt been faithful in little, I will make thee ruler over much: [d] enter into thy maſter's joy.

22 Alſo he that had received two talents, came, and ſaid, Maſter, thou deliveredſt unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents more.

23 His maſter ſaid unto him, It is well done, good ſervant and faithful: thou haſt been faithful in little, I will make thee ruler over much: enter into thy maſter's joy.

24 Then he which had received the one talent, came, and ſaid, Maſter, I knew that thou waſt an hard man, which reapeſt where thou ſowedſt not, and gathereſt where thou ſtrewedſt not:

25 I was therefore afraid, and went, and hid thy talent in the earth: behold, thou haſt thine own.

26 And his maſter anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Thou evil ſervant, and ſlothful, thou kneweſt that I reap where I ſowed not, and gather where I ſtrewed not.

27 Thou oughteſt therefore to have put my money to the [e] exchangers, and then at my coming ſhould I have received mine own with vantage.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 * For unto every man that hath, it ſhall be given, and he ſhall have abundance, and from him that hath not, even that he hath, ſhall be taken away.

[y] To wit, from the reſt, or will cut him into two parts, which was a moſt cruel kind of puniſhment: wherewith, as Juſtine Martyr witneſſeth, Iſaiah the prophet was executed by the Jews: the like kind of puniſhment we read of, 1 Sam. 15 33. and Dan. 3. 29.

[z] We muſt deſire ſtrength at God's hand, which may ſerve us as a torch while we walk through this darkneſs, to bring us to our deſired end: otherwiſe if we become ſlothful and negligent as weary of our pains and travel, we ſhall be ſhut out of the doors.

---

[3] A lively ſetting forth of the everlaſting judgment which is to come.

[f] Bleſſed and happy, upon whom my Father hath moſt abundantly beſtowed his benefits.

[1] Chriſt witneſſeth by his voluntary going to death, that he will make full ſatisfaction for the ſin of Adam, by his obedience.

[2] God himſelf and not men appointed the time that Chriſt ſhould be crucified in.

[a] By this word feaſt, is meant the whole feaſt of unleavened bread: the firſt and eighth day whereof, were ſo holy, that they might do no manner of work therein, though the whole company of the Sanhedrim determined otherwiſe: and yet it came to paſs through God's providence, that Chriſt ſuffered at that time, to the end that all the people of Iſrael might be witneſſes of his everlaſting ſacrifice.

[3] By this ſudden work of a ſinful woman, Chriſt giveth the gueſts to underſtand of his death and burial which was nigh, the ſavour whereof ſhall bring life to all ſinners which flee unto him. But Judas taketh an occaſion hereby to accompliſh his wicked purpoſe and counſel.

[b] For theſe things were done before Chriſt came to Jeruſalem, and yet ſome think that the Evangeliſts recite two hiſtories.

[c] Theſe boxes were of alabaſter, which in old time men made hollow to put in ointments: for ſome write that alabaſter keepeth ointment very well without corruption, Pliny, book 13. ch. 1.

[d] This is a figure called Synecdoche: for it is ſaid but of Judas, that he was moved thereat, John 12. 14.

[e] Unprofitable ſpending.

[4] We ought not raſhly to condemn that which is not orderly done.

[5] Chriſt who was once anointed in his own perſon, muſt always be anointed in the poor.

[f] In that ſhe poured this ointment upon my body, ſhe did it to bury me.

[6] Chriſt verily purpoſing to bring us into our country out of hand, and ſo to abrogate the figure of the law, fulfilleth the law, neglecting the contrary tradition and cuſtom of the Jews: and therewithal ſheweth that all things ſhall ſo come to paſs by the miniſtry of men, that the ſecret council of God ſhall govern them.

[g] This was the fourteenth day of the firſt month: and the firſt day of unleavened bread ſhould have been the fifteenth, but becauſe this day's evening (which after the manner of the Romans was referred to the day before) did belong by the Jews manner to the day following, therefore it is called the firſt day of unleavened bread.

A. D. 33. ſaying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the paſſover?

18 And he ſaid, Go ye into the city to ſuch a man, and ſay to him, The Maſter ſaith, My time is at hand: I will keep the paſſover at thine houſe with my diſciples.

19 And the diſciples did as Jeſus had given them charge, and made ready the paſſover.

20 * So when the even was come, he [h] ſat down with the twelve. *Luke 22. 14.

21 And as they did eat, he ſaid, * Verily I ſay unto you, that one of you ſhall betray me. *Mark 14. 18. John 13. 21.

22 And they were exceeding ſorrowful, and began every one of them to ſay unto him, Is it I, Maſter?

23 And he anſwered, and ſaid, * He that [i] dippeth his hand with me in the diſh, he ſhall betray me. *Pſ. 41. 9.

24 Surely the Son of man goeth his way, as it is written of him: but woe be to that man, by whom the Son of man is betrayed: it had been good for that man, if he had never been born.

25 Then Judas [k] which betrayed him, anſwered and ſaid, Is it I, Maſter? He ſaid unto him, Thou haſt ſaid it.

26 ¶ [7] * And as they did eat, Jeſus took the bread, and when he had [l] bleſſed, he brake it, and gave it to the diſciples, and ſaid, Take, eat: [m] This is my body. *1 Cor. 11. 24.

27 Alſo he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it them, ſaying, Drink ye [n] all of it.

28 [o] For this is my blood of the [p] new Teſtament, that is ſhed for many for the remiſſion of ſins.

29 I ſay unto you, that I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day, when I ſhall drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom.

30 And when they had ſung [q] a pſalm, they went out into the mount of Olives.

31 ¶ * [8] Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, All ye ſhall be offended by me this night: for it is written, I * will ſmite the ſhepherd, and the ſheep of the flock ſhall be ſcattered. *Mark 14. 27. John 16. 32. and 18. 8. *Zech. 13. 7.

32 But * after I am riſen again, I will go before you into Galilee. *Mark 14. 28. and 16. 7.

33 But Peter anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Though that all men ſhould be offended by thee, yet will I never be offended.

34 * Jeſus ſaid unto him, Verily I ſay unto thee, that this night, before the cock crow, thou ſhalt deny me thrice. *John 13. 38. Mark 14. 30.

35 Peter ſaid unto him, Though I ſhould die with thee, I will in no caſe deny thee. Likewiſe alſo ſaid all the diſciples.

36 ¶ * [9] Then went Jeſus with them into a place which is called Gethſemane, and ſaid unto his diſciples, Sit ye here, while I go, and pray yonder. *Luke 22. 39.

37 And he took unto him Peter, and the two ſons of Zebedee, and began to wax ſorrowful, and [r] grievouſly troubled.

38 [10] Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, My ſoul is very heavy, even unto the death: tarry ye here, and watch with me.

39 So he went a little further, and fell on his face, and prayed, ſaying, O my Father, if it be poſſible, [s] let this [t] cup paſs from me: nevertheleſs, not as I will, but as thou wilt.

40 [11] After, he came unto the diſciples, and found them aſleep, and ſaid to Peter, What? could ye not watch with me one hour?

41 Watch, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the ſpirit indeed is ready, but the fleſh is weak.

42 Again he went away the ſecond time, and prayed, ſaying, O my Father, if this cup cannot paſs away from me, but that I muſt drink it, thy will be done.

43 And he came, and found them aſleep again, for their eyes were heavy.

44 So he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, ſaying the ſame words.

45 Then came he to his diſciples, and ſaid unto them, Sleep henceforth, and take your reſt: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is given into the hands of ſinners.

46 Riſe,

[h] Becauſe the law appointed them to be ſhod, and have their ſtaves in their hands, as though they were in haſte, thereby it is to be gathered, that they ſat not down when they did eat the paſſover, but ſtood, for otherwiſe when they went to meat, they put off their ſhoes: therefore he ſpeaketh here in this place, not of the paſſover, but of the ſupper which was celebrated after that the paſſover was ſolemnly done.

[i] That is to ſay, whom I vouchſafed to come to my table, alluding to the place, Pſalm 41. 10. which is not ſo to be underſtood as though at the ſelf-ſame inſtant that the Lord ſpake theſe words, Judas had had his hand in the diſh (for that had been an undoubted token) but it is meant of his tabling and eating with him.

[k] Whoſe head was about nothing elſe but to betray him.

[7] Chriſt minding forthwith to fulfil the promiſes of the old covenant, inſtituteth a new covenant with new ſigns.

[l] Mark ſaith, had given thanks: and therefore bleſſing is not a conſecrating, with a conjuring kind of murmuring and force of words; and yet the bread and the wine are changed, not in nature, but in quality, for they become undoubted tokens of the body and blood of Chriſt, not of their own nature or force of words, but by Chriſt his inſtitution, which muſt be recited, and laid forth, that faith my find what to lay hold on, both in the word and in the elements.

[m] This is a figurative ſpeech, which is called Metonymia: that is to ſay, the putting of one name for another: ſo calling the bread his body, which is the ſign and ſacrament of his body, and yet notwithſtanding, it is ſo a figurative and changed kind of ſpeech, that the faithful do receive Chriſt indeed with all his gifts (though by a ſpiritual means) and become one with him.

[n] Therefore they which took away the cup from the people, did againſt Chriſt his inſtitution.

[o] To wit, this cup or wine, is my blood ſacramentally, as Luke 22. 10.

[p] Or, the covenant, that is to ſay, whereby the new league and covenant is made: for in making of leagues, they uſed pouring of wine and ſhedding of blood.

[q] When they had made an end of their ſolemn ſinging, which ſome think was ſix pſalms, beginning at the 112th to the 117th.

[8] Chriſt being more careful of his diſciples than of himſelf, forewarneth them of their flight, and putteth them in better comfort.

[9] Chriſt having regard to the weakneſs of his diſciples, leaving all the reſt in ſafety, taketh with him but three to be witneſſes of his anguiſh, and goeth of purpoſe into the place appointed to betray him in.

[r] The word which he uſeth, ſignifieth great ſorrow, and marvellous and deadly grief: which thing, as it betokeneth the truth of man's nature, which ſhunneth death, as a thing that is entered in againſt nature; ſo it ſheweth, that though Chriſt were void of ſin, yet he ſuſtained this horrible puniſhment, becauſe he felt the wrath of God kindled againſt us for ſins, which he revenged and puniſhed in his perſon.

[10] Chriſt a true man, going about to ſuffer the puniſhment which was due unto us, for forſaking of God, is forſaken of his own: he hath a terrible conflict with the horror and fear of the curſe of God: out of which he eſcaping as conqueror, cauſeth us not to be any more afraid of death.

[s] Let it paſs me, and not touch me.

[t] That is, which is at hand, and is offered and prepared for me: a kind of ſpeech which the Hebrews uſe, for the wrath of God, and the puniſhment he ſendeth: above, ch. 20. 22.

* Mark 14. 43. Luke 22. 47. John 18. 3.

47 * And while he yet ſpake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with ſwords and ſtaves, [u] from the high prieſts and elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him, had given them a token, ſaying, Whomſoever I ſhall kiſs, that is he, lay hold on him.

49 And forthwith he came to Jeſus, and ſaid, God ſave thee, Maſter, and kiſſed him.

50 [13] Then Jeſus ſaid unto him, [x] Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they, and laid hands on Jeſus, and took him.

51 And behold, one of them which were with Jeſus, ſtretched out his hand, and drew his ſword, and ſtruck a ſervant of the high prieſt, and ſmote off his ear.

53 [15] Either thinkeſt thou, that I cannot now pray unto my Father, and he will give me more than twelve legions of angels?

59 Now * the chief prieſts and the elders, and all the whole council, ſought falſe witneſs againſt Jeſus, to put him to death.

62 Then the chief prieſt aroſe, and ſaid to him, Anſwereſt thou nothing? [c] What is the matter that theſe men witneſs againſt thee?

65 Then the high prieſt [g] rent his cloaths, ſaying, He hath blaſphemed, what have we any more need of witneſſes? behold, now ye have heard his blaſphemy.

66 What think ye? They anſwered, and ſaid, He is guilty of death.

70 But he denied before them all, ſaying, I wot not what thou ſayeſt.

71 And when he went out into the porch, another maid ſaw him, and ſaid unto them that were there, This man was alſo with Jeſus of Nazareth.

72 And again he denied with an oath, ſaying, I know not the man.

73 So after a while came unto him they that ſtood by, and ſaid unto Peter, Surely thou art alſo one of them: for even thy ſpeech bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to [i] curſe himſelf, and to ſwear, ſaying, I know not the man. And immediately the cock crew.

75 Thon Peter remembered the words of Jeſus, which had ſaid unto him, Before the cock crow thou ſhalt deny me thrice. So he went out, and wept bitterly.

2 And

---

[12] Chriſt offereth himſelf willingly to be taken, that in ſo obeying willingly, he might make ſatisfaction for the wilful fall of man.

[u] Sent from the high prieſts.

[13] Chriſt is taken, that we might be delivered.

[x] Chriſt reprehendeth Judas tauntingly, and rebuketh him ſharply, for he knew well enough for what cauſe he came.

[14] Our vocation muſt be the rule of our zeal.

[y] They take the ſword to whom the Lord hath not given it, that is to ſay, they which uſe the ſword, and are not called to it.

[15] Chriſt was taken, becauſe he was willing to be taken.

[z] By this queſtioning, he anſwereth a ſly objection, for they might have aſked him, why he did not in this his great extremity of danger, call to his Father for aid: but to this he anſwereth by a queſtion.

[16] Chriſt being innocent, is condemned of the high prieſt for that wickedneſs whereof we are guilty.

[a] From Annas to Caiaphas, before whom the multitude was aſſembled, John 18. 13.

[b] The word here uſed, ſignifieth properly an open large room before an houſe, as we ſee in kings palaces and noblemen's houſes: we call it a court, for it is open to the air, and by a figure Synecdoche, is taken for the houſe itſelf.

[c] How cometh it to paſs that theſe men witneſs againſt thee?

[d] This word diſtinguiſheth his firſt coming from the latter.

[e] Sitting with God in like and equal honour at the right hand of his power, that is, in greateſt power: for the right hand ſignifieth among the Hebrews, that that is mighty, and of great power.

[f] Clouds of heaven, look afore, ch. 24. 30.

[g] This was an uſual matter among the Jews: for ſo were they bound to do, when they heard any Iſraelite to blaſpheme God, and it was a tradition of their Talmud in the book of the Magiſtrates, in the title of the four kinds of death.

[17] Peter by the wonderful providence of God, appointed to be a witneſs of all theſe things, is prepared to the example of ſingular conſtancy, by the experience of his own incredulity.

[h] That is, without the place where the biſhop ſat, but not without the houſe, for afterward he went from thence into the porch.

[i] He ſwore and curſed himſelf.

CHRIST's CRUCIFIXION.

G. Burder sc

A. D. 33.

2 And led him away bound, and delivered him unto Pontius Pilate the governor.

3 ¶ [1] Then when Judas which betrayed him, ſaw that he was condemned, he repented himſelf, and brought again the thirty pieces of ſilver to the chief prieſts and elders,

4 Saying, I have ſinned, betraying the innocent blood. But they ſaid, What is that to us? ſee thou to it.

5 And when he had caſt down the ſilver pieces in the temple, he [a] departed, and went and hanged himſelf.

* Acts 1. 18.

6 And the chief prieſts took the ſilver pieces, and ſaid, It is not lawful for us to put them into the [b] treaſure, becauſe it is the price [c] of blood.

7 And they took counſel, and bought with them a potter's field, for the burial of [d] ſtrangers:

8 Wherefore that field is called, * The field of blood, until this day.

* Acts 1. 19.

9 (Then was fulfilled that which was ſpoken by [e] Jeremiah the prophet, ſaying, * [f] And they took thirty ſilver pieces, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Iſrael valued,

* Zech. 11. 12.

10 And they gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord appointed me.)

11 ¶ [2] * And Jeſus ſtood before the governor, and the governor aſked him, ſaying, Art thou the king of the Jews? Jeſus ſaid unto him, Thou ſayeſt it.

* Mark 15. 2. Luke 23. 3. John 18. 33.

12 And when he was accuſed of the chief prieſts and elders, he anſwered nothing.

13 Then ſaid Pilate unto him, Heareſt thou not how many things they lay againſt thee?

14 But he anſwered him not to one word, inſomuch that the governor marvelled greatly.

15 [3] Now at the feaſt, the governor was wont to deliver unto the people a priſoner whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable priſoner, called Barabbas.

17 When they were then gathered together, Pilate ſaid unto them, Whether will ye that I let looſe unto you Barabbas, or Jeſus which is called Chriſt?

18 (For he knew well that for envy they had delivered him.

19 Alſo when he was ſet down upon the judgment ſeat, his wife ſent to him, ſaying, Have thou nothing to do with that juſt man: for I have ſuffered many things this day in a dream by reaſon of him.)

20 * But the chief prieſts and the elders had perſuaded the people that they ſhould aſk Barabbas, and ſhould deſtroy Jeſus.

* Mark 15. 11. Luke 23. 18. John 18. 40. Acts 3. 14.

21 Then the governor anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I let looſe unto you? And they ſaid, Barabbas.

22 Pilate ſaid unto them, What ſhall I do then with Jeſus, which is called Chriſt? They all ſaid to him, Let him be crucified.

23 Then ſaid the governor, But what evil hath he done? Then they cried the more, ſaying, Let him be crucified.

24 [4] When Pilate ſaw that he availed nothing, but that more tumult was made, he took water, and [g] waſhed his hands before the multitude, ſaying, I am innocent of the [h] blood of this juſt man: look you to it.

25 Then anſwered all the people, and ſaid, [i] His blood be on us, and on our children.

26 Thus let he Barabbas looſe unto them, and ſcourged Jeſus, and delivered him to be crucified.

27 ¶ * Then the ſoldiers of the governor took Jeſus into the common hall, and gathered about him the whole band,

* Mark 15. 16. John 19. 2.

28 [5] And they ſtripped him, and [k] put about him a [l] ſcarlet robe,

29 And platted a crown of thorns, and put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand, and bowed their knees before him, and mocked him, ſaying, God ſave the king of the Jews:

30 And ſpitted upon him, and took a reed, and ſmote him on the head.

31 Thus when they had mocked him, they took the robe from him, and put his own raiment on him, and led him away to crucify him.

32 * And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they [m] compelled to bear his croſs.

* Mark 15. 21. Luke 23. 26.

33 * [6] And when they came unto the place called Golgotha, (that is to ſay, the place of dead men's ſculls)

* Mark 15. 22. John 19. 17.

34 [7] They gave him vinegar to drink, mingled with gall: and when he had taſted thereof, he would not drink.

---

[1] An example of the horrible judgment of God, as well againſt them which ſell Chriſt, as againſt them which buy Chriſt.

[a] Out of men's ſight.

[b] The treaſure of the temple.

[c] Of life and death.

[d] Strangers and gueſts whom the Jews could not abide to be joined unto, no not after they were dead.

[e] Seeing this prophecy is read in Zech. 11 12. it cannot be denied but Jeremiah's name crept into the text either through the printer's fault, or by ſome others ignorance: it may be alſo that it came out of the margin, by reaſon of the breviation of the letters, the one being jou, and the other zou, which are not much unlike: but in the Syrian text the prophet's name is not ſet down at all.

[f] The evangeliſt doth not follow the prophet's words, but his meaning, which he ſheweth to be fulfilled.

[2] Chriſt holdeth his peace when he is accuſed, that we may not be accuſed: acknowledging our guiltineſs, and therewithal his own innocency.

[3] Chriſt is firſt quitted of the ſame judge, before he be condemned, that we might ſee how the juſt died for the unjuſt.

[4] Chriſt being quit by the teſtimony of the judge himſelf, is notwithſtanding condemned by the ſame, to quit us before God.

[g] It was a manner in old time, when any man was murdered, and in other ſlaughters, to waſh their hands in water, to declare themſelves guiltleſs.

[h] Of the murder; an Hebrew kind of ſpeech.

[i] If there be any offence committed in ſlaying him, let us and our poſterity ſmart for it.

[5] Chriſt ſuffereth that reproach which was due to our ſins, notwithſtanding in the mean time by the ſecret providence of God, he is intituled king by them which did him that reproach.

[k] They caſt a cloak about him, and wrapped it about him, for it lacked ſleeves.

[l] John and Mark make mention of a purple robe, which is alſo a very pleaſant red, but theſe prophane and malapert ſaucy ſoldiers clad Jeſus in this array, to mock him withal, who was indeed a true king.

[m] They compelled Simon to bear his burdenſome croſs, whereby it appeareth that Jeſus was ſo ſore handled before, that he fainted by the way, and was not able to bear his croſs through: for John writeth that he did bear the croſs, to wit, at the beginning.

[6] He is led out of the city, that we might be brought into the heavenly kingdom.

[7] Chriſt found no comfort any where, that in him we might be filled with all comfort.

A. D. 33.

35 ¶ [8] And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, and did caſt lots, that it might be fulfilled, which was ſpoken by the prophet, * They divided my garments among them, and upon my veſture they did caſt lots.

* Pſ. 22. 18. Mark 15. 24.

36 And they ſat, and watched him there.

37 ¶ [9] They ſet up alſo over his head, his cauſe written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38 ¶ [10] And there were two thieves crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 [11] And they that paſſed by, reviled him, wagging their heads,

40 And ſaying, * Thou that deſtroyeſt the temple, and buildeſt it in three days, ſave thyſelf: if thou be the Son of God, come down from the croſs.

* John 2. 19.

41 Likewiſe alſo the high prieſts mocking him, with the Scribes and elders, and Phariſees, ſaid,

42 He ſaved others, but he cannot ſave himſelf: if he be the king of Iſrael, let him now come down from the croſs, and we will believe in him.

43 * He truſted in God, let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he ſaid, I am the Son of God.

* Pſ. 22. 9.

44 The ſelf ſame thing alſo the [n] thieves which were crucified with him, caſt in his teeth.

45 [12] Now from the ſixth hour was there darkneſs over all the land unto the ninth hour.

46 And about the ninth hour Jeſus cried with a loud voice, ſaying, * Eli, Eli, lama ſabachthani? that is, My God, my God, why haſt thou [o] forſaken me?

* Pſ. 21. 1.

47 And ſome of them that ſtood there, when they heard it, ſaid, This man calleth [p] Elias.

48 And ſtraightway one of them ran, and took * a ſpunge, and filled it with vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

* Pſ. 69. 22.

49 Others ſaid, Let be: let us ſee, if Elias will come, and ſave him.

50 [13] Then Jeſus cried again with a loud voice, and yielded up the ghoſt.

51 [14] And behold, * the [q] vail of the temple was rent in twain, from the top to the bottom, and the earth did quake, and the ſtones were cloven,

* 2 Chron. 3. 14.

52 And the [r] graves did open themſelves, and many bodies of the ſaints which ſlept, aroſe,

53 And came out of the graves after his reſurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many.

A. D. 33.

54 When the centurion, and they that were with him watching Jeſus, ſaw the earthquake, and the things that were done, they feared greatly, ſaying, Truly this was the Son of God.

55 ¶ And many women were there, beholding him afar off, which had followed Jeſus from Galilee, miniſtering unto him,

56 Among whom was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Joſes, and the mother of Zebedee's ſons.

57 ¶ [15] * And when the even was come, there came a rich man of Arimathea, named Joſeph, who had alſo himſelf been Jeſus' diſciple.

* Mark 15. 42. Luke 23. 50. John 19. 38.

58 He went to Pilate, and aſked the body of Jeſus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered.

59 So Joſeph took the body, and wrapped it in a clean linen cloth,

60 And put it in his new tomb, which he had hewn out in a rock, and rolled a great ſtone to the door of the ſepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, ſitting over-againſt the ſepulchre.

62 ¶ [16] Now the next day that followed the preparation of the ſabbath, the high prieſts and Phariſees aſſembled to Pilate,

63 And ſaid, Sir, we remember that that deceiver ſaid, while he was yet alive, Within three days I will riſe.

64 Command therefore, that the ſepulchre be made ſure until the third day, leſt his diſciples come by night, and ſteal him away, and ſay unto the people, He is riſen from the dead: ſo ſhall the laſt error be worſe than the firſt.

65 Then Pilate ſaid unto them, Ye have a [s] watch: go, and make it ſure, as ye know.

66 And they went, and made the ſepulchre ſure with the watch, and ſealed the ſtone.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 The women go to the ſepulchre. 2 The angel. 9 The women ſee Chriſt. 18 He ſendeth his apoſtles to preach.

NOW * in [1] the [a] end of the ſabbath, when the firſt day of the week [b] began to dawn, Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, came to ſee the ſepulchre.

* Mark 16. 5. John 20. 11.

2 And behold, there was a great earthquake: for

---

[8] He is made a curſe, that in him we may be bleſſed: he is ſpoiled of his garments, that we might be enriched by his nakedneſs.

[9] He is pronounced the true Meſſias, even of them of whom he is rejected.

[10] Chriſt began then to judge the world, when after his judgment he hung between two thieves.

[11] To make full ſatisfaction for us, Chriſt ſuffereth and overcometh not only the torments of the body, but alſo the moſt horrible torments of the mind.

[n] This is ſpoken by the figure Synecdoche, for there was but one of them that did revile him.

[12] Heaven itſelf is darkened for very horror, and Jeſus crieth out from the depth of hell, and in the mean while he is mocked.

[o] To wit, in this miſery: and this crying out is proper to his humanity, which notwithſtanding was void of ſin, but yet it felt the wrath of God which is due to our ſins.

[p] They allude to Elias's name, not for want of underſtanding the tongue, but of a prophane impudency and ſaucineſs: and he repeated thoſe words, to the end that this better harping upon the name might be underſtood.

[13] Chriſt after he had overcome other enemies, at length provoketh and ſetteth upon death itſelf.

[14] Chriſt, when he was dead, ſhewed himſelf to be God almighty, even his enemies confeſſing the ſame.

[q] Which divided the holieſt of all.

[r] That is to ſay, the ſtones cleave in ſunder, and the graves did open themſelves, to ſhew by this token, that death was overcome: and the reſurrection of the dead followed the reſurrection of Chriſt, as appeareth by the next verſe following.

[15] Chriſt is buried, not privily or by ſtealth, but by the governor's conſent by a famous man in a place, not far diſtant, in a new ſepulchre, ſo that it cannot be doubted of his death.

[16] The keeping of the ſepulchre is committed to Chriſt's own murderers, that there might be no doubt of his reſurrection.

[s] The ſoldiers of the garriſon which were appointed to keep the temple.

[1] Chriſt having put death to flight in the ſepulchre, riſeth by his own power, as ſtraightway the angel witneſſeth.

[a] At the going out of the ſabbath, that is, about day-break, after the Roman count, which reckon the natural day, from the ſun riſing to the next ſun riſing: and not as the Hebrews, which count from evening to evening.

[b] When the morning of the firſt day after the ſabbath began to dawn: and that firſt day is the ſame which we now call Sunday, or the Lord's day.

A. D. 33.

for the angel of the Lord deſcended from heaven, and came and rolled back the ſtone from the door, and ſat upon it.

3 And his [c] countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as ſnow.

4 And for fear of him the keepers were aſtoniſhed, and became as dead men.

5 But the angel anſwered, and ſaid to the women, Fear [d] ye not: for I know that ye ſeek Jeſus which was crucified:

6 He is not here, for he is riſen, as he ſaid: come, ſee the place where the Lord was laid,

7 And go quickly, and tell his diſciples, that he is riſen from the dead: and behold, he goeth before you into Galilee: there ye ſhall ſee him: lo, I have told you.

8 So they departed quickly from the ſepulchre with fear and great joy, and did run to bring his diſciples word.

9 [2] And as they went to tell his diſciples, behold, Jeſus alſo met them, ſaying, God ſave you. And they came, and took him by the feet, and worſhipped him.

10 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, Be not afraid. Go, and tell my brethren, that they go into Galilee, and there ſhall they ſee me.

11 ¶ [3] Now when they were gone, behold, ſome of the watch came into the city, and ſhewed unto the high prieſts all the things that were done.

12 And they gathered them together with the elders, and took counſel, and gave large money unto the ſoldiers,

13 Saying, Say, his diſciples came by night, and ſtole him away, while we ſlept.

14 And if this matter [e] come before the governor to be heard, we will perſuade him, and ſo uſe the matter, that you ſhall not need to care.

15 So they took the money, and did as they were taught: and this ſaying is noiſed among the Jews unto this day.

16 ¶ [4] Then the eleven diſciples went into Galilee, into a mountain where Jeſus had appointed them.

17 And when they ſaw him, they worſhipped him: but ſome doubted.

18 And Jeſus came, and ſpake unto them, ſaying, * All power is given unto me, in heaven, and in earth. * Heb. 1. 2. Ch. 11. 27. John 17. 2.

19 * [5] Go therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them [f] in the name of the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghoſt, * Mark 16. 15.

20 Teaching them to obſerve all things, whatſoever I have commanded you: and lo, * I am with you [g] alway, until the end of the world, Amen. * John 14. 16.

---

[c] The beams of his eyes, and by the figure Synecdoche, for the countenance.

[d] The word (Ye) is ſpoken with force, to confirm the women now that the ſoldiers were afraid.

[2] Chriſt appeareth himſelf after his reſurrection, and ſending the women to his diſciples, ſheweth that he hath not forgotten them.

[3] The more the ſun ſhineth, the more are the wicked blinded.

[e] For it was to be feared, that it would be brought to the governor's ears.

[4] Chriſt appeareth alſo to his diſciples, whom he maketh apoſtles.

[5] The ſum of the apoſtleſhip, is the publiſhing of the doctrine received of Chriſt throughout all the world, and the miniſtering of the ſacraments: the efficacy of which things hangeth not of the miniſters, but of the Lord.

[f] Calling upon the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghoſt.

[g] For ever: and this place is meant of the manner of the preſence of his Spirit, by means whereof he maketh us partakers both of himſelf, and of all his benefits, but is abſent from us in body.

The Holy Goſpel of JESUS CHRIST, according to St. MARK.

[1] John goeth before Chriſt, as it was foreſpoken by the prophets.

[a] This is the figure Metonymia, whereby is meant the book of the prophets, Malachi and Iſaiah.

[b] The prophet uſeth the preſent tenſe, when he ſpeaketh of a thing to come, being as ſure of it, as if he ſaw it.

[c] A metaphor taken from the uſage of kings, which uſe to have uſhers go before them.

[2] The ſum of John's doctrine, or rather Chriſt's, is remiſſion of ſins and amendment of life.

[d] The Jews uſed many kinds of waſhings; but here is ſpoken of a peculiar kind of waſhing, which hath all the parts of true baptiſm, amendment of life, and forgiveneſs of ſins.

[3] John and all miniſters caſt their eyes upon Chriſt the Lord.

[e] The evangeliſt his meaning was to expreſs the condition of the baſeſt ſervant.

[f] He ſheweth that all the force of baptiſm proceedeth from Chriſt, who baptizeth within.

[4] Chriſt doth conſecrate our baptiſm in himſelf.

A. D. 27.

that Jeſus came from Nazareth, a city of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

10 [5] And as ſoon as [g] he was come out of the water, John ſaw the heavens cloven in twain, and the Holy Ghoſt deſcending upon him like a dove.

11 Then there was a voice from heaven, ſaying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am [h] well pleaſed.

12 * [6] And immediately the Spirit [i] driveth him into the wilderneſs.

* Matt. 4. 1. Luke 4. 1. Heb. 2. 18.

13 And he was there in the wilderneſs forty days, and was tempted of Satan: he was alſo with the wild beaſts, and the angels miniſtered unto him.

14 ¶ * [7] Now after that John was committed to priſon, Jeſus came into Galilee, preaching the goſpel of the kingdom of God,

* Matt. 4. 12. Luke 4. 44. John 4. 43.

15 And ſaying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent and believe the goſpel.

16 ¶ * [8] And as he walked by the ſea of Galilee, he ſaw Simon, and Andrew his brother, caſting a net into the ſea, (for they were fiſhers.)

* Matt. 4. 18. Luke 5. 2.

17 Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, Follow me, and I will make you to be fiſhers of men.

18 And ſtraightway they forſook their nets, and followed him.

19 [9] And when he had gone a little further thence, he ſaw James the ſon of Zebedee, and John his brother, as they were in the ſhip, mending their nets.

20 And anon he called them: and they left their father Zebedee in the ſhip with his hired ſervants, and went their way after him.

21 ¶ So * they entered into [k] Capernaum, and ſtraightway on the ſabbath-day he entered into the ſynagogue, and taught.

* Matt. 4. 13. Luke 4. 31.

22 And they were aſtoniſhed at his doctrine, * for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the Scribes.

* Matt. 7. 28. Luke 4. 32.

23 ¶ [10] And there was in their ſynagogue a man [l] in whom was an unclean ſpirit, and he cried out,

24 Saying, Ah, what have we to do with thee, O [m] Jeſus of Nazareth? Art thou come to deſtroy us? I know thee what thou art, even that [n] Holy one of God.

25 And Jeſus rebuked him, ſaying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And the unclean ſpirit [o] tare him, and cried with a loud voice, and came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, ſo that they demanded one [p] of another, ſaying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for he [q] commandeth even the foul ſpirits with authority, and they obey him.

A. D. 31.

28 And immediately his fame ſpread abroad throughout all the region [r] bordering on Galilee.

29 ¶ * [11] And as ſoon as they were come out of the ſynagogue, they entered into the houſe of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.

* Matt. 8. 14. Luke 4. 38.

30 And Simon's wife's mother lay ſick of a fever, and anon they told him of her.

31 And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up, and the fever forſook her by and by, and ſhe miniſtered unto them.

32 And when even was come, at what time the ſun ſetteth, they brought unto him all that were diſeaſed, and them that were poſſeſſed with devils.

33 And the whole city was gathered together at the door.

34 And he healed many that were ſick of divers diſeaſes: and he caſt out many devils, and [s] ſuffered not the devils to ſay that they knew him.

35 And in the morning very early before day, Jeſus aroſe and went out into a ſolitary place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon, and they that were with him, followed carefully after him.

37 And when they had found him, they ſaid unto him, All men ſeek for thee.

38 Then he ſaid unto them, Let us go into the [t] next towns, that I may preach there alſo: for I came out for that purpoſe.

39 And he preached in their ſynagogues throughout all Galilee, and caſt the devils out.

40 ¶ * [12] And there came a leper to him, beſeeching him, and kneeled down unto him, and ſaid to him, If thou wilt, thou canſt make me clean.

* Matt. 8. 2. Luke 5. 12.

41 And Jeſus had compaſſion, and put forth his hand, and touched him, and ſaid to him, I will: be thou clean.

42 And as ſoon as he had ſpoken, immediately the leproſy departed from him, and he was made clean.

43 And after he had given him a ſtrait commandment, he ſent him away forthwith,

44 [13] And ſaid unto him, See thou ſay nothing to any man, but get thee hence, and ſhew thyſelf to the [u] * prieſt, and offer for thy cleanſing thoſe things which Moſes commanded for a teſtimonial unto them.

* Lev. 14. 4.

45 But when he was departed, * he began to tell many things, and to publiſh the matter: ſo that Jeſus could no more openly enter into the city, but was without in deſert places: and they came to him from every quarter.

* Luke 5. 15.

CHAP.

[5] The vocation of Chriſt from heaven, as head of the church.

[g] John that went down into the water with Chriſt.

[h] Look Matt. 3. 17.

[6] Chriſt being tempted overcometh.

[i] Here is no violent and forcible driving out meant: but the divine power claddeth Chriſt, (who had lived until this time as a private man) with a new perſon, and prepareth him to the combat that was at hand, and to his miniſtry.

[7] After that John is taken, Chriſt ſheweth himſelf fully.

[8] The calling of Simon and Andrew.

[9] The calling of James and John.

[k] From the city Nazareth.

[10] He preacheth that doctrine, by which alone Satan is driven out of the world, which alſo he confirmeth by a miracle.

[l] Word for word, a man in an unclean ſpirit, that is to ſay, poſſeſſed with an evil ſpirit.

[m] He was born in Bethlehem, but through the error of the people, he was called a Nazareen, becauſe he was brought up in Nazareth.

[n] He alludeth to that name that was written in the golden plate which the high prieſt wore, Exod. 28. 36.

[o] Look beneath, chap. 9. 20.

[p] As men amazed.

[q] By his own authority, or as a Lord.

[r] Not only into Galilee, but alſo into the countries bordering upon it.

[11] By healing of divers diſeaſes, he ſheweth that he hath brought true life into the world.

[s] For it belongeth not to the devils to preach the goſpel, Acts 16. 18.

[t] Villages which were as cities.

[12] By healing the leprous, he ſheweth that he came for this cauſe to wipe out the ſins of the world with his touching.

[13] He witneſſeth that he was not moved with ambition, but with the only deſire of his Father's glory, and love toward poor ſinners.

[u] All the poſterity of Aaron might judge of a leper.

A. D. 31.

CHAP. II.

3 and 4 One ſick of the palſy, having his ſins forgiven him, is healed. 14 Matthew is called. 19 Faſtings and afflictions are foretold. 23 The diſciples pluck the ears of corn. 26 The ſhew-bread.

* Matt. 9. 1. Luke 5. 18.

AFTER * [1] a few days, he entered into Capernaum again, and it was noiſed that he was in the [a] houſe.

2 And anon, many gathered together, inſomuch that the [b] places about the door could not receive any more: and he preached the word unto them.

3 And there came unto him that brought one ſick of the palſy, borne of four men.

4 And becauſe they could not come near unto him for the multitude, they uncovered the roof of the houſe where he was: and when they had broken it open, they [c] let down the [d] bed, wherein the ſick of the palſy lay.

5 Now when Jeſus ſaw their faith, he ſaid to the ſick of the palſy, Son, thy ſins are forgiven thee.

6 And there were certain of the Scribes ſitting there, and [e] reaſoning in their hearts,

* Job 14. 4. Iſa. 43. 25.

7 Why doth this man ſpeak ſuch blaſphemies? * Who can forgive ſins, but God only?

8 And immediately when Jeſus perceived in his ſpirit, that thus they reaſoned with themſelves, he ſaid unto them, Why reaſon ye theſe things in your hearts?

9 Whether is it eaſier to ſay to the ſick of the palſy, Thy ſins are forgiven thee? Or to ſay, Ariſe, take up thy bed, and walk?

10 But that ye may know, that the Son of man hath authority in earth to forgive ſins, (he ſaid unto the ſick of the palſy)

11 I ſay unto thee, Ariſe, and take up thy bed, and get thee hence into thine own houſe.

12 And by and by he aroſe, and took up his bed, and went forth before them all, inſomuch that they were all [f] amazed, and glorified God, ſaying, We never ſaw ſuch a thing.

13 ¶ [2] Then he went forth again toward the ſea, and all the people reſorted unto him, and he taught them.

* Matt. 9. 9. Luke 27. 5.

14 * And as Jeſus paſſed by, he ſaw [g] Levi, the ſon of Alpheus, ſit at the receipt of cuſtom, and ſaid unto him, Follow me. And he aroſe, and followed him.

15 ¶ And it came to paſs, as Jeſus ſat at table in his houſe, many Publicans and ſinners ſat at table with Jeſus and his diſciples: for there were many that followed him.

16 And when the Scribes and Phariſees ſaw him eat with the Publicans and ſinners, they ſaid unto his diſciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with Publicans and ſinners?

17 Now when Jeſus heard it, he ſaid unto them, The whole have no need of a phyſician, but the ſick. * I came not to call the righteous, but the ſinners to repentance.

A. D. 31.

* 1 Tim. 1. 13.

* Matt. 9. 14. Luke 5. 33.

18 * [3] And the diſciples of John, and the Phariſees did faſt, and came and ſaid unto him, Why do the diſciples of John and of the Phariſees faſt, and thy diſciples faſt not?

19 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Can the children of the marriage-chamber faſt, whilſt the bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot faſt.

20 But the days will come, when the bridegroom ſhall be taken from them, and then ſhall they faſt in thoſe days.

21 Alſo no man ſeweth a piece of new cloth in an old garment: for elſe the new piece that filled it up, taketh away ſomewhat from the old, and the breach is worſe.

22 Likewiſe no man putteth new wine into old veſſels: for elſe the new wine breaketh the veſſels, and the wine runneth out, and the veſſels are loſt: but new wine muſt be put into new veſſels.

* Matt. 12. 1. Luke 6. 1.

23 ¶ * [4] And it came to paſs, as he went through the corn on the [h] ſabbath-day, that his diſciples, as they went on their way, began to pluck the ears of corn.

24 And the Phariſees ſaid unto him, Behold, why do they on the ſabbath-day that which is not lawful?

* 1 Sam. 21. 6.

25 And he ſaid to them, Have ye never read what * David did when he had need, and was an hungred, both he, and they that were with him?

* Exod. 29. 33. Lev. 8. 31. and 24. 9.

26 How he went into the houſe of God, in the days of [i] Abiathar the high prieſt, and did eat the ſhew-bread, which was not lawful to eat, but for the * prieſts, and gave alſo to them which were with him?

27 And he ſaid to them, The ſabbath was made for man, and not man for the ſabbath.

28 Wherefore the Son of man is Lord even of the [k] ſabbath.

CHAP. III.

1 The withered hand is healed. 6 The Phariſees conſult with the Herodians. 10 Many are healed by touching Chriſt. 11 At his ſight the devils fall down before him. 14 The twelve apoſtles. 24 The kingdom divided againſt itſelf. 29 Blaſphemy againſt the Holy Ghoſt. 33 Chriſt's parents.

* Matt. 12. 9. Luke 6. 6.

AND * [1] he entered again into the ſynagogue, and there was a man which had a [a] withered hand.

2 And they watched him, whether he would heal him on the ſabbath-day, that they might accuſe him.

---

[1] Chriſt ſheweth by healing this man, which was ſick of the palſy, that men recover in him, through faith only, all their ſtrength which they have loſt.

[a] In the houſe where he uſed to remain: for he choſe Capernaum to dwell in, and left Nazareth.

[b] Neither the houſe nor the entry was able to hold them.

[c] They brake up the upper part of the houſe, which was plain, and let down the man that was ſick of the palſy into the lower part where Chriſt preached, for they could not otherwiſe come into his ſight.

[d] The word ſignifieth the worſt kind of bed whereupon men uſed to lay down themſelves at noontide, and ſuch other times to refreſh themſelves, we call it a couch.

[e] In their minds diſputing upon that matter, on both ſides.

[f] Word for word, paſt themſelves, or out of their wits.

[2] The goſpel offendeth the proud, and ſaveth the humble.

[g] Matthew's other name.

[3] The ſuperſtitious and hypocrites do raſhly put the ſum of godlineſs in things indifferent, and are here for three cauſes reprehended. Firſt, for that not conſidering what every man's ſtrength is able to bear, they raſhly make all manner of laws concerning ſuch things, without all diſcretion.

[4] Secondly, for that they make no difference between the laws which God made concerning the ſame things, and laws that are made of things which are utterly unlawful.

[h] Word for word, on the ſabbath, that is, on the holy days.

[i] 1 Sam. 21. 1. He is called Ahimelech, and his ſon Abiathar, but by conference of other places, it is plain that both of them had two names, look 1 Chron. 24. 6. 2 Sam. 8. 17. and 15. 29. 1 Kings 2. 26. 2 Kings 25. 18.

[k] Hath the ſabbath day in his power, and may rule it as he liſteth.

[1] Thirdly, for that they preferred the ceremonial law (which was but an appendant to the moral law.) Whereas contrariwiſe, they ſhould have learned out of this, the true uſe of the ceremonial law.

[a] That is, unprofitable and dead.

A. D. 31.

3 Then he ſaid unto the man which had the withered hand, Ariſe: ſtand forth in the midſt.

4 And he ſaid to them, Is it lawful to do a good deed on the ſabbath-day, or to do evil? to ſave the [b] life, or to kill? But they held their peace.

5 Then he looked round about on them [c] angrily, mourning alſo for the [d] hardneſs of their hearts, and ſaid to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he ſtretched it out: and his hand was reſtored as whole as the other.

6¶ [2] And the Phariſees departed, and ſtraightway gathered a council with the [e] Herodians againſt him, that they might deſtroy him.

7 But Jeſus avoided with his diſciples to the ſea: and a great multitude followed him from Galilee, and from Judea,

8 And from Jeruſalem, and from Idumea, and [f] beyond Jordan: and they that dwelled about Tyre and Sidon, when they had heard what great things he did, came unto him in great number.

9 And he commanded his diſciples, that a little ſhip ſhould [g] wait for him, becauſe of the multitude, leſt they ſhould throng him.

10 For he had healed many, inſomuch that they preſſed upon him to touch him, as many as had [h] plagues.

11 And when the [i] unclean ſpirits ſaw him, they fell down before him, and cried, ſaying, Thou art the Son of God.

12 And he ſharply rebuked them, to the intent that they ſhould not utter him.

* Ch. 6. 7. Matt. 10. 1. Luke 9. 1.

13 ¶ * Then he went up into a mountain, and called unto him whom he would, and they came unto him.

14 [3] And he [k] appointed twelve, that they ſhould be with him, and that he might ſend them to preach,

15 And that they might have power to heal ſickneſſes, and to caſt out devils.

16 And the firſt was Simon, and he named Simon, Peter.

17 Then James the ſon of Zebedee, and John, James's brother (and ſurnamed them Boanerges, which is, the ſons of thunder,)

18 And Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the ſon of Alpheus, and [l] Thaddeus, and Simon the Canaanite,

19 And Judas Iſcariot, who alſo betrayed him, and they came [m] home.

20 And the multitude aſſembled again, ſo that they could not ſo much as eat bread.

21 [4] And when his [n] kinſfolks heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him: for they ſaid that he was beſide himſelf.

* Matt. 9. 34. and 12. 24. Luke 11. 15.

22 ¶ * And the Scribes which came down from Jeruſalem, ſaid, He hath Beelzebub, and through the prince of the devils he caſteth out devils.

23 But he called them unto him, and ſaid unto them in parables, How can Satan drive out Satan?

24 For if a kingdom be divided againſt itſelf, that kingdom cannot ſtand.

25 Or if a houſe be divided againſt itſelf, that houſe cannot continue.

26 So if [o] Satan make inſurrection againſt himſelf, and be divided, he cannot endure, but is at an end.

27 No man can enter into a ſtrong man's houſe, and take away his goods, except he firſt bind the ſtrong man, and then ſpoil his houſe.

* Matt. 12. 31. Luke 12. 10. * 1 John 5. 16.

28 ¶ * [5] Verily I ſay unto you, all ſins ſhall be forgiven unto the children of men, and blaſphemies, wherewith they blaſpheme:

29 But he that blaſphemeth againſt the Holy Ghoſt, ſhall never have forgiveneſs, but is culpable of eternal damnation.

30 [p] Becauſe they ſaid, He had an unclean ſpirit.

* Matt. 12. 46. * Luke 8. 19.

31 ¶ * Then came his [q] brethren and mother, and ſtood without, and ſent unto him, and called him.

32 And the people ſat about him, and they ſaid unto him, Behold, thy mother, and thy brethren ſeek for thee without.

33 But he anſwered them, ſaying, Who is my mother and my brethren?

34 [6] And he looked round about on them which ſat in compaſs about him, and ſaid, Behold my mother and my brethren.

35 For whoſoever doth the will of God, he is my brother, and my ſiſter, and my mother.

CHAP. IV.

4 The parable of the ſower. 14 And the meaning thereof. 18 Thorns. 21 The candle. 26 Of him that ſowed, and then ſlept. 31 The grain of muſtard-ſeed. 38 Chriſt ſleepeth in the ſhip.

* Matt. 13. 1. Luke 8. 4.

AND * he began again to teach by the [a] ſea-ſide, and there gathered unto him a great multitude, ſo that he entered into a ſhip, and ſat [b] in the ſea, and all the people was by the ſea-ſide on the land.

[b] A figurative ſpeech, by the figure Synecdoche. For this kind of ſaying, To ſave the life, is as much as to ſave the man.

[c] Men when they have wrong done unto them, are angry, but not without vice: but Chriſt is angry without vice, neither is he ſorry ſo much for the injury that is done to his own perſon, as for their wickedneſs: and therefore he had pity upon them, and for that cauſe is he ſaid to have mourned.

[d] As though their heart had been ſo cloſed up, and grown together, that wholeſome doctrine could prevail no more with them.

[2] The more the truth is kept under, the more it cometh out.

[3] The twelve apoſtles are ſet apart to be trained up to the office of the apoſtleſhip.

[k] Choſe and appointed out twelve to be familiar and converſant with him.

[l] Whom Luke alſo calleth Judas: and for difference ſake, the other Judas is called Iſcariot.

[m] The diſciples whom Chriſt had taken to be of his train and to live with him, came home to his houſe, to be with him always after.

[4] None are worſe enemies of the goſpel than they that leaſt ought.

[6] The ſpiritual kindred is far otherwiſe to be accounted of, than the carnal or fleſhly.

[a] Sea-ſide of Tyberias.

[b] In a ſhip which was launched into the ſea.

A. D. 31.

2 And he taught them many things in parables, and ſaid unto them in his doctrine,

3 [1] Hearken: Behold, there went out a ſower to ſow.

4 And it came to paſs as he ſowed, that ſome fell by the way ſide, and the fowls of the heaven came, and devoured it up.

5 And ſome fell on ſtony ground, where it had not much earth, and by and by ſprang up, becauſe it had not depth of earth.

6 But as ſoon as the ſun was up, it was burnt up, and becauſe it had not root, it withered away.

7 And ſome fell among the thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choaked it, ſo that it gave no fruit.

8 Some again fell in good ground, and did yield fruit that ſprung up, and grew, and it brought forth, ſome thirty-fold, ſome ſixty-fold, and ſome an hundred-fold.

9 Then he ſaid unto them, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And when he was [c] alone, they that were [d] about him with the twelve, aſked him of the parable.

11 And he ſaid unto them, To you it is given to know the myſtery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are [e] without, all things be done in parables.

12 * That they ſeeing, may ſee, and not diſcern: and they hearing, may hear, and not underſtand: leſt at any time they ſhould turn, and their ſins ſhould be forgiven them.

* Iſa 6. 9. Matt. 13. 14. Luke 8. 10. John 12. 40. Acts 28. 26. Rom. 11. 8.

13 Again he ſaid unto them, Perceive ye not this parable? how then ſhall ye underſtand all other parables?

14 The ſower ſoweth the word.

15 And theſe are they that receive the ſeed by the way ſide, in whom the word is ſown: but when they have heard it, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was ſown in their hearts.

16 And likewiſe they that receive the ſeed in ſtony ground, are they, which when they have heard the word, ſtraightway receive it with gladneſs.

17 Yet have they no root in themſelves, and endure but a time: for when trouble and perſecution ariſeth for the word, immediately they be offended.

18 Alſo they that receive the ſeed among the thorns, are ſuch as hear the word:

19 But the cares [f] of this world, and the * deceitfulneſs of riches, and the luſts of other things enter in, and choak the word, and it is unfruitful.

* 1 Tim. 6. 17.

20 But they that have received ſeed in good ground, are they that hear the word, and receive it, and bring forth fruit: one corn thirty, another ſixty, and ſome an hundred.

A. D. 31.

* Matt. 7. 2. Luke 6. 38.

25 * For unto him that hath, ſhall it be given: and from him that hath not, ſhall be taken away even that he hath.

* Matt. 13. 12. and 25. 29. Luke 8. 18. and 19. 26.

26 ¶ [4] Alſo he ſaid, So is the kingdom of God, as if a man ſhould caſt ſeed in the ground,

27 And [g] ſhould ſleep, and riſe up night and day, and the ſeed ſhould ſpring and grow up, [h] he not knowing how.

28 For the earth bringeth forth fruit [i] of itſelf, firſt the blade, then the ears, after that, full corn in the ears.

29 And as ſoon as the fruit ſheweth itſelf, anon he putteth in the ſickle, becauſe the harveſt is come.

30 ¶ * [5] He ſaid moreover, Whereunto ſhall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what compariſon ſhall we compare it?

* Matt. 13. 31. Luke 13 19.

31 It is like a grain of muſtard-ſeed, which when it is ſown in the earth, is the leaſt of all ſeeds that be in the earth:

32 But after that it is ſown, it groweth up, and is greateſt of all herbs, and beareth great branches, ſo that the fowls of heaven may build under the ſhadow of it.

33 And * with many ſuch parables he preached the word unto them, [k] as they were able to hear it.

* Matt. 13. 34.

34 And without parables ſpake he nothing unto them, but he [l] expounded all things to his diſciples apart.

* Matt. 8. 23. Luke 8. 22.

36 And they left the multitude, and took him as he was in the ſhip, and there were alſo with him other little ſhips.

38 And he was in the ſtern aſleep on a pillow: and 39 And he roſe up, and rebuked the wind, and ſaid unto the ſea, Peace, and be ſtill. So the wind ceaſed, and it was a great calm.

40 Then he ſaid unto them, [m] Why are ye ſo fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and ſaid one to another, Who is this, that both the wind and the ſea obey him?

* Matt. 8. 28. Luke 8. 26.

2 And when he was come out of the ſhip, there met him incontinently out of the graves, a man [b] which had an unclean ſpirit:

3 Who had his abiding among the graves, and no man could bind him, no not with chains:

4 Becauſe that when he was often bound with fetters and chains, he plucked the chains aſunder, and brake the fetters in pieces, neither could any man tame him.

5 And always both night and day he cried in the mountains, and in the graves, and ſtruck himſelf with ſtones.

6 And when he ſaw Jeſus afar off, he ran, and worſhipped him.

7 And cried with a loud voice, and ſaid, What have I to do with thee, Jeſus the Son of the Moſt High God, I [c] will that thou ſwear to me by God, that thou torment me not.

8 (For he ſaid unto him, Come out of the man, thou unclean ſpirit.)

9 (And he aſked him, What is thy name? and he anſwered, ſaying, My name is Legion: for we are many.

10 And he [d] prayed him inſtantly, that he would not ſend them away out of the country.

11 Now there was there in the [e] mountains, a great herd of ſwine, feeding.

12 And all the devils beſought him, ſaying, Send us into the ſwine, that we may enter into them.

13 And incontinently Jeſus gave them leave. Then the unclean ſpirits went out, and entered into the ſwine, and the herd ran headlong from the high bank into the [f] ſea (and there were about two thouſand ſwine) and they were choaked up in the ſea.

14 And the ſwineherds fled, and told it in the city, and in the country, and they came out to ſee what it was that was done.

15 And they came to Jeſus, and ſaw him that had been poſſeſſed with the devil, and had the Legion, ſit both cloathed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

16 And they that ſaw it, told them what was done to him that was poſſeſſed with the devil, and concerning the ſwine.

17 Then they began to pray him, that he would depart from their coaſts.

18 And when he was come into the ſhip, he that had been poſſeſſed with the devil, prayed him that he might be with him.

19 Howbeit, Jeſus would not ſuffer him, but ſaid unto him, Go thy way home to thy friends, and ſhew them what great things the Lord hath done unto thee, and how he hath had compaſſion on thee.

20 So he departed, and began to publiſh in Decapolis, what great things Jeſus had done unto him: and all men did marvel.

21 ¶ And when Jeſus was come over-again by ſhip unto the other ſide, a great multitude gathered together to him, and he was near unto the ſea.

24 Then he went with him, and a great multitude followed him, and thronged him.

25 ([2] And there was a certain woman, which was diſeaſed with an iſſue of blood twelve years,

26 And had ſuffered many things of many phyſicians, and had ſpent all that ſhe had, and it availed her nothing, but ſhe became much worſe,

27 When ſhe had heard of Jeſus, ſhe came in the preſs behind, and touched his garment:

28 For ſhe ſaid, If I may but touch his cloaths, I ſhall be whole.

29 And ſtraightway the courſe of her blood was dried up, and ſhe felt in her body, that ſhe was healed of that plague.

30 And immediately when Jeſus did know in himſelf the virtue that went out of him, he turned him round about in the preſs, and ſaid, Who hath touched my cloaths?

31 And his diſciples ſaid unto him, Thou ſeeſt the multitude throng thee, and ſayeſt thou, Who did touch me?

32 And he looked round about to ſee her that had done that.

33 And the woman feared and trembled: for ſhe knew what was done in her, and ſhe came and fell down before him, and told him the whole truth.

34 And he ſaid to her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole: go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.)

35 While he yet ſpake, there came from the ſame ruler of the ſynagogue's houſe certain which ſaid,

[m] How cometh it to paſs that you have no faith?

[1] Many have the virtue of Chriſt in admiration, and yet they will not redeem it with the loſs of the leaſt thing they have.

[a] Look Matt. 8. 30.

[b] Word for word, in an unclean ſpirit: now they are ſaid to be in the ſpirit, becauſe the ſpirit holdeth them faſt locked up, and as it were bound.

[c] That is, aſſure me by an oath, that thou wilt not vex me.

[d] That devil that played the meſſenger for his fellows.

[e] This whole country is for the greater part of it very hilly, for the mountains of Gilead run through it.

[f] Strabo in the ſixteenth book ſaith that in Gadaris there is a ſtanding pool of very naughty water, which if beaſts taſte of, they ſhed their hair, nails, or hoofs and horns.

[g] The whole company aſſembled not diſorderly, but in every ſynagogue there were certain men which governed the people.

[2] Jeſus being touched with true faith, although it be but weak, doth heal us by his virtue.

A. D. 31. ſaid, Thy daughter is dead: why diſeaſeſt thou the Maſter any further?

36 [3] As ſoon as Jeſus heard that word ſpoken, he ſaid unto the ruler of the ſynagogue, Be not afraid: only believe.

37 And he ſuffered no man to follow him, ſave Peter and James, and John the brother of James.

38 So he came unto the houſe of the ruler of the ſynagogue, and ſaw the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

39 And he went in, and ſaid unto them, Why make ye this trouble, and weep? the child is not dead, but ſleepeth.

40 [4] And they laughed him to ſcorn: but he put them all out, and took the father, and the mother of the child, and them [h] that were with him, and entered in where the child lay,

41 And took the child by the hand, and ſaid unto her, Talitha-cumi, which is by interpretation, Maiden, I ſay unto thee, ariſe.

42 And ſtraightway the maiden aroſe, and walked: for ſhe was of the age of twelve years, and they were aſtoniſhed out of meaſure.

43 And he charged them ſtraightly that no man ſhould know of it, and commanded to give her meat.

* Matt. 13. 54. Luke 4. 16. AND * [1] he departed thence, and came into his own country, and his diſciples followed him.

2 And when the ſabbath was come, he began to teach in the ſynagogue, and many that heard him, were aſtoniſhed, and ſaid, From whence hath this man theſe things? and what wiſdom is this that is given unto him, that even ſuch [a] great works are done by his hands?

3 Is not this that carpenter, Mary's ſon, the brother of James and Joſes, and of Judah and Simon? and are not his [b] ſiſters here with us? And they were offended in him.

5 And he [d] could there do no great works, ſave that he laid his hands upon a few ſick folk, and healed them.

6 And he marvelled at their unbelief, * and went about by the towns on every ſide, teaching. * Matt. 4. 23. Luke 13. 22.

7 ¶ * [2] And he called unto him the twelve, and began to ſend them forth two and two, and gave them power over unclean ſpirits, * Ch. 3. 14. Matt. 10. 1. Luke 9. 1.

8 [3] And commanded them, that they ſhould take nothing for their journey, ſave a ſtaff only: neither ſcrip, neither bread, neither money in their girdles:

9 But that they ſhould be ſhod with * [e] ſandals, and that they ſhould not put on [f] two coats. * Acts 12. 8.

10 And he ſaid unto them, Whereſoever ye ſhall enter into an houſe, [g] there abide till ye depart thence.

11 * [4] And whoſoever ſhall not receive you, nor hear you, when ye depart thence, * ſhake off the duſt that is under your feet, for a witneſs unto them. 13 And they caſt out many devils: and they * [h] anointed many that were ſick, with oil, and healed them. * James 5. 14.

14 ¶ * [5] Then king Herod heard of him (for his name was made manifeſt) and ſaid, John Baptiſt is riſen again from the dead, and therefore great [i] works are wrought by him. * Matt. 14. Luke 9. 7.

15 Other ſaid, It is Elias, and ſome ſaid, it is a prophet, or as one of [k] thoſe prophets.

16 * So when Herod heard it, he ſaid, it is John whom [l] I beheaded: he is riſen from the dead. * Luke 3. 19.

17 For Herod himſelf had ſent forth, and had taken John, and bound him in priſon for Herodias's ſake, which was his brother Philip's wife, becauſe he had married her.

18 For John ſaid unto Herod, * It is not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife. * Levit. 18. 16. and 20. 21.

19 Therefore Herodias [m] laid wait againſt him, and would have killed him, but ſhe could not.

20 For Herod feared John, knowing that he was a juſt man, and an holy, and reverenced him, and when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him [n] gladly.

[3] Fathers apprehend by faith, the promiſes of life even for their children.

[4] Such as mock and ſcorn Chriſt are unworthy to be witneſſes of his goodneſs.

[h] The three diſciples.

[1] The faithleſs world doth no whit at all diminiſh the virtue of Chriſt, but wittingly and willingly deprived itſelf of the efficacy of it, being offered unto them.

[a] The word ſignifieth powers, or virtues, whereby are meant thoſe wonderful works that Chriſt did, which ſhewed and ſet forth the virtue and power of his godhead to all the world, Matt. 7. 22.

[b] After the manner of the Hebrews, who by brethren and ſiſters underſtand all their kinsfolks.

[c] Not only that hath that honour, which of right is due to him, taken from him, but is alſo evil ſpoken of, and miſreported.

[d] That is, he would not: for we muſt needs have faith if we will receive the works of God.

[2] The diſciples are prepared to the general apoſtleſhip, by a peculiar ſending forth.

[3] Faithful paſtors ought not to have their minds ſet, no not on things that are neceſſary for this life, if they may be an hindrance unto them, be it never ſo little.

[e] The word ſignifieth properly women's ſhoes.

[f] That is, they ſhould take no change of garments with them, that they might be lighter for this journey, and make more ſpeed.

[g] That is, change not your inns in this ſhort journey.

[4] The Lord is a moſt ſevere revenger of his ſervants.

[h] That oil was a token and a ſign of this marvellous virtue: and ſeeing that the gift of healing is ceaſed a good while ſince, the ceremony which is yet retained of ſome, is to no purpoſe.

[5] The goſpel confirmeth the godly, and vexeth the wicked.

[i] The word ſignifieth powers, whereby is meant the power of working miracles.

[k] Of the old prophets.

[l] Commanded to be beheaded.

[m] Sought all means to do him hurt.

[n] The tyrant was very well content to hear ſentence pronounced againſt himſelf, but the ſeed fell upon ſtony places.

A. D. 31.

21 But the time being convenient, when Herod on his birth-day made a banquet to his princes and captains, and chief eſtates of Galilee :

22 And the daughter [o] of the ſame Herodias came in, and danced, and pleaſed Herod, and them that ſat at table together, the king ſaid unto the maid, Aſk of me what thou wilt, and I will give it thee.

23 And he ſware unto her, Whatſoever thou ſhalt aſk of me, I will give it thee, even unto the half of my kingdom.

* Matt. 14. 8. — 24 * So [p] ſhe went forth and ſaid to her mother, What ſhall I aſk ? and ſhe ſaid, John Baptiſt's head.

25 Then ſhe came in ſtraightway with haſte unto the king, and aſked, ſaying, I would that thou ſhouldeſt give me even now in a charger the head of John Baptiſt.

26 Then the king was very ſorry : yet for his oath's ſake, and for their ſakes which ſat at table with him, he would not refuſe her.

27 And immediately the king ſent the [q] hangman, and gave charge that his head ſhould be brought in. So he went and beheaded him in the priſon.

28 And brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the maid, and the maid gave it to her mother.

29 And when his diſciples heard it, they came and took up his body, and put it in a tomb.

* Luke 9. 10. — 30 ¶ * And the apoſtles gathered themſelves together to Jeſus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught.

31 [6] And he ſaid unto them, Come ye apart into the wilderneſs, and reſt awhile : for there were many comers and goers, that they had no leiſure to eat.

* Matt. 14. 13. Luke 9. 10. — 32 * So they went by ſhip out of the way into a deſert place.

33 But the people ſaw them when they departed, and many knew him, and ran a-foot thither out of all cities, and came thither before them, and aſſembled unto him.

* Matt. 9. 36. and 14. 14. *Luke 9. 11. — 34 * Then Jeſus went out, and ſaw a great multitude, and had compaſſion on them, becauſe they were like ſheep which had no ſhepherd : * and he began to teach them many things.

* Matt. 14. 15. — 35 * And when the day was now far ſpent, his diſciples came unto him, ſaying, This is a deſert place, and now the day is far paſſed.

36 Let them depart, that they may go into the country and towns about, and buy them bread : for they have nothing to eat.

37 But he anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they ſaid unto him, [r] Shall we go and buy [s] two hundred pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat ?

A. D. 32.

* Matt. 14. 17. Luke 9. 13. John 6. 9. — 38 * Then he ſaid unto them, How many loaves have ye ? go and look. And when they knew it, they ſaid, Five, and two fiſhes.

39 So he commanded them to make them all ſit down by [t] companies upon the green graſs.

40 Then they ſat down by [u] rows, by hundreds, and by fifties.

41 And he took the five loaves, and the two fiſhes, and looked up to heaven, and gave thanks, and brake the loaves, and gave them to his diſciples to ſet before them, and the two fiſhes he divided among them all.

42 So they did all eat, and were ſatisfied.

43 And they took up twelve baſkets full of the fragments, and of the fiſhes.

44 And they that had eaten, were about five thouſand men.

45 ¶ [7] And ſtraightway he cauſed his diſciples to go into the ſhip, and to go before unto the other ſide unto Bethſaida, while he ſent away the people.

46 Then as ſoon as he had ſent [x] them away, he departed into a mountain to pray.

* Matt. 14. 23. John 6. 15. — 47 * And when even was come, the ſhip was in the midſt of the ſea, and he alone on the land.

48 And he ſaw them troubled in rowing, (for the wind was contrary unto them) and about the fourth watch of the night, he came unto them walking upon the ſea, and would have paſſed by them.

49 And when they ſaw him walking upon the ſea, they ſuppoſed it had been a ſpirit, and cried out.

50 For they all ſaw him, and were ſore afraid : but anon he talked with them, and ſaid unto them, Be ye of good comfort : it is I, be not afraid.

51 Then he went up unto them into the ſhip, and the wind ceaſed, and they were [y] much more amazed in themſelves, and marvelled.

52 For they had not [z] conſidered the matter of the loaves, becauſe their hearts were hardened.

* Mark 14. 34. — 53 ¶ * And they came over, and went into the land of Genneſaret, and arrived.

54 [8] So when they were come out of the ſhip, ſtraightway they knew him,

55 And ran about throughout all that region round about, and began to carry hither and thither in couches all that were ſick, where they heard that he was.

56 And whitherſoever he entered into towns, or cities, or villages, they laid their ſick in the ſtreets, and prayed him that they might touch at the leaſt the edge of his garment. And as many as touched [a] him, were made whole.

[o] Which the ſame Herodias had not by Herodes Antipas, but by Philip, and Joſephus called her Salome.

[p] For women uſed not to ſit at table with men.

[q] The word ſignifieth one that beareth a dart, and the king's guard was ſo called, becauſe they did bear darts.

[6] Such as follow Chriſt ſhall want nothing, no not in the wilderneſs, but ſhall have abundance. And how wicked a thing is it, not to look for this tranſitory life at his hands, who giveth everlaſting life ?

[r] This is a kind of demand and wondering, not without a privy mock, which men do commonly uſe, when beginning to be in a fume, they deny to do a thing.

[s] Which is about twenty crowns : which is five pounds.

[t] Word for word, by bankets, after the manner of the Hebrews, who have no diſtributives, as chap. 6. 7. Now he calleth the rows of the ſitters, bankets.

[u] The word ſignifieth the beds in a garden, and it is word for word, by beds and beds; meaning thereby that they ſat down in rows one by another, as beds in a garden.

[7] The faithful ſervants of God after their little labour, are ſubject to a great tempeſt, which Chriſt doth ſo moderate, being preſent in power, although abſent in body, that he bringeth them to an happy haven, at ſuch time, and by ſuch means, as they looked not for : a lively image of the church toſſed to and fro in this world.

[x] His diſciples.

[y] They were ſo far from leaving to be amazed, when they knew that it was no ſpirit, that they were much more aſtoniſhed than ever they were before, when they ſaw the wind and the ſeas obey his commandments.

[z] Either they perceived not, or had not well conſidered that miracle of the five loaves, inſomuch that that virtue of Chriſt was no leſs ſtrange to them, than if they had not been preſent at that miracle which was done but a little before.

[8] Chriſt being rejected in his own country, and arriving upon a ſudden amongſt them, of whom he was not looked for, is received to their great profit.

CHAP. VII.

2 The apoſtles are found fault with for eating with unwaſhen hands. 4 The Phariſees traditions about waſhings. Hypocrites. 8 Man's traditions more ſet by than God's. 10 Parents muſt be honoured. 14 The things that do indeed defile a man. 25 The woman of Canaan. 32 The deaf and dumb man is healed.

* Matt. 15. 2. THEN *[1] gathered unto him the Phariſees, and certain of the Scribes which came from Jeruſalem.

2 And when they ſaw ſome of his diſciples [a] eat meat with [b] common hands, (that is to ſay, unwaſhen) they complained.

3 (For the Phariſees, and all the Jews, except they waſh their hands oft, eat not, [c] holding the tradition of the elders.

4 And when they come from the [d] market, except they waſh, they eat not: and many other things there be, which they have taken upon them to obſerve, as the waſhing of cups, and [e] pots, and of braſen veſſels, and of beds.)

5 Then aſked him the Phariſees and Scribes, Why [f] walk not thy diſciples according to the tradition of the elders, but eat meat with unwaſhen hands?

* Iſa. 29. 14. 6 [2] Then he anſwered and ſaid unto them, Surely * Iſaiah hath propheſied well of you, hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far away from me.

7 [3] But they worſhip me in vain, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

8 [4] For ye lay the commandment of God apart, and obſerve the tradition of men, as the waſhing of pots and of cups, and many other ſuch like things ye do.

9 [5] And he ſaid unto them, Well ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may obſerve your own tradition.

* Exod. 20. 12. Deut. 5. 16. Eph. 6. 2. * Exod. 21. 17. Lev. 20. 9. Prov. 20. 20. 10 For Moſes ſaid, * Honour thy father and thy mother: and * Whoſoever ſhall ſpeak evil of father or mother, let him [g] die the death.

11 But ye ſay, If a man ſay to father or mother, Corban, that is, By the gift that is offered by me, thou mayeſt have profit, he ſhall be free.

12 So ye ſuffer him no more to do any thing for his father, or his mother,

13 Making the word of God of none authority, by your tradition which ye have ordained: and ye do many ſuch like things.

A. D. 32.

* Matt. 15. 10. 14 * Then he called the whole multitude unto him, and ſaid unto them, Hearken you all unto me, and underſtand.

15 There is nothing without a man, that can defile him, when it entereth into him: but the things which proceed out of him, are they which defile the man.

16 If any have ears to hear, let him hear.

17 And when he came into an houſe, away from the people, his diſciples aſked him concerning the parable.

18 And he ſaid unto them, What? are ye without underſtanding alſo? Do ye not know that whatſoever thing from without entereth into a man, cannot defile him,

19 Becauſe it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, which is the [h] purging of all meats?

20 Then he ſaid, That which cometh out of man, that defileth man.

* Gen. 6. 5. and 8. 21. 21 * For from within, even out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders,

22 Thefts, [i] covetouſneſs, wickedneſs, deceit, uncleanneſs, a [k] wicked eye, backbiting, pride, fooliſhneſs.

23 All theſe evil things come from within, and defile a man.

* Matt. 15. 21. 24 ¶ * [6] And from thence he aroſe, and went into the [l] borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into an houſe, and would that no man ſhould have known: but he could not be hid.

25 For a certain woman, whoſe little daughter had an unclean ſpirit, heard of him, and came, and fell at his feet.

26 (And the woman was a [m] Greek, a [n] Syrophœnician by nation) and ſhe beſought him that he would caſt out the devil out of her daughter.

27 But Jeſus ſaid unto her, Let the children firſt be fed: for it is not good to take the children's bread, and to caſt it unto [o] whelps.

28 Then ſhe anſwered, and ſaid unto him, [p] Truth, Lord: yet indeed the whelps eat under the table of the children's crums.

29 Then he ſaid unto her, For this ſaying, go thy way: the devil is gone out of thy daughter.

30 And when ſhe was come home to her houſe, ſhe found the devil departed, and her daughter lying on the bed.

[1] None do more reſiſt the wiſdom of God, than they that ſhould be wiſeſt, and that upon a zeal of their own traditions: for men do not pleaſe themſelves more in any thing than in ſuperſtition, that is to ſay, in a worſhip of God fondly deviſed of themſelves.

3 And if I ſend them away faſting to their own houſes, they would [a] faint by the way: for ſome of them came from far.

4 Then his diſciples anſwered him, Whence can a man ſatisfy theſe with bread here in the wilderneſs?

5 And he aſked them, How many loaves have ye? And they ſaid, Seven.

6 Then he commanded the multitude to ſit down on the ground: and he took the ſeven loaves, and gave thanks, brake them, and gave to his diſciples to ſet before them, and they did ſet them before the people.

7 They had alſo a few ſmall fiſhes: and when he had given thanks, he commanded them alſo to be ſet before them.

[d] Word for word, If a ſign be given: it is a cutted kind of ſpeech very common among the Hebrews: wherein ſome ſuch words as theſe muſt be underſtood, Let me be taken for a lyar, or ſome ſuch like. And when they ſpeak out the whole, they ſay, The Lord do thus and thus by me.

[2] We muſt eſpecially take heed of them which corrupt the word of God, what degree ſoever they be of, either in the church, or in civil policy.

[3] They that have their minds fixed on earthly things, are utterly blind in heavenly things, although they be never ſo plainly ſet forth unto them.

[e] How cometh it to paſs, that you underſtand not theſe things which are ſo plain and evident?

[4] A true image of our regeneration, which Chriſt ſeparating us from the world, worketh and accompliſheth by little and little in us.

[g] He commanded him again, to try indeed, whether he could ſee well or no.

29 And he ſaid unto them, But whom ſay ye that I am? Then Peter anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Thou art that Chriſt.

30 [7] And he ſharply charged them, that concerning him they ſhould tell no man.

31 [8] Then he began to teach them, that the Son of man muſt ſuffer many things, and ſhould be reproved of the elders, and of the high prieſts, and of the Scribes, and be ſlain, and within three days riſe again.

32 [9] And he ſpake that thing boldly. Then Peter took him aſide, and began to rebuke him.

33 Then he turned back, and looked on his diſciples, and rebuked Peter, ſaying, Get thee behind me, Satan: for thou [h] underſtandeſt not the things that are of God, but the things that are of men.

*Matt. 6. 28. Luke 9. 27. AND * he ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, that there be ſome of them that ſtand here, which ſhall not taſte of death till they have ſeen the [a] kingdom of God come with power.

*Matt. 17. 1. Luke 9. 28. 2 * [1] And ſix days after, Jeſus taketh unto him Peter, and James, and John, and carrieth them up into an high mountain out of the way alone, and his ſhape was changed before them. A. D. 32.

3 And his raiment did [b] ſhine, and was very white as ſnow, ſo white as no fuller can make upon the earth.

4 And there appeared unto them Elias with Moſes, and they were talking with Jeſus.

5 Then Peter anſwered, and ſaid to Jeſus, Maſter, it is good for us to be here: let us make alſo three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moſes, and one for Elias.

6 Yet he knew not what he ſaid: for they were [c] afraid.

7 And there was a cloud that ſhadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, ſaying, * This is my beloved Son: hear him, *Matt. 3. 17. and 17. 5. Ch. 1. 11.

8 And ſuddenly they looked round about, and ſaw no more any man ſave Jeſus only with them.

9 [2] * And as they came down from the mountain, he charged them that they ſhould tell no man what they had ſeen, ſave when the Son of man were riſen from the dead again. *Matt. 17. 9.

10 So they [d] kept that matter to themſelves, and [e] demanded one of another, what the riſing from the dead again ſhould mean?

11 [3] Alſo they aſked him, ſaying, Why ſay the Scribes, that * Elias muſt firſt come? * Mal. 4. 5.

12 And he anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Elias verily ſhall firſt come, and reſtore all things: and * as it is written of the Son of man, he muſt ſuffer many things, and be ſet at nought. * Iſa. 53. 4.

13 But I ſay unto you, that Elias is come, (and they have done unto him whatſoever they would) as it is written of him.

14 ¶ * [4] And when he came to his diſciples, he ſaw a great multitude about them, and the Scribes diſputing with them. * Matt. 17. 14. Luke 9. 38.

15 And ſtraightway all the people, when they beheld him, were amazed, and ran to him, and ſaluted him.

16 Then he aſked the Scribes, What diſpute you among yourſelves?

17 And one of the company anſwered, and ſaid, Maſter, I have brought my ſon unto thee, which hath a dumb ſpirit:

18 And wheresoever he taketh him, he [f] teareth him, and he foameth, and gnaſheth his teeth, and pineth away: and I ſpake to thy diſciples, that they ſhould caſt him out, and they could not.

19 Then he anſwered him, and ſaid, O faithleſs generation, how long now ſhall I be with you! how long now ſhall I ſuffer you! Bring him unto me.

---

[7] Chriſt hath appointed his times to the preaching of the goſpel, and therefore here deferreth it to a more commodious time, leſt ſudden haſte ſhould rather hinder than further the myſtery of his coming.

[8] Chriſt ſuffered all that he ſuffered for us, not unwillingly, neither unawares, but foreknowing it, and willingly.

[9] None are more mad than they that are wiſe beſide the word of God.

[h] This is not godly, but worldly wiſdom.

[10] The diſciples of Chriſt muſt bear ſtoutly what burden ſoever the Lord layeth upon them, and ſubdue the affections of the fleſh.

[11] They are the moſt fooliſh of all men, which purchaſe the enjoying of this life with the loſs of everlaſting bliſs.

[a] When he ſhall begin his kingdom through the preaching of the goſpel, that is to ſay, after the reſurrection.

[1] The heavenly glory of Chriſt, which ſhould with in a ſhort ſpace be abaſed upon the croſs, is avouched by viſible ſigns, by the preſence and talk of Elias and Moſes, and by the voice of the Father himſelf, before three of his diſciples, which were witneſſes, againſt whom lieth no exception.

[b] Did ſparkle as it were.

[c] They were beſide themſelves for fear.

[2] The Lord hath appointed his times for the publiſhing of the goſpel.

[d] Even very hardly as it were.

[e] They queſtioned not together touching the general reſurrection, which ſhall be in the latter day, but they underſtood not what he meant by that which he ſpake of his own peculiar reſurrection.

[3] The fooliſh opinion of the Rabbies is here refelled, touching Elias coming, which was, that either Elias ſhould riſe again from the dead, or that his ſoul ſhould enter into ſome other body.

[4] Chriſt ſheweth by a miracle even to the unworthy, that he is come to bridle the rage of Satan.

[f] Vexeth him inwardly, as the cholic uſeth to do.

A. D. 32.

20 So they brought him unto him: and as ſoon as the ſpirit [g] ſaw him, he tare him, and he fell down on the ground, wallowing and foaming.

21 Then he aſked his father, How long time is it ſince he hath been thus? And he ſaid, Of a child:

22 And oft-times he caſteth him into the fire, and into the water, to deſtroy him: but if thou canſt do any thing, help us, and have compaſſion upon us.

23 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, If thou canſt believe it, [h] all things are poſſible to him that believeth.

24 And ſtraightway the father of the child crying with tears, ſaid, Lord, I believe: help my unbelief.

25 When Jeſus ſaw that the people came running together, he rebuked the unclean ſpirit, ſaying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf ſpirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him,

26 [5] Then the ſpirit cried, and rent him ſore, and came out, and he was as one dead, inſomuch that many ſaid, He is dead.

27 But Jeſus took his hand, and lift him up, and he aroſe.

28 [6] And when he was come into the houſe, his diſciples aſked him ſecretly, Why could not we caſt him out?

29 And he ſaid unto them, This kind can by no other means come forth, but by prayer and faſting.

* Matt. 17. 22. Luke 9. 22.

30 ¶ * And they departed thence, and [i] went together through Galilee, and he would not that any ſhould have known it.

31 [7] For he taught his diſciples, and ſaid unto them, The Son of man ſhall be delivered into the hands of men, and they ſhall kill him, but after that he is killed, he ſhall riſe again the third day.

32 But they underſtood not that ſaying, and were afraid to aſk him.

*Matt. 18 1. Luke 9. 46.

33 * [8] After, he came to Capernaum: and when he was in the [k] houſe, he aſked them, What was it that ye diſputed among you by the way?

34 And they held their peace: for by the way they reaſoned among themſelves, who ſhould be the chiefeſt.

35 And he ſat down, and called the twelve, and ſaid to them, If any man deſire to be firſt, the ſame ſhall be laſt of all, and ſervant unto all.

36 And he took a little child, and ſet him in the midſt of them, and took him in his arms, and ſaid unto them,

37 Whoſoever ſhall receive one of ſuch little children in my name, receiveth me: and whoſoever receiveth me, receiveth not [l] me, but him that ſent me.

*1 Cor. 12. 3.

39 * But Jeſus ſaid, Forbid him not: for there is no man that can do a miracle by my name, that can lightly ſpeak evil of me.

40 For whoſoever is not againſt us, is on our part.

* Matt. 10. 42.

41 * And whoſoever ſhall give you a cup of water to drink for my name's ſake, becauſe ye belong to Chriſt, verily I ſay unto you, he ſhall not loſe his reward.

*Matt. 18. 6. Luke 17. 1.

42 * [10] And whoſoever ſhall offend one of theſe little ones that believe in me, it were better for him rather, that a mill-ſtone were hanged about his neck, and that he were caſt into the ſea.

*Matt. 5. 29. and 18. 8.

43 * Wherefore if thine hand cauſe thee to offend, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into the fire that never ſhall be quenched.

*Iſa. 66. 27.

44 * Where their [m] worm dieth not, and the fire never goeth out.

45 Likewiſe, if thy foot cauſe thee to offend, cut it off: it is better for thee to go halt into life, than having two feet to be caſt into hell, into the fire that never ſhall be quenched,

46 Where their worm dieth not, and the fire never goeth out.

47 And if thine eye cauſe thee to offend, pluck it out: it is better for thee to go into the kingdom of God with one eye, than having two eyes to be caſt into hell fire,

48 Where the worm dieth not, and the fire never goeth out.

[g] So ſoon as Jeſus had looked upon the boy that was brought unto him, the devil began to rage after his manner.

[h] There is nothing but Chriſt can and will do it, for them that will believe in him.

[5] The nearer the virtue of Chriſt is, the more outrageouſly doth Satan rage.

[6] We have need of faith, and therefore of prayer and faſting, to caſt Satan out of his old poſſeſſion.

[i] He and his diſciples together.

[7] Chriſt forwarneth us with great diligence, to the end we ſhould not be oppreſſed with ſudden calamities, but the ſlothfulneſs of man is wonderful.

[8] Only humility doth exalt.

[k] Where he was wont to make his abode.

[l] He doth not only receive me, but alſo him that ſent me.

[9] God, who is the author of an ordinary vocation, worketh alſo extraordinarily ſo oft as it pleaſeth him. But an extraordinary vocation is tried by the doctrine and the effects.

[10] God is ſo ſevere a revenger of offences, that it is better to ſuffer any loſs, than to be an occaſion of offence unto any.

[m] Their worm which ſhall be caſt into that flame.

[11] We muſt be ſeaſoned and powdered by God, both that we may be acceptable ſacrifices unto him, and alſo that we, being knit together, may ſeaſon one another.

[n] That is, ſhall be conſecrate unto God, being ſeaſoned with the incorruptible word.

[a] That is to ſay, departed and went from thence: for in the Hebrew tongue ſitting and dwelling are all one, and ſo are riſing and going forth.

2 Then the Phariſees came and aſked him, if it were lawful for a man to put away his wife: and tempted him.

3 And he anſwered, and ſaid unto them, What did * Moſes command you?
*Deut.24.1.

4 And they ſaid, Moſes ſuffered to write a bill of divorcement, and to put her away.

5 [1] Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, For the hardneſs of your heart he wrote this [b] precept unto you.

6 But at the beginning of the creation * God made them male and female:
*Gen. 1. 27. Matt. 19. 4.

7 * For this cauſe ſhall man leave his father and mother, and cleave unto his wife,
*Gen. 2. 24. 1 Cor. 6. 16. Epheſ. 5. 31.

8 And they twain ſhall be one fleſh: ſo that they are no more twain, but one fleſh.

9 * Therefore, what God hath coupled together, let no man ſeparate.
*1 Cor. 7. 10.

10 And in the houſe his diſciples aſked him again of that matter.

11 And he ſaid unto them, * Whoſoever ſhall put away his wife and marry another, committeth adultery [c] againſt her.
*Matt. 5. 32. an 19. 9. Luke 16 18.

12 And if a woman put away her huſband, and be married to another, ſhe committeth adultery.

13 ¶ * [2] Then they brought little children to him, that he ſhould touch them, and his diſciples rebuked thoſe that brought them.
*Matt. 19 13. Luke 18. 15.

14 But when Jeſus ſaw it, he was diſpleaſed, and ſaid to them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of ſuch is the kingdom of God.

15 Verily I ſay unto you, Whoſoever ſhall not receive the kingdom of God [3] as a little child, he ſhall not enter therein.

16 And he took them up in his arms, and put his hands upon them, and bleſſed them.

17 ¶ [4] And when he was gone out on the way, there came one * running, and kneeled to him, and aſked him, Good Maſter, what ſhall I do that I may poſſeſs eternal life?
*Matt. 19. 16. Luke 18. 18.

18 Jeſus ſaid to him, Why calleſt thou me good? there is none good but one, even God.

19 Thou knoweſt the commandments, * Thou ſhalt not commit adultery. Thou ſhalt not kill. Thou ſhalt not ſteal. Thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs. Thou ſhalt [d] hurt no man. Honour thy father and mother.
*Exod. 20. 13.

20 Then he anſwered, and ſaid to him, Maſter, all theſe things have I obſerved from my youth.

21 And Jeſus looked upon him, and loved him, and ſaid unto him, One thing is lacking unto thee. Go and ſell all that thou haſt, and give to the poor, and thou ſhalt have treaſure in heaven, and come, follow me, and take up the croſs.

22 But he was ſad at that ſaying, and went away ſorrowful: for he had great poſſeſſions.

23 And Jeſus looked round about, and ſaid unto his diſciples, How hardly do they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

24 And his diſciples were afraid at his words. But Jeſus anſwered again, and ſaid unto them, Children, how hard is it for them that truſt in riches, to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 It is eaſier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they were much more aſtoniſhed, ſaying with themſelves, Who then can be ſaved?

27 But Jeſus looked upon them, and ſaid, With men it is impoſſible, but not with God: for with God all things are poſſible.

28 ¶ * [5] Then Peter began to ſay unto him, Lo, we have forſaken all, and have followed thee.
* Matt. 19. 27. Luke 18. 28.

29 Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid, Verily I ſay unto you, there is no man that hath forſaken houſe, or brethren, or ſiſters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my ſake and the goſpel's,

30 But he ſhall receive an [e] hundred-fold, now at this preſent, houſes, and brethren, and ſiſters, and mothers, and children, and lands [f] with perſecutions, and in the world to come, eternal life.

31 * But many that are firſt, ſhall be laſt: and the laſt, firſt.
* Matt. 19. 30. Luke 13. 30.

32 ¶ * [6] And they were in the way, going up to Jeruſalem, and Jeſus went before them, and they were troubled, and as they followed, they were afraid: and Jeſus took the twelve again, and began to tell them what things ſhould come unto him,
* Matt. 20. 17. Luke 18. 31.

33 Saying, Behold, we go up to Jeruſalem, and the Son of man ſhall be delivered unto the high prieſts, and to the Scribes, and they ſhall condemn him to death, and ſhall deliver him to the Gentiles.

34 And they ſhall mock him, and ſcourge him, and ſpit upon him, and kill him: but the third day he ſhall riſe again.

35 ¶ * [7] Then James and John the ſons of Zebedee came unto him, ſaying, Maſter, [8] we would that thou ſhouldeſt do for us that we deſire.
* Matt. 20. 20.

36 And he ſaid unto them, What would ye that I ſhould do for you?

37 And they ſaid unto him, Grant unto us, that we may ſit, one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy glory.

38 But Jeſus ſaid unto them, Ye know not what ye aſk: Can ye drink of the cup that I ſhall drink

[1] God did never allow thoſe divorces which the law did tolerate.

[b] Look Matt. 19. For Moſes gave them no commandment to put away their wives, but rather made a good proviſo for the wives againſt the ſtubborn hardneſs of their huſbands.

[c] Whom he putteth away, for he is an adulterer by keeping company with another.

[2] God of his goodneſs comprehendeth in the covenant not only the fathers, but the children alſo: and therefore he bleſſeth them.

[3] We muſt in malice become children, if we will enter into the kingdom of heaven.

[4] Two things are chiefly to be eſchewed of them which earneſtly ſeek eternal life: that is to ſay, an opinion of their merits or deſervings, which is not only underſtood, but condemned by the due conſideration of the law: and the love of riches, which turneth aſide many from that race wherein they ran with a good courage.

[d] Neither by force nor deceit, nor any other means whatſoever.

[5] To neglect all things in compariſon of Chriſt is a ſure way to eternal life, ſo that we fall not away by the way.

[e] An hundred-fold as much, if we look to the true uſe and commodities of this life, ſo that we meaſure them after the will of God, and not after the wealth itſelf, and our greedy deſire.

[f] Even in the midſt of perſecution.

[6] The diſciples are again prepared to patience, not to be overcome by the foretelling unto them of his death, which was at hand, and therewithal of life, which ſhould moſt certainly follow drink of, and be baptized with the baptiſm that I ſhall be baptized with?

39 And they ſaid unto him, We can. But Jeſus ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall drink indeed of the cup that I ſhall drink of, and be baptized with the baptiſm wherewith I ſhall be baptized:

40 But to ſit at my right hand and at my left, is not mine to give, but it ſhall be given to them for whom it is prepared.

41 And when the ten heard that, they began to diſdain at James and John.

42 [8] But Jeſus called them unto him, and ſaid * Luke 22. 25. to them, * Ye know that [h] they which are princes among the Gentiles, have domination over them: and they that be great among them, exerciſe authority over them:

43 But it ſhall not be ſo among you: but whoſoever will be great among you, ſhall be your ſervant.

44 And whoſoever will be chief of you, ſhall be the ſervant of all.

45 For even the Son of man came not to be ſerved, but to ſerve, and to give his life for the ranſom of many.

* Matt. 20. 29. Luke 18. 35. 46 ¶ * [9] Then they came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho with his diſciples, and a great multitude, Bartimeus the ſon of Timeus, a blind man, ſat by the way's ſide, begging.

47 And when he heard that it was Jeſus of Nazareth, he began to cry, and to ſay, Jeſus the ſon of David, have mercy on me.

48 And many rebuked him, becauſe he ſhould hold his peace: but he cried much more, O ſon of David, have mercy on me.

49 Then Jeſus ſtood ſtill, and commanded him to be called: and they called the blind, ſaying unto him, Be of good comfort: ariſe, he calleth thee.

50 So he threw away his cloak, and aroſe, and came to Jeſus.

51 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto him, What wilt thou that I do unto thee? And the blind ſaid unto him, Lord, that I may receive ſight.

52 Then Jeſus ſaid unto him, Go thy way: thy faith hath ſaved thee. And by and by he received his ſight, and followed Jeſus in the way.

3 And if any man ſay unto you, Why do ye this? Say that the Lord hath need of him, and ſtraightway he will ſend him hither.

4 And they went their way, and found a colt tied by the door without, in a place where two ways met, and they looſed him.

5 Then certain of them that ſtood there ſaid unto them, What do ye looſing the colt?

6 And they ſaid unto them, as Jeſus had commanded them: So they let them go.

7 ¶ * And they brought the colt to Jeſus, * John 12. 14. and caſt their garments on him, and he ſat upon him.

8 And many ſpread their garments in the way: others cut down branches off the trees, and ſtrewed them in the way.

10 [b] Bleſſed be the kingdom that cometh in the name of the Lord of our father David: Hoſanna, O thou which art in the higheſt heavens.

11 * So Jeſus entered into Jeruſalem, and into the temple: and when he had looked about on * Matt. 21. 10. Luke 19. 44. all things, and now it was evening, he went forth unto Bethany with the twelve.

14 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid to it, Never man eat fruit of thee hereafter while the world ſtandeth: and his diſciples heard it.

15 ¶ [3] And they came to Jeruſalem, and Jeſus went into the temple, and began to caſt out them that ſold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the ſeats of them that ſold doves.

16 Neither would he ſuffer that any man ſhould carry a [c] veſſel through the temple.

17 And he taught, ſaying unto them, Is it not written, * Mine houſe ſhall be [d] called the houſe * Iſa. 56. of prayer unto all nations? * but you have made * Jer. 7. 11. it a den of thieves.

18 And the Scribes and high prieſts heard it, and ſought how to deſtroy him: for they feared him, becauſe the whole multitude was aſtoniſhed at his doctrine.

[2] An example of that vengeance which hangeth over the heads of hypocrites.

[3] Chriſt ſheweth indeed that he is the true King and high Prieſt, and therefore the revenger of the divine ſervice of the temple.

[c] That is, any prophane inſtrument, of which thoſe fellows had a number, that made the court of the temple a market-place.

[d] Shall openly be ſo accounted and taken.

[4] The force of faith is exceeding great, and charity is ever joined with it.

A. D. 33. 21 Then Peter remembered, and ſaid unto him, Maſter, behold, the fig-tree which thou curſedſt, is withered.

22 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Have [e] the faith of God.

23 For verily I ſay unto you, that whoſoever ſhall ſay unto this mountain, Be thou taken away, and caſt into the ſea, and ſhall not waver in his heart, but ſhall believe that thoſe things which he ſaith, ſhall come to paſs, whatſoever he ſaith, ſhall be done to him.

*Matt. 7. 7. Luke 11. 9. 24 * Therefore I ſay unto you, Whatſoever ye deſire when ye pray, believe that [f] ye ſhall have it, and it ſhall be done unto you.

*Matt. 6. 14. 25 * But when [g] ye ſhall ſtand, and pray, forgive, if ye have any thing againſt any man, that your Father alſo which is in heaven, may forgive you your treſpaſſes.

26 For if ye will not forgive, your Father, which is in heaven, will not pardon you your treſpaſſes.

*Matt. 21. 23. Luke 20. 1. 27 ¶ * [5] Then they came again to Jeruſalem: and as he walked in the temple, there came to him the high prieſts, and the Scribes, and the elders, 28 And ſaid unto him, By what authority doeſt thou theſe things? and who gave thee this authority, that thou ſhouldeſt do theſe things?

29 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, I will alſo aſk of you a certain thing, and anſwer ye me, and I will tell you by what authority I do theſe things.

30 The baptiſm of John, was it from heaven, or of men? anſwer me.

31 And they thought with themſelves, ſaying, If we ſhall ſay, From heaven, he will ſay, Why then did ye not believe him?

32 [6] But if we ſay, Of men, we fear the people: for all men counted John, that he was a prophet indeed.

33 Then they anſwered, and ſaid unto Jeſus, We cannot tell. And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Neither will I tell you by what authority I do theſe things.

CHAP. XII.

1 Of the vineyard. 10 Chriſt the ſtone refuſed of the Jews. 13 Of tribute to be given to Cæſar. 18 The Sadducees denying the reſurrection. 28 The firſt commandment. 31 To love God and thy neighbour, is better than ſacrifices. 36 Chriſt David's ſon. 38 To beware of the Scribes and Phariſees. 42 The poor widow.

*Iſa. 5. 1. Jer. 2. 2. Matt. 21. 23. Luke 20. 9. AND [1] he began to ſpeak unto them in [a] parables: * A certain man planted a vineyard, and compaſſed it with an hedge, and digged a pit for the winepreſs, and built a tower in it, and let it out to huſbandmen, and went into a ſtrange country.

A. D. 33. 2 [b] And at the time, he ſent to the huſbandmen a ſervant, that he might receive of the huſbandmen of the fruit of the vineyard.

3 But they took him, and beat him, and ſent him away empty.

4 And again he ſent unto them another ſervant, and at him they caſt ſtones, and brake his head, and ſent him away ſhamefully handled.

5 And again he ſent another, and him they ſlew, and many others, beating ſome, and killing ſome.

6 Yet had he one ſon, his dear beloved: him alſo he ſent the laſt unto them, ſaying, They will reverence my ſon.

7 But the huſbandmen ſaid among themſelves, This is the heir: come, let us kill him, and the inheritance ſhall be ours.

8 So they took him, and killed him, and caſt him out of the vineyard.

9 What ſhall then the Lord of the vineyard do? He will come and deſtroy theſe huſbandmen, and give the vineyard to others.

10 Have ye not read ſo much as this ſcripture? * The ſtone which the builders did refuſe, is made the head of the corner. *Pſ. 118. 22. Iſa. 28. 16. Matt. 21. 42. Acts 4. 11. Rom. 9. 33. 1 Pet. 2. 8.

11 This was done of the Lord, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

12 Then they went [c] about to take him, but they feared the people: for they perceived that he ſpake that parable againſt them: therefore they left him, and went their way.

13 ¶ * [2] And they ſent unto him certain of the Phariſees, and of the Herodians, that they might take him in his talk. *Matt. 22. 15. Luke 20. 20.

14 And when they came, they ſaid unto him, Maſter, we know that thou art true, and careſt for no man: for thou [d] conſidereſt not the perſon of men, but teacheſt the [e] way of God truly, Is it lawful to give tribute to Cæſar, or not?

15 Should we give it, or ſhould we not give it? But he knew their hypocriſy, and ſaid unto them, Why tempt ye me? Bring me a penny, that I may ſee it.

16 So they brought it, and he ſaid unto them, Whoſe is this image and ſuperſcription? and they ſaid unto him, Cæſar's.

17 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, * Give unto Cæſar the things that are Cæſar's, and to God, thoſe that are God's: and they marvelled at him. *Rom. 13. 7.

18 ¶ [3] * Then came the Sadducees unto him, (which ſay there is no reſurrection) and they aſked him, ſaying, *Matt. 22. 23. Luke 20. 27.

19 Maſter, * Moſes wrote unto us, If any man's brother die, and leave his wife, and leave no children, that his brother ſhould take his wife, and raiſe up ſeed unto his brother. *Deut. 25. 5. Matt. 22. 24.

20 There were ſeven brethren, and the firſt took a wife: and when he died, left no iſſue.

---

[e] The faith of God is that aſſured faith and truſt which we have in him.

[f] Word for word, that you receive it, ſpeaking in the time that now is, to ſhew the certainty of the thing, and the performance in deed.

[g] When you ſhall appear before the altar.

[5] The goſpel hath been aſſaulted long time ſince, under the pretence of an ordinary ſucceſſion.

[6] A reward of an evil conſcience, to be afraid of thoſe of whom they ſhould and might have been feared.

[1] The calling of God is not tied either to place, perſon, or time, without exception.

[a] This word Parable, which the evangeliſts uſe, doth not only ſignify a comparing of things together, but alſo dark ſpeeches and allegories.

[b] When the fruit of the ground uſed to be gathered.

[c] They were greedy and very deſirous.

[2] The goſpel joineth the authority of the magiſtrate with the ſervice of God

[d] Thou doeſt not ſo judge by outward appearance, that the truth is thereby darkened any whit at all.

[e] The way whereby we come to God.

[3] The reſurrection of the body is avouched againſt the fooliſh ignorance and malice of the Sadducees.

A. D. 33.

21 Then the ſecond took her, and he died, neither did he yet leave iſſue, and the third likewiſe:

22 So thoſe ſeven had her, and left no iſſue: laſt of all the wife died alſo.

23 In the reſurrection then, when they ſhall riſe again, whoſe wife ſhall ſhe be of them? for ſeven had her to wife.

24 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Are ye not therefore deceived, becauſe ye know not the ſcriptures, neither the power of God?

25 For when they ſhall riſe again from the dead, neither men marry, nor wives are married, but are as the angels which are in heaven.

26 And as touching the dead, that they ſhall riſe again, have ye not read in the book of Moſes, how in the buſh God ſpake unto him, ſaying, I * am the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob?

* Exod. 3. 6. Matt. 22. 32.

27 God is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living. Ye are therefore greatly deceived.

28 ¶ * [4] Then came one of the Scribes that had heard them diſputing together, and perceiving that he had anſwered them well, he aſked him, Which is the firſt commandment of all?

* Matt. 22. 35.

29 Jeſus anſwered him, The firſt of all the commandments is, * Hear, Iſrael, The Lord our God is the only Lord.

* Deut. 6. 4.

30 Thou ſhalt therefore love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy ſtrength: this is the firſt commandment.

31 And the ſecond is like, that is, * Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thyſelf. There is no other commandment greater than theſe.

* Lev. 19. 18. Matt. 22. 39. Rom. 13. 9. Gal. 5. 14. James 2. 8.

32 Then that Scribe ſaid unto him, Well, Maſter, thou haſt ſaid the truth, that there is one God, and there is none but he.

33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the underſtanding, and with all the ſoul and with all the ſtrength, and to love his neighbour as himſelf, is more than all the whole burnt-offerings and ſacrifices.

34 Then when Jeſus ſaw that he anſwered diſcreetly, he ſaid unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durſt aſk him any queſtion.

35 ¶ * [5] And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid, teaching in the temple, How ſay the Scribes that Chriſt is the ſon of David?

* Matt. 22. 41. Luke 20. 41.

36 For David himſelf ſaid by [f] the Holy Ghoſt, * The Lord ſaid to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footſtool.

* Pſ. 110. 1.

37 Then David himſelf calleth him Lord: by what means is he then his ſon? and much people heard him gladly.

38 * [6] Moreover he ſaid unto them in [g] his doctrine, Beware of the Scribes, which love to go in [h] long robes, and love ſalutations in the markets,

* Matt. 23. 6. Luke 11. 43. and 20. 47.

39 And the chief ſeats in the ſynagogues, and the firſt rooms at feaſts:

40 Which * devour widows houſes, even under a colour of long prayers. Theſe ſhall receive the greater damnation.

* Matt. 23. 14. Luke 20. 47.

41 [7] * And as Jeſus ſat over-againſt the treaſury, he beheld how the people caſt [i] money into the treaſury, and many rich men caſt in much.

* Luke 21. 1.

42 And there came a certain poor widow, and ſhe threw in two mites, which make a quadrin.

43 Then he called unto him his diſciples, and ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, that this poor widow hath caſt more in than all they which have caſt into the treaſury.

44 For they all did caſt in of their ſuperfluity: but ſhe of her poverty did caſt in all that ſhe had, even all her living.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, 9 Perſecution for the goſpel, 10 The goſpel muſt be preached to all nations. 26 Of Chriſt's coming to judgment. 33 We muſt watch and pray.

AND * [1] as he went out of the temple, one of his diſciples ſaid unto him, Maſter, ſee what manner ſtones, and what manner buildings are here.

* Matt. 24. 1. Luke 21. 5.

2 * Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Seeſt thou theſe great buildings? there ſhall not be left one ſtone upon a ſtone, that ſhall not be thrown down.

* Luke 19. 43.

3 And as he ſat on the mount of Olives, over-againſt the temple, Peter, and James and John, and Andrew, aſked him ſecretly,

4 Tell us, when ſhall theſe things be? and what ſhall be the ſign when all theſe things ſhall be fulfilled?

5 And Jeſus anſwered them, and began to ſay, * Take heed, leſt any man deceive you.

* Epheſ. 5. 6. 2 Theſ. 2. 3.

6 For many ſhall come in my name, ſaying, I am Chriſt, and ſhall deceive many.

7 Furthermore, when ye ſhall hear of wars, and rumours of wars, be ye not troubled: for ſuch things muſt needs be: but the end ſhall not be yet.

8 For nation ſhall riſe againſt nation, and kingdom againſt kingdom, and there ſhall be earthquakes in divers quarters, and there ſhall be famine and troubles: theſe are the beginnings of ſorrows.

9 But take ye heed to yourſelves: for they ſhall deliver you up to the councils, and to the ſynagogues: ye ſhall be beaten, and brought before

---

[4] Sacrifices and outward worſhip never pleaſed God, unleſs ſuch neceſſary duties as we owe to God and our neighbours went afore.

[5] Chriſt proveth his Godhead even out of David himſelf, of whom he came according to the fleſh.

[f] Word for word, in the Holy Ghoſt, and there is great force in this kind of ſpeech, whereby is meant, that it was not ſo much David, as the Holy Ghoſt that ſpake, who did in a manner poſſeſs David.

[6] The manners of miniſters are not raſhly to be followed as an example.

[g] Whilſt he taught them.

[h] The word is a ſtole, which is a kind of woman's garment, long even down to the heels, and is taken generally for any garment made for comelineſs, but in this place it ſeemeth to ſignify that fringed garment mentioned in Deut. 22. 11.

[7] The doing of our duties, which God alloweth, is not eſteemed according to the outward value, but to the inward affections of the heart.

[i] Money of any kind of metal, as the Romans uſed, who in the beginning did ſtamp or coin braſs, and after uſed it for current money.

[1] The deſtruction of the temple, city and whole nation is foretold, and the troubles of the church: but yet there are annexed many comforts, and laſt of all, the end of the world is deſcribed.

A. D. 33. before rulers and kings for my ſake, for a [a] teſtimonial unto them.

10 And the goſpel muſt firſt be publiſhed among all nations.

* Matt. 10. 19. Luke 12. 11. and 21. 14. 11 * But when they lead you, and deliver you up, [b] be not careful beforehand, neither [c] ſtudy what ye ſhall ſay: but what is given you at the ſame time, that ſpeak: for it is not ye that ſpeak, but the Holy Ghoſt.

12 Yea, and the brother ſhall deliver the brother to death, and the father the ſon, and the children ſhall riſe againſt their parents, and ſhall cauſe them to die.

13 And ye ſhall be hated of all men [d] for my name's ſake: but whoſoever ſhall endure to the end, he ſhall be ſaved.

* Matt. 24. 15. Luke 21. 20. * Dan. 9. 27. 14 * Moreover, when ye ſhall ſee the abomination of the deſolation (ſpoken of by * Daniel the prophet) [e] ſet where it ought not, (let him that readeth, conſider it) then let them that be in Judea, flee into the mountains:

15 And let him that is upon the houſe, not come down into the houſe, neither enter therein, to fetch any thing out of his houſe.

16 And let him that is in the field, not turn back again to take his garment.

17 Then woe ſhall be to them that are with child, and to them that give ſuck in thoſe days.

18 Pray therefore that your flight be not in the winter.

19 For [f] in thoſe days ſhall be ſuch tribulation as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created unto this time, neither ſhall be.

20 And except that the Lord had ſhortened thoſe days, no fleſh ſhould be ſaved: but for the elect's ſake, which he hath choſen, he hath ſhortened thoſe days.

* Matt. 24. 23. Luke 17. 23. and 21. 8. 21 Then * if any man ſay to you, Lo, here is Chriſt, or lo, he is there, believe it not.

22 For falſe Chriſts ſhall riſe, and falſe prophets, and ſhall ſhew ſigns and wonders, to deceive, if it were poſſible, the very elect.

23 But take ye heed: behold, I have ſhewed you all things before.

* Iſa. 13. 10. Ezek. 32. 7. Joel 2. 10. and 3. 15. 24 ¶ Moreover, in thoſe days, after that tribulation, * the ſun ſhall wax dark, and the moon ſhall not give her light,

25 And the ſtars of heaven ſhall fall: and the powers which are in heaven ſhall ſhake.

26 And then ſhall they ſee the Son of man coming in the clouds with great power and glory.

* Matt. 24. 31. 27 * And he ſhall then ſend his angels, and ſhall gather together his elect from the four winds, and from the utmoſt part of the earth to the utmoſt part of heaven.

28 Now learn a parable of the fig-tree: When her bough is yet tender, and it bringeth forth leaves, ye know that ſummer is near.

29 So in like manner, when ye ſee theſe things come to paſs, know that the kingdom of God is near, even at the doors.

30 Verily I ſay unto you, that this generation ſhall not paſs, till all theſe things be done.

31 Heaven and earth ſhall paſs away, but my words ſhall not paſs away.

32 [2] But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels which are in heaven, neither the Son himſelf, but the Father.

33 * Take heed: watch, and pray: for ye know not when the time is. * Matt. 24. 13.

34 For the Son of man is as a man going into a ſtrange country, who leaveth his houſe, and giveth authority to his ſervants, and to every man his work, and commandeth the porter to watch.

35 Watch ye therefore, (for ye know not when the maſter of the houſe will come, at even, or at midnight, at the cock crowing, or in the dawning,)

36 Leſt if he come ſuddenly, he ſhould find you ſleeping.

37 And thoſe things that I ſay unto you, I ſay unto all men, Watch.

CHAP. XIV.

1 The prieſts conſpiracy againſt Chriſt. 3 The woman pouring oil on Chriſt's head. 12 The preparing of the paſſover. 22 The inſtitution of the ſupper. 41 Chriſt delivered into the hands of men. 43 Judas betrayeth him with a kiſs. 53 Chriſt is before Caiaphas. 66 Peter's denial.

AND * [1] two days after followed the feaſt of the paſſover, and of unleavened bread: and the high prieſts and Scribes ſought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death. * Matt. 26. 2. Luke 22. 2.

2 But they ſaid, Not in the feaſt day, leſt there be any tumult among the people.

3 * And when he was in Bethany, in the houſe of Simon the leper, as he ſat at table, there came a woman having a box of ointment of ſpikenard, very coſtly, and ſhe brake the box, and poured it on his head. * Matt. 26. 6. John 12. 2.

4 [2] Therefore ſome diſdained among themſelves, and ſaid, To what end is this waſte of ointment?

5 For it might have been ſold for more than [a] three hundred pence, and been given unto the poor: and they murmured againſt her.

6 But Jeſus ſaid, Let her alone: why trouble ye her? ſhe hath wrought a good work on me.

7 [3] For ye have the poor with you always, and when ye will ye may do them good, but me ye ſhall not have always.

---

[a] The hearing of you preaching ſhall be a moſt evident witneſs againſt them, ſo that they ſhall not be able to pretend ignorance.

[b] We are not forbidden to think beforehand, but penſive carefulneſs, whereby men diſcourage themſelves, which proceedeth from diſtruſt, and want of confidence and ſure hope of God's aſſiſtance, that carefulneſs we are willed to beware of, Look Matt. 6. 27

[c] By any kind of artificious and cunning kind of tale what to ſpeak.

[d] For me.

[e] When the heathen and prophane people ſhall not only enter into the temple, and defile both it and the city, but alſo clean deſtroy it.

[f] This is a kind of ſpeech which the Hebrews uſe, and it hath a great force in it, for it giveth us to underſtand that in all that time one miſery ſhall ſo follow upon another, as if the time itſelf were very miſery itſelf. So the prophet Amos 5. 20. ſaith, that the day of the Lord ſhall be darkneſs.

[2] The latter day is not curiouſly to be ſearched for, which the Father alone knoweth: but let us rather take heed, that it come not upon us unawares.

[1] By the will of God againſt the counſel of men, it came to paſs that Chriſt ſhould be put to death upon the ſolemn day of the paſſover, that in all reſpects the truth might agree to the figure.

[2] Raſh judgments are fruſtrate before God.

[a] Which is about ſix pounds Engliſh.

[3] Chriſt ſuffered himſelf to be anointed once or twice for certain conſiderations: but his will is to be daily anointed in the poor.

A. D. 33.

8 [4] She hath done that ſhe could: ſhe came aforehand to anoint my body to the burying.
9 Verily I ſay unto you, whereſoever this goſpel ſhall be preached throughout the whole world, this alſo that ſhe hath done, ſhall be ſpoken of in remembrance of her.
* Matt. 26. 14. Luke 22. 4. 10 ¶ * [5] Then Judas Iſcariot, one of the twelve, went away unto the high prieſts, to betray him unto them.
11 And when they heard it, they were glad,
and promiſed that they would give him money:
therefore he ſought how he might conveniently betray him.
* Matt. 26. 17. Luke 22. 8. 12 ¶ * [6] Now the firſt day of unleavened bread, [b] when [c] they ſacrificed the [d] paſſover, his diſciples ſaid unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare, that thou mayeſt eat the paſſover?
13 Then he ſent forth two of his diſciples, and ſaid unto them, Go ye into the cities, and there ſhall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him.
14 And whitherſoever he goeth in, ſay ye to the good man of the houſe, the Maſter ſaith,
Where is the lodging where I ſhall eat the paſſover with my diſciples?
15 And he will ſhew you an [e] upper chamber,
which is large, trimmed and prepared,
there make it ready for us.
16 So his diſciples went forth, and came to the city, and found as he had ſaid unto them, and made ready the paſſover.
17 ¶ And at even he came with the twelve.
* Pſ. 41. 10. Matt. 26. 20, 23. Luke 22. 14. John 13. 18, 21. 18 * [7] And as they ſat at table, and did eat, Jeſus ſaid, Verily I ſay unto you, that one of you ſhall betray me, which eateth with me.
19 Then they began to be ſorrowful, and to ſay to him one by one, Is it I? and another,
Is it I?
20 And he anſwered, and ſaid unto them,
It is one of the twelve that [f] dippeth with me in the platter.
21 Truly the Son of man goeth his way, as
* Acts 1. 16. it is written of him: * but woe be to that man, by whom the Son of man is betrayed: it had been good for that man, if he had never been born.
* Matt. 26. 26. 1 Cor. 11. 24. 22 * And as they did eat, Jeſus took the bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave it to them, and ſaid, Take, eat, this is my body.
23 Alſo he took the cup, and when he had given thanks, gave it to them: and they all drank of it.
24 And he ſaid unto them, This is my blood of that New Teſtament, which is ſhed for many.

A. D. 33.

25 Verily I ſay unto you, I will drink no more of the fruit of the vine, until that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God.
26 And when they had ſung a pſalm, they went out to the mount of Olives.
27 ¶ * [8] Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, All * John 16. 23.
ye ſhall be offended by me this night: for it is written, * I will ſmite the ſhepherd, and the * Zech. 13. 7.
ſheep ſhall be ſcattered.
28 But after that I am riſen, I will go into
* Galilee before you. * Ch. 16. 7.
29 [9] And Peter ſaid unto him, Although all men ſhould be offended at thee, yet would not I.
30 Then Jeſus ſaid unto him, Verily I ſay unto thee, this day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou ſhalt deny me thrice.
31 But he ſaid [g] more earneſtly, If I ſhould die with thee, I will not deny thee: likewiſe alſo ſaid they all.
32 ¶ * [10] After, they came into a place, * Matt. 26. 36.
named Gethſemane: then he ſaid to his diſciples, Luke 22. 39.
Sit ye here, till I have prayed.
33 And he took with him Peter, and James, and John, and he began to be troubled, and in great heavineſs.
34 And ſaid unto them, My ſoul is very heavy,
even unto the death: tarry here, and watch.
35 So he went forward a little, and fell down on the ground, and prayed, that if it were poſſible, that hour might paſs from him.
36 And he ſaid, [h] Abba, Father, all things are poſſible unto thee: take away this cup from me: nevertheleſs not that I will, but that thou wilt, be done.
37 [11] Then he came, and found them ſleeping,
and ſaid to Peter, Simon, ſleepeſt thou?
couldeſt not thou watch one hour?
38 ¶ Watch ye, and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the ſpirit indeed is ready, but the fleſh is weak.
39 And again he went away, and prayed,
and ſpake the ſame words.
40 And he returned, and found them aſleep again: for their eyes were heavy: neither knew they what they ſhould anſwer him.
41 And he came the third time, and ſaid unto them, Sleep henceforth, and take your reſt: it is enough: the hour is come: Behold, the Son of man is delivered into the hands of ſinners.
42 Riſe up: let us go: lo, he that betrayeth me is at hand. 43 And

---

[4] This woman, by the ſecret inſtinct of the Spirit, anointing Chriſt, ſetteth before men's eyes, his death and burial, which were at hand.

[5] Covetouſneſs, cloaked with a zeal of charity, is an occaſion to betray and crucify Chriſt.

[6] Chriſt being made ſubject to the law for us, doth celebrate the paſſover according to the law: and therewithal by a miracle ſheweth, that notwithſtanding he in the fleſh ſhall ſtraightway ſuffer, yet that he is God.

[b] That is, upon which day, and at the evening of the ſame day, which was the beginning of the fifteenth. Look Matt. 26. 17.

[c] They uſed to ſacrifice.

[d] This is ſpoken thus, by the figure Metonymia, which is uſual in ſacraments, and by the paſſover is meant the Paſchal Lamb.

[e] The Greek word ſignifieth, that part of the houſe that is higheſt from the ground, to what uſe ſoever it be put; but becauſe they uſed to ſup in that part of the houſe, they called it a ſupping-chamber.

[7] The figure of the law which is by and by to be fulfilled, is abrogated: and in place thereof are put figures of the new covenant anſwerable unto them, which ſhall continue to the world's end.

[f] That uſeth to eat meat with me.

[8] Chriſt foretelleth how he ſhall be forſaken of his, but yet that he will never forſake them.

[9] Here is ſet forth in an excellent perſon, a moſt ſorrowful example of man's raſhneſs and weakneſs.

[g] That doubling of words ſetteth out more plainly Peter's vehement affirmation.

[10] Chriſt ſuffering for us, in that fleſh which he took upon him for our ſakes, the moſt horrible terrors of the curſe of God, receiveth the cup at his Father's hands, which he, being juſt, doth ſtraightway drink off for the unjuſt.

[h] This doubling of the word was uſed in thoſe days when their languages were ſo mixed together: for this word, Abba, is a Syrian word.

[11] An horrible example of ſluggiſhneſs of men, even in the diſciples whom Chriſt had choſen.

Mark XV. Ch. ver. 46

CHRIST taken down from the Croſs.

G. Burder ſculpt.

A. D. 33.

43 * [12] And immediately while he yet ſpake, came Judas that was one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude with ſwords and ſtaves, from the high prieſts, and Scribes, and elders. * Matt. 26. 47. Luke 22. 47. John 18. 3.

44 And he that betrayed him, had given them a token, ſaying, Whomſoever I ſhall kiſs, he it is: take him, and lead him away [i] ſafely.

45 And as ſoon as he was come, he went ſtraightway to him, and ſaid, Hail, Maſter, and kiſſed him.

46 Then they laid their hands on him, and took him.

47 And [k] one of them that ſtood by, drew out a ſword, and ſmote a ſervant of the high prieſt, and cut off his ear.

48 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid to them, Ye be come out as againſt a thief with ſwords and with ſtaves, to take me.

49 I was daily with you teaching in the temple, and ye took me not: but this is done that the ſcriptures ſhould be fulfilled.

50 Then they [l] all forſook him, and fled.

51 [13] And there followed him a certain young man, clothed in [m] linen upon his bare body, and the young men caught him.

52 But he left his linen cloth, and fled from them naked.

* Matt. 26. 59. Luke 22. 54. John 18. 24. 53 * So they led Jeſus away to the high prieſt, and to him came [n] together all the high prieſts, and the elders, and the Scribes.

54 And Peter followed him afar off, even unto the hall of the high prieſt, and ſat with the ſervants, and warmed himſelf at the fire.

* Matt. 26. 55 [14] And the * high prieſts and all the council ſought for witneſs againſt Jeſus, to put him to death, but found none.

56 For many bare falſe witneſs againſt him, but their witneſs agreed not together.

57 Then there aroſe certain, and bare falſe witneſs againſt him, ſaying,

* John 2. 19. 58 We heard him ſay, * I will deſtroy this temple made with hands, and within three days I will build another, made without hands.

59 But their witneſs yet agreed not together.

60 Then the high prieſt ſtood up amongſt them, and aſked Jeſus, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou nothing? What is the matter that theſe bear witneſs againſt thee?

61 But he held his peace, and anſwered nothing. Again the high prieſt aſked him, and ſaid unto him, Art thou that Chriſt, the Son of the [o] Bleſſed?

62 And Jeſus ſaid, I am he, * and ye ſhall ſee the Son of man ſit at the right hand of the power of God, and come in the clouds of heaven. A. D. 33. * Matt. 24. 39.

63 Then the high prieſt rent his clothes, and ſaid, What have we any more need of witneſſes?

64 Ye have heard the blaſphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be worthy of death.

65 [15] And ſome began to ſpit at him, and to cover his face, and to beat him with fiſts, and to ſay unto him, Propheſy. And the ſerjeants ſmote him with their rods.

66 * [16] And as Peter was beneath in the hall, there came one of the maids of the high prieſt. * Matt. 26. 69. Luke 22. 55. John 18. 25.

67 And when ſhe ſaw Peter warming himſelf, ſhe looked on him, and ſaid, Thou waſt alſo with Jeſus of Nazareth.

68 But he denied it, ſaying, I know him not, neither wot I what thou ſayeſt. Then he went out into the porch, and the cock crew.

69 * Then [p] a maid ſaw him again, and began to ſay to them that ſtood by, This is one of them. * Matt. 26. 71. Luke 22. 58.

70 But he denied it again: and anon after, they that ſtood by, ſaid again to Peter, Surely thou art one of them: for thou art of Galilee, and thy ſpeech is like.

71 And he began to curſe and ſwear, ſaying, I know not this man of whom ye ſpeak.

72 * Then the ſecond time the cock crew, and Peter remembered the word that Jeſus had ſaid unto him, Before the cock crow twice, thou ſhalt deny me thrice, and weighing that with himſelf, he wept. * Matt. 26. 75. John 13. 38.

CHAP. XV.

1 Of the things that Chriſt ſuffered under Pilate. 11 Barabbas is preferred before Chriſt. 15 Pilate delivereth Chriſt to be crucified. 17 He is crowned with thorns. 19 They ſpit on him, and mock him. 21 Simon of Cyrene carrieth Chriſt's croſs. 27 Chriſt is crucified between two thieves. 29 He is railed at. 37 He giveth up the ghoſt. 43 Joſeph burieth him.

AND * [1] anon in the dawning, the high prieſts held a council with the elders, and the Scribes, and the whole council, and bound Jeſus, and led him away, and [a] delivered him to Pilate. * Matt. 27. 1. Luke 22. 66. John 18. 1. 9

2 Then Pilate aſked him, Art thou the king

---

[12] As men did willingly ſpoil God their Creator of his praiſe, in forſaking and betraying him: ſo Chriſt willingly going about to make ſatisfaction for this ruin, is forſaken of his own, and betrayed by one of his familiars, as a thief, that the puniſhment might be agreeable to the ſin, and we who are very traitors, forſakers, and ſacrilegers, might be delivered out of the devil's ſnare.

[i] So diligently, that he eſcape not out of your hands.

[k] That is, Peter.

[l] All his diſciples.

[13] Under pretence of godlineſs, all things are lawful to ſuch as do violence againſt Chriſt.

[m] Which he caſt about him, when he hearing that ſtir in the night, ſuddenly ran forth: whereby we may underſtand with how great licentiouſneſs theſe villains violently ſet upon him.

[n] The higheſt council was aſſembled, becauſe Chriſt was accuſed as a blaſphemer, and a falſe prophet: for as for the other crime of treaſon, it was forged againſt him by the prieſts, to enforce Pilate by that means to condemn him.

[14] Chriſt, who was ſo innocent that he could not be oppreſſed, no not by falſe witneſſes, is at length, for confeſſing God to be his Father, condemned of impiety before the high prieſts: that we, who denied God, and were indeed wicked, might be quit before God.

[o] Of God, who is moſt worthy of all praiſe?

[15] Chriſt ſuffering all kind of reproach for our ſakes, getteth everlaſting glory to them that believe in him.

[16] An heavy example of the frailneſs of man, together with a moſt comfortable example of the mercy of God, who giveth the ſpirit of repentance and faith to his elect.

[p] If we compare the evangeliſts diligently together, we ſhall perceive that Peter was known of many through the maiden's report: yea, and in Luke when the ſecond denial is ſpoken of, there is a man-ſervant mentioned, and not a maid.

[1] Chriſt being bound before the judgment-ſeat of an earthly judge, in open aſſembly, is condemned as guilty unto the death of the croſs, not for his own ſins, (as appeareth by the judge's own words) but for all ours, that we moſt guilty creatures being delivered from the guiltineſs of our ſins, might be quitted before the judgment-ſeat of God, even in open aſſembly of the angels.

[a] It was not lawful for them to put any man to death, for all cauſes of life and death were taken away from them, firſt by Herod the Great, and afterward by the Romans, about forty years before the deſtruction of the temple, and therefore they deliver Jeſus to Pilate.

A. D. 33.

of the Jews? And he anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Thou ſayeſt it.

3 And the high prieſts accuſed him of many things.

* Matt. 27. 12. Luke 23. 3. John 18. 35.

4 * Wherefore Pilate aſked him again, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou nothing? behold how many things they witneſs againſt thee.

5 But Jeſus anſwered no more at all, ſo that Pilate marvelled.

6 Now at the feaſt Pilate [b] did deliver a priſoner unto them, whomſoever they would deſire.

7 Then there was one named Barabbas, which was bound with his fellows, that had made inſurrection, who in the inſurrection had committed murder.

8 And the people cried aloud, and began to deſire that he would do as he had ever done unto them.

9 Then Pilate anſwered them, and ſaid, Will ye that I let looſe unto you the king of the Jews?

10 For he knew that the high prieſts had delivered him of envy.

11 But the high prieſts had moved the people to deſire that he would rather deliver Barabbas unto them.

12 And Pilate anſwered, and ſaid again unto them, What will ye then that I do with him, whom ye call the king of the Jews?

13 And they cried again, Crucify him.

14 Then Pilate ſaid unto them, But what evil hath he done? and they cried the more fervently, Crucify him.

15 So Pilate, willing to content the people, looſed them Barabbas, and delivered Jeſus, when he had ſcourged him, that he might be crucified.

16 Then the ſoldiers led him away into the hall, which is the common hall, and called together the whole band,

17 [2] And clad him with purple, and platted a crown of thorns, and put it about his head.

18 And began to ſalute him, ſaying, Hail, king of the Jews.

19 And they ſmote him on the head with a reed, and ſpat upon him, and bowed the knees, and did him reverence.

20 And when they had mocked him, they took the purple off him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.

* Matt. 27. 32. Luke 23. 26.

21 * And they [3] compelled one that paſſed by, called Simon of Cyrene (which came out of the country, and was father of Alexander and Rufus) to bear his croſs.

A. D. 33.

* Matt. 27. 33. Luke 23. 33. John 19. 17.

22 * [4] And they brought him to a place named Golgotha, which is by interpretation, the place of dead men's ſculls.

23 And they gave him to drink wine mingled with myrrh: but he received it not.

* Luke 23. 34.

24 * [5] And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, caſting lots for them what every man ſhould have.

25 And it was the third hour when they crucified him.

26 And the title of his cauſe was written above, THAT KING OF THE JEWS.

27 They crucified alſo with him two thieves, the one on the right hand, and the other on his left.

28 Thus the ſcripture was fulfilled, which ſaith, * And he was counted among the wicked. *Iſa. 53. 12.

29 And they that went by, railed on him, wagging their heads, and ſaying, * Hey, thou that deſtroyeſt the temple, and buildeſt it in three days, *John 2. 19.

30 Save thyſelf, and come down from the croſs.

31 Likewiſe alſo even the high prieſts, mocking, ſaid among themſelves with the Scribes, He ſaved other men, himſelf he cannot ſave.

32 Let Chriſt the king of Iſrael now come down from the croſs, that we may ſee and believe. They alſo that were crucified with him, reviled him.

33 ¶ Now when the ſixth hour was come, [6] darkneſs aroſe over [c] all the land until the ninth hour.

* Pſ. 22. 1. Matt. 27. 46.

34 And at the [7] ninth hour, Jeſus cried with a loud voice, ſaying, * Eloi, Eloi, lama-ſabachthani? which is by interpretation, My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me?

35 And ſome of them that ſtood by, when they heard it, ſaid, Behold, he calleth Elias.

36 And one ran and filled a * ſpunge full of vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink, ſaying, Let him alone: let us ſee if Elias will come, and take him down. * Pſ. 69. 21.

37 And Jeſus cried with a loud voice, and gave up the ghoſt.

38 And the vail of the temple was rent in twain, from the top to the bottom.

39 Now when the centurion, which ſtood over-againſt him, ſaw that he thus crying gave up the ghoſt, he ſaid, Truly this man was the Son of God.

40 ¶ [8] There were alſo women, which beheld afar off, among whom was Mary Magdalene,

---

[b] Uſed to deliver.

[2] Chriſt going about to take away the ſins of men, who went about to uſurp the throne of God himſelf, is condemned as one that hunted after the kingdom; and mocked with a falſe ſhew of a kingdom; that we on the other ſide, who ſhall indeed be eternal kings, might receive the crown of glory at God's own hand.

[3] The rage of the wicked hath no meaſure, but in the mean ſeaſon, even the weakneſs of Chriſt, being in pain under the heavy burden of the croſs, doth manifeſtly ſhew that a lamb is led to be ſacrificed.

[4] Chriſt is led out of the walls of the earthly Jeruſalem, into a foul place of dead men's carcaſes, as a man moſt unclean, not touching himſelf, but touching our ſins, which were laid upon him, to the end that we being made clean by his blood, might be brought into the heavenly ſanctuary.

[5] Chriſt hangeth upon the naked croſs, and as the wickedeſt caitiff that ever was, moſt vilely reproved: that we being cloathed with his righteouſneſs, and bleſſed with his curſes, and ſanctified by his only oblation, may be taken up into heaven.

[6] How angry God was againſt our ſins, which he puniſhed in our ſurety, his ſon, it appeareth by this horrible darkneſs.

[c] By this word Land he meaneth Paleſtine: ſo that the ſtrangeneſs of the wonder is ſo much the more ſet forth in that, that at the feaſt of the paſſover, and in the full moon, when the ſun ſhined over all the reſt of the world, and at mid-day, that corner of the world, wherein ſo wicked an act was committed, was overcovered with moſt groſs darkneſs.

[7] Chriſt ſtriving mightily with Satan, with ſin, and with death, all three armed with the horrible curſe of God, grievouſly tormented in body hanging upon the croſs, and in ſoul plunged in the depthof hell, yet he riddeth himſelf, crying with a mighty voice: and notwithſtanding the wound which he received of death, in that he died, yet by ſmiting both things above and things beneath, by renting of the vail of the temple, and by the teſtimony wrung out of them which murdered him, he ſheweth evidently unto the reſt of his enemies which are as yet obſtinate, and mock at him, that he ſhall be known out of hand to be conqueror and lord of all.

[8] Chriſt, to the great ſhame of men which forſook the Lord, choſe women for his witneſſes, which beheld all this whole action.

A. D. 33. lene, and Mary the mother of James the leſs, and of Joſes, and Salome,

*Luke 8. 2. 41 Which alſo, when he was in Galilee, * followed him, and miniſtered unto him, and many other women which came up with him unto Jeruſalem.

* Matt. 27. 57. 42 * And now when the night was come (becauſe it was the day of preparation that is before the ſabbath)

* Luke 23. 50. John 19. 38. 43 * Joſeph of Arimathea, an [d] honourable counſellor, which alſo looked for the kingdom of God, came, and went in [e] boldly unto Pilate, and aſked the body of Jeſus.

44 And Pilate marvelled, if he were already dead, and called unto him the centurion, and aſked of him whether he had been any while dead.

45 And when he knew the truth of the centurion, he gave the body to Joſeph:

46 Who bought a linen cloth, and took him down, and wrapped him in the linen cloth, and laid him in a tomb that was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a ſtone unto the door of the ſepulchre:

47 And Mary Magdalene, and Mary, Joſes' mother, beheld where he ſhould be laid.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Of Chriſt's reſurrection. 9 He appeareth to Mary Magdelene, and others. 15 He ſendeth his apoſtles to preach. 19 His aſcenſion.

*Luke 24. 1 John 20. 1. AND * when the ſabbath day was paſt, Mary Magdelene, and Mary the mother of James and Salome, bought ſweet ointments, that they might come and anoint him.

2 Therefore early in the morning, the firſt day of the week, they came unto the ſepulchre, when the ſun was now riſen.

3 And they ſaid one to another, Who ſhall roll us away the ſtone from the door of the ſepulchre?

4 And when they [a] looked, they ſaw that the ſtone was rolled away, (for it was a very great one)

*Matt. 28. 1. John 20. 12. 5 * So they went into the [b] ſepulchre, and ſaw a young man ſitting at the right ſide clothed in a long white robe: and they were ſore troubled.

6 But he ſaid unto them, Be not ſo troubled: ye ſeek Jeſus of Nazareth, which hath been crucified: he is riſen, he is not here: behold the place where they put him. A. D. 33.

7 But go your way, and tell his diſciples, and Peter, that he will go before you into Galilee: there ſhall ye ſee him, * as he ſaid unto you. *Ch. 14. 28. Matt. 26. 32.

8 And they went out quickly, and fled from the ſepulchre: for they trembled and were amazed: neither ſaid they any thing to any man: for they were afraid.

9 ¶ [1] And when Jeſus was riſen again, early the firſt day of the week, he appeared firſt to Mary Magdelene, * out of whom he had caſt ſeven devils. * John 20. 16. Luke 8. 2.

10 And ſhe went and told them that had been with him, which mourned and wept.

11 And when they heard that he was alive, and had appeared to her, they believed it not.

12 ¶ * [2] After that, he appeared unto two of them in another form, as they walked and went into the country. * Luke 24. 13.

13 And they went, and told it to the remnant, neither believed they them.

14 ¶ * [c] Finally, he appeared unto the eleven as they ſat together, and reproached them for their unbelief and hardneſs of heart, becauſe they believed not them which had ſeen him, being riſen up again. * Luke 24. 36. John 20. 19.

15 [3] And he ſaid unto them, * Go ye into all the world, and preach the goſpel to [d] every creature. * Matt. 28. 19.

16 He that ſhall believe and be baptized, ſhall be ſaved: * but he that will not believe, ſhall be damned. * John 12. 48.

17 And theſe tokens ſhall follow them that believe, * In my name they ſhall caſt out devils, and * ſhall ſpeak with new [e] tongues. *Acts 16. 18. * Acts 2. 4. and 10. 46.

18 * And they ſhall take away ſerpents, and if they drink any deadly drink, it ſhall not hurt them: * they ſhall lay their hands on the ſick, and they ſhall recover. *Acts 28. 5. *Acts 28. 8.

19 * [4] So after the Lord had ſpoken unto them, he was received into heaven, and ſat at the right hand of God. * Luke 24. 51.

20 And they went forth, and preached every where. And the Lord * wrought with them, and confirmed [f] the word with ſigns that followed. Amen. * Heb. 2. 4.

[d] A man of great authority, of the council of the Sanhedrim, or elſe taken into council by Pilate.

[e] If we conſider what danger Joſeph caſt himſelf into, we ſhall perceive how bold he was.

[a] When they caſt their eyes towards the ſepulchre.

[b] Into the cave wherein the ſepulchre was cut out.

[1] Chriſt himſelf appeareth to Mary Magdalene, to upbraid the diſciples incredulity.

[2] Chriſt appeareth to two other diſciples, and at length to the eleven.

[c] The evangeliſt conſidered not the order of the time, but the courſe of his hiſtory, which he divided into three parts: the firſt ſheweth how he appeared to the women, the ſecond to his diſciples, the third to his apoſtles, and therefore he ſaith finally.

[3] The apoſtles are appointed, and their office is limited unto them, which is to preach that which they heard of him, and to miniſter the ſacraments, which Chriſt hath inſtituted, having beſides power to do miracles.}

[d] Not to the Jews only, nor in Judea only, but to all men, and every where: and ſo muſt all the apoſtles do.

[e] Strange tongues, ſuch as they knew not before.

[4] Chriſt having accompliſhed his office on earth, aſcendeth into heaven, from whence (the doctrine of his apoſtles being confirmed with ſigns) he will govern his church, unto the world's end.

[f] To wit, the doctrine: therefore doctrine muſt go before, and ſigns muſt follow after.

CHAP. I.

1 Luke's preface. 5 Zacharias and Elizabeth. 15 What an one John ſhould be. 20 Zacharias ſtricken dumb for his incredulity. 26 The angel ſaluteth Mary, and foretelleth Chriſt's nativity. 39 Mary viſiteth Elizabeth. 46 Mary's ſong. 68 The ſong of Zachariah, ſhewing that the promiſed Chriſt is come. 76 The office of John.

FOraſmuch as [1] many have [a] taken in hand to ſet forth the ſtory of thoſe things, whereof we are fully perſuaded,

2 [b] As they have delivered them unto us, which from the beginning ſaw them their ſelves, and were miniſters of the word,

3 It ſeemed good alſo to me ([c] moſt noble Theophilus) as ſoon as I had ſearched out perfectly all things [d] from the beginning, to write unto thee thereof from point to point,

4 That thou mighteſt [e] acknowledge the certainty of thoſe things, whereof thou haſt been inſtructed.

Before the account called A. D. the 6th year.
* 1 Chron. 24. 1.

5 IN [2] the [f] time of [g] Herod king of Judea, there was a certain prieſt named Zacharias, of the * [h] courſe of Abia: and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth.

6 Both were [i] juſt before God, and [k] walked in all the [l] commandments and ordinances of the Lord, [m] without reproof.

7 And they had no child, becauſe that Elizabeth was barren: and both were well ſtricken in age,

8 And it came to paſs, as he executed the prieſt's office before God, as his courſe came in order,

*Exod 26.7.

9 * According to the cuſtom of the prieſt's office, his lot was to burn incenſe, when he went into the [n] temple of the Lord.

10 And the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, * while the incenſe was burning.

Before the account called A· D. the 6th year.
*Lev.16,17.

11 Then appeared unto him an angel of the Lord ſtanding at the right ſide of the altar of incenſe.

12 And when Zacharias ſaw him, he was troubled; and fear fell upon him.

13 But the angel ſaid unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard, and thy wife ſhall bear thee a ſon, and thou ſhalt call his name John.

14 And thou ſhalt have joy and gladneſs, and many ſhall rejoice at his birth.

15 For he ſhall be great in the [o] ſight of the Lord, and ſhall neither drink wine, nor [p] ſtrong drink: and he ſhall be filled with the Holy Ghoſt, even from his mother's womb.

*Mal. 4. 5.

16 * And many of the children of Iſrael ſhall he [q] turn to the Lord their God.

* Matt. 11. 14.

17 * For he ſhall go before [r] him, [s] in the ſpirit and power of Elias, to turn the [t] hearts of the fathers to the children, and the diſobedient to the [u] wiſdom of the juſt men, to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.

18 Then Zacharias ſaid unto the angel, Whereby ſhall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife is of a great age.

19 And the angel anſwered, and ſaid unto him, I am Gabriel [x] that ſtand in the preſence of God, and am ſent to ſpeak unto thee, and to ſhew thee theſe good tidings.

20 And behold, thou ſhalt be dumb, and not be able to ſpeak, until the day that theſe things be done, becauſe thou believedſt not my words, which ſhall be fulfilled in their ſeaſon.

21 Now the people waited for Zacharias, and marvelled that he tarried ſo long in the temple.

22 And when he came out, he could not ſpeak unto them: then they perceived that he had ſeen

[1] Luke commendeth the witneſſes that ſaw this hiſtory.

[a] Many took it in hand, but did not perform. Luke wrote his goſpel before Matthew and Mark.

[b] Luke was not an eye-witneſs, and therefore it was not he to whom the Lord appeared, when Cleopas ſaw him; and he was taught not only by Paul, but by others of the apoſtles alſo.

[c] That is, moſt mighty, and therefore Theophilus was a very honourable man, and in place of great dignity.

[d] Luke began his goſpel a great deal further off than the other did.

[e] Have fuller knowledge of thoſe things, which before thou kneweſt but meanly.

[2] John who was another Elias, and appointed to be the herald of Chriſt, coming of the ſtock of Aaron, and of two famous and blameleſs parents, hath ſhewed in his conception, which was againſt the courſe of nature, a double miracle, to the end that men ſhould be more readily ſtirred up to the hearing of his preaching, according to the forewarning of the prophets.

[f] Word for word, in the days: ſo ſpeak the Hebrews, giving us to underſtand how ſhort and frail a thing the power of princes is.

[g] Herod the Great.

[h] For the poſterity of Aaron was divided into courſes.

[i] The true mark of righteouſneſs is, to be liked and allowed of in the judgment of God.

[k] Lived, ſo ſpeak the Hebrews, for our life is as a way, wherein we muſt walk, until we come to the mark.

[l] In all the moral and ceremonial law.

[m] Whom no man could juſtly reprove. Now ſo it is, that the fruits of juſtification are ſet forth here, and not the cauſe, which is faith only, and nothing elſe.

[n] The temple was one, and the court another, for Zacharias went out of the court or outward room, where all the people were, and therefore are ſaid to be without, in the temple.

[o] So ſpeak the Hebrews, when it ſignified a rare kind of excellency: ſo is it ſaid of Nimrod, Gen. 10. 9. He was a valiant hunter before God.

[p] Any drink that may make drunken.

[q] Shall be a means to bring many to repentance, and turn themſelves to the Lord from whom they fell.

[r] As they uſe to go before kings, and when you ſee them, you know the king is not far off.

[s] This is ſpoken by the figure Metonymia, taking the Spirit for the gift of the Spirit, as you would ſay, the cauſe for that which cometh of the cauſe.

[t] By the figure Synecdoche, he ſheweth that he ſhall take away all kinds of enmities, which uſe to breed great troubles and turmoils amongſt men.

[u] Wiſdom and goodneſs are two of the chiefeſt cauſes, which make men to reverence and honour their fathers.

[x] That appear, for ſo the Hebrews uſe this word (to ſtand) meaning, that they are ready to do his commandment.

Before the account called A. D. the 6th year. ſeen a viſion in the temple: for he made ſigns unto them, and remained dumb.

23 And it came to paſs, when the days of his office were fulfilled, that he departed to his own houſe.

24 And after thoſe days, his wife Elizabeth conceived, and hid herſelf five months, ſaying,

25 Thus hath the Lord dealt with me, in the days wherein he looked on me, to take from me my rebuke among men.

26 ¶ [3] And in the ſixth month the angel Gabriel was ſent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth,

* Matt. 1. 18. 27 * To a virgin affianced to a man, whoſe name was Joſeph, of the [y] houſe of David, and the virgin's name was Mary.

28 And the angel went in unto her, and ſaid, Hail, thou that art [z] freely beloved: the Lord is with thee: [a] bleſſed art thou among women.

29 And when ſhe ſaw him, ſhe was [b] troubled at his ſaying, and thought what manner of ſalutation that ſhould be.

30 Then the angel ſaid unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou haſt found [c] favour with God.

34 Then ſaid Mary unto the angel, [e] How ſhall this be, ſeeing [f] I know not man?

35 And the angel anſwered, and ſaid unto her, The Holy Ghoſt [g] ſhall come upon thee, and the power of the moſt High ſhall overſhadow thee: therefore alſo that [h] holy thing which ſhall be born of thee, ſhall be [i] called the Son of God.

36 And behold, thy [k] couſin Elizabeth, ſhe hath alſo conceived a ſon in her old age; and this is her [l] ſixth month, which was called barren. Before the account called A. D. the 6th year.

40 And entered into the houſe of Zacharias, and ſaluted Elizabeth.

41 And it came to paſs, as Elizabeth heard the ſalutation of Mary, the babe [o] ſprang in her belly, and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Ghoſt.

42 And ſhe cried with a loud voice, and ſaid, Bleſſed art thou among women, becauſe [p] the fruit of thy womb is bleſſed.

43 And whence cometh this to me, that the mother of my Lord ſhould come to me?

44 For lo, as ſoon as the voice of thy ſalutation ſounded in mine ears, the babe ſprang in my belly for joy.

45 And bleſſed is ſhe that believed: for thoſe things ſhall be performed, which were told her from the Lord.

46 [5] Then Mary ſaid, My ſoul magnifieth the Lord,

47 And my ſpirit rejoiceth in God my Saviour.

48 For he hath [q] looked on the [r] poor degree of his ſervant: for behold, from henceforth ſhall all ages call me bleſſed,

[3] The angel ſerving the Lord which ſhould be born, is ſent to the virgin Mary, in whom the Son of the moſt High, promiſed to David, is conceived by the virtue of the Holy Ghoſt.

[y] As much is to be ſaid of Mary, otherwiſe Chriſt had not been of the ſtock, nor the ſon of David.

[z] It might be rendered word for word, full of favour and grace, and he ſheweth ſtraight after, laying out plainly unto us, what that favour is, in that he ſaith, the Lord is with thee.

[a] Of God.

[b] Moved at the ſtrangeneſs of the matter.

[c] So ſpeak the Hebrews, ſaying that men have found favour, which are in favour.

[d] He ſhall be declared ſo to be, for he was the Son of God from everlaſting, but was made manifeſt in the fleſh in his time.

[e] The greatneſs of the matter cauſeth the virgin to aſk this queſtion, not that ſhe diſtruſteth any whit at all, for ſhe aſketh only of the manner of the conceiving, ſo that it is plain ſhe believed all the reſt.

[f] So ſpeak the Hebrews, ſignifying by this modeſt kind of ſpeech, the company of man and wife together, and this is the meaning of it: how ſhall this be, for ſeeing I ſhall be Chriſt his mother, I am very ſure, I ſhall not know any man; for the godly virgin had learned by the prophets, that the Meſſias ſhould be born of a virgin.

[g] That is, the Holy Ghoſt ſhall cauſe thee to conceive by his mighty power.

[h] That pure thing and void of all ſpot of uncleanneſs: for he that was to take away ſin, muſt needs be void of ſin.

[i] Declared, and ſhewed to the world, to be the Son of God.

[k] Though Elizabeth was of the tribe of Levi, yet ſhe might be Mary's couſin: for whereas it was forbidden by the law, for maidens to be married to men of other tribes, this could not let, but that the Levites might take them wives out of any tribe: for the Levites had no portion allotted them, when the land was divided among the people.

[l] This is now the ſixth month from the time when ſhe conceived.

[4] Elizabeth being great with child of John, and Mary with Chriſt, by the inſpiration of the Holy Ghoſt, do rejoice each for other.

[m] Which is on the ſouth ſide of Jeruſalem.

[n] That is to ſay, Hebron, which was in times paſt called Kirjath-arba, which was one of the towns that was given to the Levites in the tribe of Judah, and is ſaid to be in the mountains of Judah, Joſh. 14. 15. and 21. 11.

[o] This was no ordinary nor uſual kind of moving.

[p] Chriſt is bleſſed in reſpect of his humanity.

[5] Chriſt the redeemer of the afflicted, and revenger of the proud, of long time promiſed to the fathers, is now at length exhibited indeed.

[q] Hath freely and graciouſly loved.

[r] Word for word, My baſeneſs, that is, my baſe eſtate: ſo that the virgin vaunteth not her deſerts, but the grace of God.

[s] To them that live godly and religiouſly: ſo ſpeak the Hebrews.

[t] This is an heaping up of words more than needs, which the Hebrews uſe very much, and the arm is taken for ſtrength.

[u] As the wind doth the chaff.

[x] He hath ſcattered them, and the imagination of their hearts; or by and through the imagination of their own hearts; ſo that their wicked counſel turned to their own deſtruction.

60 But his mother anſwered, and ſaid, Not ſo, but he ſhall be called John.

61 And they ſaid unto her, There is none of thy kindred that is named with this name.

62 Then they made ſigns to his father, how he would have him called.

63 So he aſked for writing-tables, and wrote, ſaying, His name is John: and they marvelled all.

66 And all they that heard them, [e] laid them up in their hearts, ſaying, What manner of child ſhall this be! and the [f] hand of the Lord was with him.

67 [7] Then his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and propheſied, ſaying,

15 And it came to paſs, when the angels were gone away from them into heaven, that the ſhepherds ſaid one to another, Let us go then unto Bethlehem, and ſee this thing that is come to paſs, which the Lord hath ſhewed unto us.

16 So they came with haſte, and found both Mary and Joſeph, and the babe laid in the cratch.

17 And when they had ſeen it, they publiſhed abroad the thing that was told them of that child.

5 Every valley ſhall be filled, and every mountain and hill ſhall be brought low, and crooked things ſhall be made ſtraight, and the rough ways ſhall be made ſmooth.

6 And all fleſh ſhall ſee the ſalvation of God.

7 Then ſaid he to the people that were come out to be baptized of him, * O generation of vipers, who hath forewarned you to flee from the wrath to come? *Matt. 3. 7.

8 Bring forth therefore fruits worthy amendment of life, and begin not to ſay with yourſelves, We have Abraham to our father: for I ſay unto you, that God is able of theſe ſtones to raiſe up children unto Abraham.

9 Now alſo is the ax laid unto the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit, ſhall be hewn down, and caſt into the fire.

10 ¶ Then the people aſked him, ſaying, What ſhall we do then?

11 And he anſwered, and ſaid unto them, * He that hath two coats, let him part with him that hath none: and he that hath meat, let him do likewiſe. *James 2. 15. 1 John 3. 17.

12 Then came there Publicans alſo to be baptized, and ſaid unto him, Maſter, what ſhall we do?

13 And he ſaid unto them, Require no more than that which is [b] appointed unto you.

14 The ſoldiers likewiſe demanded of him, ſaying, And what ſhall we do? And he ſaid unto them, Do violence to no man, neither accuſe any falſely, and be content with your [c] wages.

15 [2] As the people waited, and all men muſed in their hearts of John, if he were not that Chriſt,

16 John anſwered, and ſaid to them all, * Indeed I baptize you with water, but one ſtronger than I cometh, whoſe ſhoes latchet I am not worthy to unlooſe: he will baptize you with the Holy Ghoſt, and with fire. *Matt. 3. 11. Mark 1. 8. John 1. 26. Acts 1. 5. and 8. 4. and 11. 16. and 19. 4.

CHAP. IV.

2 Of Chriſt's temptation, and faſting. 16 He teacheth in Nazareth to the great admiration of all. 24 A prophet that teacheth in his own country is contemned. 33 One poſſeſſed of the devil is cured. 38 Peter's mother-in-law healed: 40 and divers ſick perſons are reſtored to health. 41 The devils acknowledge Chriſt.

AND [1] Jeſus, full of the Holy Ghoſt, returned from Jordan, and was led by that ſpirit into the wilderneſs. A. D. 27.

2 * And was there forty days tempted of the devil; and in thoſe days he did eat nothing: but when they were ended, he afterwards was hungry. * Matt. 4. 1. Mark 1. 12.

3 [2] Then the devil ſaid unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this ſtone that it be made bread.

4 But Jeſus anſwered him, ſaying, It is written, * That man ſhall not live by bread only, but by every word of God. * Deut. 8. 3. Matt. 4. 4.

5 Then the devil took him up into an high mountain, and ſhewed him all the kingdoms of the world, in the twinkling of an eye.

6 And the devil ſaid unto him, All this [a] power will I give thee, and the glory of thoſe kingdoms: for that is [b] delivered unto me: and to whomſoever I will, I give it.

7 If thou therefore wilt worſhip me, they ſhall be all [c] thine.

8 But Jeſus anſwered him, and ſaid, Hence from me, Satan: for it is written, * Thou ſhalt worſhip the Lord thy God, and him alone thou ſhalt ſerve. * Deut. 6. 13. and 10. 20.

9 Then he brought him to Jeruſalem, and ſet him on a pinacle of the temple, and ſaid unto him, If thou be the Son of God, caſt thyſelf down from hence,

10 For it is written, * That he will give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee: * Pſ 91. 12.

11 And with their hands they ſhall lift thee up, leſt at any time thou ſhouldeſt daſh thy foot againſt a ſtone.

12 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto him, It is ſaid, * Thou ſhalt not tempt the Lord thy God. * Deut. 6. 16.

13 And when the devil had ended all the temptation, he departed from him for a little ſeaſon.

14 ¶ And Jeſus returned by the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went a fame of him throughout all the region round about.

15 For he taught in their ſynagogues, and was honoured of all men.

16 * [3] And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and (as his cuſtom was) went into the ſynagogue on the ſabbath-day, and ſtood up to read. * Matt. 13. 54. Mark 9. 1. John 4. 43.

17 And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Eſaias: and when he had [d] opened the book, he found the place, where it was written,

18 * The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, becauſe he hath anointed me, that I ſhould preach the goſpel to the poor: he hath ſent me, that I ſhould heal the broken-hearted, that I ſhould preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering * Iſa. 61. 1.

[6] The ſtock of Chriſt, according to the fleſh, is brought by order even to Adam, and ſo to God, that it might appear, that he only it was whom God promiſed to Abraham and David, and appointed from everlaſting to his church, which is gathered together of all ſorts of men.

[1] Chriſt being carried away (as it were out of the world into the deſert) after the faſt of forty days, and the overcoming of Satan thrice, coming as it were ſuddenly from heaven beginneth his office.

[2] Chriſt being ſtirred up of Satan firſt to diſtruſt in God, ſecondly to the deſire of riches and honour, and laſtly to a vain confidence of himſelf, overcometh him thrice by the word of God.

[a] By this word Power, are the kingdoms themſelves meant, which have the power; and ſo it is ſpoken by the figure Metonymia.

[b] That is ſure ſo, for he is prince of the world, yet not abſolutely, and as the ſovereign over it, but by ſufferance and way of intreaty, and therefore he ſaith not true, that he can give it to whom he will.

[c] Out of an high place, which had a goodly champain country underneath it, he ſhewed him the ſituation of all countries.

[3] Who Chriſt is, and wherefore he came, he ſheweth out of the prophet Iſaiah.

[d] Their books in thoſe days were rolled up as ſcrolls upon a roller: and ſo Chriſt unrolled or unfolded it, which is here called opened.

vering of ſight to the blind, that I ſhould ſet at liberty them that are bruiſed:

19 And that I ſhould preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

20 And he cloſed the book, and gave it again to the miniſter, and ſat down: and the eyes of all that were in the ſynagogue were faſtened on him.

21 Then he began to ſay unto them, This day is the ſcripture fulfilled in your ears.

22 [4] And all [e] bare him witneſs, and [f] wondered at the [g] gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth, and ſaid, Is not this Joſeph's ſon?

23 Then he ſaid unto them, Ye will ſurely ſay unto me this proverb, Phyſician, heal thyſelf: whatſoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do it here likewiſe in thine own country.

* John 4. 44.

24 And he ſaid, Verily I ſay unto you, * No prophet is accepted in his own country.

* 1 Kings 17. 9. James 5. 17.

25 But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in Iſrael in the days of * Elias, when heaven was ſhut three years and ſix months, when great famine was throughout all the [h] land:

26 But unto none of them was Elias ſent, ſave unto Sarepta, a city of Sidon, unto a certain widow.

* 2 Kings 5. 14.

27 Alſo many lepers were in Iſrael, in the time of * Elias the prophet: yet none of them was made clean, ſaving Naaman the Syrian.

28 [5] Then all that were in the ſynagogue, when they heard it, were filled with wrath,

29 And roſe up, and thruſt him out of the city, and led him unto the edge of the hill, whereon their city was built, to caſt him down headlong.

30 But he paſſed through the midſt of them, and went his way.

* Matt. 4. 13. Mark 1. 21.

31 ¶ * And came down into Capernaum, a city of Galilee, and there taught them on the ſabbath-days.

* Matt. 7. 29. Mark 1. 22.

32 * And they were aſtoniſhed at his doctrine: for his word was with authority.

* Mark 1. 23.

33 * And in the ſynagogue there was a man which had a ſpirit of an unclean devil, which cried with a loud voice,

34 [6] Saying, Oh, what have we to do with thee, thou Jeſus of Nazareth? art thou come to deſtroy us? I know who thou art, even the holy One of God.

35 And Jeſus rebuked him, ſaying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. Then the devil, throwing him in the midſt of them, came out of him, and hurt him nothing at all.

36 So fear came on them all, and they ſpake among themſelves, ſaying, What thing is this? for with authority and power he commandeth the foul ſpirits, and they come out.

37 And the fame of him ſpread abroad throughout all the places of the country round about.

* Matt. 8. 14. Mark 1. 30.

38 ¶ * [7] And he roſe up, and came out of the ſynagogue, and entered into Simon's houſe. And Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever, and they required him for her.

39 Then he ſtood over her, and rebuked the fever, and it left her, and immediately ſhe aroſe, and miniſtered unto them.

40 Now at the ſun-ſetting, all they that had ſick folks of divers diſeaſes, brought them unto him, and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.

* Mark 1. 35.

41 * [8] And devils alſo came out of many, crying, and ſaying, Thou art that Chriſt, that Son of God: but he rebuked them, and ſuffered them not to ſay, that they knew him to be that Chriſt.

42 [9] And when it was day he departed, and went forth into a deſert place, and the people ſought him, and came to him, and kept him that he ſhould not depart from them.

43 But he ſaid unto them, Surely I muſt alſo preach the kingdom of God to other cities: for therefore am I ſent.

44 And he preached in the ſynagogues of Galilee.

3 And he entered into one of the ſhips, which was Simon's, and required him that he would thruſt off a little from the land: and he ſat down, and taught the people out of the ſhip.

4 ¶ Now when he had left ſpeaking, he ſaid unto Simon, Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets to make a draught.

5 Then Simon anſwered, and ſaid unto him, [b] Maſter, we have travailed ſore all night, and have taken nothing: nevertheleſs at thy word I will let down the net.

[4] Familiarity cauſeth Chriſt to be contemned, and therefore he oftentimes goeth to ſtrangers.

[5] The more ſharply the world is rebuked, the more it rageth openly: but the life of the godly is not ſimply ſubject to the pleaſure of the wicked.

[6] Chriſt aſtoniſheth not only men, be they never ſo blockiſh, but even the devils alſo, whether they will or not.

[7] In that, that Chriſt healeth the diſeaſes of the body with his word only, he proveth that he is God Almighty, ſent for man's ſalvation.

[8] Satan, who is a continual enemy to the truth, ought not to be heard, no not then, when he ſpeaketh the truth.

[9] No colour of zeal ought to hinder us in the race of our vocation.

[1] Chriſt advertiſeth the four diſciples, which he had taken unto him, of the office of the apoſtleſhip, which ſhould hereafter be committed unto them.

[a] Did, as it were, lie upon him, ſo deſirous they were both to ſee him and hear him, and therefore he taught them out of a ſhip.

ſed a great multitude of fiſhes, ſo that their net brake.

7 And they beckoned to their partners, which were in the other ſhip, that they ſhould come and help them: who came then, and filled both the ſhips, that they did ſink.

8 Now when Simon Peter ſaw it, he fell down at Jeſus's knees, ſaying, Lord, go from me: for I am a ſinful man.

9 For he was utterly aſtoniſhed, and all that were with him, for the draught of fiſhes which they took.

10 And ſo was alſo James and John, the ſons of Zebedee, which were companions with Simon. Then Jeſus ſaid unto Simon, Fear not: from henceforth thou ſhalt catch men.

11 And when they had brought the ſhips to land, they forſook all, and followed him.

* Matt 8. 2. Mark 1. 40.

12 ¶ * [2] Now it came to paſs, as he was in a certain city, behold, there was a man full of leproſy, and when he ſaw Jeſus, he fell on his face, and beſought him, ſaying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canſt make me clean.

13 So he ſtretched forth his hand, and touched him, ſaying, I will, be thou clean. And immediately the leproſy departed from him.

* Lev. 14. 4.

14 And he commanded him that he ſhould tell it to no man: but go, ſaith he, and ſhew thyſelf to the prieſt, and offer for thy cleanſing as * Moſes hath commanded, for a witneſs unto them.

15 [3] But ſo much more went there a fame abroad of him, and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed of him of their infirmities.

16 But he kept himſelf apart in the wilderneſs, and prayed.

17 ¶ [4] And it came to paſs on a certain day, as he was teaching, that the Phariſees and doctors of the law ſat by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judea, and Jeruſalem, and the power of the Lord [c] was in him to heal them.

* Matt. 9. 2. Mark 2. 3.

18 * Then behold, men brought a man lying in a bed, which was taken with a palſy, and they ſought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him.

19 And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in, becauſe of the preſs, they went up on the houſe, and let him down through the tiling, bed and all, in the midſt before Jeſus.

20 And when he ſaw their faith, he ſaid unto him, Man, thy ſins are forgiven thee.

21 Then the Scribes and the Phariſees began to reaſon, ſaying, Who is this that ſpeaketh blaſphemies? who can forgive ſins, but God only?

22 But when Jeſus perceived their reaſoning, he anſwered, and ſaid unto them, What reaſon ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is it eaſier to ſay, Thy ſins are forgiven thee, or to ſay, Riſe and walk?

A. D. 31.

24 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath authority to forgive ſins in earth, (he ſaid unto the ſick of the palſy) I ſay to thee, Ariſe: take up thy bed, and go to thine houſe.

25 And immediately he roſe up before them, and took up his bed whereon he lay, and departed to his own houſe, praiſing God.

26 And they were all amazed, and praiſed God, and were filled with fear, ſaying, Doubtleſs we have ſeen ſtrange things to day.

* Matt. 9. 9. Mark 2. 14.

27 ¶ * [5] And after that, he went forth, and ſaw a Publican named Levi, ſitting at the receipt of cuſtom, and ſaid unto him, Follow me.

28 And he left all, roſe up, and followed him.

29 Then Levi made him a great feaſt in his own houſe, where there was a great company of Publicans, and of others that ſat at table with them.

30 But they that were Scribes and Phariſees among them, murmured againſt his diſciples, ſaying, Why eat ye and drink ye with Publicans and ſinners?

31 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, They that are whole, need not the phyſician, but they that are ſick.

* 1 Tim. 1. 15.

32 * I came not to call the righteous, but ſinners to repentance.

* Matt. 9. 14. Mark 2. 18.

33 ¶ * [6] Then they ſaid unto him, Why do the diſciples of John faſt often, and pray, and the diſciples of the Phariſees alſo, but thine eat and drink?

34 [7] And he ſaid unto them, Can ye make the children of the wedding-chamber to faſt, as long as the bridegroom is with them.

35 But the days will come, even when the bridegroom ſhall be taken away from them: then ſhall they faſt in thoſe days.

36 Again he ſpake alſo unto them a parable, No man putteth a piece of a new garment into an old veſture: for then the new renteth it, and the piece taken out of the new, agreeth not with the old.

37 Alſo no man poureth new wine into old veſſels: for then the new wine will break the veſſels, and it will run out, and the veſſels will periſh:

38 But new wine muſt be poured into new veſſels: ſo both are preſerved.

39 Alſo no man that drinketh old wine, ſtraightway deſireth new: for he ſaith, The old is more profitable.

[2] Chriſt by healing the leper with his only touch, and ſending him to the prieſt, witneſſeth that it is he, through whom, and by whom, apprehended by faith, all we which are unclean, according to the law, by the witneſs of God himſelf, are pronounced to be pure and clean.

[3] Chriſt had rather to be famous by his doctrine than by miracles and therefore he departeth from them that ſeek him as a phyciſian of the body, and not as the author of ſalvation.

[4] Chriſt in healing him that was ſick of the palſy, ſheweth the cauſe of all diſeaſes, and the remedy.

[c] The mighty power of Chriſt's Godhead ſhewed itſelf in him at that time.

[5] The church is a company of ſinners, through the grace of Chriſt repentant, which banquet with him, to the great offence of the proud and envious worldlings.

[6] It is the point of hypocrites and ignorant men to put an holineſs in faſting, and in things indifferent.

[7] Laws generally made without any conſideration of circumſtances, for faſting, and other things of like ſort, are not only tyrannous, but very hurtful in the church.

6 ¶ * [2] It came to paſs alſo on another ſabbath, that he entered into the ſynagogue, and taught, and there was a man, whoſe right hand was dried up.

7 And the Scribes and Phariſees watched him, whether he would heal on the ſabbath day, that they might find an accuſation againſt him.

8 But he knew their thoughts, and ſaid to the man which had the withered hand, Ariſe, and ſtand up in the midſt. And he aroſe, and ſtood up.

9 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, I will aſk you a queſtion. Whether is it lawful on the ſabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to ſave life, or to [b] deſtroy?

10 And he beheld them all in compaſs, and ſaid unto the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he did ſo, and his hand was reſtored again as whole as the other.

11 Then they were filled full of madneſs, and communed one with another, what they might do to Jeſus.

17 Then he came down with them, and ſtood in a plain place, with the company of his diſciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judea and Jeruſalem, and from the [c] ſea coaſt of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diſeaſes:

---

[1] Chriſt ſheweth againſt the ſuperſtitious, who ſtick in every trifle, that the law of the very ſabbath was not given to be kept without exception: much leſs that the ſalvation of man ſhould conſiſt in the outward keeping of it.

[a] Epiphanius noteth well in his treatiſe, where he confuteth Ebion, that the time when the diſciples plucked the ears of corn, was in the feaſt of unleavened bread: Now whereas in thoſe feaſts, which were kept many days together, as the feaſt of tabernacles, and as the paſſover, their firſt day, and the laſt were of like ſolemnity, Lev. 23. Luke fitly calleth the laſt day the ſecond ſabbath, though Theoph. underſtandeth it of any other of them, that followed the firſt.

[2] Charity is the rule of all ceremonies.

[b] Whoſo helpeth not his neighbour, when be can, he killeth him.

[3] In that that Chriſt uſeth earneſt and long prayer in chuſing twelve of his own company, to the office of the apoſtleſhip, he ſheweth how religiouſly we ought to behave ourſelves in the choice of eccleſiaſtical perſons.

[c] From all the ſea coaſt, which is called, Syrophenicia.

[4] Chriſt teacheth againſt all philoſophers, and eſpecially the epicures, that the chiefeſt felicity of man is laid up in no place here in earth, but in heaven; and that perſecution for righteouſneſs ſake, is the right way unto it.

[d] Caſt you out of their ſynagogues, as John expoundeth it, chap. 16. 2. which is the ſharpeſt puniſhment the church hath, if ſo be the elders judge rightfully, and by the word of God.

[e] Leap (as cattle do which are provender pricked) for exceeding joy.

[f] That is, you reap now of your riches, all the commodity and bleſſings you are ever like to have, and therefore you have not to look for any other reward, Matt. 6. 2.

[5] Chriſtian charity, which differeth much from the worldly, doth not only not revenge injuries, but comprehendeth even our moſt grievous enemies, and that for our Father's ſake which is in heaven: ſo far is it from ſeeking its own profit in doing well.

[g] What is there in this your work, that is to be accounted of? for if you look to have commodity by loving, ſeek thoſe commodities which are commodities indeed: love your enemies, and ſo ſhall you ſhew to the world that you look for thoſe commodities which come from God.

35 Wherefore love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, [h] looking for nothing again, and your reward ſhall be great, and ye ſhall be children of * the moſt High: for he is kind to the unkind, and to the evil.

* Matt. 5. 45.

36 Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father alſo is merciful.

37 ¶ * [6] Judge not, and ye ſhall not be judged: condemn not, and ye ſhall not be condemned: [i] forgive, and ye ſhall be forgiven.

* Matt. 7. 1.

38 Give, and it ſhall be given unto you: * a good meaſure, [k] preſſed down, ſhaken together, and running over, ſhall men give into your boſom: for with what meaſure ye mete, with the ſame ſhall men mete to you again.

*Matt. 7. 2. Mark 4. 24.

49 But he that heareth and doth not, is like a man that built an houſe upon the earth without foundation, againſt which the flood did beat, and it fell by and by: and the fall of that houſe was great.

CHAP. VII.

1 Of the centurion's ſervant. 9 The centurion's faith. 11 The widow's ſon raiſed from death at Nain. 19 John ſendeth his diſciples to Chriſt. 33 His peculiar kind of living. 37 The ſinful woman waſheth Jeſus's feet.

WHEN * he [1] had ended all his ſayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum.

* Matt. 8. 5.

2 And a certain centurion's ſervant was ſick, and ready to die, which was dear unto him.

3 And when he heard of Jeſus, he ſent unto him the elders of the Jews, beſeeching him that he would come, and heal his ſervant.

4 So they came to Jeſus, and beſought him inſtantly, ſaying, that he was worthy that he ſhould do this for him:

5 For he loveth, ſaid they, our nation, and he hath built us a ſynagogue.

6 Then Jeſus went with them: but when he was now not far from the houſe, the centurion ſent friends to him, ſaying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyſelf: for I am not worthy that thou ſhouldeſt enter under my roof:

7 Wherefore I thought not myſelf worthy to come unto thee: but ſay the word, and my ſervant ſhall be whole:

8 For I likewiſe am a man ſet under authority and have under me ſoldiers, and I ſay unto one, Go, and he goeth: and to another, Come, and he cometh: and to my ſervant, Do this, and he doeth it.

9 When Jeſus heard theſe things, he marvelled at him, and turned him, and ſaid to the people that followed him, I ſay unto you, I have not found ſo great faith, no not in Iſrael.

10 And when they that were ſent, turned back to the houſe, they found the ſervant that was ſick, whole.

11 [2] And it came to paſs the day after, that he went into a city called [a] Nain, and many of his diſciples went with him, and a great multitude.

12 Now when he came near to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, who was the only begotten ſon of his mother, which was a widow, and much people of the city was with her.

13 And when the Lord ſaw her, he had compaſſion on her, and ſaid unto her, Weep not.

14 And he went and touched the coffin (and they that bare him ſtood ſtill) and he ſaid, Young man, I ſay unto thee, Ariſe.

15 And he that was dead, ſat up, and began to ſpeak, and he delivered him to his mother.

16 Then there came a fear on them all, and

[h] When you will lend, do it only to benefit and pleaſure withal, and not for hope to receive the principal again.

[6] Brotherly reprehenſions muſt not proceed of curioſity nor churliſhneſs nor malice; but they muſt be juſt, moderate and loving.

[i] He ſpeaketh not here of civil judgments, and therefore by the word, Forgive, is meant that good nature which the chriſtians uſe in ſuffering and pardoning wrongs.

[k] Theſe are borrowed kinds of ſpeeches, taken from them which uſe to meaſure dry things, as corn and ſuch like, who uſe a frank kind of dealing therein, and thruſt it down and ſhake it together, and preſs it, and heap it.

[7] Unſkilful reprehenders hurt both themſelves and others: for ſuch as the maſter is, ſuch is the ſcholar.

[8] Hypocrites which are very ſevere reprehenders of others, are very quick of ſight to ſpy other men's faults, but very blind to ſee their own.

[9] He is a good man, not that is ſkilful to reprehend others, but he that proveth his uprightneſs both in word and deed.

[10] Affliction doth at the length diſcern true godlineſs from falſe and feigned.

[1] Chriſt admoniſheth the Jews, by ſetting before them the example of the centurion, that for their obſtinacy and rebellion he will go to the Gentiles.

[2] Chriſt avoucheth openly his power over death.

[a] Nain is the name of a town in Galilee, which was ſituate on the other ſide of Kiſon, which falleth into the ſea of Galilee.

they glorified God, ſaying, A great Prophet is riſen among us, and God hath viſited his people.

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Judea, and throughout all the region round about.

18 [3] And the diſciples of John ſhewed him of all theſe things.

19 So John called unto him two certain men of his diſciples, and ſent them to Jeſus, ſaying, Art thou he that ſhould come, or ſhall we wait or another?

20 And when the men were come unto him, they ſaid, John Baptiſt hath ſent us unto thee, ſaying, Art thou he that ſhould come, or ſhall we wait for another?

21 And [b] at that time he cured many of their ſickneſſes, and plagues, and of evil ſpirits, and unto many blind men he gave ſight freely.

22 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Go your ways, and ſhew John what things ye have ſeen and heard: that the blind ſee, the halt go, the lepers are cleanſed, the deaf hear, the dead are raiſed, and the poor receive the goſpel.

23 And bleſſed is he that ſhall not be offended in me.

24 [4] And when the meſſengers of John were departed, he began to ſpeak unto the people, of John, What went ye out into the wilderneſs to ſee? A reed ſhaken with the wind?

25 But what went you out to ſee? A man cloathed in ſoft raiment? behold, they which are gorgeouſly apparelled, and live delicately, are in kings courts.

26 But what went ye forth to ſee? A prophet? yea, I ſay unto you, and greater than a prophet.

* Matt. 3.1.

27 This is he of whom it is written, * Behold, I ſend my meſſenger before thy face, which ſhall prepare thy way before thee.

28 For I ſay unto you, there is no greater prophet than John, among them that are begotten of women: nevertheleſs, he that is the leaſt in the kingdom of God, is greater than he.

29 Then all the people that heard, and the Publicans [c] juſtified God, being baptized with the baptiſm of John.

30 But the Phariſees and the expounders of the law deſpiſed the counſel of God [d] againſt themſelves, and were not baptized of him.

* Matt. 11. 16.

31 * [5] And the Lord ſaid, Whereunto ſhall I liken the men of this generation? and what thing are they like unto?

32 They are like unto little children ſitting in the market place, and crying one to another, and ſaying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced: we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

A. D. 31.

33 For John Baptiſt came neither eating bread, nor drinking wine: and ye ſay, He hath the devil.

34 The Son of man is come, and eateth and drinketh: and ye ſay, Behold, a man which is a glutton, and a drinker of wine, a friend of Publicans and ſinners:

35 But wiſdom is juſtified of all her children.

36 ¶ [6] And one of the Phariſees deſired him that he would eat with him: and he went into the Phariſee's houſe, and ſat down at table.

37 And behold, a woman in the city, which was a ſinner, when ſhe knew that Jeſus ſat at table in the Phariſee's houſe, ſhe brought a box of ointment:

* Matt. 26. 7. John 12. 3.

38 * And ſhe ſtood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to waſh his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kiſſed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

39 [7] Now when the Phariſee which bade him, ſaw it, he ſpake within himſelf, ſaying, If this man were a prophet, he would ſurely have known who, and what manner of woman this is which toucheth him, [e] for ſhe is a ſinner.

40 [8] And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Simon, I have ſomewhat to ſay unto thee. And he ſaid, Maſter, ſay on.

41 There was a certain lender which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty:

42 When they had nothing to pay, he forgave them both: Which of them therefore, tell me, will love him moſt?

43 Simon anſwered, and ſaid, I ſuppoſe that he, to whom he forgave moſt. And he ſaid unto him, Thou haſt truly judged.

44 Then he turned to the woman, and ſaid unto Simon, Seeſt thou this woman? I entered into thine houſe, and thou gaveſt me no water to my feet: but ſhe hath waſhed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

45 Thou gaveſt me no kiſs: but ſhe, ſince the time I came in, hath not ceaſed to kiſs my feet.

46 Mine head with oil thou didſt not anoint: but ſhe hath anointed my feet with ointment.

47 Wherefore I ſay unto thee, Many ſins are forgiven her: [f] for ſhe loved much. To whom a little is forgiven, he doth love a little.

48 And he ſaid unto her, Thy ſins are forgiven thee.

[3] John ſendeth from the priſon his unbelieving diſciples, to Chriſt himſelf to be confirmed.

[b] When John's diſciples came to Chriſt.

[4] That which the prophets ſhewed long before, John ſheweth at hand; and Chriſt himſelf doth preſent it daily unto us in the goſpel, but for the moſt part in vain, for that many ſeek nothing elſe but fooliſh toys and vain glory.

[c] Said that he was juſt, good, faithful and merciful.

[d] To their own hurt.

[5] What way ſoever God followeth in offering us the goſpel, the moſt part of men procure offences unto themſelves; yet notwithſtanding ſome church is gathered together.

[6] Proud men deprive themſelves of the benefits of the preſence of Chriſt, even then, when he is at home with them in their houſes, which the humble and baſe do enjoy.

[7] Raſhneſs is the fellow of pride.

[e] The Phariſee reſpecteth the law, which holdeth them defiled that touch the defiled.

[8] To love Chriſt, is a ſure and perpetual witneſs of remiſſion of ſins.

[f] That is, ſaith Theophylact, ſhe hath ſhewed her faith abundantly. And Baſil, in his Sermon of Baptiſm ſaith, He that oweth much, hath much forgiven him, that he may love much more. And therefore Chriſt's ſaying is ſo plain by the ſimilitude, that it is a wonder to ſee the enemies of the truth draw and rack this place ſo fondly, to eſtabliſh their meritorious works; for the greater ſum a man hath forgiven him, the more he loveth him that hath been ſo gracious to him. And this woman ſheweth by duties of love, how great the benefit was ſhe had received. And therefore the charity that is here ſpoken of, is not to be taken for the cauſe, but as a ſign: for Chriſt ſaith not as the Phariſees did, that ſhe was a ſinner, but beareth her witneſs that the ſins of her life paſt are forgiven her.

A. D. 31.

49 And they that ſat at table with him, began to ſay within themſelves, Who is this that even forgiveth ſins?

50 And he ſaid to the woman, Thy faith hath ſaved thee: [g] go in peace.

2 Women that miniſter unto Chriſt of their ſubſtance. 4 The parable of the ſower. 16 The candle. 19 Chriſt's mother and brethren. 22 He rebuketh the winds. 26 Of Legion. 37 The Gadarenes reject Chriſt. 41 Jairus's daughter healed. 43 The woman delivered from the iſſue of blood. 52 Weeping for the dead.

AND it came to paſs afterward, that he himſelf went through every city and town, preaching and publiſhing the kingdom of God, and the twelve were with him,

2 And certain women, which were healed of evil ſpirits, and infirmities, as * Mary which was called Magdalene, out of whom went ſeven devils:

* Mark 16. 9.

3 And Joanna the wife of Chuza, Herod's ſteward, and Suſanna, and many other which miniſtered unto him of their ſubſtance.

4 * [1] Now when much people were gathered together, and were come unto him out of all cities, he ſpake by a parable.

* Matt. 13. 3. Mark 4. 1.

5 A ſower went out to ſow his ſeed: and as he ſowed, ſome fell by the way's ſide, and it was trodden under feet, and the fowls of heaven devoured it up.

6 And ſome fell on the ſtones, and when it was ſprung up, it withered away, becauſe it lacked moiſtneſs.

7 And ſome fell among thorns, and the thorns ſprang up with it, and choaked it.

8 And ſome fell on good ground, and ſprang up, and bare fruit, an hundred-fold. And as he ſaid theſe things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

9 Then his diſciples aſked him, demanding what parable that was.

10 And he ſaid, Unto you it is given to know the [a] ſecrets of the kingdom of God, but to other in parables, that when * they ſee, they ſhould not ſee: and when they hear, they ſhould not underſtand.

* Iſa. 6. 9. Matt. 13. 14. Mark 4. 12. John 12. 40. Acts 28. 26. Rom. 11. 8.

11 * The parable is this, The ſeed is the word of God.

* Matt. 13. 18. Mark 4. 15.

12 And they that are beſide the way, are they that hear: afterward cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, leſt they ſhould believe, and be ſaved.

13 But they that are on the ſtones, are they which when they have heard, receive the word with joy, but they have no roots: which for a while believe, but in the time of temptation go away.

A. D. 31.

14 And that which fell among thorns, are they which have heard, and after [b] their departure are choaked with cares, and with riches, and voluptuous living, and [c] bring forth no fruit.

15 But that which fell in good ground, are they which with an [d] honeſt and good heart hear the word, [e] and keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience.

16 ¶ * [2] No man when he hath lighted a candle covereth it under a veſſel, neither putteth it under the bed, but ſetteth it on a candleſtick, that they that enter in may ſee the light.

* Ch. 11. 33. Matt. 5. 15. Mark 4. 21.

17 * For nothing is ſecret, that ſhall not be evident: neither any thing hid, that ſhall not be known, and come to light.

* Matt. 10. 26. Mark 4. 22. Ch. 12. 2.

18 [3] Take [f] heed therefore how ye hear: for * whoſoever hath, to him ſhall be given: and whoſoever hath not, from him ſhall be taken even that [g] which it ſeemeth that he hath.

* Matt. 13. 12. and 15. 19. Mark 4. 25. Ch. 19. 26.

19 ¶ * [4] Then came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come near to him for the preſs.

* Matt. 12. 46. Mark 3. 32.

20 And it was told him by certain which ſaid, Thy mother and thy brethren ſtand without, and would ſee thee.

21 But he anſwered and ſaid unto them, My mother and my brethren are theſe which hear the word of God and do it.

22 ¶ * [5] And it came to paſs on a certain day, that he went into a ſhip with his diſciples, and he ſaid unto them, Let us go over unto the other ſide of the lake. And they launched forth.

* Matt. 8. 23. Mark 4 36.

23 And as they ſailed, he [h] fell aſleep, and there came down a ſtorm of wind on the lake, and [i] they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy.

24 Then they went to him, and awoke him, ſaying, Maſter, Maſter, we periſh. And he aroſe, and rebuked the wind, and the waves of water: and they ceaſed, and it was calm.

25 Then he ſaid unto them, Where is your faith? and they feared, and wondered among themſelves, ſaying, Who is this that commandeth both the winds and water, and they obey him!

26 ¶ * So they ſailed unto the region of the Gadarenes, which is over-againſt Galilee.

[g] He confirmeth the benefit which he had beſtowed with a bleſſing.

[1] The ſelf-ſame goſpel is ſown every where, but not with like fruit: and that through the only fault of men themſelves.

[a] Theſe things are called ſecret, which may not be uttered: for the word uſed here, is as much as we ſay in our tongue, to hold a man's peace.

[b] That is, ſo ſoon as they have heard the word, they go about their buſineſs.

[c] They bring not forth perfect and full fruit to the ripening; or they begin, but they bring not to an end.

[d] Which ſeeketh not only to ſeem ſuch a one, but is ſo indeed: ſo that this word, Honeſt, reſpecteth the outward life; and the word Good, is referred to the good gifts of the mind.

[e] With much ado, for the devil and the fleſh fight againſt the Spirit of God, which is a new gueſt.

[2] That that every man hath received in private, he ought to beſtow to the uſe and profit of all men.

[3] Heavenly gifts are loſt with niggardlineſs, and increaſe with liberality.

[f] That is, with what minds you come to hear the word, and how you behave yourſelves, when you have heard it.

[g] Either to himſelf, or to others, or to both; for there are none ſo proud as theſe fellows, if it were poſſible to ſee that that they cloke; neither are there that deceive the ſimple more than they do.

[4] There is no knot of fleſh and blood among men ſo nigh and ſtraight, as the band which is between Chriſt, and them who embrace him with a true faith.

[5] It is expedient for us ſometimes to come into extreme danger, as though Chriſt paſſed not for us, that we may have a better trial, both of his power, and alſo of our weakneſs.

[h] Jeſus fell aſleep, and it appeareth that he was very faſt aſleep, becauſe they called him twice before he awoke.

[i] Not the diſciples, but the ſhip.

[6] Chriſt ſheweth by caſting out a Legion of devils, by his word only, that his heavenly virtue was appointed to deliver men from the ſlavery of the devil: but fooliſh men will not, for the moſt part, redeem this ſo excellent grace freely offered unto them, with the leaſt loſs of their pelting pelf.

him a certain man out of the city, which had devils long time, and he wore no garment, neither abode in houſe, but in the graves.

28 And when he ſaw Jeſus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice ſaid, What have I to do with thee, Jeſus, the Son of God the moſt High? I beſeech thee torment me not.

29 For he commanded the foul ſpirit to come out of the man: (for oft-times he had caught him: therefore he was bound with chains, and kept in fetters: but he brake the bands, [k] and was carried of the devil into the wilderneſs.)

30 Then Jeſus aſked him, ſaying, What is thy name? and he ſaid, Legion, becauſe many devils were entered into him.

31 And they beſought him, that he would not command them to go out into the deep.

32 And there was thereby an herd of many ſwine, feeding on an hill: and the devils beſought him, that he would ſuffer them to enter into them. So he ſuffered them.

33 Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the ſwine: and the herd was carried with violence from a ſteep place down into the lake, and was choked.

34 When the herdmen ſaw what was done, they fled: and when they were departed, they told it in the city, and in the country.

35 Then they came out to ſee what was done, and came to Jeſus, and found the man out of whom the devils were departed ſitting at the feet of Jeſus, cloathed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

36 They alſo which ſaw it, told them by what means he that was poſſeſſed with the devil was healed.

37 Then the whole multitude of the country about the Gadarenes beſought him that he would depart from them: for they were taken with a great fear: and he went into the ſhip, and returned.

38 Then the man, out of whom the devils were departed, beſought him that he might be with him: but Jeſus ſent him away, ſaying,

39 Return into thine own houſe, and ſhew what great things God hath done to thee. So he went his way, and preached [l] throughout all the city, what great things Jeſus had done unto him.

40 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Jeſus was come again, that the people [m] received him: for they all waited for him.

* Matt. 9. 18. Mark 5. 22.

41 ¶ * [7] And behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was the ruler of the ſynagogue, who fell down at Jeſus's feet, and beſought him that he would come into his houſe.

42 For he had but a daughter only, about twelve years of age, and ſhe lay a dying (and as he went, the people thronged him.

43 And a woman having an iſſue of blood twelve years long, which had ſpent all her [n] ſubſtance upon phyſicians, and could not be helped by any:

44 When ſhe came behind him, ſhe touched the hem of his garment, and immediately her iſſue of blood ſtaunched.

45 Then Jeſus ſaid, Who is it that hath touched me? When every man denied, Peter ſaid, and they that were with him, Maſter, the multitude thruſt thee, and tread on thee, and ſayeſt thou, Who hath touched me?

46 And Jeſus ſaid, Some one hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me.

47 When the woman ſaw that ſhe was not hid, ſhe came trembling, and fell down before him, and told him before all the people for what cauſe ſhe had touched him, and how ſhe was healed immediately.

48 And he ſaid unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath ſaved thee: go in peace.)

49 While he yet ſpake, there came one from the ruler of the ſynagogue's houſe, which ſaid to him, Thy daughter is dead: diſeaſe not the Maſter.

50 When Jeſus heard it, he anſwered him, ſaying, Fear not: believe only, and ſhe ſhall be ſaved.

51 And when he went into the houſe, he ſuffered no man to go in with him, ſave Peter, and James, and John, and the father and mother of the maid.

52 And all wept, and [o] ſorrowed for her: but he ſaid, Weep not: for ſhe is not dead, but ſleepeth.

53 And they laughed him to ſcorn, knowing that ſhe was dead.

54 So he thruſt them all out, and took her by the hand, and cried, ſaying, Maid, ariſe.

55 And her ſpirit came again, and ſhe [p] roſe ſtraightway: and he commanded to give her meat.

56 Then her parents were aſtoniſhed: but he commanded them that they ſhould tell no man what was done.

28 * [6] And it came to paſs about an eight days after thoſe words, that he took Peter, and John, and James, and went up into a mountain to pray.

29 And as he prayed, the faſhion of his countenance was changed, and his garment was white and gliſtered.

30 And behold, two men talked with him, which were Moſes and Elias:

31 Which appeared in glory, and told of his [h] his departing, which he ſhould accompliſh at Jeruſalem.

32 But Peter and they that were with him, were heavy with ſleep: and when they awoke, they ſaw his glory, and the two men ſtanding with him.

33 And it came to paſs, as they departed from him, Peter ſaid unto Jeſus, Maſter, it is good for us to be here: let us therefore make three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moſes, and one for Elias: and wiſt not what he ſaid.

[a] When you depart out of any city, depart from thence, where you firſt took up your lodging: ſo that in few words the Lord forbiddeth them to change their lodgings; for the publiſhing of this goſpel, was as it were a thorough paſſage, that none of Judea might pretend ignorance, as though he had not heard that Chriſt was come.

[2] So ſoon as the world heareth tidings of the goſpel, it is divided into divers opinions, and the tyrants eſpecially are afraid.

[b] He ſtuck, as it were, faſt in the mire.

[3] They ſhall lack nothing that follow Chriſt, no not in the wilderneſs.

[c] The word ſignifieth a deſert: note, this was not in the town Bethſaida, but part of the fields belonging to the town.

[d] This is imperfectly ſpoken, and therefore we muſt underſtand ſomething, as this, We cannot give them to eat, unleſs we go and buy, &c.

[e] He gave God thanks for theſe loaves and fiſhes, and withal prayed him to feed this ſo great a multitude with ſo ſmall a quantity, and to be ſhort, that this whole banquet might be to the glory of God.

[4] Although the world be toſſed up and down, betwixt divers errors, yet we ought not to contemn the truth, but be ſo much the more deſirous to know it, and be more conſtant to confeſs it.

[f] Alone from the people.

[5] Chriſt himſelf attained to the heavenly glory, by the croſs and invincible patience.

[g] Even as one day followeth another, ſo doth one croſs follow another, and the croſs is by the figure Metonymia taken for the miſeries of this life: for to be hanged, was the soreſt and cruelleſt puniſhment that was amongſt the Jews.

[6] Leſt the diſciples of Chriſt ſhould be offended at the debaſing himſelf in his fleſh, he teacheth them that it is voluntary, ſhewing therewithal for a ſpace, the brightneſs of his glory.

man in [i] thoſe days any of thoſe things which they had ſeen.

37 ¶ [7] And it came to paſs on the next day, as they came down from the mountain, much people met him.

* Matt. 17. 14. Mark 9. 17.

38 * And behold, a man of the company cried out, ſaying, Maſter, I beſeech thee, behold my ſon: for he is all that I have.

39 And lo, a ſpirit taketh him, and ſuddenly he crieth, and he teareth him, that he foameth, and hardly departeth from him when he hath [k] bruiſed him.

40 Now I have beſought thy diſciples to caſt him out, but they could not.

41 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid, O generation faithleſs and crooked, how long now ſhall I be with you, and ſuffer you? bring thy ſon hither.

42 And while he was yet coming, the devil rent him, and tare him: and Jeſus rebuked the unclean ſpirit, and healed the child, and delivered him to his father.

43 ¶ [8] And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God: and while they all wondered at all things which Jeſus did, he ſaid unto his diſciples,

* Matt. 17. 22. Mark 9. 31.

44 [l] Mark theſe words diligently: * for it ſhall come to paſs, that the Son of man ſhall be delivered into the hands of men.

45 But they underſtood not that word: for it was hid from them, ſo that they could not perceive it: and they feared to aſk him of that word.

* Matt. 18. 2. Mark 9. 35.

46 ¶ * [9] Then there aroſe a diſputation among them, which of them ſhould be the greateſt.

* Mark 9. 38.

49 ¶ * [10] And John anſwered and ſaid, Maſter, we ſaw one caſting out devils in thy name, and we forbad him, becauſe he followeth thee not with us.

50 Then Jeſus ſaid unto him, Forbid ye him not: for he that is not againſt us, is with us.

51 ¶ [11] And it came to paſs, when the days were accompliſhed, that he ſhould be received up, he [m] ſettled himſelf fully to go to Jeruſalem,

52 And ſent meſſengers before him: and they went and entered into a town of the Samaritans, to prepare him lodging.

55 But Jeſus turned about, and rebuked them, and ſaid, Ye know not of what [n] ſpirit ye are.

59 [14] But he ſaid unto another, Follow me, And the ſame ſaid, Lord, ſuffer me firſt to go and bury my father.

60 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Let the dead bury [o] their dead: but go thou, and preach the kingdom of God.

61 [15] Then another ſaid, I will follow thee, Lord: but let me firſt go bid them farewel which are at mine houſe.

62 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, No man that putteth his hand to the plough, and looketh back, is apt to the kingdom of God.

---

[i] Until Chriſt was riſen again from the dead.

[7] Chriſt is offended with nothing ſo much as with incredulity, although he bear with it for a time.

[k] As it fareth in the falling ſickneſs.

[8] We have no cauſe to promiſe ourſelves reſt and quietneſs in this world, ſeeing that they themſelves which ſeemed to fawn upon Chriſt, do ſhortly after crucify him.

[l] Give diligent ear unto them, and when you have once heard them, ſee that you keep them.

[9] The end of ambition is ignominy: but the end of modeſt obedience is glory.

[10] Extraordinary things are neither raſhly to be allowed nor condemned.

[11] Chriſt goeth willingly to death.

[m] Word for word, he hardened his face: that is, he reſolved with himſelf to die, and therefore ventured upon this journey, and caſt away all fear of death, and went on.

[12] We muſt take heed of the immoderateneſs of zeal and fond imitation, even in good cauſes, that whatſoever we do we do it to God's glory, and the profit of our neighbour.

[n] So ſpeak the Hebrews, that is, you know not what will, mind, and counſel you are of: ſo the gifts of God are called the Spirit, becauſe they are given of God's Spirit, and ſo are they that are contrary to them which proceed of the wicked ſpirit of covetouſneſs, of pride, and madneſs.

[13] Such as follow Chriſt, muſt prepare themſelves to ſuffer all diſcommodities.

[14] The calling of God ought to be preferred, without all controverſy, before all duties that we owe to man.

[o] Who notwithſtanding that they live in this frail life of man, yet are ſtrangers from the true life, which is everlaſting and heavenly.

[15] Such as follow Chriſt, muſt at once renounce all worldly cares.

[1] The ſeventy are ſent as the ſecond forewarners of the coming of Chriſt.

[2] The faithful miniſters of the word are in this world as lambs among wolves: but if they be diligent to do their duty, he that ſent them will alſo preſerve them.

[a] This is ſpoken after the manner of a figure, which men uſe when they put down more in words than is meant: uſual among the Hebrews, when they command a thing to be done ſpeedily without delay, as 2 Kings 4. 29. for otherwiſe courteous and gentle ſalutations are points of chriſtian duties: as for this calling, it was but for a ſeaſon.

A. D. 32.

6 And if the [b] ſon of peace be there, your peace ſhall reſt upon him: if not, it ſhall turn to you again.

7 And in that houſe [c] tarry ſtill, eating and drinking ſuch things as by them ſhall be ſet before you: * for the labourer is worthy of his wages. Go not from houſe to houſe.

* Deut. 24. 14. Matt. 10. 10. 1 Tim. 5. 18.

8 * But into whatſoever city ye ſhall enter, if they receive you, [d] eat ſuch things as are ſet before you.

* Matt. 10. 11.

9 And heal the ſick that are there, and ſay unto them, The kingdom of God is come near unto you.

10 [3] But into whatſoever city ſhall ye enter, if they will not receive you, go your ways out into the ſtreets of the ſame, and ſay,

11 Even the very * duſt which cleaveth on us of your city, we wipe off againſt you: notwithſtanding know this, that the kingdom of God was come near unto you.

* Ch. 9. 5. Acts 13. 51. and 18. 6.

12 For I ſay unto you, that it ſhall be eaſier in that day for them of Sodom, than for that city.

13 * Woe be to thee, Chorazin, woe be to thee, Bethſaida: for if the miracles had been done in Tyre and Sidon, which have been done in you, they had a great while agone repented, ſitting in ſackcloth and aſhes.

* Matt. 11. 21.

14 Therefore it ſhall be eaſier for Tyre, and Sidon, at the judgment, than for you.

15 And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted to heaven, ſhall be thruſt down to hell.

16 ¶ * He that heareth you, heareth me: and he that deſpiſeth you, deſpiſeth me: and he that deſpiſeth me, deſpiſeth him that ſent me.

* Matt. 10. 40. John 13. 20.

17 ¶ [4] And the ſeventy turned again with joy, ſaying, Lord, even the devils are ſubdued to us [e] through thy name.

18 And he ſaid unto them, I ſaw Satan, like lightning, [f] fall down from heaven.

19 Behold, I give unto you power to tread on ſerpents and ſcorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing ſhall [g] hurt you.

20 Neverthelefs, in this rejoice not, that the ſpirits are ſubdued unto you: but rather rejoice, becauſe your names are written in heaven.

21 ¶ [5] That ſame hour rejoiced Jeſus in the ſpirit, and ſaid, I confeſs unto thee, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou haſt hid theſe things from the [h] wiſe and underſtanding, and haſt revealed them to babes: even ſo, Father, becauſe it ſo pleaſed thee †.

† Then he turned to his diſciples, and ſaid, is read in ſome copies.

22 [6] All things are given me of my Father: and no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father: neither who the Father is, ſave the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

A. D. 32.

23 ¶ [7] And he turned to his diſciples, and ſaid ſecretly, * Bleſſed are the eyes, which ſee that ye ſee.

* Matt. 13. 16.

24 For I tell you that many prophets and kings have deſired to ſee thoſe things which ye ſee, and have not ſeen them: and to hear thoſe thoſe things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

25 ¶ * [8] Then behold, [i] a certain lawyer ſtood up, and tempted him, ſaying, Maſter, what ſhall I do to inherit eternal life?

* Matt. 22. 35. Mark 12. 28.

26 And he ſaid unto him, What is written in the law? how readeſt thou?

27 And he anſwered, and ſaid, * Thou ſhalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, and with all thy ſtrength, and with all thy thought, * and thy neighbour as thyſelf.

* Deut. 6. 5.

* Lev. 19. 18.

28 Then he ſaid unto him, Thou haſt anſwered right: this do, and thou ſhalt live.

29 [9] But he willing [k] to juſtify himſelf, ſaid unto Jeſus, Who is then my neighbour?

30 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid, A certain man went down from Jeruſalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, and they robbed him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

31 Now ſo it fell out, that there came down a certain prieſt that ſame way, and when he ſaw him, he paſſed by on the other ſide.

32 And likewiſe alſo a Levite, when he was come near to the place, went and looked on him, and paſſed by on the other ſide.

33 Then a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came near unto him, and when he ſaw him, he had compaſſion on him,

34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, and poured in oil and wine, and put him on his own beaſt, and brought him to an inn, and made proviſion for him.

35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out twopence, and gave them to the hoſt, and ſaid unto him, Take care of him: and whatſoever thou ſpendeſt more, when I come again, I will recompenſe thee.

36 Which now of theſe three, thinkeſt thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves?

37 And he ſaid, He that ſhewed mercy on him. Then ſaid Jeſus unto him, Go, and do thou likewiſe.

38 ¶ Now

[b] So ſpeak the Hebrews: that is, he that favoureth the doctrine of peace and embraceth it.

[c] Take up your lodging in that houſe, which ye firſt enter into, that is, be not careful for commodious lodging, as men do which purpoſe to tarry long in a place: for here is not inſtituted that ſolemn preaching of the goſpel, which was uſed afterward, when the churches were ſettled: but theſe are ſent abroad to all the coaſts of Judea, to give them to underſtand, that the laſt jubilee is at hand.

[d] Content yourſelves with that meat that is ſet before you.

[3] God is a moſt ſevere revenger of the miniſtry of his goſpel.

[4] Neither the gift of miracles, neither what elſe ſoever excellent gift, but only our election, giveth us occaſion of true joy. And the only publiſhing of the goſpel is the deſtruction of Satan.

[e] For Chriſt's diſciples uſed no abſolute authority, but wrought ſuch miracles as they did, by calling upon Chriſt's name.

[f] Paul placeth the devil and his angels in the air, as Eph. 6. 12. and he is ſaid to be caſt down from thence by force, when his power is aboliſhed by the voice of the goſpel.

[g] Shall do you wrong.

[5] The church is contemptible, if we behold the outward face of it, but the wiſdom of God is not ſo marvellous in any thing, as in it.

[h] Of this world.

[6] Whoſoever ſeeketh the Father without the Son, wandereth out of the way.

[7] The difference of the Old Teſtament and the New, conſiſteth in the meaſure of revelation.

[8] Faith doth not take away, but eſtabliſheth the doctrine of the law.

[i] One of them, that profeſſed himſelf to be learned in the rites and laws of Moſes.

[9] All they are comprehended in the name of our neighbour, by the law, whomſoever we may help.

[k] That is, to vouch his righteouſneſs, or ſhew that he was juſt, that is, void of all faults: and James 5. uſeth the word of juſtification in this ſenſe.

A. D. 31.

38 ¶ [10] Now it came to paſs, as they went, that he entered into a certain town, and a certain woman named Martha received him into her houſe.

39 And ſhe had a ſiſter called Mary, which alſo ſat at Jeſus' feet, and heard his preaching.

40 But Martha was cumbered about much ſerving: and came unto him, and ſaid, Maſter, doeſt thou not care that my ſiſter hath left me to ſerve alone? bid her therefore that ſhe help me.

41 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto her, Martha, Martha, thou careſt and art troubled about many things:

42 But one thing is needful: Mary hath choſen the good part, which ſhall not be taken away from her.

4 And forgive us our ſins: for even we forgive every man that is indebted to us: And lead us not into temptation: but deliver us from evil.

5 ¶ [2] Moreover he ſaid unto them, Which of you ſhall have a friend, and ſhall go to him at midnight, and ſay unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves:

6 For a friend of mine is come out of the way to me, and I have nothing to ſet before him:

7 And he within ſhould anſwer, and ſay, Trouble me not: the door is now ſhut, and my children are with me in bed: I cannot riſe and give them to thee.

* Matt. 12. 25. Mark 3. 24.

17 [4] But he knew their thoughts, and ſaid unto them, * Every kingdom divided againſt itſelf ſhall be deſolate, and an houſe divided againſt an houſe, falleth.

18 So if Satan alſo be divided againſt himſelf, how ſhall his kingdom ſtand? becauſe ye ſay that I caſt out devils [c] through Beelzebub.

19 If I through Beelzebub caſt out devils, by whom do your children caſt them out? Therefore ſhall they be your judges.

20 But if I by the [d] finger of God caſt out devils, doubtleſs the kingdom of God is come unto you.

21 When a ſtrong man armed keepeth his [e] palace, the things that he poſſeſſeth are in peace.

27 ¶ [7] And it came to paſs, as he ſaid theſe things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and ſaid unto him, Bleſſed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou haſt ſucked.

28 But he ſaid, Yea, rather bleſſed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it.

29 ¶ And

---

[10] Chriſt careth not to be entertained delicately, but to be heard diligently, that is it which he eſpecially requireth.

[1] A form of true prayer.

[a] That is, as much as is needful for us this day; whereby we are not debarred to have an honeſt care for the maintenance of our lives, but that carping care, which killeth a number of men, is cut off and reſtrained.

[2] We muſt pray with faith.

[b] Word for word, impudency: but that impudency which is ſpoken of here, is not to be found fault withal, but is very commendable before God, for he liketh well of ſuch importunity.

[3] An example of horrible blindneſs, and ſuch as cannot be healed, when as upon an evil conſcience, and pretended malice, the power of God is blaſphemed.

[4] The true way to know the true Chriſt from the falſe, is this, that the true Chriſt hath no accord or agreement with Satan. And it remaineth, that after we know him, we acknowledge him.

[c] By the name and power of Beelzebub.

[d] That is, by the power of God: ſo it is ſaid Exod. 8. 19.

[e] The word ſignifieth properly an open and void room before an houſe, and ſo by tranſlation is taken for noblemen's houſes.

[5] Againſt indifferent men, and ſuch as love to have a mean, which ſeek means to reconcile Chriſt and Satan together.

[6] He that doth not continue, is in worſe caſe than he that never began.

[7] Chriſt ſeeketh not praiſe in himſelf, but in our ſalvation.

A. D. 33.

29 ¶ * [8] And when the people were gathered thick together, he began to ſay, This is a wicked generation: they ſeek a ſign, and there ſhall no ſign be given them, but the ſign of * Jonas the prophet. * Matt. 12. 38, 39. * Jonas 1. 11.

30 For as Jonas was a ſign to the Ninevites: ſo alſo ſhall the Son of man be to this generation.

34 * The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is ſingle, then is thy whole body light: but if thine eye be evil, then thy body is dark. * Matt. 6. 22.

35 Take heed therefore, that the light which is in thee be not darkneſs.

36 If therefore thy whole body ſhall be light, having no part dark, then ſhall all be light, even as when a candle doth light thee with the brightneſs.

37 ¶ [10] And as he ſpake, a certain Phariſee beſought him to dine with him: and he went in, and ſat down at table.

38 And when the Phariſee ſaw it, he marvelled that he had not firſt waſhed before dinner.

39 * And the Lord ſaid to him, Indeed ye Phariſees make clean the outſide of the cup, and of the platter: but the inward part is full of ravening and wickedneſs. * Matt. 23. 25.

40 Ye fools, did not he that made that which is without, make that which is within alſo?

41 Therefore give alms [f] of thoſe things which you have, and behold, all things ſhall be clean unto you.

42 [11] But woe be to you, Phariſees: for ye [g] tithe the mint and the rue, and [h] all manner of herbs, and paſs over [i] judgment, and the love of God: theſe ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other undone.

A. D. 33.

43 * [12] Woe be to you, Phariſees: for ye love the uppermoſt ſeats in the ſynagogues, and greetings in the markets. * Ch. 20. 46. Matt. 23 6. Mark 12. 38, 39.

44 [13] Woe be to you, Scribes and Phariſees, hypocrites: * for ye are as graves which appear not, and the men that walk over them, perceive not. * Matt. 23. 27.

45 ¶ [14] Then anſwered one of the lawyers, and ſaid unto him, Maſter, thus ſaying, thou putteſt us to rebuke alſo.

46 And he ſaid, Woe be to you alſo, ye lawyers: * for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourſelves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers. * Matt. 23. 4. Acts 15. 10.

47 [15] Woe be to you: * for ye build the ſepulchres of the prophets, and your fathers killed them. * Matt. 23. 29.

48 Truly [k] ye bear witneſs, and allow the deeds of your fathers: for they killed them, and ye build their ſepulchres.

49 Therefore ſaid the wiſdom of God, I will ſend them prophets and apoſtles, and of them they ſhall ſlay, and [l] perſecute away,

50 That the blood of all the prophets, [m] ſhed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation:

51 From the blood of * Abel unto the blood of * Zacharias, which was ſlain between the altar and the temple: verily I ſay unto you, it ſhall be required of this generation. * Gen. 4. 8. * 2 Chron. 24. 21.

52 [16] Woe be to you, lawyers: for ye have [n] taken away the key of knowledge: ye entered not in yourſelves, and them that came in, ye forbad.

53 [17] And as he ſaid theſe things unto them, the Scribes and Phariſees began to urge him ſore, and to [o] provoke him to ſpeak of many things, 54 Laying wait for him, and ſeeking to catch ſomething of his mouth, whereby they might accuſe him.

[8] They that are fond deſirers of miracles, inſtead of miracles, ſhall receive puniſhment.

[9] Our minds are therefore lightened with the knowledge of God, that we ſhould give light unto others, and therefore our chiefeſt labour ought to be to pray for that light.

[10] The ſervice of God conſiſteth not in outward cleanlineſs and deviſed rites, or ceremonies, but in the ſpiritual righteouſneſs of the heart and charity.

[f] That is, according to your ability: as who would ſay, inſtead of your extortions, which hindered you, that you could not eat cleanly, uſe charity, and, according as your ability ſhall ſerve you, be good to the poor, and ſo ſhall that, that is within the platter, be ſanctified, though the platter be unwaſhed.

[11] It is the property of hypocrites to ſtand ſtoutly for little trifles, and let paſs greater matters.

[g] You decide by God's law, that the tenth part is due to be paid.

[h] Of all kinds of herbs ſome, as Auguſtine expoundeth it in his Enchiridion to Laurence, cap. 99. where he ſheweth, in like ſort, how that place of Paul, 1 Tim. 2. 4. God will have all men to be ſaved, is to be expounded after the ſame manner.

[i] That is to ſay, that is right and reaſon to do: for this word judgment, containeth the commandments of the ſecond table, and the other words, the love of God, containeth the firſt.

[12] Hypocriſy and ambition are commonly joined together.

[13] Hypocrites deceive men with an outward ſhew.

[14] Hypocrites are very ſevere againſt other men, but think all things lawful to themſelves.

[15] Hypocrites honour thoſe ſaints when they are dead, whom they moſt cruelly perſecute when they are alive.

[k] When you perſecute God's ſervants, like madmen, even as your fathers did, though you colour it with a pretence of godlineſs, yet notwithſtanding, in that you beautify the ſepulchres of the prophets, what do you elſe but glory in your fathers cruelty, and ſet up monuments (as it were) in glory and triumph of it?

[l] They ſhall ſo vex and trouble them, that at lengh they ſhall baniſh them.

[m] That you may be called to an account for it, yea, and be puniſhed for the ſhedding of that blood of the prophets.

[16] They have of long time chiefly hindered the people from entering into the knowledge of God, which ought to be the door-keepers of the church.

[n] You have hidden and taken away, ſo that it cannot be found any where.

[17] The more the world is reprehended, the worſe it is, and yet muſt we not betray the truth.

[o] They propoſed many queſtions to him, to draw ſomething out of his mouth, which they might traiterouſly carp at.

A. D. 33.

* Matt. 16. 5. Mark 8. 14. IN *[1] the mean time there gathered together [a] an innumerable multitude of people, ſo that they trod one another: and he began to ſay unto his diſciples firſt, Take heed to yourſelves of the leaven of the Phariſees, which is hypocriſy.

* Matt. 10. 26. Mark 4. 22. 2 * For there is nothing covered, that ſhall not be revealed: neither hid, that ſhall not be known.

3 Wherefore whatſoever ye have ſpoken in darkneſs, it ſhall be heard in the light: and that which ye have ſpoken in the ear, in ſecret places, ſhall be preached on the houſes.

* Matt. 10. 28. 4 *[2] And I ſay unto you, my friends, be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that are not able to do any more.

5 But I will [b] forewarn you, whom ye ſhall fear: fear him, which after he hath killed, hath power to caſt into hell: yea, I ſay unto you, him fear.

6 Are not five ſparrows bought for two farthings, and yet not one of them is forgotten before God?

* 1 Sam. 14. 45. Acts 27. 34. 7 * Yea, and all the hairs of your head are numbered: fear not therefore: ye are more of value than many ſparrows.

* Ch. 9. 26. Matt. 10. 32. Mark 8. 38. 2 Tim. 1. 12. 8 *[3] Alſo I ſay unto you, Whoſoever ſhall confeſs me before men, him ſhall the Son of man confeſs alſo before the angels of God.

9 But he that ſhall deny me before men, ſhall be denied before the angels of God.

* Matt. 12. 31. Mark 3. 28. 1 John 5. 15. 10 * And whoſoever ſhall ſpeak a word againſt the Son of man, it ſhall be forgiven him: but unto him that ſhall blaſpheme the Holy Ghoſt, it ſhall not be forgiven.

* Matt. 10. 19. Mark 13. 11. 11 *[4] And when they ſhall bring you into the ſynagogues, and unto the rulers and princes, take no thought how, or what thing ye ſhall anſwer, or what ye ſhall ſpeak.

12 For the Holy Ghoſt ſhall teach you in the ſame hour what ye ought to ſay.

13 [5] And one of the company ſaid unto him, Maſter, bid my brother divide the inheritance with me.

14 And he ſaid unto him, Man, who made me a judge, or a divider over you?

15 Wherefore he ſaid unto them, Take heed, and beware of [c] covetouſneſs: for though a man have abundance, yet his life [d] ſtandeth not in his riches.

A. D. 33.

16 [6] And he put forth a parable unto them, ſaying, The [e] ground of a certain rich man brought forth fruits plenteouſly.

17 Therefore he [f] thought with himſelf, ſaying, What ſhall I do, becauſe I have no room, where I may lay up my fruits?

18 And he ſaid, This will I do, I will pull down my barns, and build greater, and therein will I gather all my fruits, and goods.

19 And I will ſay to my ſoul, Soul, thou haſt much goods laid up for many years: live at eaſe, eat, drink, and [g] take thy paſtime.

20 But God ſaid unto him, O fool, this night will they fetch away thy ſoul from thee: then whoſe ſhall thoſe things be which thou haſt provided?

21 So is he that gathereth riches [h] to himſelf, and is not rich in God.

22 [7] And he ſpake unto his diſciples, Therefore I ſay unto you, * Take no thought for your life, what ye ſhall eat: neither for your body, what ye ſhall put on. * Matt. 6. 25. 1 Pet. 5. 7. Pſ. 55. 22.

23 The life is more than meat: and the body more than the raiment.

24 Conſider the ravens: for they neither ſow nor reap: which neither have ſtorehouſe nor barn, and yet God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than fowls?

25 And which of you with taking thought can add to his ſtature one cubit?

26 If ye then be not able to do the leaſt thing, why take ye thought for the remnant?

27 Conſider the lilies how they grow: they labour not, neither ſpin they: yet I ſay unto you, that Solomon himſelf in all his royalty was not cloathed like one of theſe.

28 If then God ſo cloath the graſs which is to-day in the field, and to-morrow is caſt into the oven, how much more will he cloath you, O ye of little faith?

29 Therefore aſk not what ye ſhall eat, or what ye ſhall drink, neither [i] hang you in ſuſpenſe.

30 For all ſuch things the people of the world ſeek for: and your Father knoweth that ye have need of theſe things.

---

[1] The faithful teachers of God's word, which are appointed by him for his people, muſt both take good heed of them which corrupt the purity of doctrine with goodly gloſſes, and alſo take pains, through the help of God, to ſet forth ſincere doctrine, openly without fear.

[a] Word for word, ten thouſands of people, a certain number for an uncertain.

[2] Although hypocrites have princes to execute their cruelty, yet there is no cauſe why we ſhould be afraid of them the leaſt jot that may be, ſeeing they can do nothing but what pleaſeth God, and God will not any thing that may be againſt the ſalvation of his elect.

[b] He warneth them of dangers that preſently hang over their heads, for thoſe that come upon the ſudden, do make the greater wound.

[3] Great is the reward of a conſtant confeſſion, and horrible is the puniſhment of the denying of Chriſt, yea, impoſſible to be called back again ſhall the puniſhment be, if upon ſet purpoſe, both with mouth and heart, we blaſpheme a known truth.

[4] It is a great and hard conflict to confeſs the truth, yet he that can do all things, and is almighty, will not be wanting to the weakeſt, which ſtrive and contend in his appointed time.

[5] Chriſt would not for three cauſes be a judge to divide an inheritance. Firſt, for that he would not foſter up and cheriſh the fleſhly opinion that the Jews had of Meſſiah: Secondly, for that he would diſtinguiſh the civil government from the eccleſiaſtical: Thirdly, to teach us to beware of them which abuſe the ſhew of the goſpel, and alſo the name of miniſters, to their own private commodities.

[c] By covetouſneſs is meant that greedy deſire to get, commonly with other men's hurt.

[d] God is the author and preſerver of man's life, goods are not.

[6] There are none more mad than rich men, which hang upon their riches.

[e] Or rather country, for here is ſet forth a man that poſſeſſeth not a piece of ground only, but an whole country, as they do which join houſe to houſe, and field to field, Iſa. 5. 8.

[f] Made his reckoning with himſelf, which is the property of covetous churls, which ſpend their life in thoſe trifles.

[g] Be merry and make good cheer.

[h] Caring for no man but for himſelf, and minding to truſt in himſelf.

[7] An earneſt thinking upon the providence of God, is a preſent remedy againſt the moſt fooliſh and pining carefulneſs of men for this life.

[i] A metaphor taken of things that hang in the air, for they that are careful for this worldly life, and hang upon the arm of man, have always wandering and doubtful minds, ſwaying ſometimes this way, and ſometimes that way.

31 [8] But rather ſeek ye after the kingdom of God, and all theſe things ſhall be caſt upon you.

32 [9] Fear not, little flock: for it is your Father's pleaſure to give you the kingdom.

* Matt. 6. 20.

33 ¶ * [10] Sell that ye have, and [k] give alms: make you bags which wax not old, a treaſure that can never fail in heaven, where no thief cometh, neither moth corrupteth.

34 For where your treaſure is, there will your hearts be alſo.

* 1 Pet. 1. 13.

35 ¶ * [11] Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning.

36 And ye yourſelves like unto men that wait for their maſter, when he will return from the wedding, that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately.

37 Bleſſed are thoſe ſervants, whom the Lord when he cometh ſhall find waking: verily I ſay unto you, he will gird himſelf about, and make them to ſit down at table, and will come forth, and ſerve them.

38 And if he come in the ſecond watch, or come in the third watch, and ſhall find them ſo, bleſſed are thoſe ſervants.

* Matt. 24. 43. Rev. 16. 15. and 3. 3.

39 * Now underſtand this, that if the good man of the houſe had known at what hour the thief would have come, he would have watched and would have not ſuffered his houſe to be digged through.

40 [12] Be ye alſo prepared therefore: for the Son of man will come at an hour when ye think not.

41 Then Peter ſaid unto him: Maſter, telleſt thou this parable unto us, or even to all?

42 And the Lord ſaid, Who is a faithful ſteward and wiſe, whom the maſter ſhall make ruler over his houſhold, to give them their [l] portion of meat in ſeaſon?

43 Bleſſed is that ſervant, whom his maſter when he cometh, ſhall find ſo doing.

44 Of a truth I ſay unto you, that he will make him ruler over all that he hath:

45 But if that ſervant ſay in his heart, My maſter doth defer his coming, and ſhall begin to ſmite the ſervants, and maidens, and to eat, and drink, and to be drunken,

46 The maſter of that ſervant will come in a day when he thinketh not, and at an hour when he is not ware of, and will cut him off, and give him his portion with the unbelievers.

47 ¶ And that ſervant that knew his maſter's will, and prepared not himſelf, neither did according to his will, ſhall be beaten with many ſtripes:

48 But he that knew it not, and yet did commit things worthy of ſtripes, ſhall be beaten with few ſtripes: for unto whomſoever much is given, of him ſhall be much required: and to whom men much commit, [m] the more of him will they aſk.

49 ¶ [13] I am come to put fire on the earth: and what is my deſire, if it be already kindled?

50 Notwithſtanding, I muſt be baptized with a baptiſm: and how am I grieved, till it be ended!

* Matt. 10. 34.

51 * Think ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, nay, but rather debate.

52 For from henceforth there ſhall be five in one houſe divided, three againſt two, and two againſt three.

53 * The father ſhall be divided againſt the ſon, and the ſon againſt the father: the mother againſt the daughter, and the daughter againſt the mother: the mother-in-law againſt her daughter-in-law, and the daughter-in-law againſt her mother-in-law.

* Matt. 16. 2.

54 ¶ [14] Then ſaid he to the people, When ye ſee a cloud [n] riſe out of the Weſt, ſtraightway ye ſay, a ſhower cometh: and ſo it is.

55 And when ye ſee the ſouth wind blow, ye ſay, that it will be hot: and it cometh to paſs.

56 Hypocrites, ye can diſcern the face of the earth, and of the ſky: but why diſcern ye not this time?

57 [15] Yea, and why judge ye not of yourſelves what is right?

* Matt. 5. 25.

58 ¶ * While thou goeſt with thine adverſary to the ruler, as thou art in the way, give diligence in the way, that thou mayeſt be delivered from him, leſt he draw thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the [o] jailor, and the jailor caſt thee into priſon.

59 I tell thee, thou ſhalt not depart thence, till thou haſt payed the utmoſt mite.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Of the Galileans, 4 and thoſe that were ſlain under Siloam. 6 The fig-tree that bare no fruit. 11 The woman vexed with the ſpirit of infirmity, that is, with a diſeaſe brought on her by Satan, is healed. 19 The parable of the grain of muſtard-ſeed. 21 Of leaven. 23 How few ſhall be ſaved. 32 Herod that fox.

THERE [1] were certain men preſent at the ſame ſeaſon, that ſhewed him of the Galileans, whoſe blood [a] Pilate had mingled with their ſacrifices.

2 And

---

[8] They ſhall lack nothing which are careful for the kingdom of heaven.

[9] It is a fooliſh thing not to look for ſmall things at his hands which giveth us freely the greateſt things.

[10] A godly bountifulneſs is a ready way to get true riches.

[k] This is the figure Metonymia, for by this word Alms is meant that compaſſion and friendlineſs of an heart, that tendereth the miſery and poor eſtate of a man, and ſheweth forth itſelf by ſome gift, and hath the name given it in the Greek tongue, of mercy and compaſſion: and therefore he is ſaid to give alms who parteth with ſome thing to another, and giveth to the poor, ſhewing thereby that he pitieth their poor eſtate.

[11] The life of the faithful ſervants of God in this world, is a certain watchful peregrination, having the light of the word going before it.

[12] None have more need to watch, than they that have ſome degree of honour in the houſhold of God.

[l] That is, every month ſuch meaſure of corn as was appointed them.

[m] More than of him, to whom ſo much was not given.

[13] The goſpel is the only cauſe of peace betwixt the godly: and ſo is it the occaſion of great trouble among the wicked.

[14] Men which are very quick of ſight in earthly things, are blind in thoſe things which pertain to the heavenly life, and that through their own malice.

[n] Which appeareth and gathereth itſelf together in that part of the air.

[15] Men that are blinded with the love of themſelves, and therefore are deteſtable and ſtubborn, ſhall bear the reward of their folly.

[o] To him that had to demand and gather the amerciaments, which they were condemned unto, that had wrongfully troubled men. Moreover, the magiſtrates officers make them which are condemned pay that they owe, yea, and oftentimes if they be obſtinate, they do not only take the coſts and charges of them, but alſo impriſon them.

[1] We muſt not rejoice at the juſt puniſhment of others, but rather be inſtructed thereby to repentance.

[a] Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea almoſt ten years, and about the fourth year of his government, which might be about the fifteenth year of Tiberius's reign, Chriſt finiſhed the work of our redemption by his death.

A. D. 33.

2 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Suppoſe ye, that theſe Galileans were greater ſinners than all the other Galileans, becauſe they have ſuffered ſuch things?

3 I tell you, nay: but except ye amend your lives, ye ſhall likewiſe periſh.

4 Or think you that thoſe eighteen, upon whom the tower in [b] Siloam fell, and ſlew them, were ſinners above all men that dwell in Jeruſalem?

5 I tell you, nay: but except ye amend your lives, ye ſhall all likewiſe periſh.

6 ¶ [2] He ſpake alſo this parable, A certain man had a fig-tree planted in his vineyard: and he came and ſought fruit thereon, and found none.

7 Then ſaid he to the dreſſer of his vineyard: Behold, theſe three years have I come and ſought fruit of this fig-tree, and find none: cut it down: why keepeth it alſo the ground [c] barren?

8 And he anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Lord, let it alone this year alſo, till I dig round about it, and dung it.

9 And if it bear fruit, well: if not, then after thou ſhalt cut it down.

10 ¶ [3] And he taught in one of the ſynagogues on the ſabbath day.

11 And behold, there was a woman which had a [d] ſpirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could not lift up herſelf in any wiſe.

12 When Jeſus ſaw her, he called her to him, and ſaid to her, Woman, thou art [e] looſed from thy diſeaſe.

13 And he laid his hands on her, and immediately ſhe was made ſtraight again, and glorified God.

14 [4] And the [f] ruler of the ſynagogue anſwered with indignation, becauſe that Jeſus healed on the ſabbath day, and ſaid unto the people, There are ſix days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the ſabbath day.

15 Then anſwered him the Lord, and ſaid, Hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the ſabbath day looſe his ox or his aſs from the ſtall, and lead him away to the water?

16 And ought not this daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound, lo eighteen years, be looſed from this bond on the ſabbath day?

17 And when he ſaid theſe things, all his adverſaries were aſhamed: but all the people rejoiced at all the excellent things that were done by him.

A. D. 33.

18 ¶ * Then ſaid he, What is the kingdom of God like? or whereto ſhall I compare it?

19 [5] It is like a grain of muſtard-ſeed, which a man took, and ſowed in his garden, and it grew, and waxed a great tree, and the fowls of the heaven made neſts in the branches thereof. * Matt. 13. 31. Mark 4. 31.

20 ¶ * And again he ſaid, Whereunto ſhall I liken the kingdom of God? * Matt. 13. 33.

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three pecks of flour, till all was leavened.

22 ¶ * [6] And he went through all cities and towns, teaching, and journeying towards Jeruſalem. * Matt. 9. 35. Mark 6. 6.

23 Then ſaid one unto him, Lord, are there few that ſhall be ſaved? And he ſaid unto them,

24 * Strive to enter in at the ſtrait gate: for many, I ſay unto you, will ſeek to enter in, and ſhall not be able. * Matt. 7. 13.

25 When the good man of the houſe is riſen up, and hath ſhut to the door, and ye begin to ſtand without, and to knock at the door, ſaying, Lord, Lord, open to us: and he ſhall anſwer and ſay unto you, I know you not whence ye are:

26 [7] Then ſhall ye begin to ſay, We have eaten and drunk in thy preſence, and thou haſt taught in our ſtreets.

27 * But he ſhall ſay, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are: depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. * Mark 7. 23. and 25. 41. Pſ. 6. 8.

28 [8] There ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth, when ye ſhall ſee Abraham and Iſaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, and yourſelves thruſt out at doors.

29 Then ſhall come many from the [g] Eaſt, and from the Weſt, and from the North, and from the South, and ſhall ſit at table in the kingdom of God.

30 * And behold, there are laſt, which ſhall be firſt: and there are firſt, which ſhall be laſt. * Matt. 19. 30. and 20. 16. Mark 10. 31.

31 [9] The ſame day there came certain Phariſees, and ſaid unto him, Depart, and go hence: for Herod will kill thee.

32 Then ſaid he unto them, Go ye and tell that [h] fox, Behold, I caſt out devils, and will heal ſtill [i] to-day, and to-morrow, and the third day I ſhall be [k] perfected.

33 [10] Neverthelefs, I muſt walk to-day, and to-morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a prophet ſhould periſh out of Jeruſalem.

34 * O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, which killeſt the * Matt. 23. 37.

[b] To wit, in the place or river: for Siloam was a ſmall river, from whence the conduits of the city came, whereof John 9. 7. and Iſa. 8. 6. and therefore it was a tower or caſtle built upon the conduit ſide, which fell down ſuddenly and killed ſome.

[2] Great and long ſuffering is the patience of God, but yet ſo that at length he executeth judgment.

[c] Maketh the ground barren in that part which otherwiſe were good for vines.

[3] Chriſt came to deliver us from the bands of Satan.

[d] Troubled with a diſeaſe which Satan brought.

[e] For Satan had the woman bound, as if ſhe had been in chains, inſomuch that for eighteen years ſpace ſhe could not hold up her head.

[4] A lively image of hypocriſy: a reward thereof.

[f] One of the rulers of the ſynagogue, for it appeareth by Mark 5. 22. and Acts 13. 15. that there were many rulers of the ſynagogue.

[5] God beginneth his kingdom with ſmall beginnings, that the unlooked-for proceeding of it may better ſet forth his power.

[6] Againſt them which had rather err with many, than go right with a few; and by that means, through their own ſlowneſs, are ſhut out of the kingdom of God.

[7] He is in vain in the church, which is not of the church, which thing the cleanneſs of life ſheweth.

[8] The caſting-off of the Jews, and the calling of the Gentiles, is foretold.

[g] From all the quarters of the world, and theſe are four of the chiefeſt.

[9] We muſt go forward in the caſe of our calling, through the midſt of terrors, whether they be true or feigned.

[h] That deceitful and treacherous man.

[i] That is, a ſmall time, and Theophylact ſaith, it is a proverb: or elſe, by to-day, we may underſtand the time that now is; and by to-morrow, the time to come, meaning thereby, all the time of his miniſtry and office.

[k] To wit, when the ſacrifice for ſin is ended.

[10] There are no where more cruel enemies of the godly than they which are within the ſanctuary and church itſelf; but God ſeeth it, and will in his time have an account of it.

the prophets, and ſtoneſt them that are ſent to thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together, as the hen gathereth her [1] brood under her wings, and ye would not!

35 Behold, your houſe is left unto you deſolate: and verily I tell you, ye ſhall not ſee me, until the time come that ye ſhall ſay, Bleſſed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

2 The dropſy healed on the ſabbath. 8 The chief places at banquets. 12 The poor muſt be called to our feaſts. 16 Of thoſe that were bid to the great ſupper. 23 Some compelled to come in. 28 One about to build a tower.

AND [1] it came to paſs, that when he was entered into the houſe of [a] one of the chief Phariſees on the ſabbath day, to eat bread, they watched him.

2 And behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropſy.

3 Then Jeſus anſwering, ſpake unto the Lawyers and Phariſees, ſaying, Is it lawful to heal on the ſabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. Then he took him, and healed him, and let him go,

5 And anſwered them, ſaying, Which of you ſhall have an aſs, or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not ſtraightway pull him out on the ſabbath day?

6 And they could not anſwer him again to thoſe things.

7 ¶ [2] He ſpake alſo a parable to the gueſts, when he marked how they choſe out the chief rooms, and ſaid unto them,

8 When thou ſhalt be bidden of any man to a wedding, ſet not thyſelf down in the chiefeſt place, leſt a more honourable man than thou be bidden of him.

9 And he that bade both him and thee, come, and ſay to thee, Give this man room, and thou then begin with ſhame to take the loweſt room.

*Prov.25.5. 10 * But when thou art bidden, go and ſit down in the loweſt room, that when he that bade thee, cometh, he may ſay unto thee, Friend, ſit up higher: then ſhalt thou have worſhip in the preſence of them that ſit at table with thee.

*Ch.18.14. Matt.23.12. 11 * For whoſoever exalteth himſelf, ſhall be brought low: and he that humbleth himſelf, ſhall be exalted.

12 ¶ [3] Then ſaid he alſo to him that had bidden him, * When thou makeſt a dinner, or a ſupper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinſmen, nor thy rich neighbours, *Prov. 3. 9. leſt they alſo bid thee again, and recompence be made thee.

13 But when thou makeſt a feaſt, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind,

14 And thou ſhalt be bleſſed, becauſe they cannot recompenſe thee: for thou ſhalt be recompenſed at the reſurrection of the juſt.

15 ¶ Now when one of them that ſat at table heard theſe things, he ſaid unto him, Bleſſed is he that eateth bread in the kingdom of God.

16 Then ſaid he to him, * A certain man made a great ſupper, and bade many, *Matt.22.1. Rev. 19. 9.

17 And ſent his ſervant at ſupper time to ſay to them that were bidden, Come: for all things are now ready.

18 [4] But they all with [b] one mind began to make excuſe: The firſt ſaid unto him, I have bought a farm, and I muſt needs go out and ſee it: I pray thee have me excuſed.

19 And another ſaid, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excuſed.

20 And another ſaid, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.

21 So that ſervant returned, and ſhewed his maſter theſe things. Then was the good man of the houſe angry, and ſaid to his ſervant, Go out quickly into the [c] ſtreets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind.

22 And the ſervant ſaid, Lord, it is done as thou haſt commanded, and yet there is room.

23 Then the maſter ſaid to the ſervant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that mine houſe may be filled.

24 For I ſay unto you, that none of thoſe men which were bidden ſhall taſte of my ſupper.

25 [5] Now there went great multitudes with him, and he turned, and ſaid unto them,

26 * If any man come to me, and [d] hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and ſiſters: yea, and his own life alſo, he cannot be my diſciple. *Matt. 10. 37.

27 * [6] And whoſoever beareth not his croſs, and cometh after me, cannot be my diſciple. * Ch. 9. 29. Matt. 16.24. Mark 8. 34.

28 For which of you minding to build a tower, [e] ſitteth not down before, and counteth the coſt, whether he hath ſufficient to perform it,

29 Leſt that after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to perform it, all that behold it, begin to mock him,

[2] The reward of pride is ignominy: and the reward of true modeſty is glory.

[3] Againſt them which laviſh out their goods either ambitiouſly, or for hope of recompence; whereas chriſtian charity reſpecteth only the glory of God, and the profit of our neighbour.

[4] The moſt part, even of them to whom God hath revealed himſelf, are ſo mad, that ſuch helps as they have received of God, they willingly turn into lets and hinderances.

4 The parable of the loſt ſheep: 8 Of the groat: 11 And of the prodigal ſon.

‡ Or, drew near.

THEN ‡ reſorted unto [1] him [a] all the Publicans and ſinners to hear him.

2 Therefore the Phariſees and Scribes murmured, ſaying, He receiveth ſinners, and eateth with them.

3 Then ſpake he this parable to them, ſaying,

* Matt. 18. 12.

4 * What man of you having an hundred ſheep, if he loſe one of them, doth not leave ninety and nine in the wilderneſs, and go after that which is loſt, until he find it?

5 And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his ſhoulders with joy.

6 And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends, and neighbours, ſaying unto them, Rejoice with me: for I have found my ſheep which was loſt.

7 I ſay unto you, that likewiſe joy ſhall be in heaven for one ſinner that converteth, more than for ninety and nine juſt men, which need none amendment of life.

8 Either what woman having ten groats, if ſhe loſe one groat, doth not light a candle, and ſweep the houſe, and ſeek diligently till ſhe find it?

9 And when ſhe hath found it, ſhe calleth her friends, and neighbours, ſaying, Rejoice with me: for I have found the groat which I had loſt.

10 Likewiſe I ſay unto you, there is joy in the preſence of the angels of God, for one ſinner that converteth.

11 ¶ [2] He ſaid moreover, A certain man had two ſons.

12 And the younger of them ſaid to his father, Father, give me the portion of the goods that falleth to me. So he divided unto them his ſubſtance.

13 So not many days after, when the younger ſon had gathered all together, he took his journey into a far country, and there he waſted his goods with riotous living.

14 Now when he had ſpent all, there aroſe a great dearth throughout that land, and he began to be in neceſſity.

A. D. 33.

15 Then he went and clave to a citizen of that country, and he ſent him to his farm, to feed ſwine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the huſks that the ſwine ate: but no man gave them him.

17 [3] Then he came to himſelf, and ſaid, How many hired ſervants at my father's have bread enough, and I die for hunger!

18 I will riſe, and go to my father, and ſay unto him, Father, I have ſinned againſt [b] heaven, and before thee,

19 And am no more worthy to be called thy ſon: make me as one of thy hired ſervants.

20 So he aroſe, and came to his father: and when he was yet a great way off, his father ſaw him, and had compaſſion, and ran and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him.

21 [4] And the ſon ſaid unto him, Father, I have ſinned againſt heaven, and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy ſon.

22 Then the father ſaid to his ſervants, Bring forth the beſt robe, and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand, and ſhoes on his feet.

23 And bring the fat calf, and kill him, and let us eat, and be merry:

24 For this my ſon was dead, and is alive again: and he was loſt, but he is found. And they began to be merry.

25 [5] Now the elder brother was in the field, and when he came and drew near to the houſe, he heard melody and dancing.

26 And called one of his ſervants, and aſked what thoſe things meant.

27 And he ſaid unto him, Thy brother is come, and thy father hath killed the fat calf, becauſe he hath received him ſafe and ſound.

28 Then he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 But he anſwered, and ſaid to his father, Lo, theſe many years have I done thee ſervice, neither brake I at any time thy commandment, and yet thou never gaveſt me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends.

30 But when this thy ſon was come, which hath devoured thy goods with harlots, thou haſt for his ſake killed the fat calf.

31 And he ſaid unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine. It was meet that we ſhould make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again: and he was loſt, but he is found.

---

[7] The diſciples of Chriſt muſt be wiſe both for themſelves, and for others: otherwiſe they become the fooliſheſt of all.

[1] We muſt not deſpair of them which have gone out of the way, but according to the example of Chriſt, we muſt take great pains about them.

[a] Some publicans and ſinners came to Chriſt from all quarters.

[2] Men by their voluntary falling from God, having ſpoiled themſelves of the benefits which they received of him, caſt themſelves headlong into infinite calamities: but God of his ſingular goodneſs, offering himſelf freely to them, whom he called to repentance, through the greatneſs of their miſery, wherewith they were tamed, doth not only gently receive them, but alſo enricheth them with far greater gifts, and bleſſeth them with the chiefeſt bliſs.

[3] The beginning of repentance is the acknowledging of the mercy of God, which ſtirreth us to hope well.

[b] Againſt God, becauſe he is ſaid to dwell in heaven.

[4] In the true repentance there is a feeling of our ſins joined with ſorrow and ſhame, from whence ſpringeth a confeſſion, after which followeth forgiveneſs.

[5] Such as truly fear God, deſire to have all men to be their fellows.

A. D. 33.

AND he ſaid alſo unto his diſciples, [1] There was a certain rich man which had a ſteward, and he was accuſed unto him, that he waſted his goods.

2 And he called him, and ſaid unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? Give an account of thy ſtewardſhip: for thou mayeſt be no longer ſteward.

3 Then the ſteward ſaid within himſelf, What ſhall I do? for my maſter taketh away from me the ſtewardſhip: I cannot dig, and to beg I am aſhamed.

4 I know what I will do, that when I am put out of the ſtewardſhip, they may receive me into their houſes.

5 Then called he unto him every one of his maſter's debtors, and ſaid unto the firſt, How much oweſt thou unto my maſter?

6 And he ſaid, An hundred meaſures of oil. And he ſaid unto him, Take thy writing, and ſit down quickly, and write fifty.

7 Then ſaid he to another, How much oweſt thou? and he ſaid, An hundred meaſures of wheat. Then he ſaid to him, Take thy writing, and write fourſcore.

8 And the lord commended [a] the unjuſt ſteward, becauſe he had done wiſely. Wherefore the [b] children of this world are in their generation wiſer than the children of light.

9 And I ſay unto you, Make you friends with the riches of [c] iniquity, that when ye ſhall want, they may receive you into everlaſting [d] habitations.

10 [2] He that is faithful in the leaſt, he is alſo faithful in much: and he that is unjuſt in the leaſt, is unjuſt alſo in much.

11 If then ye have not been faithful in the wicked riches, who will truſt you in the [e] true treaſure?

12 And if ye have not been faithful in [f] another man's goods, who ſhall give you that which is your's?

*Matt. 6. 24.

13 * [3] No ſervant can ſerve two maſters: for either he ſhall hate the one, and love the other: or elſe he ſhall lean to the one, and deſpiſe the other. Ye cannot ſerve God and riches.

14 All theſe things heard the Phariſees alſo, which were covetous, and they ſcoffed at him.

A. D. 33.

15 [4] Then he ſaid unto them, Ye are they which juſtify yourſelves before men: but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly eſteemed among men, is abomination in the ſight of God.

16 * [5] The law and the prophets endured until John: and ſince that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man preſſeth into it. * Matt. 11. 12.

17 * Now it is more eaſy that heaven and earth ſhould paſs away, than that one tittle of the law ſhould fall. *Matt. 5. 18.

18 ¶ * Whoſoever putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and whoſoever marrieth her that is [g] put away from her huſband, committeth adultery. *Matt. 5. 32. and 19. 9. 1 Cor. 7. 11.

19 ¶ [6] There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in [h] purple and fine linen, and fared well and delicately every day.

20 Alſo there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate full of ſores,

21 And deſired to be refreſhed with the crums that fell from the rich man's table: yea, and the dogs came and licked his ſores.

22 And it was ſo that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's boſom. The rich man alſo died, and was buried.

23 And being in hell in torments, [i] he lift up his eyes, and ſaw Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his boſom.

24 Then he cried, and ſaid, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and ſend Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue: for I am tormented in this flame.

25 But Abraham ſaid, Son, remember, that thou in thy life-time receivedſt thy pleaſures, and likewiſe Lazarus pains: now therefore is he comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 Beſides all this, between you and us there is a great gulf ſet, ſo that they which would go from hence to you, cannot: neither can they come from thence to us.

27 [7] Then he ſaid, I pray thee, therefore, father, that thou wouldeſt ſend him to my father's houſe.

[1] Seeing that men oftentimes purchaſe friendſhip to themſelves, by other men's coſts, it is ſhame for us, if with a free and liberal beſtowing of the goods which the Lord hath given us, to that purpoſe we do not pleaſe him, nor procure the good will of our neighbours, ſeeing that by this only means, riches, which are oftentimes occaſions of ſin, are turned to another end and purpoſe.

[a] This parable doth not approve the ſteward's naughty dealing, for it was very theft: but parables are ſet forth to ſhew a thing covertly, and as it were, under a figure to repreſent the truth, though it agree not thoroughly with the matter itſelf: ſo that Chriſt meaneth by this parable to teach us that worldly men are more heedy in the affairs of this world, than the children of God are careful for everlaſting life.

[b] Men that are given to this preſent life, contrary to whom the children of light are ſet. St. Paul calleth thoſe ſpiritual, and the other carnal.

[c] This is not ſpoken of goods that are evil gotten, for God will have our bountifulneſs to the poor proceed and come from a good fountain: but he calleth thoſe riches of iniquity, which men uſe naughtily.

[d] To wit, the poor Chriſtians: for they are the inheritors of theſe tabernacles. Theoph.

[2] We ought to take heed, that for abuſing our earthly function and duty, we be not deprived of heavenly gifts: for how can they uſe ſpiritual gifts aright, who abuſe worldly things?

[e] That is, heavenly and true riches: which are contrary to worldly and flitting ſubſtance.

[f] In worldly goods which are called other mens, becauſe they are committed to our credit.

[3] No man can love God and riches together.

[4] Our ſins are not hidden to God, although they be hidden to men, yea, although they be hidden to them, whoſe ſins they are.

[5] The Phariſees deſpiſed the excellency of the new covenant, in reſpect of the old, being ignorant of the perfect righteouſneſs of the law: and how falſe expounders they were of the law, Chriſt declareth by the ſeventh commandment.

[g] They that gather by this place, that a man cannot be married again after that he hath put away his wife for adultery, while ſhe liveth, reaſon fondly: for Chriſt ſpeaketh of thoſe divorces, which the Jews uſed, of which ſort we cannot take the divorcement for adultery, for adulterers were put to death by the law.

[6] The end of the poverty and miſery of the godly ſhall be everlaſting joy: as the end of the riotouſneſs and cruel pride of the rich ſhall be everlaſting miſery, without all hope of mercy.

[h] Very gorgeouſly and ſumptuouſly, for purple garments were coſtly; and this fine linen, which was a kind of linen that came out of Achaia, was as dear as gold.

[i] Heavenly and ſpiritual things are expreſſed and ſet forth under colours and reſemblances fit for our ſenſes.

[7] Seeing that we have a moſt ſure rule to live by, laid forth unto us in the word of God, raſhly and vainly do men ſeek for other revelations.

A. D. 33.

28 (For I have five brethren) that he may teſtify unto them, leſt they alſo come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham ſaid unto him, They have Moſes and the prophets: let them hear them.

30 And he ſaid, Nay, father Abraham: but if one come to them from the dead, they will amend their lives.

31 Then he ſaid unto him, If they hear not Moſes and the prophets, neither will they be perſuaded, though one riſe from the dead again.

7 ¶ [4] Who is it alſo of you, that having a ſervant plowing, or feeding cattle, would ſay unto him by and by, when he were come from the field, Go, and ſit down at table?

8 And would not rather ſay to him, Dreſs wherewith I may ſup, and gird thyſelf, and ſerve me till I have eaten and drunken, and afterward eat thou, and drink thou?

9 Doth he thank that ſervant, becauſe he did that which was commanded unto him? I trow not.

11 ¶ [6] And ſo it was when he went to Jeruſalem, that he paſſed through the midſt of Samaria, and Galilee.

12 And as he entered into a certain town, there met him ten men that were lepers, which ſtood afar off.

13 And they lift up their voices, and ſaid, Jeſus, Maſter, have mercy on us.

* Lev. 14. 2.

14 And when he ſaw them, he ſaid unto them, * Go, ſhew yourſelves unto the prieſts. And it came to paſs, that as they went, they were cleanſed.

15 Then one of them, when he ſaw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice praiſed God,

16 And fell down on his face at his feet, and gave him thanks: and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid, Are there not ten cleanſed? but where are the nine?

18 There is none found that returned to give God praiſe, ſave this ſtranger.

19 And he ſaid unto him, Ariſe, go thy way, thy faith hath ſaved thee.

20 ¶ [7] And when he was demanded of the Phariſees, when the kingdom of God ſhould come? he anſwered them, and ſaid, The kingdom of God cometh not with [b] obſervation.

21 Neither ſhall men ſay, Lo here, or lo there: for behold, the kingdom of God is [c] within you.

22 [8] And he ſaid unto the diſciples, The days will come, when ye ſhall deſire to ſee [d] one of the days of the Son of man, and ye ſhall not ſee it.

* Matt. 24. 23. Mark 13. 21.

23 * [9] Then they ſhall ſay to you, Behold here, or behold there: but go not thither, neither follow them.

24 For as the lightning, that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven, ſhineth unto the other part under heaven, ſo ſhall the Son of man be in his day.

25 But firſt he muſt ſuffer many things, and be reproved of this generation.

* Gen. 7. 5. Matt. 24. 38. 1 Pet. 3. 20.

[1] The church is of neceſſity ſubject to offences, but the Lord will not ſuffer them unpuniſhed, if any of the leaſt be offended.

[2] Our reprehenſions muſt be juſt, and proceed of love and charity.

[3] God will never be utterly lacking to the godly (although he be not ſo perfectly with them as they would) even in thoſe difficulties which canaot be overcome by man's reaſon.

[a] If you had no more faith, but the quantity of the grain of muſtard-ſeed.

[4] Seeing that God may challenge unto himſelf of right, both us and all that is ours, he can be debtor unto us for nothing, although we labour manfully even unto death.

[5] The moſt perfect keeping of the law which we can perform, deſerveth no reward.

[6] Chriſt doth well even unto ſuch as will be unthankful, but the benefits of God profit them only to ſalvation, which are thankful.

[7] The kingdom of God is not marked of many, although it be moſt preſent before their eyes: becauſe they fondly perſuade themſelves, that it is joined with outward pomp.

[b] With any outward pomp and ſhew of majeſty, to be known by: for there were otherwiſe many plain and evident tokens whereby men might have underſtood that Chriſt was the Meſſias, whoſe kingdom was ſo long looked for: but he ſpeaketh in this place of thoſe ſigns which the Phariſees dreamed of, which looked for an earthly kingdom of Meſſias.

[c] You look about for Meſſias, as though he were abſent, but he is amongſt you, in the midſt of you.

[8] We oftentimes neglect thoſe things when they be preſent, which we afterward deſire when they are gone, but in vain.

[d] The time will come, that you ſhall ſeek for the Son of man with great ſorrow of heart, and ſhall not find him.

[9] Chriſt forewarneth us, that falſe Chriſts ſhall come, and that his glory ſhall ſuddenly be ſpread far and wide through the world, after that the ignominy of the croſs is put out and extinguiſhed.

[10] The world ſhall be taken unawares with the ſudden judgment of God: and therefore the faithful ought to watch continually.

29 But in the day that Lot went out of Sodom, it rained fire and brimſtone from heaven, and deſtroyed them all.

30 After theſe enſamples ſhall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed.

31 [11] At that day he that is upon the houſe, and his ſtuff in the houſe, let him not come down to take it out: and he that is in the field, likewiſe, let him not turn back to that he left behind.

4 And he would not of a long time: but afterward he ſaid with himſelf, Though I fear not God, nor reverence man,

5 Yet becauſe this widow troubleth me, I will do her right, leſt at the laſt ſhe come and [c] make me weary.

6 And the Lord ſaid, Hear what the unrighteous judge ſaith.

A. D. 33.

7 Now ſhall not God avenge his elect, which cry day and night unto him, yea, though [d] he ſuffer long for them?

8 I tell you he will avenge them quickly: but when the Son of man cometh, ſhall he find faith on the earth?

9 ¶ [2] He ſpake alſo this parable unto certain which truſted in themſelves that they were juſt, and deſpiſed other.

10 Two men went up into the temple to pray: the one a Phariſee, and the other a Publican.

11 [3] The Phariſee ſtood and prayed thus with himſelf, O God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men, extortioners, unjuſt, adulterers, or even as this Publican.

12 I faſt twice in the week: I give tithe of all that ever I poſſeſs.

13 But the Publican ſtanding [e] afar off, would not lift up ſo much as his eyes to heaven, but ſmote his breaſt, ſaying, O God, be merciful to me a ſinner.

14 I tell you, this man departed to his houſe juſtified rather than the other: * for every man that exalteth himſelf ſhall be brought low, and he that humbleth himſelf ſhall be exalted. * Ch. 14. 11. Matt. 23. 12.

15 ¶ * [f] They brought unto him alſo babes, that he ſhould touch them. [4] And when his diſciples ſaw it, they rebuked them. * Matt. 19. 13. Mark 10. 13.

16 [5] But Jeſus [g] called them unto him, and ſaid, Suffer the babes to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of ſuch is the kingdom of God.

17 [6] Verily I ſay unto you, whoſoever receiveth not the kingdom of God as a babe, he ſhall not enter therein.

18 * Then a certain ruler aſked him, ſaying, Good maſter, what ought I to do, to inherit eternal life? * Matt. 19. 16. Mark 10. 17.

[11] We muſt take good heed that neither diſtruſt, nor the inticements of this world, nor any reſpect of friendſhip, hinder us the leaſt that may be.

[e] That is, ſhall ſave it, ſo Matthew expoundeth it: for the life that is here ſpoken of, is everlaſting ſalvation.

[12] The only way to continue, is to cleave to Chriſt.

[1] God will have us to continue in prayer, not to weary us, but to exerciſe us; therefore we muſt ſo ſtrive with impatience, that long delay cauſe us not to break off the courſe of our prayers.

[a] Yield to afflictions and adverſities, as they do which are out of heart.

[b] He doth not compare things that are equal, together, but the leſs with the greater: if a man get his right at a moſt unrighteous judge's hands, much more ſhall the prayers of the godly prevail before God.

[c] Word for word, beat me down with her blows, and it is a metaphor taken of wreſtlers, which beat their adverſaries with their fiſts or clubs: ſo do they that are importunate, beat the judge's ears with their crying out, even as it were with blows.

[d] Though he ſeems ſlow in revenging the injuries done to his.

[2] Two things eſpecially make our prayers void and of none effect: confidence of our own righteouſneſs, and the contempt of others: and an humble heart is contrary to both theſe.

[3] Although we confeſs that whatſoever we have, we have it of God; yet are we deſpiſed of God, as proud and arrogant, if we put never ſo little truſt in our own works before God.

[e] Far from the Phariſee in a lower place.

[f] The children were tender and young, in that they were brought, which appeareth more evidently in that, that they were infants: which is to be marked againſt them that are enemies to the baptizing of children.

[4] To judge or think of Chriſt after the reaſon of our fleſh, is the cauſe of infinite corruptions.

[5] The children alſo of the faithful are comprehended in the free covenant of God.

[g] Them that carried the children whom the diſciples drove away.

[6] Child-like innocency is an ornament of Chriſtians.

[7] The inticement of riches carrieth away many from the right way.

him, Yet lackeſt thou one thing. Sell all that ever thou haſt, and diſtribute unto the poor, and thou ſhalt have treaſure in heaven, and come follow me.

23 But when he heard thoſe things, he was very heavy: for he was marvellous rich.

24 [8] And when Jeſus ſaw him very ſorrowful, he ſaid, With what difficulty ſhall they that have riches, enter into the kingdom of God!

25 Surely it is eaſier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 Then ſaid they that heard it, And who then can be ſaved?

27 And he ſaid, The things which are impoſſible with men, are poſſible with God.

* Matt. 19. 27. Mark 10. 28. 28 ¶ * Then Peter ſaid, Lo, we have left all, and have followed thee.

29 [9] And he ſaid unto them, Verily I ſay unto you, there is no man that hath left houſe, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children for the kingdom of God's ſake,

30 Which ſhall not receive much more in this world, and in the world to come life everlaſting.

* Matt. 20. 17. Mark 10. 32. 31 ¶ * [10] Then Jeſus took unto him the twelve, and ſaid unto them, Behold, we go up to Jeruſalem, and all things ſhall be fulfilled to the Son of man, that are written by the prophets.

32 For he ſhall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and ſhall be mocked, and ſhall be ſpitefully intreated, and ſhall be ſpitted on.

33 And when they have ſcourged him, they will put him to death: but the third day he ſhall riſe again.

34 But they underſtood [h] none of theſe things, and this ſaying was hid from them, neither perceived they the things which were ſpoken.

* Matt. 20. 29. Mark 10. 46. 35 ¶ * [11] And it came to paſs, that as he was come near unto Jericho, a certain blind man ſat by the way ſide, begging.

36 And when he heard the people paſs by, he aſked what it meant.

37 And they ſaid unto him, that Jeſus of Nazareth paſſed by.

38 Then he cried, ſaying, Jeſus the Son of David, have mercy on me.

39 [12] And they which went before rebuked him that he ſhould hold his peace, but he cried much more, O Son of David, have mercy on me.

40 And Jeſus ſtood ſtill, and commanded him to be brought unto him. And when he was come near, he aſked him,

41 Saying, What wilt thou that I do unto thee? And he ſaid, Lord, that I may receive my ſight.

42 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Receive thy ſight: thy faith hath ſaved thee.

43 Then immediately he received his ſight, and followed him, praiſing God: and all the people, when they ſaw this, gave praiſe to God.

CHAP. XIX.

2 Zaccheus the Publican. 13 Ten pieces of money delivered to ſervants to occupy withal. 29 Jeſus entereth into Jeruſalem. 41 He foretelleth the deſtruction of the city with tears. 45 He caſteth the ſellers out of the temple.

NOW [1] when Jeſus entered and paſſed through Jericho,

2 Behold, there was a man named Zaccheus, which was the [a] chief receiver of the tribute, and he was rich.

3 And he ſought to ſee Jeſus, who he ſhould be, and could not for the preſs, becauſe he was of a low ſtature.

4 Wherefore he ran before and climbed up into a wild fig-tree, that he might ſee him: for he ſhould come that way.

5 And when Jeſus came to the place, he looked up, and ſaw him, and ſaid unto him, Zaccheus, come down at once: for to-day I muſt abide at thine houſe.

6 Then he came down haſtily, and received him joyfully.

7 [2] And when they all ſaw it, they murmured, ſaying, that he was gone in to lodge with a ſinful man:

8 [3] And Zaccheus ſtood forth, and ſaid unto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor: and if I have taken from any man by [b] forged cavillation, I reſtore him fourfold.

9 Then Jeſus ſaid to him, This day is ſalvation come unto this houſe, foraſmuch as he is alſo become the [c] ſon of Abraham.

10 * For the Son of man is come to ſeek and to ſave that which was loſt. * Matt. 18. 11.

11 [4] And while they heard theſe things, he continued and ſpake a parable, becauſe he was near to Jeruſalem, and becauſe alſo they thought that the kingdom of God ſhould ſhortly appear.

12 He ſaid therefore, * A certain nobleman went into a far country, to receive for himſelf a kingdom, and ſo to come again. * Matt. 25. 14.

[8] To be both rich and godly, is a ſingular gift of God.

[9] They become the richeſt of all, which refuſe not to be poor for Chriſt's ſake.

[10] As ſure and certain as perſecution is, ſo ſure is the glory which remaineth for the conquerors.

[h] Hereby we ſee how ignorant the diſciples were.

[11] Chriſt ſheweth by a viſible miracle, that he is the light of the world.

[12] The more ſtops and letts that Satan layeth in our way, even by them which profeſs Chriſt's name, ſo much the more ought we to go forward.

[1] Chriſt preventeth them with his grace eſpecially, which ſeemed to be furtheſt from it.

[a] The overſeer and head of the Publicans, which were there together: for the Publicans were divided into companies, as we may gather by many places of Cicero's orations.

[2] The world forſaketh the grace of God, and yet is unwilling that it ſhould be beſtowed upon others.

[3] The example of true repentance is known by the effect.

[b] By falſely accuſing any man: and this agreeth moſt fitly to the maſter of the cuſtomers perſon: for commonly they have this trade among them, when they rob and ſpoil the commonweal, they have nothing in their mouths but the profit of the commonweal, and under that colour they play the thieves, inſomuch that if men reprove and go about to redreſs their robbery and ſpoiling, they cry out the commonweal is hindered.

[c] Beloved of God, one that walketh in the ſteps of Abraham's faith: and we gather that ſalvation came to that houſe, becauſe they received the bleſſing as Abraham had, for all of the houſhold were circumciſed.

[4] We muſt patiently wait for the judgment of God, which ſhall be revealed in his time.

[5] There are three ſorts of men in the church: the one ſort fall from Chriſt whom they ſee not: the other, which according to their vocation, beſtow the gifts which they have received of God, to his glory with great pains and diligence: the third live idly, and do no good. As for the firſt,

A. D. 33. livered them ten pieces of money, and ſaid unto them, Occupy till I come.

14 Now his citizens hated him, and ſent an ambaſſage after him, ſaying, We will not have this man to reign over us.

15 And it came to paſs, when he was come again, and had received his kingdom, that he commanded the ſervants to be called to him, to whom he gave his money, that he might know what every man had gained.

16 Then came the firſt, ſaying, Lord, [d] thy piece hath increaſed ten pieces.

17 And he ſaid unto him, Well, good ſervant: becauſe thou haſt been faithful in a very little thing, take thou authority over ten cities.

18 And the ſecond came, ſaying, Lord, thy piece hath increaſed five pieces.

19 And to the ſame he ſaid, Be thou alſo ruler over five cities.

20 [6] So the other came, and ſaid, Lord, behold thy piece, which I have laid up in a napkin:

21 For I feared thee, becauſe thou art a ſtrait man: thou takeſt up that thou layeſt not down, and reapeſt that thou didſt not ſow.

22 Then he ſaid unto him, Of thine own mouth will I judge thee, O evil ſervant. Thou kneweſt that I am a ſtrait man, taking up that I layed not down, and reaping that I did not ſow:

23 Wherefore then gaveſt thou not my money into the [e] bank, that at my coming I might have required it with advantage?

24 And he ſaid to them that ſtood by, Take from him that piece, and give it to him that hath ten pieces.

25 (And they ſaid unto him, Lord, he hath ten pieces.)

*Ch. 8. 18. Matt. 13. 12. and 25. 29. Mark 4. 25. 26 * For I ſay unto you, that unto all them that have, it ſhall be given: and from him that hath not, even that he hath ſhall be taken from him.

27 Moreover, thoſe mine enemies, which would not that I ſhould reign over them, bring hither, and ſlay them before me.

28 ¶ And when he had thus ſpoken, [f] he went forth before, aſcending up to Jeruſalem.

*Matt. 21. 1. Mark 11. 1. 29 * [7] And it came to paſs, when he was come near to Bethphage, and Bethany, beſides the mount which is called the mount of Olives, he ſent two of his diſciples, 30 Saying, Go to the town which is before you, wherein, as ſoon as ye are come, ye ſhall find a colt tied, whereon never man ſat: looſe him, and bring him hither.

31 And if any man aſk you why ye looſe him, thus ſhall ye ſay unto him, Becauſe the Lord hath need of him. A. D. 33.

32 So they that were ſent went their way, and found it as he had ſaid unto them.

33 And as they were looſing the colt, the owners thereof ſaid unto them, Why looſe ye the colt?

34 And they ſaid, The Lord hath need of him.

35 ¶ * So they brought him to Jeſus, and they caſt their garments on the colt, and ſet Jeſus thereon. *Matt. 21. 7. John 12. 14.

36 And as he went, they ſpread their clothes in the way.

37 And when he was now come near to the going down of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the diſciples began to rejoice, and to praiſe God with a loud voice, for all the great works that they had ſeen,

38 Saying, Bleſſed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord: peace in heaven, and glory in the higheſt places.

39 [8] Then ſome of the Phariſees of the company ſaid unto him, Maſter, rebuke thy diſciples.

40 But he anſwered, and ſaid unto them, I tell you, that if theſe ſhould hold their peace, the ſtones would cry.

41 ¶ * [9] And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept for it, *Ch. 21. 6. Matt. 24. 1. Mark 13. 1.

42 [g] Saying, O [h] if thou hadſt even known [i] at the leaſt in this [k] thy day thoſe things which belong unto thy [l] peace! but now are they hid from thine eyes.

43 For the days ſhall come upon thee, that thine enemies ſhall caſt a trench about thee, and compaſs thee round, and keep thee in on every ſide,

44 And ſhall make thee even with the ground, and thy children which are in thee, and they ſhall not leave in thee a ſtone upon a ſtone, becauſe thou kneweſt not [m] that ſeaſon of thy viſitation.

45 ¶ * [10] He went alſo into the temple, and began to caſt out them that ſold therein, and them that bought, *Matt. 21. 13.

46 Saying unto them, It is written, * Mine houſe is the houſe of prayer, * but ye have made it a den of thieves. * Mark 11. 17. Iſa. 56. 7. * Jer. 7. 11.

47 And he taught daily in the temple. And the high prieſts and the Scribes, and the chief of the people, ſought to deſtroy him.

48 But they could not find what they might do to him: for all the people hanged upon him when they heard him.

[f] The diſciples ſtaggered and ſtayed at the matter, but Chriſt goeth on boldly, though death were before his eyes.

[7] Chriſt ſheweth in his own perſon that his kingdom is not of this world.

[8] When they linger which ought to be the chiefeſt preachers and ſetters forth of the kingdom of God, he will raiſe up others extraordinarily in deſpite of them.

[9] Chriſt is not ſimply delighted with the deſtruction, no not of the wicked.

[g] Chriſt breaketh off his ſpeech, which ſheweth partly how he was moved with compaſſion for the deſtruction of the city that was like to enſue: and partly to upbraid them for their treachery and ſtubbornneſs againſt him, ſuch as hath not lightly been heard of.

4 From whence John's baptiſm was. 9 The wickedneſs of the prieſts is noted by the parable of the vineyard and the huſbandmen. 21 To give tribute to Cæſar. 27 He convinceth the Sadducees denying the reſurrection. 41 How Chriſt is the Son of David.

* Matt. 21. 23. Mark 11.27.

AND * [1] it came to paſs, that on one of thoſe days, as he taught the people in the temple, and preached the goſpel, the high prieſts and the Scribes came upon him, with the elders,

2 And ſpake unto him, ſaying, Tell us by what authority thou doeſt theſe things, or who is he that hath given thee this authority?

3 And he anſwered, and ſaid unto them, I alſo will aſk you one thing: tell me therefore:

4 The baptiſm of John, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reaſoned within themſelves, ſaying, If we ſhall ſay, From heaven, he will ſay, Why then believed ye him not?

6 But if we ſhall ſay, of men, all the people will ſtone us: for they be perſuaded that John was a prophet.

7 Therefore they anſwered, that they could not tell whence it was.

8 Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do theſe things.

* Matt. 21. 33. Mark 12. 1. Iſa. 5. 1. Jer. 2. 21.

9 ¶ * [2] Then began he to ſpeak to the people this parable, A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to huſbandmen: and went into a ſtrange country for a great time.

10 And at the time convenient he ſent a ſervant to the huſbandmen, that they ſhould give him of the fruit of the vineyard: but the huſbandmen did beat him, and ſent him away empty.

11 Again he ſent yet another ſervant: and they did beat him, and foully intreated him, and ſent him away empty.

12 Moreover he ſent the third, and him they wounded, and caſt out.

13 Then ſaid the lord of the vineyard, What ſhall I do? I will ſend my beloved ſon: it may be that they will do reverence, when they ſee him.

14 But when the huſbandmen ſaw him, they reaſoned with themſelves, ſaying, This is the heir: come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours.

15 So they caſt him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What ſhall the lord of the vineyard therefore do unto them?

16 He will come and deſtroy theſe huſbandmen, and will give out his vineyard to others. But when they heard it, they ſaid, God forbid.

17 ¶ And he beheld them, and ſaid, What meaneth this then that is written, * The ſtone that the builders refuſed, that is made the head of the corner?

21 And they aſked him, ſaying, Maſter, we know that thou ſayeſt and teacheſt right, neither doſt thou accept [e] man's perſon, but teacheſt the way of God truly.

22 Is it lawful for us to give Cæſar tribute, or no?

23 But he perceived their [f] craftineſs, and ſaid unto them, Why tempt ye me?

24 Shew me a penny. Whoſe image and ſuperſcription hath it? They anſwered, and ſaid, Cæſar's.

30 And the ſecond took the wife, and he died childleſs.

31 Then the third took her: and ſo likewiſe the ſeven died, and left no children.

32 And laſt of all the woman died alſo.

33 Therefore at the reſurrection, whoſe wife of them ſhall ſhe be? for ſeven had her to wife.

34 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, The [g] children of this world marry wives, and are married.

35 But they which ſhall be counted worthy to enjoy that world, and the reſurrection from the dead, neither marry wives, neither are married.

[1] The Phariſees being overcome with the truth of Chriſt's doctrine, move a queſtion about his outward calling, and are overcome by the witneſs of their own conſcience.

[h] That is, men partakers of the reſurrection: for as we ſay truly that they ſhall live indeed, which ſhall enjoy everlaſting bliſs, ſo do they riſe indeed, which riſe to life; though if this word reſurrection be taken generally, it belongeth alſo to the wicked, which ſhall riſe to condemnation, which is not properly life, but death.

[i] That is, before him: a notable ſaying, the godly do not die, though they die here on earth.

[5] Chriſt is ſo the ſon of David, according to the fleſh, that he is alſo his Lord (becauſe he is the everlaſting Son of God) according to the Spirit.

[6] We muſt avoid the example of the ambitious and covetous paſtors.

[k] This is ſpoken, by the figure Metonymia, houſes, for the goods and ſubſtance.

[1] The poor may exceed in bounty and liberality, even the richeſt, according to God's judgment.

[2] The deſtruction of the temple is foretold, that that true ſpiritual building may be built up, whoſe head builders muſt, and ought, to be circumſpect.

[a] Theſe were things that were hanged upon walls and pillars.

[b] Uſing my name.

[3] The true temple of God is built up even in the midſt of incredible tumults, and moſt ſharp miſeries, through invincible patience, ſo that the end thereof cannot be but moſt happy.

[c] This ſhall be the end of your troubles and afflictions, they ſhall be witneſſes both before God and man, as well of the treacherous and cruel dealing of your enemies, as alſo of your conſtancy: a noble ſaying, that the afflictions of the godly and holy men pertain to the witneſs of the truth.

[d] Though you are compaſſed about on all ſides with many miſeries, yet notwithſtanding be valiant and courageous, and bear out theſe things manfully.

[4] The final deſtruction of the whole city is foretold.

[e] By wrath thoſe things are meant, which God ſendeth when he is diſpleaſed.

[f] Word for word, mouth: for the Hebrews call the edge of a ſword, the mouth, becauſe the edge biteth.

[g] When the times are expired, appointed for the ſalvation of the Gentiles, and puniſhment of the Jews. And ſo he paſſeth from the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, to the hiſtory of the latter judgment.

A. D. 33. and in the moon, and in the ſtars, and upon the earth, trouble among the nations with perplexity: the ſea and the waters ſhall roar.

26 [5] And mens hearts ſhall fail them for fear, and for looking after thoſe things which ſhall come on the world: for the powers of heaven ſhall be ſhaken:

27 And then ſhall they ſee the Son of man come in a cloud with power and great glory.

28 And when theſe things begin to come to paſs, then look up, and lift up your heads: * for your redemption draweth near. *Rom. 8. 27.

29 [6] And he ſpake to them a parable, Behold the fig-tree, and all trees,

30 When they now ſhoot forth, ye ſeeing them, know of your own ſelves, that ſummer is then near.

31 So likewiſe ye, when ye ſee theſe things come to paſs, know ye that the kingdom of God is near.

32 Verily I ſay unto you, This age ſhall not paſs, till all theſe things be done:

33 Heaven and earth ſhall paſs away, but my words ſhall not paſs away.

*Rom. 13. 13. 34 * Take heed to yourſelves, leſt at any time your hearts be oppreſſed with ſurfeiting and drunkenneſs, and cares of this life, and leſt that day come on you at unawares.

35 For as a ſnare ſhall it come [h] on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

36 Watch therefore, and pray continually, that ye may be counted worthy to eſcape all theſe things that ſhall come to paſs, and that ye may [i] ſtand before the Son of man.

37 ¶ Now in the day time he taught in the temple, and at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called the mount of Olives.

38 And all the people came in the morning to him, to hear him in the temple.

CHAP. XXII.

3 Judas ſelleth Chriſt. 7 The apoſtles prepare the paſſover. 24 They ſtrive who ſhall be chiefeſt. 31 Satan deſireth them. 35 Chriſt ſheweth that they wanted nothing. 42 He prayeth in the mount. 44 He ſweateth blood. 50 Malchus's ear cut off, and healed. 57, 58, 60 Peter denieth Chriſt thrice. 63 Chriſt is mocked, and ſtricken. 69 He confeſſeth himſelf to be the Son of God.

*Matt. 26. 1. Mark 14. 1. NOW * the [1] feaſt of unleavened bread drew near, which is called the paſſover.

2 And the high prieſts and Scribes ſought how they might kill him: for they feared the people. A. D. 33.

3 * [2] Then entered Satan into Judas, who was called Iſcariot, and was of the number of the twelve. * Matt. 26. 14. Mark 14. 10.

4 And he went his way, and communed with the high prieſts and [a] captains, how he might betray him to them.

5 So they were glad, and agreed to give him money.

6 And he conſented, and ſought opportunity to betray him unto them, when the people were [b] away.

7 ¶ * [3] Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the paſſover [c] muſt be ſacrificed. * Matt. 26. 17. Mark 14. 13.

8 And he ſent Peter and John, ſaying, Go and prepare us the [d] paſſover, that we may eat it.

9 And they ſaid unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare it?

10 Then he ſaid unto them, Behold, when ye be entered into the city, there ſhall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him into the houſe that he entereth in,

11 And ſay unto the good man of the houſe, The Maſter ſaith unto thee, where is the lodging where I ſhall eat my paſſover with my diſciples?

12 Then he ſhall ſhew you a great high chamber trimmed: there make it ready.

13 So they went, and found as he had ſaid unto them, and made ready the paſſover.

14 * [4] And when the [e] hour was come, he ſat down, and the twelve apoſtles with him. * Matt. 26. 20. Mark 14. 17.

15 Then he ſaid unto them, I have earneſtly deſired to eat this paſſover with you, before I [f] ſuffer.

16 For I ſay unto you, Henceforth I will not eat of it any more, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

17 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and ſaid, Take this, and divide it among you.

18 For I ſay unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God be come.

19 * [5] And he took bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave to them, ſaying, This is my body which is given for you: do this in remembrance of me. * Matt. 26. 26. Mark 14. 22. 1 Cor. 11. 24.

20 Likewiſe alſo after ſupper he took the cup, ſaying, This [g] cup is [h] that New Teſtament in my blood, which is ſhed for you.

[5] After divers tempeſts, the Lord will at the length plainly appear to deliver his church.

[6] We muſt be ſober and watchful both day and night for the Lord's coming, that we be not taken at unawares.

[h] On all men wheresoever they be.

[i] You may ſo appear, that you will abide the countenance and ſentence of the judge without fear.

[1] Chriſt is taken upon the day of the paſſover, rather by the providence of his Father, than by the will of men.

[2] God by his wonderful providence cauſeth him to be the miniſter of our ſalvation, who was the author of our deſtruction.

[a] They that had the charge of keeping the temple, which were none of the prieſts and biſhops, as appeareth by the 52d verſe of this chapter.

[b] Without tumult, unwitting to the people which uſed to follow him: and therefore indeed they watched their time, when they knew he was alone in the garden.

[3] Chriſt teacheth his diſciples by a manifeſt miracle, that although he be going to be crucified, yet nothing is hid from him: and therefore that he goeth willingly to death.

[c] By the order appointed by the law.

[d] The Lamb which was the figure of the paſſover. And this is ſpoken by the figure Metonymia, which is very uſual in the matter of the ſacraments.

[4] Chriſt having ended the paſſover according to the order of the law: forewarneth them that this ſhall be his laſt banquet with them, after the manner and neceſſity of this life.

[e] The evening and twilight, at what time this ſupper was to be kept.

[f] I am put to death.

[5] Chriſt eſtabliſheth his new covenant, and his communicating with us with new ſigns.

[g] Here is a double metonymia: for firſt, the veſſel is taken for that which is contained in the veſſel, as the cup, for the wine which is within the cup. Then the wine is called the Covenant or Teſtament, whereas indeed it is but the ſign of the teſtament, or rather of the blood of Chriſt whereby the teſtament was made: neither is it a vain ſign, although it be not all one with the thing that it repreſenteth.

[h] This word, That, ſheweth the excellency of the teſtament, and anſwereth to the place of Jeremiah, chap. 31. 31. where the New Teſtament is promiſed.

A. D. 33.

21 * [6] Yet behold, the [i] hand of him that betrayeth me, is with me at the table.

* Matt. 26. 21. Mark 14. 18. Pſ. 41. 9.

22 [7] And truly the Son of man goeth as it is appointed: but woe be to that man, by whom he is betrayed.

23 Then they began to enquire among themſelves, which of them it ſhould be, that ſhould do that.

* Matt. 20. 25. Mark 10. 41.

24 ¶ * [8] And there aroſe alſo a ſtrife among them, which of them ſhould ſeem to be the greateſt.

25 But he ſaid unto them, The kings of the Gentiles reign over them, and they that bear rule over them, are called [k] bountiful.

26 But ye ſhall not be ſo: but let the greateſt among you be as the leaſt: and the chiefeſt as he that ſerveth.

27 For who is greater, he that ſitteth at table, or he that ſerveth? Is not he that ſitteth at table? And I am among you as he that ſerveth.

28 [9] And ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations.

29 Therefore I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my father hath appointed unto me,

* Matt. 19. 28.

30 * That ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and ſit on ſeats, and judge the twelve tribes of Iſrael.

* 1 Pet. 5. 8.

31 ¶ [10] And the Lord ſaid, Simon, Simon, behold, * Satan hath deſired you, [l] to winnow you as wheat.

32 [11] But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: therefore when thou art converted, ſtrengthen thy brethren.

* Matt. 26. 34. Mark 14. 39. John 13. 38.

33 * [12] And he ſaid unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee into priſon, and to death.

34 But he ſaid, I tell thee, Peter, the cock ſhall not crow this day, before thou haſt thrice denied that thou kneweſt me.

* Matt. 10. 9.

35 ¶ And he ſaid unto them, * When I ſent you without bag, and ſcrip, and ſhoes, lacked ye any thing? And they ſaid, Nothing.

36 [m] Then he ſaid to them, But now he that hath a bag, let him take it, and likewiſe a ſcrip: and he that hath none, let him ſell his coat, and buy a ſword,

* Iſ. 53. 12.

37 For I ſay unto you, That yet the ſame which is written, muſt be performed in me, * Even with the wicked was he numbered: for doubtleſs thoſe things which are written of me, have an end.

38 And they ſaid, Lord, behold, here are two ſwords. And he ſaid unto them, It is enough.

* Matt. 26. 36. Mark 14. 32. John 18. 1.

39 ¶ * And he came out, and went (as he was wont) to the mount of Olives: and his diſciples alſo followed him.

* Matt. 26. 41. Mark 14. 38.

40 * [13] And when he came to the place, he ſaid to them, Pray, leſt ye enter into temptation.

41 [14] And he was drawn aſide from them about a ſtone's caſt, and kneeled down, and prayed,

42 Saying, Father, if thou wilt, take away this cup from me: nevertheleſs, not my will, but thine be done.

43 And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, comforting him.

44 But being in an [n] agony, he prayed more earneſtly: and his ſweat was like [o] drops of blood, trickling down to the ground.

45 [15] And he roſe up from prayer, and came to his diſciples, and found them ſleeping for heavineſs,

46 And he ſaid unto them, Why ſleep ye? riſe and pray, leſt ye enter into temptation.

* Matt. 26. 47. Mark 14. 43. John 18. 3.

47 ¶ * [16] And while he yet ſpake, behold, a company, and he that was called Judas one of the twelve, went before them, and came near unto Jeſus to kiſs him.

48 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Judas, betrayeſt thou the Son of man with a kiſs?

49 [17] Now when they which were about him ſaw what would follow, they ſaid unto him Lord, ſhall we ſmite with the ſword?

50 And one of them ſmote a ſervant of the high prieſt, and ſtruck off his ear.

51 Then Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid, Suffer them thus far: and he touched his ear, and healed him.

52 [18] Then Jeſus ſaid unto the high prieſts, and captains of the temple, and the elders which were come to him, Be ye come out as unto a thief with ſwords and ſtaves?

53 When I was daily with you in the temple, ye ſtretched not forth the hands againſt me: but this is your very hour, and the [p] power of darkneſs.

54 Then

---

[6] Chriſt ſheweth again that he goeth to death willingly, although he be not ignorant of Judas's treaſon.

[i] That is, his practice, ſo uſe the Hebrews to ſpeak, as 2 Kings 14. 19. Is not the hand of Joab in this matter?

[7] Although the decree of God's providence come neceſſarily to paſs, yet it excuſeth not the fault of the inſtruments.

[8] The paſtors are not called to rule, but to ſerve.

[k] Have great titles, for ſo it was the cuſtom to honour princes with ſome great titles.

[9] Such as are partakers of the afflictions of Chriſt, ſhall alſo be partakers of his kingdom.

[10] We muſt always think upon the wait that Satan layeth for us.

[l] To toſs you and ſcatter you, and alſo to caſt you out.

[11] It is through the prayers of Chriſt, that the elect do never utterly fall away from the faith: and that for this cauſe, that they ſhould ſtir up one another.

[12] Chriſt ſheweth that faith differeth much from vain ſecurity, in ſetting before us the grievous example of Peter.

[m] All this talk is by way of an allegory, as if he ſaid, O my friends and fellow ſoldiers, you have lived hitherto as it were in peace: but now there is a moſt ſharp battle at hand to be fought, and therefore you muſt lay all other things aſide, and think upon furniſhing yourſelves in armour. And what this armour is, he ſhewed by his own example, when he prayed afterwards in the garden, and reproved Peter for ſtriking with the ſword.

[13] Chriſt hath made death acceptable unto us, by overcoming in our name all the horrors of death which had joined with them the curſe of God.

[14] Prayers are a ſure ſuccour againſt the moſt perilous aſſaults of our enemies.

[n] This agony ſheweth that Chriſt ſtrove much, and was in great diſtreſs: for Chriſt ſtrives not only with the fears of death as other men uſe to do, for ſo many martyrs might ſeem more conſtant than Chriſt, but with the fearful judgment of his angry Father, which is the fearfulleſt thing in the world; and the matter was, for that he took the burden of all our ſins upon himſelf.

[o] Theſe do not only ſhew that Chriſt was true man, but other things alſo which the godly have to conſider of, wherein the ſecret of the redemption of all mankind is contained in the Son of God his debaſing himſelf to the ſtate of a ſervant: ſuch things as no man can ſufficiently declare.

[15] Men are utterly ſluggiſh, even in their greateſt dangers, until Chriſt ſtir them up.

[16] Chriſt is willingly betrayed and taken, that by his obedience he might deliver us, which were guilty for the betraying of God's glory.

[17] That zeal which carrieth us out of the bounds of our vocation pleaſeth not Chriſt.

[18] Even the very fear of them which took Chriſt proveth partly their evil conſcience, and partly alſo that all theſe things were done by God's providence.

[p] The power that was given to darkneſs to oppreſs the light for a ſeaſon.

A. D. 33.

* Matt. 26. 58.

54 ¶ * Then took they him, and led him and brought him to the high prieſt's houſe. [19] And Peter followed afar off.

* Matt. 26. 58, 59. Mark 14. 66. John 18. 25.

55 * And when they had kindled a fire in the midſt of the hall, and were ſet down together, Peter alſo ſat down among them.

56 And a certain maid beheld him as he ſat by the fire, and having well looked on him, ſaid, This man was alſo with him.

57 But he denied him, ſaying, Woman, I know him not.

58 And after a little while, another man ſaw him, and ſaid, Thou art alſo of them. But Peter ſaid, Man, I am not.

59 And about the ſpace of an hour after, a certain other affirmed, ſaying, Verily, even this man was with him: for he is alſo a Galilean.

60 And Peter ſaid, Man, I know not what thou ſayeſt. And immediately while he yet ſpake, the cock crew.

* Matt. 26. 34. John 13. 38.

61 Then the Lord turned back, and looked upon Peter: and Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he ſaid unto him, * before the cock crow, thou ſhalt deny me thrice.

62 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.

* Matt. 26. 67. Mark 14. 65.

63 ¶ [20] * And the men that held Jeſus, mocked him, and ſtruck him.

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they ſmote him on the face, and aſked him, ſaying, Propheſy who it is that ſmote thee.

65 And many other things blaſphemouſly ſpake they againſt him.

* Matt. 27. 1. Mark 15. 1. John 18. 28.

66 * [21] And as ſoon as it was day, the elders of the people, and the high prieſts, and the Scribes came together, and led him into their council,

67 Saying, Art thou that Chriſt? tell us. And he ſaid unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe it.

68 And if alſo I aſk you, ye will not anſwer me, nor let me go.

69 Hereafter ſhall the Son of man ſit at the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then ſaid they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he ſaid to them, Ye ſay, that I am.

71 Then ſaid they, What need we any further witneſs? for we ourſelves have heard it of his own mouth.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 He is accuſed before Pilate. 7 He is ſent to Herod. 11 He is mocked. 24 Pilate yieldeth him up to the Jews requeſt. 27 The women bewail him. 33 He is crucified. 39 One of the thieves reviletb him. 43 The other is ſaved by faith. 45 He dieth. 53 He is buried.

THEN [1] the whole multitude of them aroſe, and led him unto Pilate.

* Matt. 22. 21. Mark 12. 17.

2 And they began to accuſe him, ſaying, We have found this man [a] perverting the nation, * and forbidding to pay tribute to Cæſar, ſaying, That he is Chriſt, a king.

* Matt. 27. 11. Mark 15. 2. John 18. 33.

3 * And Pilate aſked him, ſaying, Art thou the king of the Jews? And he anſwered him, and ſaid, Thou ſayeſt it.

4 Then ſaid Pilate to the high prieſts, and to the people, I find no fault in this man.

5 But they were the more fierce, ſaying, He moveth the people, teaching throughout all Judea, beginning at Galilee, even to this place.

6 [2] Now when Pilate heard of Galilee, he aſked whether the man were a Galilean.

7 And when he knew that he was of [b] Herod's juriſdiction, he ſent him to Herod, which was alſo at Jeruſalem in thoſe days.

8 And when Herod ſaw Jeſus, he was exceedingly glad: for he was deſirous to ſee him of a long ſeaſon, becauſe he had heard many things of him, and truſted to have ſeen ſome ſign done by him.

9 Then queſtioned he with him of many things: but he anſwered him nothing.

10 The high prieſts alſo and the Scribes ſtood forth, and accuſed him vehemently.

11 And Herod with his [c] men of war, deſpiſed him, and mocked him, and arrayed him in white, and ſent him again to Pilate.

12 [3] And the ſame day Pilate and Herod were made friends together: for before they were enemies one to another.

13 ¶ [4] Then Pilate called together the high prieſts, and the [d] rulers, and the people,

* Matt. 27. 23. Mark 15. 14. John 18. 3

14 * And ſaid unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverted the people: and behold, I have examined him before you, and have found no fault in this man, of thoſe things whereof ye accuſe him:

15 No, nor yet Herod: for I ſent you to him: and lo, nothing worthy of death is done of him.

16 [5] I will therefore chaſtiſe him, and let him looſe.

17 (For of neceſſity he muſt have let one looſe unto them at the feaſt)

18 Then all the multitude cried at once, ſaying, Away with him, and deliver unto us Barabbas.

19 Which for a certain inſurrection made in the city, and murder, was caſt into priſon.

20 Then Pilate ſpake again to them, willing to let Jeſus looſe.

21 But they cried, ſaying, Crucify, crucify him.

22 And

[19] We have to behold in Peter an example both of the frailty of man's nature, and of the ſingular goodneſs of God towards his elect.

[20] Chriſt bare the ſhame that was due to our ſins.

[21] Chriſt is wrongfully condemned of blaſphemy before the high prieſts judgment ſeat, that we might be quit before God from the blaſphemy which we deſerved.

[1] Chriſt who is now ready to ſuffer for the ſedition which we raiſed in this world, is firſt of all pronounced guiltleſs, that it might appear that he ſuffered not for his own ſins, (which were none) but for ours.

[a] Currupting the people, and leading them into errors.

[2] Chriſt is a laughing-ſtock to princes, but to their great ſmart.

[b] This was Herod Antipas, the tetrarch, in the time of whoſe government, which was almoſt the ſpace of 22 years, John the Baptiſt preached, and was put to death, and Jeſus Chriſt alſo died and roſe again, and the apoſtles began to preach, and divers things were done at Jeruſalem, almoſt ſeven years after Chriſt's death. This Herod was ſent into baniſhment to Lyons, about the ſecond year of Caius Cæſar.

[c] Accompanied with his nobles and ſoldiers, which followed him from Galilee.

[3] The hatred of godlineſs joineth the wicked together.

[4] Chriſt is quit the ſecond time, even of him of whom he is condemned, that it might appear, how he being juſt, redeemed us which were unjuſt.

[d] Thoſe whom the Jews called the Sanhedrin.

[5] The wiſdom of the fleſh, of two evils chuſeth the leſs, but God curſeth ſuch counſels.

22 [6] And he ſaid unto them the third time, But what evil hath he done? I find no cauſe of death in him: I will therefore chaſtiſe him, and let him looſe.

23 But they were inſtant with loud voices, and required that he might be crucified: and the voices of them and of the high prieſts prevailed.

24 So Pilate gave ſentence, that it ſhould be as they required.

25 And he let looſe unto them him that for inſurrection and murder was caſt into priſon, whom they deſired, and delivered Jeſus to do with him what they would.

27 [8] And there followed him a great multitude of people, and of women, which women bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jeſus turned back unto them, and ſaid, Daughters of Jeruſalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourſelves, and for your children.

29 For behold, the days will come, when men ſhall ſay, Bleſſed are the barren, and the womb that never bare, and the paps that never gave ſuck.

32 * And there were two others, which were evil doers, led with him to be ſlain.

33 [9] And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the evil doers: one at the right hand, and the other at the left.

34 [10] Then ſaid Jeſus, Father, forgive them: for they know not what they do. And they parted his raiment, and caſt lots.

35 And the people ſtood, and beheld: and the rulers mocked him with them, ſaying, He ſaved others: let him ſave himſelf, if he be that Chriſt, the [f] choſen of God.

36 The ſoldiers alſo mocked him, and came and offered him vinegar,

37 And ſaid, If thou be the king of the Jews, ſave thyſelf.

38 [11] And a ſuperſcription alſo was written over him, in Greek letters, and in Latin, and in Hebrew, THIS IS THAT KING OF THE JEWS.

39 ¶ [g] And [12] one of the evil doers, which were hanged, railed on him, ſaying, If thou be that Chriſt, ſave thyſelf and us.

40 But the other anſwered, and rebuked him, ſaying, Feareſt thou not God, ſeeing thou art in the ſame condemnation?

41 We are indeed righteouſly here: for we receive things worthy of that we have done: but this man hath done nothing [h] amiſs.

42 And he ſaid unto Jeſus, Lord, remember me, when thou comeſt into thy kingdom.

43 Then Jeſus ſaid unto him, Verily I ſay unto thee, to-day ſhalt thou be with me in [i] Paradiſe.

44 ¶ [13] And it was about the ſixth hour: and there was a darkneſs over all the land, until the ninth hour.

48 And all the people that came together to that ſight, beholding the things which were done, ſmote their breaſts, and returned.

51 (He did not conſent to the counſel and deed of them) which was of Arimathea, a city of the Jews: who alſo himſelf waited for the kingdom of God.

52 He went unto Pilate, and aſked the body of Jeſus,

53 And took it down: and wrapped it in a linen cloth, and laid it in a tomb hewn out of a rock, wherein was never man yet laid.

54 And that day was the preparation, and the ſabbath [k] drew on.

55 [18] And the women alſo that followed after, which came with him from Galilee, beheld the ſepulchre, and how his body was laid.

[6] Chriſt is quit the third time, before he was condemned once, that it might appear how that our ſins were condemned in him.

[7] An example of the outrageouſneſs and diſorder of ſoldiers.

[8] The triumph of the wicked hath a moſt horrible end.

[c] As if he ſaid, If they do thus to me that am fruitful and always flouriſhing, and who live for ever, by reaſon of my Godhead, what will they do to you that are unfruitful, and void of all lively righteouſneſs?

[9] Chriſt became accurſed for us upon the croſs, ſuffering the puniſhment which they deſerved that would be God's.

[10] Chriſt, in praying for his enemies, ſheweth that he is both the Sacrifice and the Prieſt.

[f] Whom God loveth more than all other.

[11] Pilate at unawares is made a preacher of the kingdom of Chriſt.

[g] Therefore either we muſt take that ſpoken by Synechdoche, which Matthew ſaith, or that both of them mocked Chriſt. But one of them at length, overcome with the great patience of God, brake forth into that confeſſion worthy all memory.

[12] Chriſt in the midſt of the humbling himſelf upon the croſs, ſheweth indeed, that he hath both power of life to ſave the believers, and of death to revenge the rebellious.

[h] More than he ought.

[i] God made the viſible Paradiſe in the eaſt part of the world: but that which we behold with the eyes of our mind is the place of everlaſting joy and ſalvation, through the goodneſs and mercy of God, a moſt pleaſant reſt of the ſouls of the godly, and a moſt quiet and joyful dwelling.

[13] Chriſt being even at the point of death, ſheweth himſelf to be God Almighty, even to the blind.

[14] Chriſt entereth ſtoutly into the very darkneſs of death, for to overcome death even within his moſt ſecret places.

[15] Chriſt cauſeth his very enemies to give honourable witneſs on his ſide, ſo oft as it pleaſeth him.

[16] Chriſt gathereth together, and defendeth his little flock, in the midſt of the tormentors.

[17] Chriſt through his famous burial, confirmeth the truth both of his death and reſurrection, by the plain and evident witneſs of Pilate.

[k] Word for word, dawning, as now beginning, for the light of the former day drew toward the going down, and that was the day of preparation for the feaſt, which was to be kept the day following.

[18] Chriſt being ſet upon by the devil, and all his inſtruments, and being even in death's mouth, ſetteth weak women in his fore-ward, minding ſtraightway to triumph over thoſe terrible enemies, without any great endeavour.

A. D. 33.

56 And they returned, and prepared odours, and ointments, and reſted the ſabbath day according to the commandment.

C H A P. XXIV.

1 The women came to the ſepulchre. 9 They report that which they heard of the angels unto the apoſtles. 13 Chriſt doth accompany two going to Emmaus. 27 He expoundeth the ſcriptures unto them. 39 He offereth himſelf to his apoſtles to be handled. 49 He promiſeth the Holy Ghoſt. 51 He is carried up into heaven.

* Mark 16. 1. John 20. 1. NOW the * [1] firſt day of the week [a] early in the morning, they came to the ſepulchre, and brought the odours, which they had prepared, and certain women with them.

2 And they found the ſtone rolled away from the ſepulchre,

3 And went in, but found not the body of the Lord Jeſus.

4 And it came to paſs, that as they were amazed thereat, behold, two men ſuddenly ſtood by them in ſhining veſtures.

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they ſaid to them, Why ſeek ye him that liveth, among the dead?

* Ch. 9. 22. Matt. 17. 23. Mark 9. 31. 6 He is not here, but is riſen: remember * how he ſpake unto you, when he was yet in Galilee,

7 Saying, that the Son of man muſt be delivered into the hands of ſinful men, and be crucified, and the third day riſe again.

8 And they remembered his words,

9 [2] And returned from the ſepulchre, and told all theſe things unto the eleven, and to all the remnant.

10 Now it was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women with them, which told theſe things unto the apoſtles.

11 But their words ſeemed unto them as a feigned thing, neither believed they them.

* John 20. 6. 12 * [3] Then aroſe Peter, and ran unto the ſepulchre, and [b] looked in, and ſaw the linen clothes laid by themſelves, and departed, wondering in himſelf at that which was come to paſs.

* Mark 16. 12. 13 ¶ * [4] And behold, two of them went that ſame day to a town which was from Jeruſalem about threeſcore furlongs, called Emmaus.

14 And they talked together of all theſe things that were done.

15 And it came to paſs, as they communed together, and reaſoned, that Jeſus himſelf drew near, and went with them.

16 [c] But their eyes were holden, that they could not know him.

17 And he ſaid unto them, What manner of communications are theſe that ye have one to another as ye walk and are ſad?

18 And [d] the one (named Cleopas) anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Art thou only a ſtranger in Jeruſalem, and haſt not known the things that are come to paſs therein in theſe days?

19 And he ſaid unto them, What things? And they ſaid unto him, Of Jeſus of Nazareth, which was a prophet, mighty in deed and in word before God, and all the people.

20 [5] And how the high prieſts and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

21 But we truſted that it had been he that ſhould have delivered Iſrael: and as touching all theſe things, to-day is the third day, that they were done.

22 Yea, and certain women among us made us aſtoniſhed, which came early unto the ſepulchre,

23 And when they found not his body, they came, ſaying, that they had alſo ſeen a viſion of angels, which ſaid, that he was alive.

24 Therefore certain of them which were with us, went to the ſepulchre, and found it even ſo as the women ſaid, but him they ſaw not.

25 Then he ſaid unto them, O fools and ſlow of heart to believe all that the prophets have ſpoken!

26 Ought not Chriſt to have ſuffered theſe things, and to enter into his glory?

27 And he began at Moſes, and at all the prophets, and interpreted unto them in all the ſcriptures the things which were written of him.

28 And they drew near unto the town which they went to, but he made as though he would have gone further.

29 But they conſtrained him, ſaying, Abide with us: for it is towards night, and the day is far ſpent. So he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to paſs, as he ſat at table with them, he took the bread, and bleſſed, and brake it, and gave it to them.

31 Then their eyes were opened, and they knew him: and he was [e] no more ſeen of them.

32 And they ſaid between themſelves, Did not our hearts burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and when he opened to us the ſcriptures?

33 And they roſe up the ſame hour, and returned to Jeruſalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them,

34 Which ſaid, The Lord is riſen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon.

35 Then they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in [f] breaking of bread.

36 And

[1] Poor ſilly women even beſide their expectation are choſen to be the firſt witneſſes of the reſurrection, that there might be no ſuſpicion either of deceit or violence.

[a] Very early, as Mark ſaith: or as John ſaith, while it was yet dark, that is, when it was yet ſcarce the dawning of the day.

[2] The cowardly and daſtardly mind of the diſciples is upbraided by the ſtout courage of women (ſo wrought by God's great mercies) to ſhew that the kingdom of God conſiſteth in an extraordinary power.

[3] Chriſt uſeth the incredulity of his diſciples, to the fuller ſetting forth of the truth of his reſurrection, leſt they ſhould ſeem to have believed that too lightly, which they preached afterward to all the world.

[b] As it were holding down his head, and bowing his neck, looked diligently in.

[4] The reſurrection is proved by two other witneſſes, which ſaw it, and that it was no forged thing framed of purpoſe in their own brains, all the circumſtances do declare.

[c] Were holden back and ſtayed, God ſo appointing it, no doubt: and therefore his body was not inviſible, but their eyes were dimmed.

[d] Some of the old fathers think that the other diſciple was this our Evangeliſt, but Epiphanius writing againſt the Saturnalians ſaith, it was Nathaniel; but all theſe are uncertainties.

[5] It appeareth by the conferring of the forewarnings of the prophets, that all theſe things are true and certain which the evangeliſts have put down in their writing of Chriſt.

[e] Suddenly taken away, and therefore we may not imagine that he was there in ſuch a body as could not be ſeen, but believe indeed that he changed his place.

[f] When he brake bread, which that people uſed, as the Jews uſe yet at this day at the beginning of their meals, and ſay a prayer.

A. D. 33.

36 ¶ * [6] And as they ſpake theſe things, Jeſus himſelf ſtood in the midſt of them, and ſaid unto them, Peace be to you.

* Mark 16. 14. John 20. 19.

37 But they were abaſhed and afraid, ſuppoſing that they had ſeen a ſpirit.

38 Then he ſaid unto them, Why are ye troubled? and wherefore do [g] doubts ariſe in your hearts?

39 Behold mine hands and my feet, for it is I myſelf: handle me and ſee: for a ſpirit hath not fleſh and bones, as ye ſee me have.

40 And when he had thus ſpoken, he ſhewed them his hands and feet.

41 And while they yet believed not for joy, and wondered, he ſaid unto them, Have ye here any meat?

42 And they gave him a piece of a broiled fiſh, and of an honeycomb.

43 And he took it, and did eat before them.

44 [7] And he ſaid unto them, Theſe are the words which I ſpake unto you while I was yet with you, that all muſt be fulfilled which are written of me in the law of Moſes, and in the prophets, and in the Pſalms.

45 Then opened he their underſtanding, that they might underſtand the ſcriptures, A. D. 33.

46 And ſaid unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Chriſt to ſuffer, and to riſe again from the dead the third day,

47 And that repentance and remiſſion of ſins ſhould be preached in his name among all nations, [h] beginning at Jeruſalem.

48 Now ye are witneſſes of theſe things.

49 And behold, I do ſend the * promiſe of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jeruſalem, [i] until ye be endued with the power from on high. * John 15. 26. Acts 1. 4.

50 [8] Afterward he led them out into Bethany, and lift up his hands and bleſſed them.

51 And it came to paſs, that as he bleſſed them, * he departed from them, and was carried up into heaven. * Mark 16. 19. Acts 1. 9.

52 And they worſhipped him, and returned to Jeruſalem with great joy,

53 And were continually in the temple, praiſing and lauding God, Amen.

[6] The Lord himſelf ſheweth by certain and neceſſary ſigns, that he was riſen again, and that in the ſame body which he took upon him.

[g] Divers and doubtful thoughts which fall oft into men's heads, when any ſtrange thing falleth out, whereof there is no great likelihood.

[7] The preaching of the goſpel, which was promiſed to the prophets, and performed in his time, is committed unto the apoſtles: the ſum whereof is, Repentance and remiſſion of ſins.

[h] The apoſtles, who are the preachers of the goſpel, beginning at Jeruſalem.

[i] Until the Holy Ghoſt come down from heaven upon you.

[8] Chriſt aſcendeth into heaven, and departing bodily from his diſciples, filleth their hearts with the Holy Ghoſt.

[1] The Son of God is of one and the ſelf-ſame eternity or everlaſtingneſs, and of one and the ſelf-ſame eſſence or nature with the Father.

[a] From the beginning, as the evangeliſt ſaith, 1 Epiſtle 1. 1. as though he ſaid, that the Word began not then to have his being, when God began to make all that was made: for the Word was even then when all things that were made, began to be made, and therefore he was before the beginning of all things.

[b] He had his being.

[c] This word That, pointeth out unto us a peculiar and choice thing above all others, and putteth a difference between this Word, which is the Son of God, and the laws of God, which otherwiſe are called the word of God.

[d] This word With, pointeth out the diſtinction of perſons unto us.

[e] This word (Word) is the firſt in order in the ſentence, and is that which the learned call (Subjectum) and this word (God) is the latter in order, and the ſame which the learned call (Prædicatum).

[2] The Son of God declareth that ſame his everlaſting Godhead, both by the creating of all things, and alſo by the preſerving of them, and eſpecially by the excellent gifts of reaſon and underſtanding, wherewith he hath beautified man above all other creatures.

[f] Paul expoundeth this place, Col. 1. 15. and 16 verſes.

[g] That is, as the Father did work, ſo did the Son work with him: for, he was fellow-worker with him.

[h] Of all thoſe things which were made, nothing was made without him.

[i] That is, by him: and it is ſpoken after the manner of the Hebrews, meaning thereby that by his force and working power, all life cometh to the world.

[k] To wit, even then, when all things are made by him: for elſe he would have ſaid, Life is in him, and not life was.

[l] That force of reaſon and underſtanding, which is kindled in our minds to acknowledge him, the author of ſo great a benefit.

[3] The light of men is turned into darkneſs, but yet ſo, that there is clearneſs enough to make them without excuſe.

[m] They could not perceive nor reach unto it, to receive any light of it, no, they did not ſo much as acknowledge him.

[4] There is another more full manifeſtation of the Son of God, to the conſideration whereof men are in good time ſtirred up, even by John's voice, who is as it were the herald of Chriſt.

A. D. 33. neſs of that light, that all men [n] through him might believe.

8 He was not [o] that light, but was ſent to bear witneſs of that light.

9 [5] This was [p] that true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

* Heb. 11. 3. 10 [q] He was in the world, and the world was * made by him: and the world knew him not.

11 He came [r] unto his own, and his own received him not.

12 [6] But as many as received him, to them he gave [s] prerogative to be the ſons of God, even to them that believe in his name.

13 Which are born not of blood, nor of the [t] will of the fleſh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

* Matt. 1. 16. * Matt. 17. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 17. 14 * [7] And that Word was made [u] fleſh, and [x] dwelt among us, (and we * ſaw the [y] glory thereof, [z] as the glory of the only begotten Son of the Father) [a] full of grace and truth.

15 ¶ [8] John bare witneſs of him, and cried, ſaying, This was he of whom I ſaid, He that cometh [b] after me, was [c] before me: for he was better than I.

* Col. 1. 19. and 2. 9. 16 * [9] And of his fullneſs have all we received, and [d] grace for grace:

17 For the law was given by Moſes, but grace and truth came by Jeſus Chriſt.

* 1 Tim. 6. 16. 1 John 4. 12. 18 [10] * No man hath ſeen God at any time: that only begotten Son, which is in the [e] boſom of the Father, he hath [f] declared him. A. D. 33.

19 ¶ [11] Then this is the record of John, when the Jews ſent prieſts and Levites from Jeruſalem, to aſk him, Who art thou?

20 And he [g] confeſſed, and [h] denied not, and ſaid plainly, I * am not that Chriſt. * Acts 13. 25.

21 And they aſked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he ſaid, [i] I am not. Art thou [k] that prophet? And he anſwered, No.

22 Then ſaid they unto him, Who art thou, that we may give an anſwer to them that ſent us? What ſayeſt thou of thyſelf?

23 He ſaid, I am * the voice of him that crieth in the wilderneſs, Make ſtraight the way of the Lord, as ſaid the prophet Eſaias. * Iſa. 40. 3. Matt. 3. 3. Luke 3. 4.

24 [12] Now they which were ſent were of the Phariſees.

25 And they aſked him, and ſaid unto him, [l] Why baptizeſt thou then, if thou be not that Chriſt, neither Elias, nor that prophet?

26 John anſwered them, ſaying, I baptize with water: but there is one [m] among you, whom ye know not:

27 * He it is that cometh after me, which was before me, whoſe ſhoe latchet I am not worthy to unlooſe. * Matt. 3. 11. Mark 1. 7. Luke 3. 16. Acts 1. 5. and 11. 16. and 19. 4.

28 Theſe things were done in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John did baptize.

29 The

---

[n] Through John.

[o] That light which we ſpake of, to wit, Chriſt, who only can lighten our darkneſs.

[5] When as the Son of God ſaw that men did not acknowledge him by his works, although they were endued with underſtanding (which he had given to them all) he exhibited himſelf unto his people, to be ſeen of them with their corporeal eyes: yet neither did they ſo acknowledge him, nor receive him.

[p] Who only and properly deſerveth to be called the light, for he ſhineth of himſelf, and borroweth light of none.

[q] The perſon of the Word, was made manifeſt even at that time when the world was made.

[r] The Word ſhewed himſelf again, when he came in the fleſh.

[6] The Son being ſhut out of the moſt of his people, and acknowledged but of a few, doth regenerate them by his own virtue and power, and receiveth them into that honour which is common to all the children of God, that is, to be the ſons of God.

[s] He vouchſafed to give them this prerogative, to take them to be his children.

[t] Of that groſs and corrupt nature of man, which is throughout the ſcriptures ſet as enemy to the ſpirit.

[7] That Son who is God from everlaſting took upon him man's nature, that one and the ſelf-ſame might be both God and man, which manifeſtly appeared to many witneſſes that ſaw him, amongſt whom he was converſant, and unto whom by ſure and undoubted arguments he ſhewed both his natures.

[u] That is, man: ſo that the part is taken for the whole by the figure Synechdoche: for he took upon him all our whole nature, that is to ſay, a true body, and a true ſoul.

[x] For a ſeaſon, and when that was ended, he went up into heaven, for the word which he uſeth is taken from tents: and yet notwithſtanding his abſence from us in body is not ſuch, but that he is always preſent with us, though not in fleſh, yet by the virtue of his Spirit.

[y] The glory which he ſpeaketh of here is that manifeſtation of Chriſt his majeſty, which was as it were laid open before our eyes when the Son of God appeared in the fleſh.

[z] This word (as) doth not in this place betoken a likelineſs, but the truth of the matter, for his meaning is this, that we ſaw ſuch a glory as beſeemed and was meet for the true and only begotten Son of God, who is Lord and King over all the whole world.

[a] He was not only a partaker of grace and truth, but was full of the very ſubſtance of grace and truth.

[8] John is a faithful witneſs of the excellency of Chriſt.

[b] That is, He before whom I am ſent to prepare him the way: ſo that theſe words are referred to the time of his calling, and not of his age, for John was ſix months older than he.

[c] This ſentence hath in it a turning of the reaſon, as we call it; as who ſhould ſay, a ſetting of that firſt, which ſhould be laſt, and that laſt which ſhould be firſt: for in plain ſpeech this it is, He that cometh after me, is better than I am, for he was before me. The like kind of turning the reaſon we find in Luke 7. 47. Many ſins are forgiven her, becauſe ſhe loved much; which is thus much to ſay, She loved much, becauſe many ſins are forgiven her.

[9] Chriſt is the moſt plentiful fountain of all goodneſs, but then he poured out his gifts moſt bountifully, when as he exhibited and ſhewed himſelf to the world.

[d] That is, grace upon grace, as a man would ſay, graces heaped one upon another.

[10] The true knowledge of God proceedeth only from Jeſus Chriſt.

[e] Who is neareſt to his Father, not only in reſpect of his love towards him, but by the bond of nature, and for that union or oneneſs that is between them, whereby the Father and the Son are one.

[f] Revealed him and ſhewed him unto us, whereas before he was hid under the ſhadows of the law, ſo that the quickneſs of the ſight of our minds was not able to perceive him; for whoſoever ſeeth him, ſeeth the Father alſo.

[11] John is neither the Meſſias, nor like to any of the other prophets, but is the herald of Chriſt who is now preſent.

[g] He did acknowledge him, and ſpake of him plainly and openly.

[h] This rehearſing of the one and the ſelf-ſame thing, though in divers words, is uſed much of the Hebrews, and it hath great force; for they uſe to ſpeak one thing twice, to ſet it out more certainly and plainly.

[i] The Jews thought that Elias ſhould come again before the days of Meſſias, and they took the ground of that their opinion out of Mal. 4. 5. which place is to be underſtood of John, Matt. 11. 14. And yet John denieth that he is Elias, anſwering them indeed according as they meant.

[k] They enquire of ſome great prophet, and not of Chriſt, for John denied before that he is Chriſt, for they thought that ſome great prophet ſhould be ſent like unto Moſes, wreſting to that purpoſe that place of Deut. 18. 15. which is to be underſtood of all the company of the prophets and miniſters, which have been, and ſhall be to the end, and eſpecially of Chriſt, who is the head of all prophets.

[12] Chriſt is the author of baptiſm, and not John; and therefore the force thereof conſiſteth not in John, who is the miniſter, but wholly in Chriſt the Lord.

[l] Hereby we may prove that the Jews knew there ſhould be ſome change in religion under Meſſias.

[m] Whom all the world ſeeth, and is even amongſt you.

A. D. 30.

29 ¶ [13] The next day John ſeeth Jeſus coming unto him, and ſaith, Behold [n] that Lamb of God, which [o] taketh away the [p] ſin of the world.

30 This is he of whom I ſaid, After me cometh a man, which was before me: for he was better than I,

31 And [q] I know him not: but becauſe he ſhould be declared to Iſrael, therefore am I come, baptizing with water.

32 [14] So John bare record, ſaying, I beheld * that Spirit come down from heaven, like a dove, and it abode upon him.

* Matt. 3. 16. Mark 1. 10. Luke 3. 22.

33 And I knew him not: but he that ſent me to baptize with water, he ſaid unto me, Upon whom thou ſhalt ſee the Spirit come down, and tarry ſtill on him, that is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghoſt.

34 And I ſaw, and bare record that this is [r] that Son of God.

35 ¶ [15] The next day John ſtood again, and two of his diſciples:

36 [16] And he beheld Jeſus walking by, and ſaid, Behold that Lamb of God.

37 [17] And the two diſciples heard him ſpeak, and followed Jeſus.

38 Then Jeſus turned about, and ſaw them follow, and ſaid unto them, What ſeek ye? And they ſaid unto him, Rabbi, (which is to ſay by interpretation, Maſter) [s] where dwelleſt thou?

39 He ſaid unto them, Come, and ſee. They came and ſaw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was about the [t] tenth hour.

40 Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, was one of the two which had heard it of John, and that followed him.

41 The ſame found his brother Simon firſt, and ſaid unto him, We have found that Meſſias, which is by interpretation, that [u] Chriſt.

42 And he brought him to Jeſus, and Jeſus beheld him, and ſaid, Thou art Simon the ſon of Jona: thou ſhalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, a ſtone.

43 ¶ The day following, Jeſus would go into Galilee, and found Philip, and ſaid unto him, Follow me.

A. D. 30.

44 Now Philip was of Bethſaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.

45 [18] Philip found Nathanael, and ſaid unto him, We have found him of whom * Moſes did write in the law, and the * prophets, Jeſus that ſon of Joſeph, that was of Nazareth.

* Gen. 49. 10. Deut. 18. 18. * Iſa. 4. 2. and 40. 10. and 45. 8. Jer. 23. 5. and 33. 14. Ezech. 34. 23. and 37. 24. Dan. 2. 24.

46 [19] Then Nathanael ſaid unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip ſaid to him, Come, and ſee.

47 [20] Jeſus ſaw Nathanael coming to him, and ſaid of him, Behold indeed an Iſraelite, in whom is no guile.

48 [21] Nathanael ſaid unto him, Whence kneweſt thou me? Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou waſt under the fig-tree, I ſaw thee.

49 Nathanael anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Rabbi, thou art that Son of God: thou art that King of Iſrael.

50 Jeſus anſwered and ſaid unto him, Becauſe I ſaid unto thee, I ſaw thee under the fig-tree, believeſt thou? thou ſhalt ſee greater things than theſe.

51 And he ſaid unto him, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, hereafter ſhall ye ſee heaven open, and the angels of God * [x] aſcending and deſcending upon that Son of man.

* Gen. 28. 12.

CHAP. II.

1 Chriſt turneth water into wine, 11 which was the beginning of his miracles. 12 He goeth down to Capernaum, 13 from thence he goeth up to Jeruſalem, 15 and caſteth the merchandiſe out of the temple. 19 He foretelleth that the temple, that is, his body, ſhall be deſtroyed of the Jews. 23 Many believe in him, ſeeing the miracles which he did.

AND [1] the [a] third day, was there a marriage in Cana a town of Galilee, and the mother of Jeſus was there.

2 And Jeſus was called alſo, and his diſciples unto the marriage.

3 [2] Now when the wine failed, the mother of Jeſus ſaid unto him, They have no wine.

4 Jeſus ſaid unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine [b] hour is not yet come.

---

[13] The body and truth of all the ſacrifices of the law, to make ſatisfaction for the ſin of the world, is in Chriſt.

[n] This word (that) which is added, hath great force in it, not only to ſet forth the worthineſs of Chriſt, and ſo to ſeparate him from the lamb, which was a figure of him, and from all other ſacrifices of the law, but alſo to bring into our minds the prophecies of Iſaiah and others.

[o] This word, of the preſent time, ſignifieth a continual act, for the Lamb hath this virtue proper unto him, and for ever, to take away the ſins of the world.

[p] That is, that root of ſins, to wit, our corruption, and ſo conſequently the fruits of ſin, which are commonly called in the plural number, ſins.

[q] I never knew him by face before.

[14] Chriſt is proved to be the Son of God, by the coming down of the Holy Ghoſt, by the Father's voice, and by John's teſtimony.

[r] This word (that) pointeth out unto us ſome excellent thing, and maketh a difference between Chriſt and others, whom Moſes and the prophets commonly call the ſons of God, or the ſons of the moſt High.

[15] John gathereth diſciples not to himſelf, but to Chriſt.

[16] Chriſt is ſet before us to follow, not as a vain ſhadow, but as our Mediator.

[17] In this firſt gathering of the diſciples, we have ſhewed unto us, that the beginning of ſalvation is from God, who calleth us unto his Son by the miniſtry of his ſervants: whom (ſo preventing us) we muſt alſo hear, and follow him home, that being inſtructed by him, we may alſo inſtruct others.

[s] Where is thy lodging?

[t] The night grew on.

[u] That is, anointed, and king, after the manner of the Jewiſh people.

[18] The good endeavours even of the unlearned, God doth ſo allow, that he maketh them maſters to the learned.

[19] We muſt eſpecially take heed of falſe preſumptions, which ſhut up againſt us the entrance to Chriſt.

[20] Simple uprightneſs diſcerneth the true Iſraelites from the falſe.

[21] The end of miracles, is to ſet before us Chriſt the Almighty, and alſo the only author of our ſalvation, that we may apprehend him by faith.

[x] By theſe words the power of God is ſignified, which ſhould appear in his miniſtry by the angels ſerving him as the head of the church.

[1] Chriſt declaring openly in an aſſembly by a notable miracle that he hath power over the nature of things to feed man's body, leadeth the minds of all men to his ſpiritual and ſaving virtue and power.

[a] After the talk which he had with Nathanael, or after that he departed from John, or after that he came into Galilee.

[2] Chriſt is careful enough of our ſalvation, and therefore hath no need of others to put him in mind of it.

[b] Mine appointed time.

A. D. 30.

5 His mother ſaid unto the ſervants, Whatſoever he ſaith unto you, do it.

6 And there were ſet there, ſix [c] water-pots of ſtone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three [d] firkins a-piece.

7 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Fill the water-pots with water. Then they filled them up to the brim.

8 Then he ſaid unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feaſt. So they bare it.

9 Now when the governor of the feaſt had taſted the water that was made wine, (for he knew not whence it was, but the ſervants, which drew the water, knew) the governor of the feaſt called the bridegroom,

10 And ſaid unto him, All men at the beginning ſet forth good wine, and when men have [e] well drunk, then that which is worſe: but thou haſt kept back the good wine until now.

11 This beginning of miracles did Jeſus in Cana, a town of Galilee, and ſhewed forth his glory: and his diſciples believed on him.

12 After that, he went down into Capernaum, he and his mother, and his [f] brethren, and his diſciples: but they continued not many days there:

13 [3] For the Jews paſſover was at hand. Therefore Jeſus went up to Jeruſalem.

14 [4] And he found in the temple thoſe that ſold oxen, and ſheep, and doves, and changers of money, ſitting there.

15 Then he made a ſcourge of ſmall cords, and drove them all out of the temple, with the ſheep and oxen, and poured out the changers money, and overthrew the tables:

16 And ſaid unto them that ſold doves, Take theſe things hence: make not my Father's houſe an houſe of merchandiſe.

*Pſ. 69. 9.

17 And his diſciples remembered, that it was written, * The [g] zeal of thine houſe hath eaten me up.

18 [5] Then anſwered the Jews, and ſaid unto him, What [h] ſign ſheweſt thou unto us, that thou doeſt theſe things?

* Matt. 26. 61. and 27. 40. Mark 14. 58. and 15. 29.

19 Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, * Deſtroy this temple, and in three days I will ariſe it up again.

20 Then ſaid the Jews, Forty and ſix years was this temple a building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

A. D. 30.

21 But he ſpake of the [i] temple of his body.

22 As ſoon therefore as he was riſen from the dead, his diſciples remembered that he thus ſaid unto them: and they believed the ſcripture, and the word that Jeſus had ſaid.

23 Now when he was at Jeruſalem, at the paſſover in the feaſt, many believed in his name, when they ſaw his miracles which he did.

24 [6] But Jeſus did not commit himſelf unto them, becauſe he knew them all,

25 [7] And had not need that any ſhould teſtify of man: for he knew what was in man.

CHAP. III.

1 Chriſt teacheth Nicodemus the very principles of chriſtian religion. 14 The ſerpent in the wilderneſs. 23 John baptizeth, 27 and teacheth his, that he is not Chriſt.

THERE [1] was now a man of the Phariſees, named Nicodemus, a [a] ruler of the Jews.

2 This man came to Jeſus by night, and ſaid unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a [b] teacher come from God: for no man could do theſe miracles that thou doeſt, [c] except God were with him.

3 [2] Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Verily, verily I ſay unto thee, except a man be born again, he cannot [d] ſee the [e] kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus ſaid unto him, How [f] can a man be born which is old? can he enter into his mother's womb again, and be born?

5 Jeſus anſwered, Verily, verily I ſay unto thee, except that a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is born of the fleſh, [g] is fleſh: and that which is born of the Spirit, is ſpirit.

7 Marvel not that I ſaid unto thee, ye muſt be born again.

8 The wind bloweth where it [h] liſteth, and thou heareſt the ſound thereof, but canſt not tell whence

---

[c] Theſe were veſſels appointed for water, wherein they waſhed themſelves.

[d] Every firkin contained an hundred pounds, at twelve ounces the pound: whereby we gather that Chriſt helped them with a thouſand and eight hundred pounds of wine.

[e] Word for word, are drunken. Now this ſpeech, to be drunken, is not always taken in evil part in the Hebrew tongue, but ſignifieth ſometimes ſuch ſtore and plentiful uſe of wine, as doth not paſs meaſure, as Gen. 43. 34.

[f] That is, his couſins.

[3] Chriſt being made ſubject to the law for us, ſatisfieth the law of the paſſover.

[4] Chriſt being ordained to purge the church, doth with great zeal begin his office both of prieſt and prophet.

[g] Zeal in this place is taken for a wrathful indignation and diſpleaſure of the mind, conceived of ſome naughty and evil dealing towards them whom we love well.

[5] Againſt them which ſo bind God to an ordinary calling, which they themſelves moſt ſhamefully abuſe, that they will not admit an extraordinary, which God confirmeth from heaven (and they, although in vain, would have it extinguiſhed) unleſs it be ſealed with outward and bodily miracles.

[h] With what miracle doſt thou confirm it, that we may ſee that heavenly power and virtue, which giveth thee authority to ſpeak and do thus?

[i] That is, of his body.

[6] It is not good crediting them, which ſtand only upon miracles.

[7] Chriſt is the ſearcher of hearts, and therefore true God.

[1] There are none ſometimes more unlearned than the learned: but as well the learned as the unlearned muſt deſire wiſdom of Chriſt only.

[a] A man of great eſtimation, and a ruler amongſt the Jews.

[b] We know that thou art ſent from God to teach us.

[c] But he in whom ſome part of the excellency of God appeareth. And if Nicodemus had known Chriſt aright, he would not only have ſaid that God was with him, but in him, as Paul doth, 2 Cor. 1. 19.

[2] The beginning of Chriſtianity conſiſteth in this, that we know ourſelves not only to be corrupt in part, but to be wholly dead in ſin: ſo that our nature hath need to be created anew, as touching the qualities thereof: which can be done by no other virtue, but by the divine and heavenly, whereby we were firſt created.

[d] That is, go in, or enter, as he expoundeth himſelf afterward, ver. 5.

[e] The church: for Chriſt ſheweth in this place, how we come to be citizens, and to have aught to do in the city of God.

[f] How can I that am old be born again? for he anſwereth as if Chriſt his words belonged to none but to him.

[g] That is, fleſhly, to wit, wholly unclean, and under the wrath of God: and therefore this word (fleſh) ſignifieth the corrupt nature of man: contrary to which is the (ſpirit) that is, the man ingrafted into Chriſt through the grace of the Holy Ghoſt, whoſe nature is everlaſting and immortal, though the ſtrife of the fleſh remaineth.

[h] With free and wandering blaſts as it liſteth.

[3] The ſecret myſtery of our regeneration, which cannot be comprehended by man's capacity, is perceived by faith, and that in Chriſt only, becauſe that he is both God on earth and man in heaven, that is to ſay, in ſuch ſort man, that he is God alſo, and therefore Almighty; and in ſuch ſort God, that he is man alſo, and therefore his power is manifeſt unto us.

[i] You handle doubtful things, and ſuch as you have no certain author for, and yet men believe you: but I teach thoſe things that are of a truth and well known, and you believe me not.

[k] Only Chriſt can teach us heavenly things, for no man aſcendeth, &c.

[l] That is, hath any ſpiritual light and underſtanding, or ever had, but only that Son of God, which came down to us.

[m] Whereas he is ſaid to have come down from heaven, that muſt be underſtood of his Godhead, and of the manner of his conception: for Chriſt his birth upon the earth was heavenly and not earthly, for he was conceived by the Holy Ghoſt.

[n] That which is proper to the divinity of Chriſt, is here ſpoken of whole Chriſt, to give us to underſtand that he is but one Perſon wherein two natures are united, and this kind of ſpeech men call, the communicating of properties.

[5] Nothing elſe but the free love of the Father, is the beginning of our ſalvation, and Chriſt is he in whom our righteouſneſs and ſalvation is reſident; and faith is the inſtrument or mean whereby we apprehend it, and life everlaſting is that which is ſet before us to apprehend.

[o] It is not all one to believe in a thing, and to believe of a thing, for we may not believe (in any thing) ſave only in God; but we may believe (of any thing) whatſoever, ſaith Nazianzen, in his oration of the Spirit.

[6] Not Chriſt, but the deſpiſing of Chriſt, doth condemn.

[p] That is, to be the cauſe of condemning of the world, for indeed ſins are the cauſe of death, but Chriſt ſhall judge the quick and the dead.

[q] Not only the people of the Jews, but whoſoever ſhall believe in him.

[7] Only wickedneſs is the cauſe, why men refuſe the light that is offered them.

[r] That is, the cauſe of condemnation which ſticketh faſt in men, unleſs through God's great benefit they be delivered from it.

[s] That is, he that leadeth an honeſt life, and void of all craft and deceit.

[t] That is, with God, God as it were going before.

[8] Satan inflameth the diſciples of John with a fond emulation of their maſter, to hinder the courſe of the goſpel: but John being mindful of his office, doth not only break off their endeavours; but alſo taketh occaſion thereby to give teſtimony of Chriſt, how that in him only the Father hath ſet forth life everlaſting.

[u] What mean you to go about to better my eſtate? this is, every man's lot and portion, that they cannot better themſelves one jot.

[x] Is nothing elſe but man, a piece of work made of the ſlime of the earth.

[y] Savoureth of nothing elſe but corruption, ignorance, dulneſs, &c.

[z] What he knoweth fully and perfectly.

[a] That is, very few.

[b] Committed them to his power and will.

[c] Shall not enjoy.

A. D. 30.

NOW [1] when the Lord knew how the Phariſees had heard, that Jeſus made * and baptized more diſciples than John,

* Ch. 3. 22.

2 (Though Jeſus himſelf baptized not, but his diſciples)

3 He left Judea, and departed again into Galilee.

4 And he muſt needs go through Samaria.

5 [2] Then he came to a city of Samaria, called Sychar, near unto the poſſeſſion that * Jacob gave to his ſon Joſeph.

* Gen. 33. 19. and 48. 22. Joſh. 24. 32.

6 And there was Jacob's well. Jeſus then, wearied in the journey, ſat [a] thus on the well: it was about the [b] ſixth hour.

7 There came a woman of Samaria to draw water. Jeſus ſaid unto her, Give me drink.

8 For his diſciples were gone away into the city, to buy meat.

9 Then ſaid the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, aſkeſt drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for the Jews [c] meddle not with the Samaritans.

10 Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto her, If thou kneweſt that [d] gift of God, and who it is that ſaith to thee, Give me drink, thou wouldeſt have aſked of him, and he would have given thee [e] water of life.

11 The woman ſaid unto him, Sir, thou haſt nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then haſt thou that water of life?

12 Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and he himſelf drank thereof, and his ſons, and his cattle?

13 Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto her, Whoſoever drinketh of this water, ſhall thirſt again:

14 But whoſoever drinketh of the water that I ſhall give him, ſhall never be more a-thirſt: but the water that I ſhall give him, ſhall be in him a well of water, ſpringing up into everlaſting life.

15 The woman ſaid unto him, Sir, give me of that water, that I may not thirſt, neither come hither to draw.

16 Jeſus ſaid unto her, Go, call thine huſband, and come hither.

17 The woman anſwered, and ſaid, I have no huſband. Jeſus ſaid unto her, Thou haſt well ſaid, I have no huſband.

18 For thou haſt had five huſbands, and he whom thou now haſt, is not thine huſband: that ſaidſt thou truly.

19 The woman ſaid unto him, Sir, I ſee that thou art a prophet.

A. D. 30.

20 [3] Our fathers worſhipped in this [f] mountain, and ye ſay, that in * Jeruſalem is the place where men ought to worſhip.

* Deut. 12. 6.

21 Jeſus ſaid unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when ye ſhall neither in this mountain, nor at Jeruſalem, worſhip the Father.

22 Ye worſhip that which ye * know not: we worſhip that which we know: for ſalvation is of the Jews.

* 2 Kings 17. 29.

23 But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worſhippers ſhall worſhip the Father in [g] ſpirit and truth: for the Father requireth even ſuch to worſhip him.

24 * God is a [h] ſpirit: and they that worſhip him, muſt worſhip him in ſpirit and truth.

* 2 Cor. 3. 17.

25 The woman ſaid unto him, I know well that Meſſias ſhall come, which is called Chriſt: when he is come, he will tell us all things.

26 Jeſus ſaid unto her, I am he, that ſpeak unto thee.

27 ¶ And upon that, came his diſciples, and marvelled that he talked with a woman: yet no man ſaid unto him, What aſkeſt thou? or why talkeſt thou with her?

28 The woman then left her water-pot, and went her way into the city, and ſaid to the men,

29 Come, ſee a man which hath told me all things that ever I did, Is not he that Chriſt?

30 Then they went out of the city, and came unto him.

31 ¶ In the mean while, the diſciples prayed him, ſaying, Maſter, eat.

32 [4] * But he ſaid unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of.

33 Then ſaid the diſciples between themſelves, Hath any man brought him meat?

34 Jeſus ſaid unto them, My meat is, that I may do the will of him that ſent me, and finiſh his work.

35 [5] Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harveſt? Behold, I ſay unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the regions: * for they are white already unto harveſt.

* Matt. 9. 37. Luke 10. 2.

36 [6] And he that reapeth, receiveth reward, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal, that both he that ſoweth, and he that reapeth, might rejoice together.

---

[1] This meaſure is to be kept in doing of our duty, that neither by fear we be terrified from going forward, neither by raſhneſs procure or pluck dangers upon our heads.

[2] Chriſt leaving the proud Phariſees, communicateth the treaſures of everlaſting life with a poor ſinful woman and ſtranger, refelling the groſs errors of the Samaritans, and defending the true ſervice of God, which was delivered to the Jews, but yet ſo that he calleth both of them back to himſelf, as one, whom only all the fathers, and alſo the ceremonies of the law, did regard, and had a reſpect unto.

[a] Even as he was weary, or becauſe he was weary.

[b] It was almoſt noon.

[c] There is no familiarity nor friendſhip between the Jews and the Samaritans.

[d] By this word, That, we are given to underſtand, that Chriſt ſpeaketh of ſome excellent gift, that is to ſay, even of himſelf, whom his Father offered to this woman.

[e] This everlaſting water, that is to ſay, the exceeding love of God, is called living, or of life, to make a difference between it, and the water that ſhould be drawn out of a well; and theſe metaphors are very much uſed of the Jews, Jer. 2. 13. Joel 3. 18. Zech. 13. 11.

[3] All the religion of ſuperſtitious people ſtandeth, for the moſt part, upon two pillars, but very weak, that is to ſay, upon the examples of the fathers perverted, and a fooliſh opinion of outward things: againſt which errors we have to ſet the word and nature of God.

[f] The name of this mountain is Gerrzim, whereupon Sanabaletta the Cuthite built a temple by Alexander of Macedon his leave, after the victory of Jeſſica: and made there Manaſſes his ſon-in-law high prieſt, Joſeph. book 11.

[g] This word (Spirit) is to be taken here, as it is ſet againſt that commandment which is called carnal, Heb. 7. 16. as the commandment is conſidered in itſelf: and ſo he ſpeaketh of (Truth) not as we ſet it againſt a lye, but as we take it in reſpect of the outward ceremonies of the law, which did only ſhadow that which Chriſt performed in deed.

[h] By the word (Spirit) he meaneth the nature of the Godhead, and not the third Perſon in the Trinity.

[4] We may have care of our bodies, but yet ſo, that we prefer willingly and freely the occaſion which is offered us to enlarge the kingdom of God: before all neceſſities of this life whatſoever.

[5] When the ſpiritual corn is ripe, we muſt not linger, for ſo the children of this world would condemn us.

[6] The doctrine of the prophets was, as it were, a ſowing time: and the doctrine of the goſpel, as the harveſt: and there is an excellent agreement between them both, and the miniſters of them both.

38 I ſent you to reap that, whereon ye beſtowed no labour: other men laboured, and ye are entered into their labours.

39 [7] Now many of the Samaritans of that city believed in him, for the ſaying of the woman, which teſtified, He hath told me all things that ever I did.

40 Then when the Samaritans were come unto him, they beſought him that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two days.

41 And many more believed becauſe of his own word.

42 And they ſaid unto the woman, Now we believe, not becauſe of thy ſaying: for we have heard him ourſelves, and know that this is indeed that Chriſt, the Saviour of the world.

43 ¶ [8] So two days after he departed thence, and went into [k] Galilee.

* Matt. 13. 57. Mark 6. 4. Luke 4. 24. 44 For Jeſus himſelf had * teſtified, that a prophet hath none honour in his own country.

45 Then when he was come into Galilee, the Galileans received him, which had ſeen all the things that he did at Jeruſalem at the feaſt: for they went alſo unto the feaſt.

* Ch. 2. 1. 11. 46 [9] And Jeſus came again into * Cana, a town of Galilee, where he had made of water wine. And there was a certain [l] ruler, whoſe ſon was ſick at Capernaum.

47 When he heard that Jeſus was come out of Judea into Galilee, he went unto him, and beſought him that he would go down, and heal his ſon: for he was even ready to die.

48 Then ſaid Jeſus unto him, Except ye ſee ſigns and wonders, ye will not believe.

49 The ruler ſaid unto him, Sir, go down before my ſon die.

50 Jeſus ſaid unto him, Go thy way, thy ſon liveth: and the man believed the word that Jeſus had ſpoken unto him, and went his way.

51 And as he was now going down, his ſervants met him, ſaying, Thy ſon liveth.

52 Then inquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they ſaid unto him, Yeſterday the ſeventh hour the fever left him.

53 Then the father knew, that it was the ſame hour in the which Jeſus had ſaid unto him, Thy ſon liveth. And he believed, and all his houſhold.

54 This ſecond miracle did Jeſus again, after he was come out of Judea into Galilee.

2 One lying at the pool, 5 is healed of Chriſt on the ſabbath. 10 The Jews, that raſhly find fault with that his deed, 17 he convinceth with the authority of his Father. 19, 20 He proveth his divine power by many reaſons; 45 and with Moſes's teſtimony.

A. D. 31.

* Lev. 23. 3. Deut. 16. 1. AFTER * that, there was a feaſt of the Jews, and Jeſus went up to Jeruſalem.

2 [1]And there is at Jeruſalem, by the place of the ſheep, a [a] pool called in Hebrew [b] Betheſda, having five porches:

3 In the which lay a great multitude of ſick folk, of blind, halt, and withered, waiting for the moving of the water.

4 For an angel went down at a certain ſeaſon into the pool, and troubled the water: whoſoever then firſt, after the ſtirring of the water, ſtepped in, was made whole of whatſoever diſeaſe he had.

5 And a certain man was there, which had been diſeaſed eight and thirty years.

6 When Jeſus ſaw him lie, and knew that he now long time had been diſeaſed, he ſaid unto him, Wilt thou be made whole?

7 The ſick man anſwered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another ſteppeth down before me.

8 Jeſus ſaid unto him, Riſe: take up thy bed, and walk.

9 And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and the ſame day was the ſabbath.

10 [2] The Jews therefore ſaid to him that was made whole, It is the ſabbath day: * it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed. * Jer. 17. 22.

11 He anſwered them, He that made me whole, he ſaid unto me, Take up thy bed, and walk.

12 Then aſked they him, What man is that which ſaid unto thee, Take up thy bed, and walk?

13 And he that was healed, knew not who it was: for Jeſus had conveyed himſelf away from the multitude that was in that place.

14 And after that, Jeſus found him in the temple, and ſaid unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: ſin no more, leſt a worſe thing come unto thee.

15 ¶ The man departed, and told the Jews, that it was Jeſus, which had made him whole.

16 And therefore the Jews did perſecute Jeſus, and ſought to ſlay him, becauſe he had done theſe things on the ſabbath day.

17 [3] But Jeſus anſwered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.

18 * Therefore the Jews ſought the more to kill him: not only becauſe he had broken the ſabbath, but ſaid alſo that God was [c] his Father, and made himſelf equal with God. * Ch. 7. 19.

[d] Not only without his Father's authority, but alſo without his mighty working and power.

[e] This muſt be underſtood of Chriſt's perſon, which conſiſteth of two natures, and not ſimply of his Godhead: ſo then he ſaith that his Father moveth and governeth him in all things; but yet notwithſtanding when he ſaith he worketh with his Father, he voucheth his Godhead.

[f] In like ſort, jointly and together. Not for that the Father doth ſome things, and then the Son worketh after him, and doth the like, but becauſe the might and power of the Father and the Son do work equally and jointly together.

[4] The Father maketh no man partaker of everlaſting life, but in Chriſt, in whom only alſo he is truly worſhipped.

[g] This word (judgeth) is taken by the figure Synecdoche, for all government.

[h] Theſe words are not ſo to be taken, as though they ſimply denied, that God governed the world, but as the Jews imagined it, which ſeparate the Father from the Son; whereas indeed the Father doth not govern the world, but only in the perſon of his Son, being made manifeſt in the fleſh, ſo ſaith he afterward, ver. 30. that he came not to do his own will: that his doctrine is not his own, chap. 7. 16. that the blind man and his parents ſinned not, &c. chap. 9. 3.

[5] The Father is not worſhipped but by his Son's word, apprehended by faith, which is the only way that leadeth to eternal life.

[6] We are all dead in ſin, and cannot be quickened by any other means, than by the word of Chriſt, apprehended by faith.

[i] That is, high and ſovereign power to rule and govern all things, inſomuch that he hath power of life and death.

[s] This denial doth not put away that which is here ſaid, but correcteth it; as if Chriſt ſaid, the Jews ſhall have no ſorer accuſer than Moſes.

A. D. 32.

AFTER theſe things, Jeſus went his way [a] over the ſea of Galilee, which is Tiberias.

2 And a great multitude followed him, becauſe they ſaw his miracles, which he did on them that were diſeaſed.

3 Then Jeſus went up into a mountain, and there he ſat with his diſciples.

* Lev. 23. 7. Deut. 16. 1.

4 Now the paſſover, a * feaſt of the Jews, was near.

* Matt. 14. 16. Mark 6. 37. Luke 9. 13.

5 * [1] Then Jeſus lift up his eyes, and ſeeing that a great multitude came unto him, he ſaid unto Philip, Whence ſhall we buy bread, that theſe might eat?

6 (And this he ſaid to prove him: for he himſelf knew what he would do)

7 Philip anſwered him, two hundred pennyworth of bread is not ſufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.

8 Then ſaid unto him one of his diſciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother,

9 There is a little boy here, which hath five barley loaves, and two fiſhes: but what are they among ſo many?

10 And Jeſus ſaid, Make the people ſit down. (Now there was much graſs in that place.) Then the men ſat down, in number about five thouſand.

11 And Jeſus took the bread, and gave thanks, and gave to the diſciples, and the diſciples to them that were ſet down: and likewiſe of the fiſhes as much as they would.

12 And when they were ſatisfied, he ſaid unto his diſciples, Gather up the broken meat which remaineth, that nothing be loſt.

13 Then they gathered it together, and filled twelve baſkets with the broken meat of the five barley loaves, which remained unto them that had eaten.

14 Then the men, when they had ſeen the miracle that Jeſus did, ſaid, This is of a truth that prophet that ſhould come into the world.

15 [2] When Jeſus therefore perceived that they would come, and take him to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himſelf alone.

16 ¶ [3] When even was now come, his diſciples went down unto the ſea,

* Matt. 14. 25. Mark 6. 47.

17 * And entered into a ſhip, and went over the ſea, [b] towards Capernaum: and now it was dark, and Jeſus was not come to them.

18 And the ſea aroſe with a great wind that blew.

19 And when they had rowed about five and twenty or thirty furlongs, they ſaw Jeſus walking on the ſea, and drawing near unto the ſhip: ſo they were afraid.

A. D. 32.

20 But he ſaid unto them, It is I: be not afraid.

21 Then [c] willingly they received him into the ſhip, and the ſhip was by and by at the land whither they went.

22 ¶ The day following, the people which ſtood on the other ſide of the ſea, ſaw that there was none other ſhip there, ſave that one, whereinto his diſciples were entered, and that Jeſus went not with his diſciples in the ſhip, but that his diſciples were gone alone,

23 And that there came other ſhips from Tiberias near unto the place where they ate the bread, after the Lord had given thanks.

24 Now when the people ſaw that Jeſus was not there, neither his diſciples, they alſo took ſhipping, and came to Capernaum, ſeeking for Jeſus.

25 And when they had found him on the other ſide of the ſea, they ſaid unto him, Rabbi, when cameſt thou hither?

26 [4] Jeſus anſwered them, and ſaid, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, Ye ſeek me not becauſe ye ſaw the miracles, but becauſe ye ate of the loaves, and were filled.

27 [d] Labour not for the meat which periſheth, but for the meat that endureth unto everlaſting life, which the Son of man ſhall give unto you: for him hath * God the Father [e] ſealed.

* Ch. 1. 32. Matt. 3. 17. and 17. 3.

28 Then ſaid they unto him, What ſhall we do, that we might work the [f] works of God?

29 [5] Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, * [g] This is the work of God, that ye believe in him whom he hath ſent.

* 1 John 3. 23.

30 [6] They ſaid therefore unto him, What ſign ſheweſt thou then, that we may ſee it, and believe thee? what doeſt thou work?

31 Our fathers did eat manna in the deſert, as it is * written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

* Exod. 16. 14. Num. 11. 7. Pſ. 78. 25.

32 [7] Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, Moſes gave you not [h] that bread from heaven, but my Father giveth you that true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

34 Then they ſaid unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

---

[a] Not that he cut over the lake of Tiberias, but by reaſon of the large creeks, his ſailing made his journey the ſhorter: therefore he is ſaid to have gone over the ſea, when as he paſſed over from one ſide of the creek to the other.

[1] They that follow Chriſt, do ſometimes hunger, but they are never deſtitute of help.

[2] Chriſt is not only not delighted, but alſo greatly offended with a prepoſterous worſhip.

[3] The godly are often in peril and danger, but Chriſt cometh to them in time, even in the midſt of the tempeſts, and bringeth them to the haven.

[b] In Mark 6. 45. they are willed to go before to Bethſaida, for Bethſaida was in the way to Capernaum.

[c] They were afraid at the firſt; but when they knew his voice they became new men, and took him willingly into the ſhip, whom they ſhunned and fled from before.

[4] They that ſeek the kingdom of heaven, lack nothing: notwithſtanding, the goſpel is not the food of the belly, but of the mind.

[d] Beſtow not your labour and pain.

[e] That is, whom God the father hath diſtinguiſhed from all other men by planting his own virtue in him, as though he had ſealed him with his ſeal, that he might be a lively pattern and repreſenter of him: and that more is, inſtalled him to this office, to reconcile us men to God, and bring us to everlaſting life, which is only proper to Chriſt.

[f] Which pleaſe God: for they think that everlaſting life hangeth upon the condition of fulfilling the law: therefore Chriſt calleth them back to faith.

[5] Men torment themſelves in vain, when they go about to pleaſe God without faith.

[g] That is, this is the work that God requireth, that you believe in me, and therefore he calleth them back to faith.

[6] The ſpiritual virtue of Chriſt is contemned of them that are deſirous of earthly miracles.

[7] Chriſt, who is the true and only author and giver of eternal life, was ſignified unto the fathers in Manna.

[h] He denieth that that Manna was that pure heavenly bread, and ſaith that he himſelf is that true bread, becauſe he feedeth unto the true and everlaſting life. And as for that, that Paul, 1 Cor. 10. calleth Manna, ſpiritual food, it maketh nothing againſt this place, for he joineth the thing ſignified with the ſign: but in this whole diſputation, Chriſt dealeth with the Jews after their own opinion and conceit of the matter, and they had no further conſideration of the Manna, but in that it fed the belly.

A. D. 32.

35 And Jeſus ſaid unto them, I am that bread of [i] life: he that cometh to me, ſhall not hunger: and he that believeth in me, ſhall never thirſt.

36 But I ſaid unto you, that ye alſo have ſeen me, and believe not.

37 [8] All that the Father give thme, ſhall come to me: and him that cometh to me, I caſt not away.

38 For I came down from heaven, not to do mine [k] own will, but his will which hath ſent me.

39 And this is the Father's will which hath ſent me, that of all which he hath given me, I ſhould loſe nothing, but ſhould raiſe it up again at the laſt day.

40 And this is the will of him that ſent me, that every man which [l] ſeeth the Son, and believeth in him, ſhould have everlaſting life: and I will raiſe him up at the laſt day.

41 [9] The Jews then murmured at him, becauſe he ſaid, I am that bread which is come down from heaven.

* Matt. 13. 55. 42 And they ſaid, * Is not this Jeſus, that ſon of Joſeph, whoſe father and mother we know? how then ſaith he, I came down from heaven?

43 Jeſus then anſwered, and ſaid unto them, Murmur not among yourſelves.

44 No man can come to me, except the Father which hath ſent me, draw him: and I will raiſe him up at the laſt day.

* Iſa. 54.13. Jer. 31. 33. 45 It is written in the * [m] prophets, And they ſhall be all [n] taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me,

* Matt. 11. 27. 46 * Not that any man hath ſeen the Father, [o] ſave he which is of God, he hath ſeen the Father.

47 Verily, verily I ſay unto you, He that believeth in me hath everlaſting life.

48 [10] I am that bread of life.

* Exod. 16. 15. 49 * Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderneſs, and are dead,

50 [p] This is that bread which cometh down from heaven, that he which eateth of it ſhould not die.

A. D. 32.

51 [11] I am that [q] living bread, which came down from heaven: if any man [r] eat of this bread, he ſhall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my fleſh, which I will give for the life of the world.

52 [12] Then the Jews ſtrove among themſelves, ſaying, How can this man give us his fleſh to eat?

53 Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, Except ye eat the fleſh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have [s] no life in you.

* 1 Cor. 11. 27. 54 Whoſoever * eateth my fleſh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life, and I will raiſe him up at the laſt day.

55 For my fleſh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my fleſh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As [t] that living Father hath ſent me, ſo live I by the [u] Father: and he that eateth me, even he ſhall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers have eaten manna, and are dead. He that eateth of this bread, ſhall live for ever.

59 Theſe things ſpake he in the ſynagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

60 [13] Many therefore of his diſciples (when they heard this) ſaid, This is an hard ſaying: who can bear it?

61 But Jeſus knowing in himſelf, that his diſciples murmured at this, ſaid unto them, Doth this offend you?

* Ch. 3. 13. 62 What then if ye ſhall ſee that Son of man aſcend up, * where he was before?

63 [14] It is the [x] Spirit that quickeneth: the fleſh profiteth nothing: the words that I ſpeak unto you, are ſpirit and life.

64 But there are ſome of you that believe not: for Jeſus knew from the beginning, which they were that believed not, and who ſhould betray him.

65 And

---

[i] Which have life, and give life.

[8] The gift of faith proceedeth from the free election of the Father in Chriſt, after which followeth neceſſarily everlaſting life: Therefore faith in Chriſt Jeſus is a ſure witneſs of our election, and therefore of our glorification, which is to come.

[k] Look above chap. 5. ver. 22.

[l] Seeing and believing are joined together: for there is another kind of ſeeing which is general, which the devils have, for they ſee: but here he ſpeaketh of that kind of ſeeing which is proper to the elect.

[9] Fleſh cannot perceive ſpiritual things, and therefore the beginning of our ſalvation cometh from God, who changeth our nature, ſo that we being inſpired of him, may abide to be inſtructed and ſaved by Chriſt.

[m] In the book of the prophets: for the Old Teſtament was divided by them into three ſeveral parts, into the law, the prophets, and the holy writ.

[n] To wit, they ſhall be children of the church, for ſo the prophet Iſaiah expoundeth it, ch. 54. 13. that is to ſay, ordained to life, Acts 13. 48. and therefore the knowledge of the heavenly truth is the gift and work of God, and ſtandeth not in any power of man.

[o] If the Son only hath ſeen the Father, then it is he only that can teach and inſtruct us truly.

[10] The true uſe of ſacraments is to aſcend from them to the thing itſelf, that is, to Chriſt: by the partaking of whom only, we get everlaſting life.

[p] He pointeth out himſelf when he ſpake theſe words.

[11] Chriſt being ſent from the Father, is the ſelf-ſame unto us for the getting and keeping of everlaſting life, that bread and fleſh, yea, meat and drink are, to the uſe of this tranſitory life.

[q] Which giveth life to the world.

[r] That is to ſay, whoſoever is partaker of Chriſt indeed, who is our food.

[12] Fleſh cannot put a difference between fleſhly eating, which is done by the help of the teeth, and ſpiritual eating, which conſiſteth in faith: and therefore it condemneth that which it underſtandeth not: yet notwithſtanding, the truth muſt be preached and taught.

[s] If Chriſt be preſent, life is preſent; but when Chriſt is abſent, then is death preſent.

[t] In that that Chriſt is man, he receiveth that power which quickeneth and giveth life to them that are his, of his Father: and he addeth this word (That) to make a difference between him and all other fathers.

[u] Chriſt his meaning is, that though he be man, yet his fleſh can give life, not of the own nature, but becauſe that fleſh of his liveth by the Father, that is to ſay, doth ſuck and draw out of the Father that power which it hath to give life.

[13] The reaſon of man cannot comprehend the uniting of Chriſt and his members: therefore let it worſhip and reverence that which is better than itſelf.

[14] The fleſh of Chriſt doth therefore quicken us becauſe that he that is man, is God: which myſtery is only comprehended by faith, which is the gift of God, proper only to the elect.

[x] Spirit, that is, that power which floweth from the Godhead, cauſeth the fleſh of Chriſt, which otherwiſe were nothing but fleſh, both to live in itſelf, and to give life to us.

A. D. 32. 65 And he ſaid, Therefore ſaid I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it be given unto him of my Father.

66 [15] From that time, many of his diſciples went back, and walked no more with him.

67 Then ſaid Jeſus unto the twelve, Will ye alſo go away?

68 Then Simon Peter anſwered him, Maſter, to whom ſhall we go? thou haſt the words of eternal life:

69 And we believe and know that thou art that Chriſt, that Son of the living God.

* Matt. 26. 16. 70 [16] Jeſus anſwered them, Have not I * choſen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?

71 Now he ſpake it of Judas Iſcariot, the ſon of Simon: for he it was that ſhould betray him, though he was one of the twelve.

CHAP. VII.

2 Chriſt, after his couſins were gone up to the feaſt of tabernacles, 10 goeth thither privily. 12 The people's ſundry opinions of him. 14 He teacheth in the temple. 32 The prieſts command to take him. 41 Strife among the multitude about him, 47 and between the Phariſees and the officers that were ſent to take him, 50 and Nicodemus.

AFTER theſe things, Jeſus walked in Galilee, and would not walk in Judea: for the Jews ſought to kill him.

* Lev. 23. 34. 2 Now the Jews * [a] feaſt of the tabernacles was at hand.

3 [1] His brethren therefore ſaid unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judea, that thy diſciples may ſee thy works that thou doeſt.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing ſecretly, and he himſelf ſeeketh to be famous. If thou doeſt theſe things, ſhew thyſelf to the world.

5 For as yet his [b] brethren believed not in him.

6 [2] Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, My time is not yet come: but your time is always ready.

7 The world cannot hate you: but me it hateth, becauſe I teſtify of it, that the works thereof are evil.

* Ch. 8. 20. 8 Go ye up unto this feaſt: I will not go up yet unto this feaſt: * for my time is not yet fulfilled.

A. D. 32. 9 ¶ Theſe things he ſaid unto them, and abode ſtill in Galilee.

10 [3] But as ſoon as his brethren were gone up, then went he alſo up unto the feaſt, not openly, but as it were privily.

11 Then the Jews ſought him at the feaſt, and ſaid, Where is he?

12 And much murmuring was there of him among the people. Some ſaid, He is a good man: others ſaid, Nay, but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit no man ſpake [c] openly of him for fear of the Jews.

14 [4] Now when the [d] half of the feaſt was done, Jeſus went up into the temple and taught.

15 And the Jews marvelled, ſaying, How knoweth this man the ſcriptures, ſeeing that he never learned!

6 [5] Jeſus anſwered them, and ſaid, My doctrine is not mine, but his that ſent me.

17 If any man will do his will, he ſhall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I ſpeak of myſelf.

18 [6] He that ſpeaketh of himſelf, ſeeketh his own glory: but he that ſeeketh his glory that ſent him, the ſame is true, and no unrighteouſneſs is in him.

* Exod. 24. 3. * Ch. 5. 11. 19 * [7] Did not Moſes give you a law, and yet none of you keepeth the * law? Why go ye about to kill me?

20 The people anſwered and ſaid, Thou haſt a devil: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 [8] Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid to them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel.

* Lev. 12. 3. * Deut. 1. 16. 22 * Moſes therefore gave unto you circumciſion (not becauſe it is of Moſes, but of the * fathers) and ye on the ſabbath day circumciſe a man.

23 If a man on the ſabbath receive circumciſion, that the [f] law of Moſes ſhould not be broken, be ye angry with me, becauſe I have made a man every whit whole on the ſabbath day?

* Gen. 17. 10. 24 * [9] Judge not [g] according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment.

25 ¶ [10] Then ſaid ſome of them of Jeruſalem, Is not this he, whom they go about to kill?

26 And behold, he ſpeaketh openly, and they ſay nothing to him? do the rulers know indeed, that this is indeed that Chriſt?

[15] Such is the malice of men, that they take occaſion of their own deſtruction, even of the very doctrine of ſalvation, unleſs it be a few which believe through the ſingular gift of God.

[16] The number of the profeſſors of Chriſt is very ſmall among them; alſo there be ſome hypocrites, and worſe than all other.

[a] This feaſt was ſo called, becauſe of the booths and tents which they pitched of divers kinds of boughs, and ſat under them, ſeven days together, all which time the feaſt laſted.

[1] The grace of God cometh not by inheritance, but it is a gift that cometh other ways: whereby it cometh to paſs, that oftentimes the children of God ſuffer more affliction by their own kinsfolks than by ſtrangers.

[b] His kinsfolks: for ſo uſe the Hebrews to ſpeak.

[2] We muſt not follow the fooliſh deſires of our friends.

[3] An example of horrible confuſion in the very boſom of the church. The paſtors oppreſs the people with terror and fear: the people ſeek Chriſt, when he appeareth not; when he offereth himſelf, they neglect him. Some alſo that know him, condemn him raſhly: a very few think well of him, and that in ſecret.

[c] Or, boldly and freely: for the chief of the Jews ſought nothing ſo much, as to bury his fame and name.

[4] Chriſt ſtriveth with goodneſs againſt the wickedneſs of the world; in the mean ſeaſon the moſt part of men take occaſion of offence even by that ſame whereby they ought to have been ſtirred up to embrace Chriſt.

[d] About the fourth day of the feaſt.

[5] Therefore are there few to whom the goſpel ſavoureth very well, becauſe the ſtudy of godlineſs is very rare.

[e] Look above chap. 5. ver. 22. and he ſpeaketh this after the opinion of the Jews: as if he ſaid, my doctrine is not mine, that is, it is not his whom you take to be a man as other are, and therefore ſet light by him, but it is his that ſent me.

[6] The true doctrine of ſalvation differeth from the falſe in this, that the ſame ſetteth forth the glory of God, and this by puffing up of men, darkeneth the glory of God.

[7] None do more confidently boaſt themſelves to be the defenders of the law of God, than they that do moſt impudently break it.

[8] The ſabbath day (which is here ſet before us for a rule of all ceremonies) was not appointed to hinder, but to further and practiſe God's works, amongſt which, the love of our neighbour is the chiefeſt.

[f] That is to ſay, if the law of circumciſion, which Moſes gave, be of ſo great account amongſt you, that you doubt not to circumciſe upon the ſabbath, do you rightly reprove me for healing a man thoroughly?

[9] We muſt judge according to the truth of things, leſt the perſons of men do turn us and carry us away.

[g] By the ſhew that I make; for I ſeem to be but an abject and raſcal of Galilee, and a carpenter's ſon, whom no man maketh account of: but mark the matter itſelf well, and judge the tree by the fruit.

[10] Many do marvel that the endeavours of the enemies of God have no ſucceſs: yet in the mean ſeaſon they do not acknowledge the virtue and power of God.

A. D. 32.

27 [11] Howbeit, we know this man whence he is: but when that Chriſt cometh, no man ſhall know whence he is.

28 ¶ [12] Then cried Jeſus in the temple as he taught, ſaying, Ye both know me, and know whence I am: yet am I not come of myſelf: but he that ſent me is true, whom ye know not.

29 But I know him: for I am of him, and he hath ſent me.

30 [13] Then they ſought to take him, but no man laid hands on him, becauſe his hour was not yet come.

31 Now many of the people believed in him, and ſaid, When that Chriſt cometh, will he do more miracles than this man hath done?

32 [14] The Phariſees heard that the people murmured theſe things of him, and the Phariſees and high prieſts ſent officers to take him.

33 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, Yet am I a little while with you, and then go I unto him that ſent me.

* Ch. 13. 34. 34 * Ye ſhall ſeek me, and ſhall not find me: and where I am, can ye not come.

35 Then ſaid the Jews among themſelves, Whither will he go, that we ſhall not find him? Will he go unto them that are [h] diſperſed among the Grecians, and teach the Grecians?

36 What ſaying is this that he ſaid, Ye ſhall ſeek me, and ſhall not find me? and where I am, cannot ye come?

* Lev. 23. 36. 37 [15] Now in the [i] laſt and * great day of the feaſt, Jeſus ſtood and cried, ſaying, If any man thirſt, let him come unto me, and drink.

* Deut. 18. 15. 38 He that believeth in me, * as ſaith the [k] ſcripture, out of his belly ſhall flow rivers of water of life.

* Joel 2. 28. Acts 2. 17. 39 (* This ſpake he of the Spirit, which they that believed in him ſhould receive: for the [l] Holy Ghoſt was not yet given, becauſe that Jeſus was not yet [m] glorified)

* Deut. 18. 15. 40 [16] So many of the people, when they heard this ſaying, ſaid, * Of a truth this is that prophet.

41 Others ſaid, This is that Chriſt: and ſome ſaid, But ſhall that Chriſt come out of Galilee?

* Mic. 5. 2. Matt. 2. 5. 42 ¶ * Sayeth not the ſcripture, that that Chriſt ſhall come of the ſeed of David, and out of the town of Bethlehem, where David was?

43 So was there diſſenſion among the people for him.

44 And ſome of them would have taken him, but no man laid hands on him.

45 [17] Then came the officers to the high prieſts and Phariſees, and they ſaid unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

46 The officers anſwered, Never man ſpake like this man.

47 Then anſwered them the Phariſees, Are ye alſo deceived?

48 [18] Doth any of the rulers, or of the Phariſees believe in him?

49 But this people, which know not the law, are curſed.

50 Nicodemus ſaid unto them (* he that came to Jeſus by night, and was one of them) * Deut. 17. 8. and 19. 15.

51 Doth our law judge a man before it hear him, * and know [n] what he hath done?

52 They anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Art thou alſo of Galilee? Search and look: for out of Galilee ariſeth no prophet.

53 [19] And every man went unto his own houſe.

CHAP. VIII.

3 The woman taken in adultery, 11 hath her ſins forgiven her. 12 Chriſt is the light of the world. 19 The Phariſees aſk where his Father is. 39 The ſons of Abraham. 42 The ſons of God. 44 The devil the father of lying. 56 Abraham ſaw Chriſt's day.

AND Jeſus went unto the mount of Olives,

2 And early in the morning came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him, and he ſat down and taught them.

3 [1] Then the Scribes and the Phariſees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery, and ſet her in the midſt,

4 And ſaid unto him, Maſter, we found this woman committing adultery, even in the very act.

5 * Now Moſes in our law commanded, that ſuch ſhould be ſtoned: what ſayeſt thou therefore? * Lev. 20. 10.

6 And this they ſaid to tempt him, that they might have whereof to accuſe him. But Jeſus ſtooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground.

7 [2] And while they continued aſking him, he lift himſelf up, and ſaid unto them, * Let him that is among you without ſin, caſt the firſt ſtone at her. * Deut. 17. 7.

8 And

---

[11] Men are very wiſe to procure ſtops and ſtays to themſelves.

[12] The truth of Chriſt doth not hang upon the judgment of man.

[13] The wicked cannot do what they liſt, but what God hath appointed.

[14] As the kingdom of God increaſeth, ſo increaſeth the rage of his enemies, till at the length they in vain ſeek for thoſe bleſſings abſent, which they deſpiſed when they were preſent.

[h] Word for word (to the diſperſion of the Gentiles or Grecians); and under the name of the Grecians he underſtandeth the Jews which were diſperſed amongſt the Gentiles, 1 Pet. 1. 1.

[15] There are two principles of our ſalvation: the one to be thoroughly touched with a true feeling of our extreme poverty: the other, to ſeek in Chriſt only (whom we catch hold on by faith) the abundance of all good things.

[i] The laſt day of the feaſt of tabernacles, that is, the eighth day, was as high a day as the firſt. Lev. 23. 36.

[k] This is not read word for word in any place, but it ſeemeth to be taken out of many places where mention is made of the gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, as Joel 2. Iſa. 44. but eſpecially in Iſa. 55.

[l] What is meant by the Holy Ghoſt, he expreſſed a little before, ſpeaking of the Spirit which they that believed in him ſhould receive. So that by the name of the Holy Ghoſt, are meant the virtues and mighty workings of the Holy Ghoſt.

[m] That is, thoſe things were not yet ſeen and perceived, which were to ſhew and ſet forth the glory of the only begotten.

[16] There is contention even in the church itſelf about the chief point of religion: neither hath Chriſt any more cruel enemies than thoſe that occupy the ſeat of truth, yet cannot they do what they would.

[17] God from heaven ſcorneth ſuch as are his Son's enemies.

[18] Falſe paſtors are ſo fond and fooliſh, that they eſteem the church of God, according to the multitude and outward ſhew, chap. 3. 2.

[n] What he hath committed, who is accuſed?

[19] There is no counſel againſt the Lord.

[1] While the wicked go about to make a ſnare for good men, they make a ſnare for themſelves.

[2] Againſt hypocrites which are very ſevere judges againſt other men, and flatter themſelves in their own ſins.

A. D. 32.

8 And again he ſtooped down, and wrote on the ground.

9 And when they heard it, being accuſed by their own conſcience, they went out one by one, beginning at the eldeſt, even to the laſt: ſo Jeſus was left alone, and the woman ſtanding in the midſt.

10 [3] When Jeſus had lift up himſelf again, and ſaw no man, but the woman, he ſaid unto her, Woman, where are thoſe thine accuſers? hath no man condemned thee?

11 She ſaid, No man, Lord. And Jeſus ſaid, Neither do I condemn thee, go and ſin no more.

12 [4] Then ſpake Jeſus again unto them, ſaying, I * am that light of the world: he that followeth me, ſhall not walk in darkneſs, but ſhall have that light of life.

* Ch. 1. 5. and 9. 5.

13 [5] The Phariſees therefore ſaid unto him, [a] Thou beareſt record of thyſelf: thy record is not true.

14 * Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto them, [b] Though I bear record of myſelf, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go: but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

* Ch. 5. 31.

15 Ye judge after the fleſh: I [c] judge no man.

16 And if I alſo judge, my judgment is true: for I am not alone, but I, and the Father, that ſent me.

17 And it is alſo written in your law, * that the teſtimony of two men is true.

* Deut. 17. 6. and 19. 15. Matt. 18. 16. 2 Cor. 13. 1. Heb. 10. 28.

18 [d] I am one that bear witneſs of myſelf, and the Father that ſent me beareth witneſs of me.

19 [6] Then ſaid they unto him, Where is that Father of thine? Jeſus anſwered, Ye neither know me, nor that Father of mine. If ye had known me, ye ſhould have known that Father of mine alſo.

20 Theſe words ſpake Jeſus in the [e] treaſury, as he taught in the temple, and no man laid hand on him: [7] for his hour was not yet come.

21 [8] Then ſaid Jeſus again unto them, I go my way, and ye ſhall ſeek me, and ſhall die in your ſins. Whither I go, can ye not come.

22 Then ſaid the Jews, Will he kill himſelf, becauſe he ſaith, Whither I go, can ye not come?

23 And he ſaid unto them, Ye are from beneath, I am from above: ye are of this world, I am not of this world.

24 I ſaid therefore unto you, That ye ſhall die in your ſins: for except ye believe that I am he, ye ſhall die in your ſins.

25 [9] Then ſaid they unto him, Who art thou? And Jeſus ſaid unto them, Even [f] the ſame thing that I ſaid unto you from the beginning.

26 [10] I have many things to ſay, and to judge of you: but he that ſent me, is true, and the things that I have heard of him, thoſe ſpeak I to the world.

27 [11] They underſtood not that he ſpake to them of the Father.

28 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them, When ye have lift up the Son of man, then ſhall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of myſelf, but as my Father hath taught me, ſo I ſpeak theſe things.

29 For he that ſent me, is with me: the Father hath not left me alone, becauſe I do always thoſe things that pleaſe him.

30 ¶ As he ſpake theſe things, many believed in him.

31 [12] Then ſaid Jeſus to the Jews which believed in him, If ye continue in my word, ye are verily my diſciples,

32 And ſhall know the truth, and the truth ſhall [g] make you free.

33 [h] They anſwered him, We be [i] Abraham's ſeed, and were never bond to any man: why ſayeſt thou then, Ye ſhall be made free?

34 Jeſus anſwered them, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, that whoſoever committeth ſin, is the * ſervant of ſin.

* Rom. 6. 20. 2 Pet. 2. 19.

35 And the ſervant abideth not in the houſe for ever: but the Son abideth for ever.

36 If that Son therefore ſhall make you free, ye ſhall be free indeed.

37 [13] I know that ye are Abraham's ſeed: but ye ſeek to kill me, becauſe my word hath no place in you.

38 I ſpeak that which I have ſeen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have ſeen with your father.

39 They anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Abraham is our father. Jeſus ſaid unto them, If ye were

[3] Chriſt would not take upon him the civil magiſtrate's office: he contented himſelf to bring ſinners to faith and repentance.

[4] The world which is blind in itſelf, cannot come to have any light but in Chriſt only.

[5] Chriſt is, without all exception, the beſt witneſs of the truth, for he was ſent by his Father for that purpoſe, and was by him approved to the world by infinite miracles.

[a] Thou beareſt witneſs of thyſelf, which thing by all mens opinions is naught, and for a man to commend himſelf is very diſcommendable.

[b] That which he denied afore, ch. 5. 31. muſt be taken by a manner of granting, for in that place he framed himſelf ſomewhat to the humour of his hearers, which acknowledged nothing in Chriſt but his humanity, and therefore he was content they ſhould ſet light by his own witneſs, unleſs it were otherwiſe confirmed. But in this place, he ſtandeth for the maintenance of his Godhead, and praiſeth his Father, who is his witneſs, and agreeth with him.

[c] I do now only teach you. I condemn no man; but if I luſt to do it, I might lawfully do it, for I am not alone, but my Father is with me.

[d] The Godhead is plainly diſtinguiſhed from the manhood, elſe there were not two witneſſes: for the party accuſed is not taken for a witneſs.

[6] No man can know God, but in Chriſt only.

[e] This was ſome place appointed for the gathering of the offerings.

[7] We live and die at the pleaſure of God, and not of men. Therefore this one thing remaineth, that we go forward conſtantly in our vocation.

[8] Becauſe that men do naturally abhor heavenly things, no man can be a fit diſciple of Chriſt, unleſs the Spirit of God frame him. In the mean ſeaſon notwithſtanding, the world muſt of neceſſity periſh, becauſe it refuſeth the life that is offered unto it.

[9] He ſhall at length know who Chriſt is, which will diligently hear what he ſaith.

[f] That is, I am Chriſt, and the Saviour, for ſo I told you from the beginning, that I was.

[10] God is the revenger of Chriſt's doctrine deſpiſed.

[11] Even the contempt of Chriſt maketh for his glory: which thing his enemies ſhall feel at length to their great ſmart.

[12] The true diſciples of Chriſt continue in his doctrine, that profiting more and more in the knowledge of the truth, they may be delivered from the moſt grievous burden of ſin, into the true liberty of righteouſneſs and life.

[g] From the ſlavery of ſin.

[h] Some of the multitude, and they that believed: for this is not the ſpeech of men that conſent unto him, but of men that are againſt him.

[i] Born and begotten of Abraham.

[13] Our wicked manners declare, that we are plainly born of a deviliſh nature. But we are changed, and made of the houſhold of God, according to the covenant which he made with Abraham by Chriſt only, apprehended and laid hold on by faith: which faith is known by a godly and honeſt life.

A. D. 32. were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham.

40 But now ye go about to kill me, a man that have told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham.

41 Ye do the works of your father. Then ſaid they to him, We are not born of fornication: we have one Father, which is God.

42 Therefore Jeſus ſaid unto them, If God were your father, then would ye love me: for I proceeded forth and came from God, neither came I of myſelf, but he ſent me.

43 Why do ye not underſtand my [k] talk? becauſe ye cannot hear my word.

* 1 John 3. 8. 44 * Ye are of your father the devil, and the luſts of your father ye will do: he hath been a murderer from the [l] beginning, and [m] abode not in the [n] truth, becauſe there is no truth in him. When he ſpeaketh a lye, then ſpeaketh he of his [o] own: for he is a lyar, and the [p] father thereof.

45 And becauſe I tell you the truth, ye believe me not.

46 [14] Which of you can rebuke me of ſin? and if I ſay the truth, why do ye not believe me?

* 1 John 4. 6. 47 * He that is of God, heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, becauſe ye are not of God.

48 [15] Then anſwered the Jews, and ſaid unto him, Say we not well, that thou art a Samaritan, and haſt a devil?

49 Jeſus anſwered, I have not a devil: but I honour my Father, and ye have diſhonoured me.

50 And I ſeek not mine own praiſe: but there is one [q] that ſeeketh it, and judgeth.

51 [16] Verily, verily I ſay unto you, If a man keep my word, he ſhall [r] never ſee death.

52 [17] Then ſaid the Jews to him, Now know we that thou haſt a devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets: and thou ſayeſt, If a man keep my word, he ſhall never taſte of death.

53 Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makeſt thou thyſelf?

54 [18] Jeſus anſwered, If I honour myſelf, mine honour is [s] nothing worth: it is my Father that honoureth me, whom ye ſay, that he is your God. A. D. 32.

55 [19] Yet ye have not known him: but I know him, and if I ſhould ſay, I know him not, I ſhould be a lyar like unto you: but I know him, and keep his word.

56 [20] Your father Abraham [t] rejoiced to ſee my [u] day, and he [x] ſaw it, and was glad.

57 Then ſaid the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and haſt thou ſeen Abraham?

58 Jeſus ſaid unto them, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, Before Abraham was, I [y] am.

59 [21] Then took they up ſtones to caſt at him, but Jeſus hid himſelf, and went out of the temple: and he paſſed through the midſt of them, and ſo went his way.

CHAP. IX.

1 Chriſt giveth ſight on the ſabbath day to him that was born blind: 13 Whom, after he had long reaſoned againſt the Phariſees, 22, 34 and was caſt out of the ſynagogue, 36 Chriſt endueth with the knowledge of the everlaſting light.

AND [1] as Jeſus paſſed by, he ſaw a man which was blind from his birth.

2 And his diſciples aſked him, ſaying, Maſter, [z] who did ſin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

3 Jeſus anſwered, [a] Neither hath this man ſinned, nor his parents, but that the works of God ſhould be ſhewed on him.

4 [2] I muſt work the works of him that ſent me, while it is [b] day: the night cometh, when no man can work.

5 As long as I am in the world, * I am the light of the world. * Ch. 1. 9. and 8. 12. and 12. 35.

6 [3] As ſoon as he had thus ſpoken, he ſpat on the ground, and made clay of the ſpittle, and anointed the eyes of the blind with the clay,

7 And ſaid unto him, Go waſh in the pool of Siloam (which is by interpretation, Sent) He went

---

[k] Or, language; as though he ſaid, you do no more underſtand what I ſay, than if I ſpake in a ſtrange and unknown language to you.

[l] From the beginning of the world: for as ſoon as man was made, the devil caſt him headlong into death.

[m] That is, continued not conſtantly, or remained not.

[n] That is, in faithfulneſs and uprightneſs; that is, he kept not his creation.

[o] Even of his own head, and of his own brain or diſpoſition.

[p] The author thereof.

[14] Chriſt did thoroughly execute the office that his Father injoined him.

[15] The enemies of Chriſt make their bravery for a while, but the Father will appear at his time to revenge the reproach that is done unto him in the perſon of his Son.

[q] That is, that will revenge both your deſpiſing of me, and of him.

[16] The only doctrine of the goſpel apprehended by faith, is a ſure remedy againſt death.

[r] That is, he ſhall not find it: for even in the midſt of death, the faithful ſee life.

[17] Againſt them which abuſe the glory of the ſaints, to darken Chriſt's glory.

[18] There is nothing further off from all ambition than Chriſt, but his Father has ſet him above all things.

[s] This is ſpoken by manner of a grant; as if he had ſaid, Be it ſo, let this report which I give of myſelf be of no force: yet there is another that glorifieth me, that is, that honoureth my name.

[19] There is no right knowledge of God without Chriſt, neither any right knowledge of Chriſt without his word.

[20] The virtue of Chriſt ſhewed itſelf through all former ages in the fathers, for they ſaw in the promiſes that he ſhould come, and did very joyfully lay hold on him with a lively faith.

[t] Was very deſirous.

[u] A day is a ſpace that a man liveth in, or doth any notable act, or ſuffereth any great thing.

[x] With the eyes of faith, Heb. 11. 13.

[y] Chriſt, as he was God, was before Abraham; and he was the Lamb ſlain from the beginning of the world.

[21] Zeal without knowledge, breaketh out at length into a moſt open madneſs; aud yet the wicked cannot do what they liſt.

[z] Sin is the beginning even of all bodily diſeaſes, and yet doth it not follow, that God alway reſpecteth their ſins whom he moſt ſharply puniſheth.

[a] Chriſt reaſoneth here, as his diſciples thought, which preſuppoſe that there come no diſeaſes but for ſins only; whereupon he anſwereth, that there was another cauſe of this man's blindneſs, and that was, that God's work might be ſeen.

[2] The works of Chriſt are as it were a light, which lighten the darkneſs of the world.

[b] By (day) is meant the light, that is, the lightſome doctrine of the heavenly truth: and by night is meant the darkneſs which cometh by the obſcurity of the ſame doctrine.

[3] Chriſt healing the man born blind, by taking the ſign of clay, and afterward the ſign of the fountain of Siloam, (which ſignifieth Sent) ſheweth that as he at the beginning made man, ſo doth he again reſtore both his body and ſoul; and yet ſo, that he himſelf cometh firſt of his own accord to heal us.

A. D. 32. went his way therefore, and waſhed, and came again ſeeing.

8 [4] Now the neighbours and they that had ſeen him before, when he was blind, ſaid, Is not this he that ſat and begged?

9 Some ſaid, This is he: and others ſaid, He is like him: but he himſelf ſaid, I am he.

10 Therefore they ſaid unto him, How were thine eyes [c] opened?

11 He anſwered, and ſaid, The man that is called Jeſus, made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and ſaid unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and waſh. So I went and waſhed, and received ſight.

12 Then they ſaid unto him, Where is he? He ſaid, I cannot tell.

13 ¶ They brought to the Phariſees him that was once blind.

14 And it was the ſabbath day, when Jeſus made the clay, and opened his eyes.

15 Then again the Phariſees alſo aſked him, how he had received ſight. And he ſaid unto them, He laid clay upon mine eyes, and I waſhed, and do ſee.

16 [5] Then ſaid ſome of the Phariſees, This man is not of God, becauſe he keepeth not the ſabbath day. Others ſaid, How can a man that is a ſinner, do ſuch miracles? and there was a diſſention among them.

17 Then ſpake they unto the blind again, What ſayeſt thou of him, becauſe he hath opened thine eyes? And he ſaid, He is a prophet.

18 Then the Jews did not believe him, (that he had been blind, and received his ſight) until they had called the parents of him that had received ſight.

19 And they aſked them, ſaying, Is this your ſon, whom ye ſay was born blind? How doth he now ſee then?

20 His parents anſwered them, and ſaid, We know that this is our ſon, and that he was born blind:

21 But by what means he now ſeeth, we know not: or who hath opened his eyes, can we not tell: he is old enough: aſk him: he ſhall anſwer for himſelf.

22 Theſe words ſpake his parents, becauſe they feared the Jews: for the Jews had ordained already, that if any man did confeſs that he was Chriſt, he ſhould be excommunicate out of the ſynagogue,

23 Therefore ſaid his parents, He is old enough: aſk him.

24 Then again called they the man that had been blind, and ſaid unto him, [d] Give glory unto God: we know that this man is a [e] ſinner. A. D. 32.

25 Then he anſwered, and ſaid, Whether he be a ſinner or no, I cannot tell: one thing I know, that I was blind, and now I ſee.

26 Then ſaid they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

27 He anſwered them, I have told you already, and ye have not heard it: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye alſo be his diſciples?

28 [6] Then reviled they him, and ſaid, Be thou his diſciple: we be Moſes's diſciples.

29 We know that God ſpake with Moſes: but this man we know not from whence he is.

30 The man anſwered and ſaid unto them, Doubtleſs, this is a marvellous thing, that ye know not whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

31 Now we know that God heareth not ſinners: but if a man be a worſhipper of God, and doeth his will, him heareth he.

32 Since the world began, was it not heard, that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind.

33 If this man were not of God, he could have done nothing.

34 They anſwered, and ſaid unto him, [f] Thou art altogether born in ſins, and doeſt thou teach us? ſo they caſt him out.

35 [7] Jeſus heard that they had caſt him out: and when he had found him, he ſaid unto him, Doeſt thou believe in the Son of God?

36 He anſwered, and ſaid, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe in him?

37 And Jeſus ſaid unto him, Both thou haſt ſeen him, and he it is that talketh with thee.

38 Then he ſaid, Lord, I believe: and worſhipped him.

39 [8] And Jeſus ſaid, I am come unto [g] judgment into this world, that they [h] which ſee not, might ſee: and that they * which ſee, might be made blind. * Ch. 3. 17. and 12. 47.

40 And ſome of the Phariſees which were with him, heard theſe things, and ſaid unto him, Are we blind alſo?

41 Jeſus ſaid unto them, If ye were blind, ye ſhould not have ſin: but now ye ſay, We ſee: therefore your ſin remaineth.

[4] A true image of all men, who as they are of nature blind, do neither themſelves receive the light that is offered unto them, nor ſuffer it in others, and yet make a great ado amongſt themſelves.

[c] This is an Hebrew kind of ſpeech, for they call a man's eyes ſhut, when they cannot receive any light. And therefore they are ſaid to have their eyes opened, which of blind men are made to ſee.

[5] Religion is not aſſaulted by any means more, than by pretence of religion; but the more it is preſſed down, the more it riſeth up.

[d] A ſolemn order, whereby men were conſtrained in old time to acknowledge their fault before God, as if they ſhould ſay, Conſider thou art before God, who knoweth the whole matter, and therefore ſee thou reverence his majeſty, and do him this honour, rather to confeſs the whole matter openly, than to lye before him, Joſh. 7. 19. 1 Sam. 6. 5.

[e] He is called a ſinner in the Hebrew tongue, which is a wicked man, and maketh as it were an art of ſinning.

[6] Proud wickedneſs muſt needs at length break forth, which in vain lieth hid under a zeal of godlineſs.

[f] Thou art naught even from thy cradle, and as we uſe to ſay, there is nothing in thee but ſin:

[7] Moſt happy is their ſtate which are caſt furtheſt out of the church of the wicked (which proudly boaſt themſelves of the name of the church) that Chriſt may come nearer to them.

[8] Chriſt doth lighten all them by the preaching of the goſpel, which acknowledge their own darkneſs, but ſuch as ſeem to themſelves to ſee clearly enough, thoſe he altogether blindeth; of which ſort are they oftentimes which have the higheſt place in the church.

[g] With great power and authority, to do what is righteous and juſt; as if he ſaid, Theſe men take upon them to govern the people of God after their own luſt, as though they ſaw all things, and no man but they; but I will rule far otherwiſe than theſe men do: for whom they account for blind men, them will I lighten; and ſuch as take themſelves to be wiſeſt, them will I drown in moſt groſs darkneſs of ignorance.

[h] In theſe words (of ſeeing, and not ſeeing) there is a ſecret taunting and check to the Phariſees: for they thought all men blind but themſelves.

A. D. 32.

CHAP. X.

1 Chriſt proveth that the Phariſees are the evil ſhepherds, 8 and by many reaſons, that himſelf 11, 14 is the good ſhepherd. 19 And thereof diſſention ariſeth. 31 They take up ſtones, 39 and go about to take him, but he eſcapeth.

VERILY,[1] verily I ſay unto you, He that entereth not in by the door into the ſheepfold, but climbeth up another way, he is a thief and a robber.

2 But he that goeth in by the door, is the ſhepherd of the ſheep.

3 To him the [a] porter openeth, and the ſheep hear his voice, and he calleth his own ſheep by name, and leadeth them out.

4 And when he hath ſent forth his own ſheep, he goeth before them, and the ſheep follow him: for they know his voice.

5 And they will not follow a ſtranger, but they flee from him: for they know not the voice of ſtrangers.

6 This [b] parable ſpake Jeſus unto them: but they underſtood not what things they were which he ſpake unto them.

7 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them again, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, I am the door of the ſheep.

8 [2] All that [c] ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the ſheep did not hear them.

9 [3] I am that door: by me if any man enter in, he ſhall be ſaved, and ſhall [d] go in, and go out, and find paſture.

10 The thief cometh not but for to ſteal, and to kill, and to deſtroy: I am come that they might have life, and have it in abundance.

* Iſa. 40. 11. Ezek. 34. 23. 11 * I am that good ſhepherd: that good ſhepherd giveth his life for his ſheep.

12 But an hireling, and he which is not the ſhepherd, neither the ſheep are his own, ſeeth the wolf coming, and he leaveth the ſheep, and fleeth, and the wolf catcheth them, and ſcattereth the ſheep.

13 So the hireling fleeth, becauſe he is an hireling, and careth not for the ſheep.

14 I am that good ſhepherd, and know mine, and am known of mine,

15 As the Father [e] knoweth me, ſo know I the Father: and I lay down my life for my ſheep.

16 [4] Other ſheep I have alſo, which are not of this fold: them alſo muſt I bring, and they ſhall hear my voice: and * there ſhall be [f] one ſheepfold, and one ſhepherd. * Ezek. 37 22.

17 [5] Therefore doth my Father love me, becauſe * [g] I lay down my life, that I might take it again. * Iſa. 53. 7.

18 No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myſelf: I have power to lay it down, and have power to take it again: this * commandment have I received of my Father. * Acts 2. 24.

19 ¶ [6] Then there was a diſſention again among the Jews for theſe ſayings.

20 And many of them ſaid, He hath a devil, and is mad: why hear ye him?

21 Others ſaid, Theſe are not the words of him that hath a devil: Can the devil open the eyes of the blind?

22 And it was at Jeruſalem, the feaſt of the [h] dedication, and it was winter.

23 [7] And Jeſus walked in the temple, in Solomon's porch.

24 Then came the Jews round about him, and ſaid unto him, How long doſt thou make us doubt? If thou be that Chriſt, tell us plainly.

25 [8] Jeſus anſwered them, I told you, and ye believe not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witneſs of me.

26 [9] But ye believe not: [i] for ye are not of my ſheep, as I ſaid unto you.

27 My ſheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me:

28 And I give unto them eternal life, and they ſhall never periſh, neither ſhall any pluck them out of mine hand.

29 My Father which gave them me, is greater than all, and none is able to take them out of my Father's hand.

30 I and my Father are one.

31 * [10] Then the Jews again took up ſtones, to ſtone him. * Ch. 8. 59.

32 Jeſus anſwered them, Many good works have I ſhewed you from my [k] Father: for which of theſe works do ye ſtone me?

33 The Jews anſwered him, ſaying, For the good

---

[1] Seeing that by Chriſt only we have acceſs to the Father, there are neither other true ſhepherds, than thoſe which come to Chriſt themſelves, and bring others thither alſo; neither is any to be thought the true ſheep-fold, but that which is gathered to Chriſt.

[a] In thoſe days they uſed to have a ſervant always ſitting at the door, and therefore he ſpeaketh after the manner of thoſe days.

[b] This word (parable) which the Evangeliſt uſeth here, ſignifieth a dark kind of ſpeech, when words are taken from their natural meaning, to ſignify another thing to us.

[2] It maketh no matter, how many, neither how old the falſe teachers have been.

[c] Theſe large terms muſt be applied to the matter he ſpeaketh of. And therefore when he calleth himſelf the door, he calleth all them thieves and robbers which take upon them this name of Door, which none of the prophets can, for they ſhewed the ſheep that Chriſt was the door.

[3] Only Chriſt is the true paſtor, and that only is the true church, which acknowledgeth him to be properly their only paſtor: To him are oppoſite thieves, which feed not the ſheep, but kill them: and hirelings alſo, which forſake the flock in time of danger, becauſe they feed it only for their own profit and gains.

[d] That is, ſhall live ſafely: ſo uſe the Jews to ſpeak, as Deut. 26. 6. and yet there is a peculiar alluding to the Shepherd's office.

[e] Loveth me, alloweth me.

[4] The calling of the Gentiles.

[f] The certain mark of the catholic church throughout all the world, which hath one head, that is, Chriſt, the only keeper and only ſhepherd of it.

[5] Chriſt is by the decree of the Father, the only true ſhepherd of the true church, for he willingly gave his life for his ſheep, and by his own power roſe again to life.

[g] He ſpeaketh in the time that now is, becauſe Chriſt's whole life was as it were a perpetual death.

[6] The goſpel diſcovereth hypocriſy, and therefore the world muſt needs rage when it cometh forth.

[h] The feaſt of the dedication was inſtituted by Judas Maccabæus and his brethren, after the reſtoring of God's true religion by the caſting out of Antiochus's garriſon, 1 Mac. 4. 59.

[7] The unbelievers and proud men accuſe the goſpel of darkneſs, which darkneſs indeed is within themſelves.

[8] The doctrine of the goſpel is proved from heaven by two witneſſes; both by the purity of the doctrine, and by miracles.

[9] It is no marvel that there do but a few believe, ſeeing that all men are by nature untamed beaſts, yet notwithſtanding God hath his, which he turneth into his ſheep, and committeth them unto his Son, and preſerveth them againſt the cruelty of all wild beaſts.

[i] He giveth a reaſon why they believe not, to wit, becauſe they are none of his ſheep.

[10] Chriſt proveth his dignity by divine works.

[k] Through my Father's authority and power.

A. D. 33. good work we ſtone thee not, but for blaſphemy, and that thou being a man, makeſt thyſelf God.

34 Jeſus anſwered them, Is it not written in your law, * I ſaid, Ye are gods ? * Pſ. 82. 6.

35 If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God was given, and the ſcripture cannot be [1] broken:

36 Say ye of him, whom the Father hath ſanctified, and ſent into the world, Thou blaſphemeſt, becauſe I ſaid, I am the Son of God?

37 If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not.

38 But if I do, then though ye believe not me, yet believe the works, that ye may know and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him.

39 [11] Again they went about to take him: but he eſcaped out of their hands,

40 And went again beyond Jordan, into the place where John firſt baptized, and there abode.

41 And many reſorted unto him, and ſaid, John did no miracle: but all things that John ſpake of this man, were true.

42 And many believed in him there.

CHAP. XI.

1 Chriſt, to ſhew that he is 25 the life and the reſurrection, 14 cometh to Lazarus being dead, 17, 34 and buried, 43 and raiſeth him up. 47 As the prieſts were conſulting together, 49 Caiaphas 50 propheſieth that one muſt die for the people. 56, 57 They command to ſeek Chriſt out, and to take him.

AND [1] a certain man was ſick, named Lazarus of Bethany, the [a] town of Mary, and her ſiſter Martha.

* Ch. 12. 3. Matt. 26. 7. 2 (And it was that * Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whoſe brother Lazarus was ſick)

3 Therefore his ſiſters ſent unto him, ſaying, Lord, behold, he whom thou loveſt, is ſick.

4 When Jeſus heard it, he ſaid, This ſickneſs is not unto [b] death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 ¶ Now Jeſus loved Martha and her ſiſter, and Lazarus.

6 [2] And after he had heard that he was ſick, yet abode he two days ſtill in the ſame place where he was.

7 Then after that, ſaid he to his diſciples, Let us go into Judea again.

* Ch. 7. 30. and 8. 59. and 10. 33. 8 [3] The diſciples ſaid unto him, Maſter, the Jews lately ſought to * ſtone thee, and doeſt thou go thither again?

9 Jeſus anſwered, Are there not [c] twelve hours in the day? If a man walk in the day, he ſtumbleth not, becauſe he ſeeth the light of this world. A. D. 33.

10 But if a man walk in the night, he ſtumbleth, becauſe there is no light in him.

11 Theſe things ſpake he: and after, he ſaid unto them, Our friend Lazarus [d] ſleepeth: but I go to wake him up.

12 Then ſaid his diſciples, Lord, if he ſleep, he ſhall be ſafe.

13 Howbeit, Jeſus ſpake of his death: but they thought that he had ſpoken of the natural ſleep.

14 Then ſaid Jeſus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead.

15 And I am glad for your ſakes, that I was not there, that ye may believe: but let us go unto him.

16 Then ſaid Thomas (which is called Didymus) unto his fellow diſciples, Let us alſo go, that we may die with him.

17 ¶ Then came Jeſus, and found that he had lien in the grave four days already.

18 ¶ (Now Bethany was near unto Jeruſalem, about fifteen furlongs off.)

19 [4] And many of the Jews were come to Martha and Mary, to comfort them for their brother.

20 Then Martha, when ſhe heard that Jeſus was coming, went to meet him: but Mary ſat ſtill in the houſe.

21 Then ſaid Martha unto Jeſus, Lord, if thou hadſt been here, my brother had not been dead.

22 But now I know alſo, that whatſoever thou aſkeſt of God, God will give it thee.

23 Jeſus ſaid unto her, Thy brother ſhall [e] riſe again.

24 Martha ſaid unto him, I know that he ſhall riſe again * in the reſurrection at the laſt day. * Ch. 5. 29. Luke 14. 14.

25 Jeſus ſaid unto her, I am the reſurrection and the life: * he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet ſhall he live. * Ch. 6. 35.

26 And whoſoever liveth, and believeth in me, ſhall never die: believeſt thou this?

27 She ſaid unto him, Yea, Lord, I believe that thou art that Chriſt that Son of God, which ſhould come into the world.

28 ¶ And when ſhe had ſo ſaid, ſhe went her way, and called Mary her ſiſter ſecretly, ſaying, The Maſter is come, and calleth for thee.

29 And when ſhe heard it, ſhe aroſe quickly, and came unto him,

30 For Jeſus was not yet come into the town, but was in the place where Martha met him.

31 The Jews then which were with her in the houſe, and comforted her, when they ſaw Mary that ſhe roſe up haſtily, and went out, followed

---

[1] Void and of none effect.

[11] Chriſt fleeth danger, not of miſtruſt, nor for fear of death, nor that he would be idle, but to gather a church in another place.

[1] Chriſt in reſtoring the ſtinking carcaſe of his friend to life, ſheweth an example both of his mighty power, and alſo of his ſingular good-will toward men: which is alſo an image of the reſurrection to come.

[a] Where his ſiſters dwelt.

[b] That is to ſay, ſent for the purpoſe to kill him.

[2] In that, that God ſeemeth ſometimes to linger in helping of us, he doth it both for his glory, and for our ſalvation, as the falling out of the matter in the end plainly proveth.

[3] This only is the ſure and right way to life, to follow God boldly without fear, who calleth us, and ſhineth before us in the darkneſs of this world.

[c] All things are fitly wrought, and brought to paſs in their ſeaſon.

[d] The Jews uſed a milder kind of ſpeech, and called death a ſleep, whereupon in other languages the place of burial where the dead are laid, waiting for the reſurrection, is a ſleeping-place.

[4] God who is the maker of nature, doth not condemn natural affections, but ſheweth that they ought to be examined by the rule of faith.

[e] That is, ſhall recover life again.

A. D. 33.

followed her, ſaying, She goeth unto the grave, to weep there.

32 Then when Mary was come where Jeſus was, and ſaw him, ſhe fell down at his feet, ſaying unto him, Lord, if thou hadſt been here, my brother had not been dead.

33 [5] When Jeſus therefore ſaw her weep, and the Jews alſo weep which came with her, he [f] groaned in the ſpirit, and was troubled in himſelf,

34 And ſaid, Where have ye laid him? They ſaid unto him, Lord, come and ſee.

35 And Jeſus wept.

36 Then ſaid the Jews, Behold, how he loved him!

* Ch. 9. 6.

37 And ſome of them ſaid, * Could not he which opened the eyes of the blind, have made alſo, that this man ſhould not have died?

38 Jeſus therefore again groaned in himſelf, and came to the grave. And it was a cave, and a ſtone was laid upon it.

39 Jeſus ſaid, Take ye away the ſtone. Martha, the ſiſter of him that was dead, ſaid unto him, Lord, he ſtinketh already: for he hath been dead four days.

40 Jeſus ſaid unto her, Said I not unto thee, that if thou didſt believe, thou ſhouldeſt ſee the glory of God?

41 Then they took away the ſtone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jeſus lift up his eyes, and ſaid, Father, I thank thee, becauſe thou haſt heard me.

42 I know that thou heareſt me always, but becauſe of the people that ſtand by, I ſaid it, that they may believe that thou haſt ſent me.

43 As he had ſpoken theſe things, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth.

44 Then he that was dead, came forth, bound hand and foot with bands, and his face was bound with a napkin. Jeſus ſaid unto them, Looſe him, and let him go.

45 ¶ Then many of the Jews, which came to Mary, and had ſeen the things which Jeſus did, believed in him.

46 [6] But ſome of them went their way to the Phariſees, and told them what things Jeſus had done.

47 Then gathered the high prieſts and the Phariſees a [g] council, and ſaid, What ſhall we do? For this man doeth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, all men will believe in him, and the Romans will come and [h] take away both our place, and the nation.

49 [7] Then one of them named Caiaphas, which was the high prieſt that ſame year, ſaid unto them, Ye perceive nothing at all.

* Ch. 18. 14.

50 * Nor yet do you conſider, that it is expedient for us, that one man die for the people, and that the whole nation periſh not.

A. D. 33.

51 [8] This ſpake he not of himſelf: but being high prieſt that ſame year, he propheſied that Jeſus ſhould die for that nation:

52 And not for that nation only, but that he ſhould gather together in one the children of God, which [i] were ſcattered.

53 Then from that day forth they conſulted together to put him to death.

54 [9] Jeſus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews, but went thence into a country near to the wilderneſs, into a city called Ephraim, and there continued with his diſciples.

55 ¶ And the Jews paſſover was at hand, and many went out of the country up to Jeruſalem, before the paſſover, to purify themſelves.

56 Then ſought they for Jeſus, and ſpake among themſelves, as they ſtood in the temple, What think ye, that he cometh not to the feaſt?

57 Now both the high prieſts and the Phariſees had given a commandment, that if any man knew where he were, he ſhould ſhew it, that they might take him.

CHAP. XII.

2 As Chriſt is at ſupper with Lazarus, 3 Mary anointeth his feet. 5 Judas findeth fault with her. 7 Chriſt defendeth her. 10 The prieſts would put Lazarus to death. 12 As Chriſt cometh to Jeruſalem, 18 the people meet him. 20 The Grecians deſire to ſee him. 40 The chief rulers that believe in him, but for fear do not confeſs him, 44 he exhorteth to faith.

* Ch. 26. 7. Mark 14. 3.

THEN * Jeſus, ſix days before the paſſover, came to Bethany, where Lazarus was, who died, whom he had raiſed from the dead.

2 There they made him a ſupper, and Martha ſerved: but Lazarus was one of them that ſat at the table with him.

3 Then took Mary a pound of ointment of ſpikenard, very coſtly, and anointed Jeſus's feet, and wiped his feet with her hair, and the houſe was filled with the ſavour of the ointment.

4 Then ſaid one of his diſciples, even Judas Iſcariot, Simon's ſon, which ſhould betray him,

5 [1] Why was not this ointment ſold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

* Ch. 13. 29.

6 Now he ſaid this, not that he cared for the poor, but becauſe he was a thief, and * had the bag, and bare that which was given.

7 [2] Then ſaid Jeſus, Let her alone: againſt the day of my burying ſhe kept it.

8 For the poor always ye have with you, but me ye ſhall not have always.

9 Then

---

[5] Chriſt took upon him, together with our fleſh, all affections of man (ſin only excepted) and amongſt them eſpecially mercy and compaſſion.

[f] Theſe are tokens that he was greatly moved, but yet they were without ſin; and theſe affections are proper to man's nature.

[6] The laſt point of iron like ſtubbornneſs is this, to proclaim open war againſt God, and yet ceaſeth not to make a pretence both of godlineſs, and of the profit of the commonwealth.

[g] The Jews called this council Sanhedrin: and the word that John uſeth, is Synedri.

[h] That is, take away from us by force: for at that time, though the high prieſt's authority was greatly leſſened and decayed, yet there was ſome kind of government left among the Jews.

[7] The raging and mad company of the falſe church perſuade themſelves that they cannot be in ſafety, unleſs he be taken away, who only upholdeth the church. And ſo likewiſe judgeth the wiſdom of the fleſh in worldly affairs, which is governed by the ſpirit of giddineſs or madneſs.

[8] Chriſt doth ſometimes ſo turn the tongues, even of the wicked, that even in curſing, they bleſs.

[i] For they were not gathered together in one country, as the Jews were, but to be gathered from all quarters, from the Eaſt to the Weſt.

[9] We may give place to the rage of the wicked, when it is expedient ſo to do, but yet in ſuch ſort, that we ſwerve not from God's vocation.

[1] An horrible example in Judas, of a mind blinded with covetouſneſs, and yet pretending godlineſs.

[2] This extraordinary anointing, which was for a ſign, is ſo allowed of God, that he witneſſeth how he will not be worſhipped with outward pomp, or coſtly ſervice, but with alms.

A. D. 33.

9 [3] Then much people of the Jews knew that he was there: and they came, not for Jeſus's ſake only, but that they might ſee Lazarus alſo, whom he had raiſed from the dead.

10 The high prieſts therefore conſulted, that they might put Lazarus to death alſo,

11 Becauſe that for his ſake many of the Jews went away, and believed in Jeſus.

* Matt. 21. 8. Mark 11. 8. Luke 19. 35.

12 ¶ * On the morrow a great multitude that were come to the feaſt, when they heard that Jeſus ſhould come to Jeruſalem,

13 Took branches of palm-trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, Hoſanna, Bleſſed is the king of Iſrael that cometh in the name of the Lord.

14 And Jeſus found a young aſs, and ſat thereon, as it is written,

* Zech. 9. 9.

15 * Fear not, daughter of Sion: Behold, thy King cometh, ſitting on an aſs's colt.

16 But his diſciples underſtood not theſe things at the firſt: but when Jeſus was glorified, then remembered they, that theſe things were written of him, and that they had done theſe things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him, bare witneſs that he called Lazarus out of the grave, and raiſed him from the dead:

18 Therefore met him the people alſo, becauſe they ſaid that he had done this miracle.

19 [4] And the Phariſees ſaid among themſelves, Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? Behold, the world goeth after him.

20 ¶ Now there were certain Greeks among them that [a] came up to worſhip at the feaſt.

21 And they came to Philip, which was of Bethſaida in Galilee, and deſired him, ſaying, Sir, we would ſee that Jeſus.

22 Philip came and told Andrew: and again Andrew and Philip told Jeſus.

23 And Jeſus anſwered them, ſaying, The hour is come, that the Son of man muſt be glorified.

24 [5] Verily, verily I ſay unto you, Except the wheat corn fall into the ground, and [b] die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

* Matt. 10. 39. and 16. 25. Mark 8. 35. Luke 9. 24. and 17. 33.

25 * He that loveth his life, ſhall loſe it: and he that hateth his life in this world, ſhall keep it unto life eternal.

* Ch. 17. 34.

26 * If any man ſerve me, let him follow me: for where I am, there ſhall alſo my ſervant be: and if any man ſerve me, him will my Father honour.

A. D. 33.

27 [6] Now is my ſoul troubled: and what ſhall I ſay? Father, ſave me from this [c] hour? But therefore came I unto this hour.

28 Father, [d] glorify thy name. Then came there a voice from heaven, ſaying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again.

29 Then ſaid the people that ſtood by, and heard, that it was a thunder: others ſaid, An angel ſpake to him.

30 [7] Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid, This voice came not becauſe of me, but for your ſakes.

31 Now is the judgment of this world: now ſhall the prince of this world be caſt out.

32 * And I, if I were [e] lift up from the earth, will [f] draw all men unto me.

* Ch. 3. 14.

33 Now this ſaid he, ſignifying what death he ſhould die.

34 The people anſwered him, We have heard out of the * law, that that Chriſt abideth for ever: and how ſayeſt thou, that that Son of man muſt be lift up? Who is that Son of man?

* Pſ. 89. 36. and 110. 4. and 117. 2. Iſa. 40. 8. Ezech. 37. 25.

35 [8] Then Jeſus ſaid unto them, Yet a little while is the * light with you: walk while ye have that light, leſt the darkneſs come upon you: for he that walketh in the dark, knoweth not whither he goeth.

* Ch. 1. 9.

36 While ye have that light, believe in that light, that ye may be the [g] children of the light. Theſe things ſpake Jeſus, and departed, and hid himſelf from them.

37 ¶ [9] And though he had done ſo many miracles before them, yet believed they not on him,

38 That the ſaying of Eſaias the prophet might be fulfilled, that he ſaid, * Lord, who believed our report? and to whom is the [h] arm of the Lord revealed?

* Iſa. 53. 1. Rom. 10. 16.

39 Therefore could they not believe, becauſe that Eſaias ſaith again,

40 * He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart, that they ſhould not ſee with their eyes, nor underſtand with their heart, and ſhould be converted, and I ſhould heal them.

* Iſa. 6. 9. Matt. 13. 14. Mark 4. 12. Luke 8. 10. Acts 28. 26. Rom. 11. 8.

41 Theſe things ſaid Eſaias, when he ſaw his glory, and ſpake of him.

42 [10] Neverthelesſ, even among the chief rulers, many believed in him: but becauſe of the Phariſees they did not confeſs him, leſt they ſhould be caſt out of the ſynagogue.

---

[3] When the light of the goſpel ſheweth itſelf, ſome are found to be curious, and others (which leaſt ought) to be open enemies: others in a rage honour him, whom they will ſtraightway fall from: and very few do ſo reverently receive him as they ought: notwithſtanding, Chriſt beginneth his ſpiritual kingdom in the midſt of his enemies.

[4] Even they which go about to oppreſs Chriſt, are made inſtruments of his glory.

[a] After the ſolemn cuſtom: the Grecians were firſt ſo called by the name of the country of Greece, where they dwelt: but afterward, all that were not of the Jews religion, but worſhipped falſe gods, and were alſo called heathens, were called by this name.

[5] The death of Chriſt is, as it were, a ſowing, which ſeemeth to be a dying to the corn, but indeed is the cauſe of a far greater harveſt: and ſuch as is the condition of the head, ſo ſhall it be of the members.

[b] A wheat corn dieth when it is changed by virtue of the ground, and becometh a root of a fruitful blade.

[6] While Chriſt went about to ſuffer all the puniſhment which is due to our ſins, and whilſt his divinity did not yet ſhew his might and power ſo far, as this ſatisfaction might be thoroughly wrought: now when he is ſtricken with the great fear of the curſe of God, he crieth and prayeth, and deſireth to be releaſed: yet notwithſtanding he preferreth the will and glory of his Father before all things, whoſe obedience the Father alloweth even from heaven.

[c] To wit, of death that is now at hand.

[d] So then the Father's glory is Chriſt's glory.

[7] Chriſt foretelleth to the deaf the manner of his death, the overcoming of the devil and the world, and in concluſion, his triumph.

[e] Chriſt uſed a word which hath a double meaning, for it ſignifieth either to lift up, or rid out of the way: for his meaning was to put them in mind of his death, but the Jews ſeem to take it another way.

[f] Chryſoſtom and Theophylact, refer this word, All, to all nations, that is, not to the Jews only.

[8] Unmeaſurable is the mercy of God; but an horrible judgment followeth, if it be contemned.

[g] That is, partakers of light.

[9] Faith is not of nature, but of grace.

[h] The arm of the Lord, is the goſpel, which is the power of God to ſalvation, to all that believe: and therefore the arm of the Lord is not revealed to them, whoſe hearts the Lord hath not opened.

[10] Such as believe, are not only few in number, if they be compared with the unbelievers, but alſo the moſt of thoſe few (yea, and eſpecially, the chiefeſt) do fear men rather than God.

48 He that refuſeth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: * the word that I have ſpoken, it ſhall judge him in the laſt day.

49 For I have not ſpoken of myſelf: but the Father which hath ſent me, he gave me a commandment what I ſhould ſay, and what I ſhould ſpeak.

50 And I know that his commandment is life everlaſting: the things therefore that I ſpeak, I ſpeak them ſo as the Father ſaid unto me.

NOW *[1] before the feaſt of the paſſover, when Jeſus knew that his hour was come, that he ſhould depart out of this world unto the Father, foraſmuch as he loved his [a] own which were in the world, unto the end he loved them.

2 And when ſupper was done (and that the devil had now put in the heart of Judas Iſcariot, Simon's ſon, to betray him)

3 Jeſus knowing that the Father had given all things into his [b] hands, and that he was come forth from God, and went to God:

4 He [c] riſeth from ſupper, and layeth aſide his upper garments, and took a towel, and girded himſelf.

5 After that, he poured water into a baſon, and began to waſh the diſciples feet, and to wipe them with the towel, wherewith he was girded.

6 Then came he to Simon Peter, who ſaid to him, Lord, doſt thou waſh my feet?

7 Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto him, What I do, thou knoweſt not now: but thou ſhalt know it hereafter.

8 Peter ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt never waſh my feet. Jeſus anſwered him, If I waſh thee not, thou ſhalt have [d] no part with me.

9 Simon Peter ſaid unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but alſo the hands and the head.

* Ch. 15. 3.

10 Jeſus ſaid unto him, He that is waſhed, needeth not, ſave to waſh his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are * clean, but not all.

11 For he knew who ſhould betray him: therefore ſaid he, Ye are not all clean.

12 ¶ So after he had waſhed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was ſet down again, he ſaid to them, Know ye what I have done to you?

13 Ye call me Maſter, and Lord, and ye ſay well: for ſo am I.

14 If I then your Lord, and Maſter, have waſhed your feet, ye alſo ought to waſh one another's feet.

17 If ye know theſe things, bleſſed are ye if ye do them.

* Pſ. 41. 9.

19 From henceforth tell I you before it come, that when it is come to paſs, ye might believe that I am he.

* Matt. 10. 40. Luke 10. 16.

20 * Verily, verily I ſay unto you, If I ſend any, he that receiveth him, receiveth me: and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that ſent me.

21 When Jeſus had ſaid theſe things, he was troubled in the ſpirit, and [e] teſtified and ſaid, Verily, verily I ſay unto you, that one of you ſhall betray me.

* Matt. 26. 21. Mark 14. 18. Luke 22. 21.

22 * Then the diſciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he ſpake.

23 Now there was one of his diſciples, which [f] leaned on Jeſus's boſom, whom Jeſus loved.

24 To him beckoned therefore Simon Peter, that he ſhould aſk who it was of whom he ſpake.

25 He then, as he leaned on Jeſus's breaſt, ſaid unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jeſus anſwered, He it is, to whom I ſhall give a ſop, when I have dipt it: and he wet a ſop, and gave it to Judas Iſcariot, Simon's ſon.

27 And after the ſop, Satan entered into him, Then ſaid Jeſus unto him, That thou doeſt, do quickly.

28 But none of them that were at table, knew for what cauſe he ſpake it unto him.

29 For ſome of them thought, becauſe Judas had the bag, that Jeſus had ſaid unto him, Buy thoſe

[11] The ſum of the goſpel, and therefore of ſalvation, which Chriſt witneſſed in the midſt of Jeruſalem by his crying out, is this, to reſt upon Chriſt through faith, as the only Saviour appointed and given us of the Father.

[i] This word, Not, doth not take any whit of this from Chriſt, which is here ſpoken of, but is in way of correction rather: as if he ſaid, He that believeth in me, doth not ſo much believe in me, as in him that ſent me. So is it in Mark 9. 37.

[1] Chriſt no leſs certain of the victory, than of the combat which was at hand, uſing the ſign of waſhing the feet, doth partly thereby give an example of ſingular modeſty, and his great love towards his apoſtles in this notable act, being like, very ſhortly, to depart from them: and partly witneſſeth unto them, that it is he only which waſheth away the filth of his people, and that by little and little in their time and ſeaſon.

[a] Them of his houſhold, that is, his ſaints.

[b] Into his power.

[c] In that he is ſaid to riſe, it argueth that there was a ſpace between the ceremony of the paſſover and this waſhing of feet, at what time it ſeemeth that the ſupper was inſtituted.

[d] Unleſs thou ſuffer me to waſh thee, thou ſhalt have no part in the kingdom of heaven.

[2] The betraying of Chriſt was not caſual, or a thing that happened by chance, but the Father ſo ordained the cauſe of our ſalvation, to reconcile us unto himſelf in his Son, and the Son did willingly and voluntarily obey the Father.

[e] He affirmed it openly and ſoothed it.

[f] John's leaning was ſuch, that ſitting down in his bed, his head was toward Jeſus's head: ſo that it was an eaſy matter for him to touch Jeſus's boſom: for it is certain that in old time men uſed not to ſit at the table, but to lie down on the one ſide.

those things that we have need of againſt the feaſt: or that he ſhould give ſomething to the poor.

30 As ſoon then as he had received the ſop, he went immediately out, and it was night.

31 ¶ [3] When he was gone out, Jeſus said, [g] Now is the Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him.

32 If God be glorified in him, God ſhall alſo glorify him in himſelf, and ſhall ſtraightway glorify him.

* Lev. 19. 18. Matt. 22. 39. Ch. 15. 12. 1 John 4. 21.

35 By this ſhall all men know, that ye are my diſciples, if ye have love one to another.

36 [5] Simon Peter ſaid unto him, Lord, whither goeſt thou? Jeſus anſwered him, Whither I go, thou canſt not follow me now: but thou ſhalt follow me afterward.

37 Peter ſaid unto him, Lord, why can I not follow thee now? * I will lay down my life for thy ſake.

* Matt. 26. 33. Mark 14. 29. Luke 22. 33.

38 Jeſus anſwered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my ſake? Verily, verily I ſay unto thee, The cock ſhall not crow, till thou have denied me thrice.

CHAP. XIV.

1 He comforteth his diſciples, 2, 7 declaring his divinity and the fruit of his death, 16 promiſing the Comforter. 17 even the Holy Spirit, 26 whoſe office he ſetteth out. 27 He promiſeth his peace.

LET [1] not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe alſo in me.

2 In my Father's houſe are many dwelling-places: if it were not ſo, [a] I would have told you: I go to [b] prepare a place for you.

3 [2] And if I go to prepare a place for you, I will [c] come again, and receive you unto myſelf, that where I am, there may ye be alſo.

4 [3] And whither I go, ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thomas ſaid unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goeſt, how can we then know the way?

6 Jeſus ſaid unto him, I am [d] that Way, and that Truth, and that Life. No man cometh unto the Father, but by me.

7 [e] If ye had known me, ye ſhould have known my Father alſo: and from henceforth ye know him, and have ſeen him.

8 Philip ſaid unto him, Lord, ſhew us thy Father, and it ſufficeth us.

9 Jeſus ſaid unto him, I have been ſo long time with you, and haſt thou not known me, Philip? he that hath ſeen me, hath ſeen my Father: how then ſayeſt thou, Shew us thy Father?

10 [4] Believeſt thou not, that I am in the Father, and the Father is in me? The words that I ſpeak unto you, I ſpeak not of myſelf: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doth the works.

11 Believe me, that I am in the Father, and the Father is in me: at the leaſt, believe me for the very works ſake.

12 [5] Verily, verily I ſay unto you, he that believeth in me, the works that I do, he ſhall do alſo, and [f] greater than theſe ſhall he do: for I go unto my Father.

13 * And whatſoever ye aſk in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

* Ch. 16. 23. Matt. 7. 7. Mark 11. 24. James 1. 5.

14 If ye ſhall aſk any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 [6] If ye love me, keep my commandments.

16 And I will pray the Father, and he ſhall give you another comforter, that he may abide with you for ever:

17 Even the [g] Spirit of truth, whom the [h] world cannot receive, becauſe it ſeeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him: for he dwelleth with you, and ſhall be in you.

18 I will not leave you fatherleſs: but I will come to you.

19 Yet a little while, and the world ſhall ſee me no more, but ye ſhall ſee me: becauſe I live, ye ſhall live alſo.

20 At that day ſhall ye know that I am [i] in my Father, and you in me, and I in you.

[3] We have to conſider the glorifying of Chriſt in his ignominy.

[g] This verſe and the next following, are a moſt plain and evident teſtimony of the divinity of Chriſt.

[4] The eternal glory ſhall flow by little and little from the head into the members. But in the mean time, we muſt take good heed, that we paſs over the race of this life in brotherly love.

[5] An heavy example of raſh truſt and confidence.

[1] He believeth in God that believeth in Chriſt, and there is no other way to confirm our minds in the greateſt diſtreſs.

[a] That is, if it were not ſo as I tell you, to wit, unleſs there were place enough not only for me, but for you alſo, in my Father's houſe, I would not thus deceive you with a vain hope, but I would have told you ſo plainly.

[b] All this ſpeech is by way of an allegory, whereby the Lord comforteth his own, declaring to them his departure into heaven, which is not to reign there alone, but to go before and prepare a place for them.

[2] Chriſt went not away from us, to the end to forſake us, but rather that he might at length take us up with him into heaven.

[c] Theſe words are to be referred to the whole church, and therefore the angel ſaid to the diſciples when they were aſtoniſhed, What ſtand you gazing up into heaven? This Jeſus ſhall ſo come as you ſaw him go up, Acts 1. 11. and in all places of the ſcripture, the full comfort of the church is referred to that day when God ſhall be all in all, and is therefore called the day of redemption.

[3] Chriſt only is the way to true and everlaſting life, for he it is in whom the Father hath revealed himſelf.

[d] This ſaying, ſheweth unto us both the nature, the will, and the office of Chriſt.

[e] It is plain by this place, that to know God, and to ſee God, is all one: now whereas he ſaid before, that no man ſaw God at any time, that is to be underſtood thus; without Chriſt, or were it not through Chriſt, no man could ever ſee, nor ſaw God at any time: for as Chryſoſtom ſaith, the Son is a very ſhort and eaſy ſetting forth of the Father's nature unto us.

[4] The majeſty of God ſheweth itſelf moſt evidently, both in Chriſt's doctrine and deeds.

[5] The approving of the virtue of Chriſt is not included within his own perſon, but it is ſpread through the body of his whole church.

[f] That is, not only do them, but I can alſo give other men power to do greater.

[6] He loveth Chriſt aright which obeyeth his commandments: and becauſe the ſame is accompanied with an infinite ſort of miſeries, although he be abſent in body, yet doth he comfort his with the preſent virtue of the Holy Ghoſt, whom the world deſpiſeth, becauſe it knoweth him not.

[g] The Holy Ghoſt is called the Spirit of truth, of the effect which he worketh, becauſe he inſpireth the truth into us, whereas otherwiſe he hath truth in himſelf.

[h] Worldly men.

[i] The Son is in the Father after ſuch ſort, that he is of one ſelf-ſame ſubſtance with his Father; but he is in his diſciples in a certain reſpect, as an aider and helper of them.

A. D. 33. keepeth them, is he that loveth me: and he that loveth me, ſhall be loved of my Father: and I will love him, and will [k] ſhew mine own ſelf to him.

22 [7] Judas ſaid unto him, (not Iſcariot) Lord, what is the cauſe that thou wilt ſhew thyſelf unto us, and not unto the world?

23 Jeſus anſwered, and ſaid unto him, If any man love me, he will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and he will come unto him, and will dwell with him.

24 He that loveth me not, keepeth not my words: and the word which ye hear, is not mine, but the Father's which ſent me.

25 [8] Theſe things have I ſpoken unto you, being preſent with you.

*Ch. 15. 26. 26 * But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghoſt, whom the Father will ſend in my name, he ſhall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, which I have told you.

27 [9] Peace I leave with you: my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your hearts be troubled, nor fear.

28 [10] Ye have heard how I ſaid unto you, I go away, and will come unto you. If ye loved me, ye would verily rejoice, becauſe I ſaid, I go unto the Father: for the Father is [l] greater than I.

29 And now have I ſpoken unto you, before it come, that when it is come to paſs, ye might believe.

30 [11] Hereafter will I not ſpeak many things unto you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath [m] nought in me.

31 But it is that the world may know that I love my Father: and as the Father hath commanded me, ſo I do. Ariſe, let us go hence.

CHAP. XV.

1 By the parable of the vine, 2 and the branches, 5, 6 he declareth how the diſciples may bear fruit. 12, 17 He commendeth mutual love. 18 He exhorteth them to bear afflictions patiently, 20 by his own example.

I [1] AM that true vine, and my Father is that huſbandman.

2 * Every branch that beareth not fruit in me, he taketh away: and every one that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. A. D. 33. * Matt. 15. 13.

3 * Now are ye clean through the word which I have ſpoken unto you. *Ch. 13. 10.

4 Abide in me, and I in you: as the branch cannot bear fruit of itſelf, except it abide in the vine, no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am that vine: ye are the branches: he that abideth in me, and I in him, the ſame bringeth forth much fruit: for without me can ye do nothing.

6 * If a man abide not in me, he is caſt forth as a branch, and withereth: and men gather them, and caſt them into the fire, and they burn. * Col. 1. 23.

7 * [2] If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, aſk what ye will, and it ſhall be done to you. * 1 John 3. 22.

8 [a] Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit, and be made my diſciples.

9 [3] As the Father hath loved me, ſo have I loved you: [b] continue in that my love.

10 If ye ſhall keep my commandments, ye ſhall abide in my love, as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

11 Theſe things have I ſpoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

12 * This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. *Ch. 13. 34. 1 Theſſ. 4. 9. 1 John 3. 11. and 4. 21.

13 Greater love than this hath no man, when any man beſtoweth his life for his friends.

14 Ye are my friends, if ye do whatſoever I command you.

15 [4] Henceforth call I you not ſervants: for the ſervant knoweth not what his maſter doth: but I have called you friends: for all things that I have heard of my Father, have I made known unto you.

16 [5] Ye [c] have not choſen me, but I have choſen you, and ordained you, * that ye go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit remain: that whatſoever ye ſhall aſk of the Father in my name, he may give it you. * Matt. 28. 19.

17 Theſe things command I you, that ye love one another.

18 If

[k] I will ſhew myſelf to him, and be known of him, as if he ſaw me with his eyes: but this ſhewing of himſelf is not bodily, but ſpiritually, yet ſo plain as none can be more.

[7] We muſt not aſk why the goſpel is revealed to ſome rather than to others, but we muſt rather take heed that we embrace Chriſt, who is offered unto us, and that we truly love him, that is to ſay, that we give ourſelves wholly to his obedience.

[8] It is the office of the Holy Ghoſt to imprint in the minds of the elect, in their times and ſeaſons, that which Chriſt once ſpake.

[9] All true felicity cometh to us by Chriſt alone.

[10] So far is it that we ſhould be ſorry for the departing of Chriſt from us, according to the fleſh, that we ſhould rather rejoice for it, ſeeing that all the bleſſing of the members dependeth upon the glorifying of the Head.

[l] This is ſpoken, in that that he is Mediator, for ſo the Father is greater than he, inaſmuch as the perſon to whom requeſt is made, is greater than he that maketh the requeſt.

[11] Chriſt goeth to death not unwillingly, but willingly, not as yielding to the devil, but obeying his Father's decree.

[m] As who would ſay, Satan will by and by ſet upon me with all the might he can, but he hath no power over me, neither ſhall he find any ſuch thing in me, as he thinketh he ſhall.

[1] We are of nature dry and fit for nothing, but the fire: therefore that we may live and be fruitful, we muſt firſt be grafted into Chriſt, as it were into a vine, by the Father's hand: and then be daily ſhred with a continual meditation of the word, and the croſs: otherwiſe it ſhall not avail any man at all to have been grafted, unleſs he cleave faſt unto the Vine, and ſo draw juice out of it.

[2] He abideth in Chriſt, which reſteth in his doctrine, and therefore bringeth forth good fruit: and the Father will deny ſuch an one nothing.

[a] As who would ſay, Herein ſhall my Father be glorified, and herein alſo ſhall you be my diſciples, if you bring forth much fruit.

[3] The love of the Father towards the Son, and of the Son towards us, and ours towards God and our neighbour, are joined together with an inſeparable knot: and there is nothing more ſweet and pleaſant than it is. Now this love ſheweth itſelf by the effects: a moſt perfect example whereof Chriſt himſelf exhibiteth unto us.

[b] That is, in that love wherewith I do love you: which love is on both parts.

[4] The doctrine of the goſpel (as it is uttered by Chriſt's own mouth) is a moſt perfect and abſolute declaration of the counſel of God which pertaineth to our ſalvation, and is committed unto the apoſtles.

[5] Chriſt is the author and preſerver of the miniſtry of the goſpel even to the world's end: but the miniſters have above all things need of prayer and brotherly love.

[c] This place teacheth us plainly, that our ſalvation cometh from the only favour and gracious goodneſs of the everlaſting God toward us, and of nothing that we do or can deſerve.

A. D. 33.

18 [6] If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before you.

19 If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but becauſe ye are not of the world, but I have choſen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

20 Remember the word that I ſaid unto you, * The ſervant is not greater than his maſter. * If they have perſecuted me, they will perſecute you alſo: if they have kept my word, they will alſo keep yours.

*Ch. 13. 16. Matt. 10. 24. *Matt. 24. 9.

21 [7] But * all theſe things will they do unto you for my name's ſake, becauſe they have not known him that ſent me.

*Ch. 16. 4.

22 [d] If I had not come and ſpoken unto them, they ſhould not have had ſin: but now have they no cloke for their ſin.

23 He that hateth me, hateth my Father alſo.

24 If I had not done works among them which none other man did, they had not had ſin: but now have they both ſeen, and have hated both me, and my Father.

25 But it is that the word might be fulfilled, that is written in their [e] law, * They hated me without a cauſe.

*Pſ. 35. 19.

26 [8] But when that Comforter ſhall come, * whom I will ſend unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth of the Father, he ſhall teſtify of me.

*Ch. 14. 26. Luke 24. 49.

27 And ye ſhall witneſs alſo, becauſe ye have been with me from the beginning.

CHAP. XVI.

1 He foretelleth the diſciples of perſecution. 7 He promiſeth the Comforter, and declareth his office. 21 He compareth the afflictions of his to a woman that travaileth with child.

THESE [1] things have I ſaid unto you, that ye ſhould not be offended.

2 They ſhall excommunicate you: yea, the time ſhall come, that whoſoever killeth you, will think that he doth God ſervice.

3 And theſe things will they do unto you, becauſe they have not known the Father, nor me.

4 * But theſe things have I told you, that when the hour ſhall come, ye might remember, that I told you them. And theſe things ſaid I not unto you from the beginning, becauſe I was with you.

A. D. 33. *Ch. 15. 21.

5 But now I go my way to him that ſent me, and none of you aſketh me, Whither goeſt thou?

6 But becauſe I have ſaid theſe things unto you, your hearts are full of ſorrow.

7 [2] Yet I tell you the truth, It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, that Comforter will not come unto you: but if I depart, I will ſend him unto you.

8 [3] And when he is come, he will [a] reprove the [b] world of ſin, and of righteouſneſs, and of judgment.

9 Of ſin, becauſe they believed not in me:

10 Of [c] righteouſneſs, becauſe I go to my Father, and ye ſhall ſee me no more:

11 Of [d] judgment, [e] becauſe the prince of this world is judged.

12 [4] I have yet many things to ſay unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.

13 Howbeit, when he is come which is the Spirit of truth, he will lead you into all truth: for he ſhall not ſpeak of himſelf, but whatſoever he ſhall hear, ſhall he ſpeak, and he will ſhew you the things to come.

14 [5] He ſhall glorify me: For he ſhall receive of mine, and ſhall ſhew it unto you.

15 All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore ſaid I, that he ſhall take of mine, and ſhew it unto you.

16 [6] A [f] little while, and ye ſhall not ſee me: and again a little while, and ye ſhall ſee me: [g] for I go to the Father.

17 Then ſaid ſome of his diſciples among themſelves, What is this that he ſaith unto us, A little while, and ye ſhall not ſee me, and again a little while, and ye ſhall ſee me: for I go to the Father?

18 They ſaid therefore, What is this that he ſaith, A little while? we know not what he ſaith.

19 Now Jeſus knew that they would aſk him,

---

[6] It ought not only not to fear, but rather confirm the faithful miniſters of Chriſt, when they ſhall be hated of the world as their Maſter was.

[7] The hatred that the world beareth againſt Chriſt, proceedeth of the blockiſhneſs of the mind, which notwithſtanding is voluntarily blind, ſo that the world can pretend no excuſe to cover their fault.

[d] As who would ſay, If I had not come, theſe men would not have ſtuck to have ſaid ſtill before God's judgment-ſeat, that they are religious and void of ſin: but ſeeing I came to them, and they clean refuſe me, they can have no cloak for their wickedneſs.

[e] Sometimes by this word, Law, are meant the five books of Moſes, but in this place, the whole ſcripture: for the place alledged is in the pſalms.

[8] Againſt the rage of the wicked, we ſhall ſtand ſurely by the inward teſtimony of the Holy Ghoſt: but the Holy Ghoſt ſpeaketh no otherwiſe, than he ſpeaketh by the mouth of the apoſtles.

[1] The miniſters of the goſpel muſt look for all manner of reproaches, not only of them which are open enemies, but even of them alſo which ſeem to be of the ſame houſhold, and the very pillars of the church.

[2] The abſence of Chriſt according to the fleſh, is profitable to the church, that we may wholly depend upon his ſpiritual power.

[3] The Spirit of God worketh ſo mightily by the preaching of the word, that he conſtraineth the world, will it, nill it, to confeſs its own unrighteouſneſs, and Chriſt's righteouſneſs and almightineſs.

[a] He will ſo reprove the world, that the worldlings ſhall be able to pretend no excuſe.

[b] He reſpecteth the time that followed his aſcenſion, when as all gainſayers were manifeſtly reproved through the pouring out of the Holy Ghoſt upon the church: ſo that the very enemies of Chriſt were reproved of ſin, in that they were conſtrained to confeſs that they were deceived, in that they believed not, and therefore they ſaid to Peter, Acts 2. Men and brethren, what ſhall we do?

[c] Of Chriſt himſelf: for when the world ſhall ſee that I have poured out the Holy Ghoſt, they ſhall be conſtrained to confeſs that I was juſt, and was not condemned of my Father, when I went out of this world.

[d] Of that authority and power which I have both in heaven and earth.

[e] That is, becauſe they ſhall then underſtand and know indeed that I have overcome the devil, and do govern the world, when all men ſhall ſee that they ſet themſelves againſt you in vain, for I will arm you with that heavenly power whereby you may deſtroy every high thing which is lifted up againſt the knowledge of God, 2 Cor. 10. 12.

[4] The doctrine of the apoſtles proceeded from the Holy Ghoſt, and is moſt perfect.

[5] The Holy Ghoſt bringeth no new doctrine, but teacheth that which was uttered by Chriſt's own mouth, and imprinteth it in our minds.

[6] The grace of the Holy Ghoſt is a moſt lively glaſs, wherein Chriſt is truly beholden with the moſt ſharp-ſighted eyes of faith, and not with the bleared eyes of the fleſh, whereby we feel a continual joy even in the midſt of ſorrows.

[f] When a little time is once paſt.

[g] For I paſs to eternal glory, ſo that I ſhall be much more preſent with you than I was before: for then you ſhall feel indeed what I am, and what I am able to do.

him, and ſaid unto them, Do ye inquire among yourſelves, of that I ſaid, A little while, and ye ſhall not ſee me: and again, a little while, and ye ſhall ſee me?

20 Verily, verily I ſay unto you, that ye ſhall weep and lament, and the world ſhall rejoice: and ye ſhall ſorrow, but your ſorrow ſhall be turned to joy.

21 A woman, when ſhe travaileth, hath ſorrow, becauſe her hour is come: but as ſoon as ſhe is delivered of the child, ſhe remembereth no more the anguiſh, for joy that a man is born into the world.

22 And ye now therefore are in ſorrow: but I will ſee you again, and your hearts ſhall rejoice, and your joy ſhall no man take from you.

23 And in that day ſhall ye aſk me nothing. * Verily, verily I ſay unto you, Whatſoever ye ſhall aſk the Father in my name, he will give it you.

* Ch. 14. 13. Matt. 7. 7. and 21. 22. Mark 11. 24. Luke 11. 9. James 1. 5.

24 Hitherto have ye aſked nothing in my name: aſk, and ye ſhall receive, that your joy may be full.

25 [7] These things have I ſpoken unto you in parables: but the time will come, when I ſhall no more ſpeak to you in parables: but I ſhall ſhew you plainly of the Father.

26 [8] At that day ſhall ye aſk in my name, and I ſay not unto you, that I will pray unto the Father for you:

27 For the Father himſelf loveth you, becauſe ye have loved me, * and have believed that I came out from God.

* Ch. 17. 8.

28 I am come out from the Father, and came into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

29 [9] His diſciples ſaid unto him, Lo, now ſpeakeſt thou plainly, and thou ſpeakeſt no parable.

30 Now know we that thou knoweſt all things, and needeſt not that any man ſhould aſk thee. By this we believe that thou art come out from God.

31 Jeſus anſwered them, Do you believe now?

32 * [10] Behold, the hour cometh, and is already come, that ye ſhall be ſcattered every man into his own, and ſhall leave me alone: but I am not alone: for the Father is with me.

* Matt. 26. 31. Mark 14. 27.

33 [11] Theſe things have I ſpoken unto you, that [h] in me ye might have peace: in the world ye ſhall have affliction: but be of good comfort, I have overcome the world.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Chriſt prayeth that his glory, together with his Father's, may be made manifeſt. 9 He prayeth for his apoſtles, 20 and for all believers.

THESE [1] things ſpake Jeſus, and lift up his eyes to heaven, and ſaid, [2] Father, that hour is come: glorify thy Son, that thy Son may alſo glorify thee:

2 * As thou haſt given him power over [a] all fleſh, that he ſhould give eternal life to all them that thou haſt given him.

* Matt. 28. 18.

3 And this is life eternal, that they know thee to be the [b] only very God, and whom thou haſt ſent, Jeſus Chriſt.

4 I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finiſhed the work which thou gaveſt me to do.

5 And now glorify me, thou Father, with thine own ſelf, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was.

6 [3] I have declared thy name unto the men which thou gaveſt me out of the world: [c] thine they were, and thou [d] gaveſt them me, and they have kept thy word.

7 * Now they that know all things whatſoever thou haſt given me, are of thee.

* Ch. 16. 27.

8 For I have given unto them the words which thou gaveſt me, and they have received them, and have known ſurely that I came out from thee, and have believed that thou haſt ſent me.

9 I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou haſt given me: for they are thine,

10 And all mine are thine, and thine are mine, and I am glorified in them.

11 And now am I no more in the world, but theſe are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, keep them in thy name, even them whom thou haſt given me, that they may be [e] one as we are.

12 While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name: thoſe that thou gaveſt me have I kept, and none of them is loſt, but the [7] The Holy Ghoſt, which was poured upon the apoſtles after the aſcenſion of Chriſt, inſtructed both them in all the chiefeſt myſteries and ſecrets of our ſalvation, and alſo by them the church, and will alſo inſtruct it to the end of the world.

[8] The ſum of the worſhip of God is the invocation of the Father, in the name of the Son the Mediator, who is already heard for us, for whom he both abaſed himſelf, and is now alſo glorified.

[9] Faith and fooliſh ſecurity differ very much.

[10] Neither the wickedneſs of the world, neither the weakneſs of his own, can diminiſh any thing of the virtue of Chriſt.

[11] The ſurety and ſtay of the church dependeth only upon the victory of Chriſt.

[h] That in me you might be thoroughly quieted. For by (peace) is meant in this place, that quiet ſtate of mind which is clean contrary to diſquietneſs and heavineſs.

[1] Jeſus Chriſt the everlaſting high Prieſt, being ready ſtraightways to offer up himſelf, doth by ſolemn prayers conſecrate himſelf to God the Father, as a ſacrifice, and us together with himſelf. Therefore this prayer was from the beginning, is, and ſhall be to the end of the world, the foundation and ground of the church of God.

[2] He firſt declareth, that as he came into the world to the end that the Father might ſhew in him, being apprehended by faith, his glory, in ſaving his elect, ſo he applied himſelf to that only: and therefore deſireth of the Father, that he would bleſs the work which he had finiſhed.

[a] Over all men.

[b] He calleth the Father the only very God, to ſet him againſt falſe gods, and not to ſhut out himſelf and the Holy Ghoſt, for ſtraightway he joineth the knowledge of the Father and the knowledge of himſelf together, and according to his accuſtomed manner, ſetteth forth the whole Godhead in the perſon of the Father: ſo is the Father alone ſaid to be King, immortal, wiſe, and as dwelling in light which no man can attain unto, inviſible. Rom. 16. 27. 1 Tim. 1. 17.

[3] Firſt of all, he prayeth for thoſe his diſciples, by whom he would have the reſt to be gathered together, and commendeth them to the Father (having once rejected the whole company of the reprobate) becauſe he received them of him, into his cuſtody, and for that they embracing his doctrine ſhall have ſo many and ſo mighty enemies, that there is no way for them to be in ſafety, but by his help only.

[c] He ſheweth hereby that everlaſting election and choice, which was hidden in the good-will and pleaſure of God, which is the groundwork of our ſalvation.

[d] He ſheweth how that everlaſting and hidden purpoſe of God is declared in Chriſt, by whom we are juſtified and ſanctified, if we lay hold on him by faith, that at length we may come to the glory of the election.

[e] He prayeth that his people may peaceably agree and be joined together in one, that as the Godhead is one, ſo they may be of one mind, and one conſent together.

A. D. 33. the child of perdition, that the * ſcripture might be fulfilled.

* Pſ. 109. 7.

13 And now come I to thee: and theſe things ſpeak I in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themſelves.

14 I have given them thy word, and the world hath hated them, becauſe they are not of the world, as I am not of the world.

15 [4] I pray not that thou ſhouldeſt take them out of the world, but that thou keep them from all evil.

16 They are not of the world, as I am not of the world.

17 [f] Sanctify them with thy truth: thy word is truth.

18 [5] As thou didſt ſend me into the world, ſo have I ſent them into the world.

19 And for their ſakes ſanctify I myſelf, that they alſo may be ſanctified through the [g] truth.

20 [6] I pray not for theſe alone, but for them alſo which ſhall believe in me, through their word.

21 That they all may be one, as thou, O Father, art in me, and I in thee: even that they may be alſo one in us, that the world may believe that thou haſt ſent me.

22 And the glory that thou gaveſt me, I have given them, that they may be one, as we are one,

23 I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one, and that the world may know that thou haſt ſent me, and haſt loved them, as thou haſt loved me.

* Ch. 12. 26. 24 * Father, I will that they which thou haſt given me, be with me, even where I am, that they may behold that my glory, which thou haſt given me: for thou lovedſt me before the foundation of the world.

25 O righteous Father, the world alſo hath not known thee: but I have known thee, and theſe have known, that thou haſt ſent me.

26 [7] And I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it, that the love wherewith thou haſt loved me, may be in them, and I in them.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 By Chriſt's power, whom Judas betrayeth, 6 the ſoldiers are caſt down to the ground. 13 Chriſt is led to Annas, and from him to Caiaphas. 22 23 His anſwer to the officer that ſmote him with a rod. 28 Being delivered to Pilate, 36 he declareth his kingdom.

WHEN [1] Jeſus had ſpoken theſe things, he went forth with his diſciples over the brook * Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his diſciples.

* Matt. 26. 36. Mark 14. 32. Luke 22. 39.

2 And Judas, which betrayed him, knew alſo the place: for Jeſus oft-times reſorted thither with his diſciples.

A. D. 33.

3 * [2] Judas then, after he had received a band of men and officers of the high prieſts and of the Phariſees, came thither with lanterns, and torches, and weapons.

* Matt. 26. 47. Mark 14. 43. Luke 22. 47.

4 [3] Then Jeſus, knowing all things that ſhould come unto him, went forth, and ſaid unto them, Whom ſeek ye?

5 They anſwered him, Jeſus of Nazareth. Jeſus ſaid unto them, I am he. Now Judas alſo which betrayed him, ſtood with them.

6 As ſoon then as he had ſaid unto them, I am he, they went away backwards, and fell to the ground.

7 Then he aſked them again, Whom ſeek ye? And they ſaid, Jeſus of Nazareth.

8 [4] Jeſus anſwered, I ſaid unto you, that I am he: therefore if ye ſeek me, let theſe go their way.

9 This was that the word might be fulfilled which he ſpake, * Of them which thou gaveſt me, have I loſt none. * Ch. 17. 12.

10 [5] Then Simon Peter having a ſword, drew it, and ſmote the high prieſt's ſervant, and cut off his right ear. Now the ſervant's name was Malchus.

11 Then ſaid Jeſus unto Peter, Put up thy ſword into the ſheath: ſhall I not drink of the cup which my Father hath given me?

12 Then the band and the captain, and the officers of the Jews, took Jeſus, and bound him,

13 [6] And led him away to * Annas firſt (for he was father-in-law to Caiaphas, which was the high prieſt that ſame year.) * Luke 3. 2.

14 * And Caiaphas was he that gave counſel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man ſhould die for the people. * Ch. 11. 50.

15 ¶ [7] * Now Simon Peter followed Jeſus, and another diſciple, and that diſciple was known of the high prieſt, therefore he went in with Jeſus into the hall of the high prieſt:

* Matt. 26. 58. Mark 14. 54. Luke 22. 54.

16 But Peter ſtood at the door without. Then went out the other diſciple which was known unto the high prieſt, and ſpake to her that kept the door, and brought in Peter.

17 Then ſaid the maid that kept the door, unto Peter, Art not thou alſo one of this man's diſciples? He ſaid, I am not.

18 And the ſervants and officers ſtood there, which had made a fire of coals: for it was cold, and they warmed themſelves. And Peter alſo ſtood among them, and warmed himſelf.

19 ¶ ([8] The high prieſt then aſked Jeſus of his diſciples, and of his doctrine.

20 Jeſus

[4] He ſheweth what manner of deliverance he meaneth, not that they ſhould be in no danger, but that they being preſerved from all, might prove by experience that the doctrine of ſalvation is truth, which they received at his mouth to deliver to others.

[f] That is, make them holy: and that is ſaid to be holy, which is dedicated and made proper to God only.

[5] He addeth moreover, that the apoſtles have a vocation common with them, and therefore they muſt be holden up by the ſelf-ſame virtue to give up themſelves wholly to God, whereby he being firſt, did conſecrate himſelf to the Father.

[g] The true and ſubſtantial ſanctification of Chriſt, is ſet againſt the outward purifying.

[6] Secondarily, he offereth to God the Father all his, that is, how many ſoever ſhall believe in him by the doctrine of the apoſtles; that as he cleaveth unto the Father, receiving from him all fulneſs, ſo they being joined with him, may receive life from him, and at length being together beloved in him, may alſo with him enjoy everlaſting glory.

[7] He communicateth with his by little and little, the knowledge of the Father, which is moſt full in Chriſt the Mediator, that they may in him be beloved of the Father, with the ſelf-ſame love wherewith he loveth the Son.

[1] Chriſt goeth of his own accord into a garden, which his betrayer knew, to be taken, that by his obedience he might take away the ſin that entered into the world by one man's rebellion, and that in a garden.

[2] Chriſt, who was innocent, was taken as a wicked perſon, that we which are wicked might be let go as innocent.

[3] Chriſt's perſon (but not his virtue) was bound of the adverſaries, when and how he would.

[4] Chriſt doth not neglect the office of a good paſtor, no not in his greateſt danger.

[5] We ought to contain the zeal we bear to God, within the bounds of our vocation.

[6] Chriſt is brought before an earthly high prieſt to be condemned for our blaſphemies, that we might be quitted of the everlaſting high prieſt himſelf.

[7] A lively example of the frailty of man, even in the beſt, when they be once left to themſelves.

[8] Chriſt defendeth his cauſe but ſlenderly, not that he would withdraw himſelf from death, but to ſhew that he was condemned as an innocent.

A. D. 33.

20 Jeſus anſwered him, I ſpake openly to the world: I ever taught in the ſynagogue and in the temple, whither the Jews reſort continually, and in ſecret have I ſaid nothing.

21 Why aſkeſt thou me? aſk them which heard me what I ſaid unto them: behold, they know what I ſaid.

22 When he had ſpoken theſe things, one of the officers which ſtood by, ſmote Jeſus with his rod, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou the high prieſt ſo?

23 Jeſus anſwered him, If I have evil ſpoken, bear witneſs of the evil: but if I have well ſpoken, why ſmiteſt thou me?

* Matt. 26. 57. Luke 22. 54.

24 ¶ * Now Annas had ſent him bound unto Caiaphas the high prieſt.)

* Matt. 26. 69. Mark 14. 59. Luke 22. 55.

25 * [9] And Simon Peter ſtood and warmed himſelf, and they ſaid unto him, Art not thou alſo of his diſciples? He denied it, and ſaid, I am not.

26 One of the ſervants of the high prieſt, his couſin, whoſe ear Peter ſmote off, ſaid, Did not I ſee thee in the garden with him?

27 Peter then denied again, and immediately the cock crew.

*Matt. 27. 2. Mark 15. 1. Luke 23. 1.

* Acts 10. 28. and 11. 3.

28 ¶ * [10] Then led they Jeſus from [a] Caiaphas into the common hall. Now it was morning, and they themſelves went not into the common hall, leſt they ſhould be * defiled, but that they might eat the paſſover.

29 Pilate then went out unto them, and ſaid, What accuſation bring ye againſt this man?

30 They anſwered, and ſaid unto him, If he were not an evil doer, we would not have delivered him unto thee.

31 Then ſaid Pilate unto them, Take ye him, and judge him after your own law. Then the Jews ſaid unto him, [b] It is not lawful for us to put any man to death.

* Matt. 20. 19.

32 It was that the word of Jeſus * might be fulfilled which he ſpake, [c] ſignifying what death he ſhould die.

* Matt. 17. 11. Mark 25. 2. Luke 23. 3.

33 * So Pilate entered into the common hall again, and called Jeſus, and ſaid unto him, Art thou the king of the Jews?

34 Jeſus anſwered him, Sayeſt thou that of thyſelf, or did others tell it thee of me?

35 Pilate anſwered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation, and the high prieſts, have delivered thee unto me. What haſt thou done?

36 [11] Jeſus anſwered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, my ſervants would ſurely fight, that I ſhould not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.

37 Pilate then ſaid unto him, Art thou a king then? Jeſus anſwered, Thou ſayeſt that I am a king: for this cauſe am I born, and for this cauſe came I into the world, that I ſhould bear witneſs unto the truth: every one that is of the truth, heareth my voice.

A. D. 33.

38 [12] Pilate ſaid unto him, [d] What is truth? And when he had ſaid that, he went out again unto the Jews, and ſaid unto them, I find in him no cauſe at all.

* Matt. 27. 15. Mark 15. 6. Luke 23. 17.

39 * But you have a cuſtom, that I ſhould deliver you one looſe at the paſſover: will ye then that I looſe unto you the king of the Jews?

* Acts 3. 14.

40 * Then [e] cried they all again, ſaying, Not him, but Barabbas: now this Barabbas was a murderer.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Pilate, when Chriſt was ſcourged, 2 and crowned with thorns, 4 was deſirous to let him looſe: 8 but being overcome with the outrage of the Jews, 16 he delivereth him to be crucified. 26 Jeſus committeth his mother to the diſciple. 30 Having taſted vinegar, he dieth. 34 And being dead, his ſide is pierced with a ſpear. 40 He is buried.

* Matt. 27. Mark 15. 16.

THEN * Pilate took Jeſus and [1] ſcourged him.

2 And the ſoldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head: and they put on him a purple garment.

3 And ſaid, Hail, king of the Jews. And they ſmote him with their rods.

4 [2] Then Pilate went forth again, and ſaid unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know, that I find no fault in him at all.

5 Then came Jeſus forth wearing a crown of thorns, and a purple garment. And Pilate ſaid unto them, Behold the man.

6 Then when the high prieſts and officers ſaw him, they cried, ſaying, [a] Crucify, crucify him. Pilate ſaid unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him.

7 The Jews anſwered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, becauſe he made himſelf the Son of God.

8 ¶ [3] When Pilate then heard that word, he was the more afraid,

9 And went again into the common hall, and ſaid unto Jeſus, Whence art thou? but Jeſus gave him no anſwer.

10 Then ſaid Pilate unto him, Speakeſt thou not unto me? Knoweſt thou not that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to looſe thee?

11 Jeſus anſwered, Thou couldeſt have no power at all againſt me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater ſin.

12 From thenceforth Pilate ſought to looſe him,

---

[9] After that men have once fallen, they cannot only not lift up themſelves by their own ſtrength, but alſo they fall more and more into worſe, until they be raiſed up again by a new virtue of God.

[10] The Son of God is brought before the judgment-ſeat of an earthly and profane man, in whom there is found much leſs wickedneſs than in the princes of the people of God. A lively image of the wrath of God againſt ſin, and therewithal of his great mercy, and laſt of all of his moſt ſevere judgment againſt the ſtubborn contemners of his grace when it is offered unto them.

[a] From Caiaphas's houſe.

[b] For judgments of life and death were taken from them forty years before the deſtruction of the temple.

[c] For Chriſt had foretold that he ſhould be crucified.

[11] Chriſt avoucheth his ſpiritual kingdom, but rejecteth a worldly.

[12] It was requiſite that Chriſt ſhould be pronounced innocent, but notwithſtanding (in that that he took upon him our perſon) was to be condemned as a moſt wicked man.

[d] He ſpeaketh this diſdainfully and ſcoffingly, and not by way of aſking a queſtion.

[e] Word for word, made a great and foul voice.

[1] The wiſdom of the fleſh chuſeth of two evils the leaſt, but God curſeth that ſame wiſdom.

[2] Chriſt is again quitted by that ſame mouth wherewith he is afterward condemned.

[a] They will have him crucified, whom by an old cuſtom of theirs they ſhould have ſtoned and hanged up as convict of blaſphemy; but they deſire to have him crucified after the manner of the Romans.

[3] Pilate's conſcience fighteth for Chriſt, but ſtraightway it yieldeth, becauſe it is not upholden with the ſingular virtue of God.

A. D. 33.

him, but the Jews cried, ſaying, If thou deliver him, thou art not Cæſar's friend: for whoſoever maketh himſelf a king, ſpeaketh againſt Cæſar.

13 ¶ [4] When Pilate heard this word, he brought Jeſus forth, and ſat down in the judgment-ſeat, in a place called the Pavement, and in Hebrew [b] Gabbatha.

14 And it was the preparation of the paſſover, and about the ſixth hour: and he ſaid unto the Jews, Behold your king.

15 But they cried, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate ſaid unto them, Shall I crucify your king? The high prieſts anſwered, We have no king but Cæſar.

16 [5] Then delivered he him unto them, to be crucified. And they took Jeſus, and led him away.

17 * And he bare his own croſs, and came into a place named of dead men's ſkulls, which is called in Hebrew Golgotha: * Matt. 27. 31. Mark 15.25. Luke 23. 26.

18 Where they crucified him, and two others with him, on either ſide one, and Jeſus in the midſt.

19 ¶ [6] And Pilate wrote alſo a title, and put it on the croſs, and it was written, JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jeſus was crucified was near to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin.

21 Then ſaid the high prieſts of the Jews, to Pilate, Write not, The king of the Jews, but that he ſaid, I am king of the Jews.

22 Pilate anſwered, What I have written, I have written.

23 ¶ [7] Then the * ſoldiers, when they had crucified Jeſus, took his garments (and made four parts, to every ſoldier a part) and his coat: and the coat was without ſeam, woven from the top throughout. * Matt. 27. 35. Mark 15.24.

24 Therefore they ſaid one to another, Let us not divide it, but caſt lots for it, whoſe it ſhall be. This was that the ſcripture might be fulfilled, which ſaith, * They parted my garments among them, and on my coat did caſt lots. So the ſoldiers did theſe things indeed. * Pſ. 22. 18.

25 ¶ [8] Then ſtood by the croſs of Jeſus his mother, and his mother's ſiſter, Mary the wife of Cleopas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 And when Jeſus ſaw his mother, and the diſciple ſtanding by, whom he loved, he ſaid unto his mother, Woman, behold thy ſon.

27 Then ſaid he to the diſciple, Behold thy mother: and from that hour the diſciple took her home unto him.

28 ¶ [9] After, when Jeſus knew that all things were performed, that the * ſcripture might be fulfilled, he ſaid, I thirſt. * Pſ. 69. 22.

29 And there was ſet a [c] veſſel full of vinegar: and they filled a ſpunge with vinegar, and put it about an hyſſop ſtalk, and put it to his mouth.

30 Now when Jeſus had received of the vinegar, he ſaid, It is finiſhed, and bowed his head, and gave up the ghoſt.

31 [10] The Jews then (becauſe it was the preparation, that the bodies ſhould not remain upon the croſs on the ſabbath day: for that ſabbath was an high day) beſought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken down.

32 Then came the ſoldiers and brake the legs of the firſt, and of the other which was crucified with Jeſus.

33 But when they came to Jeſus, and ſaw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs.

34 [11] But one of the ſoldiers with a ſpear [d] pierced his ſide, and forthwith came thereout blood and water.

35 And he that ſaw it, bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he ſaith true, that ye might believe it.

36 For theſe things were done, that the ſcripture ſhould be fulfilled, * Not a bone of him ſhall be broken. * Exod. 12. 46. Num. 9. 12.

37 And again another ſcripture ſaith, * They ſhall ſee him whom they have thruſt through. * Zach. 12. 10.

38 * [12] And after theſe things, Joſeph of Arimathea (who was a diſciple of Jeſus, but ſecretly for fear of the Jews) beſought Pilate that he might take down the body of Jeſus. And Pilate gave him licence. He came then and took Jeſus's body. * Matt. 27. 57. Mark 15.42. Luke 25. 50.

39 And there came * alſo Nicodemus (which firſt came to Jeſus by night) and brought of myrrh and aloes mingled together about an hundred pound. * Ch. 3. 2.

40 Then took they the body of Jeſus, and wrapped it in linen cloaths with the odours, as the manner of the Jews is to bury.

41 And in that place where Jeſus was crucified, was a garden, and in the garden a new ſepulchre, wherein was [e] never man yet laid.

---

[4] Pilate condemneth himſelf firſt, with the ſame mouth wherewith he afterward condemneth Chriſt.

[b] Gabbatha ſignifieth an high place, as judgment-ſeats are.

[5] Chriſt faſteneth Satan, ſin and death to the croſs.

[6] Chriſt ſitting upon the throne of the croſs, is openly written everlaſting king of all people with his own hand, whoſe mouth condemned him for uſurping a kingdom.

[7] Chriſt ſignifieth by the diviſion of his garments amongſt the bloody butchers (his coat except, that had no ſeam) that it ſhall come to paſs, that he will ſhortly divide his benefits, and enrich his very enemies throughout the world: but ſo notwithſtanding that the treaſure of his church ſhall remain whole.

[8] Chriſt is a perfect example of all righteouſneſs, not only in the keeping of the firſt, but alſo of the ſecond table.

[9] Chriſt, when he hath taken the vinegar, yieldeth up the ghoſt, drinking up indeed that moſt bitter and ſharp cup of his Father's wrath in our name.

[c] Galatinus witneſſeth out of the book called Sanhedrin, that the Jews were wont to give them that were executed, vinegar mixed with frankincenſe to drink, to make their brains ſomewhat troubled: ſo charitably the Jews provided for the poor men's conſcience, which were executed!

[10] The body of Chriſt which was dead for a ſeaſon, (becauſe it ſo pleaſed him) is wounded, but the leaſt bone of it is not broken, and ſuch is the ſtate of his myſtical body.

[11] Chriſt being dead upon the croſs witneſſeth by a double ſign, that he only is the true ſatisfaction, and the true waſhing for the believers.

[d] This wound was a moſt manifeſt witneſs of the death of Chriſt: for the water that iſſued out of this wound gave us plainly to underſtand, that the weapon pierced the very ſkin that compaſſeth the heart, which is the veſſel that containeth that water, and that being once wounded, that creature which is ſo pierced, and ſtricken, cannot chuſe but die.

[12] Chriſt is openly buried, and in a famous place, Pilate writing and ſuffering it, and that by men which did favour Chriſt, in ſuch wiſe, that yet before that day, they never openly followed him: ſo that by his burial, no man can juſtly doubt either of his death, or reſurrection.

[e] That no man might cavil at his reſurrection, as though ſome other that had been buried there, had riſen. Theoph.

A. D. 33.

42 There then laid they Jeſus, becauſe of the Jews preparation day, for the ſepulchre was near.

CHAP. XX.

1 Mary bringeth word that Chriſt is riſen. 3 Peter and John 4 run to ſee it. 15 Jeſus appeareth to Mary, 19 and to the diſciples that were together in the houſe. 25 Thomas, before faithleſs, 29 now believeth.

*Mark 16. 1. Luke 24. 1.

NOW * [1] the firſt day of the week came Mary Magdalene, early when it was yet dark, unto the ſepulchre, and ſaw the ſtone taken away from the tomb.

2 Then ſhe ran, and came to Simon Peter, and to the other diſciple whom Jeſus loved, and ſaid unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the ſepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 Peter therefore went forth, and the other diſciple, and they came unto the ſepulchre.

4 So they ran both together, but the other diſciple did out-run Peter, and came firſt to the ſepulchre.

5 And he ſtooped down, and ſaw the linen cloaths lying: yet went he not in.

6 Then came Simon Peter following him, and went into the ſepulchre, and ſaw the linen cloaths lie.

7 And the kerchief that was upon his head, not lying with the linen cloaths, but wrapped together in a place by itſelf.

8 Then went in alſo the other diſciple, which came firſt to the ſepulchre, and he ſaw it, and believed.

9 For as yet they knew not the ſcripture, That he muſt riſe again from the dead.

10 And the diſciples went away again unto their own home.

*Matt. 28. 1. Mark 16. 5.

11 ¶ * But Mary ſtood [a] without at the ſepulchre weeping: and as ſhe wept, ſhe bowed herſelf into the ſepulchre,

12 [2] And ſaw two angels in [b] white, ſitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jeſus had lain.

13 And they ſaid unto her, Woman, why weepeſt thou? She ſaid unto them, They have taken away [c] my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 [3] When ſhe had thus ſaid, ſhe turned herſelf back, and ſaw Jeſus ſtanding, and knew not that it was Jeſus.

15 Jeſus ſaith unto her, Woman, why weepeſt thou? whom ſeekeſt thou? She ſuppoſing that he had been the gardener, ſaid unto him, Sir, if thou haſt borne him hence, tell me where thou haſt laid him, and I will take him away.

A. D. 33.

16 Jeſus ſaith unto her, Mary. She turned herſelf, and ſaid unto him, Rabboni, which is to ſay, Maſter.

17 [4] Jeſus ſaith unto her, Touch me not: for I am not yet aſcended to my Father: but go to my [d] brethren and ſay unto them, I aſcend unto [e] my Father, and to your Father, and to my God, and your God.

18 Mary Magdalene came and told the diſciples that ſhe had ſeen the Lord, and that he had ſpoken theſe things unto her.

* Mark 16. 14. Luke 24. 36. 1 Cor. 15. 5.

19 ¶ * [5] The ſame day then at night, which was the firſt day of the week, and when the [f] doors were ſhut where the diſciples were aſſembled for fear of the Jews, came Jeſus and ſtood in the midſt, and ſaid to them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had ſo ſaid, he ſhewed unto them his hands, and his ſide. Then were the diſciples glad when they had ſeen the Lord.

* Matt. 28. 18.

21 * Then ſaid Jeſus unto them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father ſent me, ſo ſend I you.

22 And when he had ſaid that, he breathed on them, and ſaid unto them, Receive the Holy Ghoſt.

23 [6] Whoſeſoever ſins ye remit, they are remitted unto them: and whoſeſoever ſins ye retain, they are retained.

24 ¶ [7] But Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jeſus came.

25 The other diſciples therefore ſaid unto him We have ſeen the Lord: but he ſaid unto them, Except I ſee in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and put my hand into his ſide, I will not believe it.

26 ¶ And eight days after, again his diſciples were within, and Thomas with them. Then came Jeſus, when the doors were ſhut, and ſtood in the midſt, and ſaid, Peace be unto you.

27 After, ſaid he to Thomas, Put thy finger here, and ſee mine hands, and put forth thine hand, and put it into my ſide, and be not faithleſs, but faithful.

28 Then Thomas anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Thou art my Lord and my God.

29 [8] Jeſus ſaid unto him, Thomas, becauſe thou haſt ſeen me, thou believeſt: bleſſed are they that have not ſeen, and have believed.

* Ch. 21. 25.

30 ¶ * [9] And many other ſigns alſo did Jeſus in the preſence of his diſciples, which are not written in this book.

31 But theſe things are written, that ye might believe, that Jeſus is that Chriſt that Son of God, and that in believing ye might have life through his name.

CHAP.

---

[1] Mary Magdalene, Peter and John, are the firſt witneſſes of the reſurrection; and ſuch as cannot juſtly be ſuſpected, for that they themſelves could ſcarcely be perſuaded of it, ſo far it is off that they ſhould invent it of ſet purpoſe.

[a] That is, without the cave, which the ſepulchre was cut out of.

[2] Two angels are made witneſſes of the Lord's reſurrection.

[b] In white cloathing.

[c] Mary ſpake as the common people uſed to ſpeak; for they ſpeak of a dead carcaſe as they do of a whole man.

[3] Jeſus witneſſeth by his preſence, that he is truly riſen.

[4] Chriſt which is riſen is not to be ſought in this world, according to the fleſh, but in heaven by faith, whither he is gone before us.

[d] By his brethren he meaneth his diſciples; for in the next verſe following, it is ſaid, that Mary told his diſciples.

[e] He calleth God his Father, becauſe he is his Father naturally in the Godhead, and he ſaith your Father, becauſe he is our Father by grace, through the adoption of the Son of God; that is, by taking us of his free grace to be his ſons. Epiphanius.

[5] Chriſt in that that he preſented himſelf before his diſciples ſuddenly, through his divine power, when the gates were ſhut, doth fully aſſure them both of his reſurrection, and alſo of their apoſtleſhip, inſpiring them with the Holy Ghoſt, who is the miniſtry of the goſpel.

[f] Either the doors opened to him of their own accord, or the very walls themſelves were a paſſage to him.

[6] The publiſhing of the forgiveneſs of ſins by faith in Chriſt, and the ſetting-forth and denouncing the wrath of God in retaining the ſins of the unbelievers, is the ſum of the preaching of the goſpel.

[7] Chriſt draweth out of the unbelief of Thomas a certain and ſure teſtimony of his reſurrection.

[8] True faith dependeth upon the mouth of God, and not upon fleſhly eyes.

[9] To believe in Chriſt the ſon of God, and our only Saviour, is the end of the doctrine of the goſpel, and eſpecially of the hiſtory of the reſurrection.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Jeſus appeareth to his diſciples as they were a fiſhing, 6, 7 whom they know by a miraculous draught of fiſhes. 15 He committeth the charge of the ſheep to Peter, 18 and foretelleth him of the manner of his death.

AFTER theſe things [1] Jeſus ſhewed himſelf again to his diſciples at the ſea of Tiberias: and thus ſhewed he himſelf:

2 There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas, which is called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and ſons of Zebedee, and two other of his diſciples.

3 Simon Peter ſaid unto them, I go a fiſhing. They ſaid unto him, We alſo will go with thee. They went their way and entered into a ſhip ſtraightway, and that night caught they nothing.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jeſus ſtood on the ſhore: nevertheleſs the diſciples knew not that it was Jeſus.

5 Jeſus then ſaid unto them, Sirs, have ye any meat? They anſwered him, No.

6 Then he ſaid unto them, Caſt out the net on the right ſide of the ſhip, and ye ſhall find. So they caſt out, and they were not able at all to draw it, for the multitude of fiſhes.

7 Therefore ſaid the diſciple whom Jeſus loved, unto Peter, It is the Lord. When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girded his [a] coat to him (for he was naked) and caſt himſelf into the ſea.

8 But the other diſciples came by ſhip, (for they were not far from land, but about two hundred cubits) and drew the net with fiſhes.

9 As ſoon then as they were come to land, they ſaw hot coals, and fiſh laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jeſus ſaid unto them, Bring of the fiſhes, which ye have now caught.

11 Simon Peter ſtepped forth, and drew the net to land, full of great fiſhes, an hundred fifty and three: and albeit there were ſo many, yet was not the net broken.

12 Jeſus ſaid unto them, Come, and dine. And none of the diſciples durſt aſk him, Who art thou? ſeeing they knew that he was the Lord.

13 Jeſus then came and took bread and gave them, and fiſh likewiſe.

14 This is now the third time that Jeſus ſhewed himſelf to his diſciples, after that he was riſen again from the dead.

15 ¶ [2] So when they had dined, Jeſus ſaid to Simon Peter, Simon, the ſon of Jonas, loveſt thou me more than theſe? He ſaid unto him, Yea, Lord, thou knoweſt that I love thee. He ſaid unto him, Feed my lambs.

16 He ſaid to him again the ſecond time, Simon the ſon of Jonas, loveſt thou me? He ſaid unto him, Yea, Lord, thou knoweſt that I love thee. He ſaid unto him, Feed my ſheep.

17 He ſaid unto him the [b] third time, Simon the ſon of Jonas, loveſt thou me? Peter was ſorry, becauſe he ſaid to him the third time, Loveſt thou me? and ſaid unto him, Lord, thou knoweſt all things: thou knoweſt that I love thee. Jeſus ſaid unto him, Feed my ſheep.

18 [3] Verily, verily I ſay unto thee, When thou waſt young, thou [c] girdedſt thyſelf, and walkedſt whither thou wouldeſt: but when thou ſhalt be old, thou ſhalt ſtretch forth thine hands, and another ſhall [d] gird thee, and lead thee whither thou wouldeſt [e] not.

19 And this ſpake he, ſignifying by [f] what death he ſhould glorify God. And when he had ſaid this, he ſaid to him, Follow me.

20 [4] Then Peter turned about, and ſaw the diſciple whom Jeſus loved, following, which had alſo * leaned on his breaſt at ſupper, and *Ch. 13. 23.
had ſaid, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee?

21 When Peter therefore ſaw him, he ſaid to Jeſus, Lord, what ſhall this man do?

22 Jeſus ſaid unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is it to thee? follow thou me.

23 Then went this word abroad among the brethren, that this diſciple ſhould not die. Yet Jeſus ſaid not to him, He ſhall not die: but if I will that he tarry till I come, what is it to thee?

24 [5] This is that diſciple, which teſtifieth of theſe things, and wrote theſe thngs, and we know that his teſtimony is true.

25 * Now there are alſo many other things *Ch. 20. 30.
which Jeſus did, the which if they ſhould be written every one, I ſuppoſe the world could not contain the books that ſhould be written. Amen.

---

[1] In that, that Chriſt here is not only preſent but alſo eateth with his diſciples, he giveth a moſt full aſſurance of his reſurrection.

[a] It was a linen garment, which could not let his ſwimming.

[2] Peter by this triple confeſſion is reſtored into his former degree from whence he fell by his triple denial: and therewithal is advertiſed, that he is indeed a paſtor, which ſheweth his love to Chriſt, in feeding his ſheep.

[b] It was meet that he that denied him thrice ſhould confeſs him thrice, that Peter might neither doubt of the forgiveneſs of his ſo grievous a ſin, nor of his reſtoring to the office of the apoſtleſhip.

[3] The violent death of Peter is foretold.

[c] They that took far journies, eſpecially in the Eaſt country, and in thoſe places where the people uſed long garments, had need to be girded and truſſed up.

[d] He meant that kind of girding which is uſed toward captives, when they are bound faſt with cords and chains, as who would ſay, Now thou girdeſt thyſelf as thou thinkeſt beſt, to go whither thou liſteſt, but the time will be, when thou ſhalt not gird thee with a girdle, but another ſhall bind thee with chains, and carry thee whither thou wouldeſt not.

[e] Not that Peter ſuffered aught for the truth of God againſt his will, for we read that he came with joy and gladneſs, when he returned from the council, where he was whipped: but becauſe this will cometh not from the fleſh, but from that gift of the Spirit which is given us from above, therefore he ſhewed, there ſhould be a certain ſtriving and conflict or repugnancy, which alſo is in us, in all our ſufferances as touching the fleſh.

[f] That is, that Peter ſhould die by a violent death.

[4] We muſt take heed, that while we caſt our eyes upon others, we neglect not that which is enjoined us.

[5] The hiſtory of Chriſt is true and warily written: not for curioſity of men, but for the ſalvation of the godly.

THE ACTS OF THE HOLY APOSTLES,

Written by LUKE the Evangeliſt.

CHAP. I.

A. D. 33.

1 Luke tieth this hiſtory to his goſpel. 19 Chriſt being taken into heaven, 10 the apoſtles, 11 being warned by the angels, 12 return, 14 and give themſelves to prayer. 15 By Peter's motion, 18 into Judas the traitor's place, 26 Matthias is choſen.

I HAVE made the [1] former treatiſe, O Theophilus, of all that Jeſus began to [a] do and teach,

2 Until the day that he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghoſt had given commandments unto the apoſtles, whom he had choſen:

3 [2] To whom alſo he preſented himſelf alive after that he had ſuffered by many [b] infallible tokens, being ſeen of them by the ſpace of forty days, and ſpeaking of thoſe things which appertain to the kingdom of God.

* Luke 24. 49. 4 * And when he had [c] gathered them together, he commanded them that they ſhould not depart from Jeruſalem, but to wait for the promiſe of the Father, * which, ſaid he, ye have heard of me. * John 14. 25.

*Matt. 3. 11. Mark 1. 8. Luke 3. 16. Ch. 2. 2. and 11. 16. and 19. 4. 5 * For John indeed baptized with water, but ye ſhall be baptized [d] with the Holy Ghoſt within theſe few days.

6 [3] When they therefore were come together, they aſked of him, ſaying, Lord, wilt thou at this time [e] reſtore the kingdom to Iſrael?

7 And he ſaid unto them, It is not for you to know the times, or [f] the ſeaſons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

* Ch. 2. 2. 8 * But ye ſhall receive power of the Holy Ghoſt when he ſhall come on you: and ye ſhall be witneſſes unto me both in Jeruſalem and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermoſt part of the earth.

A. D. 33.

9 * [4] And when he had ſpoken theſe things, while they beheld, he was taken up: for a cloud took him up out of their ſight. * Luke 24. 51.

10 And while they looked ſtedfaſtly toward heaven, as he went, behold two men ſtood by them in white apparel,

11 Which alſo ſaid, Ye men of Galilee, why ſtand ye gazing into heaven? This Jeſus which is taken up [g] from you into heaven, ſhall ſo come, as ye have ſeen him go into heaven.

12 ¶ Then returned they unto Jeruſalem from the mount that is called the mount of Olives, which is near to Jeruſalem, being from it a ſabbath [h] day's journey.

13 [5] And when they were [i] come in, they went up into an upper chamber, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the ſon of Alpheus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas James's brother.

14 Theſe all [k] continued with [l] one accord in [m] prayer and ſupplication with the [n] women, and Mary, the mother of Jeſus, and [o] with his brethren.

15 ¶ [6] And in thoſe days Peter ſtood up in the midſt of the diſciples, and ſaid (now the number of [p] names that were in one place, were about an hundred and twenty.)

16 [7] Ye men and brethren, this ſcripture muſt needs have been fulfilled, which the * Holy Ghoſt by the mouth of David ſpake before of Judas, which was * guide to them that took Jeſus. * Pſ. 41. 9. * John 13. 18.

17 For he was numbered with us, and had obtained fellowſhip in this miniſtration.

18 He

---

[1] A paſſing over from the hiſtory of the goſpel, that is, from the hiſtory of the ſayings and doings of Chriſt unto the acts of the apoſtles.

[a] The acts of Jeſus are the miracles and doings which ſhewed his Godhead, and his moſt perfect holineſs and examples of his doctrine.

[2] Chriſt did not ſtraightways aſcend into heaven after his reſurrection, becauſe he would thoroughly prove his reſurrection, and with his preſence confirm his apoſtles in the doctrine which they had heard.

[c] He calleth thoſe infallible tokens, which are otherwiſe termed neceſſary: now in that that Chriſt ſpake, and walked, and ate, and was felt of many, theſe are ſure ſigns and tokens that he truly roſe again.

[c] They were diſperſed here and there, but he gathereth them together that they might all together be witneſſes of his reſurrection.

[d] Either of the Father, or of me: ſo that either the Father, or Chriſt, is ſet here againſt John, as the Holy Ghoſt is againſt water, as things anſwerable the one to the other.

[3] We muſt fight before we triumph: and we ought not curiouſly to ſearch after thoſe things which God hath not revealed.

[e] To the old and ancient ſtate.

[f] That is, the fit occaſion that ſerved to doing of matters which the Lord hath appointed to bring things to paſs in.

[4] After that Chriſt had promiſed the full virtue of the Holy Ghoſt, wherewith he would govern his church, although he ſhould be abſent in body, he took up his body from us into the heavenly tabernacles, there to continue until the latter day of judgment, as the angels witneſs.

[g] That is, out of your ſight.

[h] About two miles.

[5] Eccleſiaſtical aſſemblies to hear the word, and to make common prayer, were firſt inſtituted and kept in private houſes by the apoſtles.

[i] They went into the houſe, which the church had choſen at that time to be a receptacle for the whole aſſembly.

[k] The Greek word ſignifieth, an invincible conſtancy, and ſteadineſs.

[l] It is to good purpoſe, that this concord is mentioned: for thoſe prayers are moſt acceptable to God, which are made with agreeing minds and wills.

[m] The diſciples prayed for the ſending of the Holy Ghoſt, and alſo to be delivered from preſent dangers, wherewith they were beſet.

[n] For it was behoveable, to have the wives confirmed, who were afterward to be partakers of the dangers with their huſbands.

[o] With his kinsfolk.

[6] Peter is made the mouth and interpreter of the whole company of the apoſtles, either by ſecret revelation of the Holy Ghoſt, or by expreſs judgment of the congregation.

[p] Becauſe men are commonly billed and enrolled by their names.

[7] Peter preventeth the offence that might be taken of the falling away of Judas the betrayer, ſhewing, that all things which came unto him, were foretold by God.

18 He therefore hath [q] purchaſed a field with the reward of iniquity: and when * he had [r] thrown down himſelf headlong, he burſt aſunder in the midſt, and all his bowels guſhed out. *Matt. 27. 5.

19 And it is known unto all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, inſomuch that that field is called in their own language, Aceldema, that is, The field of blood.

20 For it is written in the book of Pſalms, * Let his habitation be void, and let no man dwell therein: * alſo, Let another take his [s] charge. *Pſ. 69. 26. *Pſ. 109. 7.

21 [8] Wherefore of theſe men, which have companied with us, all the time that the Lord Jeſus was [t] converſant among us,

22 Beginning from the baptiſm of John unto the day that he was taken up [u] from us, muſt one of them be made a witneſs with us of his reſurrection.

23 [9] And they [x] preſented two, Joſeph called Barſabas, whoſe ſurname was Juſtus, and Matthias.

24 And they prayed, ſaying, Thou, Lord, which knoweſt the hearts of all men, ſhew whether of theſe two thou haſt choſen,

25 That he may take the [y] room of this miniſtration and apoſtleſhip, from which Judas hath [z] gone aſtray, to go to his own place.

26 Then they gave forth their lots: and the lot fell on Matthias, and he was by a common conſent counted with the eleven apoſtles.

CHAP II.

1 The apoſtles, 4 filled with the Holy Ghoſt, 8 ſpeak with divers tongues. 13 They are thought to be drunk, 15 but Peter diſproveth that. 34 He teacheth that Chriſt is the Meſſias. 37 and ſeeing the hearers aſtoniſhed, 38 he exhorteth them to repentance.

A. D. 33.

AND [1] when the day of Pentecoſt was [a] come, they were [b] all with one accord in one place.

2 And ſuddenly there came a ſound from heaven, as of a ruſhing and mighty wind, and it filled all the houſe where they ſat.

3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like fire, and it ſat upon each of them.

4 And they were all filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and began to ſpeak with [c] other tongues, as the [d] Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were dwelling at Jeruſalem Jews, men that feared God, of every nation under heaven.

6 Now when this was noiſed, the multitude came together, and were aſtoniſhed, becauſe that every man heard them ſpeak his own language.

7 And they wondered all, and marvelled, ſaying among themſelves, Behold, are not all theſe which ſpeak, of Galilee?

8 [e] How then hear we every man in our own language wherein we were born?

9 Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the inhabitants of Meſopotamia, and of Judea, and of Cappadocia, of Pontus, and Aſia,

10 And of Phrygia, and Pamphylia, of Egypt, and of the parts of Libya, which is beſide Cyrene, and ſtrangers of Rome, and [f] Jews, and proſelytes, 11 Cretes, and Arabians: we heard them ſpeak in our own tongues the wonderful works of God.

12 [2] They were all then amazed, and doubted, ſaying one to another, What may this be?

13 And others [g] mocked, and ſaid, They are full of new wine.

14 ¶ But Peter ſtanding with the eleven, [h] lift up his voice, and ſaid unto them, Ye men of Judea, and ye all that inhabit Jeruſalem, be

---

[q] Luke conſidered not Judas his purpoſe, but that that followed of it; and ſo we uſe to ſay, that a man both procured himſelf harm, not that his will and purpoſe was ſo, but in reſpect of that which followed.

[r] The Greek word ſignifieth thus much, that Judas fell down flat, and was rent in ſunder in the midſt, with a marvellous huge noiſe.

[s] His office and miniſtry. David wrote theſe words againſt Doeg the king's herdman: And theſe words, Shepherd, Sheep, and Flock, are put over to the church office and miniſtry, ſo that the church and the offices thereof are called by theſe names.

[8] The apoſtles deliberate upon nothing, but firſt they conſult, and take adviſement by God's word; and again they do nothing that concerneth and is behoveable for the whole body of the congregation, without making the congregation privy unto it.

[t] Word for word, went in and out, which kind of ſpeech betokeneth as much in the Hebrew tongue, as the exerciſing of a public and painful office, when they ſpeak of ſuch as are in any public office, Deut 31. 2. 1 Chron. 27. 1.

[u] From our company.

[9] The apoſtles muſt be choſen immediately from God, and therefore after prayer, Matthias is choſen by lot, which is, as it were, God's own voice.

[x] Openly, and by the voices of all the whole company.

[y] That he may be fellow and partaker of his miniſtry.

[z] Departed from, or fallen from: And it is a metaphor taken from the way. For callings are ſignified by the name of ways, with the Hebrews.

[1] The apoſtles being gathered together on a moſt ſolemn feaſt day in one place, that it might evidently appear to all the world, that they had all one office, one Spirit, one faith, are by a double ſign from heaven authoriſed, and anointed with all the moſt excellent gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, and eſpecially with an extraordinary and neceſſary gift of tongues.

[a] Word for word, was fulfilled, that is, was begun, as Luke 2. 21. For the Hebrews ſay, that a day, or a year is fulfilled or ended, when the former days or years are ended, and the other begun, Jer. 25. 12. And it ſhall come to paſs, that when ſeventy years are fulfilled, I will viſit, &c. For the Lord did not bring home his people, after the ſeventieth year was ended, but in the ſeventieth year: Now the day of Pentecoſt was the fiftieth day after the feaſt of the paſſover.

[b] The twelve apoſtles, which were to be the patriarchs as it were of the church.

[c] He calleth them other tongues, which were not the ſame which the apoſtles uſed commonly, and Mark calleth them new tongues.

[d] Hereby we underſtand, that the apoſtles uſed not now one tongue, and then another by hap-hazard and fatal adventure, or as fantaſtical men uſe to do, but with good conſideration of their hearers: and to be ſhort, that they ſpake nothing, but as the Holy Ghoſt governed their tongues.

[e] Not that they ſpake with one voice, and many languages were heard, but that the apoſtles ſpake with ſtrange tongues: for alſo the miracle had rather been in the hearers elſe, whereas now it is in the ſpeakers. Nazianzen, in his oration of Whitſunday.

[f] By Jews, he meaneth them that were both Jews by birth, and Jews by profeſſion of religion, though they were born in other places: and they were proſelytes, which were Gentiles born, and embraced the Jewiſh religion.

[2] God's word pierceth ſome, that it driveth them to ſeek out the truth; and it doth ſo choak others, that it forceth them to be witneſſes of their own impudency.

[g] The word which he uſeth here, ſignifieth ſuch a kind of mocking which is reproachful and contumelious: And by this reproachful mocking we ſee, that there is no miracle ſo great and excellent, which the wickedneſs of man dareth not ſpeak evil of.

[h] Peter's boldneſs is to be marked, wherein the grace of the Holy Ghoſt is to be ſeen, even ſtraight after the beginning.

A. D. 33. this known unto you, and hearken unto my words.

15 For theſe are not drunken, as ye ſuppoſe, ſince it is but the third [i] hour of the day.

16 But this is that which was ſpoken by the
* Joel 2. 28. Iſa. 24. 3. [k] prophet * Joel,

17 [3] And it ſhall be in the laſt days, ſaith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon [l] all [m] fleſh, and your ſons and your daughters ſhall propheſy, and your young men ſhall ſee viſions, and your old men ſhall dream dreams.

18 And on my ſervants, and on mine handmaids, I will pour out of my Spirit in thoſe days, and they ſhall propheſy.

19 And I will ſhew wonders in heaven above, and tokens in the earth beneath, blood and fire, and vapour of ſmoke.

20 The ſun ſhall be turned into darkneſs, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come.

21 [4] And it ſhall be, that whoſoever ſhall [n] call on the name of the Lord ſhall be ſaved.

22 [5] Ye men of Iſrael, hear theſe words: Jeſus of Nazareth, a man [o] approved of God among you with great works, and wonders, and ſigns, which God did by him in the midſt of you, as ye yourſelves alſo know:

23 Him, I ſay, being delivered by the determinate counſel and [p] foreknowledge of God, after you had taken with wicked [q] hands, you have crucified and [r] ſlain:

24 [6] Whom God hath raiſed up, and looſed the [s] ſorrows of death, becauſe it was impoſſible that he ſhould be holden of it.

*Pſ. 16. 9. 25 For David ſaith concerning him, * I beheld the Lord always before me: for he is at my right hand, that I ſhould not be ſhaken.

26 Therefore did mine heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad, and moreover alſo my fleſh ſhall reſt in hope,

27 Becauſe thou wilt not [t] leave my ſoul in grave, neither wilt ſuffer thine holy One to ſee corruption.

28 Thou haſt [u] ſhewed me the ways of life, and ſhalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

29 Men and brethren, I may boldly ſpeak unto you of the patriarch David, * that he is both dead and buried, and his ſepulchre remaineth with us unto this day. A. D. 33. * 1 Kings 2. 10. Ch. 13. 36.

30 Therefore, ſeeing he was a prophet, and knew that God had * [x] ſworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins he would raiſe up Chriſt concerning the fleſh, to ſet him upon his throne: * Pſ. 132. 11.

31 He knowing this before, ſpake of the reſurrection of Chriſt, that * his ſoul ſhould not be left in grave, neither his fleſh ſhould ſee corruption. * Pſ. 16. 10. Ch. 13. 35.

32 [7] This Jeſus hath God raiſed up, whereof we are all witneſſes.

33 Since then that he by the right [y] hand of God hath been exalted, and hath received of his Father the promiſe of the Holy Ghoſt, he hath ſhed forth this which ye now ſee and hear.

34 For David is not aſcended into heaven: but he ſaith, * The Lord ſaid to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, *Pſ. 110. 1.

35 Until I make thine enemies thy footſtool.

36 Therefore let all the houſe of Iſrael know for a ſurety, that God hath [z] made him both Lord, and Chriſt: this Jeſus, I ſay, whom ye have crucified.

37 Now when they heard it, they were pricked in their hearts, and ſaid unto Peter, and the other apoſtles, Men and brethren, what ſhall we do?

38 [8] Then Peter ſaid unto them, Amend your lives, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jeſus Chriſt, for the remiſſion of ſins: and ye ſhall receive the gift of the Holy Ghoſt.

39 For the [a] promiſe is made unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God ſhall call.

40 [9] And with many other words he beſought and exhorted them, ſaying, Save yourſelves from this froward generation.

41 [10] Then they that gladly received his word, were baptized: and the ſame day there were added to the church about three thouſand ſouls.

42 And

---

[i] After the ſun riſing, which may be about ſeven or eight of the clock with us.

[k] There is nothing that can diſſolve queſtions and doubts, but teſtimony taken out of the prophets; for men's reaſons may be overturned, but God's voice cannot be overturned.

[3] Peter ſetting the truth of God againſt the falſe accuſations of men, ſheweth in himſelf and in his fellows, that that is fulfilled which Joel ſpake before concerning the full giving of the Holy Ghoſt in the latter days; which grace alſo is offered to the whole church, to their certain and undoubted deſtruction which do contemn it.

[l] All without exception, both upon the Jews and Gentiles.

[m] That is, men.

[4] The chiefeſt uſe of all the gifts of the Holy Ghoſt is to bring man to ſalvation by faith.

[n] This word, Call on, ſignifieth in holy ſcriptures, an earneſt praying and craving for help at God's hand.

[5] Chriſt being innocent, was by God's providence crucified of wicked men.

[o] Who is by thoſe works which God wrought by him ſo manifeſtly approved and allowed of, that no man can gainſay him.

[p] God's everlaſting knowledge going before, which can neither be ſeparated from his determinate counſel, as the Epicures ſay, neither yet be the cauſe of evil; for God, in his everlaſting and unchangeable counſel, appointed the wicked act of Judas to an excellent end. And God doth that well, which the inſtruments do ill.

[q] God's counſel doth not excuſe the Jews, whoſe hands were wicked.

[r] The fact is ſaid to be theirs, by whoſe counſel and egging forward it is done.

[6] Chriſt (as David foretold) did not only riſe again, but alſo was in the grave void of all corruption.

[s] The death that was full of ſorrow both of body and mind. Therefore when death appeared conqueror and victor over thoſe ſorrows, Chriſt is rightly ſaid to have overcome thoſe ſorrows of death, when as being dead, he overcame death, to live for ever with his Father.

[t] Thou wilt not ſuffer me to remain in the grave.

[u] Thou haſt opened me the way to the true life.

[x] Had ſworn ſolemnly.

[7] Peter witneſſeth that Jeſus Chriſt is the appointed everlaſting King, which he proveth manifeſtly by the gifts of the Holy Ghoſt and the teſtimony of David.

[y] Might and power of God.

[z] Chriſt is ſaid to be made, becauſe he was advanced to that dignity, and therefore it is not ſpoken of his nature, but of his eſtate and high dignity.

[8] Repentance and remiſſion of ſins in Chriſt, are two principles of the goſpel, and therefore of our ſalvation; and they are obtained by the promiſes apprehended by faith, and are ratified in us by baptiſm, wherewith is joined the virtue of the Holy Ghoſt.

[a] The word that is uſed here, giveth us to underſtand that it was a free gift.

[9] He is truly joined to the church, which ſeparateth himſelf from the wicked.

[10] A notable example of the virtue of the Holy Ghoſt. But ſuch as are of age, are not baptized, before they make confeſſion of their faith.

A. D. 33.

42 [11] And they continued in the apoſtles doctrine and [b] fellowſhip, and [c] breaking of bread, and prayers.

43 ¶ [12] And fear came upon every ſoul, and many wonders and ſigns were done by the apoſtles.

44 [13] And all that believed, were in one place, and had all things common.

45 And they ſold their poſſeſſions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every one had need.

46 [14] And they continued daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread at home, did eat their meat together with gladneſs, and ſingleneſs of heart, 47 Praiſing God, and had favour with all the people: and the Lord added unto the church from day to day ſuch as ſhould be ſaved.

CHAP. III.

1 Peter going into the temple with John, 2 healeth the cripple. 9 To the people gathered together to ſee the miracle, 12 he expoundeth the myſtery of our ſalvation through Chriſt, 14 accuſing their ingratitude, 19 and requiring their repentance.

NOW [1] Peter and John went up together into the temple, at the ninth hour of prayer.

2 And a certain man which was a cripple from his mother's womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple called Beautiful, to aſk alms of them that entered into the temple:

3 Who ſeeing Peter and John, that they would enter into the temple, deſired to receive an alms.

4 And Peter earneſtly beholding him with John, ſaid, Look on us.

5 And he [a] gave heed unto them, truſting to receive ſomething of them.

6 Then ſaid Peter, Silver and gold have I none, but ſuch as I have, that give I thee: in the name of Jeſus Chriſt of Nazareth, riſe up and walk.

7 And he took him by the right hand, and lift him up, and immediately his feet and ancle bones received ſtrength,

8 And he leaped up, ſtood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking and leaping, and praiſing God.

9 And all the people ſaw him walk, and praiſing God. A. D. 33.

10 And they knew him, that it was he which ſat for the alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were amazed, and ſore aſtoniſhed at that which was come unto him.

11 ¶ And as the cripple which was healed, [b] held Peter and John, all the people ran amazed unto them in the porch which is called Solomon's.

12 [2] So when Peter ſaw it, he anſwered unto the people, Ye men of Iſrael, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye ſo ſtedfaſtly on us, as though by our own power or godlineſs we had made this man go?

13 The God of Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob, the * God of our fathers, hath glorified his Son Jeſus, whom ye betrayed, and denied in the preſence of Pilate, when he had judged him to be delivered. * Ch. 5. 30.

14 But ye denied the Holy One and the Juſt, and deſired a murderer to be given you:

15 And killed the Lord [c] of life, whom God hath raiſed from the dead, whereof we are witneſſes.

16 And his name hath made this man ſound, whom ye ſee and know, through faith in his name: [d] and the faith which is by him, hath given to him this perfect health of his whole body in the preſence of you all.

17 [3] And now, brethren, I know that through ignorance ye did it, as did alſo your governors.

18 But thoſe things which God before had ſhewed [e] by the mouth of all his prophets, that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer, he hath thus fulfilled.

19 Amend your lives therefore, and turn, that your ſins may be put away, when the time of refreſhing ſhall come from the preſence of the Lord.

20 And he ſhall ſend Jeſus Chriſt, which before was preached unto you:

21 [f] Whom the heaven muſt contain until the time that all things be reſtored, which God had ſpoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets ſince the world began.

22 * For Moſes ſaid unto the fathers, The Lord your God ſhall raiſe up unto you [g] a prophet, even of your brethren, like unto me: ye ſhall * Deut. 18. 15. Ch. 7. 37.

[11] The marks of the true church are the doctrine of the apoſtles, the duties of charity, the pure and ſimple adminiſtration of the ſacraments, and true invocations uſed of all the faithful.

[b] Communicating of goods, and of all other duties of charity, as is ſhewed afterward.

[c] The Jews uſed thin loaves, and therefore they did rather break them than cut them: So by breaking of bread, they underſtood that living together, and the banquets which they uſed to keep. And when they kept their love-feaſts, they uſed to celebrate the Lord's Supper, which even in theſe days began to be corrupted, and Paul amendeth it, 1 Cor. 11.

[12] So oft as the Lord thinketh it expedient, he bridleth the rage of ſtrangers, that the church may be planted, and have ſome refreſhing.

[13] Charity maketh all things common concerning the uſe, according as neceſſity requireth.

[14] The faithful came together at the beginning with great fruit, not only to the hearing of the word, but alſo to meat.

[1] Chriſt in healing a man that was born lame, and well known to all men, both in place and time very famous, by the hands of his apoſtles, doth partly confirm them which believed, and partly alſo calleth others to believe.

[a] Both with heart and eyes.

[b] Either becauſe he loved them, who had healed him; or becauſe he feared that if he once let them go out of his ſight, he ſhould be lame again.

[2] Miracles are appointed to convince the unbelievers, and therefore they do wickedly abuſe them, who ſtanding amazed, either at the miracles themſelves, or at the inſtruments and means which it pleaſeth God to uſe, take an occaſion to eſtabliſh idolatry and ſuperſtition, by that which God hath provided for the knowledge of his true worſhip, that is, chriſtianity.

[c] Who hath life in himſelf, and giveth life to others.

[d] Becauſe he believed on him being raiſed from the dead, whoſe name he heard of by us.

[3] It is beſt of all to receive Chriſt ſo ſoon as he is offered unto us. But ſuch as have neglected ſo great a benefit, through man's weakneſs, have yet repentance for a mean. As for the ignominy of the croſs, we have to ſet againſt that the decree and purpoſe of God, foretold by the prophets, of Chriſt, how that firſt of all he ſhould be crucified here upon earth, and then he ſhould appear from heaven the judge and reſtorer of all things, that all believers might be ſaved, and all unbelievers utterly periſh.

[e] Though there were many prophets, yet he ſpeaketh but of one mouth, to ſhew to us the conſent and agreement of the prophets.

[f] Or, be taken up into heaven.

[g] This promiſe was of an excellent and ſingular prophet.

A. D. 33.

ſhall hear him in all things, whatſoever he ſhall ſay unto you.

23 For it ſhall be that every perſon which ſhall not hear that prophet, ſhall be deſtroyed out of the people.

24 Alſo the prophets [h] from Samuel, and thenceforth as many as have ſpoken, have likewiſe foretold of theſe days.

25 [4] Ye are the [i] children of the prophets, and of the covenant which God hath made unto our fathers, ſaying to Abraham, * Even in thy ſeed ſhall all the kindreds of the earth be bleſſed.

* Gen. 12. 3. Gal. 3. 8.

26 Firſt unto you hath God [k] raiſed up his Son Jeſus, and him he hath ſent to bleſs you, in turning every one of you from your iniquities.

CHAP. IV.

1 Peter and John 3 are taken and brought before the council. 7 and 19 They ſpeak boldly in Chriſt's cauſe. 24 The diſciples pray unto God. 32 Many ſell their poſſeſſions: 36 Of whom Barnabas is one.

AND [1] as they ſpake unto the people, the prieſts and the [a] captain of the temple, and the Sadducees came upon them,

2 Taking it grievouſly, that they taught the people, and preached in Jeſus's name the reſurrection from the dead.

3 And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold, until the next day: for it was now even-tide.

4 Howbeit, many of them which heard the word, believed, and the [b] number of the men was about five thouſand.

5 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow that their [c] rulers and elders and Scribes were gathered together at Jeruſalem:

6 And Annas the chief prieſt, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the [d] kindred of the high prieſts.

7 [2] And when they had ſet them before them, they aſked, By what power, or in what [e] name have ye done this?

8 Then Peter, full of the Holy Ghoſt, ſaid unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Iſrael,

A. D. 33.

9 [3] Foraſmuch as we this day are examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, to wit, by what means he is made whole,

10 [4] Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Iſrael, that by the name of Jeſus Chriſt of Nazareth, whom ye have crucified, whom God raiſed again from the dead, even by him doth this man ſtand here before you, whole.

11 * This is the ſtone caſt aſide of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

* Pſ. 118. 22. Iſa. 28. 16. Matt. 21. 42. Mark 12. 10. Luke 20. 17. Rom. 9. 33. 1 Pett. 2. 7. * Pſ. 7. 2.

12 Neither is there ſalvation in any other: for among men there is [f] given none other [g] name [h] under heaven, whereby we muſt be ſaved.

13 [5] Now when they ſaw the boldneſs of Peter and John, and underſtood that they were unlearned men and without [i] knowledge, they marvelled, and knew them, that they had been with Jeſus:

14 And beholding alſo the man which was healed ſtanding with them, they had nothing to ſay againſt it.

15 Then they commanded them to go aſide out of the council, and [k] conferred among themſelves.

16 [6] Saying, What ſhall we do to theſe men? for ſurely a manifeſt ſign is done by them, and it is openly known to all them that dwell in Jeruſalem: and we cannot deny it.

17 But that it be noiſed no further among the people, let us threaten and charge them, that they ſpeak henceforth to no man in this name.

18 So they called them, and commanded them, that in no wiſe they ſhould ſpeak or teach in the name of Jeſus.

19 [7] But Peter and John anſwered unto them, and ſaid, Whether it be right in the ſight of God, to obey you rather than God, judge ye.

20 For we cannot but ſpeak the things which we have ſeen and heard.

21 [8] So they threatened them, and let them go, and found nothing how to puniſh them, becauſe of the people: for all men praiſed God for that which was done.

22 For the man was above forty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was ſhewed.

23 [9] Then as ſoon as they were let go, they came to their fellows, and ſhewed all that the high prieſts and elders had ſaid unto them.

24 And

---

[h] At what time the kingdom of Iſrael was eſtabliſhed.

[4] The Jews that believe are the firſt-begotten in the kingdom of God.

[i] For whom the prophets were ſpecially appointed.

[k] Given to the world, or raiſed from the dead, and advanced to his kingdom.

[1] None are commonly more diligent or bolder enemies of the church, than ſuch as profeſs themſelves to be head-builders. But the more they rage, the more conſtantly the faithful ſervants of God do continue.

[a] The Jews had certain garriſons for the guard and ſafety of the temple and holy things, Matt. 26. 65. Theſe garriſons had a captain, ſuch as Eleazarus Ananias, the high prieſt's ſon, was in the time of the war that was in Judea, being a very impudent and proud young man. Joſeph. lib. 2. of the taking of Judea.

[b] While they thought to diminiſh the number, they increaſed them.

[c] Theſe were they that made the Sanhedrin, which were all of the tribe of Judah, until Herod uſed that cruelty againſt David's ſtock.

[d] Of whom the high prieſts were wont to be choſen and made, the execution of the yearly office being now changed.

[2] Againſt ſuch as brag of a ſucceſſion of perſons, without a ſucceſſion of doctrine, and by that means beat down the true miniſters of the word, ſo far forth as they are able.

[e] By what authority.

[3] The wolves which ſucceed true paſtors, plead their own cauſe and not God's, neither the church's.

[4] He is indeed a true ſhepherd, that teacheth his ſheep to hang upon Chriſt only, as upon one that is not dead, but hath conquered death, and hath all rule in his own hands.

[f] Of God.

[g] There is no other man, or no other power and authority whatſoever: which kind of ſpeech being uſual among the Jews, roſe upon this, that when we are in danger, we call upon them at whoſe hands we look for help

[h] Any where. And this ſetteth forth unto us the largeneſs of Chriſt's kingdom.

[5] The good liberty and boldneſs of the ſervants of God doth yet thus much good, that ſuch as lay hid under a vizard of zeal, do at length bewray themſelves to be indeed wicked men.

[i] The word uſed here, is Idiot, which being ſpoken in compariſon had to a magiſtrate, betokeneth a private man: but when we ſpeak of ſciences and ſtudies, it ſignifieth one that is unlearned; and in account of honour and eſtimation, it importeth one of baſe degree and no eſtimation.

[k] Laid their heads together.

[6] He that flattereth himſelf in ignorance, cometh at length to do open wickedneſs, and that againſt his own conſcience.

[7] We muſt ſo obey men to whom we are ſubject, that eſpecially and before all things we obey God.

[8] So far off are the wicked from doing what they liſt, that contrariwiſe God uſeth even that to the ſetting forth of his glory, which he giveth them leave to do.

[9] The apoſtles communicate their troubles with the congregation.

A. D. 33.

24 [10] And when they heard it, they lift up their voices to God with one accord, and ſaid, O Lord, thou art the God which haſt made the heaven, and the earth, the ſea, and all things that are in them,

25 Which by the mouth of thy ſervant David haſt ſaid, * Why did the Gentiles rage, and the people imagine vain things?

* Pſ. 2. 1.

26 The kings of the earth aſſembled, and the rulers came together againſt the Lord, and againſt his Chriſt.

27 For doubtleſs, againſt thine holy Son Jeſus, whom thou hadſt anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles and the [l] people of Iſrael, gathered themſelves together,

28 To [m] do whatſoever [n] thine hand and thy counſel had determined before to be done.

29 And now, O Lord, behold their threatenings, and grant unto thy ſervants with all boldneſs to ſpeak thy word,

30 So that thou ſtretch forth thine hand, that healing, and ſigns, and wonders may be done by the name of thine holy Son Jeſus.

31 [11] And when as they had prayed, the place was ſhaken where they were aſſembled together, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and they ſpake the word of God boldly.

32 [12] And the multitude of them that believed, were of [o] one heart, and of one ſoul: neither any of them ſaid, that any thing of that which he poſſeſſed, was his own, but they had all things * common.

* Ch. 2. 24.

33 And with great power gave the apoſtles witneſs of the reſurrection of the Lord Jeſus: and great grace was upon them all.

34 [13] Neither was there any among them that lacked: for as many as were poſſeſſors of lands or houſes, ſold them, and brought the price of the things that were ſold,

35 And laid it down at the apoſtles feet, and it was diſtributed unto every man, according as he had need.

36 Alſo Joſes, which was called of the apoſtles Barnabas (that is, by interpretation, the ſon of conſolation) being a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus,

37 Whereas he had land, ſold it, and brought the money, and laid it down at the apoſtles feet.

CHAP. V.

1 Ananias, for his deceit in keeping back part of the price, 5 falleth down dead, 13 and likewiſe Sapphira his wife. 12 Through divers the apoſtles miracles, 14 the faith is increaſed. 18 The apoſtles that were impriſoned, are delivered by an angel, 26 and being before the ſynod of the prieſts, 36 through Gamaliel's counſel they are kept alive, 40 and beaten: 41 they glorify God.

BUT [1] a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, ſold a poſſeſſion,

2 And [a] kept away part of the price, his wife alſo being of counſel, and brought a certain part, and laid it down at the apoſtles feet.

3 Then ſaid Peter, Ananias, why hath Satan [b] filled thine heart, that thou ſhouldeſt [c] lye unto the Holy Ghoſt, and keep away part of the price of this poſſeſſion?

4 Whilſt it remained, appertained it not unto thee? and after it was ſold, was it not in thine own power? how is it that thou haſt [d] conceived this thing in thine heart? thou haſt not lyed unto men, but unto God.

5 Now when Ananias heard theſe words, he fell down, and gave up the ghoſt. Then great fear came on all them that heard theſe things.

6 And the young men roſe up, and took him up, and carried him out, and buried him.

7 And it came to paſs, about the ſpace of three hours after, that his wife came in, ignorant of that which was done.

8 And Peter ſaid unto her, Tell me, ſold ye the land for ſo much? And ſhe ſaid, Yea, for ſo much.

9 Then Peter ſaid unto her, Why have ye agreed together to [e] tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thine huſband are at the [f] door, and ſhall carry thee out.

10 Then ſhe fell down ſtraightway at his feet and yielded up the ghoſt: and the young men came in, and found her dead, and carried her out, and buried her by her huſband.

11 [2] And great fear came on all the church, and on as many as heard theſe things.

12 Thus by the hands of the apoſtles were many ſigns and wonders ſhewed among the people (and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch.

13 And of the other durſt no man join himſelf to them: nevertheleſs, the people [g] magnified them.

14 Alſo the number of them that believed

[10] We ought neither to be afraid of the threatenings o our enemies, neither yet fooliſhly contemn their rage anc madneſs againſt us; but we have to ſet againſt their forc and malice, an earneſt thinking upon the power and gooc will of God (both which we do manifeſtly behold in Chriſt) and ſo flee to the aid and ſuccour of our Father.

[l] Although the people of Iſrael was but one people, ye the plural number is here uſed, not ſo much for the twelv tribes, every one of which made a people, as for the grea multitude of them, as though many nations had aſſemble themſelves together, as Judg. 5. 14.

[m] The wicked execute God's counſel, though they thinl nothing of it, but they are not therefore without fault.

[n] Thou hadſt determined of thine abſolute authority an power.

[11] God witneſſeth to his church by a viſible ſign, it is h that will eſtabliſh it, by ſhaking the powers both of heave and earth.

[12] An example of the true church, wherein there is content as well in doctrine as in charity one toward anothe And the paſtors deliver true doctrine both ſincerely an conſtantly.

[o] They agreed both in counſel, will, and purpoſes.

[13] True charity helpeth the neceſſity of the poor with hi own loſs; but ſo that all things be done well and orderly

[1] Luke ſheweth by contrary examples, how great a ſin ypocriſy is, eſpecially in them which under a falſe pretence and cloak of zeal would ſeem to ſhine and be chief n the church.

[a] Craftily took away.

[b] Fully poſſeſſed.

[c] For when they had appointed that farm or poſſeſſion or the church, they ſtuck not at it to keep away part of the rice, as though they had to do with men, and not with od, and therefore he ſaith afterward that they tempted od.

[d] Hereby is declared an adviſed and purpoſed deceit, and e fault in the man in admitting the devil's ſuggeſtions.

[e] Look how oft men do things with an evil conſcience, o oft they pronounce ſentence againſt themſelves, and as uch as in them lieth, provoke God to anger, as of ſet urpoſe, minding to try whether he be juſt and almighty r no.

[f] Are at hand.

[2] The Lord by his marvellous virtue bridleth ſome, that hey may not hurt the church: other ſome he keepeth in is awe and fear: and other ſome he allureth unto him.

[g] Highly praiſed them.

A. D. 33. in the Lord, both of men and women, grew more and more.)

15 Inſomuch that they brought the ſick into the ſtreets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the leaſt way the ſhadow of Peter, when he came by, might ſhadow ſome of them.

16 There came alſo a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jeruſalem, bringing ſick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean ſpirits, who were all healed.

17 ¶ [3] Then the chief prieſt roſe up, and all they that were with him (which was the [h] ſect of the Sadducees) and were full of indignation,

18 And laid hands on the apoſtles, and put them in the common priſon.

19 [4] But the angel of the Lord, by night, opened the priſon doors, and brought them forth, and ſaid,

20 [5] Go your way, and ſtand in the temple, and ſpeak to the people all the [i] words of this life.

21 [6] So when they heard it, they entered into the temple early in the morning, and taught. And the chief prieſt came, and they that were with him, and called the council together, and all the elders of the children of Iſrael, and ſent to the priſon, to cauſe them to be brought.

22 But when the officers came, and found them not in the priſon, they returned and told it,

23 Saying, Certainly we found the priſon ſhut as ſure as was poſſible, and the keepers ſtanding without, before the doors: but when we had opened, we found no man within.

24 Then when the chief prieſt, and the captain of the temple, and the high prieſts, heard theſe things, they doubted of them whereunto this would grow.

25 [7] Then came one, and ſhewed them, ſaying, Behold, the men that ye put in priſon, are ſtanding in the temple, and teach the people.

26 [8] Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence (for they feared the people, leſt they ſhould have been ſtoned.)

27 And when they had brought them, they ſet them before the council, and the chief prieſt aſked them,

28 [9] Saying, Did not we ſtraightly command you, that ye ſhould not teach in this name? and behold, you have filled Jeruſalem with your doctrine, and ye would [k] bring this man's blood upon us. A. D. 33.

29 [10] Then Peter and the apoſtles anſwered, and ſaid, We ought rather to obey God than men.

30 [11] The * God of our fathers hath raiſed up Jeſus, whom ye ſlew, and hanged on a tree. *Ch. 3. 13.

31 Him hath God lift up with his right hand, to be a prince and a ſaviour, to give repentance to Iſrael, and forgiveneſs of ſins.

32 [12] And we are his witneſſes concerning theſe things which we ſay: yea, and the Holy Ghoſt, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

33 Now when they heard it, they [l] burſt for anger, and conſulted to ſlay them.

34 [13] Then ſtood there up in the council a certain Phariſee named Gamaliel, a doctor of the law, honoured of all the people, and commanded to put the apoſtles forth a little ſpace:

35 And ſaid unto them, Men of Iſrael, take heed to yourſelves, what ye intend to do, touching theſe men:

36 [14] For before theſe times, roſe up Theudas, [m] boaſting himſelf, to whom reſorted a number of men, about four hundred, who was ſlain, and they all which obeyed him were ſcattered, and brought to nought.

37 After this man, roſe up Judas of Galilea, in the days of the tribute, and drew away much people after him: he alſo periſhed, and all that obeyed him were ſcattered abroad.

38 And now I ſay unto you, [n] Refrain yourſelves from theſe men, and let them alone: for if this counſel, or this work be of [o] men, it will come to nought:

39 But if it be of God, ye cannot deſtroy it, leſt ye be found even fighters againſt God.

40 And to him they agreed, and called the apoſtles: and when they had beaten them, they commanded that they ſhould not ſpeak in the name of Jeſus: and let them go.

41 [15] So they departed from the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to ſuffer rebuke for his name.

42 And daily in the [p] temple, and from houſe to houſe, they ceaſed not to teach, and preach Jeſus Chriſt.

[3] The more that the church increaſeth, the more increaſeth the rage of Satan, and therefore they proceed from threatenings to priſoning.

[h] The word which is uſed here, is hereſy, which ſignifieth a choice, and ſo is taken for a right form of learning, or faction, or ſtudy, and courſe of life, which the Latins call a ſect: at the firſt this word was indifferently uſed, but at length it came to be taken only in evil part, whereupon came the name of heretic, which is taken for one that goeth aſtray from ſound and wholeſome doctrine, after ſuch ſort, that he ſetteth light by the judgment of God and his church, and continueth in his opinion, and breaketh the peace of the church.

[4] Angels are made ſervants of the ſervants of God.

[5] God doth therefore deliver his, that they may more ſtoutly provoke his enemies.

[i] Words, whereby the way unto life is ſhewed.

[6] God mocketh his enemies attempts from above.

[7] The more openly that Chriſt's virtue ſheweth itſelf, the more increaſeth the madneſs of his enemies, which conſpire againſt him.

[8] Tyrants which fear not God, are conſtrained to fear his ſervants.

[9] It is the property of tyrants to ſet out their own commandments as right and reaſon, be they never ſo wicked.

[k] Make us guilty of murdering that man, whom yet they will not vouchſafe to name.

[10] We ought to obey no man, but ſo far forth as obeying him we may obey God.

[11] Chriſt is appointed and indeed declared prince and preſerver of his church in deſpite of his enemies.

[12] It is not ſufficient for us, that there is a right end, but we muſt alſo according to our vocation go on forward till we come unto it.

[l] This betokeneth that they were in a moſt vehement rage, and marvellouſly diſquieted in mind, for it is a borrowed kind of ſpeech taken from them which are harſhly cut in ſunder with a ſaw.

[13] Chriſt findeth defenders of his cauſe, even in the very route of his enemies, ſo oft as he thinketh it needful.

[14] In matters of religion we muſt take good heed, that we attempt nothing under the colour of zeal, beſide our vocation.

[m] To be of ſome fame.

[n] He diſſuadeth his fellows from murdering the apoſtles, neither doth he think it good to refer the matter to the Roman magiſtrate; for the Jews could abide nothing worſe, than to have the tyranny of the Romans confirmed.

[o] If it be counterfeit and deviſed.

[15] The apoſtles accuſtomed to ſuffer and bear words, are at length inured to bear ſtripes, but yet ſo, that by that means they become ſtronger.

[p] Both publicly and privately.

A. D. 33.

CHAP. VI.

2 The apoſtles 3 appoint the office of deaconſhip 5 to ſeven choſen men: 8 of whom Stephen, full of faith, is one. 12 He is taken, 13 and accuſed as a tranſgreſſor of Moſes's law.

AND [1] in thoſe days, as the number of the diſciples grew, there aroſe a murmuring of the [a] Grecians towards the Hebrews, becauſe their widows were neglected in the [b] daily miniſtering.

2 [2] Then the twelve called the multitude of the diſciples together, and ſaid, It is not [c] mete that we ſhould leave the word of God to ſerve the [d] tables.

3 [3] Wherefore, brethren, look you out among you ſeven men of honeſt report, and full of the Holy Ghoſt, and of wiſdom, which we may appoint to this buſineſs.

4 And we will give ourſelves continually to prayer, and to the miniſtration of the word.

5 And the ſaying pleaſed the whole multitude: and they choſe Stephen, a man full of faith, and of the Holy Ghoſt, and * Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicholas, a proſelyte of Antiochia.

* Ch. 21. 8.

6 [4] Which they ſet before the apoſtles: and they prayed, and [e] laid their hands on them.

7 [5] And the word of God increaſed, and the number of the diſciples was multiplied in Jeruſalem greatly, and a great company of the prieſts were obedient to the [f] faith.

8 ¶ [6] Now Stephen, full of faith and [g] power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 [7] Then there aroſe certain of the [h] ſynagogue, which are called Libertines, and Cyrenians, and of Alexandria, and of them of Cilicia, and of Aſia, and diſputed with Stephen.

10 [8] But they were not able to reſiſt the wiſdom and the Spirit by the which he ſpake.

11 Then they ſuborned men, which ſaid, We have heard him ſpeak blaſphemous words againſt Moſes, and God.

A. D. 33.

12 [9] Thus they moved the people and the elders, and the Scribes: and running upon him, caught him, and brought him to the council,

13 [10] And ſet forth falſe witneſſes, which ſaid, This man ceaſeth not to ſpeak blaſphemous words againſt this holy place, and the law.

14 For we have heard him ſay, that this Jeſus of Nazareth ſhall deſtroy this place, and ſhall change the ordinances which Moſes gave us.

15 And all that ſat in the council, looking ſtedfaſtly on him, [i] ſaw his face as it had been the face of an angel.

CHAP. VII.

1 Stephen pleading his cauſe, ſheweth that God choſe the fathers, 20 before Moſes was born, 47 and before the temple was built, 44 and that all outward ceremonies were ordained according to the heavenly pattern. 54 The Jews gnaſhing their teeth, 59 ſtone him.

THEN [1] ſaid the chief prieſt, Are theſe things ſo?

2 [2] And he ſaid, Ye men, brethren, and fathers, hearken. * That God of [a] glory appeared unto our father Abraham, while he was in [b] Meſopotamia, before he dwelt in Charran,

* Gen. 12. 7.

3 And ſaid unto him, Come out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I ſhall ſhew thee.

4 Then came he out of the land of the Chaldeans, and dwelt in Charran. And after that his father was dead, God brought him from thence into this land, wherein ye now dwell.

5 And he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not the [c] breadth of a foot: yet he [d] promiſed that he would give it to him for a poſſeſſion, and to his ſeed after him, when as yet he had no child.

---

[1] When Satan hath aſſailed the church without, and that to ſmall purpoſe, and in vain, he aſſaileth it within, with civil diſſention and ſtrife betwixt themſelves. But the apoſtles take occaſion thereby to ſet order in the church.

[a] Of their parts, which of Grecians became religious Jews.

[b] In the beſtowing of alms according to their neceſſity.

[2] The office of preaching the word, and diſpenſing the goods of the church, are different one from another, and not raſhly to be joined together, as the apoſtles do here inſtitute. And the apoſtles do not chuſe ſo much as the deacons without the conſent of the church.

[c] It is ſuch a matter, as we may in no wiſe accept of it.

[d] Banquets. Though by the name of tables, other offices are alſo meant which are annexed to it, ſuch as pertain to the care of the poor.

[3] In chuſing of deacons (much more of miniſters) there muſt be examination both of their learning and manners of life.

[4] The ancient church did, with laying on of hands, as it were conſecrate to the Lord, ſuch as were lawfully elected.

[e] This ceremony of laying-on of hands came from the Jews, who uſed this order both in public affairs, and offering of ſacrifices, and alſo in private prayers and bleſſings, as appeareth Gen. 28. And the church obſerved this ceremony, 1 Tim. 5. 22. Acts 8. 17. But here is no mention made either of cream, or ſhaving, or raſing, or croſſing, &c.

[5] An happy end of temptation.

[f] This is the figure Metonymia, meaning by faith, the doctrine of the goſpel which ingendereth faith.

[6] God exerciſeth his church firſt with evil words and ſlanders, then with impriſonments, afterward with ſcourgings, and by theſe means prepareth it in ſuch ſort, that at length he cauſeth it to encounter with Satan and the world, even to bloodſhed and death, and that with good ſucceſs.

[g] Excellent and ſingular good gifts.

[7] Schools and univerſities were of old time addicted to falſe paſtors, and were the inſtruments of Satan to blow abroad and defend falſe doctrines.

[h] Of the company and college, as it were.

[8] Falſe teachers, becauſe they will not be overcome, flee from diſputations to manifeſt and open ſlandering and falſe accuſations.

[9] The firſt bloody perſecution of the church of Chriſt began and ſprung from a council of prieſts, by the ſuggeſtion of the univerſity doctors.

[10] An example of cavillers or falſe accuſers, which gather falſe concluſions of things that are well uttered and ſpoken.

[i] Hereby it appeareth that Stephen had an excellent and godly countenance, having a quiet and ſettled mind, a good conſcience and ſure perſuaſion that his cauſe was juſt. For ſeeing he was to ſpeak before the people, God beautified his countenance, to the end that with the very beholding of him, the Jews minds might be pierced and amazed.

[1] Stephen is admitted to plead his cauſe, but to this end and purpoſe, that under a cloak and colour of law, he might be condemned.

[2] Stephen witneſſeth unto the Jews, that he acknowledgeth the true fathers, and the only true God; and ſheweth moreover that they are more ancient than the temple, with all that ſervice appointed by the law, and therefore they ought to lay another foundation of true religion, that is to ſay, the free covenant that God made with the fathers.

[a] That mighty God full of glory and majeſty.

[b] When he ſaith afterward, ver. 4. that Abraham came out of Chaldea, it is evident that Meſopotamia contained Chaldea which was near unto it, and bordering upon it, and ſo writeth Pliny, book 6. chap. 27.

[c] Not ſo much ground as to ſet his foot upon.

[d] The promiſe of the poſſeſſion was certain and belonged to Abraham, though his poſterity enjoyed it a great while after his death; and this is the figure Synecdoche.

A. D. 33.

6 But God ſpake thus, that his * ſeed ſhould be a ſojourner in a ſtrange land: and that they ſhould keep it in bondage, and entreat it evil [e] four hundred years.

* Gen. 15. 13.

7 But the nation to whom they ſhall be in bondage, will I judge, ſaith God: and after that, they ſhall come forth and ſerve me in this place,

8 * He gave him alſo the covenant of circumciſion: and ſo Abraham begat * Iſaac, and circumciſed him the eighth day: and Iſaac begat * Jacob, and Jacob the twelve * patriarchs.

* Gen. 17. 9. * Gen. 21. 3. * Gen. 25. 24. * Gen. 29. 33. and 30. 5. and 35. 23.

9 [3] And the patriarchs, moved with envy, ſold * Joſeph into Egypt: but God was [f] with him,

* Gen. 37. 28.

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, and * gave him [g] favour and wiſdom in the ſight of Pharaoh king of Egypt, who made him governor over Egypt, and over his whole houſe.

* Gen. 41. 37.

11 ¶ Then came there a famine over all the land of Egypt and Canaan, and great affliction, that our fathers found no ſuſtenance.

12 But when * Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he ſent our fathers firſt:

* Gen. 42. 1.

13 * And at the ſecond time, Joſeph was known of his brethren, and Joſeph's kindred were made known unto Pharaoh.

* Gen. 45. 4.

14 Then ſent Joſeph, and cauſed his father to be brought, and all his kindred, even threeſcore and fifteen ſouls.

15 So * Jacob went down into Egypt, and he * died, and our fathers,

* Gen. 46. 5. * Gen. 49. 33.

16 And were [h] removed into Sychem, and were put in the ſepulchre that Abraham had bought * for money of the ſons of Emmor, father of Sychem.

* Gen. 23. 16.

17 But when the time of the promiſe drew near, which God had ſworn to Abraham, the people * grew and multiplied in Egypt,

* Exod. 1. 7.

18 Till another king aroſe, which knew not Joſeph.

19 The ſame [i] dealt ſubtilly with our kindred, and evil entreated our fathers, and made them to caſt out their young children, that they ſhould not remain alive.

20 * The ſame time was Moſes born, and was [k] acceptable unto God, which was nouriſhed up in his father's houſe three months.

* Exod. 2. 2.

21 And when he was caſt out, Pharaoh's daughter took him up, and nouriſhed him for her own ſon.

22 And Moſes was learned in all the wiſdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds.

23 Now when he was full forty years old, it came into his heart to viſit his brethren, the children of Iſrael.

24 * And when he ſaw one of them ſuffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged his quarrel that had the harm done to him, and ſmote the Egyptian.

* Exod. 2. 11.

A. D. 33.

25 For he ſuppoſed his brethren would have underſtood, that God by his hand ſhould give them deliverance: but they underſtood it not.

26 * And the next day he ſhewed himſelf unto them as they ſtrove, and would have ſet them at one again, ſaying, Sirs, ye are brethren: why do ye wrong one to another?

* Exod. 2. 13.

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong, thruſt him away, ſaying, Who made thee a prince and a judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill me, as thou didſt the Egyptian yeſterday?

29 Then fled Moſes at that ſaying, and was a ſtranger in the land of Midian, where he begat two ſons.

30 And when forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the * wilderneſs of mount Sinai an [l] angel of the Lord, in a flame of fire in a buſh.

* Exod. 3. 2.

31 And when Moſes ſaw it, he wondered at the ſight: and as he drew near to conſider it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, ſaying,

32 I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moſes trembled, and durſt not behold it.

33 Then the Lord ſaid to him, Put off thy ſhoes from thy feet: for the place where thou ſtandeſt is holy ground.

34 I have ſeen, I have ſeen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them: and now come, and I will ſend thee into Egypt.

35 This Moſes whom they forſook, ſaying, Who made thee a prince and a judge? the ſame God ſent for a prince, and a deliverer, by the [m] hand of the angel, which appeared to him in the buſh.

36 He * brought them out, doing wonders and miracles in the land of Egypt, and in the red ſea, and in the wilderneſs * forty years.

* Exod. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 & 14 chap. * Exod. 16. 1.

37 [4] This is that Moſes which ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, * A prophet ſhall the Lord your God raiſe up unto you, even of your brethren, like unto me: him ſhall ye hear.

* Deut. 18. 15. Ch. 3. 22.

38 * This is he that was in the congregation, in the wilderneſs with the angel, which ſpake to him in mount Sinai, and with our fathers, who received the lively oracles to give unto us.

* Exod. 19. 3.

39 To whom our fathers would not obey, but refuſed, and in their hearts truned back again into Egypt:

40 Saying unto Aaron, * Make us gods that may go before us: for we know not what is become of this Moſes that brought us out of the land of Egypt.

* Exod. 32. 1.

---

[e] There are reckoned four hundred years from the beginning of Abraham's progeny, which was at the birth of Iſaac; and four hundred and thirty years which are ſpoken of by Paul, Gal. 3. 17. from the time that Abraham and his father departed together out of Ur of the Chaldeans.

[3] Stephen reckoneth up diligently the horrible miſchiefs of ſome of the fathers, to teach the Jews that they ought not raſhly to reſt in the authority or examples of the fathers.

[f] By this kind of ſpeech, is meant the peculiar favour that God ſheweth men; for he ſeemeth to be away from them, whom he helpeth not. And on the other ſide, he is with them whom he delivereth out of whatſoever great troubles.

[g] Gave him favour in Pharaoh's ſight for his wiſdom.

[h] The patriarchs, the ſons of Jacob, though there be mention made of no more than Joſeph, Joſh. 24. 32.

[i] He deviſeth a ſubtil invention againſt our ſtock, in that he commanded all the males to be caſt out.

[k] That child was born through God's merciful goodneſs and favour, to be of a goodly and fair countenance.

[l] Now he calleth the Son of God an angel, for he is the angel of great counſel, and therefore ſtraightway after he ſheweth him, ſaying to Moſes, I am the God of thy fathers, &c.

[m] By the power.

[4] He acknowledgeth Moſes for the law-giver, but ſo, that he proveth by his own witneſs, that the law had reſpect to a more perfect thing, that is to ſay, to the prophetical office which tended to Chriſt, the head of all prophets.

41 And they made a [n] calf in thoſe days, and offered ſacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands.

42 Then God turned himſelf away, and [o] gave them up to ſerve the [p] hoſt of heaven, as it is written in the book of the prophets, * O houſe of Iſrael, have ye offered to me ſlain beaſts and ſacrifices by the ſpace of forty years in the wilderneſs? * Amos 5. 25.

AND [1] Saul conſented to his death, and at that time there was a great perſecution againſt the church which was at Jeruſalem, and they were all ſcattered abroad through the regions of Judea, and of Samaria, except the apoſtles.

2 [2] Then certain men fearing God, [a] carried Stephen amongſt them to be buried, and made great lamentation for him.

3 [3] But Saul made havock of the church, and entered into every houſe, and drew out both men and women, and put them into priſon.

4 Therefore they that were ſcattered abroad, went to and fro preaching the word.

5 ¶ [4] Then came Philip into the city of Samaria, and preached Chriſt unto them.

6 And the people gave heed unto thoſe things which Philip ſpake, with one accord, hearing and ſeeing the miracles which he did.

[a] This was done in a rage and fury, for at that time the Jews could put no man to death by law, as they confeſſed before Pilate, ſaying, that it was not lawful for them to put any man to death, and therefore it is reported by Joſeph. lib. 20. that Ananus a Sadducee ſlew James the brother of the Lord, and for ſo doing, was accuſed before Albinus the preſident of the country.

voice, came out of many that were poſſeſſed of them: and many taken with palſies, and that halted, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

9 [5] And there was before in the city a certain man called Simon, which uſed [b] witchcraft, and [c] bewitched the people of Samaria, ſaying, that he himſelf was ſome great man.

10 To whom they gave heed from the leaſt to the greateſt, ſaying, This man is that great power of God.

11 And they gave heed unto him, becauſe that of long time he had bewitched them with ſorceries.

12 But as ſoon as they believed Philip, which preached the things that concerned the kingdom of God, and the name of Jeſus Chriſt, they were baptized, both men and women.

13 [6] Then Simon himſelf believed alſo, and was baptized, and continued with Philip, and wondered when he ſaw the ſigns and great miracles which were done.

14 ¶ [7] Now when the apoſtles, which were at Jeruſalem, heard ſay, that Samaria had received the word of God, they ſent unto them Peter and John.

15 Which, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the [d] Holy Ghoſt.

16 (For as yet he was fallen down on none of them, but they were baptized only in the name of the Lord Jeſus.)

17 Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghoſt.

18 [8] And when Simon ſaw, that through laying on of the apoſtles hands, the Holy Ghoſt was given, he offered them money,

19 Saying, Give me alſo this power, that on whomſoever I lay the hands, he may receive the Holy Ghoſt.

20 [9] Then ſaid Peter unto him, Thy money periſh with thee, becauſe thou thinkeſt that the gift of God may be obtained with money.

21 Thou haſt neither part nor fellowſhip in this [e] buſineſs: for thine heart is not [f] right in the ſight of God.

22 [10] Repent therefore of this thy wickedneſs, and pray God, that if it be poſſible, the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

23 For I ſee that thou art in the [g] gall of bitterneſs, and in the [h] bond of iniquity. A. D. 34.

24 Then anſwered Simon, and ſaid, Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of theſe things which ye have ſpoken come upon me.

25 ¶ So they, when they had teſtified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jeruſalem, and preached the goſpel in many towns of the Samaritans.

26 [11] Then the angel of the Lord ſpake unto Philip, ſaying, Ariſe, and go toward the South unto the way that goeth down from Jeruſalem unto Gaza, which is waſte.

27 And he aroſe, and went on: and behold, a certain eunuch of Ethiopia, Candace the queen of the Ethiopians [i] chief governor, who had the rule of all her treaſure, and came to Jeruſalem to worſhip.

28 And as he returned ſitting in his chariot, he read Eſaias the prophet.

29 Then the Spirit ſaid unto Philip, Go near and join thyſelf to yonder chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither, and heard him read the prophet Eſaias, and ſaid, But underſtandeſt thou what thou readeſt?

31 And he ſaid, How can I, except I had [k] a guide? and he deſired Philip, that he would come up, and ſit with him.

32 [12] Now the place of the ſcripture which he read, was this, * He was led as a ſheep to the ſlaughter, and like a lamb dumb before his ſhearer, ſo opened he not his mouth. * Iſa. 53.7.

33 In his [l] humility his judgment hath been exalted: but who ſhall declare his [m] generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 Then the eunuch anſwered Philip, and ſaid, I pray thee, of whom ſpeaketh the prophet this? of himſelf, or of ſome other man?

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the ſame ſcripture, and preached unto him Jeſus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water, and the eunuch ſaid, See, here is water: what doth let me to be baptized?

37 [13] And Philip ſaid unto him, If thou believeſt with all thine heart, thou mayeſt. Then he anſwered, and ſaid, [n] I believe that that Jeſus Chriſt is that Son of God. 38 Then [12] Thoſe things which ſeem moſt to come by chance or fortune (as men term it) are governed by the ſecret providence of God.

[l] The Hebrew text readeth it thus, Out of a narrow ſtrait, and out of judgment was he taken: where by the narrow ſtrait, he meaneth the grave and the very bands of death; and by judgment, the puniſhment which was laid upon him, and that miſerable ſtate which Chriſt took upon him for our ſakes, in bearing his Father's wrath.

SAUL'S CONVERSION.

George Burder. Sculpt. 1775

38 Then he commanded the chariot to ſtand ſtill: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch, and he baptized him.

39 And as ſoon as they were come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch ſaw him no more: ſo he went on his way rejoicing.

40 But Philip was found at Azotus, and he walked to and fro preaching in all the cities till he came to Ceſarea.

CHAP. IX.

2 Saul going towards Damaſcus, 4 is ſtricken down to the ground of the Lord. 10 Ananias is ſent 18 to baptize him. 23 The laying wait of the Jews. 25 He eſcapeth, being let down through the wall. 33 Peter cureth Æneas of the palſy, 36 and by him, Tabitha, being dead, 40 is reſtored to life.

*Rom. 9. 3. Gal. 1. 13. AND [1] * Saul yet [a] breathing out threatenings and ſlaughter againſt the diſciples of the Lord, went unto the high prieſt,

2 And deſired of him letters to Damaſcus to the ſynagogues, that if he found any that were of that [b] way (either men or women) he might bring them bound to Jeruſalem.

*Ch. 22. 6. 1 Cor. 15. 8. 3 Now as he journeyed, it came to paſs that as he was come near to Damaſcus, * ſuddenly there ſhined round about him a light from heaven.

4 And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice, ſaying to him, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me?

5 And he ſaid, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord ſaid, I am Jeſus, whom thou perſecuteſt: it is [c] hard for thee to kick againſt pricks.

6 He then, both trembling and aſtoniſhed, ſaid, Lord, what wilt thou that I do? And the Lord ſaid unto him, Ariſe, and go into the city, and it ſhall be told thee what thou ſhalt do.

7 The men alſo which journeyed with him, [d] ſtood amazed, hearing his [e] voice, but ſeeing no man.

8 And Saul aroſe from the ground, and opened his eyes, but ſaw no man. Then led they him by the hand, and brought him into Damaſcus,

9 Where he was three days without ſight, and neither ate nor drank.

10 And there was a certain diſciple at Damaſcus, named Ananias, and to him ſaid the Lord in a viſion, Ananias. And he ſaid, Behold, I am here, Lord.

11 Then the Lord ſaid unto him, Ariſe, and go into the ſtreet which is called Strait, and ſeek in the houſe of Judas after one called Saul of [f] Tarſus: for behold he prayeth.

12 (And he ſaw in a viſion a man named Ananias coming in to him, and putting his hands on him, that he might receive his ſight.)

13 Then Ananias anſwered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy ſaints at Jeruſalem.

14 Moreover here he hath authority of the high prieſts, to bind all that call on thy name.

15 Then the Lord ſaid unto him, Go thy way: for he is a [g] choſen veſſel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Iſrael.

16 For I will [h] ſhew him how many things he muſt ſuffer for my name's ſake.

17 Then Ananias went his way, and entered into [i] that houſe, and put his hands on him, and ſaid, Brother Saul, the Lord hath ſent me (even Jeſus that appeared unto thee in the way as thou cameſt) that thou mighteſt receive thy ſight, and be filled with the Holy Ghoſt.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been ſcales, and ſuddenly he received ſight, and aroſe, and was baptized,

19 And received meat, and was ſtrengthened. So was Saul certain days with the diſciples which were at Damaſcus.

20 [2] And ſtraightway he preached Chriſt in the ſynagogues, that he was that Son of God,

21 So that all that heard him were amazed, and ſaid, Is not this he that made havock of them which called on this name in Jeruſalem, and came hither for that intent, that he ſhould bring them bound unto the high prieſts?

22 [3] But Saul increaſed the more in ſtrength, and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damaſcus, [k] confirming that this was that Chriſt.

23 [4] And after that many days were fulfilled, the Jews took counſel together to kill him.

24 But their laying wait was known of Saul: now they * watched the gates day and night, that they might kill him. * 2 Cor. 11. 32.

25 [5] Then the diſciples took him by night, and put him through the wall, and let him down by a rope in a baſket.

26 [6] And when Saul was come to Jeruſalem, he aſſayed to join himſelf with the diſciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a diſciple.

27 But

[1] Saul (who is alſo Paul) perſecuting Chriſt moſt cruelly, who did as it were flee before him, falleth into his hands, and is overcome; and with a ſingular example of the goodneſs of God, inſtead of puniſhment which he juſtly deſerved for his cruelty, is not only received to favour, but is alſo even by the mouth of God appointed an apoſtle, and is confirmed by the miniſtry and witneſs of Ananias.

[a] This is a token that Saul's ſtomach boiled, and caſt out great threatenings to murder the diſciples.

[b] Any trade of life which a man taketh himſelf unto, the Jews call a way.

[c] This is a proverb which is ſpoken of them, that through their own ſtubbornneſs hurt themſelves.

[d] Stood ſtill and could not go one ſtep forward, but abode amazed as if they had been very ſtones.

[e] They heard Paul's voice; for afterward it is ſaid in flat terms that they heard not his voice that ſpake; as beneath chap. 22. 9. But others go about to ſet theſe places at one which ſeem to be at variance, after this ſort, to wit, that they heard a ſound of a voice, but no perfect voice.

[5] We are not forbidden to avoid and eſchew the dangers and conſpiracies that the enemies of God lay for us, ſo that we ſwerve not from our vocation.

[6] In ancient time no man was raſhly or lightly received into the number of and amongſt the ſheep of Chriſt, much leſs to be a paſtor.

A. D. 37.

27 But Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apoſtles, and declared to them, how he had ſeen the Lord in the way, and that he had ſpoken unto him, and how he had ſpoken boldly at Damaſcus in the name of Jeſus.

28 [7] And he was converſant [l] with them at Jeruſalem:

29 And ſpake boldly in the name of the Lord Jeſus, and ſpake and diſputed againſt the [m] Grecians, but they went about to ſlay him.

30 [8] But when the brethren knew it, they brought him to Ceſarea, and ſent him forth to Tarſus.

31 [9] Then had the churches reſt through all Judea, and Galilee, and Samaria, and were [n] edified, and walked in the fear of the Lord, and were multiplied by the comfort of the Holy Ghoſt.

32 [10] And it came to paſs, as Peter walked throughout all quarters, he came alſo to the ſaints which dwelt at Lydda.

33 And there he found a certain man named Æneas, which had kept his couch eight years, and was ſick of the palſy.

34 Then ſaid Peter unto him, Æneas, Jeſus Chriſt maketh thee whole: ariſe, and truſs thy couch together. And he aroſe immediately.

35 And all that dwelt at [o] Lydda and Saron, ſaw him, and turned to the Lord.

36 [11] There was alſo at Joppa a certain woman, a diſciple, named Tabitha (which by interpretation is called Dorcas) ſhe was full of good works and alms which ſhe did.

37 And it came to paſs in thoſe days, that ſhe was ſick, and died: and when they had waſhed her, they laid her in an upper chamber.

38 Now foraſmuch as Lydda was near to Joppa, and the diſciples had heard that Peter was there, they ſent unto him two men, deſiring that he would not delay to come unto them.

39 Then Peter aroſe, and came with them: and when he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber, where all the widows ſtood by him weeping, and ſhewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while ſhe was with them.

40 But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed, and turned him to the body, and ſaid, Tabitha, Ariſe. And ſhe opened her eyes, and when ſhe ſaw Peter, ſat up.

41 Then he gave her the hand, and lift her up, and called the ſaints and widows, and reſtored her alive.

A. D. 38.

42 And it was known throughout all Joppa, and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to paſs that he tarried many days in Joppa with one Simon a tanner.

CHAP. X.

1 Cornelius, 4 at the angel's commandment, 5
ſendeth for Peter: 11 who alſo by a viſion, 15 20 is taught not to deſpiſe the Gentiles: 34 He preacheth the goſpel to Cornelius and his houſhold, 45 who having received the Holy Ghoſt, 47 are baptized.

FUrthermore [1] there was a certain man in Ceſarea called Cornelius, a captain of the band called the Italian band,

2 A [a] devout man, and one that feared God with [b] all his houſhold, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed God continually.

3 He ſaw in a viſion evidently (about the ninth hour of the day) an angel of God coming in to him, and ſaying unto him, Cornelius.

4 But when he looked on him, he was afraid, and ſaid, [c] What is it, Lord? and he ſaid unto him, Thy prayers and thine alms are [d] come up into [e] remembrance before God.

5 Now therefore ſend men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whoſe ſurname is Peter.

6 He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whoſe houſe is by the ſea ſide: he ſhall tell thee what thou oughteſt to do.

7 And when the angel which ſpake unto Cornelius, was departed, he called two of his ſervants, and a ſoldier that feared God, one of them that waited on him,

8 And told them all things, and ſent them to Joppa.

9 On the morrow as they went on their journey and drew near unto the city, Peter went up upon the houſe to pray, about the ſixth hour.

10 Then waxed he an hungred, and would have eaten: but while they made ſome thing ready, he fell into a [f] trance.

11 And he ſaw heaven opened, and a certain veſſel come down unto him, as it had been a great ſheet, knit at the [g] four corners, and was let down to the earth.

12 Wherein were [h] all manner of [i] four-footed

[8] The miniſters of the word may change their place by the advice and counſel of the congregation and church.

[9] The end of perſecutions is the building of the church, ſo that we will patiently wait for the Lord.

[n] This is a borrowed kind of ſpeech, which ſignifieth eſtabliſhment and increaſe.

[10] Peter's apoſtleſhip is confirmed by healing of the man that was ſick of the palſy.

[o] Lydda was a city of Paleſtina, and Saron a champain country, and a place of good paſturage, between Ceſarea of Paleſtine, and the mountain Tabor, and the lake of Geneſareth, which extendeth itſelf in great length beyond Joppa.

[11] Peter declareth evidently by raiſing up a dead body through the name of Chriſt, that he preached the glad tidings of life.

[1] Peter conſecrateth the firſt fruits of the Gentiles to God, by the means of two miracles.

[a] So that he worſhipped one God, and was no idolater, neither could be void of faith in Chriſt, becauſe he was a devout man: but as yet he knew not that he was come.

[b] This is a great commendation to this man, that he laboured to have all his houſhold and familiar friends and acquaintance to be religious and godly.

[c] What wilt thou with me, Lord? for he ſettleth himſelf to hear.

[d] This is a borrowed kind of ſpeech, which the Hebrews uſed very much, taken from ſacrifices, and applied to prayers: for it is ſaid of whole burnt ſacrifices, that the ſmoke and ſavour of them goeth up into God's noſtrils: ſo do our prayers as a ſweet ſmelling ſacrifice which the Lord taketh great pleaſure in.

[e] That is, inſomuch that they will not ſuffer God, as it were, to forget thee: for ſo do the ſcriptures uſe oftentimes to prattle with us as nurſes do with little children, when they frame their tongues to ſpeak.

[f] For though Peter ſtood not amazed as one that is tongue tied, but talketh with God, and is inſtructed in his myſteries, yet his mind was far otherwiſe than it was wont to be, but ſhortly returned to the old bent.

[g] So that it ſeemed to be a four-ſquare ſheet.

[h] Here is this word (All) which is general, plainly put for indefinite and uncertain, that is to ſay, for ſome of all ſorts, not for all of every ſort.

[i] That is, ſuch as were meet for man's uſe.

ed beaſts of the earth, and wild beaſts, and [k] creeping things, and fowls of the heaven.

13 And there came a voice to him, Ariſe, Peter: kill, and eat.

14 [2] But Peter ſaid, Not ſo, Lord: for I have never eaten any thing that is polluted, or unclean.

15 And the voice ſpake unto him again the ſecond time, The things that God hath purified, [l] pollute thou not.

16 This was ſo done thrice: and the veſſel was drawn up again into heaven.

17 ¶ Now while Peter doubted in himſelf what this viſion which he had ſeen, meant, behold, the men which were ſent from Cornelius, had inquired for Simon's houſe, and ſtood at the gate:

18 And called, and aſked, whether Simon which was ſurnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 And while Peter thought on the viſion, the Spirit ſaid unto him, Behold, three men ſeek thee.

20 Ariſe therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, and doubt nothing: for I have ſent them.

21 ¶ Then Peter went down to the men, which were ſent unto him from Cornelius, and ſaid, Behold, I am he whom ye ſeek: what is the cauſe wherefore ye are come?

22 And they ſaid, Cornelius the captain, a juſt man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from heaven by an holy angel, to ſend for thee into his houſe, and to hear thy words.

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them: and the next day, Peter went forth with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

24 ¶ And the day after, they entered into Cæſarea. Now Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinſmen, and ſpecial friends.

25 [3] And it came to paſs as Peter came in, that Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worſhipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, ſaying, Stand up: for even I myſelf am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he came in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he ſaid unto them, Ye know that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew, to company, or come unto one of another nation: but God hath ſhewed me, that I ſhould not call any man polluted, or unclean.

A. D. 41.

29 Therefore came I unto you without ſaying nay, when I was ſent for. I aſk therefore, for what intent have ye ſent for me?

30 Then Cornelius ſaid, Four days ago, about [m] this hour, I faſted, and at the ninth hour I prayed in mine houſe, and behold, a man ſtood before me in bright cloathing,

31 [4] And ſaid, Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thine alms are had in remembrance in the ſight of God.

32 [5] Send therefore to Joppa, and call for Simon, whoſe ſurname is Peter (he is lodged in the houſe of Simon a tanner, by the ſea ſide) who when he cometh ſhall ſpeak unto thee.

33 Then ſent I for thee immediately, and thou haſt well done to come. Now therefore are we all here preſent before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God.

34 [6] Then Peter opened his mouth, and ſaid, Of a truth I perceive, that [n] * God is no accepter of perſons.

35 But in every nation he that [o] feareth him, and worketh righteouſneſs, is accepted with him.

36 Ye [p] know the word which God hath ſent to the children of Iſrael, preaching peace by Jeſus Chriſt which is Lord of all:

37 [7] Even the word which came through all Judea, * beginning in Galilee, after the baptiſm which John preached:

* Luke 4. 14.

38 To wit, how God [q] anointed Jeſus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghoſt, and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppreſſed of the devil: for God was with him.

39 And we are witneſſes of all things which he did both in the land of the Jews, and in Jeruſalem, whom they ſlew, hanging him on a tree:

40 Him God raiſed up the third day, and cauſed that he was ſhewed openly:

41 Not to all the people, but unto the witneſſes [r] choſen before of God, even to us which did eat and drink with him, after he aroſe from the dead.

42 And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to teſtify, that it is he that is ordained of God a judge of quick and dead.

43 To him alſo give all the * prophets witneſs, that through his name all that believe in him, ſhall receive remiſſion of ſins.

* Jer. 31. 34. Mic. 7. 18. Ch. 15. 9.

44 [8] While Peter yet ſpake theſe words, the Holy Ghoſt fell on all them that heard the word.

---

[k] What is meant by thoſe creeping things, look Lev. 11.

[2] Peter profiteth daily in the knowledge of the benefit of Chriſt, yea, after that he had received the Holy Ghoſt.

[l] Do not thou hold them as unclean.

[3] Religious adoration or worſhip agreeth only to God: but civil worſhip is given to the miniſters of the word, although not without danger.

[m] He meaneth not the ſelf-ſame hour, but the like, that is about nine of the clock the other day, as it was then nine when he ſpake to Peter.

[4] Cornelius's faith ſheweth forth itſelf by prayer and charity.

[5] As faith cometh by hearing, ſo is it nouriſhed and groweth up by the ſame.

[6] Diſtinction of nations is taken away by the coming of Chriſt: And it is evidently ſeen, by faith and righteouſneſs, who is agreeable to him, or whom he accepteth.

[n] That God judgeth not after the outward appearance.

[o] By the fear of God the Hebrews underſtand the whole ſervice of God, whereby we perceive that Cornelius was not void of faith, no more than they were which lived before Chriſt's time: and therefore they deal fooliſhly which build preparative works and free-will upon this place.

[p] God gave the Iſraelites to underſtand, that whoſoever liveth godly, is acceptable to God, of what nation ſoever he be; for he preached peace to men through Jeſus Chriſt, who is Lord not of one nation only, that is, of the Jews, but of all.

[7] The ſum of the goſpel (which ſhall be made manifeſt at the latter day, when Chriſt himſelf ſhall ſit as judge both of the quick and dead) is this, that Chriſt promiſed to the fathers, and exhibited in his time with the mighty power of God, (which was by all means ſhewed) and at length crucified to reconcile us to God, did riſe again the third day, that whoſoever believeth in him ſhould be ſaved through the remiſſion of ſins.

[q] The ſtile is taken from an old cuſtom of the Jews, who uſed to anoint their kings and prieſts, whereupon it grew, to call them anointed, upon whom God beſtoweth gifts and virtues.

[r] This chuſing of the apoſtles is properly given to God: for though God be preſident in the lawful election of miniſters, yet there is in this place a ſecret oppoſition and ſetting of God's chuſing and men's voices the one againſt the other, for the apoſtles are immediately appointed of God, and the church miniſters by means.

[8] The Spirit of God ſealeth that in the heart of the hearers which the miniſter of the word ſpeaketh by the commandment of God, as it appeareth by the effects.

A. D. 41.

45 So they of the circumciſion which believed, were aſtoniſhed, as many as came with Peter, becauſe that on the Gentiles alſo was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghoſt.

46 For they heard them ſpeak with tongues, and magnify God. Then anſwered Peter, 47 [9] Can any man forbid water, that theſe ſhould not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghoſt, as well as we?

48 So he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

C H A P. XI.

2 Peter being accuſed for going to the Gentiles, 5 defendeth himſelf. 22 Barnabas is ſent to Antioch, 26 where the diſciples are called Chriſtians: 28 And there Agabus foretelleth a famine to come.

NOW [1] the apoſtles, and the brethren that were in Judea, heard that the Gentiles had alſo received the word of God.

2 And when Peter was come up to Jeruſalem, they of the circumciſion contended againſt him,

3 Saying, Thou wenteſt in to men uncircumciſed, and haſt eaten with them.

4 Then Peter began, and expounded the thing in order to them, ſaying,

5 I was in the city of Joppa, praying, and in a trance I ſaw this viſion, A certain veſſel coming down as it had been a great ſheet, let down from heaven by the four corners, and it came to me:

6 Toward the which when I had faſtened mine eyes, I conſidered, and ſaw four-footed beaſts of the earth, and wild beaſts, and creeping things, and fowls of the heaven.

7 Alſo I heard a voice, ſaying unto me, Ariſe, Peter: ſlay and eat.

8 And I ſaid, God forbid, Lord: for nothing polluted or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.

9 But the voice anſwered me the ſecond time from heaven, The things that God hath purified, pollute thou not.

10 And this was done three times, and all were taken up again into heaven.

11 Then behold, immediately there were three men already come into the houſe where I was, ſent from Cæſarea unto me.

12 And the Spirit ſaid unto me, that I ſhould go with them, without doubting: moreover, theſe ſix brethren came with me: and we entered into the man's houſe.

13 And he ſhewed us how he had ſeen an angel in his houſe, which ſtood and ſaid to him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whoſe ſurname is Peter:

14 He ſhall ſpeak words unto thee, whereby both thou and all thine houſe ſhall be ſaved.

A. D. 41.

15 And as I began to ſpeak, the Holy Ghoſt fell on them, * even as upon us at the beginning.

* Ch. 2. 4.

16 Then I remembered the word of the Lord, how he ſaid, * John baptized with water, but ye ſhall be baptized with the Holy Ghoſt.

* Ch. 1. 5. and 19. 4. Matt. 3. 11. Mark 1. 8. Luke 3. 16. John 1. 26.

17 Foraſmuch then as God gave them a like gift, as he did unto us, when we believed in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who was I, that I could let God?

18 [2] When they heard theſe things, they held their peace, and glorified God, ſaying, Then hath God alſo to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life.

19 ¶ [3] And they which were * ſcattered abroad, becauſe of the affliction that aroſe about Stephen, went throughout till they came unto Phenice, and Cyprus, and [a] Antioch, preaching the word to no man, but unto the Jews only.

* Ch. 8. 1.

20 [4] Now ſome of them were men of Cyprus and of Cyrene, which when they were come into Antioch, ſpake unto the Grecians, and preached the Lord Jeſus.

21 And the hand of the Lord was with them, ſo that a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord.

22 [5] Then tidings of thoſe things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jeruſalem: and they ſent forth Barnabas, that he ſhould go unto Antioch:

23 Who, when he was come, and had ſeen the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted all, that with purpoſe of heart they would continue in the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghoſt, and faith, and much people joined themſelves unto the Lord.

25 ¶ [6] Then departed Barnabas to Tarſus, to ſeek Saul:

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch: and it came to paſs, that a whole year they were converſant with the church, and taught much people, inſomuch that the diſciples were firſt called Chriſtians in Antioch.

27 [7] In thoſe days alſo came prophets from Jeruſalem unto Antioch.

28 And there ſtood up one of them named Agabus, and ſignified by the Spirit, that there ſhould be a great famine throughout all the world, which alſo came to paſs under Claudius Cæſar.

29 [8] Then the diſciples, every man according to his ability, purpoſed to ſend [b] ſuccour unto the brethren which dwelt in Judea.

30 Which thing they alſo did, and ſent it to the elders by the hand of Barnabas and Saul.

[9] Baptiſm doth not ſanctify or make them holy which receive it, but ſealeth up and confirmeth their ſanctification.

[1] Peter being without cauſe reprehended of the unſkilful and ignorant, doth not object that he ought not to be judged of any, but openly giveth an account of his doing.

[2] Such as aſk a queſtion of the truth which they know not, ought to be quietly heard, and muſt alſo quietly yield to the declaration thereof.

[3] The ſcattering abroad of the church of Jeruſalem, is the cauſe of the gathering together of many other churches.

[a] He ſpeaketh of Antioch which was in Syria, and bordered upon Cilicia.

[4] The church of Antioch, the new Jeruſalem of the Gentiles, was extraordinarily called.

[5] The apoſtles do not raſhly condemn an extraordinary vocation, but yet they judge it by the effects.

[6] There was no contention amongſt the apoſtles either of uſurping, or of holding places and degrees.

[7] God doth ſo wrap up his church with the wicked, in his ſcourges and plagues which he ſendeth upon the earth, that notwithſtanding he provideth for it conveniently.

[8] All congregations or churches make one body.

[b] That is, that thereof the deacons might ſuccour the poor: for it behoved to have all theſe things done orderly and decently, and therefore it is ſaid, that they ſent theſe things to the elders, that is, to the governors of the church.

A. D. 41.

CHAP. XII.

2 Herod killeth James with the ſword, 4 and impriſoneth Peter, 8 whom the angel delivereth. 22 Herod being offended with them of Tyre, 21 is pacified: 22 And taking the honour due to God to himſelf, 23 he is eaten with worms, and ſo dieth.

NOW [1] about that time, [a] Herod the king ſtretched forth his hands to vex certain of the church,

2 And he [b] killed James the brother of John with the ſword.

3 [2] And when he ſaw that it pleaſed the Jews, he proceeded further, to take Peter alſo (then were the days of unleavened bread.)

4 [3] And when he had caught him, he put him in priſon, and delivered him to four quaternions of ſoldiers to be kept, intending after the paſſover to bring him forth to the people.

5 [4] So Peter was kept in priſon, but earneſt prayer was made of the church unto God for him.

6 And when Herod would have brought him out unto the people, the ſame night ſlept Peter between two ſoldiers, bound with two chains, and the keepers before the door kept the priſon.

* Ch. 5. 19.

7 * And behold, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and a light ſhined in the [c] houſe, and he ſmote Peter on the ſide, and raiſed him up, ſaying, Ariſe quickly. And his chains fell from off his hands.

8 And the angel ſaid unto him, Gird thyſelf, and bind on thy ſandals. And ſo he did. Then he ſaid unto him, Caſt thy garment about thee, and follow me.

9 So Peter came out, and followed him, and knew not that it was true which was done by the angel, but thought he had ſeen a viſion.

10 Now when they were paſt the firſt and the ſecond watch, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city, which opened to them by its own accord, and they went out, and paſſed through one ſtreet, and by and by the angel departed from him.

11 ¶ And when Peter was come to himſelf, he ſaid, Now I know for a truth, that the Lord hath ſent his angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the waiting for of the people of the Jews.

12 [5] And as he conſidered the thing, he came to the houſe of Mary, the mother of John, whoſe ſurname was Mark, where many were gathered together, and prayed.

A. D. 41.

13 [6] And when Peter knocked at the entry door, a maid [d] came forth to hearken, named Rhode.

14 But when ſhe knew Peter's voice, ſhe opened not the entry door for gladneſs, but ran in, and told how Peter ſtood before the entry.

15 But they ſaid unto her, Thou art mad. Yet ſhe affirmed it conſtantly, that it was ſo. Then ſaid they, It is his angel.

16 But Peter continued knocking, and when they had opened it, and ſaw him, they were aſtoniſhed.

17 [7] And he beckoned unto them with the hand to hold their peace, and told them how the Lord had brought him out of the priſon. And he ſaid, Go ſhew theſe things unto James, and to the brethren: and he departed, and went into another place.

18 ¶ [8] Now as ſoon as it was day, there was no ſmall trouble among the ſoldiers, what was become of Peter.

19 And when Herod had ſought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded them to be led to be puniſhed. And he went down from Judea to Cæſarea, and there abode.

20 [9] Then Herod was angry with them of Tyre and Sidon, but they came all with one accord unto him, and perſuaded Blaſtus, the king's chamberlain, and they deſired peace, becauſe their country was nouriſhed by the king's land.

21 And upon a day appointed Herod arrayed himſelf in royal apparel, and ſat on the judgment ſeat, and made an oration unto them.

22 [10] And the people gave a ſhout, ſaying, The voice of God, and not of man.

23 [11] But immediately the angel of the Lord ſmote him, becauſe he [e] gave not glory unto God, ſo that he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghoſt.

24 [12] And the [f] word of God grew, and multiplied.

25 So Barnabas and Saul returned from Jeruſalem, when they had fulfilled their office, and took with them John, whoſe ſurname was Mark.

CHAP. XIII.

2 The Holy Ghoſt commandeth, that Paul and Barnabas be ſeparated unto him. 6 At Paphus 8 Elymas the ſorcerer 11 is ſtricken blind: 14 From whence being come to Antioch, 17 they preach the goſpel, 45 the Jews vehemently withſtanding them.

[1] God giveth his church a truce but for a little time.

[a] This name Herod was common to all them that came of the ſtock of Herod Aſcalonites, whoſe ſurname was Magnus: but he that is ſpoken of here, was nephew to Herod the great, ſon to Ariſtobulus, and father to that Agrippa who is ſpoken of afterward.

[b] Violently, his cauſe being not once heard.

[2] It is on old faſhion of tyrants to procure the favour of the wicked with the blood of the godly.

[3] The tyrants and wicked make a gallows for themſelves, even then, when they do moſt according to their own will and fancy.

[4] The prayers of the godly overturn the counſel of tyrants, obtain angels of God, break the priſon, unlooſe the chains, put Satan to flight, and preſerve the church.

[c] In the priſon.

[5] Holy meetings in the night, as well of men as women (when they cannot be ſuffered in the day time) are allowable by the example of the apoſtles.

[6] We obtain more of God than we dare well hope for.

[d] Out of the place where they were aſſembled, but not out of the houſe.

[7] We may ſometimes give place to the rage of the wicked, but yet ſo that our diligence, which ought to be uſed in God's buſineſs, be not a whit ſlackened.

[8] Evil counſel falleth out in the end to the hurt of the deviſers of it.

[9] A miſerable and ſhameful example of the end of the enemies of the church.

[10] The flattery of the people, maketh fools fain.

[11] God reſiſteth the proud.

[e] Joſephus recordeth, that this king did not repreſs thoſe flatterers tongues, and therefore at his death he complained and cried out of their vanity.

[12] Tyrants build up the church by plucking it down.

[f] They that hear the word of God.

A. D. 45.

THERE [1] were alſo in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers, as Barnabas, and Simeon called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manahen, (which had been brought up with [a] Herod the Tetrarch) and Saul.

2 Now as they [b] miniſtered to the Lord, and faſted, the Holy Ghoſt ſaid, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have [c] called them.

3 [2] Then faſted they and prayed, and laid their hands on them, and let them go.

4 [3] And they, after they were ſent forth of the Holy Ghoſt, came down unto [d] Seleucia, and from thence they ſailed to Cyprus.

5 And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the ſynagogues of the Jews: and they had alſo John to their miniſter.

6 So when they had gone throughout the iſle unto Paphos, they found a certain ſorcerer, a falſe prophet, being a Jew, named Barjeſus,

7 Which was with the deputy Sergius Paulus, a prudent man. He called unto him Barnabas and Saul, and deſired to hear the word of God.

8 [4] But Elymas, the ſorcerer (for ſo is his name by interpretation) withſtood them, and ſought to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9 Then Saul (which alſo is called Paul) being full of the Holy Ghoſt, ſet his eyes on him,

10 [5] And ſaid, O full of ſubtilty and all [e] miſchief, the child of the devil, and enemy of all righteouſneſs, wilt thou not ceaſe to pervert the ſtraight ways of the Lord?

11 Now therefore behold, the [f] hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou ſhalt be blind, and not ſee the ſun for a ſeaſon. And immediately there fell on him a miſt and a darkneſs, and he went about, ſeeking ſome to lead him by the hand.

12 Then the deputy, when he ſaw what was done, believed, and was aſtoniſhed at the doctrine of the Lord.

13 [6] Now when Paul, and they that were with him, were departed by ſhip from Paphos, they came to Perga, a city of Pamphylia: then John departed from them, and returned to Jeruſalem.

A. D. 45.

14 But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch, a city of [g] Piſidia, and went into the ſynagogue on the ſabbath day, and ſat down.

15 [7] And after the lecture of the law and prophets, the rulers of the ſynagogue ſent unto them, ſaying, Ye men and brethren, if ye [h] have any word of exhortation for the people, ſay on.

16 [8] Then Paul ſtood up, and beckoned with the hand, and ſaid, Men of Iſrael, and ye that fear God, hearken.

17 The God of this people of Iſrael choſe our fathers, and [i] exalted the people when they dwelt in the land of * Egypt, and with an [k] * high arm brought them out thereof. * Exod. 1. 9. * Exod. 13. 14.

18 And about the time of * forty years, ſuffered he their manners in the wilderneſs. * Exod. 16. 1.

19 And he deſtroyed ſeven nations in the land of Canaan, and * divided their land to them by lot. * Joſh. 14. 1.

20 Then afterward he gave unto them * judges about [l] four hundred and fifty years, unto the time of Samuel the prophet. * Judg. 3. 9.

21 So after that, they deſired a * king, and God gave unto them * Saul, the ſon of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the ſpace of [m] forty years. * 1 Sam. 8. 5. * 1 Sam. 9. 15. and 10. 1.

22 And after he had taken him away, he raiſed up * David to be their king, of whom he witneſſed, ſaying, I have found David, the ſon of Jeſſe, a man after mine own heart, which will do all things that I will. * 1 Sam. 16. 13.

23 [9] Of this man's ſeed hath God, * according to his promiſe, raiſed up to Iſrael the Saviour Jeſus. * Pſalm 89. 21. Iſa. 11. 1.

24 When * John had firſt preached [n] before his coming, the baptiſm of repentance to all the people of Iſrael. * Mal. 3. 1. Matt. 3. 1. Mark 1. 2. Luke 3. 2.

25 And when John had fulfilled his courſe, he ſaid, * Whom ye think that I am, I am not he: but behold, there cometh one after me, whoſe ſhoes of his feet I am not worthy to looſe. * Matt. 3. 11. Mark 1. 7. John 1. 20.

[1] Paul with Barnabas is again the ſecond time appointed apoſtle of the Gentiles, not of man, neither by man, but by an extraordinary commandment of the Holy Ghoſt.

[a] The ſame was Antipas, which put John Baptiſt to death.

[b] While they were buſy doing their office, that is, as Chryſoſtom expoundeth it, while they were preaching.

[c] The Lord is ſaid to call (whereof this word 'Calling' cometh, which is uſual in the church) when he cauſeth that to be, which was not, whether you refer it to the matter itſelf, or to any quality or thing about the matter; and it groweth of this, becauſe when things begin to be, then they have ſome name: as God his mighty power is alſo declared thereby, who ſpake the word, and things were made.

[2] Faſts and ſolemn prayers were uſed before the laying on of hands.

[3] Paul and his company, do at the firſt bring Cyprus to the ſubjection and obedience of Chriſt.

[d] Seleucia was a city of Cilicia, ſo called of Seleucus one of Alexander's ſucceſſors.

[4] The devil maketh the conqueſt of Chriſt more glorious, in that that he ſetteth himſelf againſt him.

[5] The ſorcerer which was ſtricken of Paul with corporal puniſhment (although extraordinarily) ſheweth an example to lawful magiſtrates, how they ought to puniſh them which wickedly and obſtinately hinder the courſe of the goſpel.

[e] He noteth out ſuch a fault, as whoſo hath it, runneth headlong and with great deſire to all kind of wickedneſs with the leaſt motion in the world.

[f] His power which he ſheweth in ſtriking and beating down his enemies.

[6] An example in one and the ſelf-ſame company both of ſingular conſtancy, and alſo of great weakneſs.

[g] This putteth a difference betwixt it, and Antioch which was in Syria.

[7] In the ſynagogue of the Jews (according to the pattern whereof chriſtian congregations were inſtituted) firſt the ſcriptures were read, then ſuch as were learned, were licenſed by the rulers of the ſynagogue to ſpeak and expound.

[h] Word for word, If there be any word in you: and this is a kind of ſpeech taken from the Hebrews, whereby is meant that the gifts of God's grace are in us, as it were in treaſure-houſes, and that they are not ours, but God's. In like ſort ſaith David, Thou haſt put a new ſong in my mouth, Pſalm 40. 1.

[8] God beſtowed many peculiar benefits upon his choſen Iſrael: but this eſpecially, that he promiſed them the everlaſting Redeemer.

[i] Advanced and brought to honour.

[k] Openly and with main force, breaking in pieces the enemies of his people.

[l] There were from the birth of Iſaac unto the deſtruction of the Canaanites under the governance of Joſhua, four hundred and ſeven and forty years, and therefore he addeth in this place, this word, About, for there want three years, but the apoſtle uſeth the whole greater number.

[m] In this ſpace of forty years, muſt the time of Samuel be reckoned with the days of Saul, for the kingdom did as it were ſwallow up his government.

[9] He proveth by the witneſs of John, that Jeſus is that Saviour which ſhould come of David.

[n] John as an herald, did not ſhew Chriſt's coming afar off, as the other prophets did, but hard at hand, and entered on his journey.

A. D. 45. 26 [10] Ye men and brethren, children of the generation of Abraham, and whoſoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this ſalvation ſent.

27 [11] For the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and their rulers, becauſe they knew him not, nor yet the words of the prophets, which are read every ſabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

28 And though they found no cauſe of death in him, * yet deſired they Pilate to kill him.

* Matt. 27. 27. Mark 15. 13. Luke 23. 23. John 19. 6. 29 And when they had fulfilled all things that were written of him, they took him down from the tree, and put him in a ſepulchre.

30 [12] But God * raiſed him up from the dead.

* Matt. 28. 2. Mark 16. 6. Luke 24. 6. John 20. 19. 31 And he was ſeen many days of them which came up with him from Galilee to Jeruſalem, which are his witneſſes unto the people.

32 And we declare unto you, that touching the promiſe made unto the fathers,

33 God hath fulfilled it unto us their children, in that he [o] raiſed up Jeſus, [13] even as it is written in the ſecond Pſalm, * Thou art my ſon: this day have I begotten thee.

* Pſ. 2. 7. Heb. 1. 5. and 5. 5.

34 Now as concerning that he raiſed him up from the dead, no more to return to corruption, he hath ſaid thus, * I will give you the holy things of David, [p] which are faithful.

* Iſa. 55. 3.

35 [14] Wherefore he ſaith alſo in another place, * Thou wilt not ſuffer thine Holy One to ſee corruption.

* Pſ. 16. 11. Ch. 2. 31.

36 Howbeit David, after he had ſerved his * time by the counſel of God, ſlept, and was laid with his fathers, and ſaw corruption.

* 1 Kings 2. 10. Ch. 2. 29.

37 But he whom God raiſed up, ſaw no corruption.

38 [15] Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveneſs of ſins:

39 And from [q] all things, from which ye could not be juſtified by the law of Moſes, by him every one that believeth is juſtified.

40 [16] Beware therefore leſt that come upon you which is ſpoken of in the prophets,

* Hab. 1. 5. 41 * Behold, ye deſpiſers, and wonder, and vaniſh away: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye ſhall not believe, if a man would declare it you.

42 ¶ [17] And when they were come out of the ſynagogue of the Jews, the Gentiles beſought, that they would preach theſe words to them the next ſabbath day. A. D. 45.

43 Now when the congregation was diſſolved, many of the Jews and [r] proſelytes that feared God followed Paul and Barnabas, which ſpake unto them, and exhorted them to continue in the grace of God.

44 And the next ſabbath day came almoſt the whole city together to hear the word of God.

45 [18] But when the Jews ſaw the people, they were full of envy, and ſpake againſt thoſe things which were ſpoken of Paul, contrarying them, and railing on them.

46 [19] Then Paul and Barnabas ſpake boldly, and ſaid, It was neceſſary that the word of God ſhould firſt have been ſpoken unto you: but ſeeing ye put it from you, and [s] judge yourſelves unworthy of everlaſting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles.

47 For ſo hath the Lord commanded us, ſaying, * I have made thee a light of the Gentiles, that thou ſhouldeſt be the ſalvation unto the end of the world. * Iſa. 49. 6.

48 And when the Gentiles heard it, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were [t] ordained unto eternal life, believed.

49 Thus the word of the Lord was publiſhed throughout the whole country.

50 [20] But the Jews ſtirred certain [u] devout and honourable women, and the chief men of the city, and raiſed perſecution againſt Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coaſts.

51 [21] But they * ſhook off the duſt of their feet againſt them, and came unto Iconium. * Matt. 10. 14. Mark 6. 11. Luke 9. 5. Ch. 18. 6.

52 And the diſciples were filled with joy, and with the Holy Ghoſt.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Paul and Barnabas 5 are perſecuted from Iconium. 6 At Lyſtra Paul 10 healeth a cripple. 13 They are about to do ſacrifice unto them, 15 but they forbid it. 19 Paul, by the perſuaſion of certain Jews, is ſtoned. 23 From thence paſſing through divers churches, 26 they return to Antioch.

AND [1] it came to paſs in [a] Iconium, that they went both together into the ſynagogue of the Jews, and ſo ſpake, that a great [10] Chriſt was promiſed, and ſent properly to the Jews.

[11] All things came to paſs to Chriſt which the prophets foretold of Meſſias: ſo that hereby alſo it appeareth that he is the true and only Saviour: and yet notwithſtanding they are not to be excuſed, which did not only not receive him, but alſo perſecute him moſt cruelly although he was innocent.

[12] We muſt ſet the glory of the reſurrection againſt the ſhame of the croſs and grave. And the reſurrection is proved as well by witneſſes which ſaw it, as by the teſtimonies of the prophets.

[o] For then he appeared plainly and manifeſtly, as that only Son of God, when as he left off his weakneſs, and came out of the grave, having conquered death.

[13] If Chriſt had tarried in death, he had not been the true Son of God, neither had the covenant, which was made with David, been ſure.

[p] The Grecians call thoſe, holy things, which the Hebrews call gracious bounties: and they are called David's bounties in the paſſive ſignification, becauſe God beſtowed them upon David: moreover they are termed faithful, after the manner of ſpeech which the Hebrews uſe, who term thoſe things faithful which are ſteady and ſure, ſuch as never alter nor change.

[14] The Lord was ſo in grave, that he felt no corruption.

[15] Chriſt was ſent to give them free remiſſion of ſins, which were condemned by the law.

[q] Whereas the ceremonies of the law could not abſolve you from your ſins, this man doth abſolve you, if you lay hold on him by faith.

[16] The benefits of God turn to the utter undoing of them that contemn them.

[17] The Gentiles go before the Jews into the kingdom of heaven.

[r] Which had forſaken their heatheniſh religion, and embraced the religion ſet forth by Moſes.

[18] The ſavour of one ſelf-ſame goſpel is unto the reprobate and unto believers, death; and to the elect, and ſuch as believe, life.

[19] The goſpel is publiſhed to the Gentiles by the expreſs commandment of God.

[s] By this your doing, you do, as it were, pronounce ſentence againſt yourſelves, and judge yourſelves.

[t] Therefore either all were not appointed to everlaſting life, or elſe all ſhould have believed, but becauſe that is not ſo, it followeth that ſome certain were ordained: and therefore God did not only foreknow, but alſo fore-ordain, that neither faith, nor the effects of faith, ſhould be the cauſe of his ordaining or appointment; but his ordaining, the cauſe of faith.

[20] Such is the craft and ſubtilty of the enemies of the goſpel, that they abuſe the ſimplicity of ſome which are not altogether evil men, to execute their cruelty.

[u] Such as embraced Moſes's law.

[21] The wickedneſs of the world cannot let God to gather his church together, and to foſter and cheriſh it when it is gathered together.

[1] We ought to be no leſs conſtant in preaching of the goſpel, than the perverſeneſs of the wicked is obſtinate in perſecuting of it.

[a] Iconium was a city of Lycaonia.

A. D. 45.

multitude both of the Jews and of the Grecians believed.

2 And the [b] unbelieving Jews ſtirred up and corrupted the minds of the Gentiles againſt the brethren.

3 [2] So therefore they abode there a long time, and ſpake boldly in the Lord, which gave teſtimony unto the word of his grace, and cauſed ſigns and wonders to be done by their hands.

4 But the multitude of the city was divided: and ſome were with the Jews, and ſome with the apoſtles.

5 And when there was an aſſault made both of the Gentiles and of the Jews with their rulers, to do them violence, and to ſtone them,

6 They were ware of it, and [c] fled unto Lyſtra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and unto the region round about,

7 And there preached the goſpel.

8 ¶ [3] Now there ſat a certain man at Lyſtra, impotent in his feet, which was a cripple from his mother's womb, who had never walked:

9 He heard Paul ſpeak: who beholding him, and perceiving that he had faith to be healed,

10 Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped up, and walked.

11 Then when the people ſaw what Paul had done, they lift up their voices, ſaying in the ſpeech of Lycaonia, Gods are come down to us in the likeneſs of men.

12 And they called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paul Mercury: becauſe he was the chief ſpeaker.

13 Then Jupiter's prieſt, which was before their city, brought bulls with garlands unto the [d] gates, and would have ſacrificed with the people.

14 But when the apoſtles, Barnabas and Paul, heard it, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying,

15 [4] And ſaying, O men, why do ye theſe things? We are even men ſubject to the [e] like paſſions that ye be, and preach unto you, that ye ſhould turn from theſe [f] vain things unto the living God, * which made heaven and earth, and the ſea, and all things that in them are:

* Gen. 1. 1. Pſ. 146. 5. Rev 14. 7.

* Pſ. 81. 13. Rom. 1. 24.

16 [5] Who in times paſt [g] * ſuffered all the Gentiles to walk in their own ways.

17 Nevertheleſs, he left not himſelf without witneſs, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful ſeaſons, filling our hearts with food and gladneſs.

A. D. 46.

18 And ſpeaking theſe things, ſcarce appeaſed they the multitude, that they had not ſacrificed unto them.

19 [6] Then there came certain Jews from Antioch and Iconium, which when they had perſuaded the people, * ſtoned Paul, and drew him out of the city, ſuppoſing he had been dead.

* 2 Cor. 11. 25.

20 Howbeit, as the diſciples ſtood round about him, he aroſe up, and came into the city, and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe.

21 [7] And after they had preached the glad tidings of the goſpel to that city, and had taught many, they returned to Lyſtra, and to Iconium, and to Antioch,

22 [8] Confirming the diſciples hearts, and exhorting them to continue in the faith, affirming, that we muſt through many afflictions enter into the kingdom of God.

23 [9] And when they had ordained them elders by election in every church, and prayed, and faſted, they commended them to the Lord in whom they believed.

24 [10] Thus they went throughout Piſidia, and came to Pamphylia.

25 And when they had preached the word in Perga, they came down to [h] Attalia,

26 And thence ſailed to [i] Antioch, * from whence they had been commended unto the grace of God, to the work which they had fulfilled.

* Ch. 3. 13.

27 And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearſed all the things that God had done by them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles.

28 So there they abode a long time with the diſciples.

CHAP. XV.

1 Certain go about to bring in circumciſion at Antioch, 6 about which matter the apoſtles conſult. 19 And what muſt be done, 23 they declare by letters. 36 Paul and Barnabas 39 are at great variance.

THEN [1] came down [a] certain from Judea, and taught the brethren, ſaying, Except ye be circumciſed after the manner of Moſes, ye cannot be ſaved.

2 And

[b] Which obeyed not the doctrine.

[2] We ought not to leave our places and give place to threatenings, neither to open rage, but when there is no other remedy, and that not for our own quietneſs-ſake, but that the goſpel of Chriſt may be ſpread further abroad.

[c] It is lawful ſometimes to flee dangers in time convenient.

[3] It is an old ſubtilty of the devil, either to cauſe the faithful ſervants of God to be baniſhed at once, or to be worſhipped for idols: and that chiefly, taking occaſion by miracles wrought by them.

[d] Of the houſe where Paul and Barnabas were.

[4] That is alſo called idolatry, which giveth to creatures, be they never ſo holy and excellent, that which is proper to the only one God, that is, invocation, or calling upon.

[e] Men as ye are, and partakers of the ſelf-ſame nature of man as you.

[f] He calleth idols vain things, after the manner of the Hebrews.

[5] Cuſtom, be it never ſo old, doth not excuſe the idolaters.

[g] Suffered them to live as they liſted, preſcribing and appointing them no kind of religion.

[6] The devil, when he is brought to the laſt caſt, at length rageth openly, but in vain, even then when he ſeemeth to have the upper-hand.

[7] We muſt go forward in our vocation through a thouſand deaths.

[8] It is the office of the miniſters, not only to teach, but alſo to confirm them that are taught, and prepare them to the croſs.

[9] The apoſtles committed the churches which they had planted, to proper and peculiar paſtors, which they made not raſhly, but with prayers and faſtings going before: neither did they thruſt them upon churches through bribery, or lordly ſuperiority, but choſe and placed them by the voice of the congregation.

[10] Paul and Barnabas having made an end of their peregrination, and being returned to Antioch, do render an account of their journey to the congregation or church.

[h] Attalia was a ſea city of Pamphylia, near to Lycia.

[i] Antioch of Syria.

[1] The church is at length troubled with diſſention within itſelf, and the trouble riſeth of the proud and ſtubborn wits of certain evil men: the firſt ſtrife was concerning the office of Chriſt, whether we be ſaved by his only righteouſneſs apprehended by faith, or we have need alſo to obſerve the law.

[a] Epiphanius is of opinion, that this was Cerinthus.

A. D. 51. 2 [a] And when there was great diſſention, and diſputation by Paul and Barnabas againſt them, they ordained that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, ſhould go up to Jeruſalem unto the apoſtles and elders about this queſtion.

3 Thus [b] being brought forth by the church, they paſſed through Phenice and Samaria, declaring the converſion of the Gentiles, and they brought great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jeruſalem, they were received of the church, and of the apoſtles and elders, and they declared what things God had done by them.

5 But ſaid they, certain of the ſect of the Phariſees which did believe, roſe up, ſaying, that it was needful to circumciſe them, and to command them to keep the law of Moſes.

6 [3] Then the apoſtles and elders came together to look to this matter.

7 And when there had been great diſputation, Peter roſe up, and ſaid unto them, * [4] Ye
* Ch.10.20. and 11.13. men and brethren, ye know that a [c] good while ago, amongſt us God choſe out me, that the Gentiles by my mouth ſhould hear the word of the goſpel, and believe,

8 And God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witneſs, in giving unto them the Holy Ghoſt, even as he did unto us.

9 And he put no [d] difference between us and
* Ch.10.43. 1 Cor. 1.2. them, after that * [e] by faith he had purified their hearts.

10 [5] Now therefore, why [f] tempt ye God,
* Matt. 23. 4. to * lay a yoke upon the diſciples necks, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But we believe, through the grace of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, to be ſaved, even as they do.

12 [6] Then all the multitude kept ſilence, and heard Barnabas and Paul, which told what ſigns and wonders God had done among the Gentiles by them.

13 And when they held their peace, [g] James anſwered, ſaying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me.

14 [7] Simeon hath declared how God firſt did viſit the Gentiles, to take of them a people unto his name.

15 And to this agree the words of the prophets, as it is written, A. D. 52.

16 * After this I will return, and will build * Amos 9. 11.
again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down, and the ruins thereof will I build again, and I will ſet it up,

17 That the reſidue of men might ſeek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles upon whom my name is called, ſaith the Lord, which doeth all theſe things.

18 From the beginning of the world, God [h] knoweth all his works.

19 [8] Wherefore my ſentence is, that we trouble not them of the Gentiles that are turned to God,

20 But that we ſend unto them, that they abſtain themſelves from [i] filthineſs of idols, and fornication, and that that is ſtrangled, and from blood:

21 For Moſes of old time hath in every city them that preach him, ſeeing he is read in the ſynagogues every ſabbath day.

22 [9] Then it ſeemed good to the apoſtles and elders, with the whole church, to ſend choſen men of their own company to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas: to wit, Judas whoſe ſurname was Barſabas, and Silas, which were chief men among the brethren:

23 And wrote letters by them after this manner, The apoſtles, and the elders, and the brethren, unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch, and in Syria, and in Cilicia, ſend greeting.

24 [10] Foraſmuch as we have heard, that certain, which [k] went out from us, have troubled you with words, and [l] cumbered your minds, ſaying, Ye muſt be circumciſed, and keep the law, to whom we gave no ſuch commandment,

25 It ſeemed therefore good to us, when we were come together with one accord, to ſend choſen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul.

26 Men that have [m] given up their lives for the name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

27 We have therefore ſent Judas and Silas, which ſhall alſo tell you the ſame things by mouth.

28 For

---

[a] Meetings of congregations were inſtituted to ſuppreſs hereſies, whereunto certain were ſent by common conſent in the name of all.

[b] Courteouſly and lovingly brought on their way by the church, that is, by certain appointed by the church.

[3] The matter is firſt handled, both parts being heard, in the aſſembly of the apoſtles and ancients, and after is communicated with the people.

[4] God himſelf, in calling of the Gentiles, which are uncircumciſed, did teach that our ſalvation doth conſiſt in faith without the worſhip appointed by the law.

[c] Word for word, of old time, that is, even from the firſt time that we were commanded to preach the goſpel, and ſtraightways after that the Holy Ghoſt came down upon us.

[d] He put no difference between us and them, as touching the benefit of his free favour.

[e] Chriſt pronounceth them to be bleſſed which are pure of heart: and here we are plainly taught that men are made ſuch by faith.

[5] Peter paſſing from the ceremonies to the law itſelf in general, ſheweth that none could be ſaved, if ſalvation were to be ſought for by the law, and not by grace only in Jeſus Chriſt; becauſe that no man could ever fulfil the law, neither patriarch not apoſtle.

[f] Why tempt you God, as though he could not ſave by faith?

[6] A true pattern of a lawful council, where God's truth only reigneth.

[g] The ſon of Alpheus, who is alſo called the Lord's brother.

[7] James confirmeth the calling of the Gentiles out of the word of God, therein agreeing to Peter.

[h] And therefore nothing cometh to paſs by fortune, but by God's appointment.

[8] In matters indifferent we may ſo far bear with the weakneſs of our brethren, as they may have time to be inſtructed.

[i] From ſacrifices, or from feaſts which were kept in idols temples.

[9] In a lawful ſynod neither they which are appointed and choſen judges, appoint and determine any thing tyrannouſly or upon a lordlineſs, neither doth the common multitude ſet themſelves tumultuouſly againſt them, which ſit as judges by the word of God: as the like order alſo is holden in publiſhing and ratifying thoſe things which have been ſo determined and agreed upon.

[10] The council of Jeruſalem concludeth, that they trouble men's conſciences, which teach us to ſeek ſalvation in any other means than in Chriſt only, apprehended by faith, from whenceſoever they come, and whomſoever they pretend to be author of their vocation.

[k] From our congregation.

[l] A borrowed kind of ſpeech taken of them which pull down that that was built up: and it is a very uſual metaphor in the ſcriptures, to ſay the church is built, for, the church is planted and ſtabliſhed.

[m] Have greatly hazarded their lives.

A. D. 52.

28 [11] For it ſeemed good to the [n] Holy Ghoſt, and [o] to us, to lay no more burden upon you, than theſe [p] neceſſary things:

29 [12] That is, that ye abſtain from things offered to idols, and blood, and that that is ſtrangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep yourſelves, ye ſhall do well. Fare ye well.

30 [13] Now when they were departed, they came to Antioch, and after that they had aſſembled the multitude, they delivered the epiſtle.

31 And when they had read it, they rejoiced for the conſolation.

32 And Judas and Silas, being prophets, exhorted the brethren with many words, and ſtrengthened them.

33 And after they had tarried there a ſpace, they were let go in [q] peace of the brethren unto the apoſtles.

34 Notwithſtanding Silas thought good to abide there ſtill.

35 Paul alſo and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching with many other the word of the Lord.

36 ¶ [14] But after certain days Paul ſaid unto Barnabas, Let us return, and viſit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and ſee how they do.

37 [15] And Barnabas counſelled to take with them John, called Mark.

38 But Paul thought it not meet to take him unto their company, which departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work.

39 [16] Then were they ſo [r] ſtirred, that they departed aſunder one from the other, ſo that Barnabas took Mark, and ſailed unto Cyprus.

40 And Paul choſe Silas, and departed, being commended of the brethren unto the grace of God.

41 And he went through Syria and Cilicia, ſtabliſhing the churches.

A. D. 52.

* Rom. 16, 21. Phil. 2. 19. 1 Theſſ. 3 2.

2 Of whom the brethren which were at Lyſtra and Iconium, [b] reported well.

3 [2] Therefore Paul would that he ſhould go forth with him, and took and circumciſed him, becauſe of the Jews which were in thoſe quarters: for they knew all, that his father was a Grecian.

4 [3] And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the [c] decrees to keep, ordained of the apoſtles and elders, which were at Jeruſalem.

5 And ſo were the churches ſtabliſhed in the faith, and increaſed in number daily.

6 ¶ [4] Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia, and the region of Galatia, they were [d] forbidden of the Holy Ghoſt to preach the word in Aſia.

7 Then came they to Myſia, and ſought to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit ſuffered them not.

8 Therefore they paſſed through Myſia, and came down to Troas.

9 [5] Where a viſion appeared to Paul in the night. There ſtood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, ſaying, Come into Macedonia, and help us.

10 [6] And after he had ſeen the viſion, immediately we prepared to go into Macedonia, being aſſured that the Lord had called us to preach the goſpel unto them.

11 Then went we forth from Troas, and with a ſtraight courſe came to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis:

12 ¶ And from thence to Philippi, which is the chief city in the parts of Macedonia, and whoſe inhabitants came from Rome, to dwell there, and we were in that city abiding certain days.

13 [7] And on the ſabbath day, we went out of the city, beſides a river, where they were wont to [e] pray: and we ſat down, and ſpake unto the women which were come together.

14 [8] And a certain woman named Lydia, a ſeller of purple, of the city of the Thyatirians, which [11] That is a lawful council, which the Holy Ghoſt ruleth.

[n] Firſt, they make mention of the Holy Ghoſt, that it may not ſeem to be any man's work.

[o] Not that men have any authority of themſelves, but to ſhew the faithfulneſs that they uſed in their miniſtry and labour.

[p] This was no preciſe neceſſity, but in reſpect of the ſtate of that time, that the Gentiles and the Jews might more peaceably live together with leſs occaſion of quarrel.

[12] Charity is requiſite even in things indifferent.

[13] It is requiſite for all people to know certainly, what to hold in matters of faith and religion, and not that the church by ignorance and knowing nothing, ſhould depend upon the pleaſure of a few.

[q] This is an Hebrew kind of ſpeech, which is as much to ſay, as, the brethren wiſhed them all proſperous ſucceſs, and the church diſmiſſed them with good leave.

[14] Congregations or churches do eaſily degenerate, unleſs they be diligently ſeen unto, and therefore went theſe apoſtles to overſee ſuch as they had planted, and for this cauſe alſo ſynods were inſtituted and appointed.

[15] A lamentable example of diſcord between excellent men and very great friends, yet not for prophane or their private affairs, neither yet for doctrine.

[16] God uſeth the faults of his ſervants to the profit and building of the church: yet we have to take heed, even in the beſt matters, that we paſs not meaſure in our heat.

[r] They were in great heat: but herein we have to conſider the force of God's counſel: for by this means it came to paſs, that the doctrine of the goſpel was exerciſed in many places.

[1] Paul himſelf doth not receive Timothy into the miniſtry without ſufficient teſtimony, and allowance of the brethren.

[a] Paul in his latter epiſtle to Timothy commendeth the godlineſs of Timothy's mother and grandmother.

[b] Both for his godlineſs and honeſty.

[2] Timothy is circumciſed, not ſimply for any neceſſity, but in the reſpect of the time only to win the Jews.

[3] Charity is to be obſerved in things indifferent, that ſo regard be had both of the weak, and the quietneſs of the church.

[c] Thoſe decrees which he ſpake of in the former chapter.

[4] God appointeth certain and determinate times to open and ſet forth his truth, that both the election and the calling may proceed of grace.

[d] He ſheweth not why they were forbidden, but only that they were forbidden, teaching us to obey and not to enquire.

[5] They are the miniſters of the goſpel, by whom he helpeth ſuch as are like to periſh.

[6] The ſaints did not eaſily believe every viſion.

[7] God beginneth his kingdom in Macedonia by the converſion of a woman, and ſo ſheweth, that there is no acceptation of perſons in the goſpel.

[e] Where they were wont to aſſemble themſelves.

[8] The Lord only openeth the heart to hear the word which is preached.

A. D. 53. which worſhipped God, heard us: whoſe heart the Lord opened, that ſhe attended unto the things which Paul ſpake.

15 [9] And when ſhe was baptized, and her houſhold, ſhe beſought us, ſaying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into mine houſe, and abide there: and ſhe conſtrained us.

16 [10] And it came to paſs, that as we went to prayer, a certain maid having a ſpirit of [f] divination, met us, which gat her maſters much vantage with divining.

17 She followed Paul and us, and cried, ſaying, Theſe men are the ſervants of the moſt high God, which ſhew unto you the way of ſalvation.

18 And this did ſhe [g] many days: but Paul being grieved, turned about, and ſaid to the ſpirit, I command thee in the name of Jeſus Chriſt, that thou come out of her. And he came out the ſame hour.

19 [11] Now when her maſters ſaw that the hope of their gain was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and drew them into the market place unto the magiſtrates,

20 [12] And brought them to the governors, ſaying, Theſe men, which are Jews, trouble our city:

21 [13] And preach ordinances, which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to obſerve, ſeeing we are Romans.

22 [14] The people alſo all roſe up together againſt them, and the governors rent their clothes, and commanded them to be beaten with rods.

23 And when they had beaten them ſore, they caſt them into priſon, commanding the jailor to keep them ſurely:

24 Who, having received ſuch commandment, caſt them into the inner priſon, and made their feet [h] faſt in the ſtocks.

25 [15] Now at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and ſung pſalms unto God: and the priſoners heard them.

26 And ſuddenly there was a great earthquake: ſo that the foundation of the priſon was ſhaken: and by and by all the doors opened, and every man's bands were looſed.

27 [16] Then the keeper of the priſon waked out of his ſleep, and when he ſaw the priſon doors open, he drew out his ſword, and would have killed himſelf, ſuppoſing the priſoners had been fled.

28 [17] But Paul cried with a loud voice, ſaying, Do thyſelf no harm: for we are all here.

29 Then he called for a light, and leaped in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul aud Silas, A. D. 53.

30 And brought them out, and ſaid, Sirs, what muſt I do to be ſaved?

31 And they ſaid, Believe in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and thou ſhalt be ſaved, and thine houſhold.

32 And they preached unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in the houſe.

33 [18] Afterward he took them the ſame hour of the night, and waſhed their ſtripes, and was baptized, with all that belonged unto him, ſtraightway.

34 And when he had brought them into his houſe, he ſet meat before them, and rejoiced that he with all his houſhold believed in God.

35 [19] And when it was day, the governors ſent the ſerjeants, ſaying, Let thoſe men go.

36 Then the keeper of the priſon told theſe words unto Paul, ſaying, The governors have ſent to looſe you: now therefore get you hence, and go in peace.

37 [20] Then ſaid Paul unto them, After that they have beaten us openly uncondemned, which are Romans, they have caſt us into priſon, and now would they put us out privily? nay verily: but let them come and bring us out.

38 [21] And the ſerjeants told theſe words unto the governors, who feared when they heard that they were Romans.

39 Then came they and prayed them, and brought them out, and deſired them to depart out of the city.

40 [22] And they went out of the priſon, and entered into the houſe of Lydia: and when they had ſeen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

[9] An example of a godly houſewife.

[10] Satan transformeth himſelf into an angel of light, and coveteth to enter by undermining; but Paul openly letteth him, and caſteth him out.

[f] This is a proper note of Apollo, which was wont to give anſwers to them that aſked him.

[g] Paul made no haſte to this miracle, for he did all things as he was led by the Spirit.

[11] Covetouſneſs of lucre and gain is an occaſion of perſecuting the truth. In the mean ſeaſon, God ſparing Timothy, calleth Paul and Silas as the ſtronger to battle.

[12] Covetouſneſs pretendeth a deſire of common peace and godlineſs.

[13] It is an argument of the devil, to urge the authority of anceſtors without any diſtinction.

[14] An example of evil magiſtrates, to obey the fury and rage of the people.

[h] Becauſe he would be more ſure of them, he ſet them faſt in the ſtocks.

[15] The prayers of the godly do ſhake both heaven and earth.

[16] The merciful Lord, ſo oft as he liſteth, draweth men to life even through the midſt of death, and whereas juſtly they deſerved great puniſhment, he ſheweth them great mercy.

[17] In means which are eſpecially extraordinary, we ought not to move one foot forward, unleſs that God go before us.

[18] God with one ſelf-ſame hand woundeth and healeth when it pleaſeth him.

[19] Shame and confuſion is in proceſs of time the reward of wicked and unjuſt magiſtrates.

[20] We muſt not render injury for injury, and yet notwithſtanding it is lawful for us to uſe ſuch help as God giveth us, to bridle the outrageouſneſs of the wicked, that they hurt not others in like ſort.

[2] Chriſt is therefore the Mediator, becauſe he was crucified and roſe again: much leſs is he to be rejected becauſe the croſs is ignominious.

A. D. 53. have ſuffered, and riſen again from the dead: and this is Jeſus Chriſt, whom, ſaid he, I preach to you.

4 And ſome of them believed, and joined in company with Paul and Silas: alſo of the Grecians that feared God a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5 [3] But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain [a] vagabonds and wicked fellows, and when they had aſſembled the multitude, they made a tumult in the city, and made aſſault againſt the houſe of Jaſon, and ſought to bring them out to the people.

6 But when they found them not, they drew Jaſon and certain brethren unto the heads of the city, crying, Theſe are they which have ſubverted the ſtate of the [b] world, and here they are,

7 Whom Jaſon hath received, and theſe all do againſt the decrees of Cæſar, ſaying, that there is another king, one Jeſus.

8 Then they troubled the people, and the heads of the city, when they heard theſe things.

9 Notwithſtanding, when they had received ſufficient [c] aſſurance of Jaſon and of the other, they let them go.

10 [4] And the brethren immediately ſent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea, which when they were come thither, entered into the ſynagogue of the Jews.

11 [5] Theſe were alſo more [d] noble men than they which were at Theſſalonica, which received the word with all readineſs, and ſearched the ſcriptures daily, whether thoſe things were ſo.

12 Therefore many of them believed, and of honeſt women, which were Grecians, and men not a few.

13 ¶ [6] But when the Jews of Theſſalonica knew that the word of God was alſo preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither alſo, and moved the people.

14 [7] But by and by the brethren ſent away Paul to go as it were to the ſea: but Silas and Timothy abode there ſtill.

15 [8] And they that did conduct Paul, [e] brought him unto Athens: and when they had received a commandment unto Silas and Timothy, that they ſhould come to him at once, they departed. A. D. 53.

16 ¶ [9] Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his ſpirit was [f] ſtirred in him, when he ſaw the city ſubject to [g] idolatry.

17 Therefore he diſputed in the ſynagogue with the Jews, and with them that were religious, and in the market daily with [h] whomſoever he met.

18 [10] Then certain philoſophers of the Epicures, and of the Stoics, diſputed with him: and ſome ſaid, What will this [i] babbler ſay? Other ſaid, He ſeemeth to be a ſetter-forth of ſtrange gods (becauſe he preached unto them Jeſus, and the reſurrection.)

19 And they took him, and brought him into [k] Mars-ſtreet, ſaying, May we not know what this new doctrine, whereof thou ſpeakeſt, is?

20 For thou bringeſt certain ſtrange things unto our ears: we would know therefore what theſe things mean.

21 [11] For all the Athenians and ſtrangers which dwelt there, gave themſelves to nothing elſe, but either to tell, or to hear ſome news.

22 [12] Then Paul ſtood in the midſt of Mars-ſtreet, and ſaid, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too [l] ſuperſtitious.

23 For as I paſſed by, and beheld your [m] devotions, I found an altar, wherein was written, UNTO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom ye then ignorantly worſhip, him ſhew I unto you.

24 [13] God that made the world, and all things that are therein, ſeeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, * dwelleth not in temples made with hands: * Ch. 7. 48.

25 * Neither is worſhipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, ſeeing he giveth to all life and breath, and all things, * Pſ. 50. 8.

26 [14] And hath made of [o] one blood all mankind, to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath

[3] Although the zeal of the unfaithful ſeem never ſo goodly, yet at length it is found to have neither truth nor equity. But yet the wicked cannot do what they liſt, for even among themſelves God ſtirreth up ſome, whoſe help he uſeth to the deliverance of his.

[a] Certain companions which do nothing but walk the ſtreets, wicked men, to be hired for every man's money to do any miſchief, ſuch as we commonly call the raſcals, and very ſink and dunghill knaves of all towns and cities.

[b] Into what country and place ſoever they come, they cauſe ſedition and tumult.

[c] When Jaſon had put them in good aſſurance that they ſhould appear.

[4] That is indeed the wiſdom of the Spirit, which always ſetteth the glory of God before itſelf, as a mark whereunto it directeth itſelf, and never ſwerveth from it.

[5] The Lord ſetteth out in one moment, and in one people, divers examples of his unſearchable wiſdom, to cauſe them to fear him.

[d] He compareth the Jews with the Jews.

[6] Satan hath his, who are zealous for him, and that even ſuch as leaſt of all ought.

[7] There is neither counſel nor fury, nor madneſs, againſt the Lord.

[8] The ſheep of Chriſt do alſo watch for their paſtors health and ſafety, but yet in the Lord.

[e] It is not for nought that the Jews of Berea were ſo commended, for they brought Paul ſafe from Macedonia to Athens, and there is in diſtance betwixt thoſe two, all Theſſalia, and Bœotia and Attica.

[9] In comparing the wiſdom of God with man's wiſdom, men ſcoff and mock at that which they underſtand not: and God uſeth the curioſity of fools to gather together his elect.

[f] He could not forbear.

[g] Slaviſhly given to idolatry: Pauſanias writeth that there were more idols in Athens than in all Greece, yea, they had altars dedicated to Shame, and Fame, and Luſt, whom they made goddeſſes.

[h] Whomſoever Paul met with, that would ſuffer him to talk with him, he reaſoned with him, ſo thoroughly did he burn with the zeal of God's glory.

[10] Two ſects eſpecially of the philoſophers, do ſet themſelves againſt Chriſt: the Epicures, which make a mock and ſcoff at all religion: and the Stoics, which determine upon matters of religion according to their own brains.

[i] Word for word, ſeed-gatherer: a borrowed kind of ſpeech taken of birds which ſpoil corn, and is applied to them, which without all art bluſter out ſuch knowledge as they have gotten by hearing this man and that man.

[k] This was a place called as you would ſay, Mars' Hill, where the judges ſat, which were called Areopagitæ, upon weighty affairs, which in old time arraigned Socrates, and after condemned him of impiety.

[11] The wiſdom of man is vanity.

[12] The idolaters themſelves miniſter ſtrong and forcible arguments againſt their own ſuperſtition.

[l] To ſtand in too peeviſh and ſervile a fear of your gods.

[m] Whatſoever men worſhip for religion's ſake, that we call devotion.

[n] Pauſanias, in his Atticis, maketh mention of the altar which the Athenians had dedicated to unknown gods: and Laertius in his Apimendes, maketh mention of an altar that had no name intitled.

[13] It is a moſt fooliſh and vain thing, to compare the Creator with the creature, to limit him within a place which can be comprehended in no place, and to think to allure him with gifts, of whom all men have received all things whatſoever they have. And theſe are the fountains of dolatry.

[14] God is wonderful in all his works, but eſpecially in the work of man: not that we ſhould ſtand amazed at his works, but that we ſhould lift up our eyes to the workman.

[o] Of one ſtock and one beginning.

A. D. 54. hath aſſigned the ſeaſons which were ordained before, and the bounds of their habitation,

27 That they ſhould ſeek the Lord, if ſo be they might have [p] groped after him, and found him, though doubtleſs he be not far from every one of us.

28 For in him we live, and move, and have our being, as alſo certain of your own poets have ſaid: for we are alſo his generation.

* Iſa. 40. 19. 29 * Foraſmuch then as we are the generation of God, we ought not to think that the godhead is like unto gold, or ſilver, or ſtone[q] graven by art and the invention of man.

30 [15] And the time of this ignorance God regarded not: but now he admoniſheth all men every where to repent:

31 Becauſe he hath appointed a day in the which he will judge the world in righteouſneſs, by that man whom he hath appointed, whereof he hath given an [r] aſſurance to all men, in that he hath raiſed him from the dead.

32 [16] Now when they had heard of the reſurrection from the dead, ſome mocked, and others ſaid, We will hear thee again of this thing.

33 And ſo Paul departed from among them.

34 Howbeit, certain men clave unto Paul, and believed: among whom was alſo Dionyſius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 As Paul at Corinth 6 taught the Gentiles, 9 the Lord comforteth him. 12 He is accuſed before Gallio, 16 but in vain. 18 From thence he ſaileth to Syria, 19 and ſo to Epheſus. 23 At Galatia and Phrygia he ſtrengtheneth the diſciples. 24 Apollos being more perfectly inſtructed by Aquila, 28 preacheth Chriſt with great efficacy.

AFTER [1] theſe things, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth,

* Rom. 16. 3. 2 And found a certain Jew named * Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, and his wife Priſcilla (becauſe that [a] Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome) and he came unto them.

3 And becauſe he was of the ſame craft, he abode with them, and wrought (for their craft was to make tents.)

4 [2] And he diſputed in the ſynagogue every ſabbath day, and [b] exhorted the Jews, and the Grecians.

5 Now when Silas and Timothy were come from Macedonia, Paul, [c] forced in ſpirit, teſtified to the Jews that Jeſus was the Chriſt.

6 [3] And when they reſiſted and blaſphemed, he * ſhook his raiment, and ſaid unto them, Your [d] blood be upon your own head: I am clean: from henceforth will I go unto the Gentiles. * Ch. 13. 51. Matt. 10. 14.

7 So he departed thence, and entered into a certain man's houſe, named Juſtus, a worſhipper of God, whoſe houſe joined hard to the ſynagogue.

8 And * Criſpus, the chief ruler of the ſynagogue, believed in the Lord with all his houſhold: and many of the Corinthians hearing it, believed and were baptized. * 1 Cor. 1. 14.

9 [4] Then ſaid the Lord to Paul in the night by a viſion, Fear not, but ſpeak and hold not thy peace:

10 For I am with thee, and no man ſhall lay hands on thee to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city.

11 So he [e] continued there a year and ſix months, and taught the word of God among them.

12 ¶ [5] Now when Gallio was deputy of [f] Achaia, the Jews aroſe with one accord againſt Paul, and brought him to the judgment-ſeat,

13 Saying, This fellow perſuadeth men to worſhip God otherwiſe than the law appointeth.

14 And as Paul was about to open his mouth, Gallio ſaid unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong, or an evil deed, O ye Jews, I would according to [g] reaſon maintain you.

15 But if it be a queſtion of [h] words and [i] names, and of your law, look ye to it yourſelves: for I will be no judge of thoſe things.

16 And he drave them from the judgment-ſeat.

17 Then took all the Grecians Soſthenes the chief ruler of the ſynagogue, and beat him before the [p] For as blind men we could not ſeek out God, but only by groping-wiſe, before the true Light came and lightened the world.

[q] Which ſtuff, as gold, ſilver, ſtones, are cuſtomarily graven as man's wit can deviſe, for men will not worſhip that groſs ſtuff as it is, unleſs by ſome art it hath gotten ſome ſhape upon it.

[15] The oldneſs of the error doth not excuſe them that err, but it commendeth and ſetteth forth the patience of God: who notwithſtanding will be a juſt Judge to ſuch as contemn him.

[r] By declaring Chriſt to be the Judge of the world, through the reſurrection from the dead.

[16] Men to ſhew forth their vanity, are diverſly affected and moved by one ſelf-ſame goſpel, which notwithſtanding ceaſeth not to be effectual in the elect.

[1] The true miniſters are ſo far from ſeeking their own profit, that they do willingly depart from their right, rather than the courſe of the goſpel ſhould be hindered in the leaſtwiſe that might be.

[a] Suetonius recordeth, that Rome baniſhed the Jews, becauſe they were always at diſquiet, and that by Chriſt's means.

[2] The truth ought always to be freely uttered, yet notwithſtanding the doctrine may be ſo moderated, as occaſion of the profit that the people take thereby, ſhall require.

[b] Exhorted ſo that he perſuaded, and ſo the word ſignifieth.

[c] Was very much grieved in mind: whereby is ſignified the great earneſtneſs of his mind, which was greatly moved: for Paul was ſo zealous, that he clean forgat himſelf, and with a wonderful courage gave himſelf to preach Chriſt.

[3] Although we have aſſayed all means poſſible, and yet in vain, we muſt not leave off from our work, but forſake the rebellious, and go to them that be more obedient.

[d] This is a kind of ſpeech taken from the Hebrews, whereby he meaneth that the Jews are the cauſe of their own deſtruction; and as for him, that he is without fault in forſaking them, and going to other nations.

[4] God doth avouch and maintain the conſtancy of his ſervants.

[e] Word for word, ſat, whereupon they in former time took the name of their biſhops ſeat: but Paul ſat, that is, continued teaching the word of God: and this kind of ſeat belongeth nothing to them, which never ſaw their ſeats with a mind to teach in them.

[5] The wicked are never weary of evil doing, but the Lord mocketh their endeavours marvellouſly.

[f] That is of Greece, yet the Romans did not call him deputy of Greece, but of Achaia, becauſe the Romans brought the Grecians into ſubjection, by the Achaians, which in thoſe days were princes of Greece, as Pauſanias recordeth.

[g] As much as in right I could.

[h] As if a man have not ſpoken well, as the caſe of your religion ſtandeth.

[i] For this profane man thinketh that the controverſy of religion is but a brawl about words, and for no matter of ſubſtance.

A. D. 55. the judgment-ſeat: But Gallio cared nothing for thoſe things.

18 [6] But when Paul tarried there yet a good while, he took leave of the brethren, and ſailed into Syria, (and with him Priſcilla and Aquila) after that [k] he had ſhorn his head in [l] Cenchrea: for he had a * vow.

* Rom. 16. 18. Ch. 21. 24.

19 Then he came to Epheſus, and left them there: but he entered into the ſynagogue, and diſputed with the Jews:

20 [7] Who deſired him to tarry a longer time with them: but he would not conſent,

21 But bade them farewell, ſaying, I muſt needs keep this feaſt that cometh, in Jeruſalem: but I will return again unto you, * [m] if God will. So he ſailed from Epheſus.

* 1 Cor. 4. 19. James 4. 15.

22 ¶ And when he came down to Cæſarea, he went up to Jeruſalem: and when he had ſaluted the church, he went down unto Antioch.

23 Now when he had tarried there a while, he departed, and went through the country of Galatia and Phrygia by order, ſtrengthening all the diſciples.

24 [8] And a certain Jew, named * Apollos, born at Alexandria, came to Epheſus, an eloquent man, and [n] mighty in the ſcriptures.

* 1 Cor. 1. 12.

25 The ſame was inſtructed in the way of the Lord, and he ſpake fervently in the Spirit, and taught diligently the things of the Lord, and knew but the baptiſm of John only.

26 And he began to ſpeak boldly in the ſynagogue: Whom when * Aquila and Priſcilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the [o] way of God more perfectly.

* Rom. 16. 3.

27 And when he was minded to go into Achaia, the brethren exhorting him, wrote to the diſciples to receive him: and after he was come thither, he helped them much which had believed through [p] grace.

28 For mightily he confuted publicly the Jews with great vehemency, ſhewing by the ſcriptures that Jeſus was that Chriſt.

C H A P. XIX.

1 Certain diſciples at Epheſus, 3 having only received John's baptiſm, 2 and knew not the viſible gifts of the Holy Ghoſt wherewith God had beautified his Son's kingdom, 5 are baptized in the name of Jeſus. 13 The Jewiſh exorciſts 16 are beaten of the devil. 19 Conjuring books are burnt. 24 Demetrius 29 raiſeth ſedition againſt Paul.

AND [1] it came to paſs, while Apollos was at Corinth, that Paul, when he paſſed through the upper coaſts, came to Epheſus, and found certain diſciples,

2 And ſaid unto them, Have ye received the [a] Holy Ghoſt ſince ye believed? And they ſaid unto him, We have not ſo much as heard whether there be an Holy Ghoſt.

A. D. 56.

3 [2] And he ſaid unto them, Unto [b] what were ye then baptized? And they ſaid, Unto [c] John's baptiſm.

4 Then ſaid Paul, * John verily baptized with the baptiſm of repentance, ſaying unto the people, that they ſhould believe in him which ſhould come after him, that is, in Chriſt Jeſus.

* Ch. 1. 5. and 2. 2. and 11. 16. Matt. 3. 11. Mark 1. 8. Luke 3. 16. John 1. 26.

5 And when they heard it, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jeſus.

6 So Paul laid his hands upon them, and the Holy Ghoſt came on them, and they ſpake the tongues, and propheſied.

7 And all the men were about twelve.

8 ¶ Moreover he went into the ſynagogue, and ſpake boldly for the ſpace of three months, diſputing and exhorting to the things that appertain to the kingdom of God.

9 [3] But when certain were hardened, and diſobeyed, ſpeaking evil of the [d] way of God before the multitude, he departed from them, and ſeparated the diſciples, and diſputed daily in the ſchool of one [e] Tyrannus.

10 And this was done by the ſpace of two years, ſo that all they which dwelt in Aſia heard the word of the Lord Jeſus, both Jews and Grecians.

11 And God wrought no ſmall miracles by the hands of Paul,

12 So that from his body were brought unto the ſick, kerchiefs, or handkerchiefs, and the diſeaſes departed from them, and the evil ſpirits went out of them.

13 [4] Then certain of the vagabond Jews, [f] exorciſts, took in hand to name over them which had evil ſpirits, the name of the Lord Jeſus, ſaying, We adjure you by Jeſus, whom Paul preacheth.

14 (And there were certain ſons of Sceva, a Jew, the prieſt, about ſeven, which did this,)

15 And the evil ſpirit anſwered, and ſaid, Jeſus I acknowledge, and Paul I know: but who are ye?

16 And the man in whom the evil ſpirit was, ran on them, and overcame them, and [g] prevailed againſt them, ſo that they fled out of that houſe naked, and wounded.

17 And this was known to all the Jews and Grecians alſo which dwelt at Epheſus, and fear came on them all, and the name of the Lord Jeſus was magnified.

18 [5] And many that believed came, and [h] confeſſed, and ſhewed their works. 19 Ma-

[6] Paul is made all to all, to win all to Chriſt.

[k] That is, Paul.

[l] Cenchrea was an haven of the Corinthians.

[7] The apoſtles were carried about, not by the will of man, but by the leading of the Holy Ghoſt.

[m] So we ſhould promiſe nothing without this clauſe, for we know not what the day following will bring forth.

[8] Apollos, a godly and learned man, refuſeth not to profit in the ſchool of a baſe and abject handi-craftſman, and alſo of a woman: and ſo becometh an excellent miniſter of the church.

[n] Very well inſtructed in the knowledge of the ſcriptures.

[o] The way that leadeth to God.

[p] Through God's gracious favour, or by thoſe excellent gifts which God had beſtowed upon him.

[1] Paul being nothing offended at the rudeneſs of the Epheſians, planteth a church amongſt them.

[a] Thoſe excellent gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, which were in thoſe days in the church.

[2] John did only begin to inſtruct the diſciples whom Chriſt ſhould make perfect.

[b] In what doctrine then are you taught and inſtructed?

[c] To be baptized into John's baptiſm, is to profeſs the doctrine which John preached and ſealed with his baptiſm.

[3] For a man to ſeperate himſelf and others from infidels which are utterly deſparate, it is not to divide the church, but rather to unite it, and make it one.

[d] By this word, Way, the Hebrews underſtand any kind of life, and here it is taken for chriſtianity.

[e] This was a man's proper name.

[4] Satan is conſtrained to give witneſs againſt himſelf.

[f] So were they called which caſt out devils by conjuring them in the name of God: and in the beginning of the church, they which had the gift of working miracles, and laid their hands on them that were poſſeſſed with devils, were alſo ſo called.

[g] He prevailed againſt them, though they ſtrove never ſo much.

[5] Conjuring and ſorcery is condemned by open teſtimony, and by the authority of the apoſtle.

[h] Confeſſed their errors, and deteſted them openly, being terrified with the fear of the judgment of God: and what is this to ear-ſhrift.

A. D. 59.

19 Many alſo of them which uſed curious arts, brought their books, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found [i] it fifty thouſand pieces of ſilver.

20 So the word of God grew mightily, and prevailed.

21 ¶ [6] Now when theſe things were accompliſhed, Paul purpoſed by the [k] Spirit to paſs through Macedonia and Achaia, and to go to Jeruſalem, ſaying, After I have been there, I muſt alſo ſee Rome.

22 So ſent he unto Macedonia two of them that miniſtered unto him, Timothy and Eraſtus, but he remained in Aſia for a ſeaſon.

23 [7] And the ſame time there aroſe no ſmall trouble about that way.

24 For a certain man named Demetrius, a ſilverſmith, which made ſilver [l] temples of Diana, brought great gains unto the craftſmen:

25 Whom he called together, with the workmen of like things, and ſaid, Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our goods:

26 Moreover ye ſee and hear, that not alone at Epheſus, but almoſt throughout all Aſia, this Paul hath perſuaded and turned away much people, ſaying, That they be not gods which are made with hands.

27 So that not only this thing is dangerous unto us, that this our [m] portion ſhall be reproved, but alſo that the temple of the great goddeſs Diana ſhould be nothing eſteemed, and that it would come to paſs, that her magnificence, which all Aſia and the world worſhippeth, ſhould be deſtroyed.

28 Now when they heard it, they were full of wrath, and cried out, ſaying, Great is Diana of the Epheſians.

29 And the whole city was full of confuſion, and they ruſhed into the common place with one aſſent, and caught * Gaius, and * Ariſtarchus, men of Macedonia, and Paul's companions of his journey.

* Rom. 16. 23. 1 Cor. 1. 14. * Col. 4. 10.

30 And when Paul would have entered in unto the people, the diſciples ſuffered him not.

31 [8] Certain alſo of the chief of Aſia which were his friends, ſent unto him, deſiring him that he would not preſent himſelf in the common place.

32 Some therefore cried one thing, and ſome another: for the aſſembly was out of order, and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

33 And ſome of the company drew forth Alexander, the Jews thruſting him forwards. Alexander then beckoned with the hand, and would have excuſed the matter to the people.

A. D. 59.

34 [9] But when they knew that he was a Jew, there aroſe a ſhout almoſt for the ſpace of two hours, of all men, crying, Great is Diana of the Epheſians.

35 [10] Then the town-clerk, when he had ſtayed the people, ſaid, Ye men of Epheſus, what man is it that knoweth not how that the city of the Epheſians is a worſhipper of the great goddeſs Diana, and of the image which [n] came down from Jupiter?

36 Seeing then that no man can ſpeak againſt theſe things, ye ought to be appeaſed, and to do nothing raſhly:

37 For ye have brought hither theſe men, which have neither committed ſacrilege, neither do blaſpheme your gods.

38 Wherefore, if Demetrius, and the craftſmen which are with him, have a [o] matter againſt any man, the [p] law is open, and there are [q] deputies: let them accuſe one another.

39 But if ye enquire any thing concerning other matters, it may be determined in a [r] lawful aſſembly:

40 For we are even in jeopardy to be accuſed of this day's ſedition, foraſmuch as there is no cauſe whereby we may give a reaſon of this concourſe of people.

41 And when he had thus ſpoken, he let the aſſembly depart.

CHAP. XX.

1 Paul appointed to go to Macedonia. 7 In Troas preaching until midnight, 9 Eutychus fell down dead out of a window: 10 he raiſeth him to life. 15 At Miletum, 17 having called the elders of Epheſus together, 23 he declareth what things ſhall come upon himſelf, 29 and others.

NOW [1] after the tumult was appeaſed, Paul called the diſciples unto him, and embraced them, and departed to go into Macedonia.

2 And when he had gone through thoſe parts, and had exhorted them with [a] many words, he came into Greece.

3 [2] And having tarried there three months, becauſe the Jews laid wait for him, as he was about to ſail into Syria, he purpoſed to return through Macedonia.

4 And there accompanied him into Aſia, Sopater of Berea, and of them of Theſſalonica, Ariſtarchus, and Secundus, and Gaius of Derbe, and Timothy: and of them of Aſia, Tychicus, and Trophimus.

5 Theſe went before, and tarried us at Troas.

---

[i] They that make the leaſt value of it, reckon it to be about eight hundred pounds Engliſh.

[6] Paul is never weary.

[k] By the motion of God's Spirit; therefore we may not ſay that Paul ran hand over head to death, but as the Spirit of God led him.

[7] Gain cloked with a ſhew of religion, is the very cauſe wherefore idolatry is ſtoutly and ſtubbornly defended.

[l] Theſe were certain counterfeit temples with Diana's picture in them, which they bought that worſhipped her.

[m] As if he ſaid, If Paul go on thus as he hath begun to confute the opinion which men have of Diana's image, all this our gain will come to nought.

[8] There ought to be in all Chriſtians, and eſpecially in the miniſters, an invincible conſtancy, which may not by any ſtorms or aſſaults be overcome, which notwithſtanding muſt ſuffer itſelf modeſtly to be governed by wiſdom.

[9] Inſtead of reaſon, the idolaters are ſufficiently contented with their own madneſs and outcries, and thoſe are the greateſt defences that they have.

[10] An example of a politic man, who redeemeth peace and quietneſs with lyes, which Paul would never have done.

[n] The Epheſians believed ſuperſtitiouſly, that the image of Diana came down from heaven to them.

[o] Have aught to accuſe any man of.

[p] For there are certain days appointed for civil cauſes and matters of judgment, and the deputies ſit.

[q] By the deputies are meant alſo the deputies ſubſtitutes, that is, ſuch as did ſit for them.

[r] He ſpeaketh of a lawful aſſembly, not only to except againſt the diſordered hurly-burly of the people, but alſo againſt all meeting and coming together, which was not by order: for there were certain days appointed to call the people together in.

[1] Paul departeth from Epheſus by the conſent of the church, not to be idle or at reſt, but to take pains in another place.

[a] For after ſo great trouble there was need of a long exhortation.

[2] A froward zeal is the guider and inſtructor to murders; and we are not debarred by the wiſdom of God to prevent the endeavours of wicked men.

A. D. 60.

6 And we ſailed forth from Philippi, after the days of unleavened bread, and came unto them to Troas in five days, where we abode ſeven days.

7 [3] And the [b] firſt day of the week, the diſciples being come together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued the preaching unto midnight.

8 [4] And there were many lights in an upper chamber, where they were gathered together.

9 And there ſat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, fallen into a dead ſleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he, overcome with ſleep, fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

10 But Paul went down, and laid himſelf upon him, and embraced him, ſaying, Trouble not yourſelves: for his life is in him.

11 Then when Paul was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, having ſpoken a long while, till the dawning of the day, he ſo departed.

12 And they brought the boy alive, and they were not a little comforted.

13 ¶ Then we went before to ſhip, and ſailed unto the city Aſſos, that we might receive Paul there: for ſo had he appointed, and would himſelf go afoot.

14 Now when he was come unto us to Aſſos, and we had received him, we came to Mitylene.

15 And we ſailed thence, and came the next day overagainſt Chios: and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium: the next day we came to Miletum.

16 [5] For Paul had determined to ſail by Epheſus, becauſe he would not ſpend the time in Aſia: for he haſted to be, if he could poſſibly, at Jeruſalem at the day of Pentecoſt.

17 ¶ Wherefore from [c] Miletum, he ſent to Epheſus, and called the elders of the church.

18 [6] Who, when they were come to him, he ſaid unto them, Ye know from the firſt day that I came into Aſia, after what manner I have been with you at all ſeaſons,

19 Serving the Lord with all modeſty, and with many tears and temptations which came unto me by the layings await of the Jews:

20 And how I kept [d] back nothing that was profitable, but have ſhewed you, and taught you openly, and throughout every houſe,

A. D. 60.

21 Witneſſing both to the Jews, and to the Grecians, the repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

22 [7] And now behold, I go [e] bound in the Spirit unto Jeruſalem, and know not what things ſhall come unto me there:

23 Save that the Holy Ghoſt witneſſeth in every city, ſaying, that bonds and afflictions abide me.

24 But I paſs not at all, neither is my life dear unto myſelf, ſo that I may fulfil my courſe with joy, and the miniſtration which I have received of the Lord Jeſus, to teſtify the goſpel of the grace of God.

25 And now behold, I know that henceforth ye all, through whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, ſhall ſee my face no more.

26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am [f] pure from the blood of all men.

27 [8] For I have kept nothing back, but have ſhewed you all the counſel of God.

28 Take heed therefore unto yourſelves, and to all the flock, whereof the Holy Ghoſt hath made you overſeers, to [g] feed the church of God, which [h] he hath purchaſed with [i] that his own blood.

29 [9] For I know this, that after my departing, ſhall grievous wolves enter in among you, not ſparing the flock.

30 Moreover, of your own ſelves ſhall men ariſe, ſpeaking perverſe things, to [k] draw diſciples after them.

31 Therefore watch, and remember, that by the ſpace of three years I ceaſed not to warn every one both night and day with tears.

32 [10] And now brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build further, and to give you an [l] inheritance among all them which are ſanctified.

33 [11] I have coveted no man's ſilver, nor gold, nor apparel.

34 Yea, ye know that theſe hands have miniſtered unto my * neceſſities, and to them that were with me.

[4] The devil minding to trouble the church with a great offence, giveth Paul a ſingular occaſion to confirm the goſpel.

[5] Paul an earneſt and diligent follower of Chriſt, making haſte to his bonds without any ceaſing or ſtopping in his race, doeth firſt of all, as it were, make his teſtament, wherein he giveth an account of his former life, defendeth the doctrine which he taught, and exhorteth the paſtors of the church to perſevere and go forward with continuance in their office.

[c] According as the ſituation of theſe places is ſet forth, that diſtance between Epheſus and Miletum was about 400 furlongs, which maketh almoſt fifty Dutch miles.

[h] A notable ſentence for Chriſt's Godhead, which ſheweth plainly in his perſon, how that by reaſon of the joining together of the two natures in his own perſon, that which is proper to one is ſpoken of the other, being taken in the derivative, and not in the primitive: which in old time the godly fathers termed, a communicating or fellowſhip of proprieties, that is to ſay, a making common of that to two, which belongeth but to one.

that he ſaid, It is a bleſſed thing to give, rather than to receive.

36 And when he had thus ſpoken, he kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 [11] Then they wept all abundantly, and fell on Paul's neck, and kiſſed him,

38 Being chiefly ſorry for the words which he ſpake, That they ſhould ſee his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ſhip.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Paul goeth towards Jeruſalem. 8 At Ceſarea he talketh with Philip the Evangeliſt. 10 Agabus foretelleth him of his bonds. 17 After he came to Jeruſalem, 26 and into the temple, 27 the Jews laid hands on him. 32 Lyſias the captain taketh him from them.

AND [1] as we launched forth, and were departed from them, we came with a ſtraight courſe unto Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara.

2 And we found a ſhip that went over unto Phenice, and went aboard, and ſet forth.

3 And when we had diſcovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and ſailed toward Syria, and arrived at Tyre: for the ſhip unladed the burden.

4 And when we had found diſciples, we tarried there ſeven days. And they told Paul through the [a] Spirit, that he ſhould not go up to Jeruſalem.

5 But when the days were ended, we departed, and went our way, and they all accompanied us with their wives and children, even out of the city: and we, kneeling down on the ſhore, prayed.

6 Then, when we had embraced one another, we took ſhip, and they returned home.

7 And when we had ended the courſe from Tyre, we arrived at Ptolemais, and ſaluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8 And the next day Paul and we that were with him departed, and came into Cæſarea: and we entered into the houſe of * Philip the Evangeliſt, which was one of the [b] ſeven deacons, and abode with him.

*Ch. 6. 5.

9 Now he had four daughters virgins, which did [c] propheſy.

10 And as we tarried there many days, there came a certain prophet from Judea, named Agabus.

11 And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the Holy Ghoſt, So ſhall the Jews at Jeruſalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and ſhall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

A. D. 60.

12 And when we had heard theſe things, both we and other of the ſame place beſought him that he would not go up to Jeruſalem.

13 Then Paul anſwered, and ſaid, What do ye weeping, and breaking mine heart? For I am ready not to be bound only, but alſo to die at Jeruſalem for the name of the Lord Jeſus.

14 [2] So when he would not be perſuaded, we ceaſed, ſaying, The will of the Lord be done.

15 And after thoſe days we truſſed up our fardels, and went up to Jeruſalem.

16 There went with us alſo certain of the diſciples of Cæſarea, and brought with them one Mnaſon of Cyprus, an old diſciple, with whom we ſhould lodge.

17 And when we were come to Jeruſalem, the brethren received us gladly.

18 And the next day Paul went in with us unto James: and all the elders were there aſſembled.

19 [3] And when he had embraced them, he told by order all things that God had wrought among the Gentiles by his miniſtration.

20 [4] So when they heard it, they glorified God, and ſaid unto him, Thou ſeeſt, brother, how many thouſand Jews there are which believe, and they are all zealous of the law.

21 Now they are informed of thee, that thou teacheſt all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forſake Moſes, and ſayeſt, that they ought not to circumciſe their ſons, neither to live after the cuſtoms.

22 What is then to be done? the multitude muſt needs come together: for they ſhall hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that we ſay to thee. We have four men, which have made a vow.

24 Them take, and [d] purify thyſelf with them, and [e] contribute with them, that they may * ſhave their heads: and all ſhall know, that thoſe things whereof they have been informed concerning thee, are nothing, but that thou thyſelf alſo walkeſt and keepeſt the law.

*Ch. 18. 18. Num. 6. 18.

25 For as touching the Gentiles, which believe, we have written, and determined, that they obſerve no ſuch thing, but that they keep themſelves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from that that is ſtrangled, and from fornication.

26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day was purified with them, and entered into the temple, [f] declaring the accompliſhment of the days of the purification, until that an offering

[a] They foretold through the Spirit what dangers hanged over Paul's head; and this they did as prophets: but of a fleſhly affection they frayed him from going to Jeruſalem.

[d] That is, conſecrate thyſelf; for he ſpeaketh not here of the unclean, but of ſuch as be ſubject to the vow of the Nazarites.

[e] That it may be known, that thou waſt not only preſent at the vow, but alſo a chief man in it; and therefore it is ſaid afterwards, that Paul declared the days of purification: for although the charges for the Nazarites offerings were appointed, yet they might add ſomewhat unto them, Num. 6. 21.

[f] The prieſts were to be advertiſed of the accompliſhment of the days of the purification, becauſe there were were ſacrifices to be offered the ſame day, that their vow was ended.

A. D. 60. offering ſhould be offered for every one of them.

27 [5] And when the ſeven days were almoſt ended, the Jews which were of Aſia (when they ſaw him in the temple) moved all the people, and laid hands on him,

28 Crying, Men of Iſrael, help: this is the man that teacheth all men every where againſt the people, and the law, and this place: moreover, he hath brought Grecians into the temple, and hath polluted this place.

29 For they had ſeen before Trophimus, an Epheſian, with him in the city, whom they ſuppoſed that Paul had brought into the temple.

30 Then all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took and drew him out of the temple, and forthwith the doors were ſhut.

31 [6] But as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jeruſalem was in an uproar:

32 Who immediately took ſoldiers, and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they ſaw the chief captain and the ſoldiers, they left beating of Paul.

33 Then the chief captain came near, and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains, and demanded who he was, and what he had done.

34 And one cried this, another that, among the people. So when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be led into the caſtle.

35 And when he was come unto the ſtairs, it was ſo that he was borne of the ſoldiers, for the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, Away with him.

37 And as Paul ſhould have been led into the caſtle, he ſaid unto the chief captain, May I ſpeak unto thee? Who ſaid, Canſt thou ſpeak Greek?

38 Art not thou the [8] Egyptian, who before theſe days raiſed a ſedition, and led out into the wilderneſs four thouſand men, that were murderers?

39 Then Paul ſaid, Doubtleſs, I am a man which am a Jew, and citizen of Tarſus, a famous city of Cilicia, and I beſeech thee, ſuffer me to ſpeak unto the people.

40 And when he had given him licence, Paul ſtood on the ſtairs, and beckoned with the hand unto the people: and when there was made great ſilence, he ſpake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, ſaying,

CHAP XXII.

1 Paul yieldeth a reaſon of his faith, 22 and the Jews hear him awhile. 23 But ſo ſoon as they cried out, 24 he is commanded to be ſcourged and examined, 27 and ſo declareth that he is a citizen of Rome.

YE men, brethren, and fathers, hear my defence now towards you.

2 (And when they heard that he ſpake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more ſilence, and he ſaid) A. D. 60.

3 [1] I am verily a man, which am a Jew, born in Tarſus, in Cilicia, but brought up in this city, at the [a] feet of Gamaliel, and inſtructed according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous toward God, as ye all are this day.

4 And I perſecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into priſon both men and women.

5 As alſo the chief prieſt doth bear me witneſs, and all the company of the elders: of whom alſo I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damaſcus, to bring them which were there, bound unto Jeruſalem, that they might be puniſhed.

6 ¶ And ſo it was, as I journeyed, and was come near unto Damaſcus about noon, that ſuddenly there ſhone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 So I fell unto the earth, and heard a voice, ſaying unto me, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me?

8 Then I anſwered, Who art thou, Lord? And he ſaid unto me, I am Jeſus of Nazareth, whom thou perſecuteſt.

9 Moreover they that were with me, ſaw indeed a light, and were afraid: but they heard not the voice of him that ſpake unto me.

10 Then I ſaid, What ſhall I do, Lord? And the Lord ſaid unto me, Ariſe, and go into Damaſcus: and there it ſhall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11 So when I could not ſee for the glory of that light, I was led by the hand of them that were with me, and came into Damaſcus.

12 And one Ananias, a godly man, as pertaining to the law, having good report of all the Jews which dwelt there,

13 Came unto me, and ſtood, and ſaid unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy ſight: and that ſame hour I looked upon him.

14 And he ſaid, The God of our Fathers hath appointed thee that thou ſhouldeſt know his will, and ſhouldeſt ſee that Juſt one, and ſhouldeſt hear the voice of his mouth.

15 For thou ſhalt be his witneſs unto all men of the things which thou haſt ſeen and heard.

16 Now therefore why tarrieſt thou? Ariſe, and be baptized, and waſh away thy ſins, in calling on the name of the Lord.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs, that when I was come again to Jeruſalem, and prayed in the temple, I was in a trance,

18 And ſaw him, ſaying unto me, Make haſte, and get thee quickly out of Jeruſalem: for they will not receive thy witneſs concerning me.

19 Then I ſaid, Lord, they know that I priſoned and beat in every ſynagogue them that believed in thee.

21 Then he ſaid unto me, Depart: for I will ſend thee far hence unto the Gentiles.

22 ¶ [2] And they heard him unto this word, but then they lift up their voices, and ſaid, Away with ſuch a fellow from the earth: for it is not meet that he ſhould live.

23 And as they [c] cried and caſt off their clothes, and threw duſt into the air,

24 [3] The chief captain commanded him to be led into the caſtle, and bade that he ſhould be ſcourged, and examined, that he might know wherefore they cried ſo on him.

25 [4] And as they bound him with thongs, Paul ſaid unto the centurion that ſtood by, Is it lawful for you to ſcourge one that is a Roman, and not condemned?

26 Now when the centurion heard it, he went and told the chief captain, ſaying, Take heed what thou doeſt: for this man is a Roman.

27 Then the chief captain came, and ſaid to him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? And he ſaid, Yea.

28 And the chief captain anſwered, With a great ſum obtained I this freedom. Then Paul ſaid, But I was ſo born.

29 Then ſtraightway they departed from him, which ſhould have examined him: and the chief captain alſo was afraid, after he knew that he was [d] a Roman, and that he had bound him.

30 On the next day, becauſe he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accuſed of the Jews, he looſed him from his bonds, and commanded the high prieſts and all their council to come together: and he brought Paul, and ſet him before them.

6 [5] But when Paul perceived, that the one part were of the Sadducees, and the other of the Phariſees, he cried in the council, Men and brethren, * I am a Phariſee, the ſon of a Phariſee: I am accuſed of the hope and reſurrection of the dead.

* Ch.24.22. Phil. 3. 5.

7 [6] And when he had ſaid this, there was a diſſenſion between the Phariſees and the Sadducees, ſo that the multitude was divided.

10 [9] And when there was a great diſſenſion, the chief captain, fearing leſt Paul ſhould have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the ſoldiers to go down, and to take him from among them, and to bring him into the caſtle.

11 ¶ Now the night following the Lord ſtood by him, and ſaid, Be of good courage, Paul: for as thou haſt teſtified of me in Jeruſalem, ſo muſt thou bear witneſs alſo at Rome.

12 [10] And when the day was come, certain of the Jews made an aſſembly, and bound themſelves [f] with a curſe, ſaying, that they would neither eat nor drink, till they had killed Paul.

13 And they were more than forty which had made this conſpiracy.

14 And they came to the chief prieſts and elders, elders, and ſaid, We have bound ourſelves with a ſolemn curſe, that we will eat nothing, until we have ſlain Paul.

15 Now therefore ye, and the [g] council ſignify to the chief captain, that he bring him forth unto you to-morrow, as though you would know ſomething more perfectly of him, and we, or ever he come near, will be ready to kill him.

16 But when Paul's ſiſter's ſon heard of their laying await, he went, and entered into the caſtle, and told Paul.

17 [11] And Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and ſaid, Take this young man hence unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to ſhew him.

18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and ſaid, Paul the priſoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, which hath ſomething to ſay unto thee.

19 Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went apart with him alone, and aſked him, What haſt thou to ſhew me?

20 And he ſaid, The Jews have conſpired to deſire thee, that thou wouldeſt bring forth Paul to-morrow into the council, as though they would inquire ſomewhat of him more perfectly:

21 But let them not perſuade thee: for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty men, which have bound themſelves with a curſe, that they will neither eat nor drink, till they have killed him: and now are they ready, and wait for thy promiſe.

22 [12] The chief captain then let the young man depart, after he had charged him to utter it to no man, that he had ‡ ſhewed him theſe things.

‡ Greek, that thou haſt ſhewed thoſe things to me.

23 And he called unto him two certain centurions, ſaying, Make ready two hundred ſoldiers, that they may go to Cæſarea, and horſemen threeſcore and ten, and two hundred with darts, at the third hour of the night.

24 And let them make ready an horſe, that Paul being ſet on, may be brought ſafe unto Felix the governor.

25 And he wrote an epiſtle in this manner:

26 [13] Claudius Lyſias unto the moſt noble governor Felix, ſendeth greeting.

27 As this man was taken of the Jews, and ſhould have been killed of them, I came upon them with the gariſon, and reſcued him, perceiving that he was a Roman.

28 And when I would have known the cauſe wherefore they accuſed him, I brought him forth into their council.

29 There I perceived that he was accuſed of queſtions of their law, but had no crime worthy of death, or of bonds.

30 And when it was ſhewed me, how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I ſent him ſtraightway to thee, and commanded his accuſers to ſpeak before thee the things that they had againſt him. Farewell.

31 Then the ſoldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him by night to Antipatris.

32 And the next day they left the horſemen to go with him, and returned unto the caſtle.

33 Now when they came to Cæſarea, they delivered the epiſtle to the governor, and preſented Paul alſo unto him.

34 So when the governor had read it, he aſked of what province he was: and when he underſtood that he was of Cilicia,

35 I will hear thee, ſaid he, when thine accuſers alſo are come: and commanded him to be kept in Herod's judgment hall.

2 Tertullus accuſeth Paul: 10 He anſwereth for himſelf. 25 He preacheth Chriſt to the governor and his wife. 27 Felix hopeth, but in vain, to receive a bribe: 28 who going from his office, leaveth Paul in priſon.

NOW [1] after five days, Ananias the high prieſt came down with the elders, and with Tertullus, a certain orator, which appeared before the governor againſt Paul.

2 And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuſe him, ſaying, Seeing that we have obtained great quietneſs [a] through thee, and that many [b] worthy things are done unto this nation through thy providence,

3 We acknowledge it wholly, and in all places, moſt noble Felix, with all thanks.

4 But that I be not tedious unto thee: I pray thee, that thou wouldeſt hear us of thy courteſy a few words.

5 Certainly we have found this man a [c] peſtilent fellow, and a mover of ſedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a [d] chief maintainer of the ſect of the [e] Nazarites:

6 And hath gone about to pollute the temple: therefore we took him, and would have judged him according to our law:

7 But the chief captain Lyſias came upon us, and with great violence took him out of our hands,

8 Commanding his accuſers to come to thee: of whom thou mayeſt (if thou wilt enquire) know all theſe things whereof we accuſe him.

9 And the Jews likewiſe [f] affirmed, ſaying, that it was ſo.

10 [2] Then Paul, after that the governor had beckoned unto him that he ſhould ſpeak, anſwered,

A. D. 60.

---

[g] Ye and the ſenate requiring the ſame to be done, leſt that the tribune ſhould think that it was demanded of him at ſome private man's ſuit.

[11] The wiſdom of the Spirit muſt be joined with ſimplicity.

[12] There is no counſel againſt the Lord and his ſervants.

[13] Lyſias is ſuddenly made by the Lord, Paul's patron.

[1] Hypocrites, when they cannot do what they would do by force and deceit, at length they go about to compaſs it by a ſhew of law.

[a] Felix ruled that province with great cruelty and covetouſneſs, and yet Joſephus recordeth that he did many worthy things, as that he took Eleazar the captain of certain cut-throats, and put that deceiving wretch the Egyptian to flight, which cauſed great troubles in Judea.

[b] He uſeth a word which the Stoics defined to be a perfect duty and behaviour.

[c] Word for word, a plague.

[d] As you would ſay, a ring-leader, or enſign-bearer.

[e] So they called the Chriſtians, ſcoffingly, of the town's name where they thought that Chriſt was born, whereupon it came, that Julian the apoſtate called him Galilean.

[f] Confirmed Tertullus's ſaying.

[2] Tertullus, by the devil's rhetoric beginning with flattery, maketh an end with lyes: but Paul uſing heavenly eloquence, and but a ſimple beginning, caſteth off from himſelf the crime of ſedition, wherewith he was burdened, with a ſimple denial.

A. D. 60. ſwered, I do the more gladly anſwer for myſelf, foraſmuch as I know that thou haſt been of [g] many years a judge unto this nation, 11 Seeing that thou mayeſt know, that there are but twelve days ſince I came up to worſhip in Jeruſalem.

12 And they neither found me in the temple diſputing with any man, neither making uproar among the people, neither in the ſynagogues, nor in the city.

13 Neither can they [h] prove the things, whereof they now accuſe me.

14 [3] But this I confeſs unto thee, that after the way which they call [i] hereſy, ſo worſhip I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and the prophets.

15 And have hope towards God, that the reſurrection of the dead, which they themſelves look for alſo, ſhall be both of juſt and unjuſt.

16 And herein I endeavour myſelf to have alway a clear conſcience toward God and toward men.

17 [4] Now after many years, I came and brought alms to my nation, and offerings.

18 At [k] what time, certain Jews of [l] Aſia found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.

19 Who ought to have been preſent before thee, and accuſe me, if they had aught againſt me.

20 Or let theſe themſelves ſay, if they have found any unjuſt thing in me, while I ſtood in the [m] council:

21 Except it be for this one voice that I cried ſtanding among them, Of the reſurrection of the dead am I accuſed of you this day.

22 [5] Now when Felix heard theſe things, he deferred them, and ſaid, When I ſhall more [n] perfectly know the things which concern this way, by the coming of Lyſias the chief captain, I will decide your matter.

23 [6] Then he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and that he ſhould have eaſe, and that he ſhould forbid none of his acquaintance to miniſter unto him, or to come unto him.

24 ¶ And after certain days came Felix with his wife [o] Druſilla, which was a Jeweſs, and he called forth Paul, and heard him of the faith in Chriſt.

25 And as he diſputed of righteouſneſs and temperance, and of the judgment to come, Felix trembled, and anſwered, Go thy way for this time, and when I have convenient time, I will call for thee. A. D. 60.

26 He hoped alſo that money ſhould have been given him of Paul, that he might looſe him: wherefore he ſent for him the oftener, and communed with him.

27 [7] When two years were expired, Portius Feſtus came into Felix's room: and Felix, willing to [p] get favour of the Jews, left Paul bound.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Feſtus ſucceeding Felix, 6 commandeth Paul to be brought forth. 11 Paul appealeth unto Cæſar. 14 Feſtus openeth Paul's matter to king Agrippa, 23 and bringeth him before him, 27 that he may underſtand his cauſe.

WHEN [1] Feſtus was then come into the province, after three days he went up from Cæſarea unto Jeruſalem.

2 Then the high prieſt, and the chief of the Jews appeared before him againſt Paul, and they beſought him,

3 And deſired favour againſt him, that he would ſend for him to Jeruſalem: and they laid wait to kill him by the way.

4 But Feſtus anſwered, that Paul ſhould be kept at Cæſarea, and that he himſelf would ſhortly depart thither.

5 Let them therefore, ſaid he, which among you are able, come down with us: and if there be any wickedneſs in the man, let them accuſe him.

6 ¶ [2] Now when he had tarried among them no more than ten days, he went down to Cæſarea, and the next day ſat in the judgment ſeat: and commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was brought, the Jews which were come from Jeruſalem ſtood about him, and laid many and grievous complaints againſt Paul, whereof [a] they could make no plain proof,

8 Foraſmuch as he anſwered, that he had neither offended any thing againſt the law of the Jews, neither againſt the temple, nor againſt Cæſar.

---

[g] Paul pleaded his cauſe two years before Felix departed out of the province, Chap. 27. but he had governed Trachonite, and Batavia, and Galaunite, before that Claudius made him governor of Judea. Joſephus in the hiſtory of the Jews war, lib. 2. chap. 11.

[h] They cannot lay forth before thee, and prove by good reaſons.

[3] Paul goeth in the caſe of religion, from a ſtate of conjecture to a ſtate of quality, not only not denying that religion which was objected againſt him, but alſo proving it to be true, to be heavenly, and from God, and to be the oldeſt of all religions.

[i] Here the word Hereſy, or Sect, is taken in good part.

[4] Paul in concluſion telleth the thing which was done truly, which Turtullus had before divers ways corrupted.

[k] And while I was buſy about thoſe things.

[l] Hereby it appeareth that theſe of Aſia were Paul's enemies, and thoſe that ſtirred up the people againſt him.

[m] Whither the tribune brought me.

[5] The judge ſuſpendeth his ſentence, becauſe the matter is doubtful.

[n] Felix could not judge whether he had done wickedly in the matters of his religion or no, until he had better underſtanding of that way which Paul profeſſed; and as for other matters, touching the ſedition, he thinketh good to defer it till he hear Lyſias, and therefore he gave Paul ſomewhat more liberty.

[6] God is a moſt faithful keeper of his ſervants, and the force of the truth is wonderful, even amongſt men which are otherwiſe prophane.

[o] This Druſilla was Agrippa's ſiſter, of whom Luke ſpeaketh afterward, a very harlot and licentious woman, and being the wife of Azizus king of the Emeſens, who was circumciſed, departed from him, and went to this Felix the brother of one Pallas, who was ſome time Nero's bondman.

[7] In a naughty mind, that is, guilty to itſelf, although ſometimes there be ſome ſhew of equity, yet by and by it will be exſtinguiſhed, but in the mean ſeaſon we have need of patience, and that continually.

[p] For whereas he had behaved himſelf very wickedly in the province, had it not been for favour of his brother Pallas, he ſhould have died for it: ſo that we may gather hereby, why he would have pleaſured the Jews.

[1] Satan's miniſters are ſubtil, and diligent in ſeeking all occaſions: but God, which watcheth for his, hindereth all their counſels eaſily.

[2] We may repel an injury juſtly, but not with injury.

[a] They could not prove them certainly, and with undoubted reaſons.

9 [3] Yet Feſtus, willing to get favour of the Jews, anſwered Paul, and ſaid, Wilt thou go up to Jeruſalem, and there be judged of theſe things before me?

10 Then ſaid Paul, I ſtand at Cæſar's judgment ſeat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews I have done no wrong, as thou very well knoweſt.

11 For if I have done wrong, or committed any thing worthy of death, I refuſe not to die: but if there be none of theſe things whereof they accuſe me, no man, to pleaſure them, can deliver me to them: I appeal unto Cæſar.

12 Then when Feſtus had ſpoken with the council, he anſwered, Haſt thou appealed unto Cæſar? unto Cæſar ſhalt thou go.

13 ¶ [4] And after certain days, king [b] Agrippa and Bernice came down to Cæſarea to ſalute Feſtus.

14 And when they had remained there many days, Feſtus declared Paul's cauſe unto the king, ſaying, There is a certain man left in priſon by Felix:

15 Of whom when I came to Jeruſalem, the high prieſts and elders of the Jews informed me, and deſired to have judgment againſt him.

16 To whom I anſwered, that it is not the manner of the Romans, for favour to [c] deliver any man to the death, before that he which is accuſed, have the accuſers before him, and have place to defend himſelf, concerning the crime.

17 Therefore when they were come hither, without delay the day following I ſat on the judgment ſeat, and commanded the man to be brought forth:

18 Againſt whom, when the accuſers ſtood up, they brought no crime of ſuch things as I ſuppoſed:

19 [5] But had certain queſtions againſt him of their own [d] ſuperſtition, and of one Jeſus, which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And becauſe I doubted of ſuch manner of queſtion, I aſked him whether he would go to Jeruſalem, and there be judged of theſe things.

21 But becauſe he appealed to be reſerved to the examination of Auguſtus, I commanded him to be kept, till I might ſend him to Cæſar.

22 [6] Then Agrippa ſaid unto Feſtus, I would alſo hear the man myſelf. To-morrow, ſaid he, thou ſhalt hear him.

23 And on the morrow when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, with [e] great pomp, and were entered into the common hall with the chief captains and chief men of the city, at Feſtus's commandment Paul was brought forth.

24 And Feſtus ſaid, King Agrippa, and all men which are preſent with us, ye ſee this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have called upon me, both at Jeruſalem, and here, crying, that he ought not to live any longer.

25 Yet have I found nothing worthy of death, that he hath committed: nevertheleſs, ſeeing that he hath appealed to Auguſtus, I have determined to ſend him.

26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my [f] lord: wherefore I have brought him forth unto you, and ſpecially unto thee, king Agrippa, that after examination had, I might have ſomewhat to write.

27 For me thinketh it unreaſonable to ſend a priſoner, and not to ſhew the cauſes which are laid againſt him.

CHAP. XXVI.

2 Paul, in the preſence of Agrippa, 4 declareth his life from his childhood, 16 and his calling, 22 with ſuch efficacy of words, 28 that almoſt he perſuadeth him to Chriſtianity: 30 but he and his company depart, doing nothing in Paul's matter.

THEN Agrippa ſaid unto Paul, Thou art permitted to ſpeak for thyſelf. So Paul ſtretched forth the hand, and anſwered for himſelf.

2 [1] I think myſelf happy, king Agrippa, becauſe I ſhall anſwer this day before thee of all the things whereof I am accuſed of the Jews:

3 Chiefly, becauſe thou haſt knowledge of all cuſtoms and queſtions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beſeech thee to hear me patiently.

4 [2] As touching my life from my childhood, and what it was from the beginning among mine own nation at Jeruſalem, know all the Jews,

5 Which [a] knew me heretofore, even from my [b] elders (if they would teſtify) that after the [c] moſt ſtrait ſect of our religion, I lived a Phariſee.

6 [3] And now I ſtand and am accuſed for the hope of the promiſe made of God unto our fathers.

7 Whereunto our twelve tribes, inſtantly ſerving God day and night, hope to come: for the which hope's ſake, O king Agrippa, I am accuſed of the Jews.

8 [4] Why ſhould it be thought a thing incredible unto you, that God ſhould raiſe again the dead?

---

[3] God doth not only turn away the counſel of the wicked, but alſo turneth it upon their own heads.

[4] Feſtus thinking no ſuch thing, even before kings, bringing to light the wickedneſs of the Jews, and Paul's innocency, doth marvellouſly confirm the church of God.

[b] This Agrippa was Agrippa's ſon, whoſe death Luke ſpake of before, and Bernice was his ſiſter.

[c] The Romans uſe not to deliver any man to be puniſhed before, &c.

[5] The profane and wicked take an occaſion to condemn the true doctrine, by reaſon of private controverſies and contentions of men betwixt themſelves: but the truth nevertheleſs abideth, in the mean ſeaſon, ſafe and ſure.

[d] This profane man calleth the Jewiſh religion, ſuperſtition, and that before king Agrippa, but no marvel: for the rulers of provinces by reaſon of the majeſty of the empire of Rome, uſed to prefer themſelves before kings.

[6] That is fulfilled in Paul, which the Lord before had told to Ananias of him, chap. 9. 15.

[e] Gorgeouſly like a prince.

[f] To Auguſtus. Good princes refuſed this name at the firſt, to wit, to be called lords, but afterward they admitted it, as we read of Tratanus.

[1] To have a ſkilful judge, is a great and ſingular gift of God.

[2] Paul divideth the hiſtory of his life into two times: for the firſt he calleth his adverſaries witneſſes: for the latter, the fathers and prophets.

[a] What I was, and where, and how I lived.

[b] That my parents were Phariſees.

[c] The ſect of the Phariſees was the moſt exquiſite amongſt all the ſects of the Jews, for it was better than all the reſt.

[3] There are three chief and principal witneſſes of true doctrine, God, the true fathers, and the conſent of the church.

[4] He proveth the reſurrection of the dead, firſt by the power of God, then by the reſurrection of Chriſt, whereof he is a ſufficient witneſs.

A. D. 62.

9 I alſo verily thought in myſelf, that I ought to do many contrary things againſt the name of Jeſus of Nazareth.

*Ch. 8. 3.

10 * Which thing I alſo did in Jeruſalem: for many of the ſaints I ſhut up in priſon, having received authority of the high prieſts, and when they were put to death, I gave my [d] ſentence.

11 And I puniſhed them throughout all the ſynagogues, and [e] compelled them to blaſpheme, and being more mad againſt them, I perſecuted them, even unto ſtrange cities.

*Ch. 9. 2.

12 At which time, even as I went to * Damaſcus with authority and commiſſion from the high prieſts,

13 At mid-day, O king, I ſaw in the way a light from heaven, paſſing the brightneſs of the ſun, ſhine round about me, and them which went with me.

14 So when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice ſpeaking unto me, and ſaying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? It is hard for thee to kick againſt pricks.

15 Then I ſaid, Who art thou, Lord? And he ſaid, I am Jeſus, whom thou perſecuteſt.

16 But riſe, and ſtand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpoſe, to appoint thee a miniſter and a witneſs, both of the things which thou haſt ſeen, and of the things in the which I will appear unto thee,

17 Delivering thee from this people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I ſend thee:

18 [5] To open their eyes, that they may turn from darkneſs to light, and from the power of Satan unto God: that they may receive forgiveneſs of ſins, and inheritance among them which are ſanctified by faith in me.

19 [6] Wherefore, king Agrippa, I was not diſobedient unto the heavenly viſion,

*Ch. 9. 22. 26. and 13. 4.

20 * But ſhewed firſt unto them of Damaſcus, and at Jeruſalem, and throughout all the coaſts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they ſhould repent, and turn to God, and do works worthy amendment of life.

*Ch. 21. 30.

21 For this cauſe the Jews caught me in the * temple, and went about to kill me.

22 [7] Nevertheleſs, I obtained the help of God, and continue unto this day, witneſſing both to [f] ſmall and to great, ſaying none other things than thoſe which the prophets and Moſes did ſay ſhould come,

23 To wit, that Chriſt ſhould [g] ſuffer, and that he ſhould be the [h] firſt that ſhould riſe from the dead, and ſhould ſhew [i] light unto this people, and to the Gentiles.

24 [8] And as he thus anſwered for himſelf, Feſtus ſaid with a loud voice, Paul, thou art beſides thyſelf: much learning doth make thee mad.

A. D. 62.

25 But he ſaid, I am not mad, O noble Feſtus, but I ſpeak the words of truth and ſoberneſs.

26 For the king knoweth of theſe things, before whom alſo I ſpeak boldly: for I am perſuaded that none of theſe things are hidden from him, for this thing was not done in a [k] corner.

27 [9] O king Agrippa, believeſt thou the prophets? I know that thou believeſt.

28 Then Agrippa ſaid unto Paul, Almoſt thou perſuadeſt me to become a chriſtian.

29 Then Paul ſaid, [l] I would to God that not only thou, but alſo all that hear me to-day, were both almoſt, and altogether ſuch as I am, except theſe bonds.

30 [10] And when he had thus ſpoken, the king roſe up, and the governor, and Bernice, and they that ſat with them.

31 And when they were gone apart, they talked between themſelves, ſaying, This man doth nothing worthy of death, nor of bonds.

32 Then ſaid Agrippa unto Feſtus, This man might have been looſed, if he had not appealed unto Cæſar.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Paul 7, 9 foretelleth the peril of the voyage, 11 but he is not believed. 14 They are toſſed to and fro with the tempeſt, 22, 41 and ſuffer ſhipwreck: 34 yet all ſafe and ſound 44 eſcape to land.

NOW [1] when it was concluded, that we ſhould ſail into Italy, they delivered both Paul, and certain other priſoners, unto a centurion, named Julius, of the band of Auguſtus.

* 2 Cor. 11. 25.

2 And we * entered into a ſhip of Adramyttium, purpoſing to ſail by the coaſts of Aſia, and launched forth, and had Ariſtarchus of Macedonia, a Theſſalonian, with us.

3 And the next day we arrived at Sidon: and Julius courteouſly intreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends, that they might refreſh him.

4 And from thence we launched, and ſailed hard by Cyprus, becauſe the winds were contrary.

5 Then ſailed we over the ſea, by Cilicia, and Pamphylia, and came to Myra, a city in Lycia.

6 And there the centurion found a ſhip of Alexandria, ſailing into Italy, and put us therein.

---

[d] I conſented to, and allowed of their doing: for he was not a judge.

[e] By extreme puniſhment.

[5] The end of the goſpel is to ſave them which are brought to the knowledge of Chriſt, and are juſtified and ſanctified in him, being laid hold on by faith.

[6] Paul alledgeth God to be author of the office of his apoſtleſhip, and his grace as a witneſs.

[7] Chriſt is the end of the law and the prophets.

[f] To every one.

[g] That Chriſt ſhould not be ſuch a king as the Jews dreamed of, but one appointed to bear our miſeries, and the puniſhment of our ſins.

[h] The firſt of them which are raiſed from the dead.

[i] Life, yea and that a moſt bleſſed life, which ſhall be endleſs: and this is ſet againſt darkneſs, which almoſt in all tongues ſignifieth ſometimes death, and ſometimes miſery and calamity.

[8] The wiſdom of God is madneſs to fools; yet notwithſtanding we muſt boldly vouch the truth.

[k] Secretly and privily.

[9] Paul as it were forgetting himſelf that he ſtood a priſoner to defend his cauſe, forgetteth not the office of his apoſtleſhip.

[l] I would to God that not only almoſt, but thoroughly and altogether, both thou and all that hear me this day, might be made as I am, my bonds only except.

[10] Paul is ſolemnly quit, and yet not diſmiſſed.

[1] Paul with many other priſoners, and through the midſt of many deaths, is brought to Rome, but yet by God's own hand as it were, and ſet forth and commended unto the world with many ſingular teſtimonies.

A. D. 62.

7 And when we had ſailed ſlowly many days, and ſcarce were come againſt Cnidus, becauſe the wind ſuffered us not, we ſailed hard by Candie, near to [a] Salmone,

8 And with much ado ſailed beyond it, and came unto a certain place called the Fair Havens, near unto the which was the city Laſea.

9 [2] So when much time was ſpent, and ſailing was now jeopardous, becauſe alſo the [b] faſt was now paſſed, Paul exhorted them,

10 And ſaid unto them, Sirs, I ſee that this voyage will be with hurt and much damage, not of the lading and ſhip only, but alſo of our lives.

11 [3] Neverthelefs the centurion believed rather the governor and the maſter of the ſhip, than thoſe things which were ſpoken of Paul.

12 And becauſe the haven was not commodious to winter in, many took counſel to depart thence, if by any means they might attain to Phenice, there to winter, which is an haven of Candie, and lieth toward the ſouthweſt and by weſt, and northweſt and by weſt.

13 And when the ſouthern wind blew ſoftly, they ſuppoſing to attain their purpoſe, looſed nearer, and ſailed by Candie.

14 But anon after, there aroſe by [c] it a ſtormy wind called [d] Euroclydon.

15 And when the ſhip was caught, and could not reſiſt the wind, we let her go, and were carried away.

16 And we ran under a little iſle called Clauda, and had much ado to get the boat:

17 Which they took up, and uſed all help, undergirding the ſhip, fearing leſt they ſhould have fallen into ſyrtes, and they ſtruck ſail, and ſo were carried.

18 [4] The next day, when we were toſſed with an exceeding tempeſt, they lightened the ſhip.

19 And the third day we caſt out with our own hands the tackling of the ſhip.

20 And when neither ſun nor ſtars in many days appeared, and no ſmall tempeſt lay upon us, all hope that we ſhould be ſaved, was then taken away.

21 [5] But after long abſtinence, Paul ſtood forth in the midſt of them, and ſaid, Sirs, ye ſhould have hearkened to me, and not have looſed from Candie: ſo ſhould ye not have gained this hurt and loſs.

22 But now I exhort you to be of good courage: for there ſhall be no loſs of any man's life among you, ſave of the ſhip only.

23 For there ſtood by me this night the angel of God, whoſe I am, and whom I ſerve,

A. D. 63.

24 Saying, Fear not, Paul: for thou muſt be brought before Cæſar: and lo, God hath given unto thee freely all that ſail with thee.

25 [6] Wherefore, ſirs, be of good courage: for I believe God, that it ſhall be ſo as it hath been told me.

26 Howbeit, we muſt be caſt into a certain iſland.

27 [7] And when the fourteenth night was come, as we were carried to and fro in the [e] Adriatic ſea, about midnight, the ſhip-men deemed that ſome country [f] approached unto them,

28 And ſounded, and found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they ſounded again, and found fifteen fathoms.

29 Then fearing leſt they ſhould have fallen into ſome rough places, they caſt four anchors out of the ſtern, and wiſhed that the day were come.

30 [8] Now as the mariners were about to flee out of the ſhip, and had let down the boat into the ſea, under a colour as though they would have caſt anchors out of the foreſhip,

31 [9] Paul ſaid unto the centurion, and the ſoldiers, Except theſe abide in the ſhip, ye cannot be ſafe.

32 Then the ſoldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let it fall away.

33 [10] And when it began to be day, Paul exhorted them all to take meat, ſaying, This is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried, and continued faſting, receiving nothing:

34 Wherefore I exhort you to take meat: for this is for your ſafeguard: for there ſhall not an [g] hair fall from the head of any of you.

35 And when he had thus ſpoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in preſence of them all, and brake it, and began to eat.

36 Then were they all of good courage, and they alſo took meat.

37 Now we were in the ſhip in all two hundred threeſcore and ſixteen ſouls.

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ſhip, and caſt out the wheat into the ſea.

39 [11] And when it was day, they knew not the country, but they ſpied a certain [h] creek with a bank, into the which they were minded (if it were poſſible) to thruſt in the ſhip.

40 So

---

[a] Which was an high hill of Candie.

[2] God's providence taketh not away the cauſes which God uſed as means, but rather ordereth and diſpoſeth their right uſe, even then when he openeth an extraordinary iſſue.

[b] This is meant of the Jews faſt, which they kept in the feaſt of expiation, as we read, Lev. 23. 27. which fell in the ſeventh month, which we call October, and is not good for navigation or ſailing.

[3] Men caſt themſelves willingly into an infinite ſort of dangers, when they chuſe to follow their own wiſdom, rather than God, ſpeaking by the mouth of his ſervants.

[c] By Candie, from whoſe ſhore our ſhip was driven by that means.

[d] North-eaſt wind.

[4] The end proveth that none provide worſe for themſelves, than they which commit themſelves to be governed only by their own wiſdom.

[5] God ſpareth the wicked for a time, for his elect and choſen's ſake.

[6] The promiſe is made effectual through faith.

[7] We attain and come to the promiſed and ſure ſalvation through the midſt of tempeſts, and death itſelf.

[e] For Ptolomy writeth, that the Adriatic ſea beateth upon the eaſt-ſhore of Cicilia.

[f] That they drew near to ſome country.

[8] There is none ſo foul an act, whereunto diſtruſt and an evil conſcience do not enforce men.

[9] Although the performing of God's promiſes doth not ſimply depend upon ſecond cauſes, yet they make themſelves unworthy of God's bountifulneſs, which do not embrace thoſe means which God offereth them, either upon raſhneſs or diſtruſt.

[10] When the world trembleth, the faithful alone be not only quiet, but confirm others by their example.

[g] This is a proverb which the Hebrews uſe, whereby is meant, that they ſhall be ſafe, and not one of them periſh.

[11] Then are tempeſts moſt of all to be feared and looked for, when the port or haven is neareſt.

[h] A creek is a ſea within land, as the Adriatic ſea, and the Perſian ſea.

40 So when they had taken up the anchors, they committed the ſhip unto the ſea, and looſed the rudder bands, and hoiſed up the main ſail to the wind, and drew to the ſhore.

41 And when they fell into a place where [i] two ſeas met, they thruſt in the ſhip: and the forepart ſtuck faſt, and could not be moved, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves.

42 [12] Then the ſoldiers counſel was to kill the priſoners, leſt any of them, when he had ſwum out, ſhould flee away.

43 [13] But the centurion, willing to ſave Paul, ſtayed them from this counſel, and commanded that they that could ſwim, ſhould caſt themſelves firſt into the ſea, and go out to land.

44 [14] And the others, ſome on boards, and ſome on certain pieces of the ſhip: and ſo it came to paſs, that they came all ſafe to land.

CHAP. XXVIII.

2 The Barbarians courteſy towards Paul and his company. 3 A viper on Paul's hand: 6 he ſhaketh it off without harm. 8 Publius 9 and others are by him healed. 11 They depart from Melita, 16 and come to Rome. 17 Paul openeth to the Jews 20 the cauſe of his coming: 22 He preacheth Jeſus 30 two years.

AND when they were come ſafe, then they knew that the iſle was called [a] Melita.

2 And the barbarians ſhewed us no little kindneſs: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one, becauſe of the preſent ſhower, and becauſe of the cold.

3 [1] And when Paul had gathered a number of ſticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and leapt on his hand.

4 [2] Now when the barbarians ſaw the worm hang on his hand, they ſaid among themſelves, This man ſurely is a murderer, whom, though he hath eſcaped the ſea, yet [b] vengeance hath not ſuffered to live.

5 But he ſhook off the worm into the fire, and felt no harm.

6 Howbeit they waited when he ſhould have [c] ſwoln, or fallen down ſuddenly: [3] but after they had looked a great while, and ſaw no inconvenience come to him, they changed their minds, and ſaid, That he was a God.

7 [4] In the ſame quarters, the chief man of the iſle (whoſe name was Publius) had poſſeſſions: the ſame received us, and lodged us three days courteouſly.

A. D. 63.

8 And ſo it was, that the father of Publius lay ſick of the fever, and of a bloody flux: to whom Paul entered in, and when he prayed, he laid his hands on him, and healed him.

9 [5] When this then was done, others alſo in the iſle, which had diſeaſes, came to him, and were healed,

10 [6] Which alſo did us great honour: and when we departed, they laded us with things neceſſary.

11 ¶ [7] Now after three months we departed in a ſhip of Alexandria, which had wintered in the iſle, whoſe [d] badge was Caſtor and Pollux.

12 And when we arrived at Syracuſe, we tarried there three days.

13 And from thence we fetched a compaſs, and came to Rhegium, and after one day the ſouth wind blew, and we came the ſecond day to Puteoli:

14 [8] Where we found brethren, and were deſired to tarry with them ſeven days, and ſo we went toward Rome.

15 ¶ [9] And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us at the [e] market of Appius, and at the Three Taverns, whom, when Paul ſaw, he thanked God, and waxed bold.

16 So when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the priſoners to the general captain: but Paul was ſuffered to dwell by [f] himſelf with a ſoldier that kept him.

17 [10] And the third day after, Paul called the chief of the Jews together: and when they were come, he ſaid unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing againſt the people, or laws of the fathers, yet was I delivered priſoner from Jeruſalem into the hands of the Romans:

18 Who, when they had examined me, would have let me go, becauſe there was no cauſe of death in me.

19 [11] But when the Jews ſpake contrary, I was conſtrained to appeal unto Cæſar, not becauſe I had aught to accuſe my nation of.

20 For this cauſe therefore have I called for you, to ſee you, and to ſpeak with you: for that hope of Iſrael's ſake, I am bound with this chain.

21 Then they ſaid unto him, We neither received letters out of Judea concerning thee, neither came any of the brethren that ſhewed or ſpake any evil of thee.

---

[i] So is Iſthmus called, becauſe the ſea toucheth it on both ſides.

[12] There is no where more unfaithfulneſs and unthankfulneſs than in unbelievers.

[13] God findeth, even amongſt his enemies, them whoſe help he uſeth to preſerve his.

[14] The goodneſs of God overcometh man's malice.

[a] That is it, which at this day we call Malta.

[1] The godly are ſure to have danger upon danger, but they have always a glorious iſſue.

[2] Although adverſity be the puniſhment of ſin, yet ſeeing that God in puniſhing of men doth not always reſpect ſin, they judge raſhly, which either do not wait for the end, or do judge and eſteem of men, according to proſperity or adverſity.

[b] Right and reaſon.

[c] The Greek word ſignifieth, to be inflamed, or to ſwell; moreover, Dioſcorides in his ſixth book, ch. 38. witneſſeth that the biting of a viper cauſeth a ſwelling of the body, and ſo ſaith Nicander, in his remedies againſt poiſons.

[3] There is nothing more unconſtant every way, than they which are ignorant of true religion.

[4] It never yet repented any man, that received the ſervant of God, were he never ſo miſerable and poor.

[5] Although Paul were a captive, yet the virtue of God was not captive.

[6] God doth well to ſtrangers for his children's ſake.

[7] Idols do not defile the ſaints, which do in no wiſe conſent unto them.

[d] So they uſed to deck the fore part of their ſhips, whereupon their ſhips were called by ſuch names.

[8] God boweth and bendeth the hearts even of prophane men, as it pleaſeth him to favour his.

[9] God never ſuffereth his to be afflicted above their ſtrength.

[e] Appius's way was a pavement made by Appius the blind, with the help of his ſoldiers, long and broad, and runneth out toward the ſea, and there were three taverns in it.

[f] Not in a common priſon, but in a houſe which he hired for himſelf.

[10] Paul in every place remembereth himſelf to be an apoſtle.

[11] We may uſe the means which God giveth us, but ſo that we ſeek the glory of God, and not ourſelves.

A. D. 63.

22 But we will hear of thee what thou thinkeſt: for as concerning this ſect, we know that every where it is ſpoken againſt.

23 [12] And when they had appointed him a day, there came many unto him into his lodging, to whom he expounded, [g] teſtifying the kingdom of God, and perſuading them thoſe things that concern Jeſus, both out of the law of Moſes, and out of the prophets, from morning to night.

24 [13] And ſome were perſuaded with the things which were ſpoken, and ſome believed not.

25 Therefore when they agreed not among themſelves, they departed, after that Paul had ſpoken one word, to wit, Well ſpake the Holy Ghoſt by Eſaias the prophet unto our fathers,

26 [14] Saying, * Go unto this people, and ſay, By hearing ye ſhall hear, and ſhall not underſtand: and ſeeing, ye ſhall ſee, and not perceive:

* Iſa. 6. 9. Matt. 13. 14. Mark 4. 12. Luke 8. 10. John 12. 40. Rom. 11. 8.

27 For the heart of this people is waxed fat, and their ears are dull of hearing, and with their eyes have they [h] winked, leſt they ſhould ſee with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and underſtand with their hearts, and ſhould return that I might heal them.

28 [15] Be it known therefore unto you, that this ſalvation of God is ſent to the Gentiles, and they ſhall hear it.

29 [16] And when he had ſaid theſe things, the Jews departed, and had great reaſoning among themſelves.

30 [17] And Paul remained two years full in an houſe hired for himſelf, and received all that came in unto him,

31 Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching thoſe things which concern the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, with all boldneſs of ſpeech, without let.

---

[12] The law and the goſpel agree well together.

[g] By good reaſons; and proved, that the kingdom of God, foretold them by the prophets, was come.

[13] The goſpel is a ſavour of life to them that believe, and a ſavour of death to them that be diſobedient.

[14] The unbelievers do willingly reſiſt the truth, and yet not by chance.

[h] They made as though they ſaw not that which they ſaw againſt their wills: yea they did ſee, but they would not ſee.

[15] The unbelief of the reprobate and caſt-aways, cannot cauſe the truth of God to be of none effect.

[16] Not the goſpel, but the contempt of the goſpel, is the cauſe of ſtrife and debate.

[17] The word of God cannot be bound.

The Epiſtle of the Apoſtle PAUL to the ROMANS.

CHAP. I.

A. D. 60.

1 He firſt ſheweth on what authority his apoſtleſhip ſtandeth. 15 Then he commendeth the goſpel, 16 by which God ſetteth out his power to thoſe that are ſaved, 17 by faith, 21 but were guilty of wicked unthankfulneſs to God: 26 for which his wrath was worthily poured on them, 29 ſo that they ran headlong to all kind of ſins.

PAUL [1] a [2] [a] ſervant of JESUS CHRIST, called to be an [b] apoſtle, * [c] put apart to preach the goſpel of God,

* Acts 13. 1.

2 (Which he had promiſed afore by his prophets in the holy ſcriptures)

3 [3] Concerning his [d] Son Jeſus Chriſt our Lord (which was [e] made of the ſeed of David [f] according to the fleſh,

4 And [g] declared [h] mightily to be the Son of God, touching the Spirit of ſanctification by the reſurrection from the dead)

5 [i] By whom we have received [k] grace and apoſtleſhip (that [l] obedience might be given unto the faith) for his name [m] among all the Gentiles,

6 Among whom ye be alſo the [n] called of Jeſus Chriſt:

7 To all you that be at Rome beloved of God, called to be ſaints: [o] Grace be with you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

[1] The firſt part of the epiſtle, containing a moſt profitable preface, unto ver. 16.

[2] He moving the Romans to give diligent ear unto him, in that he ſheweth that he cometh not in his own name, but as God's meſſenger unto the Gentiles, entreateth with them of the weightieſt matter that is promiſed long ſince of God, by many fit witneſſes, and now at the length performed indeed.

[a] Miniſter, for this word Servant is not taken in this place as ſet againſt this word Freeman, but declareth his miniſtry and office.

[b] Whereas he ſaid before in a general term, that he was a miniſter, now he cometh to a more ſpecial name, and ſaith he is an apoſtle, and that he took not upon him this office of his own head, but being called of God, and therefore in this his writing to the Romans, doth nothing but his duty.

[c] Appointed of God to preach the goſpel.

[3] By declaring the ſum of the doctrine of the goſpel, he ſtirreth up the Romans to good conſideration of the matter whereof he entreateth: So then he ſheweth that Chriſt (who is the very ſubſtance and ſum of the goſpel) is the only Son of God the Father, who as touching his humanity, is made of the ſeed of David, but touching his divine and ſpiritual nature, whereby he ſanctified himſelf, is begotten of the Father from everlaſting, as by his mighty reſurrection manifeſtly appeareth.

[d] This is a plain teſtimony of the perſon of Chriſt, that he is but one, and of his two natures, and their properties.

[e] Which took fleſh of the virgin, David's daughter.

[f] As he is man: for this word, Fleſh, by the figure Synecdoche, is taken for man.

[g] Shewed and made manifeſt.

[h] The divine and mighty power is ſet againſt the weakneſs of the fleſh, for that overcame death.

[i] Of whom.

[k] This marvellous, liberal and gracious gift, which is given me, the leaſt of all the ſaints, to preach, &c. Eph. 3. 8.

[l] That men through faith might obey God.

[m] For his name's ſake.

[n] Which through God's goodneſs are Chriſt's.

[o] God's free good will. By peace, the Hebrews mean a proſperous ſucceſs in all things.

A. D. 60.

8 [4] Firſt I thank my God through Jeſus Chriſt for you all, becauſe your faith is [p] publiſhed throughout the [q] whole world.

9 For God is my witneſs (whom I ſerve in my [r] ſpirit in the [s] goſpel of his Son) that without ceaſing I make mention of you

10 Always in my prayers, beſeeching that by ſome means, one time or other, I might have a proſperous journey by the will of God, to come unto you.

11 For I long to ſee you, that I might beſtow among you ſome ſpiritual gift, that you might be ſtrengthened:

12 That is, that [t] I might be comforted together with you, through our mutual faith, both yours and mine.

13 Now my brethren, I would that ye ſhould not be ignorant, how that I have oftentimes purpoſed to come unto you (but have been let hitherto) that I might have ſome fruit alſo among you, as I have among the other Gentiles.

14 I am debtor both to the Grecians, and to the Barbarians, both to the wiſe men and to the unwiſe.

15 Therefore, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the goſpel to you alſo that are at [u] Rome.

16 For I am not aſhamed of the goſpel of Chriſt: [5] for it is the [x] power of God unto ſalvation, to every one that believeth, to the Jew firſt, and alſo to the [y] Grecian.

17 [6] For by it the righteouſneſs of God is revealed from [z] faith to faith: [7] as it is written, * The juſt ſhall live by faith.

* Hab. 2. 4.

18 [8] For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven againſt [a] all ungodlineſs and unrighteouſneſs of men, which with-hold the [b] truth in unrighteouſneſs.

19 [9] Foraſmuch as that, which may be known of God, is manifeſt in [c] them: for God hath ſhewed it unto them.

20 For the inviſible things of him, that is, his eternal power and Godhead, are ſeen by the creation of the world, being [d] conſidered in his works, to the intent that they ſhould be without excuſe:

21 Becauſe that when they knew God, they [e] glorified him not as God, neither were thankful, but became [f] vain in their thoughts, and their fooliſh heart was full of darkneſs.

22 When they [g] profeſſed themſelves to be wiſe, they became fools.

23 For they turned the glory of the [h] incorruptible God to the ſimilitude of the image of a corruptible man, and of birds, and four-footed beaſts, and of creeping things.

24 [10] Wherefore [i] alſo God [k] gave them up to their hearts luſts, unto uncleanneſs, to defile their own bodies between themſelves:

25 Which turned the truth of God unto a lye, and worſhipped and ſerved the creature, forſaking the Creator, which is bleſſed for ever, Amen.

26 For this cauſe God gave them up to vile affections: for even their women did change the natural uſe into that which is againſt nature.

27 And likewiſe alſo the men left the natural uſe of the woman, and burned in their luſt one toward another, and man with man wrought filthineſs, and received in themſelves ſuch [l] recompence of their error, as was meet.

28 [11] For as they regarded not to acknowledge God, even ſo God delivered them up unto a [m] reprobate mind, to do thoſe things which are not convenient:

29 Being full of all unrighteouſneſs, fornication, wickedneſs, covetouſneſs, maliciouſneſs, full of envy, of murder, of debate, of deceit, taking all things in the evil part, whiſperers,

30 Backbiters, haters of God, doers of wrong, proud, boaſters, inventors of evil things, diſobedient to parents, without underſtanding, [n] co-

---

[4] He procureth their favourable patience, in that he reckoneth up their true commendation, and his true apoſtolic good will toward them, confirmed by taking God himſelf to witneſs.

[p] Becauſe your faith is ſuch, that it is commended in all churches.

[q] In all churches.

[r] Very willingly, and with all my heart.

[s] In preaching his Son.

[t] Though Paul were never ſo excellent, yet by teaching the church, he might be inſtructed by it.

[u] He meaneth all them that dwell at Rome, though ſome of them were not Romans. Look the end of the epiſtle.

[5] The ſecond part of the epiſtle unto the beginning of the ninth chapter. Now the whole end and purpoſe of the diſputation is this: that is to ſay, to ſhew that there is but one way to attain unto ſalvation (which is ſet forth unto us of God in the goſpel, without any difference of nations) and that is Jeſus Chriſt apprehended by faith.

[x] God's mighty and effectual inſtrument to ſave men by.

[y] When this word Grecian is ſet againſt this word Jew, then doth it ſignify a Gentile.

[6] The confirmation of the former propoſition. We are taught in the goſpel, that we are juſtified before God by faith, which increaſeth daily; and therefore alſo ſaved.

[z] From faith which increaſeth daily.

[7] The proof as well of the firſt as of the ſecond propoſition, out of Habakkuk, who attributeth and giveth unto faith, both juſtice and life before God.

[8] Another confirmation of that principal queſtion. All men being conſidered within themſelves, or without Chriſt, are guilty both of ungodlineſs and alſo unrighteouſneſs, and therefore are ſubject to condemnation. Therefore muſt they needs ſeek righteouſneſs in ſome other.

[a] Againſt all kinds of ungodlineſs.

[b] By truth, Paul meaneth all the light that is left in man ſince his fall, not as though they being led thereby were able to come into favour with God, but that their own reaſon might condemn them of wickedneſs both againſt God and man.

[9] Their ungodlineſs he proveth hereby, that although all men have a moſt clear and evident glaſs wherein to behold the everlaſting and almighty nature of God, even in his creatures, yet have they fallen away from thoſe principles, to moſt fooliſh and fond devices of their own brains, in conſtituting and appointing the ſervice of God.

[c] In their hearts.

[d] Thou ſeeſt not God, and yet thou acknowledgeſt him as God by his works, Cic.

[e] They did not honour him with that honour and ſervice which was meet for his everlaſting power and Godhead.

[f] As if he ſaid, became ſo mad of themſelves.

[g] Or, thought themſelves.

[h] For the true God they took another.

[10] The unrighteouſneſs of men he ſetteth forth, firſt in this, that even againſt nature following their luſts, they defiled themſelves one with another, by the juſt judgment of God.

[i] The contempt of religion is the fountain of all miſchief.

[k] As a juſt judge.

[l] A meet reward for their deſerts.

[11] He proveth the unrighteouſneſs of man by a large rehearſal of many kinds of wickedneſs, from which (if not from all, yet at the leaſt from many of them) no man is altogether free.

[m] Into a mad and froward mind, whereby it cometh to paſs, that the conſcience being once put out, and having almoſt no more remorſe of ſin, men run headlong into all kind of miſchief.

[n] Unmindful of their covenants and bargains.

A. D. 60.

venant-breakers, without natural affection, ſuch as can never be appeaſed, mercileſs.

31 Which men, though they knew the [o] law of God, how that they which commit ſuch things are worthy of death, yet not only do the ſame, but alſo [p] favour them that do them.

CHAP. II.

1 He bringeth all before the judgment-ſeat of God. 12 The excuſe that the Gentiles might pretend, 14 of ignorance, he taketh quite away. 17 He urgeth the Jews with the written law, 23 in which they boaſted: 27 and ſo maketh both Jew and Gentile alike.

THerefore [1] thou art inexcuſable, O man, whoſoever thou art that condemneſt: for in that that thou condemneſt another, thou condemneſt thyſelf: for thou that condemneſt, doeſt the ſame things.

2 But we [a] know that the judgment of God is according to [b] truth, againſt them which commit ſuch things.

3 And thinkeſt thou this, O thou man, that condemneſt them which do ſuch things, and doeſt the ſame, that thou ſhalt eſcape the judgment of God?

4 [2] Or deſpiſeſt thou the riches of his bountifulneſs, and patience, and long ſufferance, not knowing that the bountifulneſs of God leadeth thee to repentance?

5 But thou, after thine hardneſs, and heart that cannot repent, * [c] heapeſt up as a treaſure unto thyſelf wrath againſt the day of wrath, and of the declaration of the juſt judgment of God,

* James 5.3.

6 [3] * Who will reward every man according to his works:

*Pſ. 62. 12. Matt. 16.27. Rev. 22. 12.

7 That is, to them, which through patience in well doing, ſeek [d] glory, and honour, and immortality, everlaſting life:

8 But unto them that are contentious and diſobey the [e] truth, and obey unrighteouſneſs, ſhall be [f] indignation and wrath.

A. D. 60.

9 Tribulation and anguiſh ſhall be upon the ſoul of every man that doeth evil: of the Jew firſt, and alſo of the Grecian.

10 But to every man that doeth good, ſhall be glory, and honour, and peace: to the Jew firſt, and alſo to the Grecian.

11 For there is no [g] reſpect of perſons with God.

12 [4] For as many as have ſinned without the law, ſhall periſh alſo without the law: and as many as have ſinned in the law, ſhall be judged by the law,

13 [5] (For the hearers of the law are not righteous before God: but the doers of the law ſhall ſhall be [h] juſtified.

14 [6] For when the Gentiles which have [i] not the law, do by [k] nature the things contained in the law, they having not the law, are a law unto themſelves:

15 Which ſhew the effect of the law [l] written in their hearts, their conſcience alſo bearing witneſs, and their thoughts accuſing one another, or excuſing,)

16 [7] At that day, when God ſhall judge the ſecrets of men by Jeſus Chriſt, according to [m] my goſpel.

17 ¶ [8] Behold thou art called a Jew, and reſteſt in the law, and glorieſt in God,

18 And knoweſt his will, and [n] ‡ trieſt the things that diſſent from it, in that thou art inſtructed by the law,

‡ Or, alloweſt the things that are excellent.

19 And perſuadeſt thyſelf that thou art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkneſs,

20 An inſtructor of them which lack diſcretion, a teacher of the unlearned, which haſt the [o] form of knowledge, and of the truth in the [p] law.

21 Thou therefore, which teacheſt another, teacheſt thou not thyſelf? thou that teacheſt, a man ſhould not ſteal, doſt thou ſteal?

22 Thou

---

[o] By the law of God he meaneth that which the philoſophers called the law of nature, and the lawyers themſelves termed the law of nations.

[p] Are fellows and partakers with them in their wickedneſs, and beſide that, commend them which do amiſs.

[1] He convinceth them which would ſeem to be exempt out of the number of other men, becauſe they reprehend other men's faults, and ſaith, that they are leaſt of all to be excuſed, for if they were well and narrowly ſearched (as God ſurely doth) they themſelves would be found guilty in thoſe things which they reprehend and puniſh in others. So that in condemning others, they pronounce ſentence againſt themſelves.

[a] Paul alledgeth no places of ſcripture, for he reaſoneth generally againſt all men. But he bringeth ſuch reaſons as every man is perſuaded of in his mind, ſo that the devil himſelf is not able to pluck them clean out.

[b] Conſidering and judging things aright, and not by any outward ſhew.

[2] A vehement and grievous crying out againſt them that pleaſe themſelves, becauſe they ſee more than others do, and yet are no whit better than others are.

[c] Whilſt thou giveſt thyſelf to pleaſures, thinking to increaſe thy goods, thou ſhalt find God's wrath.

[3] The ground of the former diſputation, That both the Jews and Gentiles have altogether need of righteouſneſs.

[d] Glory which followeth good works, which he layeth not out before us, as though there were any that could attain to ſalvation by his own ſtrength, but, by laying this condition of ſalvation before us, which no man can perform, to bring men to Chriſt, who alone juſtifieth the believers, as he himſelf concludeth, chap. 2. 21, 22. following.

[e] By truth, he meaneth that knowledge which we have of nature.

[f] God's indignation againſt ſinners, which ſhall quickly be kindled.

[g] God doth not meaſure men either by their blood or by their country, either to receive them, or to caſt them away.

[4] He applieth that general accuſation of mankind, particularly both to the Gentiles and to the Jews.

[5] He preventeth an objection which might be made by the Jews, whom the law doth not excuſe, but condemn, becauſe that not the hearing of the law, but the keeping of the law, doth juſtify.

[h] Shall be pronounced juſt before God's judgment-ſeat; which is true indeed if any ſuch could be found that had fulfilled the law. But ſeeing Abraham was not juſtified by the law, but by faith, it followeth that no man can be juſtified by works.

[6] He preventeth an objection which might be made by the Gentiles, who although they have not the law of Moſes, yet they have no reaſon whereby they may excuſe their wickedneſs, in that they have ſomewhat written in their hearts inſtead of a law, as men, that forbid and puniſh ſome things as wicked, and command and commend other ſome as good.

[i] Not ſimply, but in compariſon of the Jews.

[k] Commend honeſt things, and forbid diſhoneſt.

[7] God deferreth many judgments, which notwithſtanding he will execute at their convenient time by Jeſus Chriſt, with a moſt ſtrict examination, not only of words and deeds, but of thoughts alſo, be they never ſo hidden or ſecret.

[m] As this my doctrine witneſſeth, which I am appointed to preach.

[8] He proveth by the teſtimony of David, and the other prophets, that God beſtowed greateſt benefits upon the Jews in giving them alſo the law, but that they are the moſt unthankful and unkindeſt of all men.

[n] Canſt try and diſcern what things ſwerve from God's will.

[o] The way to teach and frame others in the knowledge of the truth.

[p] As though he ſaid, that the Jews under a colour of an outward ſerving of God, challenged all to themſelves, whenas indeed they did nothing leſs than obſerve the law.

22 Thou that ſayeſt, a man ſhould not commit adultery, doſt thou commit adultery ? thou that abhorreſt idols, committeſt thou ſacrilege ?

23 Thou that glorieſt in the law, through breaking the law, diſhonoureſt thou God ?

24 For the name of God is blaſphemed among the Gentiles through you, * as it is written. * Iſa. 52. 5. Ezek. 36. 20.

25 [9] For circumciſion verily is profitable, if thou do the law: but if thou be a tranſgreſſor of the law, thy circumciſion is made uncircumciſion.

26 Therefore, if the [q] uncircumciſion keep the ordinances of the law, ſhall not his [r] uncircumciſion be counted for circumciſion ?

27 And ſhall not [s] uncircumciſion which is by nature, (if it keep the law) condemn thee which by the [t] letter and circumciſion art a tranſgreſſor of the law ?

28 For he is not a Jew which is one [u] outward: neither is that circumciſion which is outward in the fleſh:

29 But he is a Jew which is one within, and the circumciſion is of the heart, in the [x] Spirit, not in the letter, whoſe praiſe is not of men, but of God.

CHAP. III.

1 He giveth the Jews ſome 2 preferment, for the covenant's ſake, 4 but yet ſuch as wholly dependeth on God's mercy. 9 That both Jews and Gentiles are ſinners, 11 he proveth by ſcripture: 19 and ſhewing the uſe of the law, 28 he concludeth that we are juſtified by faith.

WHAT [1] is then the preferment of the Jew? or what is the profit of circumciſion ?

2 Much every manner of way: for [a] chiefly, becauſe unto them were of credit committed the [b] oracles of God.

3 For what, though ſome did not [c] believe ? ſhall their unbelief make the [d] faith of God without effect ?

4 God forbid: yea, let God be true, and every man a lyar, as it is written, That thou mighteſt be [e] juſtified in thy words, and overcome [f] when thou art judged.

5 [2] Now if our [g] unrighteouſneſs commend the righteouſneſs of God, what ſhall we ſay ? Is God unrighteous which puniſheth ? (I ſpeak as [h] a man.)

6 God forbid: elſe how ſhall God judge the world ?

7 [3] For if the [i] verity of God hath more abounded through my lye unto his glory, why am I yet condemned as a ſinner ?

8 And (as we are blamed, and as ſome affirm, that we ſay) why do we not evil, that good may come thereof? whoſe damnation is juſt.

9 [4] What then ? are we more excellent ? No, in no wiſe: for we have already proved, that all, both Jews and Gentiles, are [k] under ſin,

10 As it is written, * There is none righteous, no not one. * Pſ. 14. 1, 3. and 53. 1, 3.

11 There is none that underſtandeth: there is none that ſeeketh God.

12 They have all gone out of the way: they have been made altogether unprofitable: there is none that doeth good, no not one.

13 * Their throat is an open ſepulchre: they have uſed their tongues to deceit: * the poiſon of aſps is under their lips. * Pſ. 5. 10. * Pſ. 143. 3.

14 * Whoſe mouth is full of curſing and bitterneſs. * Pſ. 10. 7.

15 * Their feet are ſwift to ſhed blood. * Iſa. 55. 7.

16 Deſtruction and calamity are in their ways:

17 And the [l] way of peace they have not known.

18 * The fear of God is not before their eyes. * Pſ. 36. 1.

19 [5] Now we know that whatſoever the [m] law ſaith, it ſaith it [6] to them which are under the law, that every mouth may be ſtopped, and all the world be [n] ſubject to the judgment of God.

20 Therefore

---

[9] He preciſely preventeth their objection, which ſet an holineſs in circumciſion, and the outward obſervation of the law. So that he ſheweth that the outward circumciſion, if it be ſeparated from the inward, doth not only not juſtify, but alſo condemn them that are indeed circumciſed, of whom it requireth that which it ſignifieth, that is to ſay, cleanneſs of the heart, and the whole life, according to the commandment of the law, ſo that if there be a man uncircumciſed according to the fleſh, who is circumciſed in heart, he is far better and more to be accounted of, than any Jew that is circumciſed according to the fleſh only.

[q] This is the figure Metonymy, for, If the uncircumciſed.

[r] The ſtate and condition of the uncircumciſed.

[s] He which is uncircumciſed by nature and blood.

[t] Paul uſeth oftentimes to ſet the letter againſt the ſpirit. But in this place, the circumciſion which is according to the letter, is the cutting off of the foreſkin; but the circumciſion of the Spirit is the circumciſion of the heart, that is to ſay, the ſpiritual end of the ceremony is true holineſs and righteouſneſs, whereby the people of God are known from prophane and heatheniſh men.

[u] By the outward ceremony only.

[x] Whoſe force is inward, and in the heart.

[1] The firſt meeting with, or preventing an objection of the Jews. What then have the Jews no more preferment than the Gentiles ? yes, that have they, ſaith the apoſtle on God's behalf, for he committed the tables of the covenant to them, ſo that the unbelief of a few cannot cauſe the whole nation without exception to be caſt away of God, who is true, and who alſo uſeth their unworthineſs to commend and ſet forth his goodneſs.

[a] The Jews ſtate and condition was chiefeſt.

[b] Words.

[c] Brake the covenant.

[d] The faith that God gave.

[e] That thy juſtice might be plainly ſeen.

[f] Foraſmuch as thou ſhewedſt forth an evident token of thy righteouſneſs, conſtancy and faith, by preſerving him who had broken his covenant.

[2] Another prevention iſſuing out of the former anſwer: that the juſtice of God is in ſuch ſort commended and ſet forth by our unrighteouſneſs, that therefore God forgetteth not that he is the judge of the world, and therefore a moſt ſevere revenger of unrighteouſneſs.

[g] Treachery, and all the fruits thereof.

[h] Therefore I ſpeak not theſe words in mine own perſon, as though I thought ſo, but this is the talk of man's wiſdom, which is not ſubject to the will of God.

[3] A third objection, which addeth ſomewhat to the former, If ſins do turn to the glory of God, they are not only not to be puniſhed, but we ought rather to give ourſelves to them: which blaſphemy Paul contenting himſelf to curſe and deteſt, pronounceth juſt puniſhment againſt ſuch blaſphemers.

[i] The truth and conſtancy.

[4] Another anſwer to the firſt objection, that the Jews, if they be conſidered in themſelves, are no better than other men are; as it hath been long ſince pronounced by the mouth of the prophets.

[k] Are guilty of ſin.

[l] An innocent and peaceable life.

[5] He proveth that this grievous accuſation which is uttered by David and Iſaiah, doth properly concern the Jews.

[m] The law of Moſes.

[6] A concluſion of all the former diſputation, from the eighteenth verſe of the firſt chapter. Therefore ſaith the apoſtle, No man can hope to be juſtified by any law, whether it be that general law, or the particular law of Moſes, and therefore to be ſaved, ſeeing it appeareth (as we have already proved) by comparing the law and man's life together, that all men are ſinners, and therefore worthy of condemnation in the ſight of God.

[n] Be found guilty before God.

A. D. 60.

20 Therefore by the [o] works of the law ſhall no [p] fleſh be [q] juſtified in his [r] ſight: for by the law cometh the knowledge of ſin.

21 [7] But now is the righteouſneſs of God made manifeſt without the law, having witneſs of the law and of the prophets,

22 [8] To wit, the righteouſneſs of God by the faith of [s] Jeſus Chriſt unto all, and upon all that believe.

23 For there is no difference: for all have ſinned, and are deprived of the [t] glory of God.

24 [9] And are juſtified [u] freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus,

25 [10] Whom God hath ſet forth to be a reconciliation through faith in his [x] blood, to declare his righteouſneſs, by the forgiveneſs of the ſins that [y] are paſſed,

26 Through the [z] patience of God, to ſhew at [a] this time his righteouſneſs, that he might be [b] juſt, and a [c] juſtifier of him which is of the [d] faith of Jeſus.

27 [11] Where is then the rejoicing? It is excluded. By what [e] law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

28 Therefore we conclude, that a man is juſtified by faith, without the works of the law.

29 [12] God, is he the God of the [f] Jews only, and not of the Gentiles alſo? Yes, even of the Gentiles alſo.

30 For it is one God, who ſhall juſtify [g] circumciſion of faith, and uncircumciſion through faith.

31 [13] Do we then make the law of [h] none effect through faith? God forbid: yea, we [i] eſtabliſh the law.

A. D. 60.

CHAP. IV.

1 He proveth that which he ſaid before of faith, by the example of Abraham, 3, 6 and the teſtimony of the ſcripture: and ten times in this chapter he beateth upon this word imputation.

WHAT [1] ſhall we ſay then, that Abraham our father had found concerning the [a] fleſh?

2 [2] For if Abraham were juſtified by works, he hath wherein to rejoice, but not with God.

3 [3] For what ſaith the ſcripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him for righteouſneſs.

4 [4] Now to him that [b] worketh, the wages is not [c] counted by favour, but by debt.

5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth in him that [d] juſtifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteouſneſs.

6 [5] Even as David declareth the bleſſedneſs of the man unto whom God imputeth righteouſneſs without works, ſaying,

7 Bleſſed are they, whoſe iniquities are forgiven, and whoſe ſins are covered.

8 Bleſſed is the man, to whom the Lord imputeth not ſin.

---

[o] By that, that the law can by us be performed.

[p] Fleſh is here taken for man, as in many other places, and furthermore hath here greater force: for it is put to ſhew the contrariety betwixt God and man. As if you would ſay, Man who is nothing elſe but a piece of fleſh, defiled with ſin, and God who is moſt pure and moſt perfect in himſelf.

[q] Abſolved before the judgment-ſeat of God.

[r] A ſecret ſetting of the righteouſneſs which is before men, be they never ſo juſt, againſt the juſtice which can ſtand before God. Now there is no righteouſneſs can ſtand before God, but the righteouſneſs of Chriſt only.

[7] Therefore ſaith the apoſtle, Leſt that men ſhould periſh, God doth now exhibit that which he promiſed of old, that is to ſay, a way whereby we may be juſtified and ſaved before him without the law.

[8] The matter, as it were, of this righteouſneſs is Chriſt Jeſus, apprehended by faith, and for this end offered to all people, as without him all people are ſhut out from the kingdom of God.

[s] Which we give to Jeſus Chriſt, or which reſteth upon him.

[t] By the glory of God, is meant that mark which we all ſhoot at, that is, everlaſting life, which ſtandeth in that we are made partakers of the glory of God.

[9] Therefore this righteouſneſs touching us, is altogether freely given, for it ſtandeth upon thoſe things which we have not done ourſelves, but ſuch as Chriſt hath ſuffered for our ſakes, to deliver us from ſin.

[u] Of his free gift, and mere liberality.

[10] God then is the author of that free juſtification, becauſe it pleaſed him: and Chriſt is he, which ſuffered puniſhment for our ſins, and in whom we have remiſſion of them: and the mean whereby we apprehend Chriſt, is faith. To be ſhort, the end is the ſetting forth of the goodneſs of God, that by this means it may appear, that he is merciful indeed, and conſtant in his promiſes, as he that freely, and of mere grace, juſtifieth the believers.

[x] This name of blood, calleth us back to the figure of the old ſacrifices, the truth and ſubſtance of which ſacrifice is in Chriſt.

[y] Of thoſe ſins which we committed, when we were his enemies.

[z] Through his patience and ſuffering nature.

[a] To wit, when Paul wrote this.

[b] That he might be found exceeding true and faithful.

[c] Making him juſt and without blame, by imputing Chriſt's righteouſneſs unto him.

[d] Of the number of them which by faith lay hold upon Chriſt: contrary to whom are they, which look to be ſaved by circumciſion, that is, by the law.

[11] An argument to prove this concluſion, that we are juſtified by faith, without works, taken from the end of juſtification. The end of juſtification is the glory of God alone: therefore we are juſtified by faith without works: for if we were alone juſtified, either by our own works only, or partly by faith, and partly by works, the glory of this juſtification ſhould not be wholly given to God.

[e] By what doctrine? now the doctrine of works hath this condition joined with it, If thou doeſt: and the doctrine of faith, hath this condition, If thou believeſt.

[12] Another argument of an abſurdity; if juſtification depended upon the law of Moſes, then ſhould God be a Saviour to the Jews only. Again, if he ſhould ſave the Jews after one ſort, and the Gentiles after another, he ſhould not be one, and like himſelf. Therefore he will juſtify both of them, after one ſelf-ſame manner, that is to ſay, by faith. Moreover, this argument muſt be joined to that which followeth next, that this concluſion may be firm and evident.

[f] God is ſaid to be their God, after the manner of the ſcripture, whom he loveth and tendereth.

[g] The circumciſed.

[13] The taking away of an objection: yet is not the law taken away therefore, but is rather eſtabliſhed, as it ſhall be declared in his proper place.

[h] Vain, void, to no purpoſe, and of no force.

[i] We make it effectual and ſtrong.

[1] A new argument of great weight, taken from the example of Abraham, the father of all believers. And this is the propoſition, If Abraham be conſidered in himſelf by his works, he hath deſerved nothing wherein to rejoice with God.

[a] By works, as appeareth in the next verſe.

[2] A preventing of an objection. Abraham may well rejoice, and extol himſelf amongſt men, but not with God.

[3] A confirmation of the propoſition. Abraham was juſtified by imputation of faith; therefore freely without any reſpect of his works.

[4] The firſt proof of the confirmation, taken of contraries. To him that deſerveth any thing by his labour, the wages is not counted by favour, but by debt. But to him that hath done nothing, but believeth in him which promiſeth freely, faith is imputed.

[b] To him that hath deſerved any thing by his work.

[c] Is not reckoned nor given him.

[d] That maketh him, which is wicked in himſelf, juſt in Chriſt.

[5] Another proof of the ſame confirmation. David putteth bleſſedneſs in free pardon of ſins; therefore juſtification alſo.

A. D. 60.

9 [6] Came this [e] bleſſedneſs then upon the circumciſion only, or upon the uncircumciſion alſo? For we ſay, that faith was imputed unto Abraham for righteouſneſs.

10 [7] How was it then imputed? when he was circumciſed, or uncircumciſed? Not when he was circumciſed, but when he was uncircumciſed:

11 [8] After he received the [f] ſign of circumciſion, as the [g] ſeal of the righteouſneſs of the faith which he had when he was uncircumciſed, [9] that he ſhould be the father of all them that believe, not being circumciſed, that righteouſneſs might be imputed to them alſo:

12 [10] And the father of circumciſion, not unto them only which are of the circumciſion, but unto them alſo that walk in the ſteps of the faith of our father Abraham, which he had when he was uncircumciſed.

13 [11] For the promiſe that he ſhould be the [h] heir of the world, was not given to Abraham, or to his ſeed, through the [i] law, but through the righteouſneſs of faith.

14 [12] For if they which are of the [k] law, be heirs, faith is made void, and the promiſe is made of none effect.

15 [13] For the law cauſeth wrath: for where no law is, there is no tranſgreſſion.

16 [14] Therefore it is by faith, that it might come by grace, and the promiſe might be ſure to all the [l] ſeed, [15] not to that only which is of the law: but alſo to that which is of the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all,

17 (As it is written, I have made thee a [16] father of many nations) even before [m] God, whom he believed, who [n] quickeneth the dead, and [o] calleth thoſe things which be not, as though they were:

A. D. 60.

18 [17] Which Abraham, above hope, believed under hope, that he ſhould be the father of many nations: according to that which was ſpoken to him, So ſhall thy ſeed be.

19 And he, [p] not weak in the faith, conſidered not his own body, which was now [q] dead, being almoſt an hundred years old, neither the deadneſs of Sarah's womb:

20 Neither did he doubt of the promiſe of God through unbelief, but was ſtrengthened in the faith, and gave [r] glory to God:

21 Being [s] fully aſſured, that he which had promiſed, was alſo able to do it.

22 And therefore it was imputed to him for righteouſneſs.

23 [18] Now it is not written for him only, that it was imputed to him for righteouſneſs,

24 But alſo for us, to whom it ſhall be imputed for righteouſneſs, which believe in him that raiſed up Jeſus our Lord from the dead,

25 Who was delivered to death for our [t] ſins, and is riſen again for our juſtification.

CHAP. V.

1 He amplifieth 2 Chriſt's righteouſneſs, which is laid hold on by faith, 5 who was given for the weak, 8 and ſinful. 14 He compareth Chriſt with Adam, 17 death with life, 20 and the law with grace.

THEN being [1] juſtified by faith, we have peace toward God through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Tt 2 By

---

[6] A new propoſition. That this manner of juſtification belongeth both to the uncircumciſed, and alſo to the circumciſed; as is declared in the perſon of Abraham.

[e] This ſaying of David, wherein he pronounceth them bleſſed.

[7] He proveth that it belongeth to the uncircumciſed (for there was no doubt of the circumciſed) in this ſort: Abraham was juſtified in circumciſion, therefore this juſtification belongeth alſo to the uncircumciſed. Nay it doth not appertain to the circumciſed in reſpect of their circumciſion, much leſs are the uncircumciſed ſhut out for their uncircumciſion.

[8] A preventing of an objection. Why then was Abraham circumciſed, if he were already juſtified? That the gift of righteouſneſs (ſaith he) might be confirmed in him.

[f] Circumciſion, which is a ſign; as we ſay, the ſacrament of baptiſm, for baptiſm which is a ſacrament.

[g] Circumciſion was called before, a ſign, in reſpect of the outward ceremony: now Paul ſheweth the force and ſubſtance of that ſign, that is, to what end it is uſed, to wit, not only to ſignify, but alſo to ſeal up the righteouſneſs of faith, whereby we come to poſſeſs Chriſt himſelf; for the Holy Ghoſt worketh that inwardly indeed, which the ſacraments, being joined with the word, do repreſent.

[9] An applying of the example of Abraham to the uncircumciſed believers, whoſe father alſo he maketh Abraham.

[10] An applying of the ſame example to the circumciſed believers, whoſe father Abraham is, but yet by faith.

[11] A reaſon why the ſeed of Abraham is to be eſteemed by faith, becauſe that Abraham himſelf through faith was made partaker of that promiſe, whereby he was made the father of all nations.

[h] That all the nations of the world ſhould be his children; or by the world, may be underſtood the land of Canaan.

[i] For works that he had done, or upon this condition that he ſhould fulfil the law.

[12] A double confirmation of that reaſon: the one is, that the promiſe cannot be apprehended by the law, and therefore it ſhould be fruſtrate: the other, that the condition of faith ſhould be joined in vain to that promiſe which ſhould be apprehended by works.

[k] If they be heirs which have fulfilled the law.

[13] A reaſon of the firſt confirmation, why the promiſe cannot be apprehended by the law: becauſe that the law doth not reconcile God and us, but rather denounceth his anger againſt us, for ſo much as no man can obſerve it.

[14] The concluſion of this argument: The ſalvation and juſtification of the poſterity of Abraham (that is, of the church which is gathered together of all people) proceedeth of faith, which layeth hold on the promiſe made unto Abraham, and which promiſe Abraham himſelf firſt of all laid hold on.

[15] That is to ſay, not only of them which believe and are alſo circumciſed according to the law, but, of them alſo which without circumciſion, and in reſpect of faith only, are counted amongſt the children of Abraham.

[16] This fatherhood is ſpiritual, depending only upon the virtue of God, who made the promiſe.

[m] Before God, that is, by a ſpiritual kindred which hath place before God, and maketh us acceptable to God.

[n] Who reſtoreth to life.

[o] With whom thoſe things are already, which as yet are not indeed, as he that can with a word make what he will of nothing.

[17] A deſcription of true faith, wholly reſting in the power of God, and his good will, ſet forth in the example of Abraham.

[p] Very ſtrong and conſtant.

[q] Void of ſtrength, and unmeet to get children.

[r] Acknowledged and praiſed God, as moſt gracious and true.

[s] A deſcription of true faith.

[18] The rule of juſtification is always one, both in Abraham, and in all the faithful: that is to ſay, faith in God, who after that there was made a full ſatisfaction for our ſins in Chriſt our mediator, raiſed him from the dead, that we alſo being juſtified, might be ſaved in him.

[t] To pay the ranſom for our ſins.

[1] Another argument taken of the effects: we are juſtified with that which truly appeaſeth our conſcience before God: but faith in Chriſt doth appeaſe our conſcience and not the law, as it was before ſaid, therefore by faith we are juſtified, and not by the law.

A. D. 60.

* Epheſ. 2. 18.

2 *[2] By whom alſo through faith, we have [a] had this acceſs into this grace, [b] wherein we [c] ſtand, [3] and [d] rejoice under the hope of the glory of God.

* James 1. 2.

3 [4] Neither that only, but alſo we * rejoice in tribulations, [5] knowing that tribulation bringeth forth patience:

4 And patience experience, and experience hope:

5 [6] And hope maketh not aſhamed, becauſe the [e] love of God is ſhed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghoſt, which is given unto us.

* Heb. 9. 15. 1 Pet. 3. 18.

6 [7] For Chriſt, when we were yet of no ſtrength, at his [f] time died for the * ungodly.

7 [8] Doubtleſs one will ſcarce die [g] for a righteous man: but yet for a good man it may be that one dare die.

8 But God [h] ſetteth out his love toward us, ſeeing that while we were yet [i] ſinners, Chriſt died for us.

9 Much more then, being now juſtified by his blood, we ſhall be ſaved from [k] wrath through him.

10 For if when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled, we ſhall be ſaved by his life.

11 [9] And not only ſo, but we alſo rejoice in God through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom we have now received the atonement.

12 [10] Wherefore as by [l] one man [m] ſin entered into the world, and death by ſin, and ſo death went over all men, [n] in whom all men have ſinned.

13 [11] For unto the time [o] of the law was ſin in the world, but ſin is not [p] imputed, while there is no law.

14 [12] But death reigned from Adam to Moſes, even [q] over them alſo that ſinned not after the like [r] manner of the tranſgreſſion of Adam, [13] which was that figure of him that was to come.

15 [14] But yet the gift is not ſo as is the offence: for if through the offence of [s] that one, many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man Jeſus Chriſt, hath abounded unto many.

16 [15] Neither is the gift ſo, as that which entered in by one that ſinned: for the fault came of one offence unto condemnation: but the gift is of many offences to [t] juſtification.

17 [16] For if by the offence of one, death reigned through one, much more ſhall they which receive that abundance of grace, and of that gift of that righteouſneſs, [u] reign in life through one, that is, Jeſus Chriſt.

[2] Whereas quietneſs of conſcience is attributed to faith, it is to be referred to Chriſt, who is the giver of faith itſelf, and in whom faith itſelf is effectual.

[a] We muſt here know, that we have yet ſtill the ſame effect of faith.

[b] By which grace, that is, by which gracious love and good will, or that ſtate whereinto we are graciouſly taken.

[c] We ſtand ſtedfaſt.

[3] A preventing of an objection againſt them, which beholding the daily miſeries and calamities of the church, think that the chriſtians dream, when they brag of their felicity: to whom the apoſtle anſwereth, that their felicity is laid up under hope in another place: which hope is ſo certain and ſure, that they do no leſs rejoice for that happineſs than if they did preſently enjoy it.

[d] Our minds are not only quiet and ſettled, but alſo we are marvellouſly glad, and conceive great joy for that heavenly inheritance which waiteth for us.

[4] Tribulation itſelf giveth us, divers and ſundry ways, occaſion to rejoice, much leſs doth it make us miſerable.

[5] Afflictions accuſtom us to patience, and patience aſſureth us of the goodneſs of God, and this experience confirmeth and foſtereth our hope, which never deceiveth us.

[6] The ground of hope is an aſſured teſtimony of the conſcience, by the gift of the Holy Ghoſt, that we are beloved of God, and this is nothing elſe but that which we call faith, whereof it followeth, that through faith our conſciences are quieted.

[e] Wherewith he loveth us.

[7] A ſure comfort in adverſity, that our peace and quietneſs of conſcience be not troubled: for he that ſo loved them that were of no ſtrength, and while they were yet ſinners, that he died for them, how can he neglect them being now ſanctified and living in him?

[f] In time fit and convenient which the Father had appointed.

[8] An amplifying of the love of God toward us, ſo that we cannot doubt of it, who delivered Chriſt to death for the unjuſt, and for them of whom he could receive no commodity, and (that more is) for his very enemies. How can it be then that Chriſt being now alive, ſhould not ſave them from deſtruction, whom by his death he juſtifieth and reconcileth?

[g] In the ſtead of ſome juſt man.

[h] He ſetteth out his love unto us, that in the midſt of our afflictions we may know aſſuredly he will be preſent with us.

[i] While ſin reigned in us.

[k] From affliction and deſtruction.

[9] He now paſſeth over to the other part of juſtification, which conſiſteth in the free imputation of the obedience of Chriſt, ſo that to the remiſſion of ſins, there is added more over and beſides, the gift of Chriſt's righteouſneſs imputed, or put upon us by faith, which ſwalloweth up that unrighteouſneſs which flowed from Adam into us, and all the fruits thereof: ſo that in Chriſt we do not only ceaſe to be unjuſt, but we begin alſo to be juſt.

[10] From Adam in whom all have ſinned, both guiltineſs and death (which is the puniſhment of the guiltineſs) came upon all.

[l] By Adam, who is compared with Chriſt, like to him in this, that both of them make thoſe which are theirs, partakers of that they have: but they are unlike in this, that Adam deriveth ſin into them that are his, even of nature, and that to death: but Chriſt maketh them that are his, partakers of his righteouſneſs by grace, and that unto life.

[m] By ſin, is meant that diſeaſe which is ours by inheritance, and men commonly call it original ſin: for ſo he uſeth to call that ſin in the ſingular number, whereas if he ſpake of the fruits of it, he uſeth the plural number, calling them ſins.

[n] That is, in Adam.

[11] That this is ſo, that both guiltineſs and death began not after the giving and tranſgreſſing of Moſes's law, it appeareth manifeſtly by that, that men died before that law was given: for in that they died, ſin which is the cauſe of death, was then; and in ſuch ſort, that it was alſo imputed: whereupon it followeth that there was then ſome law, the breach whereof was the cauſe of death.

[o] Even from Adam to Moſes.

[p] Where there is no law made, no man is puniſhed as faulty and guilty.

[12] But that this law was not that univerſal law, and that that death did not proceed from any actual ſin of every one particularly, it appeareth hereby, that the very infants, which neither could ever know or tranſgreſs that natural law, are notwithſtanding dead as well as Adam.

[q] Our infants.

[r] Nor after that ſort as they ſin that are of more years, following their luſts: but yet the whole poſterity was corrupted in Adam, whenas he wittingly and willingly ſinned.

[13] Now that firſt Adam anſwereth the latter, who is Chriſt, as it is afterward declared.

[14] Adam and Chriſt are compared together in this reſpect, that both of them do give and yield to theirs, that which is their own: but herein firſt they differ, that Adam by nature hath ſpread his fault to the deſtruction of many, but Chriſt's obedience hath by grace overflowed many.

[s] That is, Adam.

[15] Another inequality conſiſteth in this, that by Adam's one offence men are made guilty; but the righteouſneſs of Chriſt imputed to us freely, doth not only abſolve us from that one fault, but from all other.

[t] To the ſentence of abſolution, whereby we are quit and pronounced righteous.

[16] The third difference is, that the righteouſneſs of Chriſt being imputed unto us by grace, is of greater power to bring life, than the offence of Adam is to addict his poſterity to death.

[u] Be partakers of true and everlaſting life.

A. D. 60.

18 [17] Likewiſe then, as by the offence of one the fault came on all men to condemnation, ſo by the juſtifying of one, the benefit abounded toward all men to the [x] juſtification of life.

19 [18] For as by one man's [y] diſobedience [z] many were made ſinners, ſo by that obedience of that one ſhall many alſo be made righteous.

20 [19] Moreover, the law [a] entered thereupon, that the offence ſhould abound: nevertheleſs, where ſin abounded, there grace [b] abounded much more:

21 That as ſin had reigned unto death, ſo might grace alſo reign by righteouſneſs unto eternal life through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

CHAP. VI.

1 He cometh to ſanctification, without which, that no man putteth on Chriſt's righteouſneſs, he prov-eth, 4 by argument taken of baptiſm, 12 and thereupon exhorteth to holineſs of life, 16
briefly making mention of the law tranſgreſſed.

WHAT [1] ſhall we ſay then? ſhall we continue ſtill in [a] ſin, that grace may abound? God forbid.

2 [2] How ſhall we that are [b] dead to ſin, live yet therein?

* Gal. 3. 27. 3 [3] Know ye not, that * all we which have been baptized into [c] Jeſus Chriſt, have been baptized into his death?

* Col. 2. 12. 4 * We are buried then with him by baptiſm into his death, that like as Chriſt was raiſed up from the dead [d] to the glory of the Father, ſo [e] we alſo ſhould * walk in newneſs of life.

5 [4] * For if we be planted with him to the [f] ſimilitude of his death, even ſo ſhall we [g] be to the ſimilitude of his reſurrection.

6 Knowing this, that our [h] old man is crucified with [i] him, that the [k] body of ſin might be deſtroyed, that henceforth we ſhould not [l] ſerve ſin.

7 [5] For he that is dead, is freed from ſin.

8 Wherefore, if we be dead with Chriſt, we believe that we ſhall live alſo with him.

9 Knowing that Chriſt being raiſed from the dead, dieth no more: death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died [m] once to ſin: but in that he liveth, he liveth to [n] God.

11 Likewiſe think ye alſo, that ye are dead to ſin, but are alive to God in Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

12 [6] Let not [o] ſin reign therefore in your mortal body, that you ſhould obey it in the luſts thereof:

13 Neither [p] give ye your [q] members as [r] weapons of unrighteouſneſs unto ſin: but give yourſelves unto God, as they that are alive from the dead, and give your members as weapons of righteouſneſs unto God.

14 [7] For ſin ſhall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

15 What

---

[17] Therefore to be ſhort, as by one man's offence, the guiltineſs came on all men, to make them ſubject to death: ſo on the contrary ſide, the righteouſneſs of Chriſt, which by God's mercy is imputed to all believers, juſtified them, that they may become partakers of everlaſting life.

[x] Not only becauſe our ſins are forgiven us, but alſo becauſe the righteouſneſs of Chriſt is imputed unto us.

[18] The ground of this whole compariſon is this, that theſe two men are ſet as two ſtocks, or roots, ſo that out of the one, ſin by nature; out of the other, righteouſneſs by grace; doth ſpring forth upon others.

[y] So then, ſin entered not into us only by following the ſteps of our forefather, but we take corruption of him by inheritance.

[z] This word, Many, is ſet againſt this word, a Few.

[19] A preventing of an objection: why then did the law of Moſes enter thereupon? that men might be ſo much the more guilty, and the benefit of God in Chriſt Jeſus be ſo much the more glorious.

[a] Beſides that diſeaſe which all men were infected withal, by being defiled with one man's ſin, the law entered.

[b] Grace was poured ſo plentiful from heaven, that it did not only countervail ſin, but above meaſure paſſed it.

[1] He paſſeth now to another benefit of Chriſt, which is called ſanctification or regeneration.

[a] In that corruption, for though the guiltineſs of ſin be not imputed to us, yet the corruption remaineth ſtill in us: the which ſanctification, that followeth juſtification, killeth by little and little.

[2] The benefit of juſtification, and ſanctification, are always joined together inſeparably, and both of them proceed from Chriſt by the grace of God: Now ſanctification is the aboliſhing of ſin, that is, of our natural corruption, into whoſe place ſucceedeth the cleanneſs and pureneſs of nature reformed.

[b] They are ſaid of Paul to be dead to ſin, which are in ſuch ſort made partakers of the virtue of Chriſt, that that natural corruption is dead in them, that is, the force of it is put out, and it bringeth not forth his bitter fruits: And on the other ſide they are ſaid to live to ſin which are in the fleſh, that is, whom the Spirit of God hath not delivered from the ſlavery of the corruption of nature.

[3] There are three parts of this ſanctification: to wit, the death of the old man, or ſin, his burial, and the reſurrection of the new man, deſcending into us from the virtue of the death, burial, and reſurrection of Chriſt, of which benefit our baptiſm is the ſign and pledge.

[c] To the end that growing up in one with him, we ſhould receive his ſtrength, to quench ſin in us, and to make us new men.

[d] That Chriſt himſelf being diſcharged of his infirmity and weakneſs, might live in glory with God for ever.

[e] And we which are his members riſe for this end, that being made partakers of the ſelf-ſame virtue, we ſhould begin to lead a new life, as though we were already in heaven.

[4] The death of ſin, and the life of righteouſneſs, or our ingrafting into Chriſt, and growing up into one with him, cannot be ſeparated by any means, neither in death nor life: whereby it followeth, that no man is ſanctified which liveth ſtill to ſin, and therefore is no man made partaker of Chriſt by faith, which repenteth not, and turneth not from his wickedneſs: for, as he ſaid before, the law is not ſubverted, but eſtabliſhed by faith.

[f] Inſomuch, as by means of the ſtrength which cometh from him to us, we ſo die to ſin, as he is dead.

[g] For we become every day more perfect than other: for we ſhall never be perfectly ſanctified, as long as we live here.

[h] All our whole nature, as we are conceived and born into this world with ſin, which is called old, partly by comparing that old Adam with Chriſt, and partly alſo in reſpect of the deformation of our corrupt nature, which we change with a new.

[i] Our corrupt nature is attributed to Chriſt, not indeed, but by imputation.

[k] That naughtineſs which ſticketh faſt in us.

[l] The end of ſanctification which we ſhoot at, and ſhall at length come to, to wit, when God ſhall be all in all.

[5] He proveth it by the effects of death, uſing a compariſon of Chriſt the head with his members.

[m] Once for all.

[n] With God.

[6] An exhortation to contend and ſtrive with corruption, and all the effects thereof.

[o] By reigning, St. Paul meaneth that chiefty and high rule which no man ſtriveth againſt, and if any do, yet it is in vain.

[p] To ſin, as to a lord or tyrant.

[q] Your mind and all the powers of it.

[r] As inſtruments to commit wickedneſs withal.

[7] He granteth that ſin is not yet ſo dead in us that it is utterly extinct: but he promiſeth victory to them that contend manfully, becauſe we have the grace of God given us, which worketh ſo that the law is not now in us, the power and inſtrument of ſin.

A. D. 60.

15 [8] What then? ſhall we ſin, becauſe we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid.

16 * Know ye not, that to whomſoever ye give yourſelves as ſervants to obey, his ſervants ye are to whom ye obey, whether it be of ſin unto death, or of obedience unto righteouſneſs? * John 8. 34. 2 Pet. 2. 19.

17 [9] But God be thanked, that ye have been the ſervants of ſin, but ye have obeyed from the heart unto the [s] form of the doctrine, whereunto ye were delivered.

18 Being then made free from ſin, ye are made the ſervants of righteouſneſs.

19 I ſpeak after the manner of man, becauſe of the infirmity of your fleſh: for as ye have given your members ſervants to uncleanneſs and to iniquity, to commit iniquity, ſo now give your members ſervants unto righteouſneſs in holineſs:

20 For when ye were the ſervants of ſin, ye were [t] freed from righteouſneſs.

21 [10] What fruit had ye then in thoſe things whereof ye are now aſhamed? For the [u] end of thoſe things is death.

22 But now being freed from ſin, and made ſervants unto God, ye have your fruit in holineſs, and the end everlaſting life.

23 [11] For the wages of ſin is death: but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

CHAP. VII.

1 He declareth what it is to be no more under the law, 2 by an example taken of the law of marriage. 7, 12 And leſt the law ſhould ſeem faulty, 14 he proveth, that our ſin is the cauſe 13 that the ſame is an occaſion of death, 17 which was given us unto life. 21 He ſetteth out the battle between the fleſh and the ſpirit.

A. D. 60.

KNOW [1] ye not, brethren, (for I ſpeak to them that know the law) that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

2 * For the woman which is in ſubjection to a man, is bound by the law to the man, while he liveth: but if the man be dead, ſhe is delivered from the law of the man. * 1 Cor. 7. 39.

3 So then, if while the man liveth, ſhe taketh another man, ſhe ſhall be [a] called an * adultereſs: but if the man be dead, ſhe is free from the law, ſo that ſhe is not an adultereſs, though ſhe take another man. * Matt. 5. 32.

4 [2] So ye, my brethren, are dead alſo to the law by the [b] body of Chriſt, that ye ſhould be unto another, even unto him that is raiſed up from the dead, that we ſhould bring forth [c] fruit unto [d] God.

5 [3] For when we [e] were in the fleſh, the [f] affections of ſins, which were by the [g] law, had [h] force in our members, to bring forth fruit unto death.

6 But now we are delivered from the law, he [i] being dead [k] in whom we were [l] holden, that we ſhould ſerve in [m] newneſs of Spirit, and not in the oldneſs of the [n] letter.

7 [4] What ſhall we ſay then? Is the law ſin? God forbid. Nay, I knew not ſin, but by the law: for I had not known [o] luſt, except the law had ſaid, * Thou ſhalt not luſt. * Exod. 20. 17. Deut. 5. 21.

8 But ſin took an occaſion by the commandment,

---

[8] To be under the law and under ſin, ſignify all one, in reſpect of them which are not ſanctified; as on the contrary ſide, to be under grace and righteouſneſs, agree to them that are regenerate. Now theſe are contraries, ſo that one cannot agree with the other: therefore let righteouſneſs expel ſin.

[9] By nature we are ſlaves to ſin, and free from righteouſneſs; but by the grace of God we are made ſervants to righteouſneſs, and therefore free from ſin.

[s] This kind of ſpeech hath a force in it: for he meaneth thereby that the doctrine of the goſpel is like unto a certain mould which we are caſt into, to be framed and faſhioned like unto it.

[t] Righteouſneſs had no rule over you.

[10] An exhortation to the ſtudy of righteouſneſs and hatred of ſin, the contrary ends of both being ſet down before us.

[u] The reward or payment.

[11] Death is the puniſhment due to ſin, but we are ſanctified freely, unto life everlaſting.

[1] By propounding the ſimilitude of marriage, he compareth the ſtate of man, both before and after regeneration, together. The law of matrimony, ſaith he, is this, that ſo long as the huſband liveth, the marriage abideth in force, but if he be dead, the woman may marry again.

[a] That is, ſhe ſhall be an adultereſs, by the conſent and judgment of all men.

[2] An amplification of the ſimilitude thus. So, ſaith he, doth it fare with us: for now we are joined to the Spirit, as it were to the ſecond huſband, by whom we muſt bring forth new children: we are dead in reſpect of the firſt huſband, but in reſpect of the latter, we are as it were raiſed from the dead.

[b] That is, in the body of Chriſt, to give us to underſtand, how ſtraight and near that fellowſhip is betwixt Chriſt and his members.

[c] He calleth the children, which the wife hath by her huſband, fruit.

[d] Which are acceptable to God.

[3] A declaration of the former ſaying: for the concupiſcences (ſaith he) which the law ſtirred up in us, were in us, as it were an huſband, of whom we brought forth very deadly and curſed children; but now ſince that huſband is dead, and ſo conſequently being delivered from the force of that killing law, we have paſſed into the governance of the ſpirit, So that we bring forth now not thoſe rotten and dead, but lively children.

[e] When we were in the ſtate of the firſt marriage, which he calleth in the next verſe following the oldneſs of the letter.

[f] The motions that egged us to ſin, which ſhew their force even in our minds.

[g] He ſaith not, of the law, but by the law, becauſe they ſpring of ſin, which dwelleth within us, and take occaſion to work thus in us, by reaſon of the reſtraint that the law maketh: not that the fault is in the law, but in ourſelves.

[h] Wrought their ſtrength.

[i] As if he ſaid, The bond which bound us is dead, and vaniſhed away, inſomuch that ſin which held us, hath not now wherewith to hold us.

[k] For this huſband is within us.

[l] Satan is an unjuſt poſſeſſor, for he brought us in bondage of ſin and himſelf deceitfully: and yet notwithſtanding ſo long as we are ſinners, we ſin willingly.

[m] As becometh them, which after the death of their old huſband, are joined to the Spirit: and whom the Spirit of God hath made new men.

[n] By the letter he meaneth the law, in reſpect of that old condition: for before that our will be framed by the Holy Ghoſt, the law ſpeaketh but to deaf men, and therefore it is dumb and dead to us, as touching the fulfilling of it.

[4] An objection, What then? are the law and ſin all one, and do they agree together? Nay, ſaith he, ſin is reproved and condemned by the law. But becauſe ſin cannot abide to be reproved, and was not in a manner felt, until it was provoked and ſtirred up by the law, it taketh occaſion thereby to be more outrageous, and yet by no fault of the law.

[o] By the word luſt in this place he meaneth not evil luſts themſelves, but the fountain from whence they ſpring, for the very heathen philoſophers themſelves condemned wicked luſts, though ſomewhat darkly. But as for this fountain of them, they could not ſo much as ſuſpect it, and yet it is the very ſeat of that natural and unclean ſpot and filth.

A. D. 60. ment, and wrought in me all manner of concupiſcence: for without the law ſin is [p] dead.

9 [5] For I once was alive, without the [q] law: but when the commandment [r] came, ſin revived,

10 But I [s] died: and the ſame commandment which was ordained unto life, was found to be unto me unto death.

11 For ſin took occaſion by the commandment, and deceived me, and thereby ſlew me.

* 1 Tim. 1. 8. 12 [6] Wherefore the law is * holy, and that [t] commandment is holy, and juſt, and good.

13 [7] Was that then which is good, [u] made death unto me? God forbid: but ſin, that it might [x] appear ſin, wrought death in me by that which is good, that ſin might be [y] out of meaſure ſinful by the commandment.

14 [8] For we know that the law is ſpiritual: but I am carnal, ſold under ſin.

15 [9] For I [10] allow not that which I do: for what I [11] would, that I do not; but what I hate, that do I.

16 If I do then that which I would not, I conſent to the law that it is good.

17 Now then, it is no more I that do it, but [z] ſin that dwelleth in me.

18 [12] For I know, that in me, that is, in my fleſh, dwelleth no good thing: for to will is preſent with me: but I find [a] no means to perform that which is good.

19 For I do not the good thing which I would, but the evil which I would not, that do I.

A. D. 60. 20 Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but the ſin that dwelleth in me.
